But they that runne after another / shall haue greate trouble.

Their vniuersities of bloude will not offer / neither make mention of their name in my inour.

Eccl. 1. iij. e

The Lord hymselfe is my good / and my portion / thou mannest myne inheritance.

The lot is fallen vnto me in a saynt ground / yet I haue a goodly heritage: I will thanke the Lord for geuyng me warning: my reynes also haue chafened me in the nyghte season.

As for bande saue I God alwayes before me / for he is on my right hande / that I should not be moued.

Therefore byd my herte reioyce / and my tynge was glad / my steebe also shall risse in hope.

Eccl. 1. iij. b and iij. d

For why: thou shalt not leaue my soule in bell / neither shalt thou suffre thy sayntes to se corruption.

Thou hast threatned me with waies of life: thou shalt make me full of ioye with thy countenance. At thy right hande there is pleasure & ioye for euermore.

Exaudi domine iustitiam meam.

The. XVI. A Psalm of Dauid.

Psal. 37. a

Heare the right O Lord / & considerie my coplaine: hearken vnto my prayer / geeth not out of a sayned mouth.

Let my sentence come forth fro thy presence / and loke vpon the thinge that is equal.

Thou haste pioued and wysed myne desire in the nyghte season: thou hast trued me in the day: and hast found no wickednesse in me: for I vntely purposed / that my mouth shall not offend.

Because of the wordes of thy lippes: I haue kepte me from the woikes of men / in the waye of the murderer.

Wherfore thou my goynges in thy parke / that my feete steppe slippe not.

For vnto the I crye / heare me O God: encline thine eares to me / and hearken vnto my wordes.

Shewe thy maruolous louinge I vnto them that truste in the: from such as resist thy right hande.

Kepe me as the apple of an eye: defende me vnder the shadowe of thy wynges.

From the vngodly that trouble me / fro myne enemies which compass my soule round aboute.

Which maneyne their owne welthe: with oppression / and their mouth speake proud thinges.

They lay waytinge in oure waye on euery syde / turninge they eyes vnto the grounde.

Lyke as a Lion that is greedy of his praye / and as it were a Lions whelpe lurkinge in his denne.

O Lord / dispoine him / and cast hym vnto the vngodly: deliuer my soule / with thy sweate fro the vngodly.

Fro the men of thy bande / (O Lord) / fro the men of the worlde: which haue their portion in this life: whose bellies thou fillest with thy treasure.

They haue desyden at they desire / and leaue the reste of their substance: for they be deceyued.

But as for me / I will beholde thy presence in righteousness: and when thy glory appeareth / I shall be satisfied.

Diligam te domine fortitudo.

The. XVII. A Psalm of Dauid when he was deliuered fro the bande of Saul.

I will laue the / (O Lord) / my strength.

The Lord is my succoure / my refuge / my

my Sauour: my God/ my helper/ in whome I trust: my buckler / the point of my saluatiō/and my defence.

Re. xxij. a I will praise the Lord / and call upon hym/ so shall I be safe fro myne enemyes.

Psalm. a The sorrowes of death compassed me/ and the dykes of engaddylines made me astrayed.
The paynes of hel came aboute me/ the snarres of death take holde vpon me.

Yet in my trouble I called vpon the Lord/and complained vnto my God.

So he heere my voyce out of his holy temple/ and my complainte came before hym/ see/

Psalm. iij. Then the earth trembled and quaked/ the very foundations of the hylls shoke / a were remoued/ because he was wrath.

There wente a sinde out of his nosethrils/and a consuming fyre out of his mouth / so that coales were kindled at it.

B He bowed the heauens/ and came down/ as it was vnto the earth vnder his feete.

He rode vpon the Cherubins/ and byd sic/he came flugge with the wynges of the wind.

He made darkness in his passion round aboute hym / with vnto the water a thicke cloudes to couer hym.

At the brightnes of his presence the cloudes remoued / with bale stones and coales of fyre.

The Lord also thondred out of the heauen/ and the heyghe gaue hym thondre with bale stones and coales of fyre.

He sent out his arrowes and scared them/he cast his lightnynges / and destroyed the.

The springes of waters were sene / and the foundacions of the rounde world were discouered at thy ddyng / O Lord / at the bla-shyng and bery of thy displeasure.

He sent doune from the heygth to serch me/ and toke me out of greare waters.

He deliuered me fro my strong enemyes/as fro my foes/ which were to myghty for me.

They persecuted me in hymne of my trouble/but the Lord was my defence.

He brought me south also into lyberte: and deliuered me/ because he had a fauour vnto me.

The Lord shall reward me efter my righ-of my handes shall be recompence me.

Jo. CCXLI
For I haue kept the wayes of the Lord/a haue not behaued my self wickedly agaynst

I haue an eye vnto all his lawres / and cast not out bys commaundementes fro me.

Unconscieus wyl I be before hym/ and wyl cshue nyne of wne wickednesse.

Therefore shall the Lord rewarde me efter my righteous dealing / and accordyng vnto the clenness of my handes in hys eye

With the holy thou shalt be holy/ and with the innocent thou shalt be innocent.

Jo. CCXLI. b
With the cleane thou shalt be cleane / and

For thou shalt saue the poore oppressed / and bring doune the hyllokes of the proude.

Thou shalt myghten my cshel / O Lord my God:
thou shalt make my darkness to be light.

For in the I can disconsyre an hoste of me:
yet in my God I can leape ouer the walle.

The wayes of God is a perfect waye: / the wordes of the Lord are tried in the fyre: he is a shyld of defence / for all them that trust in hym.

It is in God that hath gyded me with Abacuc strength/ and made my waye unconscieus.

He hath made my feete lyke hartes feete / and set me vpon my gyghe.

Psalm. cxxij. a
He teacheth myne handes to fight / and maketh myne armes to breake euery a bowe of stele.

Thou haste geuen me the defence of thy sal-uatiō: thy righthand vpholdeth me / and thy louinge correccion maketh me greate.

Thou hast made royme enough vnder me to go/ that my fottelppes should not slyde.

I wyl saloume vpon myne enemyes / and take them: I wyl not turne/ tyll they be dis-comfyted.

I wyl smyte them / that they shall not be able to stand/ but fall vnder my feete.

Thou hast gyded me with strength vnto the battayll/ thou hast shewen them al doune vnder me/ that rose vp agaynst me.

Thou hast made myne enemyes to turne theyr backs vpon me / thou hast destroyed them

The Psalmes

- them that hated me.
 ¶ They cryed / but there was none to helpe them: yee / euen vnto the Lozde / but he berde them not.
- Psal. i. c. I will beate them as small as the dust before the wynde / I will call them out as the chafe in the strettes.
 Thou shalt deliuer me from the stryuinges of the people / thou shalt make me the head of the Synagogue.
 A people whome I haue not knowne / shall serue me.
 As for as they beare of me / they shal obey me / but the straunge chyldeas dyssimble with me.
 The straunge chyldeas are wexen olde / and go halting out of theyr parbes.
 The Lozde lyueth: and blessed be my helpe: yee / he be the God of my saluation.
 Euen the God which sayth that I beauen geob / and subdueth the people vnto me.
 It is he that deliuereth me from my cruell enemyes: thou shalt lyfte me vp from them that rise vp agaynst me / thou shalt ryd me from the wretched man.
- Rom. fo. a I for this cause I will geue thanks vnto the O Lozde / amonge the gentils / a s'pnyng prayse vnto thy name.
- 1. Cor. xij. g I Great prosperite geueh be vnto his King / and steeeth luyng kindnesse vnto Dauid his anoynted / yee / and vnto his s'ede for euer more.

 The. XVIII. A Psalm of Dauid.
- Rom. i. c ¶ The very beauno declare the glory of God / and the very hymnament steeeth his handy worke.
 One day killeth another / and one nyght eere restryeth another.
 There is neyther speche nor language / but theyr voyces are herde amonge them.
 ¶ Their sounde is gone out into all landes / and their voydes into the endes of the world.
 In them hath be fet a tabernacle for the Sunne / which cometh forth as a bydegreome out of his chaunde: and reioyeth as a gyall to runne his courst.
 ¶ It goeth forth fro the one ende of the heauen / and runneth about vnto the same ende agayn / and there may no man hyde him selfe
- from the heate thereof.
 The lawe of the Lozde is a perfecte lawe / it quickeneth the soule.
 The testimony of the Lozde is true / and geueh they dome euen vnto babes.
 ¶ The statutes of the Lozde are ryght / and reioyce the heart: The commaundment of the Lozde is pure / and geueh lycht vnto the eyes.
 The feare of the Lozde is cleane / and endureth for euer: the iudgementes of the Lozde are true / and ryghteous alwogeter.
 ¶ None pleasaunt are they then golde / yee / then much fynce gold: sweter then hony and the hony combe.
 These thy seruaunt keperh / and so: keeping D'seret of them there is theyr reward.
 Who can tel howe of the offendeth: O denst thou me from my secret faultes.
 Repe thy seruaunt also from presumptuous synce: as they get the dominion ouer me: so shall I be vnderstode and innocet from the great offence.
 ¶ See / the wordes of my mouth / and the meditation of my heart shall be acceptable vnto the O Lozde / my helper and my redemer.
 Exaudiat is dominus in die.
 The. XIX. A Psalm of Dauid.
- Rom. ix. g ¶ The Lozde beate the in tyme of trouble / I the name of the God of Jacob defende the.
 Sende the helpe from the Sanctuary / and steengh the out of Syon.
 Remember all thy offeringes / and accept thy burnisacrific. Selah.
 Graunt the thy heres desire / and fulfill all thy mynde.
 We wyl reioyce in thy health / and wyppre in the name of the Lozde our God: the Lozde performe all thy peticions.
 ¶ Now know I that the Lozde helpeth his anoynted / and wyl beate him from his holy heauen / myghthe is the helpe of his ryght hand.
 Some put their trust in charrettes / and some in horses: but we wyl remembre the name of the Lozde our God.
 They are broughte downe and fallen / but we are ryfen and stande vpyght.
 Gaudet Lozde / and helpe vob O syng: uba we call upon thee.

The. XX. A Psalm of David.

AND SHE / howe ioyfull is the kyng in thy strength / O how exceedinge glad is he of thy saluation.

Thou hast geuen hym bys hercea desire / and hast not put hym from the request of his suppce. Sela.

For thou hast presented hym with lyberall blessings / and set a crowne of gold vpon his heade.

Thou hast lye of the / and thou gauest hym a longe lyfe / cure for euer and cure.

His honoure is greate in thy saluacion / glorye and greate wo:shyppe shalte thou laye vpon hym.

For thou shalt geue hym euerlastyng felicitie / and make hym glad with the ioye of thy contentaunce.

And why / because the kyng puteth his trust in the Lorde / and in the mercy of the most by ghest shall he not mysfary.

But all thine enemyes fele thy hande / let thy ryghte hande fynde oute all them that hate the.

Thou shalt make the life a fyre ouen in tyme of thy wrath / the Lorde shall destroy them in bye displeasur / and the fyre shall consume them.

Their frute shalte thou rote out of the earth / and theye fede from amonge the chyldren of men.

For they intended myschiefe against the / and imagined ludy deuices / as they were not able to performe.

Therefore shalt thou put them to slight / and with thy stringes thou shalt make ready thine arrowes agaynst the faces of them.

Be thou craled (Lorde) in thyme owne strength / so wylt thou syng and praye thy power.

Deus deus meus respice.

The. XXI. A Psalm of David.

AND GOD / why haste thou forsaken me / the woe of my complaynte are fore for my dealth.

O my God / I crye in the day nyght / but thou hearest not / and in the nyght season also I slee no reste.

Yet wretched thou in the Sanctuary / o thou wo:shyppe of Israel.

Our fathers hoped in the / they trusted in the / and thou hiddest deluyer them.

They called vpon the / and were helped: they put thes trust in the / and were not confounded.

But as for me / I am a woman and no man: a very scoone of men / and the outcast of the people.

All they that se me / laugh me to scorn: they shute out their hippes / and shate their heada.

He trusted in God / ler hym deluyer him: let him helpe him / if he wylt haue hym.

But thou arte he that iose me out of my mothers wombe: thou waste my hope / when I hangd yet vpon my mothers brestes.

I haue bene leste vnto the euer since I was borne / thou arte my God / cur for my mothers wombe.

O go not for me the / for trouble to hard at hande / and here is none to helpe me.

Great bulles are come aboute me / fat oxen close me in on eury syde.

They gape vpon me with theye mouthes / as it were a ramping and roaring Lyon.

I am poured out like water / all my bones are out of ioynt: my heart in the middest of my body is euen like melting waxe.

My strength is dried vp like a postharde / my ruing cleaueth to my garments / and thou haste brought me into the dust of death.

For dogges are come aboute me / the countayls of the wicked hath layed siege agaynst me.

They pearced my bandes / and my feet / I might haue tolde all my bones: as for the / they stode staring and looking vpon me.

They haue parced my garments among them / and cast lottes vpon my r. clure.

But be not thou farr from me / O Lorde / thou arte my succoure / haull the to helpe me.

Deluyer my soule fro the froward / my dearyngs from the power of the dogge.

Enuie me from the Lyons mouth / and heare me / in among the bouces of the vncircum.

So w. I declare thy name vnto my brethren / in the middest of the congregacion will I praye the.

O praye the Lorde / that feare hym: Magnific hym in alle syde of Jacob / and let all

The Psalmes.

Ad re domine clamabo.

Psalme of Dauid.

Who the way I crye / I strong defendet I thinke no feare of my self / (if thou make thee / or though thou herdeste not / ) I become like them / that go doune in to the pytte.

Heare the voyce of my humble penion / whan I crye vnto the / and holde vp my hande downe towarde thy holy temple.

Jer. vii. a O puffed me not away amonge the vngodly and wycked heere / I whiche speake frendly to theyr wayghbour, but imagine mis-chiefe in their heerte.

Job. xxxij. b I keward the / according to their dedes and wyckednesse of their owne inuencions.

Receyue them after the waies of theyr hande / pay them that they haue deserued.

For they regarde not thy woikes of the Lode / nos the operation of his hande: therfore shall he breake them doune / and not buyde them vp.

Prayse be the Loide / for he harbe heede the voyce of myne humble penion.

Deu. viii. d The Loide is my strength and my helpe: my herte baped in him / a I am helped: therfore my herte daunceth for ioye / and I will sing praises vnto him.

The Loide is strength of his people / he is the defender a Sauerour of his anointed.

Deu. xxxi. a O helpe thy people / geue thy blessing vnto thyne: I enterysaunce: sode them / and set them vp for euer.

Adeste domino filij dei.

Psalme of Dauid.

Wherge vnto the Loide / O ye myghty / Wherthe vnto the Loide worship and singeth.

Heare the Loide the honour of his name / and bowe youre selues to the holy maicety of the Loide.

Ex. vii. viij I is the Loide that commande: h the weeres.

Exod. ix. e I is the glorious God that maketh the thunder: it is the Loide that ruleth the see.

172. viij. c The voyce of the Loide is mighty in operation / the voyce of the Loide is a glorious voyce.

Ex. xxi. d The voyce of the Loide breakech the Celestiall heeues: the Loide breakech the Ceders of Libanus.

He maketh them to styppe like a calfe: Lisbanus and Sirion like a yong Unicorne.

The voyce of the Loide breudereth the flames of fyre: the voyce of the Loide shaketh the wildernes: / yee: the Loide shaketh the wildernes of Cadon.

The voyce of the Loide moueth the hyndes / and discouereth the thicke busche: in his temple shall every man speake of his honour.

The Loide shallich the water floude / and the Loide remaigneth a kynge for euer.

The Loide shall geue power vnto his people: the Loide shall geue his people the blessing of peace.

Exaltabo re domine, quoniam.

Psalme of Dauid.

O Lord magnifye the / O Loide / how I haue feared thee / and not suffered my foot to triumphe ouer me.

O Loide my God I cryed vnto the / and thou hast heald me.

Thou Loide hast brought my soule out of hell: thou hast kept my life: where as they go doune to the pytte.

Sing prayse vnto the Loide / O ye saunces of his: geue thanks vnto him for a remediance of his holynesse.

For his wrath endureth but the tyme: his flynge of an eye: and his pleasure is in life: heauyn: he may wel endure for a myght: but ioye commeth in the morninge.

As for me whan I was in prosperite / I sayde: I shall neuer sell mee.

(And why: thou Loide of thy goodnes haddest made my hyl so stronge.)

But as soon as thou turnedst thy face fro me: I was brought in feare.

Then cryed I vnto the: O Loide: geue to the Loide made I my prayer.

What prosperite is there in my bloude / if I go doune to corruption?

May the duste geue thanks vnto the: or shall we declare thy sayethfulnesse?

Heare: O Loide: and haue mercy vpon me: Loide be thou my helper.

And so thou best returned my beautyfynesse in to ioye: thou best put of my secedynesse / and gyded me with gladnesse.

That my honour myght synge prayse vnto the without cessynge: O Loide: my God / I will

I will geue thanks vnto the for ever,
In the dominie sperau non confundar.
The. XXX. A Psalm of Dauid.

2 While the Lord I in my trustles me nee Doubt be put to confusion / but deliuer me in thy righteousnesse.

Beate doune thine eare to me / make haste to deliuer me: be thou my stronge rocke / and a house of defence: that thou mayst saue me.

For thou art my strong holde and my castell: O be thou my gyde / and leade me for thy names sake.

3 Throwe me out of the nette that they haue laid piously for me: for thou art my strength.

In the handes I commend my spirit: because haste deliuered me O Lord thou God of strength.

I hate them that holde of vanities / and my trust is in the Lord: I will be glad and reioyce in thy mercy: for thou hast confounded my trouble: thou haste knowen my soule in ad-uersitie.

4 Thou hast not deliuered me ouer in the handes of the enemy / but haste feat my feet in a large romme.

Haue mercy vpon me O Lord: for I am in trouble: myne eye is consumed for very beauynesse: my soul and my body.

My life is as an olde wyth beaunnesse / as my yeares with mourninge.

My strength faileth me / because of myne aduersitie: and my bones are corrupce.

I am become a very repaite amonge all myne enemies / my neighbours / and they of myne enemye: waynaitie are a rayde of me: they that see me in the streete conieye them selfe fro me.

I am cleue forgotte a out of mind as a dead man: I am as a caine like a broken vessill.

5 For I haue herde the whispering of y multitude: currey man abbo: reth in they haue garthered a counsaill together agaynst me / as are purposed to take awaye my life.

But my hope is in the O Lord: and I say thou art my God.

Whye am I in thy handes: deliuer me from the handes of myne enemies: and from theym that persecute me.

Shewe thy seruant the light of thy counsailes: be petye me for thy mercie sake.

Let me not be confounded (O Lord): for I call vpon the: let the vngodly rather be put to confusion: and brought vnto the hell.

Let the lying lippen be put to silence: which cruelly / vngodously / and vnspicfully speake a-gaynst the righteous.

O howe great and manyfolde is thy good / which thou haste byd for them that feare thet.

O what thinges dungelel thou too pass: for them that put they trust in the / euen before / fontee of men.

Thou hidest them priuely by thine own presence from the piousde men / thou feell the secretie in thy tabernacle / from the theye of tongue.

Thanks be to the Lord: for he hath shewed me maruallous great thynges in a strong citty.

For when the sodane feare came vpon me /
I sayde: I am call out of thy sighte.

Therfor thelesse / thou herddest my humble prayer: when I cryed vnto the.

O loue the Lord: (call ye his sanctes) for the Lord e preferueth the faithfull: and pleasa-uously rewardeth be the piousde vter.

6 Be strong therfore / and take a good herre vnto you: all ye that putte youre truste in the Lord.

Bräu quonum remitte sunt.

The. XXXI. A Psalm of Dauid.

Blessed are they / whose vngodlynesse / is soare forgouen: and whose synnes are cared.

Blessed is the man: vnto whom the Lord imputeth no synne: in whose spicte there is no byle.

For while I helde my tongue: my bone was consumed awaye: thowere my voyse compleyningre.

And because thy hande was so brauy vps me both day and night: my moillure was like the dourbe in summer. Sela.

Therefore I confessed my synne vnto the: /
and hidde not myne vngodlynesse.

I sayde: I will knowe myne offence / accuse my selfe vnto the Lord: / and so thou forgauest me the wickednesse of my synne.

For thou shalt euen sayner make by

Let the be confounded / and put to fham that fike after my foule: let the be turned backe and brought to confufion / that ymagin myffynne for me.

ps. 1. b

¶ Let them be as the duffe before the winde / and the awngell of the Lordde scatteringe them.

Let them waye the darke a slippery / and the awngell of the Lord to perfecute them.

For they haue piuely layed their net to deffroye me withoute a cause / yet / and made a pynte for my foule / whiche I neuer defcrued.

¶ Let a fobane destruction come vpon him / by vnto are / and the nette that he hath layed / may fynd a piuely / catch him / felfe: that he may fall into his j. C. c. v. a owne myffynne.

But let my foule be ioyfull in the Lord / a reioyce in his helpe.

¶ All my bones that faye: Lord / who is lyke vnto the / whiche deliuereth the poore fro thefe that are to ftronger for him: yet / the poore and the neddy from his robbere.

Falle witneses are rifen vp / and laye to my charge thinges that I knowe not.

¶ Neuertheleffe / when they were fylde / I put on a fackcloth: I humbled my foule with faffynge / and my prayer turned into myne owne bofome.

I behaued myffynne as though it had bene my frende / or my brother / I reuente heauily as one that mourneth for his mother.

¶ But in myne aduerffynne they reioyce / and gather them to gather: yet the very lame come together against me vnto are: makinge mowes at me / and ceffe not.

With the greby and fcoierfull Spocrye / they gnawed vpon me with theye teeth.

¶ Lordde / what wylt thou lode vpon this?

O reffore my foule fro the wycked rumoure of the my ffylnges from the Lyons.

¶ So wylt I geue the thankes in the great Difcomforth congregacion / and praife the amonge manye people.

¶ O let them not triumphe ouer me / that are myne enemyes for naught: O let them not wyckede with their eyes / that hate me withoute a cause.

¶ And why: their comynge is not for peace / but they imagyn falfe wordes against the iuftice of the lande.

¶ They gape vpon me with their mouthes / fayinge: there thefe / we fe it with our eyes.

¶ This thou feyft / O Lord: holde not thy wylg then: go not farr from me / O Lord.

¶ Awake Lord and stande vpon aunge thou my cause my Web / and my Lord.

The Psalmes

2 Judge me O Lord my God according to thy righteousness: that they triumphe not ouer me.

O let the not say in their hearts: there there/ so wolde we haue it: O let them not saye I we haue ouercome him.

Let the be put to confusyon and shame/ that reioyce at my trouble: let the be clothed with rebufe and dishonour/ that boaste them selfe against me.

Let them also be glad and reioyce/ that fauoure my righteous dealinge: yee/ let the saye alwaye: blessed be the Lorde / whose hart pleasure is in the prosperite of his seruants.

And as for my minde / it shalbe talkinge of thy righteousnesse / and of thy prayse all the daye longe.

Diximus in deliquis.

The. XXXV. Psalm of Dauid.

2 Where herce the wech me the wickednesse of the vngodlye / that there is no feare of God before his eyes.

For he dessembleth before his face / so longe tyl his abhominable synne be founde oute.

The wordes of his mouth are vnrighteousnesse and deceaite / he will not be learned to do good.

Eccle. p. 11. b

He imagyneth myschaunce upon his bed / he will come in no good waye / nor refuse the thinge that is euill.

Thy mercy O Lord / reacheth vnto the heauens / and thy faythfulnesse vnto the cloudes.

Eccle. p. 11. d

2 Thy righteousness stambeth like the strong mountaynes / and thy iudgements like the great heape: thou Lord / piercest both men and beastes.

How precious is thy mercy O God / that the children of men maye put their truste vnder the shadowe of thy winges.

Thy shalbe sanctified with the plenteousnesse of thy house / and thou shalt geue them vnto the of the ryuer of thy pleasures.

Iere. p. 17

For with the is the well of life / and in thy lighte shal we fynde life.

O speede forth thy louinge kindnesse vnto the that knowe the / and thy righteousness vnto them that are true of heart.

O let not the face of pride ouertake me / O let not the hande of the vngodlye caste me downe.

As for wicked doers they fall / they are cast downe / and are not able to stande.

Noli emulari in malignanibus.

The. XXXVI. Psalm of Dauid.

2 Let not thy selfe at the vngodlye / be not thou enuious against the euill doctore.

For they shall sone be cut downe like the iudges grass / and be withered euen as the greene floure herbe.

Put thou thy truste in the Lord / and be thou vnwarye good: so shal thou dwell in the lande / and verely it shal fede the.

Delighte thou in the Lord / and he shal geue the thy herbe desire.

Truste thy hope vnto the Lord / and shal set thy hope in him / and he shal bringe it to passe.

Yee he shal make thy righteousness as cleare as the lighte / and thy iustice dealinge as the noone daye.

Hold the styl in the Lord / and abyde patiently vpon him: but geue not thy selfe or one that hath prosperie / and lyueth in abominacion.

Leaue of fro wrath / let go displeasure / let not thy glorye moue the also to do euill.

For wicked doers shalbe rooted oute / but they that patiently abyde the Lord / shal inherite the lande.

Wylt thou yet a lyde whyte / and the vngodlye shal be cleue gone: thou shalt lorde after his place / and he shal be a waye.

But myne iudgement shal possesse the earth / and I shall haue pleasure in myde iustice.

The vngodlye lauch waite for the iust / and graspe the vpon him with his teeth.

But the Lord laugheth at them / so shal he saye for he saye: he that has hope is comyng.

The vngodlye throte out the sworde / and sende their bowe / to caste downe the simple and poore / and to slaye such as go the righteous waye.

Curst be they / their sworde shall go thoro roue they owne feete / and their bowe shal be broken.

Truste in the Lord / that the righteous hath / to better then great riches of the vngodlye.

For the armes of the vngodlye shall be broken.

My mouth shal speake of wysdome / as my mynde shal muse of vnderstandinge.

I will inclyne myne eare to the parable: and shewe my varte speche vpon the harpe.

Wherefore shoulde I feare the euill daies / when the wycednesse of my heles edpasseth me rounde aboute?

They that put their truste in their good / a boast them selves in the multitude of their riches.

No man can deliuer his brother / nor make agreement for him vnto God.

For it costeth more to redeme their soules / than so that he must let that alone for euer.

Loke what is in their houses / as continueth still:

still their dwelling places endure fro' one generation to another/ and are called after their owne names vpon the earth.

Neuertheless/ man abydeth not in such honour/ but is compar'd vnto the brute beasts/ and becommeth life vnto them.

This way of theirs is very foolishnes / and yet their posterite praise it with their mouths.

¶ Scla. They lye in the hell like sheepe/ & earthe shall graue vpon them / and the righteous shall haue domination of them in the mooring by times/ their strength shall consume/ a hell shall be their dwelling.

The XLIX. A Psalm of Dauid.

¶ I. The Lord/ euen the mighty God hath spoken/ a called the world from the rising vp of the Sunne/ vnto the goyng downe of the same.

¶ I. Out of Sid appeareth the glorious beauty of God.

¶ Our God shall come/ and not kepe silyence: there goeth before him a consuming fyre / a a mighty rympe/ rounde about him.

¶ Gather my fauours together vnto me/ those that sit mete by the conuenaunt then by any offering.

¶ And the beauenes shall declare his righteousness/ for God is iudge himself. Scla.

¶ Heare o my people/ let me speake: let me telle amonge you/ o Israel: I am God/ when thy God.

¶ I will take no bullockes out of thy house / nor noe carres out of thy foldes.

¶ For all the beasts of the felde are mine / a thousandes of carrell vpon the bulles.

¶ I know all the foolca vpon the mountaynes / and the wilde beasts of the felde are in my sight.

¶ If I be hungry I will not tell the: / for the whole world is mine / a al that therein is.

¶ Thinkest thou that I will eate the fleshe of oxen / or drinke the bloude of goates?

¶ And call vpon me in the tyme of trouble / so will I heare the / that thou shalt thanke me.

¶ But vnto the vngodly sayeth God: Why doest thou perade my lawes / and takest my conuenaunt in thy mouth?

¶ Where as thou hast said to be reform'd / and castest my wordes beynde the?

¶ If thou sust a thiefe / thou runnest with him / and art partaker with the aduourers.

¶ Therefore doest / whyle I holde my tongue / and thyselfe me roe be euen sude one as thy selfe: but I will requyte the / and set my selfe agaynst the.

The LXXXVII. A Psalm of Dauid.

BEARE my lawe / O my people / & incline your eares vnto the wordes of my mouth.

I will open my mouth in parables / and speake of thynges of old.

Which we haue herbe and knowen / and suche as our fathers haue tolde vs.

That we should not hyde them fro the children of the generations to come: but to shewe the honour of the Lord / his might / a wonderfull workes that he hath done.

He made a conuenaunt with Jacob / and gaue Israel a lawe / which he commaunded our forefathers to teache their children.

That their posteritie myght knowe it / and the children which were yet vnborn.

To the intent that when they came vp / they might shewe their children the same.

That they also might put their trust in God / as not to forget what he had done / but to keepe his commaundmentes.

And not to be as their forefathers / a forward and curibawse generation: a generation that care not their heritage / a whose heritage was not true to ward God.

Like as the children of Ephraim / whiche beinge barnessed / and carryinge bowes / turned them selfes backe in the tyme of battaile.

They kepte not the conuenaunt of God / a worlde not walke in his lawe.

They forgot what he had done / and the wonderfull workes that he had shewed for them.

What varous thynges did be in the sighte of their fathers / in the lande of Egypt / euen in the side of Soan.

He sendeth the see / and let them goe: he rowe it / and made the waters to stande lyke a wall.

In the daye tyme he led them with a cloud / and all the nyghte they were with a light of fyre.

He did cleue the hard rockes in the wilderness / and gaue the drinke therof / as it had bene out of the great depth.

He broughte waters out of the stony rocke / so that they guffied oure lyfe the yerto.

Yet for all this they sinned agaynst him / and prouoked the moost byest in the wilderness.

They tempted God in their hartes / and required meate for their lust.

For they spake agaynst God and said: / Yet see / God shall prepare a table in the wilderness: / nisse / shal he?

Lo / so smote the stony rocke / that the watery streames guffied out / and the streames flowed withal: barbow can he gaue bread / a prouide fleshe for his people?

Wha the Lord herbe this / he was reuice: / so the fyre was kindled in Jacob / a beaue displeasure agaynst Israel.

Because they beleued not in God / and put not their trust in his helpe.

So he commaunded the cloudes about / and opened the doores of heauen.

He rayned doune Manna upon them / Led them so: to eate / and gaue them breade from heauen.

When did they eate aungels food / so: he Iak sent them meate ynough.

He caused the East wynde to blowe vnder the heauen / a thowise his power / he brought in the South wynde.

He made the feth to raine upon them / as thicke as fluff / and fetched sooles lyke the sande of the see.

He let it fall amonge their tentes rounde aboute their habitacions.

So they did eat and were filled / so: he gaue them their owne desire: They were not disappointed of their lust.

But while the meate was yet in their mouth / the beaue wrath of God came upon them / so: we the wretchedness of them / and smote doune the chosen men of Israel.

But for all this they sinned yet more / and beleued not his wonderous workes.

Therefore their dayes were consumed

When he sawe them / they soughte him / and turned them early vnto God.

They soughte then that God was their succour / and that the hie God was their redemer.

Clawed offe / they did not flatter him in their mouthes / and dissembled with him in their tongue.

For their verte was not whole with him / neither continued in his conuauant.

But he was so merciful that he forgave their misdoings / and destroyed them not.

Yet many a time turned he his wrath away / a worde not suffice his whole displeasur to arise.

¶ It is to be considered that they were but fleshy / not a worde that passeth awaye and cometh not againe.

¶ How oft haue they greued him in the wilderness?

¶ How many a time haue they prouoked him in the desert?

They turned backe / and tempted God / as moued the holy one in Israell.

They thought not of his hande / in the day when he deliuered them from the hande of the enemye.

How he had wroughte his myracles in Egypte / and his wonderes in the lande of Soun.

¶ Howe he sent lict amonge them / to eat the flesh / and frogges to destroy them.

¶ Howe he gaue their frutes vnto the carreller / and their labour vnto the greashepper.

Howe he smote their carrell with hayle stone / and their flockes with hore shonder bolles.

Howe he sente vpon them the furious fesse of his wrath anger and displeasur: w<sup>ch</sup> trouble and fallinge in of euil angelo.

¶ When he made awaye to his scarefulins

¶ When he smote all the fristborne in Egypte / the moost principall and myghtiest in the dwellinges of Ham.

But as for his owne people / he led them forth like shepe / and caried them in the wyle berne like a flocke.

He broughte them oute safely / that they shoulde not feare / and ouerwhelme their enemye with the see.

He caried them vnto the borders of his Sanctuary: euen into this hill / w<sup>ch</sup> he purchased with his right hande.

¶ He did caste oute the Hiten before the / caused their lande to be deuided amonge the for an heretage / and made the tribes of Israell to dwell in their tentes.

For al this they tempted and displeasid the mooste hygh God / and seipie not his conuauant.

But turned they: backe / and fell awaye like their foiesathers / flarynge asyde like a broken bow.

And so they greued hym with theyr hie prices / and prouoked hym with theyr ymagines.

¶ When God herde this / he was wroth / as roke sore displeasur at Israell.

¶ So that he forsoke the tabernacle in Sion / as Iere. viij. & la / euen his habitacion wherin he dwelt amonge men.

¶ He deliuered theyr power into captiuitie / and theyr glorie into the enemyes hande.

¶ He gaue his people ouer into the swordes / for he was wroth with his heretage.

¶ The spie consumed theyr yonge man / and theyr maydens were not giuen to marriage.

¶ Their priestes were slayne with the swordes / and there were no wydowes to make lamentacion.

Deus ultionum dominus, deus ultionum liber.

The. XCIII. Psalm.

A Lord God / 't to whome vengeance belongeth: thou God / to whome vengeance belongeth / shewe thy selfe.

Thyf thou iudge of the wau'd / and rewarde the proude after their deseruinge.

Loide / 't howe longe shall the vngodly / howe longe shall the vngodly triumphet

Howe longe shall all wicked doers speake so disdaunfully / & make such proude boasting:

They smyte doune thy people (o Loide) and trouble thyne heretage.

They murdure the wydowes & the straunger / and put the fatherlesse to deary.

And yet they saye: T Curse the Loide seith he: and not the God of Jacob regardeth it not.

Take heed ye vnwise amonge the people: o take heed ye foolish / when will ye vnderstande

That which pleased the eare / shall be not heard:
that which made the eye / shall not be se'

He that nurtureth the Gythen / and rear-eth a child a man knowlegeth / shall not be punished:

The Loide knoweth the thoughtes of men: what they are but wayne.

Thou shalt see the man / whome thou earnest to curse: and reachest him in thy lewe.

That thou mayest geue hym patience in time of aduersitye / vntill the pyne be dygged up for the vngodly.

So: the Loide wyll not saye his people / neither wyll he forsake his inheritance.

And why: iudgement shall be turned as gayne vnto righteous / iustesse / and all such as be true of heart shall followe it.

Who riseth up with me agaynst the wicked: who taketh my parte agaynst the euill deceit?

If the Loide had not helped me / my soule had almost bene put to syletice.

When I sayde: my foot hath slipped thy mercy: o Loide: helde my vp.

In the multitude of the sorowes that I had in myn herte / thy compassions haue refreshed my soule.

Wilt thou haue any thinge to do with the sle of wickednesse: which imagyneth mischief in the lames?

They gather them together agaynst the soule of the righteous / and add: ympne the innocent sloude.

But the Loide is my refuge / my God is the strength of my conscience.

He shall receyue them they: wickednesse / and bestowe them in they: owne malice: yet the Loide our God shall bestowe them.

Pastoure: a hande.

To day if ye wyl heare hye voyce / nesse.

Where youre fathers tempted me / proued

Fourtye yeres longe was I grieved with that generacion / and sayde they: euer erre in

For the Loide is greete / and can not be: as they saye.

Declare his honoure amonge the Gythe /
and hye wonders amonge all people.

be: as they saye.

But the righteous Lorde hath betwene the

The CXXXIII. Psalm.

Praise ye name of the Lord: praise it ye seruantes of the Lord.

Ye that stande in the house of the Lord/in the courtes of the house of our God.

O praise the Lord: for the Lord is gracious: he singe praises vnto his name / for it is lowly.

For why: the Lord hath chosen Iacob vnto hym selfe: and Israel for his owne possession.

For I knowe that the Lord is great: and that our Lord is aboue all goddes.

Whateuer the Lord pleaseth: that doeth he in heauen and in earth: in the see and in all thee places.

He singeth forth the cloudes from the endes of the world: he turneth the lightninges vnto raine: he singeth the windes out of their recesses.

Whiche smote the fysshbone of Egypte: both of man and beast.

He hath sent tokens and wonders into the muddiest of the earth: landes of Egypte: vpon Pharao and all his seruantes.

Whiche smote diuerso naciones: and slew mighty Kinges.

Sibon the Kinge of the Amoritae: the Kinge of Basan: and all the Kingdomes of Canaan.

And gaue their lande for an heritage: for an heritage vnto Israel his people.

The name of the Lord endureth for euer: so doeth thy memorial (o Lord): from one generation to another.

For the Lord will avenge his people: and hee gracious vnto his seruantes.

As for the synagoges of the Sythen: they are but silver and golde: the worke of mens handes.

They haue mouthes: and speake not: eyes haue they: but they see not.

They haue eares: and yet they heare not: neither is there any breath in their mouthes.

They that make them: are lyke vnto them: and so are all they that put theyr trust in them.

Praise the Lord: ye house of Israel: praise the Lord in the house of Aaron.

Praise the Lord: ye house of Leui: ye that fear the Lord: praise the Lord.

Praised be the Lord out of Zion: which dwelleth at Jerusalem.

For he hath said: quoniam bonus sum: quoniam in se.

Psalter. The CXXXV. Psalm.

O thou thankes vnto the Lord: for hee is gracious: and his mercy endureth for euer.

O thou thankes vnto the Lord: for hee hath chosen Iacob vnto hym selfe: and Israel for his owne possession.

For I knowe that the Lord is great: and that our Lord is aboue all goddes.

Whateuer the Lord pleaseth: that doeth he in heauen and in earth: in the see and in all thee places.

Whiche onely doeth greate wonders: for his mercy endureth for euer.

Whiche by his wisdom made the heauens: for his mercy endureth for euer.

Whiche laied out the earth about the waters: for his mercy endureth for euer.

Whiche hath made greate lightes: for his mercy endureth for euer.

The Sunne to rule the daie: for his mercy endureth for euer.

The Moone and the starres to gouerne the night: for his mercy endureth for euer.

Whiche smote Egypt with their fysshbone: for his mercy endureth for euer.

With a mighty hande and a stretched out arme: for his mercy endureth for euer.

Whiche deuided the reed see into partes: for his mercy endureth for euer.

And made Israel to go thow the muddiest of it: for his mercy endureth for euer.

But as for Pharao and his besse: hee overthrew them in the reed see: for his mercy endureth for euer.

Whiche led his people thow the wilderness: for his mercy endureth for euer.

Whiche smote greate Kinges: for his mercy endureth for euer.

Hee: and slew mighty Kinges: for his mercy endureth for euer.

Sibon King of the Amoritae: for his mercy endureth for euer.

The CXXXVII. Psalm of Dauid.

2 O geue thanke vnto the Lord/ with my whole heart/ euen before the gods/ wil I synge psalms vnto the.

The Lord shal make good for me/ yee/ thy mercy O Lord/ endureth for euer: 1 Despyse not then the worke of thine owne hande.

Domine probasti me, & cognouisti me.

The CXXXVIII. Psalm of Dauid.

1 The Lord/ thou searchest me out/ and knowest me.

Thou knowest my downe sittinge/ a mine wepyng/ thou understandest my thoughtes a farre of.

Thou art aboute my path/ and aboute my bedde/ and spyest out all my wayes.

For lo/ there is not a reide in my tongue/ but thou O Lord/ knowest it altogether.

Thou hast fastened me as a bynde/ and thou hast laced thine hands vpon me.

Such knowledge is to wonderfull/ and excellent for me/ I can not aryue vnto it.

2 Whyther shall I go when from thy spiere: O whyther shall I flye from thy spiere: 3

If I clymme vp into heauen/ thou art there: if I go downe to hell/ thou art there also.

If I take the wynges of the morninge/ and remaine in the uttermost parte of the see.

Euen there also shall thy hande leade me/ and thy right hande shal holde me.

If I saye: peraduenture the darkenesse shall couer me/ then shall my nighte be turned to daye.

Yee/ the darkenesse is no darkenesse with the/ but the nyght is as cleare as the daye: the darkenesse and lighte are both a life.

For my raynes are thine/ thou hast covered me in my mothers wombe.

I will geue thanks vnto thee / for I am wonderously made: maruailous are thy workes / and that my soule knoweth ryght well.

My bones are not hid from thee / though I be made secretly / and fashioned beneath in the earth.

Thine eyes se myne vnperfectnesse / they staide all myren in thy hope: my dayes were fashioned / when as yet there was not one of them.

C How feare are thy counsaile vnto me o uiro iniquo eripe.

The. CXXXIX. A Psalme of Dauid.

Q Deliuere me (o Lorde) from the euill

Which imagine mischief in their herites / a steere vp steeke all the daye longe.

They sharpen their tunges like a ser-

Sela.

Repe me (O Lorde) from the bande of the vngodlye / preserue me from the wycked men: whiche are purposed to ouerthrowe my goynges.

The proud haue laide a snare for me / and spred a net abroad with eardes / yee: and set trappes in my waye. Sela.

But my sayinge is vnto the Lorde: thou arte my God: heare the voyce of my prayer Lorde.

O Lorde God / the strengthe of my be-battayll.

Let not the vngodly haue his desire: (o Lorde) let him not haue his purpose / lest they be to proude. Sela.

Let the mischief of their eare lippes fall vpon the heade of them / that compassie me

Let whore burning coales fall vpon them / let them be cast in to the fire: and in to the pit / that they neuer rise vp againe.

A man full of wordes that not prosper eue erth: a malicious and wicked persone shall be hunted a myghte and destroyed.

Sure I am that the Lorde wyll avenge the poore: and maineyn the cause of the helpe-lesse.

The righteous also shall geue thanks vnto thy name: and the iuste shall continue in thy syghte.

Domine clamauit ad te: exaudi me, intende uocem meam.

The CXL. A Psalme of Dauid.
Lorde: and consider my voyce / when I crye vnto thee.

Let my prayer be set forth in thy sighte as the innocence: and let the burning vp of my hart be as an eueringe sacrifice.

Let a watch (o Lorde) before my mouth: / let yee: a watch at the dore of my lippes.

O let not mine here be enclined to any tuel thinges: to be minded as the vngodly: or wieked men: lest I care of such thinges as please them.

Let the righteous reuerberate me: myne friends and reproue me: so wil I take it: as though he had poured oyle vpon my heade: it shall not hurte my heade: yee: I wil paye yet for their wickednesse.

Their iudges stambe at the stone: yet heare they my wordes: that they be iustfull.

Our bones be scattered before the pye: like as when one graueth and diggeth vp the

But myne eyes lode vnto thee / o Lorde

The Psalmes

Therefore do I erie vnto the (o Lord) and saie: thou art my hope and my portoun / in the lande of the liuinge.

Deliuere me: o Lord: fro myne enemyes / for I resorte vnto the.

Teache me to do the thinge that pleaseth the / for thou arte my God: let thy louinge spiete lode me forth vnto the lande of righteousness.

Quicken me: o Lord: for thy names sake: and for thy righteousness sake bring my soule out of trouble.

And of thy goodnesse scatter mine enemyes abroade: and bestrewe al them that vex my soule: for I am thy seruant.

My hope and my castell / my defence and my Belouer / my shilde in whome I trust / whos governeth the people that is vnder me.

Lord: what is man: that thou hast such respecte vnto him: Or the sonne of man: that thou so regardest him?

Man is like a thinge of naughte: / his daies passe awaye like a shadowe.

The Prouer- bes of Salomon.

These are the Prouerbes of Salomon the sonne of Dauid hyng of Israell: to learne wysdome / in instruction / vnderstandyng / iudicence / ryghteousnesse / iudgement and equite. That the very babes myght haue wys / and that yonge men myght haue knowlege and vnderstanding. By hearynge the wysse men shal come to more wysdome: and by experyence he shal be more apte to vnderstande a parable / and the interpretation therof:
the wordes of the wysse / and the varte speches of the same.

¶ The feare of the Lorde is the begyn-nyng of wysdom. But folowes Despise wysdom and instruction.

The first Chapter.

¶ My sonne: beare thy fathers Testament: and forsake not his lawe of thy mother: for that shal bring grace vnto thy heade: and shall be a chere aboute thy necke.

¶ My sonne: confesse not vnto synners: / if they enuise thee / a saye: come with vs / let vs laye waste for blood / a lurke piously for the innocent: we thow a cause: let vs stealeome them vp lyke the bell / let vs deuoure them quicke and whole: as those that go down in to the yte. So shall we fynde all maner of costly ryches / and fill our houses with spyes. Caste in thy lot among vs / we shall haue all one purse.

¶ My sonne: walke not thou with them / re-frayn thy fute from theyr wayes. For they fore runne to euill / and are haistie to shed bloude. But in waynes the net layed forth before the byrdes eyes. Fee / they them selfes laye waste one for anothers blood: and one of them wold slay another. These are the wayes of all synne as be covetous: that one wold re-uise anothers lyfe.

¶ Wysdome crieth without / and putteth forth her voyce in the stretes. She calleth before the congregacion in the open gates / and between her wordes thow the cyne saying: O ye children / how longe will ye loue childishnesse: how longe will the scoones delue in scornage: and the vnwysse be enemies vnto to knowlege: O turne you vnto my correction: lo / I wil expresse my minde vnto you / and make you vnderstande my wordes.
¶ Ceinge then that I haue called / and ye refuse it: I haue stretched out my hande / and no man regarded it: but al my counsaile haue ye despised: for my corrections ar naughte.

¶ Therefore shal I also laugh in your destruc-cion: and mocke you: when the thinge shal ye feare cometh vpon you: euen when the thinge that ye be afraid of shal lye in sodenly like a thome: and youre misery like a tempest ye / when trouble and heauynesse cometh vpon you. Then shal they call vpon mee: but I will not heare: they shall see me: ceerlesse: but they shall not fynde me. And that because as they

they haue knowledge / and receaued not the feare of the Lord: / but abhorred my counsaill / and despysed my correccion. Therefore shall they care the frutes of theyr owne wayes / and be filled with their owne counsaill: for the turninge awaye of the wyse / shall slaye the / and the prosperite of soules shall be by thei owne Despection. ¶ But who so berkeneth vnto me / shall dwell safely / and haue ynough without any feare of euell.

The II. Chapter.

¶ My sonne / if thou wilt receaue my wordes / and kepe my commaundementes by the / that thine care maye hearken vnto wysdome / applie thine heere then to vnderstandinge. For if thou criest after wysdome / and callst for knowledge: if thou seekest after her as after money / and siggest for her as for treasure: Then shall thou vnderstande the feare of the Lord: and finde the knowlege of God. ¶ For it is the Lord that geueth wysdome / our of his mouth cometh knowlege and vnderstandinge. He preserueth the welfare of the righteous / and defendeth them that walke innocently: he kepech them in the right path / and preserueth the waye of his sayntes. Then shall thou vnderstande righteousnesse / iudgement and equite / see / and euery good path. If wysdome entre in to thine heere / and thy soule delite in knowlege: then shall counsaill preserue the / and vnderstandinge shall kepe the. ¶ Ther thou mayest be deliuered from the euill weye / and from the man that speaketh from deede thinges. From such as leaue the hyge strete / and walke in the waye of barrennesse: whiche receyuen in doinge euell / and delire in vncle thinges: whose wayes are crooked / and their pathes slaundersous.

and r4 a

¶ Ther thou mayest be deliuered also / from the straunge woman / and from her that is nothyng downe: whiche geueth sweete wordes / forsaketh the boudbande of her youth / a forgetteth the commauntment of her God. For her house is enclined vnto death / and her pathes vnto hel. All they that go in vnto her / come not againe / neither take they holde of the waye of life.

¶ That thou mayest walke in the good waye / and kepe the pathes of the righteous. For the iuste shall dwell in the lande / and the innocentes / shall remaine in it: but the vngodly shall be rored out of the lande / and the wicked heere shall be taken out of it.

The III. Chapter.

¶ My sonne / if thou forget my commaundementes / thoue here / sepe my commaundementes. For they shall prolonge the yeres / and feares of thy lyfe / and bring the peace. Let mercy and faithfullnesse: neuer goe from the / binde them aboute thy necke / and weye them in the rebble of thine heere. So shalt thou finde fauoure a good vnderstandinge in the syghte of God and men. Put thy trust in the Lord: with all thine heere / and leaue not vnto thine owne vnderstandinge. In all thy wayes haue respecte vnto him / and he shall orde thy goynge. ¶ Be not wyse in thine owne conceite: ¶ But feare the Lord: and departe from euill: so shall thy nauell be whole / and thy bones stronge.

¶ Honour the Lord with thy substance / B and with the fristlinge of all thy increace: / so shall thy barnes be filled with pleneausnesse / and thy presses shall stowe ouer with sheete wyne. ¶ My sonne / despyse not the chasteninge of the Lord: / neither sainte when thou arte rebused of him. For whome the Lord loueth / him he chasteneth: and yett deliuereth him / euen as a father in his owne sonne. Well to him that findech wysdome / and opreneth vnderstandinge: / for the gettinge of it is better then any marchaunty of siluer / and the profite of it is better then gylde. ¶ Wysdome is more worth then precious stones / and all the thinges that thou canst desyre / are not to be compared vnto her. Upon her right hande is longe lyfe / and vpon her left hande is ryche and honour.

¶ With wysdome hath the Lord layed the foundacyon of the earthe / and thowre vnderstandinge hath he stablyshed the heauens. Thowt hye wysdome the deptye brake vp / and the cloudes despye beuene the dew. My sonne / let not thine eynes be part stens thine eyes / but kepe my lawe and my counsaill: so shall it be life vnto thy soule/

Then shalt thou walke safely in thy waye/and thy fore shall not stumble. If thou sleepest/thou shalt not be afrayed: but shalt take thy refle and sleepe securely. ¶ Thou shalt not neede to be afrayed of any sodaine feare: neyther for the violent rushing in of the vngodly when it commeth.

For the Lord shall be by thy side / and kepe thy fore that thou be not taken. Refuse not to do good vnto him that shoulde haue it: so lidge as an thyne hande is able to do it. Saye not vnto thy neyghboure: go thy waye / and come again: to morow wil I geue thee: where as thou hast now to geue him. Intende not hurte vnto thy neyghboure / for he hopeth to dwell in rest by the. Strive not lyghly with any man: where as he hath done the no harme.
¶ Followe not a wylful man / and chuse none of hye waies: for the Lord chaseth the frowarde: but hye secret is amonge the righteous. The curse of the Lord is in the house of the vngodly: but he bleisseth the dwellinges of the righteous.

As for the scoonfull: he shall laugh them to scorne: but he shall geue grace vnto the lowly.
The myse shall haue honour in possession: but shame is the promotion that foules shal haue.

The III. Chapter.

Hearc to ye children) the fatherly exhortation: and take good hede / that ye maye learne wisdom. Yee / I shall geue you a good rewarde: if ye will not forsake my lawe. For whan I my self was my fathers heare sonne: and tenderly beloved of my mother: he taught me also: sayinge: ¶ Let thine heere receaue my wordes: kepe my commaundementes: and thou shalt liue.

Get the wisdom / get the understandinge: forget not the wordes of my mouthe: and shunke not from them. Forsake her not: and she shall preserve thee: loue her / and she shall kepe the. The chiefe pointe of wisdom is: that thou be willinge to opene wisdom: and before all thy goodes to get the understandinge.

¶ Make muche of her / and she shall promote thee: Yee: if thou embraicest her: she shall bringe thee vnto honour.

¶ She shall make the a gracious head: and garme: the wylly & eroume of glory. Heare my sonne: and receaue my wordes: that the yeares of thy life maye be many. I will shewe the the waye of wisdom: and lede the in the righte pathe. So that if thou gost therrin: there shalt thou strayntesse: hynder the: / and whan thou runnest / thou shalt not fall. Take fast holde of doctrine: let her not go: feare her / for she is thy life.

¶ Come not in the path of the vngodly: and walke not in the waye of the wicked.

Esquert / and go northren: be part aside / and passe ouer by it. For: they can not slope: except they haue first done some myschaunce: neyther take they any rest / except they haue first done some harme. For they are the bread of wickednesse: and drinke the wyne of brobery.
The path of the righteous shyneth as a lighte:
and is eur laughter and brighte vnto the perfecte daye. But the way of the vngodly is as the darkenesse / wherein men fall if they be ware.

¶ My sonne: marke my wordes: / a charye thyne care vnto my sayings. ¶ Let them not departe from thine eyes: kepe the euen in the middle of thine heere. For they are lyfe vnto all thyse: that find them: a health vnto all their bodys. Kepe thine heere wyth all diligence: for ther vpon hangeth lyfe. Put awaye from the a froward mouth: and let the lippen of scandaler be farre from the. Let thine eyes be-holde the thinge that is righte: and let thine eye lokede loke straght before the.

¶ Don'te the path of thy fere: / so shall all thy waye be sure. ¶ Turne not aside: number to the righte: do not the lesse: but wyshholde thy fore from euill.

The V. Chapter.

My sonne: geue hede vnto my wisdom: / and borte thine care vnto my pience:
that thou mayest regarde good counsaill: and that thy lippen may kepe murtoure. ¶ For the lippen of an harlot are a droppinge burny edbe: and her throte is softer then oyle. Wary at the last: she is as bitter as wormewood: / as a harpe as a thredde of scard. Her sete go down vnto to death: and her steeppes pearse thoro: me to hel. She regardeth not the path of lyfe: / so vnstedfast are her wayes: / that thou canst not knowe them. Heare me therefore: (o my sonne) and departe not fro the wordes of my mouth.

 Kcpe thy waye farre from her / and come not n thyne the voice of her heuise. For thou geue not thyne honour vnto another / and thy reason to the cruelle. For other men be not filled with thy goodes / and that thy labour come not in a strainge house. Yee that thou mouene not at the last / when thou hast spent thy body and goodes / and then saye: Alas / why haue I nauoured / why dyd my hart despyse confidence? Wherefore was not I obedient vnto the voyce of my teacher: and pretended not vnto them that informed me? I am come almost into all my fortune / in the myddle of the multitude and congregacion. Some of the water of thine owne well: and of the ryners that runne out of thine owne springe.
 Let thy welthe flowe oute abroade / that there may be ryners of water in the streete.
 But let them be onely thine owne / and not straungers to with the. Let thy welthe be blessed / and be gyled with the wyse of thy youth. I Loeue to the hynde / and frendlye to the Kooe:
 for her bestes alwaye satisfie the / and holde the euer contente with her loue. My soune / why wilt thou haue pleasure in an harlot / and embrace the bosome of another woman? For every mans wayes are open in the sight of the Lord: / he pondereth all theye goynges.
 For the wyckednesse of the vngodly shall catch hym selfe / and with the snares of hye owne synnes shall he be trapped. Because he wolde not be reformed he shall dye: for hye greues soely himselfe he shall be destroyed.

The VI. Chapter.

Whye if thou be surtye for thy neighbour / thou hast fastened thine hande with another mans. Yee thou art bounde with thine owne wordes / and taken with thine owne speche. Therefore (my sonne) do this: Discharge thy selfe: thou arte come in to thy neighbours daunger. Go thy waye then soone / and interete the neighbours: let not thine eyes sleepe / nor thine eye lyddes slome her. Suche thy selfe as a do from the hande / and so a hynde from the hande of the souler.
 Do to the cimeter thou floure: / carye her wayes / and learne to be wyse. She hath no fyde / no teacher / no leader: yet in the summer she ploweth her meate / and gathereth her foode together in the harveste. How longe wylt thou sleepe thou sloughish man? Wilt thou arise out of thy sleepe? Yee / sleepe on thy lute / slomber a litle / fold thyne handes together yet a litle / that thou maist sleepe: for thou shalt pouerte come vnto the so one that reuerchly by the weye / and necessitye lyfe a wea-pened man. A dissensibylge person / a wicked man goeth with a froward mouth / he wyck-eth with hye eyes / he secretlye with his feete / he poynteth with his fingers: he is euer imageynyng myschefe / and frowardnesse: in his herte / and causeth disorde. Therefore shall his destruction come hastilye vpon hym / suddenlye shall he be al to broken / and not be heeled.

There be fyve thynges which the Lord hateth / and the sixth he utterlye abhorreth: 1 A proude loker / 2 a dissimbling tounge / han-dro that shed innocent blood / an heretike goeth aboute with wycked ymaginacions / 4 feite that be swyke in runnyng: to do myschiefe / a false wytnesse that byngyth vpon hye and sude one as sereth dysorde amonge brethren. My sonne / kepe thyne faders com-mandementes / and forsake not the loue of thy mother. Put them vp together in thine herte / and bynde them aboute thy necke. That they maye lede the where thou goest / persure the when thou art a slepe / and that when thou awakeste / thou mayest talke of them.
 For the commaundment is a lantern / and the lawe a light: yee / chastenynge and nurture to the waye of lyfe / that they maye kepe the from the euill woman / and from the flatterynge tounge of the harlot: that thou

 An harlot wyl make a man to begge bys bread: but a married woman wyl burne for the per-cious lyfe. May a man take fyre in his bosom / and his clothes not be burnt? Or can one go vpon hote coales / and his fete not be burnt?
 Alen so / whoeuer goeth in to hye neighbours wyse / and toucheth her / can not be ungyltye. Men do not utterlye despyse a thefe: that stealeth to satisfye his soule: when he is allent goodnesse and ryghteousnesse. My frute is better than golde and precious stone/and myne emerauce more worth than fyne siluer. I walke in the way of ryghteousnesse/ and in the streete of iudgement. Ther I may sende prosperitye to those that loue me / a to emerauce their treasure.

E The LoRDe hym selfe had me in possession in the begynnyng of his wayes / or euer he beganne to walke afore myne. I haue ben ordayned from euerlasting and from the begynnyng: or euer the earth was made. When I was borne: there were neither depthes nor springes / fwater. Before the foundations of the mountaynes were layed/ yee/ before all hylles was I boue. The earth and all that is vpon the earth was not yet made / no / nor the grounde it selfe. I sae: when he made the hea-uens: I was present: when he set the depthes in ordre: when he banded the cloudes about: when he fastened the springes of the depe-
t. When he bounde the see within certayne bon-des / that the water should not go ouer theyr markes. When he layed the foundacions of the earth: I was with him ordayning all thynges/ deliuyryng dayly and reioyryng alway before hym. So for the rounde compass of his wonder: I make it voyfull: I for my delyce is to be amonge the chyldren of mynna.

S Therefore hearken vnto me: O ye chyldren. You blessed are they that kepe my wayes.
O gene care vnto narrowe the wyse/ and refusk it not. Blessed is the man that heareth me/watchyng dayly at my gates / and greeing at attendauce at the postes of my doore.

S For who so fynderth me / fynderth lyfe / and shall obtayne fauoure of the LoRDe. But who so offendeth agaynst me / hurtheth his owne soule. All they that hate me / are the lo-uers of deathe.

S The IX. Chapter.
Whosoone hath builded her selfe an house/and henen out seven pillars: she hath slayghted / poured out her wyne / and papered her table. She hath sate forth: her may-dens to crye vpon the hysell place of the cytie:
Who is it ignorant / let hym come byther.
And to the unwyse she saide: O come on your way / cate my bread / and drinke my wyne/whiche I haue poured out for you: forsaake norauice / and ye shall lyue: and se that ye go in the waye of vnderstandinge.

Who so reioyureth a scornful person / greteth hymselfe dishonour: and he that rebuketh the vngodly / stayneth hymselfe.

Reproue not a scooner / lest / be ome the cruel wyll: but rebuke a wyse man / and he wyll loue thee. Beie a discrete man but an occasion / and he wyll be the rescuer: teache a ryghteous man / and he wyll emerauce. The feare of the LoRDe Job is the begynnyng of wysdome / a the knowledge of holy thynges is vnderstandinge. For whome in thy dayes shall be prolonged / and the yeeres of thy lyfe shall be many. If thou be wyse: thy wyse doings shall do thy selfe good: but if thou thinkest seeme therof / it shall be thine owne harme. A foolysh restlesse woman / full of wordes: and iudic one as hath no knowledge / stretcheth in the doores of her house vpon a stole aboute in the eyne / so call such as go by and walke heare in their wayes. Who so is ignorant / sayth he: let hym come byther / and to the unwyse she sayth: stolen waters are sweete / and the bread that is pynely care / hath a good rayse.

But they consider not that death is there/and that her gyles go daunce to hell.

vnyl discrete sonne is the heauynesse of Dow-m-ers mother.

Treatures that are wickedly gotten / pro-fyte nothinge: but ryghteousnesse deliuereth from deathe.

The LoRDe wyll not let the soule of the ryghteous suffre hunger / but he purchaseth the vngodly from his destrye.

An ydle hande maketh poore / but a quicke labouryng hande maketh ryche.

Who so gathereth in Sommer is wyse: but he that is slough in haruest / mangeth hymself to confusion.

Louyng and fauourable is the face of the ryghteous / but the forehead of the vngodly is full thame and presumpuous.

for his iourne.

A man may well purpose a thinge in his here; but the aunswere of the tongue cometh of the Lo:de.

D13. vij. a A man thinketh of his wayes to be clean; but it is the Lo:de that satisfieth the mynde.

D1. xxxi. a Admitte thou worke vnto the Lo:de; and soke what thou desirest it shall prosper.

The Lo:de doeth all thinges for his owne sake; and when he seeth the vngodly for the sake of wrath.

The Lo:de abhorreth all presumptuous speeche; heere; there maie neither strengthe nor power escape.

Why louinge mercy and faithfulness; sinece are sought; and who so feareth the Lo:de escheweth euill.

When a mans waies please the Lo:de; he maketh his very enemies to be his frendes.

B Better is it to haue a lyeell thynge with rightousnesse; than greate reuene wrongeously gotten.

D13. vij. c A man deuyseth a waie in his here; but it is the Lo:de that ordereth his goynges.

When the prophete is in the lippes of the kynge; his mouth is shall not go wronge in iudgement.

D13. vij. a and x. b A true measure and a true balauce are the Lo:des; he maketh all weightes.

It is a greate abhominacion when kynge are wicked; for a kynge shoulde be holden vp with rightousnesse.

Righteous lippes are pleasaunt vnto kynge; and they loke vnto that speaketh the truth.

The kynge displeasur is a messenger of death; but a wise man will pacifye him.

The discretfull countenaunce of the kynge is life; and his louynge sauoure is as the euenynge dewe.

D13. viij. a To haue wisdom in possession is better than golde; and to get vnderstandinge is more worth then silver.

The path of the righteous escheweth euill; and who so lokech well to his wayes feareth his owne soule.

Presumptuousnesse goeth before destruction; and after a proude stomacke there foloweth a fall.

Better is it to be of humble mynde with the lowly; then to deuyse the spoyle with the proude.

It is that hanbleth a maner wisely; openyneth good; and is blessed is he that putteth his trust in the Lo:de.

Who so hath a wife vnderstandynge; is called to counsaill; but he that can speake faire getteth more reuene.

Vnderstandinge is a welde of life vnto him that hath it; as for the chasteninge of foules; it is but foolishnesse.

The here of the wise enfourmeth his mouth; and amendeth the doctrine in his lippes.

Faire wordes are an hony combe; a rethrynge of the mynde; and healeth of the bones.

There is a waye that men thinke to be righte; but the ende thereof leadeth vnto death.

A troublous soule disquieteth her kiffe; for her owne mouth hath brought her thero.

An vngodly person secretlye yet euill; and in his lippes he is as an whor burninge fyre.

A forward body causeth strife; and he that is a glabbe of his tongue; maketh vniouyn amonge princes.

A wicked man begyleth his neyghbour; and ledeh him the waye that is not good.

He that winketh with his eyes; magnifyeth himselfe; and he that sweareth his lippes; will do some harme.

It is a crone of wretchednesse; if it be found in the waie of rightousnesse.

A patient man is better then one that is stronge; and he that can rule himselfe; is more worth then he that winneth a cune.

The stones are cast into the lappe; but their fall standeth in the Lo:des.

The XVII. Chapter.

Better is it a dyce messell with quietnesse; than a full house; and manye fat cattell with stryfe.

A discrete seruaunt shall haue more rule then the sonnes that haue no wisdom; and shall haue life heritage with the bette.

Like as silver is tryed in the fyre; and gold is purged in the furnace; euen so doeth the Lo:de purge the bette.

The XXII. Chapter.

A Good name is more worth then greate riches/ and louinge fauoure is better then siluer and golde.

Whiche riches or pouerte do mete vs/ it cometh all of God.

A wise man seyth the plague and hideth hymself/ but the foolyshe go on styl/ and are punysshed.

The ende of lowlynesse/ and the feare of God is riches/ honour/ prosperie/ and health.

Speares and sharres are in the waye of the forward/ but he that wyll kepe his soule/ let hym ste from such.

If thou teachest a chyld in his yowthe what waye he shoulde go/ he shall not leaue it when he is olde.

The ryche rulerth the poore/ and the boomer is seruant to the lender.

He that soweth wickednesse/ shall reape sorrowe/ and the rodde of hye plague shall destrye hym.

A lying eye shalbe blessed/ for he geueth of hyo bread vnto the poore.

E Cast out the scoinefull man/ and so shall shyfe go out with him/ yec/ vasaunce and sclander shall cease.

Who so deliucth to be of a cleane herte/ and of gracious lyppe/ the kynge shalbe his frende.

The eyes of the Lorde perserue knowlege/ but so for the widdes of the despytfull/ he byngyth them to nauyght.

The scourful body sayeth: there is a lion wythout/ I myght be slayne in the strete.

A riches make the selfe wunget/ and take their sight lyk an Aegle in to the ayre.

The mouth of an harlot is a depe pyt/ wherein be fallith that the Lorde is angrye wythall.

Foolyshefnesse steecheth in the herte of the lad/ but the rodde of correccyon dyspuch it awaye.

Who so doeth a poore man wrong to increase hye vnto riches/ geueth (commonly) vnto the ryche/ and at the last cometh to pouerte hym selfe.

My soule/ bowe doune thine eare/ and heare vnto the wordes of wysdome/ applye thy mynde vnto my doctrine: for it is a pleasaunt thing/ if thou kepe it in thine herte/ and p:ce rye it in thy mouth: that thou mayeste alwaye put thy truste in the Lorde.

Haue not I warned y very oft with counsaill and learning: that I myght see the rye truth/ and that thou wist the verye myghte test aunswere them that laye any thyng as geynst the?

Be that thou robbe not the poore/ because he is weake/ and oppresse not the simple in iudgemente: for the Lorde hymself wil sende thei cause/ and do violence vnto them that haue vsed violence.

Mak no frendshyppe with an angrye & wepyfull man/ and kepe no company wyth the furious: lest/ thou learne hye waye/ and receaue hurte vnto thy soule.

Be not thou one of them that bind their hande vpon pynne/ and are iurce for detre: for if thou haste nothinge to paye/ they shall take awaye thy bed from vnder the.

Thou shalt not remove the lande mark/ which thy forefethers haue set.

Scille thou not/ that they which be diligent in their busynesse stande before kinges/ and not amonge the simple people.

The XXIII. Chapter.

Han thou sitte at a table to eate with a Lorde/ seide thy selfe manerly with the thinge that are set before the.

Measure thine appetite: and if thou wilt rule thine owne selfe/ be not ouer greedy of hye meate: for meate begyleth and deceaucht.

Take not ouer greace trauals/ and labour: for it to be ryche/ be aware of such a purpose.

Why wilt thou set thine eye vpo the thinge/ which sodenly vanyssheth awaye?

For riches make the selfe wunget/ and take their sight lyk an Aegle in to the ayre.

Eate not thou with the enuious/ and desyre not his meate: for he hath a maruailous hert.

He sayeth vnto the eate and dynke/ where as his herte is not with the.

See the moiste that thou hast eaten/ shal thou partake/ and lest those sweete wordes/ tel nothinge in to the eare of a soule/ for he wil despise the wysdome of thy wordes.

Remove not the olde landmarke/ a come: for thou wyldeste in the felde of the fatherlesse: for he that deliucth the is myghtie/ aye he shal defende their cause/ against the.

Pro. xxxij. d Repe no copany with wyrded/bheres/ a ryous rous cetero of fleshe: I for such as be diuorced and ryous / shall come to pouert / and he the is geue to much slepe / shall go to a ragged rote.

Labour for to get the much: sell not awaye wyrdome/nurture and understandinge / for a rygurous father is maruaylous glad of a wyse sonne / and deliuerth in him / so shall thy father be glad / and thy mother that bare the / shall reioyce.

E My sonne geue me thine hert / and let thine eyes haue pleasure in my wayes.

When amonge those I be cuer / at the wyne / and seeke out where the best is.

Let not thou vpon the wyne / how read it is / as water a coloure it geueth in the glasse.

It goeth home softly / but at the last it byteth lyke a serpent / and stingeth as an adder.

So shall thine eyes loke vnto straunge women / and thine herte shall muse vpon frowarde thynges.

Yee / thou shalt be as the thou sleepest in the myddel of the ste / or upon the top of the masse.

They wounded me (spale thou say) but it hath not hurte me / they smote me / but I sleie not.

Thou art wyrdome an house / shall be buylde / and with understandinge it shall be set vp.

Thou art discretion shall the chambere be filled with all costly and pleasant ryde.

A wyse man is stronge / yee / a man of vnderstandinge is better / then he that is mightie of strength.

For with discretion must warres be taken in hande / and where as are many that can geue counsayll / there is the victory.

Wydome is an hie thinge / yee / ruen to the soule / for he barre not open hys mouth in the gate.

He that imagineth mischief / may wel be called an vngracious persone.

The thought of the foolys is synne / and the scofnfull is an abhominacion vnto men.

If thou be ouerfene and negligent in the tyme of neede / then is thy strength but smal.

Deliver the that go vnto death / and are led awaye to be slayne / and be not negligent therin. If thou wilt saye: I knewe not of it.

Thynkest thou that he which made the heron / doeth not consydre it? and that he which regardeth thy soule / seyth it not?

Shall not he receyuenet eury man / as coudyng to hys woike?

My sonne / thou eatest hony and the swete hony combe / for it is good and swete in thy mouth.

Wen so shall the knowlege of wyrdome be vnto thy soule / as soue as thou hast gotte it.

And there is good hope / yee / thy hope shall not be in vayne.

Lape no picup wastre wyrdely vpon the house of the rygurous / and disquiete not hys resting place.

He is lame of his feet / wponen is he in in vanyte / that comiteth any thing to a soule.

Lyke as it is an vnsemylye thinge to haue legges and yet to balde / euen so is a parable in the foules mouth.

He that sciteth a soule in byghe dignite / sharis euen as if a man byd caste a precious stone epon the gallows.

Eye of a roaring Lyon / and an hungry Bereaven soe is an vngodly pounce ouer the poore people.

but if he be such one as hateth courtoousnesse / he shall rage in longe.

Prou. xi. b ¶ He that kylleth his lande / shall haue plene

A faithfull man is greatly to be commen-

To haue respect of persons in iudgement is not good: And why? he wil do wronge; yet euery for a peece of bread.

De that wil be riche al to some; hath an euil

The XXX. Chapter.

3e that is deliuered / and will not be resoured; shall suddenly be destroyed without any helpe.

Dio. xviii. b. 2 ¶ Where the righteous haue the ouerhaide / the people are in ioy; yette; but where the vngodly deaeth rich; there / people mourne.

Who so loueth wysdome / maketh hys sauer a glad man: / but he that feareth barlots respensid; an way that he hath.

With true iudgement the Synge setteth vp the lande; / but if he be a man that taketh gyf-tes; he turneth it vpon deome.

Who so flattereth his neyghboure; layeth a nette for his fete.

The synne of the wicked is his owne sinare;
but the righteous shalbe glad and ioyous.

The righteous considereth the cause of the poore; / but the vngodly regardeth no vnder-standing.

Wicked people bringe a cytie in decaye; but wysc men set it vp againe.

If a wysc man go to lawe with a foule; wherther he deale with hym friendly or roughly; he getteth no rest.

The bloudy byrthy hateth the righteous; / but the iust like his soule.

A soule pouerth our his synne all together; but a wysc man feareth it in yll after warde.

If a pounce delecte in lycs; all his seruantes are vngodly.

The poore and the lender mete together; the Lords lyghteneth bothe their eyes.

The feare of the Synge that saythfully iudgeth the poore; shal continue sure for euer more.

The radde and correccion minisre wysdome; but if a chyld be not lofed vnto; he bring-geth his mother to shame.

When the vngodly come vp; wickednesse increareth; but the righteous shall be theyr fell-douroure; they soune with correccion; and he shall comforte the; yet; he shall do the good at thynne herte.

Where no prophete is; there the people pre-ryth; but wel is him that feareth the lawe.

A seruante will not be the better for woe; & des; so; though he vnderstand; yet; well he not regarde them.

If thou seest a man that is bashy to speke vnaduersed; / thou mayest truste a soule more than hym.

He that deliuereth bringeth vp his seruante from a chyld; / shall make hym his master at length.

An angrie man stretcheth vpon stryfe; / and he that beareth euil wil in his mind; doeth much euil.

spite bringeth great wo:shyp.

Who so feperth company with a thefe / hath his owne soule: be heareth blasphemyes / and relecth it not forsh.

He that feareth men shall haue a fall: but who so putteth his trust in the Lorde / shall come to honour.

Many there be that seeke the pynnes fauour / but eury mane iudgement cometh from the Lorde.

The righteous abhoire the vngodlye: but as for thefe: they be in the ryght waye: the wicked hath them.

The XXX. Chapter.

The woordes of Agur the sonne of Iafub.

In the prophetic of a true saythfull man / whome God hath helped / whome God hath consoled / and no: shped. For though I am the least of al / I haue no mane vnderstandinge: for I neuer learned wysdom: yet haue I vnderstādinge / and am well informed in godly thynges. Who hath clained vp in to heauen: Who hath come doune from thence: Who hath holdeth the wynde fall in his hand: Who hath dēshedd f water in a garnēt: Who hath set all the endes of f world: What is his name / or his sones name: Canst thou tell?

All f woordes of God are pure a cleane: for he is a swete vnosall thefe: put they rest in hym. Put thou nothing therfore vnto his woordes / lest he repute the a thou be sounde as a sear.

Two thynges I require of the / that thou wilt not vnye me before I dye. Remoue from me vaine and lyer: geue me neyther pouerte nor riches: onely graunte me a necessary luyng.

Lest I be to full / I denye the a say: what shewe is the Lorde: I And lest I beyngē edrayned thowm pouerte / fall vnto stealing / a forswaie the name of my God.

A curse not a seruante vnto his master / lest he speake euell of the also: and thou be hurt.

He that dūngers vp an euell repute vpon the generation of his father and mother / is no worthy to be commended.

The generation that thinke they selfes cleane / shall not be clenfed: for they: sylbynesse. There are people that haue a proud sofe / and cast up they: eyes liddes. Theio people seech are swar: de: and with they: chambrones they confume and beaure the symple of the earth / and the poore: from among men.

This generaciō which is lyke an heischēd hath two daughters: f one is called / sech by: the: other: bung: by: her.

There be the thynges that are neuer satisfied: a the fourth sayeth neuer soo. The hills a womanis wombe / and the earth hath neuer water ynough. As for fice: it sayeth neuer soo. Who so laugheth his father to scorn: / Hea: ff: b and secheth bys mothers commūdamēt at Deu: ff: c and naught: the rauens pick out his eyes in the valley: a deuoured be he of the yonge Egles.

There be the thynges to bye for me: and as Chap: v: b for the fourth it passeth my knowlege.

The waye of an Eagle in the ayre: the waye of a serper vnto the stone: the waye of a shippe in the see: a the waye of a man with a yonge womē. Suche is the waye also of a wyfe: that breaketh wedlocke / whiche wyfeth her niough lyke as whā the harp cutt: a sayeth: As for me: I haue done no harme. Thow the thynges I f carde is asuayed / a the fourth maye it not beare: Thow a seruant that heareth rule: thow rowe a soule that hath great riches: thow an ydle housewyfe: and thow an handymāden that is heyere her maytre. There be foure thynges in the earth: the whiche are very lyke: burn wysdom: they exceede the mys. The Tēminites are but a weake people / yet gart: they they meate together in the barne: f.

The ednyes are but a feeble folk / yet make they they chowdes amonge the rockes. The gresboppers haue not a gude yet go they forth together by heapes. The fyger labourer is her handes: and that in the synner palayce.

There be the thynges that go flyssy: but the goyng of the fourth is the gooddest of all. A Lyon which is kyng of bestes / and gucth place to no mane: A colde ready to fryght: A rāne: A King f goeth forth with his people.

If thou be so foolish to magnifye thy selfe: or medleth with any such thyng: the lare thy hande vpon thy mouth. Who so dryneth mylke / maketh butter: he f rubbeth his nose: maketh it to blede: and he that causerth wrath / bingeth forth styffe.

The Proverbes of Salomon.

The wordes of kynge Lamuel/and the Prophecie that hys mother saught hym.

The XXXI. Chapter.

Wonne/thou sonne of my body: O my deare beloued sonne / greue not ouer thy substaunce and myne be vnto women / which are the destrucion euen of fingers. O Lamuel gve thynges no wine / lest they beynge drinke forget the lawre / and regarde not the cause of the poore / as of al such as be in aduersite. Beue stronge drinke vnto such as are contempned to death / and wyne vnto those that mourne: that they maye drinke it and forget theyr mys-ery and aduersite. Be thou an aduocate and stande in iudgement thy selfe / to speake for all such as be domme and successelesse. With thy mouth defende the thinge that is lawfull and ryght / and the cause of the poore and helpelesse.

B Who so fyndeth an honest faithfull woman / she is more worth then pearles.

The heart of her houshilde maye safely trust in her / so that he shall haue no neede of spyales.

She wyll do hym good and not euell all the dayes of her lyfe.

She occupieth wol and flaxe / and labour-eth glably with her handes.

She is lyke a marchantes shippe / that bringeth her vyntres from farre.

She is vp in the nyght season / to prouyde meate for her houshilde / and foode for her maydene.

She openeth her lande and byerth it / and with the fruite of her handes she planteth a vyneyard.

She gyrdeth her loynes with strength / and courageth her armes.

And if she perceaue that her housfaryfe beeth good / her candle goeth not out by nyght.

She layeth her fingers to the spyndle / and her hande taketh holde of the rocke.

She openeth her hande to the poore / yet she stretcheth forth her handes to suche as haue neede.

She feareth not that the cold of the wynter shall hurte her house / for all her householde followe are double clothed.

She maketh her selfe sayre ornaments / her clothyng is whyte sylke and purple.

Her houshilde is myche feydy in the gates / when he sitteth amonge the rulers of the lande.

She maketh cloth of sylke and selleth it / and deliuereth a gyrdle vnto the marchaunte.

Strength and honour is her clothyng / and in the latter daye she shall reioyce.

She openeth her mouth with wysedome / and in her tongue is the lawe of grace.

She taketh well to the weape of her house-holde / and eateth not her bread with violence.

Her chyldren aryse and cal her blessed / and her housbande maketh muche of her.

Many daughters there be that gather roses together / but thou goest about them all.

As for sauaour / it is deccatfull / and browne is a payne thynge: but a woman that feareth the Lord / she is worthy to be prayse.

Shee her of the frute of her handes / and let her owne wooken paye her in the gates.

lo they are all but vanytie and vexacyon of mynde The croked can not be made straight/ and the sauro can not be numbred. I come muned with myne vrene herte/ sayenge I lo/ I am come to a greate place/ and haue gouerned more wysdome/ then all theye that haue ben before me in Ierusalem. Yet my hert had great experyence of wysdome a knowlege / for there vnto I applyed my mind: that I might knowe what were wysdome and vnderstandyngs/ what were erreure and foolyspence. And I perceaued that this also was but a vexacyon of mynde: for where much wysdome is/ thereto also greate trauaile and disquietnes: and the more knowlege a man hath/ the more is his care.

These are the wordes of the Preacher the sonne of Dauid/ kinge of Ierusalem. All is but vanytie/ sayeth the Preacher. All is but playne vaine. for what he hath a man of all the labour that he taketh vnder the Sunne. One generation passeth away/ another cometh/ but the earth abideth still. The Sunne ariseth/ the Sunne goeth downe/ and returneth to his place/ that he maye there rise vp agayn. The winde goeth toward the South/ and scarcheth his compassse about vnto the North/ and so returneth into himselfe again. All flioures runne into the see/ and yet the see is not fylled: for loke vnto what place the waters runne/ thence they come againe. All thynges are so hard/ that no man can expresse them. The eye is not satisfied with sight/ the eare is not fylled with hearyng. The thynges that hath bene cometh to passe agayne: and the thynges that hath bene done/ is done agayne/ there is no new thyng vnder the Sunne. Is there any thyng where of it maye be sayde: lo/ this is newe. See it was longe ago in the tymes that haue ben before vs. The thynges that is past is oute of remembraunce: Euen so the thynges that are yet to come/ shall no more be thought vpon among them that come after. I my selfe the Preacher/ beyng kynge of Ieracil and Ierusalem/ applyed my mynde to seeke oute and searche for the knowlege of all thynges that are done vnder heauen. Such trauaile and labour hath God giuen vnto the chyliden of men / to exercise them selfes therein.

Thus I haue considered all the thynges that come to passe vnder the Sunne/ and

The II. Chapter.

Then sayde I thus in my herte: How go I to/ I will take myne ease and haue good dayes. But lo/ that was vanytie also: in so muche that I sayde vnto laughers: thou arte madde/ and to myrth: what dost thou?

So I thought in my herte/ to withdraue my selfe from wyne/ to applye my mynde vnto wysdome/ and to comprehend foolyspence wntill the tyme that among al the thynges which are vnder the Sunne/ I myghte see what were best for men to do/ so longe as they liue vnder heauen.

I made goodious saye woikes. I buylded me houses/ and planted vineyardes: I made me orchardes and gardenes of pleasur/ and planted trees in them of all maner fruites. I made poles of water/ to water the grene/ a frutefull tree withall. I bought seruantes/ and maydens/ and had a greate householde. I had camell and shepe/ I had more substance of them/ then all theye that were before me in Ierusalem. I gathered siluer and golde together/ euen a treasure of kinges and landes.

I prouyded me fingers and women which could playe on instrumentes/ to make me mirth and pastime. I gat me diuynge cuppes also and glasses. Finally I was greater and in more wysshipp/ then al my predecessours in Ierusalem. For wysdome cryed with me: and loke what soeuer myne eyes desired/ I let them haue it: and wherein I souer my herte delited at had any pleasure/ I with-

be it not from it. Thus my herte enioyed in all that I wyld and thus I toke for the portion of all my traualle. But when I considered al I woikes & my hertes had wroughte/ and all the labours that I had taken therein: lo! was but vanitie and vexacion of minde/ and nothyng of any value vnder the Sunne. Then warned I me to consider wysdomes/ rouse and foolishnesse: (for what is be amonge men) that myght be compared to me) Kinge in iudice wo:kes/ and I sawe that wysdomes excellith foolyshnesse/ as farre as lyge doeth vartensesse. For a wiseman search his eyes aboute in his heade/ but the foule goeth in the vartensesse. I perceaued also that they doth had one ende.

C Then thought I in my minde: If it happē vnto the foule as it doeth vnto me/ what needeth me the to labour any more for wisdom. So I confessed within my herte/ that this also was but vanitie. For the wyse are euer as litle in remembrance as the foolyshe/ and all the dayes for to come shalbe forgotten/ yet the wyseman dyeth as well as the foule. Thus beganne I to be weery of my life/ in so muche that I coulde away with nothyng & is done vnder the Sunne/ for al was but vanitie and vexacion of mynde: yet/ I was weery of al my laboure/ which I had taken vnder the Sunne/ because I shoulde be sayn to leaue them vnto another man that cometh after me: for who knoweth whether he shalbe a wysse man or a foule? And yet shall he be loide of all my labours/ which I in such wysdome haue taken vnder the Sunne. Is not this a vaine thinge?

So I turned me to refraine my minde fro all such traualle/ as I toke vnder the Sunne: for so muche as a man shoulde weery himself with wysdome/ with vnderstandinge and opynminde/ yet he fauie to leaue his labours vnto another/ that neuer sweet for them. This is also a vaine thinge and a great misery. For what getteth a man of al the labour and traualle of his mynde/ that he taketh vnder the Sunne/ but heauinesse/ sorrowe and disquietnesse at the daies of his life? In so muche that his herte cal not rest in the night. Is not this also a vaine thinge? Is it not better then for a man to eat and drinke/ al his foule to be merry in his laboure? Yet/ I sawe that this also was a gyfte of God. & for who maic eate & drinke/ 1. Tim. 4. 8. or synge any thinge to passe without hym? And why? he getteth vnto man what it pleaseth him: whether it be wysdome/ vnderstandinge/ or gladnesse. But vnto the synner be getteth weerines and sero/ which be may gather a heape together the thinge/ & after wards shalbe geuen vnto him whom it pleaseth God. This is now a vaine thinge/ yet/ a very desquietnesse and vexacion of minde.

The III. Chapter.

Very thinge hath a tyme/ yet/ al that is vnder the heauē/ hath his euientic season. There is a tyme to be borne/ and a tyme to dye.

There is a tyme to plante/ & a tyme to plucke vp the thinge that is plante.

A tyme to lay/ and a tyme to make whole.

A tyme to breake yuane/ and a tyme to build vp.

A tyme to wepe/ and a tyme to laugh.

A tyme to mouene/ and a tyme to vauce.

A tyme to cast awaye stones/ and a tyme to gather stones together.

A tyme to embrace/ and a tyme to refraine from embracing.

A tyme to winne/ and a tyme to lose.

A tyme to spare/ and a tyme to spende.

A tyme to cut in pecces/ and a tyme to sowe together.

A tyme to kepe silence/ & a tyme to speake. Eccle. 3. 1.

A tyme to loue/ and a tyme to hate.

A tyme of warre/ and a tyme of peace.

What hath a man els (if doeth any thinge)?

But weerinesse/ a laboure: for as touching the traualle and carefulnesse which God hath geuen vnto men/ I see that he hath geue it/ & he to be excessid in it. Al this hath be ordyned maruailous goodly/ to euery thinge his tyme. He had planteid ignorance also in the hartes of men/ that they shoulde not finde out the grounde of his wo:kes/ which be doeth fro the beginninge to the end. So I perceaued that in these thinges there is nothyng better for a man then to be merry and do well so longe as he liueth. For al that a man careth and desireth/ yet/ whoso euer a man enioyeth of al his laboure/ & his tyme is a gyfte of God. I considered also that whoso euer God doeth/ it endureth for euer/ and that nothyng can be put unto it/no: taken from man and that God doeth it to it/therefor that men should feare him. The thinge that hath bene is now: and the thinge that is for to come/ hath bene alsoe time / for God restorith againe the thinge that was past: / For cause / I sawe vnder the Sunne / vngodlynes in the steade of iudgements / and iniquite in steade of righteousnesse.

Then thought I in my minde: God shall separate the righteous from the vngodly / and there shall be the time and iudgment of all conuuls and wofles. I communed with myne owne herte also / concerninge the children of men: for God hath chosen them / and yet leauech them appeare / so though they were beastes: it happeneth vnto me as it doeth vnto beastes / as if one dyeth / so dyeth / for other yee / they haue both one maner of death / so / in this / a man hath no preeminence aboue a beaste / but all are subdued vnto vaine. They go all vnto one place / for as they be al of dust / so shall they al turne vnto dust againe.

Who knoweth the spirit of man / that goeth upward / and the breath of the beast that goeth vnto into the earth: Wherefore I perceaued / that there is nothinge better for a man / then to be ioyfull in his labour / for that is his paye: on. But who wyll charge him to see the thinge that shall come after him?

The 111. Chapter.

Eccle. i. a

Eccle. v. a

So I turned me / and considered all the violent wronges that is done vnder the Sunne: and beholds / the reuoc of such as were oppressed / and there was no man to comforte them / so that wolde deliuer and defende them from the violence of their oppressours. Wherefore I iudged those that are dead to be more happy then liue / as he alwaye / him that is yet vnto me to be better at ease / then they both / because he seyth not / my miserable woikes that are done vnder the Sunne. Againe / I sawe that all trauaile and vngodnesse of labour was hated of euery man. This is also a vaine thing / and a vexed of minde. The soule soldeth his handes together / as a carye up his owne soule. One handfull sayeth he / is better with rest / then both the handes full with labour and trauaile. Moreover / I turned me / as beholde / yet another vaine vnder the Sunne. There is one man / as he is alone / but himself alone / hauinge neither childe nor brother: yet is there no ende of his carefull trauaile / his eyes can not be satisfied with riches / yet doeth he not remembre himselfe / as saith: For whom do I take such trauaile / for whose pleasure / do I take such care away my lyfe: This is also a vaine and miserable thinge. Therefore two are better the one / for they maye waken / so profite of their labour. If any of them fall / his companion helpech him up againe: But two is him that is alone / for if he fall / he hath not another to helpe him up. Againe / when two sleepe together / they are warme: but how can a body be warme alone: One may be ouercome: But two maye make resistauce. If they sleepe togeather / they are not lightlye broken. A poore childe beinge wishe / better then an olde kinge that doeth / a can not beare in time to come. Some one edmeth bene. x. h. out of pyson / and is made a kinge / another is a kinge / which is beinge in the kingdom / cometh vnto the power. And I perceaued / that all men / as a p. xxxij. vinge vnder the Sunne / go with the soule / as he. xxxij. c. coude childe / as edmeth up in the steade of the other. As for the people that haue bene before him / as that come after him / they are innumerable: yet is not their loye the greater / so doeth him. This is also a vaine thinge and a vexation of minde. When thou comest into the house of God / kepe thy foot / as haue nye / that thou maist beare: that is better the / offerings of foules / for they knowe not what euil they do. The V. Chapter.

Do not haistie with thy mouth / as laye not / as haue better speake any thinge / rather be for God. For God is in heauen / and thou vpon earth / therefore let thy wordes be fewe. For where much carefullnes is / there are many vnaimes: and where many wordes are / there men may beare soules. If thou make a uowce vnto God / do not slacke to performe it. As for soules / be care / be wary / no pleasure in them. If thou promise any thinge / paie it / for better it is that thou make no vowe / then that thou shouldst promise / and not paye. Use not thy mouth to cause thy selfe / so to hymne / that thou saue not before / as I am / as my foot / as he. xxxij. c. is in the faulte.

For the God wil be angrye at thy voyce / as displeare all the woikes of thine handes. And why: where as are many vnaimes / as many to heare ſynging of foolkes. For the laughinge of foolkes is liſe heracting of whores burninge

the hie minded. Be not hastily angry in thy minde / for wrath rethyr in theosome of a soule. Saye not thou: What is the cause that the Dayes of the olde tyme were better / then they that be now: for that were no wyse question. Wysedome is better then ryche / yee / much more wroth then the eye sight. For wysedome descender as well as money / and the excellent knowlege and wysedom greuch lise vnto him that hath it in possession. Considre the woork of God: show that no man can make the thinge straight / whiche he maketh crooked. We will the tyme of prosperitee / and remember the tyme of myssion: for God maketh the one by the other: so that a man cannot fynde nothyng else.

E These two thinges also haue I considred in the tyme of want: that the iust man perissheth for his righteousnes sake / and the vngodly larysh in his wickednesse. Therefore be thou myghter to righteous / not ouerwyse / that thou perishe not: be neyther to vnyghteous / also not to foolish: / lest thou dye before the tyme. It is good for the to take heed of this / and not to let that go out of thy hande. For he that feareth God / shal scape them al.

I haue founde one / but not one woman as monge al: / so / this only haue I founde: / that Gen. 1. 8 God made man iust and right: but they sele thurs: for synnes: where as no man hath wysedom and vnderstandinge: to geue aunswere thereto.

The VIII. Chapter.

Wysedom maketh a mans face to shine: / But malse / putteth it oute of fauoure: / Dio. 10. 8. Bepe the synnes commaundment: I warne the: / the ooth that thou hast made to God. Be not haustie to go out of his sight: / and se thou continue in no euill thinge: for wharsoeuer it please him / that doeth be. Like as when a henge greuch a charge / he commaundment is myghtie: / Euen so / who may saye Job. 1. 6 vnto him: what doest thou: * Who so keepeth the commaundment: / shal sele no harme: but a wise mans herre differeth tyme and maner. For every thinge wyl haue opportunitie a iudgement: and this is the thinge that maketh men full of carefullnes and sorrow. And why: a man knoweth not what is for to come. For who wyl tel it him: / Ne: ther is there any man that hath power ouer the spere: to kepe full the spere / no: to haue any power in the tyme of death: It is not he also that can make an ende of the dayes: / neyther may vngodliness deliuer him that myleth with.

All these thinges haue I considered: / and I applyed my minde vnto every woike that is vnder the Sunne: howe one man hath lode shippe vpon another to his owne harme. For I haue of sene / howe vngodly thoughte to their graues / and fallen downe from the hie and glorious place: in so much that they were forgotten in the cytie: where they were had in so hie and great reputation. This is also a vain thinge. Because now that euil woikes are not hastily punished: the berre of man greuch himselfe ouer vnto wickednesse. But though an euil persone offend an hundred times / a haue a longe life: yet am I sure: that it shal go well with them that feare God: because they haue hym before their eyes. Againe: as for the vngodly: it shal not be well with him: neyther shal he prolonge his dayes: but euen as a shadowe: so shal he be that feareth not God.

Yet is there a ransome vpon carth: / There be C iust men: vnto whom it happeneth: as though they they had the woikes of the vngodly: Againe there be vngodlye / with whome it goeth as though they had the woikes of the righteous.

This me thinke also a vaine thinge. Therefore I came to gladnes/ because a man hath no bette re thing vnder the Sunne/ he to eat a dunccke to the mery: for that shall be haue of his labour all the daies of his life/ which God geueth him vnder the Sunne. When I applied my minde to learne wisdom/ and to knowe the myste that is in I woild/ and that of suche a fashion/ that I suffered not mine eye to sleepe neither daye nor night/ I vnderstode of al the woikes of God/ that it is not possible for a mā as anyne vnto the woikes that are done vnder the Sunne/ and though he bestow his labour e: like the out: yet can he not reach vnto the:
yet/ though a wyse man wolde vndertake to knowe theye night he nor fynde them.

The IX. Chapter.

All these thynges purposed I in my minde to see out. The righteous a wyse: ye/ and their woikes also are in the hande of God: there is noua that knoweth either the loue or hate of I thinge that he hath before him.
It happeneth vnto one as vnto another: It goeth with the righteous as with the vngodly:
with the good and cleane as with the vncleane: with him that offereth as with him that offereth notlike as it goeth with the ver-nious/ so goeth it also with the sinner: As it happeneth vnto the persecuted/ so happeneth it also vnto him that is afraied to be persecuted.
Amonge all thynges that come to passe vnder the Sunne/ this is a mysery/ that it happeneth vnto all alike. This is the cause also that the heres of men are full of wickednesse / and made foolishnes: is in their heres as longe as they lye/ vnles they dye.

And whye? As longe as a man lyeth/ he is careles: for a quicke dogge/ say theye/ is bette then a dead Lion: for theye that be lyunge/knowe that they shall dye: but theye that be dead/ knowe nothyng: / neyther deserue they any more. For their memoriall is forgotten/ so that theye be neyther loued/ had nor enuyed: neither haue they any more parte in I worlde in all that is done vnder the Sunne. Wo thou thy wyse thou/ care the breade with ioye/ and wynne thy wyne with gladnes/ for thy wyse

Feas please God. Let thy garments be all white white/ and let thy heade waxe no ointme.
* Use thyselfe so ioye ioyfully with thy wyse whome thou louest/ all the dayes of thy life (which is thine vaine) that God hath geuen the Sunne/ all the dayes of thy manite: for that to thy portion in this life/ of all labour and trawple that thou takest vnder the Sunne.
Whatsoeuer thou takest in hande to do / that do with all thy power: for amonge the dead where as thou goest vnto / there is neyther woike/ counsaill/ knowlege/ nor wisdom.

So I turned me vnto other thynges vnder the Sunne/ and I sawe/ that in running it hel-peth not to be swyfte: in battayll it hel-peth not to be stronger: to sedynge / it hel-peth not to be wyse: to rydes / it hel-peth not to be fast: no he had in fauoure/ it hel-peth not to be cunning: but that all heris in one a fortune.
For a man knoweth not his time/ but like as the hyde are taken with the snare/ and as the byrdes are catched with the snare: I sawe/ so men taken in the perillous time/ when it commeth suddenly vpon them.

This wisdomme haue I seene also vnder the Sunne/ a me though it is a great thing. There was a lyde citty/ and a few men within it: so there came a great synge a besieged in / a made great bulwoikes against it. And in the citty there was founde a poore man/ but he was wyse/ which with his wisdomme deliuered the citty: yet was there no body that had any respecte vnto such a simple man. Then saide I: I wisdomme is better then strengthe. A curre replee/ a simple mans wisdomme is bespysed / and his woikes are not herde. A wise mans counsaill that is followed in silence / is farre above the crying of a captaine amonge foules: for I wisdomme is better then barnesse: but vnto vs alone bestroge much good.

The X. Chapter.

The. XL. Chapter.

A Ende thy vitales iure the waters/a thale thou fynde them after many year res. There is awaie amonge feuen oycygher/for thou knowest not what muserie shal come vpon carth. When the cloudes are full/they poure out raine vpon the carth. And when tree falleth/whether it be toward the South or North/in what place soauer it fall/there is herb. Be that regardeth the winde/shal not sove: a be that hath respect vnto the cloudes shal not reape. How life as thou knowest not the waye of the winde/nor how the bones are filled in a mothers wombe: Euen so thou knowest not the workes of God/which is the workemaster of all.

Cease not thou therefore with thy handes to force thy sed: whether it be in the mo ninge or in the euenyng: for thou knowest not whether this or that shal prosper/and if they both take/it is the better. The lighte is swete/and a pleasant thinge is it for the eyes to looke vpon the Sunne. If a man lyfe many yeares/a be glad in them all: let him remem ber the dayes of Barckenek/whos halbe many:
 And when they come/at thynges shal be vanine. Be glad then (O thou yonge man) in thy youth/and let thyne here be merry in thy yonge dayes: before the wayes of thyne o wne here/and the lust of thine eyes: be thou sure/that God shal bringe the vnto wo derment for all these thinges.

The. XLII. Chapter.

 Remove euil from thy body: for childhode ker in thy youth: cure the dayes of aduertise shalt se: I haue no pleasure in them: before the Sunne/lyghte/the Moone/a the starres be darkened/and in the cloudes turne againe after the rayne: when the topes of the house shall tremble/and when the stronge men shal haue them selfes: when the Myllers stande still/ because they be so hwee/and when the sygne of the windowes shal wate symme: when the doore in the streete shal be shut/and when the voyce of the Myllers shal be layed the birde/and when al the daughteres of mus out acceptable wordes of trouth. For the wordes of the wyse are lyke plectes and nay-

Salomōs Bal- lettees / called Cantica Canticorum.

The first Chapter.

Some rede: his moueth.

Eccl. vii. d

What if thy mouth wolde goue me a kysse / for thy kysse is more pleasur then wyne / and that because of the good & pleasant sauour. Thy name is a sweete smelling oyment / therfore do the maidens loue the: / pe-the same moueth me also to runne after the.

The Kinge hath brought me into his pie-ny chaumbre. We wyl be glad and reioyce in the: we thinke more of thy kysse then of wy-ne: well is them that loue the.

I am blacke / O ye daughters of Ierusalem / like as the rentes of the Sarcabene / and as the bangles of Salomon: but yet am I sayre and well fauoured withal. What shall not at me that I am so blacke / and why? the Sunne hath shyned vpon me. For when my mothers children had euill will at me / they made me the keper of the vineyard. Thus was I faine to kepe a vineyard / whiche was not myne owne.

Tell me O thou whom my soule loueth / where thou sedest / where thou restest at the noone daye: lest I go wronge / and come vs to the flockes of thy companions.

If thou knowe not thy selfe / O thou say-rest amonge women / then go the waye thou after the footestepes of the shepe / as though thou woldst fede thy goates: Beside the she-pherdes tentes. There wyl I fary for my loue / which myne hooll and with my charittes / which shalbe no feruer then Pharaos.

Then shal thy chere and thy necke be made sayre / and hanged with sponges and goodly itwela: neckbande of gold wyl we make the with siluer bonons. When the Kinge syteth at the table / he shal smel my Charus: for a bedd of Myrr. (O my Beloued) seth be-myre my kysse. A cluster of grapes of Cyper / or of the vineyardes of Engadd / set thou to me / o my Beloued.

O how faire art thou / (my loue) how sayre art thou / that hast Dours eyes / o how sayre art thou / my Beloued / howe well fauoured art thou: Our beddes vnto with floure / the lynges of our house are of Cedre tree: and our balles of Cyper.

The ii. Chapter.

I am the floure of the selde / and lide of the Valley: as the rose amonge the thornes:
so is my loue amonge the daughters.

Like as the apple tree amonge the trees of the wood / so is my Beloued amonge the for-nes. My desire is to lye vnder his shadowe for his fruite is swete vnto my throte. He bringeth me into his wyne celler / and loueth me specially well. Refrefhe me with grapes / before me with apples: for I am frute of loue. His left hande shal lye vnder my

B I charge you (O ye daughters of Ierusalem) by the Roes and bindes of the selde/ that ye wafe not vp my loue noi touch her/ tyll she be content her selfe.

¶ I thinke I heare the voyce of my beloved: lo/there cometh he hoppinge upon the mountaines: and kappynge ouer the lyric hilles. My beloved is like a Roe or a yonge hart. He holde/his stander behinde our wall/ he looketh in at / his window / & speaketh thowt we / I gawe.

My beloved answered and sayd vnto me: O stande vp my loue/my doue/my bewtyfull/ and come: for lo/the winter is now past / raine is away and gone. The floures are come vp in the selde/the twynging time is come/hy voyce of the turtle doue is herde in oure lande. The figge tree bungeth forth her figges / the wynter beare blossom/ and haue a good smell.

E O stande vp my loue / my bewtyfull/ and come/ my doue. out of the caues of the rockes/ out of the holes of the walles: O let me se thy countenance/ a heare thy voyce / for swete is thy voyce and saye in thy face. ¶ Get vs the figges/ yee/ the lyric sayes that burre the vynces/ for oure vynces beare blossoms.

¶ My loue is myne/ and I am his/ (which seeth amonge the hylles) vntill I haue breake/ and tyll the shadomes be gone. Come agayne pryncy (O my beloved) lyke as a Roe or a yonge hare vnto the mountaines.

The III. Chapter.

A My nyght in my bedde/ I soughte hym whome my soule loueth: yee/diligently soughte I hym / but I founde hym not. I wyll get vp / (I soughte I) a go aboute the cyttee: vpon the market/ and in all the streets wyll I see hym whome my soule loueth / but whā I soughte hym/ I founde hym not. The watchmen that go aboute the cite/ founde me. Saw ye not hym/ whome my soule loueth?

So whā I was a litle past them/ I founde hym whome my soule loueth. I haue gotten holde vpon hym/ and wyll nor let hym go/ vntill I bringe hym in to my mothers house/ and in to her chaubric that bare me.

¶ I charge you (O ye daughters of Ierusalem) by the Roes and byndes of the selde/ that ye wafe not vp my loue noi wouche her/ tyll she be content her selfe.

Who is this/ that cometh out of the wil-bernes lyke pillers of smoke/ as it were a flock of Myre/ frankincense and all maner spyces of the Apotecarye?

Beholde/ aboute Salomons bedstede there stande. x. valeaunt men of the myghty in Ieruel. They holde swerdes eury one / and are expect in warre. Every man hath his swerde vpon his thee/ because of feare in the nyght.

Kinge Salomon hath made himselfe a bedstede of the wood of Libanus/ the pillers are of syluer/ the coueryng of golde / the fate of purple / the grounde pleasaunt paved for the daughters of Ierusalem.

Go forth (O ye daughters of Zion) a beholde kinge Salomons in the crowne/ wherewith his mother crowned him in the day of his marriage/ in the daye of his glanesse of his herre.

The IIII. Chapter.

Howe saye arte thou (my loue) / how saye art thou: thou halste doue eyes be-lyde that which lyeth hyd within. ¶ Thy beery lockes are lyke a flock of shepe that be clipped/ which go lyst up from the washyng place where eury one beareth two twines / a not one vnfruitefull amonge the. Thy lippes are lyke a rose coloured rpbande/ thy wordes are louchy/ thy shedes are lyke a peece of a Pomgranate / besides that which lyeth hyd within. Thy necke is lyke the tower of Sauid / buyls did wyth bulwoles / wherupon there hange a thousande thyldes/ yee/ all the twapes of the gauntes. ¶ Thy two bystes are lyke two roytes of yonge Roes / which sde and the Lylies. O that I might go to the mountaine of Myre/ and to the hill of frankincense/ till the daye breake / and tyll the shadomes be past awaye. Thou arte all saye (O my loue) and no spotes there in the.

Come to me from Libanus: come sone the next way fro the toppes of Amara / fro the toppes of Sanir and Hermon/ from the Lyons denies/ and fro the mountaines of the Leopardes. Thou hast wadded my hert (O my syster/ my spouse) thou hast wadded my hert / with one of thyne eyes/ a with one cheyne of thy necke. O howe saye and louchy are thy bystes/ my syster/ my spouse? C Thou art a well kepte garden (O my syster/ my spouse) thou arte a well kepte water spring/ a scaled well. The frutes that sprout in the/ arte lyke a very Paradyse of Pomegranates with sweete frutes: as Typpesse/ Myrdus/ Saffron/ Calmus/ and all the trees of Libanus: Myrrhe/ Aloe/ and all the best spyes. Thou art a well of gardens/ a well of luyng waters/ which runne downe from Libanus. Vp thou North winde/ come thou Southwinde/ and blowe vpon my garden/ that the smell thereof maye be caried out on eury syde. Yee/ that my beloved maye come in to my garden/ and eat of the frutes and apples that growe therein. The. V. Chapter.

2 Come in to my garden O my syster/ my spouse: I haue gathered my myrrhe with my spyes: I will eate my hony and my hony combe/ I will drinke my wyne and my mylke/ cario ye freds/ drinke a be merry/ o ye beloved.

As I was a slepe/ and my heart was kinge/ I herde the voyce of my beloved/ when he kneefed. Open to me (sayd he) O my syster/ my loue/ my dote/ my dearinge: for my head is full of oyle/ and the lockes of my heere are full of the myrrhe droppe.

B I haue put of my cote/ how can I do it on agayne: I haue washed my feet/ how shall I drye them agayne: But when my loue put in his hande at the hole/ my heart was moued to wards hym: so that I slode vp to open vnto my beloved. My handes droppd it Myrrhe/ and the Myrrhe ranne downe my fingers vpon y locke. Neuertheless/ when I had opened to my beloved/ he was departed/ & gone his waye.

How lyke as a fowle ym when he spake/ my heart coulde no longer refrayne: Euen so now I sought him/ but I coulde not fynde him: I cried vpon him/ neuertheless/ he gaue me no aunswere: So the watchmen & wente about the cite/ sounde me/ smote me/ & woulded me: Yee/ they that kepte the walles/ toke away my garment frome. I charge you therefore (O ye doubtles of Ierusalem) if ye fynde my beloved/ that ye tell him/ how & I am sicke for loue. Who is thy loue about other luere/ O thou fairest amonge women: O what can thy loue do more: the other louers/ that thou chargest vs so straitly:

As for my loue/ he is myrre and trade coloured/ a singular person amonge many thous sandes: his heade is the most fine golbe/ the lockes of his heere are bushes/ diuine as the eueninge: His eyes are as & eyes of doves by the water brooke/ washed with mylke/ and remayinge in a plentifull place: His chekes are like a garden bedde/ wherein the Apothecarye plante all manner of sweete thinges: His lippes droppe as the flowers of the most principal Myrre: his handes are full of golbe ringes a precious stones. His body is as & pure peny/ deckt ouer with Sapphires. His legges are as & pillars of Myrrhe/ set vpon sockets of golde: His face is an Libanus/ as the beauty of the Cedre trees: His throte is sweete/ yee/ he is altogether loudly. Such one is my loue (O ye doubtles of Ierusalem) such one is my loue.

Whether is thy loue gone the (O thou fairest amonge women) whether is thy loue departed/ that we maye see hym with the:

Thou art pleasant (O my loue) euen as lousyn: (se it selfe) thou art faire as Ierusalem/ glorious as an armye of men with their banners. Turne away: thine eyes frome me/ for they make me to poude: Thy heery lockes are like a flocke of goats vpon & mount of Galad. Thy teeth are lyke a flocke of sheepe that be clipped/ which goe out of the washing place: where eury one beareth two euyens/ a norone vnfrutell amonge the. Thy chekes are like a pece of a Pomegranate/ besides & which theye byd within. There are thre fowle women/ soure of fowle odoures/ a yonge woman without number. But one is my dote/ my dearinge. She is the onely beloved of her mother/ & a deare vnto her & bare her. When the daughter saue her/ they sayd she was blessed. Yee/ the fathers and concubines prayd her. What is she like/ that peepeth out as & morninge: saye as & Moones excellent excellent as the Sunne/ glorious an armye of men with their bannero:

I wente doune in to y nurgarde/ so what grewe by the distes/ to loke if the vyneyerde flouysshed/ and if the Domgranera were shote forth. Then the charrettes of the prince of my people made me foolishly afraid. Turne againe/ turne againe (O thou East) turne as gaue/ turne againe/ if we maye loke upon the. The VII. Chapter.

B Barpleasure haue ye more in the Sulamite/ then when she daunceth amonge the men of warre? / How pleasaunt are thy readings with thy lutes/ thou prince of Ioungers? Thy teares are lyke a fayre well/ which is wrought by a cunningge wofmayster: Thy nauell is lyke a rounde goblet/ which is newe without drinke: Thy wobe is lyke an heape of myrrour/ sit about with Lilies: Thy two brestes are lyke two treynes of yage: Kisse: Thy necke is as it were a tower of iuery: Thine eyes are lyke the water pales in Hesebon/ beside the pore of Bathyabbim: Thy nose is lyke the tower of Libanus/ which lofeth towarde Damascus: That heade ther standeth vpon y is lyke Carmel: The heere of thy heade is lyke the kynges purple folded up in pleats.

B How sweete a loudly art thou (my dearing) in pleasures: Thy stature is lyke a Date tree/ a thy brestes lyke the grapes. I sayde: I will climbe vp in to the Date tree/ a take holde of his braunches. Thy brestes also shalbe as the vyneyerapes/ the smell of thy nostrels lyke the smell of apples/ a thy thoure like the best wyne.

This shalbe pure and cleare for my loue/ his kisse a reth shall haue their pleasure. There will I turne me vnto my loue/ a he shal turne him vnto me. Come on my loue/ let vs go forth in to the silde/ and take our lodginge in the villages. In the morninge will we ryse by nans/ and go se the vyneyerde: if it be sponge fouly/ if the grapes be growen/ a if the Domgranera be thour out. There will I giue the my brestes: There shall the Madagoras geue their smell beside our doores: There (O my loue) haue I kepte vnto the all maner of frutes/ both new and elde.

The VIII. Chapter.

B That I myght fynde the without/ and I kysse the / whom I loue as my brother/ which sucke my mothers brestes: a that thou woldst not be offended/ if I toke the: a broughe the in to my mothers house: that thou nughrest teache me/ a if I might geue y drinke of spiced wyne/ and of the sweete sopp of my Domgranera. His left hande lyeth vnder Cant. 4 a my heade/ and his right hande embraceth me.

I charge you (O ye daughters of Ierusalem) that ye wote not vpon my loue nor touch her/ till she be content her selfe. What is the this/ that cometh vp from the wilderness/ a leanceth vpo her loue? I am the same that wafed the vp amonge the apple trees/ where thy mother beare the / where thy mother broughte the in to the wilde.

O let me as a scale vpon thine heere/ and as a scale vpon thine arines/ for loue is mighty as the death/ and gelousy as the hell. Her coales are of fyre/ and a very flame of the Lord: so that many waters are not able to quench loue/ neyther may the streames drowne it. Yee/ if a man woude geue all the good of his house for loue/ he shoulde counte it nothinge.

When our loue to tolde our yonge syster/ whose brestes are not yet growen/ what shall we do vnto her? If she be a walle/ we shall buyde a siluer bolwoke ther vpon. If she be a tower/ we shall sellen her wryp boies of Cedar tree.

If she be a walle/ and my brestes lye tomes/ E then am I as one that hath founde fauoure in his sighte.

Salomon had a vyneyarde at Baal Hamon/ this vyneyarde deliuered be vnto the keepers: that euery one for the frute therof shoulde geue him a thousande peces of siluer. But my vyneyarde (O Salomon) geuech the a thousande a two hundred to the keepers of the frute.

Thou that dwellest in the gardens/ O let me beare thy voyce/ / that my edonians may be herke to the same. O get the awaye/ my loue) as a Roe or a yage harte vnto the sweete smelinge mountaine.

And receiue ye be ashamed of the Oke trees/wherin ye haue so delited/ and of the gardens that ye haue chosen: ye shalbe as an Oke/ whose

The II. Chapter. I

In this is the woide th was opened vnto E-usalem. ¶ It will be also in process of time/that the hyl where the house of the Loide is build/ shalbe thence amog hilles/ a exalted aboue all the hilles. ¶ And all Scythien shall preach vnto him/ a multitude of people shall go vnto him/ speaking thus one to another I wylle go to th hil of the Loide/ and to the house of th God of Jacob: that he maye shewe vs his wate/ a that we maye walke in his pasincerdes into marockes/ and theyr spears into sythes. ¶ From that time forth shall not one people lift vp weape agaisn another/ neyther shal they learne to fight from thenforth. It is to the that I crye (o house of Jacob) vp let vs walke in the syghte of the Loide. ¶

But thou art feared abroade with thy people (o house of Jacob) for ye go farre beyond your fathers/ whether it be in Succorra/Cadmone ye haue as the Philistines had): in calters of mens byrthes/ wherof ye haue rehaue factored/ and youre fingers haue made.

There Fieith the man/ there falleth the man downe before the Id: so that thou canst not bunge hym awaye from thence.

And therfore get th sone into some rock/ and

hryd the in the grounde th from the syghte of the which casteth downe th highholtes of presumptuous persons/ and bringeth lowe the pyde

¶ For the daye of the Loide of hostes shall goe out all pyde ag: presumption/ vpp all them that exalte the selfe/ and shall bringe them all downe: vpp all bygh a stature the trees of Libanus/and vpon all the Oke of Basan/ vpon all high hilles/ and vpon all stouie mountaynes/vpon all costly towres/ and vpon all strong walles/ vpp the toppes of the see/ and vpp eury thinge that is glorious and pleascant to lofe vpon. ¶ And it shall bunge bounte the pyde of Sopha/ a b man/ and laye mans presumption/ in the full lowe/ and the Loide shall only haue the victory in that daye. But the Idols shall vtterly be roted out. ¶ Men shall creepe in to holes of Luc. stone/ and into caues of the carth/ from the syghte of the fearful iudge/ and from the glory of his maistie: whar time as he shal make him vp to shake the carth. ¶ Then shall man cast awaye his goddes of silver a golde/ whiche he neuertheles had made to honour the Loide.
¶ Molles and Baeces: that be maye the bes-ter creepe in to the caues and rockes/ and into the clyffes of harde stoncs/ from the syghte of the fearful Iudge/ and from the glory of hys selues/ they declare their owne sinnes them sel-ues as the Sodomitans/ a hyde them not. We be vnto their Iudges/ for theye shalbe heuely rewarded. The Lord shall saye/ O happye are the godly/ for theye maye enioye the frutes of theyr studie. But vnto the vngodly and vnirighteous. For theye shalbe rewarded after theye woikes. O my people/ rybaundes oppresse

*Iud. 4 c

Esay. xxxij. e

O my people/ thy leders deceaue thee/ and trade oute the waye of thy foote steps. The Lorde is here to cōmon of the matter/ a stondeth to great inuēment with the people. The Lorde shall come forth to reason with the Senators and priues of his people/ and shall saye thus vnto them: For ye that haue burned up my vnygarde/ Frobbery of the poore is in your house. Wherefore do ye oppresse my people/ a marre the faces of synners/ soe thou shalt be the God of hostes reuyle them.

No couer thus sayeth the Lorde: Oeinge the daughters of Sion are become so proude/and conceit with strecthoute neckes/ and with wayne wannon eyes/ syng they come in tryping/ soe nyedly with their feete: therefore shall the Lorde shawe the breake of synners of Sion/ and make their bewey here in that daye. In that daye shall the Lorde take awaye the gorgeousnes of their apparel/ and spangles/ chynces/ parrletes and colares/ ba-celeries a cōfyse/ the goodly floured/ wyde and broadd rayments/ busshes and beadaues/ ringes and garlandes/ holy daye clothes and vales/ kerchers and pynnes/ glasses and smettes/ bonettes and raches.

And in steade of good smell/ there shalbe stynck amonge them. And for theye gyddes/there shalbe soule bandes. And for well set beere/ there shalbe balbness. In steade of a slo-mcher/ a sack clothe: and for their bewey/wibrednesse a Sunneburning. Their hous-bandes and their myght men shall crysh with the inward in banerel.

For that time shall theye gares mourne and I weeple/ and theye shall stre as desolate folke vpon the carth. Then shall seuen women take holde of one man/ a saye: we will laye all oure meate and clothyng together in comon/only that we maye be called thy wyfe: a that this shamefull reioyse maye be taken from vs.
After that time shall the daughter of Ierusalem be bewyfull and myghty/ and the frute of the carth shalbe saye and pleasaunt for those Israelites that shall spryng therof. Then shall the remnant in Ierusalem and the remnant at Ierusalem be called holy: namely/ all such as are written amonge the syngers at Ierusalem: what time as the Lorde shall washe awaye the desolation of the daughters of Sion/ and purge the blonde oute from Ierusalem/ with the wynde of his smocke and frye. No couer vpon all the dwelleges of the hill of Sion/ and vpon theye whole congregations/ shall the Lorde prouide a cloude and smocke by waye/a the syngers of a flāminge fyre by myghte/for all theye gloye shalbe preferred: And Ierusalem shalbe a tabernacle for a shadowe/ because of heate in the daye time/ a place and refuge where a man maye kept hym for wetter and rayne.

How wilt thou I will syng my beloved I I sende a songe of his vnygarde. My Ierusalem beloued stede hath a vnygarde in a verye frui-tefull plentuous ground. This beloued this and is beloued round about/ and planted it with goodly grapes. In the myddes of it builded be a towre/ a mede a wynepress therein. And afterward wyl be loked it should bringe hym grapes/ it broughte forth thornes. There you now my cause. O ye Ierusalem of Ierusalem a whole Iuda: Judge I praiue you betwix me and my vnygarde. What more coulde haue ben done for it that I haue not done?

Wherefore then hath it given thornes/ Ierusalem where I loked to haue had grapes of it?
Wyl I shal tel you how I wyl do with my vnygarde: I will rafe the hedge from it/ that it maye perysh/ and breake doune the wall that it maye be roden vnder foot. I will laye it wayle/ it shall neyther be troffed nor enioyed/ but beare thornes and breares. I will also forbydde the cloudes / that they shall not rayne vpon it. As for the vnyuarde of the Lozde of hostes / it is the house of Israel / and all Iu-da his saye plannge. Of these he loketh for equite / but for there is wronge for righteous-nesse / soe it is but misery.

B ¶ Wo to you that soyne one house to another / and bunge one lande so nygh vnto another / till ye can get no more grounde. Well ye dwelle vpon the earth alone. The Lozde of hostes rouneth me thus in myne care: Chal-nos may greater and more gorgious house be so walke / that no man shall dwell in them: And ten akers of vynee shall geue but a Quarte / and thyrtye bushels of offside shall geue but thre.

Wo de vnto them that ryse vp early to vse them selles in dyonenesse / and yet at night are like superfluous weth wyne. ¶ In thyrse co-panie are barpes a luto / tabiettes a pipea / and vyne. But they regard not the woise of the Lozde / and consider not the operation of his handes. ¶ Therefore commeth my folke also in captiuite / because they haue no vnderstan-dinge. Their glory shalbe myre with houg-er / a thyrty pybe shalbe marred for thyrse. Therefore gapeth hell / and openeth her mouth mar-uelous wyde / that pybe / boastyng and wysdome / with suche as reioyce therein / maye de-scende in to it.

¶ Thus shall man haue a fall / he shalbe brought lowe / a the high foles of the poude brought doune. But the Lozde of hostes / that holde Gods shalbe exalted and vntouched / he shall declare his equite and righteousnesse after this maner. Then shal the lambeas care they appoynted feeder / shal feeder plentifully in the mountaynes. Wo vnto vaine persones / that haue wekedne vnto them / as it were wuth a coide: and synne / as it were wuth a cart rope. Which vse to speake on this maner: let byrme make hayst now / and go forth with his woyle / that we maye see it. Let the countessall of the holy one of Israel come / and vnto nyce / that we maye see it.

¶ Wo vnto them that call euyl good / and good euyl: that make vayne lyyght / and lyght darkenesse: that make swete / and swete fower. ¶ Wo vnto them that are wyse in theyr owne syght / and thynke them selles to haue vnderstandinge. ¶ Wo vnto them that are runnyng men / to suppe out wyne / and experte to sette vp dyonenesse. ¶ These geue sentence with the vngodly for rewardes / but con-dempe the iust cause of the ryghteous.

¶ Therefore lyke as fyre lycech vpon the frame / and as the flamme consuming the stubble: Thus so (when that rote is ful) their blisshome shall vanish awaye like dust or smoke. For they despise the lawe of the Lozde of hostes / and blaspheme the woide of the holy maker of Israel.

¶ Therefore is the wrath of the Lozde kindled also against his people / a he shalch his hande vntoard them: yet he shall smyte so / that the helles shall tremble. And their carcasses shall lye in the open streete lyke myre. ¶ After all this / the warde of God shall not cease / but he shall and a steech he had out wyde. ¶ And he shall geue a token vnto a straunge people / and call vnto them in a farre countree / and beholde / they shall come hastily with speed. There is no one fayrte not feble amonge them / no / nor a slow gith nor slupery pafsonne. There shal not one of them put of the gyde from his byones / nor loose the lader of his shute. Their crowes are shapre: a thyrtye beuere deute. Their hostes hooses are lyke fyre: a thyrtye cartwheelce lyke a foamy wynde. Their crye is as it were of a Lyon / and the roaryng of them lyke Lyons whelpes.
They shall roare / and barych vpon the pyre / and no man shal reouer it: for get it from them. In that daye they shalbe so fearee vpon them as the see. And if we loke vnto the lande / beholde / it shalbe all darkenesse and fowre: ¶ If we loke to heauen / beholde / it shalbe darke with care-full desperation.

Yet / the gasse / a docteches moued at they amonge people that hath vncleane lippes also) should be the Byng: and Lord of hooves with myne eye.

Q Then fyre one of the Seraphims vnto me/ hauinge a bore cole in his hand / which he had taken fro the altar with the tinges / a touched my mouth / and sayde / thus hath toucht thy mouth / a thy vnghteousnes is taken away / a thy sinnes forguuen. After this herde I the voyce of the Lord rakinge aduysment on this maniere: Whome shall I sende / and who will be onre missaunger? Then sayde I: here am I / sende me. And so he said: go / a tel this people: I ye shall heare in dede / but ye shall not vnderstande / ye shall plainly see / and not perceaue.

And it happened in the tyme of Achas Kinge of Syria / Byng of Iudabitar Rezin the Kinge of Syria / a Pera Komeles sonne / Kinge of Israell: wente vp toward Jerusalem to beseege it / but wanne it not. Now whē the house of Dauid (Chario Achas. herde word therof) that Syria and Ephraim were confederate together: his herte qualid / see / a the hertes also of his people / hie as a tree in the selde / that is now dead with the wynde.

Then sayde God vnto Esay: go meete Achas (thou and thy sone Sear Jafid) at the heade of the water / in the forepart by the fullers ground / and see vnto him: take hede to thy self and be still / but feare not / neyther be faunted: for thesē two myles (a is) for thesē two smolinges: hie bades / the wate and furiousnesse of Rezin the Syrian / a Komeles sonne:

because that the Kinge of Syria / Ephraim / and Komeles sonne / haue wickedly conspired agaynst the / saynige: We wyl go downe into Iuda / wege them / and bringe them vnder vs / and set a Kinge there / euen the sonne of Talbal. And after fyre and thre score yere / shall Ephraim be named a people. And the chiefe cne of Ephraim is Samana / but the head of Samana is Komeles sonne. † And if ye beleeue not / there shall no piomye be kept with you.

Moreouer / a God spake vnto Achas / saynige: require a token of the Lord: thy God / whether it be toward the West / or toward the East / or toward the North / or toward the South. Then sayde Achas: I will require none: neyther will I tempte the Lord. The Lord also answered: Then heare to ye of the house of Dauid: So it not nowgynge for you that ye be greuous vnto me / but ye must greue my God also: And therof: the Lord: I shall greue you a token of himself: † Behold: a Maide virgin shall conueue and beare a sonne / and Lucij shall call his name Emanuel. Buter a hony shall be care / that he maye knowe the euell / and chose the good. nor Jerusalem and Samaria. Shall I not be vnto Jerusalem and their ynaguo/as I byd vnto Samaria a their ynaguo?

Wherfore the Lo:de sayeth as sone as I haue persecuted my whole woefe vpon the Hyll of Zion and Jerusalem / then will I also vnto the noble and slouthe kynge of Affi ria / with his wyf dome and pvide. For he stand eth thus in his owne concaite: I Tho do I reioyce the power of mine owne hande / and thow we my wifedom: for I am wyfe / I am be that remoueth the landes of the people / I robbe their princes / and lyke one of the wou thies / I vyue them from their hie feares.

My hande hath found oure the hostes of the people / as it were a nest. And lyke as egges / that were layde here and there / are gathered together: So do I gather all countreys. And there is no man that barre de so bolde / as to touch a feather: that barre open his mouth / or ouer wipeth.

But heareth the eye boost it selfe / againste him that heareth therewith: heareth the same make any crafynge againste him that ruleth it: that were euen lyke / as if the roe byd crafte it selfe againste him / yf heareth it: as as though he sayd / should magnifie it selfe / as who saye: it were no wood.

Wherfore shal the Lo:de of boosles sende him pouerite in his ryches / and burne vp his power / as it were with a fyre.
But the light of Israel shalke that fyre / and his Sarcuary shalke the flame / as it shal kinde and burne vp his thornes and thieres in one day: yea all the glorie of his wooddes and fild shalbe consumed with bodie and soule. As for him selfe: he shalbe as one sheed awaye. The tree also of his fild shalbe of such a nubié / that a chyld maie tell them.

After yf daye shal the remnaunte of Israel / and such as are escaped out of the house of Ja cob / seke nomaie comforte at him that smote them. But shal comforte them / like with saith fulness and truth in the Lo:de: the holy one of Israel. The remnaunt / yee / and the poster yete of Jacob / shal conuerite vnto God the myghty one. I For though the people of Is rael: be as the sande of the keye / shal but the remnaunt of them onely conuerite vnto him.
Deferte is the iudgemente of him that flo ureth in ryghtheousnesse / and therfore the Lo:de of boosles shal perfectly fulfill the thynges that he hath decreed / in the mids des of the whole worlde. Therfore thus saith the Lo:de God of boosles: Thou my people that dwillest in Zion / be not afrayde for the kynges of the Assirians: he shal wagge his scaf at the see / and beate the with the rodde / as the Egyprians byd somtyme: But sone after shal my wrath and my indignacion be fulfilled againste their Blasphemies.

Moreover the Lo:de of boosles shal prepare a scurge for bym. I Lyke as was the punyssh ment of Madian vnto the mounte of Och.
And he shal lyfte vp his rodde oure the see / as the byd somtyme oure the Egyprians. Then shal be his burthen be taken from thy shoul ders / and his yoke from thy necke / yee / the same yoke shal corrupte for verry fastnesse. He shal come to Ziath / and go thowre towarde Nigron. But at Nischanas shal be muller his boost / and go oure the foote. Gaba shal be their restinge place / Rama shalbe a fraire / Gaba Saul shal be a maie. The voice of the noyse of the boosles / vnto Gallim shalbe herde vnto Lars and to Anathoth / whiche also shalbe in trouble. Madmena shal tremble for feare / but the citeisins of Gabim are manly / yet shal be remayne at Nod that daye. After that shal be lyfte vp his hande againste the mounte Zion / and againste the hyl of Jerusa lem. But se the Lo:de God of boosles shal take awaye the proude / and thence with feare.
He shal beere boune the proud / and selde the hie mynded. The thornes of the wood shalbe ro ted oure with frost / and Libanus shal haue a myghty fall.

The XI. Chapter.

After this yf there shall come a robbe vnto the fyndes of Iesse / and a blast Mat. i. a som shal springe out of his rote. The spere of the Lo:de shal lyghte vpon the spere of Luc. iij. b wifedom: a vnderstanding: the spere of cois / and vnto saill a strength: yf spere of knowlde / as of the feare of God: and shall make him seruente in the feare of God. For he shal not geue sentence after the thynges that shalbe broughte before his eyes / neither reioyce a manner at the fynde bearing: but with ryghtheousnesse shal he iudge the poore / and with holynesse shal he reforme the ismple of the worlde.

When the Lord wilde merciful vnto Jacob / and wil take vp Israell againe / and set them in their owne lande. Strangers shal cleue vnto them / and get them to the house of Jacob. They shall see the people / and carry the home with them. And the house of Israel shal haue them in possession for seruantes / as maydens in the lande of the Lord. They shall take those prisoners / whose captiues they had bene afore / and ryle those that had oppressed the. When the Lord now shal bringe to the rest / from the trauayle / feare / and hard bandage that thou wast laden withall / then shalt thou see this mockeage upon the syng of Babylon / and saye / Howe happeneth it that the oppositer leauey of? If the golden tribute come to an ende / Doubtes the Lord hath broke the staffe of the yngobis / and the cepter of the lordly. Yet vaine I saye / for thou shalt be brought downe to the repp of hell. They that se the shal narrowly lobe upon the / and saye / c they thinke in them selves / sayinge / To who the ma that thought all landes in feare / and made the kyngdomes afraid? To who he that made the world in a maner / wast lande / layde the eyes to the grounde / whiche la not his prisoners go downe?

vs/ as the tyrante discher vs out of our land.
 But the throne of youre kingdome is full of grace/ therefore he hath stretcht upon it to saith-fulnesse/ and trust in the house of Dauid/knowe the thinge a do his diligence to helpe Iosue/ iacob bringe to equite and righteous-nesse. 1. So for Moabes poyde it is well knowne.
 And al though they be excellent/ proude/ are rogant/ and hie mynded/ yet is their strenght nothinge lyfe. And therefore Moab complain-eth vnto Moab/ wchere thow we they come al to mourne/ and now that they be finit/ they take their vantage benefit by the victual/ and make their complainte.

The suburbs also of Geshon were made wayll/ and the pynnes of the Gentiles bewead vnto the vineyardes of Sidma/ which were planted with noble grapes/ and spide vnto Iazer/ and wrote vnto the ende of the desert/ wchese brouches steeched their selles forth beyonde the see. Therefore I mourned for Iazer/ a for the vineyardes of Sidma with greatesoorne. I poured my teares vpon Geshon and Ekale/ for all their songes were layde vnto in their harvest/ and gatheringe of theye grapes: Myrrh and there was gone out of the felde and vineyardes/ in so muche that no man was glad nor songe. There write no treader into the wyngnesse/ their mery there was laide vnto. Wherefore my belly rembled (as it had bene a lute) for Moabes selfe/ a myne inward members/ for the bucke walkes safe. For it happened thus also: when Moab sawe that he was turned vnto vnto/ he wente vp an hie into her Sanctuary/ to make her prayer there/ but she might not be helped. This is the deuoye whiche the Loide toke in haunde at that tyme a gainste Moab. But nowe the Loide seeth thus: In the yere shall the power of Moab with their pompe/ which is great/be ministred/ like as the burthen of an hbred seruant. And as for the remnant of them/they shalbe lesse then a fewe/ and nor refused muche more.

The XVII. Chapter.

This is the heauy burthen vpon Damascus: wcholdre/ Damascus shalbe no more a citie/ but an heape of broken stones.
 The citie of Atoer shalbe wast. The castell shal be there/ a woman shal fraie the way. 2. phazam shal no more be stronge/ a Damascus shal no more be a kingdome. And as for the glory of the remnant of the Sidma/ it shalbe as the glory of the children of Israel/ saier the Loide of hostes. At that tyme also shall the glory of Iacob be verye poore/ and his familye leane. It shal happen to them/ as when one beareth in harvest/ which cutteth his hande full with the sickle/ a when one gathereth the sheaves together in the valley of Rephaim/there remaineth yet some ayres ouer. 1. So as when one shafeth an oliue tree/ if he findeth two or thre oliue berries/ about in the toppes/a four or fyve in the brouches. Thus saith the God of Israel hath spoken.

Then shal man conuertes againe to his maker/ a turne his eyes to the holy one of Israel.
 And I shall not turne to the altiers that are the worke of his owne handes/ neither shal be loke vpon groues a images/ whiche his syn-gers haue wroughte. At what tyme shall their stronge citie be desolate/ like as were once the forsake plowes a coines/ whiche they foifolde/ for feare of the children of Israel.

Thus shalt thou O Damascus/ be desolate/because thou hast forgotten God thy sauour/a hast not called to remembreance the rocke of thy strenght. Wherefore thou shalt also see a faire plowes/ a grafted a stronge brouche.
 In the yere when thou shaldest plant it/ it was greates/ a gaue sone the fruite of thy seede: But in the yere of harvest/ thou shalt reape an heape of sorrowes and miserie.

Who be to the multitude of muche people/that rustle in the see/ and to the heape of folke/ that renne ouer all the greates waters.
 1. For though so many people increas as the flowinge waters/ and though they be armed/yet they ste farr of/ and vanishe awaye like the vnt with the wynde vpon an hil/ and as the whyrle wynde thow as a stone. Though they be feare/ full as nyght/ yet in the morninge it is gone with them. This is their poyson that do vs harme/ and the heritage of them that robbe vs.

Thus the Lord shall synce Egypte/and heale it againe: and so shall they turne to the Lord: and he also shall haue in crey upon them/and saue them. Then shall there be a comon waye out of Egypte into Assyria: The Assyrians shall come into Egypte/and the Egyptians into Assyria. The Egyptians also and the Assyrians shall both haue one Gods surer. The Lord shall haue honour be the tribute to Egypte and Assur. And the Lord of hostes shall blesse them/ sayinge: Blessed is my people of the Egyptians/ Assur: the worke of my handes / but Israel is myne inheritaunce.

The heauy burthen upon the valley of Visiona.

What haste thou there to do / thou shalt nest vp in to the house toppc / o thou citie of miracles / scdyous and wifull / synging / thy flame me are nether killed with swerde / nor dead in betrayle: For all thy captaines gat them to thers heikes from the ordinaunce / yee they are altogether rydden awaye / and fled farre of. When I perceaued that / I sayde: I as waye for me that I maye wepe bitterly. Take no labour for to comfort me / as touching the destruction of my people. For this is the daye of the Lord of hostes / when he will plague / treade downe / and treade out the valley of Visiona / and breake downe the walles with such a crack / that it shall geue a soude in the mountaine.

Beholde / the Lord shall call the out by violence / he will take the of another fashion / and put vnto the a straight clothe. He shall carie the in to a farre countie / like a ball with hys handes. There shalt thou dye / there shall the pompe of thy charrettes haue an ende: thou wiltillane of the house of Iuda: I will shute the out of thine office / a purthe from thine estate.

After this will I call my seruantes Elchim / the sonne of Helia / and arcey him with thy coate / and gyde him / with thy gyble / and I will geue thy power in to his hande. He shall be a father of the cinesins of Jerusalem / and of the thymred of Iuda. I will also laye the keye of Dauids house upon his shoulder: and if he open / no man shall shute: a if he do shute / no man shall open. I will fasten him to a nayle in the place of the moost hye sayrfulness: and be shalbe vnto y glorious throne of his fathers house. They shall hange vnto hym all the glory of hys fathers house / of the dydden and dydders dydden / all apparell smal and great / all instrumentes of measure and mystre. The Lord shall visite the cite of Tyrie/ and it shall come agayne to her marchauntyse/ and shall occupye with all the kyngdomes that be in the world. ¶ But all her occupiange and mynyng/ shall be halowed vnto the Lord. For then shall they laye vp no thinge behinde then not vpon shrapes: but the marchandise of Tyrie shall belonge vnto the custome of the Lord/ and to the redouge/ and sustayninge of the hungrye/ and to the clothyng of the aged.

The XXXIII. Chapter.

Beholde/ the Lord shall visit a plague vnto the world/ he shall make the face of the earth desolate/ and scare abroade the inhabitants thereof. The Lord shall the people as hee prospereth the master as the seruante/ the dame life y mayde: the seller life the buyer: he that lendeth vpon usury/ life him that borroweth vpon usury: the creditoure as the detter. Miserably shall the world be wastled a cleane destroyed. For the Lord hath so determined in him self. The earth shall be heauy and decaye. The face of the earth shall perish a sal awaye/ the proude people of the world shall come to nauight/ for the earth is corrupte of her inuellers.

For why/ they haue offended y lawe/ Iacobus y ged the obduraunce/ a made the euertlastinge restamts of none effice. And therefore shall the curse deuaure the earth: for they that bened thereon/ haue synned. Wherefor they shall beuent also/ and those that remayne/ shall be very fewe. The surete wyne shall inuourne/ the grapes shall be weake/ and all that haue bene myth in here/ shall sige. The myth of subiectes shall be layde doune/ the chere of the ioyful shall cease/ and the pleasure of lutes shall haue an ende/ there shall no more wyne be dronke with myth/ the byer shall be bitter so the that drinke it/ the wicked cytes shall be broken doune/ all houses shall be flint/ that no man maye come in.

In the streets shall there be life vnto a crye/ because of wyne/ all men there shall name the awaye/ and all ioye of the earth shall passe. Desolacion shall remayne in the cytes/ and the gates shall be smytten with wastynesse. For it shall happen vnto all landes and to all people/ life as when a man smyteth doune the foliages/ that are left vpon y tree: sikest after grapes/ when the wyne gatheringe is out. And thof some that remayne/ shall life vpon their voyce/ and be glad/ a hal magnifie the glory of the Lord/ euen frō the see/ and praise the name of the Lord God of Israell/ in the valles and Ilandes. We here songes singe to the praise of the righteous/ from all the eutens of the world. Therefore I muste speake: O my Confructuallnesse /o my poyntre / Wo is me / all is full of synners / which offende of purpose and malice. And therefore / Co thou that dwellest upon the earth / where is at hande for the / fcare / fpyt and snare. Wo so / escapeth the terrible crye / that fall in to the ppyt. And if he come out of the ppyt / he shal be taken with the snare. For the myndes aboue / shal be opened / and the foundation of the earth shal moue.

Jer. lxxij

The earth shal geue a great cracke / it shall haue a fote ruyne / and take an horrible fall. The earth shal lacker like a dyanten man / and be taken awaye like a tent. Her mysdoes shal lic so becaue vpon her / that she muste fall / and neuer rise vp againe. At the same time shal the Lozde moue together the hie booste aboue / and the finges of the world / vpon the earth. These shal be coupled together as ppynters be / and shal be but in one worde / a punished innumerable dayes. The Moone and the Sunne sh. be ashamed / when the Lozde of hostes shal rule them at Jerusalem vpon the mount Sion before / and with his excellent counsayll.

Luc. xxi c

The. XXV. Chapter.

W Lord / thou set my God / I wil praise /y and magnify thy name. For thou bringest marauylous thynges to passe / according to thine olde couysayls / truly a stedfastly. Thou makest of stones / capes of stone: a of beede / c / tickes / holde walles. The palaces of the wicked destroyest thou out of the cime / that they shall neuer be builded againe. Therefore / very rude people must magnifie the / and the cyncs of the cruel / they then must feare the. For thou art the poore mans helpe / a strength for the needfull in the necessity. Thou art a defence againste euil / weyher / a shewde againste f hate. But vnto the presumptuous / thou art like a stronge whyle wynde / that casteth downe / f boasting of the vngodly / thou kepest men from deare with the shadewe of the cloudes / thou curst of the handes of freynikes.

Luc. xxiij. d

B Mooueth the Lozde of hostes shal once prepare / a feast for all people vpon the hylle. A plentious / costly / pleasaunt feast / of ear and welld beastes / of fowres and moost pure thynges. Vpon the hylle shal be take awaye the hyde wale / that hangeth before the face of all people / and the courney / wherewith all Gentiles are couered. Wo for deathe / he shal wretchely con / Ostrate sume it. The Lozde God shal wipe awaye / the reared from all faces / and take awaye the / confusio of his people / vpon the whole and mo / woilde. For the Lozde him selfe hath sayde it.

At the same time shal it be sayde / lo / thus is our God / in whome we put our trust / and the hath healed vs. This is the Lozde that Ephraim haue weared for / Let vs reuoyce and delite in his saluation. For the hande of the Lozde reacheth vpon this hylle. But Moab shal be destroyed downe vnder his / hys / as the straw to troden vnder fete in a doinge hylle. For he shall stretch out his handes vpon him / hys / as a swimmer doeth to swimme. And with the power of his handes shall be cast downe his hys pompe. As for his stronge holdes and hys walles he shal borre them / cast them downe / and sell them to the grounde in to dust.

The. XXXI. Chapter.

When shal this songe be soung in the lade / of Juda. We haue a stronge crite / wale / no rickes and the ordinaunce shal kepe vs. Open Zachary the gates / that the good people maye go in / which laboureth for the truth. And thou / which art the doer / a hall the matter in hnde / shall prouyde for peace. Then the peace that Rome men hope for in the. Hope sty in the Lozde / for in the Lozde God is everlasting strength. For why / it is he that bungeeth love the hys / minded cyncs / a casteth downe the poynde cyncs. He casteth them to the grounde / yee / euen in to the myre / that they maye be troden vnder the fete of the simple / and with the stepes of the poore. Thou / Lozde / countess the path of / righteous / whiche it is right / wherther the waye of / righteous be right. Therefore / Lozde / we haue a respecte vnto / waye of thy iudgement / thy name and thy remembrance reioyce the soule. My soule lusteth after the all the nyght longe / and my minde hasteth fely to the. For as soon as thy iudgement is knowne to the world / the / tribulations of the earth leaue righteous. But the / vngodly / though be haue receued grace / yet learne they be not righteousnesse / but in that place where he is punished he offendet / and feareth not the glory of the Lozde.

Lozde / they will not see thine hande / but they shal see it / and be confounded / when thou valley/it shall happen vnto hym / as to an vny-melye fruite before / haruocle come. Whiche as some are to be sene / so by and by deuoured / as euer it come well in a mans hande.

And then shall the Lorde of hostes be a ioyfull croune / and a glorious garlande vnto the remanant of his people. Vnto the lowly / he shall be a specter of iudgment: and vnto them that vnto awaye the enemyes foyn D the gates / he shall be a specter of strenght. But they go wronge by the reason of wyne / they fall and flacker because of stronge wyne.

Esa. iij.

¶ Yee / euen the priestes and prophets them-and weaken byened thowt stronge dunke.

They erre in seinge / and in iudgment they stillynes / that no place is cleane. What is he ¶ And therfore the Lorde also shall speake with lippinge lippes / and with a straunge language vnto this people / to reboune be spake as of this maner: Theye shall bunge rest / if one reuolue the weery / yee / this shall bring rest. But they had no wyll to heare.

And therfore the Lorde shall aunswere them E stubborne / I commaunde that maye be com-that maye be forbydden: kepe backe that maye be kepte backe: here a lile / there a lile. ¶ That they maye go forth / fall backwarde / be bruse sed / stoned / and taken. Wherfore heare the woide of the Lorde / ye mockers that rule the Lorde's people / whiche is at Jerusalem.

For ye comfort your selues thus. ¶ Thus: death and we are at a point: and as for hell / we haue made a condicion with it: that though there breake out any sore plague / it shall not come vpon vs. For with disceate wyll we escape / and with mynblenes wil we defende our selues. Therfore thus sayeth the Lorde God: ¶ Beholde / I will laye a stone in Sion / a greate stone / a costly corner stone for:
a sure foundation: that who so putteth his trust in hym / shall not be confounded. Righteousnes wyll I set vp agayne in the balauance / and iudgment in the weyghtes. ¶ The tempest of of hayle shall take awaye youre reynge / that ye haue to disceate wyll: and the ouerflo-wing waters shall breake doune your stronge holdes of dissimulation. ¶ Thus the appoyntment that ye haue made with death / shall be done awaye: and the condicion that ye made with hell / shall not stande. When the great destruction goeth thowt / it shall all to reade you / It shall take you quyte awaye before it.

For it shall go forth early in the moynynge / and continue onely that daye and that night. And the very feare onely shall reach you when ye heare it. For the bedde shall be so narrowe / that a man can not lye vpon it. And the coveringe to small / that a man maye not wende himself therein. ¶ For the Lorde shall steepe forth as he dyd vpon the mount / ¶ Perayme / and shall take on as he dyd in the Dale of / ¶ Wherof: that he maye bunge forth his deuice / his straunge ¶ Quice: and fulfill his worke / his wonderfull worke. And therfore make no mockes at it: that youre captiue increaseth: for I haue herde / ¶ Lorde of hostes saye / that there shall come a sedit destruction / and plague vpon the whole earth. Take hede / a heare my voice / ponde and marke my woices wel. ¶ Forth not the house ande man cur in due season earnestly to his lande: he moueth and plo-weth his grounde to sowe. And when he plow-made it playne / he soweth it with saches of comyn. ¶ He soweth the wheate and barley in theyr place. Milium and Ric also in theyr place. And that he maye do it ryght / his God teacheth hym and directeth hym. For he reas-deth not the sines out with a waye / neyther bunge he the cart here and there out the comyn / but he thowteth the sines out with a flayle / and the comyn with a rad. So for the wheate / he gryndeth it to make breade thereof.
¶ In as much as he can not bunge it to passe with treading out. For neyther the buffing that the cart wheles make / neyther his bestles can grunde it. This and such like thinges come of the Lorde of hostes / whiche is marueylous in counsaill / and great in ryghteousnesse.

 ye shallc be at youre wretted ende: ye shallc be

 But if it be geuen to one that is not learned:

 he: I can not rede.

fulke chawes.

But ye shal singe/as the vsic is in the night pared the fyre of payne from the beginning/lusty and stronge. But they regarde not the holy one of Zffraill/ and they aske no question

And he shal fle from the slaughter/ and his seruauntes shalbe taken prisoners. He shall wycy shall assayne to knowlege/ and the vnpartytynge shall speake playnly and vni-callyd gentile/ nor the churle lyherall. But the churle wyl be churlyshlye mynded/ and his herte wyl reuice euell and playe the ypotrite/

Jer. 1. c

Now herken to ye that are farre of / howe I do with them: and consider my glory / ye that be at hande. The synners at Zion are as fronds / a sodaine fearfulness is come vpon the pyccytors: what is he among vs / saye they / that will dwell by the consuming fyre: whiche of vs maye abyde that euill lasting heare: He that seeketh a godly life and spea / keth the truth: He that addireth to vs / vnto lence and vnto feare: he that freth his hande / that they soude no reward: whiche stoppeth his eares / that he heare no counsaill agaynst the innocente: whiche holdeth vnto his eyes / that he se no euell. He it is that shall dwell on hye / whose sauergarde shall be in the true rocke / to hym shall geuen the ryghte true meate and vyne. His eyes shall see the finge in his glory in the ryche woode: / his better shall delte in the care of God. vnto that shall then become of the serbe / of the Denarioure: what of him that reacheth vnto: There shall thou not se a people of a strange ungeto / haue so viffused a language / that it maye not be vnderstande: neyther so straying a speache / but it shall be perceaued.

great ehyppie foyle. for the Lozde shalbe oure captayne: the Lozde shalbe oure lawe geuer: the Lozde shalbe oure King: and he him self shalbe oure Sauour. There are the coardes so layde aboade: that they can not be better: The masse let vp of suche a fashion: that no banner nor fagge hangeth theron: But there is heald great spoyles: lame men runne after the prise. There lyeth no man that sayeth: I am hysc. But all end is taken awaye from the people that dwell there.

The XXXIII. Chapter.

Come ye Heithen and heare: take heede ye people. Heften thou earth and all that is therein: thou rounde compass: and all that groweth thereupon: for the Lozde is angrye with all people: and his displeasure is kindled againste all the multitude of them: to curse them: and to laye them. So that their slaine shalbe cast out: and their bodies syncke: thar euen the very hills shalbe wet with the bloude of them. All the starres of heauen shalbe consumed: and the heauen shall folde together lyke a scrol: and all the starres thereof shall fall lyke as the leaues fall from the vyenes and figgetrees. For my swearde, sayeth he: shalbe bathed in heauen: and shall immediatly come downe vpon Iudaea: and vpon the people whom I haue cursed for my vengeance.

B And the Lordes swearde shalbe ful of bloude: and he ruste with the same: and bloude of lambs and goats: with the fatnesse of suetes of the wetheres. for the Lozde shal kyl a greete straffe in Egipt: and in the land of Iudaea. There shall the Unicorne fall with the Bullocke: that is with the graunt. In their lande shalbe washed with bloude: and their grounde corrupte with fatnesse.

Vnto the alse: Egipt shall come the daye of the vengeance of God: and the year: wher so thine owne iudgements shalbe recompered. Thy floudes shalbe turned to pytt: and thine earth to Gumslane: and therewith shal the lande be fended: so that it shal not be quenched. Daye nor nyght: But smokc euen more: and so fasth to flye wastie. And no man shal goe thowme by lande for cure: But Delicacies: flowers: greete Oules: and Rauens shal haue it in possession: and dwell therein.

For God shal speede oute the lyne of desolation vpon it: and wyce it with the stones of emptines. When Kinges are called vpon: they shalbe none: and all princes shalbe awaye. Thounes shal growe in their palayces: nettles and thistles in their stronge holdes: that the dragons maye haue their pleasure therein: and that they maye be a court for the fowles. There shall straunge, viures and monstrous bestes meete one another: and they wyde kepe company togerher. There shall the lamia lyce: Tren. vii. a and haue her lodginge. There shall the hedgehogge: Guilde: Wygge: be there: at home: and bringe forth his yongones. There shall byres come togerher: eche one to his lyce. Take thoume the scripture of the Lozde and rede it. There shall none of those thynges be lefte oute: there shal not one (no: suche lyce) faste. For what his mouthe comāndeth: that same doeth his spere gather togerher: or fillyp: lyth. Vpon whome fouer the lot faller: so to whome he beareth it with the syncke: those shall possess the enheritaunce: from generation to generation: and dwell therein.

The XXXV. Chapter.

Whe the desert and wylde nesse shal reioyce: the waste grounde shall be glad: and floyst as the lilly. She shal floyst pleasantly and be ioyfull: and euer be geuinge of thankes more and more. For the gloys of Libanus: the Gentie of Carmel and Saron shall be geuen her. These shall knowe the honoure of the Lozde: and the maiestie of oure God. And therfore strengthe the weak hands: and comforte the feeble knees. Saye vnto them that are of a fearefull herte:

Be of good herte: and feare not. Beholde: Ocut. vi. a your God cometh: to take vengeance: and a p. vi. b to rewarde: God cometh his owne self: and wil deliuer you. Then shall the eyes of the Mart. xi. a blinde be lighted: in the cares of the deaf open: and you need. The blind shal lince man scape as an hart: Luc. vi. c. The Domme mans sigge shall geue thales. D. vi. v. a. In the wylde nesse also there shall welles be springe: and floudes of water in the desert. E. vi. c. The wyde grounde shal turne to ryuers: and the thyrstie to springes of water. Where as dragons dwelt afore: there shal growe fure flowers and grene vis: lyce. There shall be footpithes and cūnon streets: that shalbe called the holy waie. No vnclene person shal goe throue it for the Lorde himselfe shal goe with them that waie. The ignouant shal not erre. There shal be no Lion/and no rauishing Beaste shal come theraun nor be there. But men shal goe there as a safe. And the redeemed of the Lorde shal conuerse/and come to Sion with thankesguynges. Everlasting ioye shal they haue/placure and gladnes shal be amongst them. And as for al forouer a beautifull citie shal manife the waie.

The XXXVI. Chapter.

IN the xiiij. year of kynges Ezechias/came Sennacherib King of the Assyrians downe to laye siege vnto all the stronge cyties of Iuda. And the kyng of the Assyrians sent Rabshas from Ladiis towards Jerusalem/a gaunte kyng Ezechias: with a greuous host/whiche hit him by the conduite of the ouerpole in the waye that goeth throue the fillers lande. And so there came forth vnto him Ezechias the kyng of Iuda. And hee was with him Ezechias the kyng of Iuda. And hee was with him Ezechias the kyng of Iuda. And hee was with him Ezechias the kyng of Iuda.

And Rabshas sayde vnto them: Tell Ezechias that the greake kyng of Assyria sayeth thus vnto him: What presumption is this/that thou trustest vnto: Thou thyselfe peraduenture that thou haste counsell and power ynough to maynteyne this warre: or cle weproue trustest thou/that thou castest thy selfe from me to the Lord thy God? I have taken the slay of reba. I meane Egypte. Which be they that are taken vpon it goeth into his hande/and I smite him throue. Euen so is Pharao the kyng of Egypte/whom all they that truste in him. But if thou woldest saye to me: We truste in the Lorde our God: A goodlye god in yede: whiche bye places and altars Ezechias toke downe/and commaunded Iuda and Jerusalem/ to worships onely before the altar. Whyde the/that thou haste made a condicion with my leade the kyng of the Assyrians/that he shoulde geue the two thousande hoises: Art thou able to sit men there vp? Seing now that thou canst not resist the power of the smallest prince that my lorde hath/ howe verest thou trust in the charrettes and hoises of Egypte? Moreover/whynest thou that I am come downe hither/ to destroye this lande without the Lordes wil? The Lorde saide vnto me: go downe into that lande/ that thou maist destroye it.

Then sayde Ezechias/Sobna and Iohab vnto Rabshas: Speake to us thy seruantes: we praye the. In the Sirians language/ for we vnderstande it well: And praye not to vs in the Jewes tongue/lest the tolke heare/ which heareth upon the wall. Then answered Rabshas: Thinke ye that the kyng of Iuda can speake this onely vnto you? Hath he not sent me to them also/that he open the walles: that they be not compelled to eate their owne douge/and drinke their owne steyle with you?

And Rabshas sode slif/and cryed with a loud voice in the Jewes tongue/and said: How take hede/ how the greake kyng of the Assyrians reueth you warninge. Thus saith the kyng: Let not Ezechias deceiue you/for he shal not be able to deliuer you. Moreover/ let not Ezechias comforte you in the Lorde/ when he sayeth: The Lorde without doubt shal defende vs/a shal not geue ouer this cytie into the hande of the kyng of the Assyrians/whiche him not. But thus sayeth the kyng of Assyria: opteyne my fauoure/ encline to me: So maye every man enioie his vineyardes and figgertrees/a drinke the water of his cisternes vnto the time that I come my selfe and bring you into a land/that is life your owne/where in is wheat and wyne/whiche is both sowen with seds/a plantid with vineyardes. Let not Ezechias deceiue you/when he saeth vnto you: the Lorde shal deliuer vs.

It mighte the goddes of the Gentiles spee every man his lande/that I power of the kyng of the Assyrians: Where is the God of Hephraim? And who was able to defende Samaria out of my hande? Or whiche of all the goddes of the landes hath deliuered their countrie out of my power/so that the Lorde shoulde deliuer Jerusalem fro my hande: Vnto this/whiche Ezechias mislaungers helde their tongues/and answered not one word: for I kyng had charged the/that they shoulde geue him none answer. So came Ezechias Ezechias sonne the president/Sobna the scribe/a Joab Zephania the secretary/vnto Ezechias with reure clothes/a tolde him wordes of Rabshas. The

The XXXVII Chapter.

Ezechias herde that he rente his clothes/ and put on a sackcloth/ and wrote into the temple of the Lozde. But he sent Ishaiah the President/ Sobna his scribe/ with the eldest pucles clothed in sacke/ vnto prophet Esay the sonne of Amos/ and they saide vnto him: Thus saith Ezechias/ this is the day of trouble/ of plague and of watch: like as when a childe cometh to the wyth/ but the woman hath no power to bunge it forth: the Lozde thy God/ no doubt/ hath well considered the woodes of Rablades/ whome his loide the kynge of the Assyrians hath sente/ to desye and blasphem the liuinge God: with such woodes as the Lozde thy God hath bene righte well. And therefore list vs thy prayer for the remnaunte/ that yet are left: So the seruantes of kynge Ezechias came to Esay.

And Esay gaue them this answer: Erie thus vnto your loide: thus saith the Lozde: Be not asfraid of the wordes that thou haste herde/ whether with the kynge of Assyrians seruantes haue blasphemed me. Beholde/ I wyl cause a wynde go ouer him/ as soon as he heareth it/ he shal go againe into his countre/ there wyl I destroye him with the sword. Now when Nabuchodonosor returned/ he founde the kynge of Assyria larynge sigte to Rabona/ so he had enderstande/ that he was separated fro Labay. For there came a rumoure/ that Terachas kynge of Ethiopia was come forth to warre against him.

And when the kynge of Assyria herde that he sente orde messanggers to kynge Ezechias/ with this commaundement: Owe thus to Ezechias kynge of Iuda: Let not thy God besecue the/ in whome thou hopest/ a succor: Jerusalem shal not be geuen into the handes of the kynge of Assyria. For thou knowest well how the kynge of Assyria haue handled all the landes/ that they haue subuerted/ and hopest thou to escape? Where the people of the Gentles/ whome my pogenitours conquered/ deliuered at any tyme/ thowtore their god? Is not namely/ Gogani/ Sarani/ Kicpp/ a the children of Eber/ which dwell at Elbasar: Where is the kynge of Hemath/ and the kynge of Arppad/ and the kynge of the ene Sopharusim/ Ana and Zua: Now when Ezechias had receaued the lettre of the messanggers/ and red it/ he wente vp into the house of the Lozde/ and opened the lettre before the Lozde. And Ezechias prayd before the Lozde on this manner: O Lozde of hostes/ thou God of Israel/ which dwellest upon t'berus: Thou arte the God/ that only is God of all the kingdomes of the wyldes/ for thou only hast created heauen and earth. Endeure thyne care Lozde/ and consider open thine eyes/ O Lozde/ and se/ and ponde at the wordes of Sennacherib/ which hath sent his embassage to blasphemeth/ the liuinge God. It is true/ O Lozde/ that the kynge of Assyria haue conquered all kingdomes and landes/ a cast their goddes in the fyre. Notwithstanding/ those were no goddes/ but the workes of mens handes/ of wood/ of stone/ therefore haue they destroyed them. Olycur was them/ O Lozde our God/ from the handes of Sennacherib/ all kingdomes of the earth maye knowe/ that thou only art the Lozde. Then Esay the sonne of Amos sente vnto Ezechias/ sayng thus saith the Lozde God of Israel: Where as thou haste made thy prayer vnto me/ as touching Sennacherib/ this is the answer: that the Lozde hath geuen concerning him: Olypsid erre thou/ and meced/ O daughter of Sion/ he hath shakten his head/ as the/ O daughter of Jerusalem. But thou Sennacherib/ whome hast thou desired as blasphemed: And against whome hast thou lifted vp thy voice/ and cald thy proude lokes/ euen against the holy one of Israel/ Thou with thy seruantes hast blasphemed the Lozde/ and thou holdest thou of thy selfe: I couer the hye mountaines/ and fyres of Libanus with my hoismen/ And there wil I cut doune the hye Cedre trees/ and the sayrsil fyre trees. I wyl vp into the heyth of it/ and into the chieft of his synche woodes. If there be no water/ I wyl graue and dunke. And as for waters of defence/ I shal drye them vp with the ser of myne boosie. Deck/ sayest thou/ best thou not herbe what I haue taken in hande/ and brought to passe of old tyme? That I wil I do now also/ wyl I destroye/ and bunge the stronge ciues vnto heape of stones/ for their inhabiours shal be yse lanie nien/ boughre in feare and confounded. They shall be like the grass and grene herbes in the selde / yf the they upon boules / ppyes / that withereth afore it be grown vp.

E I knowe thy wayes / thy goinge south and thy cominge home / yet / and thy madnesse as gainst me. Therefore thy furiousnesse against me / and thy pride is come before me. I wyl put a clype in thy nose / and a bridle in the chawes of the / and turne the about / uen the same waye thou camest. I wyl geue the also this token (O Ezechias) this yere shalt thou eate that is Pepte in sioure / and the next yere sude as groweth of him selfe / and in the thide yere ye shall sowe and reape / yet ye shall plant wyneyardes / and enioye the frutes thereof.

And sude of the house of Iuda as are escaped / shall come together / and the remnant shall take rote Beneth / and bringe forth frute about. For the escaped shall goe oute of Ierusalem / and the remnant from the mount Sion.
And this shall be the glory of the Lord of hostes bringe to passe. Therefore thus sayeth the Lord God concerninge the kynge of the Assyrans: He shall not come into the cytie / and shall thute no arrowe into it / there shall no shild burne it / neyther shall they graue assaulte it.
The same waye that he came / shall he returne / and not come at his cytie / sayeth the Lord God. And I wyl kepe and saue the cytie (sayeth he) for myne owne / and for my seruaunte Dauidas sake.

¶ Thus the angell wente south / and slewe of the Assyrans booke an cxxx. thousande.

¶ And when men arose vpon early (at Ierusalem) Beholde / all laye ful of dead bodyes. So Senenacher the kynge of the Assyrans brake vp / and wente at Ninne. Afterwarde it decayed as he was pryed in the Temple of Iesarth his god / that Adamaled and Serazer his owne sonnes slewe him with the sword / and fled into the lande of Ararat. And Iesarth had his sonne resgued after him.

The XXVIIII. Chapter.

I In longe afore this / was Ezechias dead of Amos came vnto hym / and sayde: Thus commaunded the Lord God: See thine house in order / for thou must dye / a shal not escape.

¶ Then Ezechias turned hys face towards the wall / and prayd vnto the Lord God / and sayde: Remembre (O Lord God) that I haue walked before the in trouth / and a stedfast herte / and haue done the thinge that is pleasant to the.
And Ezechias wept sore. Then sayde God vnto Esay: Go and speake vnto Ezechias.
The Lord God of Dauid thy father sen-teth this word: I haue herde thy prayer / and considered thy reare: Beholde / I wyl Ierusalem purge / yeres mo vnto thy life / and deliuer the and the cytie also from the bande of the kyng of Assira / so: I wyl defende the cytie.
¶ And take the this token of the Lord God / that he wyl do it as he hath spoken: Beholde / I wyl returne the shadowes of Iehos Wall / that now is layd out with the Sunne / and bring it ten degrees backe ward. To the Sunne turned ten degrees backe ward / the which he was descended afore.

¶ Thanksgynges / which Ezechias kyg of Iuda wrote / when he had bene sick / and was recovered.

I thought I shoulde haue gone to the gartes of hell in my best age / and haue wanted the residue of my yeres.

I spake within my selfe: I shal neuer viste the Lord God in this life: I shal neuer see man amonge the dwellers of the world.

Myne age is solde vp together / and take awaye for me / like a shepheardes cottage: my lyfe is betwen of life as a weauer cutteth of his webbe.

Whyle I was yet taking my rest / he bowed me of / and made an ende of me in our daye.

I thought I woulde haue lyued vnto the Job moner / but he brusht my bowe lyke a Lion / and made an ende of me in our daye.

Then charged I like a swalowe / and like a craine / and mourned as a Dove.

I lift vp mine eyes into the heigths: O Lord God / haide I violente is done vnto me / be thou suerre for me.

Whar shal I speake of / sayeth he / maye this good / that I maye liue out all my yeres / yee in the bitternesse of my lyfe?

Verely (Lord) I must liue in bitterness / and all my lyfe must I pass: since then: For thou restest me vp / and wastest me. But lo / I with the wel content with this bitternesse.

Neither shall thy conversion have so pleasure as thou wouldst not make an ende of my life so that thou hast cast all my sinnes be hind: thy Back.

For bell playeth nor the / death doeth not magnify the.

They that go down into the grave / playe not thy trumpet but the mourning / see the living acknowledge the sinner as I do this daye. The father telleth his chyldren of thy saythfulness.

Deliver us O Lord and we will sing psalms in thy house all the dayes of our life.

And Esay sayde: take a playster of hygges / and laye it upon the sore / so shall it be whole. Then sayde Esay: What a great thinge is this that I shall go up into the house of the Lord.

The XXXIX. Chapter.

Of the same time Merodach Balad / King of Babilon somme Kinge of Babilon sent letters and peticions to Esayias. So he vnderstande how that he had bene sick / and was recovered againe. And Esayias was glad thereof / a shewed them the comodities of hye measure of syluer / of golde / of spices and rootes of precious oyles / all that was in his cupboards and treasure houses. There was not one thinge in Esayias house / and so sheweth out all his Kingdome / but he let them see it.

Then came Esay the prophet to King Esayias / and saide vnto him: What haue the me saide / and from whence came they vnto thee? Esayias answered: They came out of a faire countie vnto me out of Babilon. Esay said: what haue they loked vpon in thine house? Esayias answered: All that is in myne house haue they sene / and there is nothinge in my treasure / but I shewed it them.

Then saide Esay vnto Esayias: Vnderstande the woode of the Lord of hostes.

Behold the time wil come / that euery thinge which is in thine house / and all that thy proudneours haue laide up in store vnto this daye / shall be carryed to Babilon / and nothinge left behynde. Thus sayeth the Lord: Yee / and parte of thy sinnes that shall come of thee / and whome thou shalt get / shall be carryed hence / and become golde chaumbrelaynes in the kinge of Babilons court. Then sayde Esayias to Esay: Now God prosper his owne counsaill / which thou haste tolde me. He saide moreover: So that there be peace / and safte fulnesse in my time.

The XL. Chapter.

Of good here my people / be of good there. Saith your God: Comforte Jerusalem / and tell her: that her treuante is an ende / that her offence is pardoned / that she hath receaued of the Lordes hande sufficient correction for all her synnes. I wyll crye out: Prepare the waye for the Lord: in the wilderness / make straight the path for our God in the deserte. Let all valles be exalted / and euery mountayne and hyl be layde lowe. What so is exalted / let it be made straight: / let the rough places be made plaine seldra. For the glory of the Lord shall appeare / and as she be shall see in: why / the mouth of the Lord hath spoken in.

The same voyce saith: How crye. And I sayde: what shall I crye? Then saith it: that as she be in grasse / and that all the bewme there of / is as the flour of the silde. Where the grasse is withered / the flour is alleth awaye. Euen so is the peple as grasse / when the breath of the Lord bloweth vpon them. Neither shall / whether the grasse wyther / or the flour fade awaye: Yet the word of our God endureth for ever. Moreover the voyce crye thus: Go vp vnto the hyl of Zion / where the stronge hold is good wynges / lyfte up the voyce with power / without feare: and saye vnto the cities of Iuda: Behold / your wechthe / the Lord is here / when the almighty shall come with power: a feare rule with his arme. Behold / he bringeth his treasure with him / and his workes go before him. Behold / hee shall gather the lambe together with his arme / and carie them in his bosom: and shall kindly in treat: those that feare yonge.

Who hath holden the reatare in his fist / who hath measured heuen with his spanne / and hath comprehended all the carthe of the worlde in the fingers? Who hath reued the mountaynes and hylles? Who hath furnished the ynnde of the Lord: /

Beholde ye Israel/ that ye maye feare: and ye endes of the earth: that ye maye be abashed: that wyl rise/ and come hither. Every man hath exorted his neyghbour: and brother/ to bydden him be strange. The Smith comforted the moulder/ the Transmyth the hannerman/ sayinge: It shall be good/ that we fasten this cast worke/ and then they fastened it with nayles/ that it shoulde not be moued.

Or now: the Lord that made the Iacob / a he fashioned the Iacob / which thou: I feare not / for I wd defende / I have called the by thy name: thou art mine owne. When thou comest in the water / I was by thy side / the stronge floudes shoulde not plucke thee awaye: When thou walkest in the fysic / thal not burne the / a the flame shall not kindle the. for I am the Lord thy God / y holysone of Israel / thy Sauoure. I gaue Egypte for thy deliuerance / the Moians a the Sabeca for the: because thou wast deare in my sight / and because I lye by the / and loued the. I pulled all men for the / and deliuered vp all people for thy sake / that thou shouldest not feare / for I was with the. I wil bringe theye side fro the East / and gather the together from the West. I wil saye to the South: let go. And to the South: kepe not backe: But bringe me thynnesse from farre / and my daughter a from the entres of the world: Namely / all those that be called after my name: for them haue I created / fashioned / and made for myne honoure.

Bringe forth that people / whether they haue eyes / or be blinde / deaf / or haue eares. All nations shall come in one / and be gathered in one people. But whiche amonge youder goddes shal declare such thinges / and telde what is to come: Let them bringe their witness: so shall they be free: for then men shall haire it / and saye it to trathe. But I bringe you witness / sayeth the Lord: euen those that are my seruantes / to whome I haue chosen: to the intent that ye might be certified / and geue me faithfull credence: yet / and to confyde / I saye I am he / before whome there was neuer any God / and that there shalbe none after me. I am only the Lord. And / without me is there no Sauoure. I geue warninge: I make hole / I reach you: / there shoulde be no strange god amonge you. And this recorde must ye beare me youre selfe: sayeth the Lord: that I am God. And euen he am / I from the beginninge / and / there is none / that can take any thinge out of my hande. And what I do / can no man chaunge.

Thus sayeth the Lord the holysone of Israel / your redemer: / for your sake wil I sende to Babylon / and bringe all the strongest of them from thence: Namely / of Caldees that boast them of theyr shippes: & of the Lord your holy one whiche haue made Israel / and amoyntur hnge. Moreover thus sayeth the Lorde: ¶ Euen be that maketh a way in the sea / and a forpath in the mightie waters: ¶ Whiche bringeth forth the charrettes and ho: ses / the boosell and the power / that they may fall a slepe and neuer rise / and be cōnneted / life ¶ Remember now thinges of olde / and re: gards no thinge that is past. Therefore behold: I shall make a newe thinge / and shortly shall it apcare: Ye shall well knowe it: I tolde it you afore / but I will tell it you againe.

I will make streets in the desert / and ry:

wildernesse / and streames in the desert: that I may geue drinke to my people / whome I and they shall see the forth my prayse. For thou (Jacob) woldest not call upon me / but thou haddest an vnjust toward me: O Israel. Thou gauest me vnjuste sonne geastes for burnt of:

spice with thy money / neyther pourest thou the fat of thy sacrifices vpon me. ¶ Therefore I haue not ben chargeable vnto the in offeringe: neyther greuous in Inceance. But thou hast laden me with thy synnes / and weered me with thy vngodlines: Where as yet I am euen be onely / that for myne owne selfe synnes: so that I will neuer thinke vpon the.

¶ Dur me now in remedyaunce: for we will re:

The XLIII. Chapter.

¶ O heare now / o Jacob my seruante / a shall poure my spere vpon thy seed / and myne increace vpon thy stocke. They shall growe to: gether lyke as the grasse / and as the Willow by the waters side. ¶ One will saye: I am the Lorde. ¶ Another will call vnder the name of Jacob. The thyde shall subscribe with his hande vnto the Lorde / and geue hun self on:

der the name of Israel.

¶ Moreover thus hath the Lorde spoken: B euen the hnge of Israel and his auenger / the Lorde of hosties: ¶ I am the first / and the last / and without me is there no God. ¶ For rebathe be / that euer was lyke me / whiche am from euerlasting: Let him shew: his name / and do where he shoulde be: maye be thynked ¶ Wherefore all caruers of Idols are but a man / and according to the buyse of a man that is maye stande in a temple.

¶ Yet men nether consider nor vnderstande / because they: eyes are stopped / & they can not

They pōdie not in theyr mindes: for they haue neither knowledge (nor vnderstandinge) to Consider this: O Jacob and Israell: for thou

The XLIX. Chapter.

¶ I haue called vnto me ye Iles/ and take hede ye people from farre: The Lorde hath called me fro my byrd/ and made mention of my name fro my mothers wombe: The hath made my mouth lyke a sharpe swerde/ vnder the shadowe of his shadowe hath he defended me/ and hys me in his quayer as a good arrowe and saye vnto me: thou art my seruante. If rael/ † I will be honoured in the. Then saunt I shall swee: I: I shall lose my labour/ I shall loose my strength in vayne. Wherefore/ I will commend my cause and my wode vnto the Lorde my God. And now sayeth the Lorde: Euen he that hath shamed me fro my mothers wombe to be his seruante/ that I might bringe Jacob againe vnto him/ howbeit/ I shall not be gathered vnto him againe. In whose sight I am greace/ which also to my Lorde/ my God and my strength. Let it be done a small bynche/ that thou art my seruant/ to sit on the kinreddees of Jacob/ and to restore the destruction of the Gentiles/ that thou maest be my health vnto the ende of the worlde.

¶ And thus saith the Lorde: † In the tyme of the appointed tyme I be present with the. And in the houre of health will I helpe the/ and deliuer the. † I will make the a pledge for the people/ that thou shalt helpe op † carthy againe/ and chalenge againe the feared heretages: † That thou mayest saye to thy prisoners: Come forth/ and to them that are in darkness: come into the light/ that they maye fede in the bye wayes/ and get theyr bynyng in all places. † There shall neither hunger nor thylle beate nor Sunne burne them. For he that fauouereth them/ shall lede them/ and geue them vnto the springe welles. I will make wayes vpon all my mountaynes/ and my footpathes shall be exalted. And beholde/ they shall come from farre: lo some from the North and West/ some from the South. † Reioyce ye heaumen/ and synge psaltes thou carth: Take of voyce ye bylles/ for God will restore his people/ and haue mercy vpon his that be in trouble.

¶ Then shall Ston saye: God hath forsaken me/ and the Lorde hath forgotten me. Such a wyfe forger the chyld of her wombe/ a the sonne whome she hath borne. And though she be forgotten/ yet will not I forget the. Beholde/ I eare: therefore can I not saye nay: / nor with-

But the wicked are lyke the raging see / that can not rest / whose water someth with the nyte and grauel. When so the wicked haue no peace / sayeth my God.

The. LVII. Chapter. ¶

¶ Wild therefore carie nowe as loud as thou wouldest. Leane not of life vpy thy voyce / lyke a trompe / and shewe my people their offen ces and the house of Jacob their synnes. For they seke my voyce / and wil knowe my waye / euen as it were a people that had eyght / and had not soughte the stature of their God. They argue with me / concerninge right iudgement / and wil please at the latte with their God. ¶ Therefore saye I to them: And thou B sayst in thine heart: we put oure eyes to straitnesse / a thou regardest it not. Behold / when ye fall / your lust renepneth you: for ye do no kisse violence to your ventres: for ye fall to steele and rebate / and to smyte him with your fist / that speaketh vnto you: ye fall not / as some tyme / that your voyce mighte be heard a beare. ¶ I thinke ye thus fall / pleasyth me / that a man shoulde do: then him selfe / a daye / and weyeth his deade aboute / lyke an hoke in a beery doth / and to lie vpy the earth: I shoulde that he called fasting / or a daye that pleasyth the Lorde: But thus fasting pleasyth not me / tyl the time thou louest him out of thynge / that thou doest. ¶ I will beate the eoord of wyched bargaynes / that thou let the oppressed go fre / and take from them all maner of burthens. It pleasyth not me / tyll thou deale thy breade to the hungry / a bringe the poore fatherlesse home into thy house / when thou seest the naked / that thou couer him / and hyde not thy face from thine owne flesh. ¶ Then shall thy lighte beake forth as the morninge / and thy health shal be as the floure: thy righte iudgement shal go before the / and the glorye of the Lorde shal embrace the.

¶ Then if thou callest the Lorde / shal aunsweere the: if thou cryest / he shal saye: here I am. For I the Lorde thy God am mercifull. ¶ If thou loast awaye thy burthens / and holdest thy hande / a ceasest from blaspemous talkinge. ¶ If thou best compassion vpon the hungry / and refreshest the troubled soule. ¶ Then shal thy lighte sprunge out in the darke / and thy darkness shal be as the noone daye. The Lorde shal euer be thy gyde / and satisfie the desire of thine heart / and satisfye thy bones with mercy. Thou shalt be lyke a fresh watered garden / I and lyke the fountaine of water / that neuer leaueyth runninge. Then the places that haue euer bene wast / shal be builded of the: there shalt thou laye a foundation for many kynredes. Thou shalt be called the maker of a bedgedes / and the buildere againe of the waie of the Sabbath.

¶ If thou turne thy kete from the Sabbath / so that thou do not se the thinge which pleasyth thy selfe in my holy daye: then shalt thou be called vnto the pleasant / helye a glorious Sabbath of the Lorde / where thou shalt be in honour: so that thou do not after thine own imagination / neither se the owne will / nor speake thine owne wordes. The shalt thou haue thy pleasure in the Lorde / whiche shal carie the hye aboute the earth / as the heritage of Jacob thy father: for the Lorde owne mouth hath so pronounced.

his speere how he had gotten his holy spere amonge the: how he had led Moyses by his right hande with his glorious armes how he had dreyed the water before the: whether he got him self an euercalshing name: how he led the in the hope / as an hore is led in the playne / that they should not flumble. The spere of the Lozde led them / as a tame beaſt goeth in the stile.

E Thus (O God) hast thou led thy people to make thy self a glorious name withall. I loke downe from heauen / a beholde the dwelling place of thy sanctuary is thy glory. How is it that thy glory / thy strength / the multitude of thy mercies / and thy lousyng syndes will not be increased of vs? yett art thou our father: for Abraham knoweth vs / as we are in Israels acquaintance with vs. But thou Lozde art our father and redeemer / and thy name is euercalshing. O Lozde / wherefore hast thou led vs out of thy way: wherefore hast thou hardened our heeres / that we feare thee not. Be at one with vs agayne / for thy seruantes sake that are of the generation of thy heretage. Thy people hath had but litle of thy sanctuary in possession: for our enemies haue taken it in: And we are become / euen as we were from the beginning: but thou art not thy Lozde: for they haue not called upon thy name.

The. LXXIII. Chapter.

O That thou wouldest cleaue the heauen in fonder / and come downe that the mountaynes myght melt awaye as thy presence / life as at an hore fire: that the malicious might bowe as the water doeth vnder the sye: Wherby thy name myght be knowne amonge thyne enemies: that the Gentiles myght tremble before the. That thou myghtest come downe with thy wonderous straunge woorkes / then shouldst the hillies melt as thy presence. For since the beginninge of the worlde there was none / excepte thou O God: that herbe or peere occurd: neither hath anye sense what thou dost for them: that put theyr trust in the.

Thou dost put him that doeth right with thy seruantes: and them that thinke vpon thy woorkes: But lo / thou art angry / for we offende: and haue ben euer in synne. And there is not one whole. We are all as an vncleane thinge / and all our righteousneses are as the clowdes slayned with the floures of a woman: we fall euerly thone as the leaf / for our synnes care vs awaye like the winde. There is no man that calleth vpon thy name / that standeth vp to take holde by the. Therefore hast thou thy face from vs / and consumed vs / because of our synnes.

But now Lozde / thou father of ours: We are the clay / and thou art our potter: and we all are the woork of thy handes. We are not to sore displeasid (O Lozde) and expecte not our offences to longe in thy remembrance: but confesse that we all are thy people. The citie of thy sanctuary we wast / I Zion is a wilderness: and Ierusalem a deserte. Oure holy house whiche is oure heare / where our fathers played the / is bent vnder / all oure commodities and pleasures are wayed awaye. Why thou not be increased (O Lozde) / for: all this: Why thou holde thy peace / and seourge vs so for?

The. LXXV. Chapter.

Why shall I see me / that hitherto haue I not ased for me: they shall synne me / that hitherto haue not sought me. The shall I saye immediately to the people that neuer called vpon my name: I am here / I am here. For thus longe haue I euer holden out my handes to an vnfaithfull people / that go not the right waye / but after theyr owne ymaginations: To a people / that is euer despyng me to my face. They make theyr oblations in garden / a theyr smole vpon a sillers of byrde: they lurke amonge the graues / and lye in the denes all nyght. They eate swyne flesh / and do not cleane both in in theyr vesselle. If thou comest I will mee them / they saye I catch me not / for I am holier then thou.

All these men when I am angry / shall be turned to smoke and I fire that shall burne vs euer. Beholde it is written before my face / and shall not be forgotten / but recompensed. I shall rewarde it them into theyr bosome: I meane your mysdoes / and the mysdoes of your fathers together / for they the Lozde / whych haue made theyr smole vpon in my sight / and blessed me in vpon the hillies: therefore

Rom. ij. b B Moouer thus sayeth the Lorde: I like as well one wolde gather holy grapes / men saye vnto hym: I beate it not of / so: it is holy: ij. But I wyl take a sike our of Jacob / and out of Iuda one / to take possession of my hyll. My chosen shall possesse theyr thynges / and my seruantes shall dwell there: Barou shall be a shepsehold / and the valley of Iebos shall geue stallinges for / cattell of my people / I feare me. But as for you / ye are they that haue forsaken the Lorde / and forgotten my holy hyll. Ye haue set vp an altar vnto fortune / and geuen ryde vnto offrynge vnto Treasure. Therefor wyl I number you with the streedes that ye shall be destroyed altogether. For when I called / no man gaue me answer: when I spake / they refused not vnto me / but dyd receiue before myne eyes / a chafed the thyng that pleased me not.

33. vij. b E Therefore thus sayeth the Lord God: Beholde / my seruantes shall eate / but ye shall haue hunger. Beholde / my seruantes shall synke / but ye shall suffre thysle. Beholde / my seruantes shall drye / but ye shall be confounded. Beholde / my seruantes shall reioyce for very quietnes of herte. But ye shall crye for feare of hert / and complen for vexacion of mynde. Your names shall not be knowne by amonge my chosen / for God the Lorde shall saye you / and call his seruantes by another name: I who so reioyceth vpon earth / shall reioyce in the true God: And who so sweareth vpon earth / shall sweare in the true God. For the olde enemye shall be forgotten / and taken awaye out of my sight. For lo / I shall make a new heauen / and a new earth. And as for the olde / they shall neuer be thought vpon / nor kept in mynde: but men shall be glad and exche more reioyce for the thynges that I shall do.

Diu. i. c 33. vij. b D For why: Beholde / I shall make a toyfull Jerusalem / for I my self wyl reioyce with Ierusalem / and be glad with my people. And the voyce of weeping and weylinge shall not be heard in her from thenceforth. There shall neuer be anye in her that haue not theyr full dayes. But when the chylde cometh to an hundred year olde / it shall saye. And if he that is an hundred year of age do wronge / he shall be cursid: They shall build houses / and dwell in them: they shall plant vnyuersall / eate the frute of them. They shall not build / and another possesse: they shall not plant / and another eate. But the life of my people shall be like a tree / and so shall the worke of their handes.

My chosen shall sue loue / they shall not labour in vayne / nor begeth with trouble: for they are the chylde blessed seed of the Lorde / and theyr frutes shall be them. And I shall be that ou cure they call: I shall auisure them. Whyle they are yet but thynkinge howe to speake / I shall beare them. The wolf and the lambe shall feede to gether / the Lyon shall eate haye like the bullocke. But euer shall the fer pence meate: There shall no man hurte nor slawe another in all my holy byll / sayeth the Lorde.

The LXVI. Chapter.

L Thus sayeth the Lorde: I haue in my I feare / and the earth is in my feare. Where shall I nowe the house stande that ye wil bulde vnto me: And where shall be the place that I wil dwell in: To so: these thynges / my hande hath made them all / and they are all created / sayeth the Lorde. I whom so all I then reioyce: Euen hym that is of a lowly troubled spirit / and standeth in awe of my wordes. For who so sayeth an oge for me / I dooeth me so greate dishonoure / as he that kyllet a man: he that kyllet a shepe for me / dooeth a dogge: he that hungereth me meate / offeth mynes bloude: who so maketh in a memorial of Incece / prayeth the thyng that is vnyght. Yet take they iudic weces in hand / and theyr soule delueth in these abominacions.

Therefore wyl I also haue pleasure in launging them / to feare / and the thynges that they feare / wyl I begeth vpon the. For when I called / no man gaue answer: wyl I shall they wolde not heare: but dyd wylde they be for mine eyes / and dooed the thynges that displeasid me. Feare the word of God / all ye that feare the thynges which he speaketh: Your be they that haue you / a calle you our: for my neme sake / saye: Let the Lorde magnifie hym self in a me maye se youre gladnesse / and ye they shall be confounded.

1 For as touching the cite and the temple/I haue the voyce of the Lorde that will reuerſe / and recompence his enemye life as when a wyfe bringeth forth a man chyld / or euer ſhe ſuffre the payne of the byrb / and an-groyth of the trowaſe. Who euer herde or ſawe ſuche thinges / doeth the grounde beare in one daye / or are the people borne al at once / as Sid beareth his ſonne. For thus ſaith the Lorde. Am I he that maketh other to beare / and beare not my ſelfe. I Am not I he that beareth / and maketh barren / ſaith the God. Re-ioyce with Jeruſalem / and be glad with her / all ye charlous her. I Be ioyfull with her / all ye that mourned for her. For ye ſhall ſucke eſſence out of her breſtes / & be ſatisfied. Ye ſhall taſt / and haue delite in his plentifulneſſe of her power. For thus ſaith the Lorde / beholde / I will ter peace into her life a waterfounte / and the might of the Seythen lyke a flowing ſtreame. Then ſhall ye ſucke / ye ſhalbe borne upon her ſides / and be ioyfull upon her knees.
 For lyke as a chyld is comforted of his mo-foured in Jeruſalem. And when ye ſe thyo / ſoure here ſhall reioyce / I and your bones

 Thus ſhall the hande of the Lorde be knowen amonge his ſeruauntes / and his indignation amonge his enemies. For beholde / the Lorde ſhall come with ſyre / and his charre ſhalbe lyke a wynd / whiche ſhall be moxe recompence his vengeance in his wrath / and his indignation with the flame of ſyre. For the Lorde ſhal iudge all fleſh with the ſyre and with his ſweade / and there ſhalbe a greate numbte ſlayne of the Lorde. Such as haue made them ſelves holy and cleane in the gardens / and thoſe that haue eaten ſwete fleſh / myce / and other abhominacions / ſhalbe raken awaye together / ſaith the Lorde. For I will come to gather all people and tunges / with theyr workes and ſmugacions: theſe ſhall come and ſe my glory. Vnto the ſhall I ſyre a token / and ſende certayne of them / that be deluyered / amonge the Gentiles: in to Ethio-pſia and Libya / wherbythen can handle bowes / into Italic alſo and Greke lande.

 The Flees ſarre of thar haue not herde / ſaith. I ſpeake of me / and haue not ſene my glory ſhall ſi a preache my praife amonge the Gentiles / and I ſhall bringe all your brethren for an offeringe vnto the Lorde / out of all people / upon hor-ſes / charrettes and hoſtellers / upon mules & carrees to Jeruſalem my holy hill / ſaith the Lorde. Lyke as the chylden of Iſrael bringe the offeringe in cleane veſſels / to the houſe of the Lorde.
 And I ſhall take out certayne of them for to be prietes and leuites / ſaith the Lorde.
 For lyke as the new beauf / and the newe earth / whiche I will make / ſhalbe ſett ſtabliſhed by me / ſaith the Lorde. So ſhall your ſede and your name continue / and there ſhalbe a new Moone for the other / a new Sabbath for the other / and all fleſh ſhall come to worſhip before me / ſaith the Lorde. And they ſhall goe forth / and loke vpon the carcaſes of them that haue tranſgreſſed againſt me. For they: worme ſhall not dye / neither ſhall they ſyre be quenched / and all fleſhe ſhall abhorre them.

After thus/ the Lorde spake unto me sayinge: Jeremy/ what seest thou? And I said: I see a wellingerode. Then saide the Lorde: thou hast said right/ for I will reach diligently upon my wordes to performe it.

It happened afterwarde/ that the Lorde spake to me againe/ and saide: What seest thou? And I said: I see a seerlinge/ I pot/ so linge

For all this / her vnfaithfull syster Iuda was

The III. Chapter.

¶ O Israel if thou wilt turne the / the turne onto me / sayeth the Lorde. And if thou wilt put awaye thy abominacions out of my sight / thou shalt not be moued: ¶ And shalt sweare: The Lorde dweth in truth / in equite and righteousnesse: and all people shalbe for-tunable and ioyfull in hym. For thou sayest the Lorde to al Iuda and Jerusalem: plowe your new lands: / and sowe not amonge the thornes.

¶ He circumfised in the Lorde / and cut awaye the foue thynne of youre herres / all ye of Iuda / and all the inwellers of Jerusalem: ¶ That my indignacion breake not out lyke fire / and kynle / so that no man maye quenche it / because of the wickednes of youre ymagina-cions.

¶ Preach in Iuda and Jerusalem / crye out and speake: blowe the trompettes in the lide / crye that euery mā maye heare / and saye: O ther you together / and we will go into stronge cyties. Set vp the token in Sion / spece you / and make no varieng: ¶ For I will bringe a greate plague / and a greate destruction from the North. For the spoyle of the Gennite is broken vp from his place / as a Lyon out of his den: / that he maye make ebdelande wast / and destroye the cyties / so that no man maye dwell therein. Wherefore cryde your selues aboute with sackcloth / mourne and weep: for the fearfull wrath of the Lorde shall not be with-drawen from you.

¶ Therefore name / sayeth the Lorde the bere of the fringe and of the pannes shalbe gone: the pannes shalbe assayed / as the prophetes shalbe sore assayed. Then saye J. O Lorde God / halt thou then because thyso people and Jerudestroyers are commyng from farre countries. They tell the cyties of Iuda: the same also / they shall geue them warnyng in euery place / like as the watchmen in the selds. ¶ For Zach. viij. c they haue plouoked me to wrath / sayeth the lade shall perishe: Immediately my tentes were destroyed / a my hanginges in ¶ my twinkling of an eye / How longe shall I se the tokens of warre / and heare the noyse of the trompettes?

D Wherefores / this ſhall come vpon them / ¶ Because my people is become fooliſh / and hath utterly no vnderſtanding. * They are the children of fooliſhnes / and without any diſcretion. Ce do euil / they haue wit nougth: but to do well / they haue no wiſdome. I haue loſed vpon the carth / and ſo / it is wayle and voyde. I loſed toward heauen / and it had no ſhyn.

¶ I behelde the mountaynes / and they trembled / and all the hilles were in a ſcare. I loſed about me / and there was no body / and all the byrdes of the ayre were awaye. I marked well / and the plowed ſelde was become wayſſ / yec / all they: cytes were broken doune at the pre-ſence of the Lorde / and indignation of his wrath.

E For thus hath the Lorde ſayde: The whole lande ſhalbe deſolate / yet will I not their being done. And therefore let the carth mourn / and let the heauen be ſo ſory about: for the thinge that I haue purpoſed / and takten vpon me to do / ſhall not repent me / and I will not go from it. The whole lande ſhall ſie for the noiſe of the horſemen and bowmen: they ſhall runne into dennes / into woodes / and clymbe vpon the ſtony rockes. All the cytice ſhalbe voyde / and no man dwellinge therein.

¶ What wilt thou now do / thou bringe deſtroied? For though thou clotheſt thy ſelfe with ſcarlet / a deſpell the wrth gold: * though thou paynted thy face with colours / yet ſhalt thou remember thy ſelf in vayne.

¶ For thoſe that bircheto haue bene thy greate ſaourettes / ſhall abhorre the / and go aboute to ſlaue the. For ſine thyſe / I heare a noiſe / like as it were of a woman traueſſing / or one labouring of her ſelfe ſhyde: Euen the voyce of the daughter Sion / that calleth out her armes / and ſtrouerth / ſayinge: Wh wo is me / how fore vexed and ſaynt in my herte / for the they are ſlaynt?

The V. Chapter.

2 Lorde thouow Jeruſalem / beholde and ſe: ¶ Behold thouow her ſiretes alſo within / if ye can finde one man that doeth equal and righte or that labourerth to be faythfull: and I ſhall ſpare hym: ſayeth the Lorde. ¶ For though they can ſaye: the Lorde mych / yet do they ſwear to diſſeace: Where as thou (to Loid) lokeſt only vpon ſayth and truth.

¶ Thou haſt ſcourged the / but they toke no re-penance: thou haſt correcte them for amon-dements / but they reuſed thy correction. They made their faces harder then a ſtone / a wolde not amende.

¶ Therefore I thought in my ſelfe prouident nature they are ſo ſimple and fooliſh / that they vnderſtande nothinge of the Lordes way / and iudgements of oure God. ¶ Therefore will I go vnto thy heades and rulers / and telle with the: ſo they knowe the waye of the Lorde and the iudgements of our God. But theſe in like maner haue broken the yock / and bur-ſten the bandes in ſonder.

¶ Wherefore / a Lyon out of the wood ſhall bury them / and a Wolfe in the euenyng ſhall deſtroye the. The eat of the mountaine ſhall ſeclurkinge by their cytes / to rrate in pecc all them that come therout. For their offences are many / and their departinge awaye is greate.

¶ Shoulde I then ſo: all they haue mercy vpon the: / by children haue ſouſſen me / and ſworne by them that are no goddes. And albeit they were bounde to me in marriage / yet they ſell to aduourty / and haunted harlots houſes.

¶ In the deſyre of ſonleany luſt they are become like the ſtonch boyſe / ¶ Every man neryth at bys neyghbours wife: ¶ Shoulde I not correcte this / ſayeth the Lorde.

¶ Shoulde I not be auenged of every people / that is like vnto theye: ¶ Clymme vpon their wallis / beate them doune / but deſtroye them not utterly: cut of their bandes / becauſe they are not the Lorde.

¶ For vnſfairfully hath the houſe of Iſrael a Iuda ſouſſen me / ſayeth the Lorde. ¶ They haue denied the Lorde / and ſayd: we are not
 he. ¶ Tuſh / there ſhall no inſyfortune come vpon vs / we ſhall ſe neyther ſwearde nor bunger. ¶ As for the warninge of the prophetes they take it but for vayne: yec / there is none of theſe / which will tell them / that ſuch thynges ſhall happen vnto them.

¶ Wherefore thou ſayeth the Lorde God of boottie: becauſe ye ſpake ſuche wordes / behold.

 gone: the Sommer hath an ende / and we are not helped. I am sore vexed / because of the hurte of my people: I am besay and abanded / so: there is no more Tracte at Galaad / and there is no physician / that can heale the hurte of my people.

The IX. Chapter.

2 Ho will give me bread water ynough and a well of reares for myne eyes: that I may wepe night and daye/for the slaughte ter of my people: Wolde God that I had a cottage some where farre from folke/ that I mighte leaue my people/and goe from hie: for they be all aduersaries and a shrenkinge foite. They sende their tongues like bowes / to without hies: So for the truth they maie not auaile wythin all the world. for they goe from one wickednesse to another / a holde nothinge of me / sayeth the Lord.

For one must feare him selfe from another / Tho man maye safely trust his owne sharpe: for one doth not vndermyne another / and one neyghbour begeth another. Yee / one dissembleth with another / a they deale with no truth. They haue piacted their tongues to hie/and taken greate paines to do mynshief.
 They haue set their sole in the middist of discaie/and for very dissemblinge falshede they wil not knowe me / sayeth the Lord.

Therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes/Beholde: I wil melle them and trie them / for what shoulde I els do to my people: Their tongues are like sharpe arrowes / to speake dis create. With their mouth they speake peacea bly to their neyghboures. But secretly they laye waite for him: I Chaide I not punish them for these thinges / sayeth the Lord: Or should I not be auenged of any such people as this?
 vpon the mountaines wil I take up a lamen tation: and sorrowfull crye / and a mourninge vpon the saye plaines of the wilderness: Na mely / howe they are so hient vpon / that no man goeth bye any more: Yee / a man shall not heare one besseiter there.

By ides and cartel are al gone from thence.
 I wil make Ierusalem also an heape of slo nes/and a denne of venomous wormes. And I wil make the cities of Iuda so waste / that no man shall tread therein. What man is so wise / so to vnderstande this: Or to whome hath the Lord spoken by mouth / that he maye shewe this / and saye: Withou laude / why perishest thou so? Wherefore art thou so hient vpon / and like a wilderness: that no man goeth thowere: Yee / the Lord him selfe tolde the same vnto them / that so for his lawe / a kep not the thinge that he gaue them in com mandment / neyther hued thereasert / but folowed the wickedness of their owne her res / and serued strange godde / so that for there thought them.

Therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes/the God of Israel: Beholde: I wil sende this people with waim wood / and geue them gall to drinke. I wil feare them also among the heiden / whome neyther they nor their fa thers haue knowen: a I wil sende a streard amonge them / to persecute the vniuersall thinge them to naught. Moreover / thus saith the Lord of hostes: loke that ye call for mour ninge wyse / and sinde for wyse women: that they come heerty / and syng a mourninge song of you: that the teares maie fall out of our eyes / and that oure eye lyddes maye gulle oute of water.

For there is a lamentable noyse berde of Syon: O How are we so for despayred: We howe are we so pitously confounded: We must forsake oure owne natural countrey / and we are shut out of oure owne lodgings. Yee heare the woide of the Lord (o ye women) and let your eares regard the woide of his mouth: that ye maye leaue your daugh ters to mourne / and that eery one maye teach her neyghboures / to make lamentation. W mely thus: O wh is clymnen up in our wyndowes / he is come into oure houses / to besseire the childe before the face / and the yonge man in the streete.

But tell thou playnly thus saith the Lord:
 The dead bodies of men shall lye vpon the ground: so the voyge vpon the felde / and as they haue after the mower / and there shall be no man to take them vp. Moreover thus saith the Lord: Let not the wyse man relye in his wysdome / nor the stronge man in his strenght / neyther the ryche man in his ryche: But who so will relye / let him relye in this / that he vnderstandeth / and knoweth me: I am the Lord / which do mercy canite. I and righteousness vpon earth. Therefore haue I pleasure in such thinges / sayeth the Lord: Beholde / the time cometh / sayeth the Lord:
 that I will vscall them / whose foulnesse is vnicurmesed. The Egyptians / the Ircos / the Edomites / the Ammonites / name of sinne and lyue in wickednes: Thou plantest them/they take root/they growe/and bring forth fruite. They blasfeme muche of the Lord: so whom I am well known) thou that hast sene/and proued my heres/traie the waye of life as a sheefe is caried to the slaughter house/and appoynne them for the daye of slaughtinge.

Jer. liii. a

Howe longe shal the lande mourne/ and al the herbes of the felde perishe/ for the wickednesse of them that dwel therein:

Jer. lxxv. c

The canell and the hydes are gone/ yett saye they: I will be/ God will not destroye us utterly.

Jer. li. c

Whyng thou art weery in runninge with the footmen/ howe weile thou then runne with horses: In a peaceable sure lande thou canst not be safe/ but how wilt thou be in the furious pyde of Ierubanc: For thy Serchian and thy kindred haue altogether vsphysed the/ and erud out vpon the in thine absence.

Jer. li. a

Wese them not/ though they speake sayne wordes to the: So for me/ saye I/ I haue forsaken myne owne dwellinge place/ and leste myne heritage. My lyfe also/ that I loue so well/ haue I geue into the handes of myne enemies.

Jer. li. c

Myne heritage is become vnto me/ as a Lyon in the wood. It eried out vpd me/ therefore haue I forsaken it. Myne heritage is vnto me/ as a speckled bride/ a bride of diuers coloures vpon it. Go hence/ and gather all the sheefes of the felde together/ that they maie come and care it vp.

Jer. li. c

Wherof herdmen haue broken doune my wynerbe/ and treden vpd my poison. Of my pleasant prouision/ they haue made a wilderness and deserte. They haue layed it wast: and now that it is wast/ it is gathered vnto me. Yett the whole lande is her wast/ and no ma regardeth it. The Destroyers come ouer the heeb ery waye/ for the swerde of the Lord shall consume from the one ende of the lande to the other/ and no flesh shal haue rest. They shall some wheat/ and reape thornes. They shall take heritage in possession/ but it shal do them no good. And yett shalbe confounded of your owne mynnings/ because of the greare warb of the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord vpon al myne euell neyghbours/ that laye hande on myne heritage/ whiche I haue geuen my people of Israel. Beholde/ I will plucke them/ namely the house of Iuda from amonge them. And when I haue rooted them out/ I will be alone with the againe/ and wil haue mercy vpon them: and bringe them againe/ every man to his owne heritage/ and into his lande. And if they (namely that trouble my people) will learne the waye of them/ so I will sweare by my name: The Lord I suchlike as they learned my people to sweare by. But if they wil not obeye/ then wil I rote out the same folke/ and destroye them/ saith the Lord.

The XXXI. Chapter.

Whereas thus saith the Lord vnto I me: So thy waye and gett the a synner sheefe/ and gyde it aboute thy loynes/ and let it not be wette. Then I gott me a bruch/ according to the commaundemente of the Lord/ and put it aboute my loynes. After this the Lord spake vnto me againe: Take the bruch that thou hast prepared and put aboute the/ and gett the vp/ and go vnto Euphrates/ and hyde it in a hole of the rocke. So wente I/ and hydde it/ so the Lord commaunded me. And it happened long after this/ that the Lord spake vnto me: Vp/ and gett the to Euphrates/ and fet the bruch from thence/ whiche I commaunded the to hyde there. The went I to Euphrates/ and yigged vp/ and wote the bruch from the place wher I had hyde it/ and beholde/ the bruch was corrupte/ so that it was profitable for nothinge.

Then saide the Lord vnto me: Thus saith the Lord: Euen so wil I corrupte the pitte of Iuda/ and the hyc mynde of Ierusalem. This people is a wicked people/ they wil not heare my voyde/ they folowe the wicked ymaginations of their owne heres/ and hang vpon strange goddesses/ then haue they strud and worshipped: and therefore they shalbe as this bruch: that seruch for nothinge. For so straitly as a bruch lieth vpon a mans loynes/ so straitly wil I bynde the whole house of Israel/ and the whole house of Iuda vnto me/ saith the Lord: that they might be as my people: that they might haue a glorious name:

name: that they might be in honour: but they wolde not obeye nic. Therefore laye this ryde die before them / and saye: Thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: every pot shalbe fylled with wyne. And they shall saye: thynest thou we shone not / y every pot shalbe fylled with wyne: Then shalt thou saye unto them: Thus saith the Lorde: Beholde: I shall fill all the inhabitours of this lande with drunkennesse/the hynges that sit upon Seuids stole / the pistles and prophetes / wuh all that dwell at Jerusalem. And I will spure them one against another / yee / the farbers agaynst the sonnes/saith the Lorde.

I will not pardon the / I wil not spare the / nor haue pite upon the: but destroy the. Be obedient / geue care / take no disdayne ari / for it is the Lorde him self that speaketh. Honour the Lorde your God heerein / or he wyl take his light from you: and ouer your face shalbe in dark-nesse at the hillside: yet ye loke for the light / be-tornie it into the shadow a darknes of death.
But if ye wil not heare me / that geue you sicere warninge / I wil mourne fro my whole here for youre stubbornnesse. / Dureously wyl I reape / and I reares shall geasse out of myne eye. For the Lorde's flocke shalbe caried awaye captiue. And the king a the rulers: shalbe your selfes: for you dounelowe / for the crowne of your glory shall fall from youre heade. The eyes towarde the South shalbe spure vp / and no man shall open the. All Iuda shalbe caried awaye captiue / so that none shall remaine.

Lift up youre eyes: and beholde the / I come from the North: like a fat flocke: shall they fall vnto the. To whom wilt thou make thy moene/when they come vnto the: for thou hast taught the thy self / and made them masters ouer the.

Thou shalt not soe come vpon the / as on a woman rauynge with child: And if thou woldst saye the in thine heere: Wherefore come these thinges vpon me. * Wherfore for the multitude of thy blasphemies / shall thy hinderpart reio and thy fete be discouered.

For like as the man of Iude maye chaunge his fytme: and the car of the mountaine her sporne: so maye ye that be exercisid in euill do good. Therefore wyl I spare you / lyke as the foule that is taken amoye with the South wynde. This shall be youre portion: and the portion of youre measure / wherwith ye shalbe rewarded of me / saith the Lorde: because ye haue forgotten me: and put youre trust in disceasfull thinges. / Therefore shall I turne clothes ouer thy heade / a discover thy reere/that thy picynnes maye be sene: by aduoury aby deadly malice: thy beallnesse: and thy shawnessefull reuolucione. For upon the feltra and hilles I haue sene thy abominacions. We be vnto the (o Jerusalem) when wilt thou euer be clensed any more:

The XIII. Chapter.

The worde of the Lorde shewed vnto Jeremy: concerninge the verth of the frutes.

Who shal mourne / men shal not go much more thow his gates: the lande shalbe nomore had in reputation / and the crye of Jerusalem shal breake out. The lordes shal sende their seruantes to fitch water / and wbe they come to the wellles / they shall fynde no water/but shal carie their vessels home agayne emptye. They shalbe ashamed and cofounded / and shal carie their heades. / For the grounde shalbe dred vp / because there cometh no rayne vpon it. The plowmen also shalbe ashamed / and shal couer their heades. The bynde shal fore-sike the yonge sawne / that the bynde goeth forth in the felde: because there shalbe no grasse. The wilde asses shal lende in the mosco / a biare in their wynde like the Dragons: their eyes shall faste for want of grasse.

Jer. xxxij. 6

Doubtles oure owne wickednesse rewarde vs: But Lorde do thou accordinge to thy name: though oure transgressions and synnes be many. / For thou art the cofoure / and helpe of Israel in the tyme of trouble. Why wilt thou be as a straunger in the lande: / and as one that goeth ouer the felde / and cometh in only to remaine for a nyght: Why wilt thou make thy self a cowarde: / and as it were a giante that yet maye not helpe: For thou art ours (o Lorde): and we beare thy name/therefore for sake us not.

Then spaketh the Lorde: concerninge this man speaketh euil vpon me. And the Lord answered me a Lede nor 3 the then who trouble: and helpe the / when thine enemy op-presseth thee: Doeth one from burie another / or one metall that cometh from the North / another: As for your rythes and treasure / I wil but because of all your synnes / that ye haue done in al your cosseles. And I will bringe you with your enemies into a lande / that ye knowe not: for the spye that is fimbled in my indignation / shal burie you vp.

o Lorde / sayde 3 then / thou knowest all thynges / thou remembre me / and visite me / deliuer me from my persecuters: Because not that for thy sake 3 suffice rebulke. When 3 had founde thy wordes / 3 dyd eate them vp gredely: they haue made my heart soylfull and glad. For I call vpon thy name / o Lorde God of hostes. 3 dwel not amonge the sconers / neyther is my deliue therein: but 3 dwel only in the feare of thy bande / for thou hast fylled me with bitterness. Shal my beautye that they maye neuer be healed: Wilt thou be as a water barth seller / and can not continue: vpon these wordes / thus sayde the Lorde vnto me: As thou wilt turne agayne / I shall set thee in my seruise: and if thou wilt take out the thinge that is precious from the vyle / thou shalt be euen as myne owne mouth. They shall conuerse vnto the / but turne not thou vnto them: 3 and so shall I make thee a blas-phemist agaynst this people. They shall fight against the / but they shall not preuaile. For 3 my selfe will be with the / so helpe the / and deli-uer the / sayeth the Lorde. And I will ryd the out of the bande of the wicked / and deliuer the out of the bande of Traunice.

The XVI. Chapter.

o Desouer thus saide the Lord vnto me: Thou shalt take the / no wife / nor begit chyldren in this place. For of the chyldren that are borne in this place / of their fathers that haue begotten them in this lande / thus sayeth the Lorde: They shall dye an horrible death /

7 none shall mourne for them / nor burie the / Lente 3 burie they shall lye as daunge vpon the earth. 3 They shal perish thowth the swarthe and hū-ger / and their bodies shalbe meate for the foules of the ayre / and bestes of the earth. 3 agayne / thus sayeth the Lorde: Go not vnto them / that come to gether / for to mourne and wepe: for I haue taken my peace fro this people / sayeth the Lorde / because my fauour and my mercy. And in this lande / shal they dye / olde and yonge / and shal not be buried: no man shall bereave them / no ma shall clippe / I haue him self for them.

There shal not one visite another / to mourne with them for their dead / or so comforte them.
 One shal not seee another the cuppe of consolacion / to bringe their heauyenes for father a mother. Thou shalt not go into their castles with them. For thus saith the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel: Behold / I shall take awaye awaye out of this place / the voyce of mirth / and gladnesse: the voyce of the byegrome / and of the byde: yee / and that in youre dayes / that ye maye see it.

Wilt thou seekest this people al these wordes / and they saye vnto the: Wherefore hath the Lord deuyed all this greate plague and v. d. for vs: What is the offence and synne / that we haue done agaynst the Lorde our God: Then make thou them this answerre. 3 Because your fathers haue forsaken me / sayeth the Lorde / and haue cleued vnto straunge goddes / wherin they haue honoured and worshipped: but me haue they forsake / and haue not kepte my lawe. And ye with your full blasphemies / haue exceeded the wickednesse of your fathers. For euery one of you loveth the frowarde euil / magnacion of his owne heart / and is not obedient vnto me.

Therefore wil I cast you out of this lande / in to a lande that ye / your fathers knowe not:
 and there shal ye serue straunge goddes daye and night: there wil 3 beome you no fauour.
 Behold therefore / sayeth the Lorde / the dayes are come / that it shall no more be sayde: The Lorde is with / which brought the chyldren of Israel out of the lande of Egypt: but 3 shalbe sayde the Lorde / sayeth that brought the chyldren of Israel from the North / and from all landes / where I had feared the. For I will hunge them againe into the lade / that I gaue vnto their fathers.

Mat. iii. c

Behold / sayeth the Lord. I will sende out many fishers to take them / and after that wil I sende out many hunters to hunte them out / from all mountaines and hylles and out of the caues of stones. For myne eyes beholde all their wayes / and they can not be hid from my face / neither can their wicked dedes be kepte close out of my sight. But first wil I sufficiently rewarde their shamefull blasphemies and synnes / wherwith they haue defiled my lande. Namely / with their (sunfinge) Idols a abhominations / wherwith they haue fylled myn heritage. ¶ O Lord / my strength / my power / and refuge in tyme of trouble. The Gentiles shall come vnto the from the endes of the world / and saye : Verely oure fathers haue cleued vnto leas / their Idols are but vayne and vnprofitable. How can a mā make those his goddes / which are not able to be goddes? And therefore / I will teach them (sayeth the Lord) I will shewe the my hande and my power / that they maye knowe / that my name is the Lord.

Jer. xli. a

The. XVII. Chapter.

¶ Oure synne / o ye of the rybe of Juda / is written in the table of your heretes / a grauen so vpon the edges of your alters with a pene of iron / a with an Adamante cleaue : that your chyldren also maye thinke vpon your alters / woodes / which tree is hylles / mountaines a sides / ¶ Therefore / I will make all your substaunce a treasure be spoiled / for the greate sinne that ye haue done vpon your he places / whosowre all / a coastes of youre lande. Ye shalbe call out also fro the heritage that I gaue you. And I will subdue you vnder the heuy bondage of your enemies / in a lande that ye knowe not. For ye haue nimsred nye to my indignacion / which shal burne euermore.

Jer. xv. a
xx. d

¶ Thus sayeth the Lord : ¶ I cursed be the mā that putteth his trust in man / a that relyeth slep for his arme / and be / whose herte departeth from the Lord. He shalbe like the heath / that groweth in the wilderness. As for the good thinge that is for to come / he shall not see it : but dwell in a dre place of the wilderness / in a safe and vnoccupied lande. ¶ O Blessed is the mā that putteth his trust in the Lord / a whose hope the Lord is him self. For he shalbe as a tree that is planted by the water syde / which speedeth out the rote vnto moynnes / whom the heate can not harme / when it cometh / but his leaues are greene. And though there growe but litle frute / because of drought / yet is he not carefull / but he neuer leauech of to hunge forth frute. Amonge all thynges / yoyning / man hath the most discautful and vnsecheable here.

Who shall then knowe it ? ¶ Euen I the Lord / Ipe out the grounde of the hert / and search the rennes / and rewarde euery man accordinge to his wayes / and accordinge to the frute of his counsaile.

¶ The discautful maketh a nest / but bringeth forth no yongre. He cometh by rydes / but not rightously. In the middell of his life must be leaue them behinde him / a at the last he thone a very soule. But thou O Lord / whos frute is most glorious / excellent / and of most aniquite / which dwellest in a place of our healy rest : Thou art the consorte of Israel. ¶ All they that forsake the shalbe confounded. All they that departe fro the / shalbe writ in caris / for they haue forsaken the Lord / the very consorte of the waters of life.

Scale me O Lord : a I shalbe whole / saue thou me / and I shalbe saued / for thou art my paynt. Behold / these me / saye vnto me : Where is the word of the Lord / that is come? Where as I neuer heide / leiding / y flock in thy waite / haue copelled none by violence. For I neuer despid any mans death / this knowest thou well. My wordes also were right before the. ¶ Let my persecuters be confounded / but not mee. They them be afrayed / and not me. Thou shalt bringe vpon the tyme of their plague / and shalt destroye the righteous. ¶

¶ Againe / thus hath the Lord sayde vnto me : ¶ Wo and stande vnder the gate / where I shal showe the people and the kinges of Juda go out / and in / vnder all the gates of Jerusalem / and saye vnto them : Heare the wordes of the Lord / ye kinges of Juda / and all they people of Juda / and all ye citizens of Jerusalem / ye go thorow this gate : ¶ Heu the Lord the bloude of innocences / for they haue set vp an auter vnto Baal / to burne their chyldren for burnt offringes vnto Baal / which I neyther commaunded / nor charged them / neyther I haue bene there thereupon.

Behold therefore / the tyme cometh / saith the Lord: that this place that now is called led Toppet / nor the valley of the chyldren of Ennan / but the valley of slaughter. For in this place wil I slaye the Sentaours of Iuda and Ierusalem / and kill the downe with the sword in the sight of their enemies / and of them that seek theyr lyfe. And their dead carcases wil I geue to be meate for the fowles of the ayre / and bestes of the filde: And I will make this cite so desolate / and despyed: that who so is goyth threby / shall be abashed / and yell vpon her / because of all her plagues.

I will see them also with the fist of their sonnes and their daughter: I see every one shall cate vp another in the besyginge a stra-neger / wherewith their enemies / that seek theyr lyfe / shall seepe them in. And the pydder shall thou beate in the sight of the men / that shall be with the / and saye vnto them: Thus saith the Lord of hostes: I haue so wil I destroye this people a cite: as a porter breaketh a vessell / that can not be made whole againe.

In Toppet shall they be buried / for they shall haue none other place: Thus wil I do vnto this place also / saith the Lord: / and to the that dwell therein: yet / I will do to this cite as vnto Toppet / for the houses of Ierusalem and the houses of the kinges of Iuda are defyled like as Toppet / because of all the houses / in whose parlors they dyd sacrifice vnto al the hostes of heaue / and poured out burnt offringes vnto straunge goddes. And so Jeremy came from Toppet / where the Lord had sent him to prophete: / and stode in the court of the house of the Lord / and spake to al the people.
Thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel: Behold / I will bringe vpon this cite / and vpon every toun aboute it / all the plagues that I haue denyed against the: For they haue bene obstinate / and wolde not obeye my warninges.

E Clymyn vp the hyll of Libanus (so thou yonger Dion) lift vp thy voyce vpon Basan/ since from all partes: for all thy louces are destroyed. I gaue the warninge/ whyls thou wast yett in prosperitie/ But thou saydest: I will not heare. And thus maner haste thou vsed fro thy youth/ & thou woldest neuer heare my voyce. All thy byndemen shalbe dyuyn with the wynde/ and thy byrlynges shalbe caryed awaye into captiuitie: Then shalt thou be thought to spaine and confusion/ because of thy wickednesse: thou that dwellest vpon Libanus/ and makst thy nest in the Cedre trees. O how grieueth thy mourninge: when thy forerew come vpon the/ as on a woman mannynging with childer.

But as for the lande that ye will desire to returne vnto/ ye shall neuer come at it agayne. This man Jehonias shalbe like an ymagie robbed and tome in peeces/ whiche pleaseth no man/ for all his apparell. Wherefore both he and his sibe shalbe sente awaye/ and cast oute into a lande/ that they knowe not.

O thou earth/ earth/ earth/ heare the woide of the Lorde: Whye this man amonge the enuylous/ for no prosperitie shall this man haue all his dayes longe. Neither shal any of his sibe be so happy/ as to sse vpon the seate of Dauid/ and to beere rule in Iuda.

Jer. xxxij

O be thou the shepherdes that be sroue/ and feare my flocke/ sayeth the Lorde. Wherefore/ this is the commandement of the Lorde God of Israel/ vnto the shepherdes that sibe my people: Ye feare a thuste oute my flocke/ and loke not vpon the. Therefore/ howe wil I vyseth the wickednesse of youre ymaginations/ sayeth the Lorde: And wil gather together the remnaunce of my flocke/ from all landes that I had diuyn them vnto/ and will bringe them agayne to their pastures/ that they maye growe and increace. I will see shepherdes also oute them which shal sibe them. They shal nomore feare and dyde/ for there shal none of them be losse/ sayeth the Lorde. ¶ Beholde/ the same cometh (sayeth the Lorde) that I will raise vp the righteous branch of Dauid/ whiche shal beere rule/ and vsfull matters with wysdome/ and shall see vp rayre and righteousnesse agayne in the earth.

In dyo tyme shall Iuda be saced/ as I Ierusalem shall vntill without feare. And this is the name that they shal call him: cuen the Lorde your righteous maker. And therefore shal he holde the same cometh (sayeth the Lorde) that it shal nomore be sayde: The Lorde lyerth/ whiche broughte the childen of Israel oute of the lande of Egypte. But the Lorde lyerth/ whiche broughte forth/ and led the sibe of the house of Israel/ oute of the Mount lande/ and from all countries where I had scattered them/ and they shall dwell in their owne lande agayne. **¶

Wo vnto the prophetes/ my herre brether in my bodye/ because of the false prophetes/ all my bones shalbe: I am become like a drunken man/ that by the reason of wyne can take no refre/ for very feare of the Lorde/ and of his holy woide: Because the lande is full of adounerers/ where thowert is destroyed/ and mourneth/ and the pleasure pastures of the deserte are dryed vpi. Yett the waye that men take/ is wicked/ and their gouernance is nothinge like the holy woide of the Lorde. For the prophetes and the priestes them selfe are polluted wch/ and their wickednesse haue I founde in my house/ sayeth the Lorde. Wherefore/ their waye shalbe shopped in darkenesse/ wherean they maye steele and fall. For I will bringe a plague vpon them/ wch the yeare of their visitacion/ sayeth the Lorde. I haue sene sely amonge the prophens of Samaria; they preached for Baal/ and vscauht my people of Israel. I haue also amonge the Prophets of Ierusalem soule aduocary/ w<sup>ch</sup> presumptuous lyce. They take the most shamefull men by the hande/ flatteringe them/ so that they can not returne from their wickednesse. All these with their ciues/ syne are vnto me as Sodom/ and as the inhabytours of Gomora.

Jer. ix. b Therefore thus saierh the Lord of hostes/ concerninge the prophetes. Beholde/ I will fede them with wormewood/ and make them synke the water of gal. so: from the prophetes of Ierusalem is the sickenesse of Spereis/ come into all the lande.

Jer. xxi. b And therfore the Lorde of hostes geuerh you this warning: I feare not the wordes of the prophetes/ that p<sup>re</sup>ache vnto you/ and vscauht you: for they speake the meaning of their owne herte / and not oute of the mowthe of the Lorde. They saye vnto them that vspr<sup>y</sup>ke me: The Lorde hath spoken in Tulse/ ye shall prosper ryght wel.

Jer. x. c And vnto all them that walke after the luste of their owne herte / they saye: Tulse / there shall no misfortune happen you. For who hath sayen in the counsaill of the Lorde/ that he hath herde and vnderstande/ what he is aboute to do: Who hath marked his voyce/ and herde it: Beholde/ the stormy weyther of the Lorde/ that is his indignacion/ shall go forth/ and shall fall vpon the heade of the vngodly. And the warty of the Lorde shall not turne againe/ vntill he persourne/ and fulfill the thought of his herte.

Jer. xxi. b I haue not sene these prophetes / C saierh the Lorde/ and ye: they ranne. I haue not spoken to them / and yet they p<sup>re</sup>ached. But of they had conuained in my counsaill and herde my wordes / they had turned my people from their euill wayes / and wicked ymaginations. Am I then God that seerh but by the thinge / which is nye at hande / a not that I p<sup>re</sup>sp<sup>er</sup>nd as farre of: saierh the Lorde. Make any man byde him selfe so that I shall not sic him: Amos. ix. a saierh the Lorde. I do not I fulfill brauen t<sup>h</sup> Eja. lxi. a and earth / saierh the Lorde. I haue herde Jer. vi. f well enough what the prophetes saye / that preache lyce in my name / sayng: I haue v<sup>er</sup>med / I haue dreamed. Howe longe will this continue in the prophetes herzen / to all lyce and to p<sup>re</sup>ache the crasty fantasy of their owne herte: Whose purpose is C with the dreamers that euery one tell / do make my people forget my name / as their forefathers dyd when Baal came op. The prophet that hath a dreame / let him tell it: / And he that vnter / standeth my wordes / let him s<sup>er</sup>ue it sayng: I fully.

For what hath chaffe and v<sup>er</sup>beare do together / saierh the Lorde. Is not my word like a fyre / saierh the Lorde / and lyke an hammer / that breaketh the harde stone: Therfore thus saierh the Lorde: Beholde / I will op<sup>er</sup> the prophetes / that shall my word p<sup>re</sup>ach vnto every man. Beholde / here am I / saierh the Lorde / against the prophetes / that take vpon their tunges / to speake: The Lorde hath sayde it. Beholde / here am I / saierh the Lorde / against those prophetes / that barre prophety lyce / and vscauht my people with their vanities and miracles / whome I neuer sene / nor commaunded them. They shall do this people great harme / saierh the Lorde.

If it is people / cyther any prophete or p<sup>re</sup>st / are the / and saye: what is the burthen of the Lorde: Thou shalt saue into the: what burthen: Therefore wil I calle you for me / saierh the Lorde / because ye youre selves are a burthen. And the prophes / p<sup>re</sup>st / or people that v<sup>er</sup>sh this terme / the burthen of the Lorde / him wil I visite / and his house also.

But thus shall ye saue euery one to another: What sunfere hath the Lorde geuen: or what is the Lorde commaunder: And as for the burthen of the Lorde / ye shall speake none of it: for euery mans owne word is his burthen / because ye haue altered the wordes of the luinge God / the Lorde of hostes oure God.

Thus shall euery man saie to the prophetes: what sunfere hath the Lorde geuen the: Or what saierh the Lorde: And not once to name the burthen of the Lorde. Therfore thus saie: the Lorde: for somuch as ye haue v<sup>er</sup>sh this terme / the burthen of the Lorde / where as I now / withstandinge you vnto you / I shall bid you to speake of the Lorde burthen.

Behold/therefore I will repute you as a burthen/and will cast you out of my presence: ye/and the cite also that I gave you and your fathers:and will bringe you to an eueshall neuer be forgotten.

The XXXIII Chapter.

In the Lorde showed me a vision: Bee-hold/there stode two maundes of figges before the temple of the Lorde/after that Nabuchodonosor King of Babilon had ledde away captiue Iechonias the sonne of Joachim King of Iuda/the mighty men also of Iuda/with the workemasters and cunninge men of I:rusalem/unto Babilon. In the one maunde were very good figges/euen like co-rthoe that be first ripe. In the other maunde were very naughty figges/ which might not be eaten/they were so euill.

Then saide the Lorde vnto me: what seest thou Jeremy? I sayde: I figges/ whereof some be very good/a some so euill/that no ma-nye can eat them.

Then came the worde of the Lorde vnto me/after this maner: Thus saeyth the Lorde the God of I:rael: like as thou knowest the good figges/so shall I knowe the men ledde away out of Iuda/whome I haue sent out of this place into the lande of the Caldees/for their proficit/and I will set myne eyes vppon them for the best/for I will bring them again into this lande: I will buyde them vp/a not breake them downe: I will plant them/a not rote them out. And I will geue them an eare to knowe me/so that I am the Lorde.
They shall be my people/a I will be theyr God/for they shall returne vnto me in their whole heart.

And like as thou knowest the naughty figges/which may not be eaten/they are so euill: Euen so will I/ (saeyth the Lorde) let Serdecias the Kinge of Iuda/yece/and all his pynne/and the residue of Ierusalem that re-maine ouer in this lande/and them also that dwell in Egipte/ to be vexed and plagued in all Kingdomes and landes. And will make them to be a reipose/a common bywoode/laughtinge stocke/and shame in all the places/where I shall feare them. I will scide the swardes/bringe and pestilence amonge them/ vntill I haue cleane consumed them out of the lande/that I gaue vnto them and their fathers.

The xxx. Chapter.

In my vision that was giuen vnto Jeremy vpon all the people of Iuda: In the fourth yeare of Joachim the sonne of Josias Kynge of Iuda/that was in the first yeare of Nabuchodonosor Kynge of Babilon. Whiche sermone/ Jeremy the prophet made vnto all the people of Iuda/and to all the inhabitants of Ierusalem/ in this maner:

From the first year of the sonne of Amos Kynge of Iuda/ vnto this present daye/(that is: sixty year) the worde of the Lorde de hath bene committed vnto me. And so I haue spoken to you/ I haue cryen vp early/ and I haue giuen you warninge in season/ but ye wolde not heare me: I though the Lorde hath sent his seruantes/ al the prophetes vnto you in season: yet wolde ye not obeye/ ye would not enclieue youre eares to heare.

He sayde: I warte agaynst euery man from his euill waye/ and from youre wicked imagi-nacions/ and so shall ye dwell for euer in the lande/ that the Lorde promised you a youre forefathers: And go not after strange gods/des/ serue them not/ worship them not/ and angre me not with the woifes of your han-des: they will not I punyssh you: Neuertheles/ ye wolde not heare me. (saeyth the Lorde) but haue desired me with the woifes of youre handes/ to youre owne great harme.

Wherefore thus saeyth the Lorde of hones: Because ye haue not deferred vnto my worde/ so I will sende out/ and call for: all the people that dwell in the North (saeyth the Lorde) and will prepare Nabuchodonosor the Kynge of Babilon/ my seruant/ and will bring them vpon this lande/ a vpon all that dwell therein/ and vpon all the people that are about them/ and will vnterly rote them out: I will make of them a wilderness/ a woefull/ and a continuall deserte.

I knowe/ I will take from the voice of gladnesse and solace/ the voice of the Sibe-grams/ and the Sydes/ the voice of the anoy-ned/ with the restnesse: and this whole land shall become a wilderness/ and they shall serue the sayde people/ and the Kynge of Babilon.

these come yeares and ten. When the. lxx. yeares are expired I will visit also the wickednesse of the kynge of Babylon and his people I will saye the Lord: yee/and the lande of the Caldees/and will make it a perpetual wilderness/ and will fulfill all my wordes upon that lande/ which I haue spoken agaynst it: yee/ all thesare written in this booke/ whiche Jeremy hath prophesied of al people: so that they also shalbe subdued vnto euery natione and great kynge: for I will recompence them/ according to theyr deedes and workes of theyr owne handes.

E For thus hath the Lord God of Israel spoken vnto me: Take this wyne cuppe of indignation from my hande/ that thou mayest cause all the people (to whom I sende the) for to drinke of it: when they haue dronken therof/ they maye be madde/ and out of their mynde/ when the sworde cometh that I will sende amonge the. Then toke I the cuppe from the Lords hande/ and made all the people drinke therof/ vnto whom the Lord had sent me.

But first the citty of Ierusalem/ and all the cittyes of Iuda/ their kynge and pyncea: to make the desolare/ wast/ despised/ and cursid/ accordinge as it is come to passe this daye. Yee/ and Pharaos the kyng of Egypte/ his seruantes/ his pyncea/ and his people altogether one with another. And all kynge of the lande of Assual/ kyng of the Philistines lande/ of Chalson/ Gaza/ Accaron/ the remnant of Iudah/ the Edomites/ the Moabites/ and the Ammonites: all the kynge of Tirus/ and Edon/ the kynge of the Isles/ that are beyonde the see: Seban/ Themas/ Bug/ and the spauen Ismailites/ all the kynge of Arabi/ a Generally/ all the kynge that dwell in the beserte: all the kynge of Sumer/ all the kynge of Elia/ all the kynge of the Medes/ all kynge towarde the North/ (whether they be farre or nye) euery one with his neyghboure: Yee/ and all the kyngdomes/ that are vnto the whole earth: The kyng of Sebach/ sayde he/ shal drinke with them also.

And saye thou vnto them: this is the commandement of the Lordes of hostes the God of Israel: drinke and be droncke/ speere and fall/ that ye neuer tye stand that shoure

the swordes/ which I will sende amonge you. But if they will not receaue the cuppe of thy hande/ and drinke it/ then tell them. Thus sayeth the Lord: of hostes the God of Israel: I will sende the sworde/ whiche I will cause you to drinke/ it ye shal/ and that shortly. So lo/ I begynne to plague the citty/ that my name is geue vnto/ to drinke ye then that I will leaue you vnto/ my selfe: Ye shal not go quyre: for why? I call for a sworde vpon all the inhabitours of the earth/ sayeth the Lord of hostes.

Therefore tell them all these wordes/ and saye vnto them: The Lord shall crye from above/ and let his voyce be heard from his holy habitacon. With a greates noyse shall he crye from his courtie regall. He shall geue a greates voyce (like the grape gatherers) vpon all them that dwell on the earth/ and he shalbe therof shalbe heard vnto the endes of the world. For the Lord hath a iudgment to geue vpon all people/ he will holde his courtie of iustice with all fleshe/ and punishe the vngodly/ sayeth the Lord.

For thus sayeth the Lord of hostes: Beholde/ a miserable plague shal goe from one people to another/ and a great stoumy water shal arise/ from all the endes of the earth. And the same daye shall the Lord him selfe slaye them/ from one ende of the earth to another. There shal no more be made for any of them/ none gathered vp/ nor be buried: but shal lie as dounge vpon the ground.

Wourne/ o ye shepherdes/ a crie: spynce/ lie youre fildes with afflic/ o ye rammes of the flocke: for the tyme of youre slaughter is fulfilled/ and ye shal fall like sheffis cunningly made for pleasure.

The shepherdes shal haue no waye to scape/ and the rammes of the flocke shal not escape. Then shal the shepherde crye mournly/ and the rammes of the flocke shal mourne/ for the Lord shall consume their pasture/ and their best fildes/ shal he dead because of the horrible wrath of the Lord. They shal forsake their foldes like as a Lyon: for their landes shalbe waste/ because of the wrath of the Destroyer/ and because of his fearefull indignation.

In the beginninge of the rainge of 300<sup>o</sup> when the sonne of Josias kynge of Judah came this woide from the Lozde / sayinge thus sayeth the Lozde: I stande in the court of the Lozdes house / and spake vnto all of them / whiche oure of the cities of Iuda came to so w<sup>o</sup>uld b<sup>u</sup>gge in the Lozdes house: al the woide that I haue commaunde h<sup>o</sup> to saye: Take that thou seest nor one woide backe / if (peradventure) they wil heken / and turne euery man from his wicked waye: that I may also repente of the plague / whiche I haue determined to bringe v<sup>o</sup> them / because of their wicked inuention.

And after this maner shalst thou speake vnto them: Thus sayeth the Lozde: if ye will not obeye me to walke in my lawes / whiche I haue giuen you / and to heare the woide of my seruantes / the prophetes / whome I sent vnto you / singe vp timely and ful singinge: I feare wyl not folowe them / (I saye) then wyl I go to this house / as I byd vnto Silo / and will make this cytie to be abhorred of al the people of the earth. And the priestes / the prophetes / and all the people herde Jeremy preach thes woide / in the house of the Lozde.

B Now when he had spoken out all the woide / that the Lozde commaunded him to preche vnto all the people / then the priestes / the prophetes / and all the people toke bolde vpon him / and sayde: thou shalt dye. Howe haerell thou be so bold / as to saye in the name of the Lozde: it shal happen to this house as it byd vnto Silo: and this cytie shal be so wast / that no man shal dwell therein:

And when all the people were gathered aboute Jeremy in the house of the Lozde: the prynces of Iuda herde of this rumoure / and they came some oure of the kinges palayce into the house of the Lozde / and sat them vntoone beside the trewe porte of the Lozde. Then spake the priestes / and the prophetes vnto the rulers / and to all the people these woide: This man is worthy to dye / for he hath preched againste this cytie: so ye youre selues haue herde it with youre eares.

Then saide Jeremy vnto the rulers and to all the people: The Lozde hath sente me to preche againste this house / and againste this cytie: al the woide that ye haue herde: I thus for aynde youre wayes / and your aduersmentes / and be obedient vnto the voyce of the Lozde: your God: so shal the Lozde repente of the plague / that he hath vnto agaynste you: I am as for me: I am in your handes / do with me as ye thinke expedient and good: But this shal ye knowe: if ye put me to death / ye shal make your selues / the cytie / and all the inhabitours thereof / guilty of innocent blood. For this is of a trouth: that the Lozde hath sente me vnto you / to speake all these woide in youre eares.

Then saide the rulers and all the people vnto the priestes and prophetes: This man may not be condemned to death / for he hath preched vnto vs in the name of the Lozde our God. The Elders also of the lande tolde vp and saide thus vnto all the people: Michas the Moabite / whiche was a prophet vnder Ezechias kynge of Iuda / spake to all the people of Iuda: Thus sayeth the Lozde of hostes: I don shal be plowed like a fild / Jerusalem shal be an heape of stones / and the hill of the Lozdes house shal be turned to an hye wood: Syd Ezechias the kynge of Iuda / and the people of Iuda put him to death / for this: No verely / but rather feared the Lozde / and made their prayer vnto him. For the whiche cause also the Lozde repented of the plague / whiche he had vnto agaynste them. Shoulde we the do such a shameful dede agaynste our soules? There was a prophet also / that preched stiffly in the name of the Lozde: called Duas the sonne of Serchia of Carathaim: this man preched also agaynste this cytie / and agaynste this lande: accordinge to al as Jeremy sayeth.

Now when I Joachim the king with al the states and prynces had herde his woide / the king wente aboute to slawe him. When he was as perreached that he was a fild / and fled / a Mare / departed into Egypte.

Then Joachim the kynge sente seruantes vnto the lande of Egypte / namely: Elichan the sonne of Abbot / a certayne men with him into Egypte / whiche filded Duas out of Egypte / and brought him vnto kinge Jeremy: that slawe him with the sword: a castle he had body into y<sup>e</sup> comon peoples graue. But when the sonne of Saphan helped Jeremy

I am he that made the earth / the men and the cattel that are upon the grounde / with my greate power and outstretched arme / I haue geuen it vnto whome it pleased me. And nowe will I visitur al these landes into the power of Nabuchodonosor the kinge of Babylon / my seruauit. The heaues also of the skyd shall I geue him to do him seruice. And al people shal serue him / and his sonne / a hechildes childe / vntill the tyme of the same lande be come also: For many people a greate kinges shal serue him.

Notouer / that people a kingdome which wil not serue Nabuchodonosor / and that wil not put their neckes vnder the yocke of the kinge of Babilon: the same people wil I visit with swerde / with hunger / with pestilence / vntill I haue consumed them in his handes /

Saith the Loide. And therefore / so loe we not your prophetes / sayth sayers / expoundinge of vicars / doctores / a widders / which say vnto you: that not serue the kinge of Babilon.

For they picach you lyes / to bringe you farre from youre lande / and that I mighte call you out / and destroy you. But the people that put their neckes vnder the yocke of the kinge of Babilon / and serue him / those I will let re-maine still in their owne lande / saith the Loide.
And they shal occupie it / and dwell therein.

All these thinges tolde I Sedechias the kinge of Juda / and sayde: But youre neckes vnder the yocke of the kinge of Babilon / and serue him and his people / thare ye maye lyue.
Why wilte thou and the people perishe with the swerde / with hunger / with pestilence / like as the Loide hath seued for al people: that wil not serue the kinge of Babilon: Therefore geue no care vnto those prophetes / (that tell you: that not serue the kinge of Babilon) for they picach you lyes / neither haue I sent them / sayth the Loide: howbeit / they are bold / falsly for to prophete in my name: that I mighte the sooner vnto you ouer / a that ye mighte perishe with your picacher.

I saie to the people also and to al the people: Thus saith the Loide: Heare not the wordes of those prophetes / that picache vnto you / and saye: Beholde / the vessels of the Loides house shal shortly be broughte the againe from Babilon: for they prophete the lyes vnto you: Heare them not / But knowe the kinge of Babilon / that ye maye lyue.
Wherefore will ye make this ome to be stroyed: But if they be true prophetes in wey / and if the woodde of the Loide be committed vnto them / then let them picke the Loide of hostes / that the remanent of the ornamentes / which remaine yet in the house of the Loide / and in the house of the kinge of Juda and at Ierusalem / be not carryed to Babylon also: for thus hath the Loide of hostes spoken concerninge the pylars / the lauer / the seate and the residue of the ornamentes / that yet remaine in this cite / whiche Nabu-chodonosor the kinge of Babilon toke not:
when he carryed awaye Iechonias the sonne of Iachin kinge of Juda / with all the porter of Juda and Ierusalem / from Ierusalem vnto Babilon / captiue.

Yet thus hath the Loide of hostes the God of Israel spoken / as touchinge the residue of the ornamentes of the Loides house / of the kinge of Judas house and of Ierusalem: They shal be carryed vnto Babilon / and there they shal remaine / vntill I visit them / saith the Loide. Then will I bringe them hither againe. And this was done in the same yeare: euen in the beginninge of the raygne of Sedechias kinge of Juda.

The XXVII. Chapter.

IN the fourth yeare of the raygne of Sedechias kinge of Juda in the fyfthe moneth. It happened that Hanania the sonne of Ithur the prophet of Gabson spake to me in the houſe of the Lord: in the preſence of the priuſtes/and of all the people / and ſayde: Thus ſayeth the Lord of hoſtes the God of Iſrael: I haue broken the yoke of the Kinge of Babilon / and after two yeare will I bringe againe into this place / all the ornaments of the Lordes houſe / that Nabuchodonofor Kinge of Babilon caried away from this place: vnto Babilon: Yee / I will bringe againe Iechonias the ſonne of Ioaſhim the Kinge of Iuda himſelfe / with al the priuſters of Iuda: that are caried vnto Babilon: / vnto this place: ſayeth the Lord: for I will breake the yoke of the Kinge of Babilon.

Then the prophet Jeremy gaue anſwere vnto that prophet Hananias / beſore the priuſtes / and beſore al the people / that were preſent in the houſe of the Lord. And the prophet Jeremy ſaide: Amen / the Lord do that / and graunte the things / which thou haſt prophesied: that he maye bringe againe all the ornaments of the Lordes houſe / and reſtore all the priuſters from Babilon in this place: neuertheleſſe / broken thou alſo what I will ſay: that thou and all the people maye heare: The prophetes that were beſore vs in times paſt / whiche prophesied of warre / or trouble / or penitencie / or of peace / vpon many nations and great kingdomes / were proued by thys / if God had ſende them in very ſeas: When the thinge came to paſſe / whiche that prophet ſaide beſore.

And Hananias the prophet toke the chaine from the prophet Jeremias necke / and brake it: and with that ſaide Hananias / that all the people might heare: Thus hath the Lord ſpoken: I ſhall not breake the yoke of Nabuchodonofor Kinge of Babilon / from the necke of al nations: yee / and within this two yeare. And ſo the prophet Jeremy went his waye.

Then nowe that Hananias the prophet had taken the chaine from the prophet Jeremias necke / as he ſoken it: The worde of the Lord came vnto the prophet Jeremy ſayinge: Wo / and tell Hananias theſe wordes: Thus ſayeth the Lord: Thou haſt broken the chaine of wood / ſum ſkeade of wood / thou ſhalt make chaine of yron. For thus ſayeth the Lord of hoſtes the God of Iſrael: I will put a yoke of yron vpon the necke of all this people / that they maye ſerue Nabuchodonofor the Kinge of Babilon: yee / and ſo ſhal they do. And I will gear him the ſcales in the ſide. Then ſayde the prophet Jeremy vnto the prophet Hananias: Heare me / I ſaye: theſe things: The Lord hath not ſente theſe / but thou bringeſt this people into a ſale chaine: And therefore thus ſayeth the Lord: Behelde / I will ſende the out of the land / and within a yeare thou ſhalt ſee: becauſe thou haſt falſely ſpoken againſt the Lord. So Hananias the prophet dyed the ſame yeare in the ſeventh moneth.

The XXXI Chapter.

This is the copie of ſ letters / that Jeremy the prophet ſent from Jeruſalem vnto the priuſters: the ſeruatours / priuſtes / prophetes / and al the people / whome Nabuchodonofor had led vnto Babilon: after the time that Kinge Iechonias / and his queene / his children / and the workemaſters of Jeruſalem were departed thither. Which letters / ſhalſa the ſonne of Euphates / Samaria / and ſonne of Helchia did beare: whome Gedechias the Kinge of Iuda ſent vnto Babilon to Nabuchodonofor King of Babilon: theſe were the wordes of Jeremias letter: Thus hath the Lord of hoſtes the God of Iſrael ſpoken vnto al the priuſters / that were led from Jeruſalem vnto Babilon.

Build ye hauſes to dwell therein: plant ye you gardenes: yee maye enjoye the fruites thereof: take ye wyfe to youſe / and ſonne / and daughter: ye maye enjoye theſe / for your ſonnes / a houſe / and for your daughters / that they maye get ſonnes / a daughter: / that yee maye multiplye there. Laboure not to be ſerue / but ſerue after peace and proſperite of ſine / when yee be the priuſters / and ſerue vnto God for Baru. he it. Joy in the peace thereof / ſhal youe haue. Jer. lxxv. ii. a

For thus ſayeth the Lord of hoſtes the God of Iſrael: Let not theſe prophetes / and ſeruatours ſaye amonge you / ſerue you: and ſerue not your own veynnes. For whye they preach you ſerue in my name / / I haue ſente them / ſayeth the Lord. But thus ſayeth the Lord: When ye haue fulfilled ſeventy yeares at Babilon / I will bringe you home / and of myne one good ſerue. Jer. lxxv. b

The captiuitie of Israel. The Prophet Jeremy.

I knowe what I haue deuyfed for you / saye eth the Lorde. My thoughtes are to geue you peace/and not trouble/which I geue you all readye/and that ye my gyfte haue had a gaine. Ye shall erie vnto me/ye shall goe call vpon me/and I shall heare you. Ye shall feele me/and I shall feele you. Ye shall me/and youe whole heres/ I wil be founde of you/faith the Lorde/and wil gather you out of pynfon/and gather you together again from amonge all nations/and cure of al pla ces/ wherean I haue feared you/faith the Lorde/and wil bringe you againe to the same place/ from whence I caused you to be caried a waye captiue.

But where as ye saye/that God hath sayd that you shal be as Babylon: Thus hath the Lorde spoken/ concerninge the King that steyeth in the scare of Dauid/ and al the people that dwell in this cite/ your brethren/ that are not gone with you into captiuitie. Thus I saye. Behold/ saith the Lorde of hostes: Behold/I wil sende a swearde/ hunger/ and pesti lence oppon them/and will make them lyke vnto my fygges/ that maye not be eaten for they are bitter. And I will persecute them with the swearde/ with hunger and death.

I wil deliuer them vp to be viced of all kingdomes/ to be cursed/ abhorred/ laughed to scorne/ and put to confusion of all the peo ple/ amonge whom I haue feared them: a that because they haue not bene obedient vnto my commandmentes/ saith the Lorde.
 Whereby I sent vnto them by my seruau t the prophetes. I stood vpon earlye/ and sente vnto them/ but they wolde not heare/ sayeth the Lorde. Heare therefore the worde of the Lorde/ al ye pynfoners/ whom I sent from Ierusalem vnto Babylon: Thus saith the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel/ spoken of Iahab the sonne of Coluaz and of Sedechias the sonne of Masias/ whiche prophetic lyce vnto you in my name: Behold/ I wil deli uer them into the bande of Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon/ that he maye slaye them before your eyes. And al the pynfoners of Iuda that are in Babylon/ shall take vpon them this terme of cursing/ and saye: Agre God be vnto thee/ as he hath vnto Sedechias and Iahab/ whom the King of Babylon rested in the pit/ because they sinned shame fully in Israel.

For they haue not onely defiled their neigh boura wyfes/ but also preached lyege wor des in my name/ which I haue not comman ded them. Thus I rethryfe/ and assure/ saith the Lorde. But as for Semia the Uelaha mitte/ thou shalt scape vnto him: Thus saith the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel: Be cause thou hast sealed letters vnder thy name vnto al the people that is at Ierusalem/ and to Sophonias the sonne of Masias the pnest yee/ and sente them to all the pnestes/ wherein thou wast thus vnto him. The Lorde hath ordyned the to be pnestes in steade of Iozia da the pnest/ that thou shouldst be the chiefe in the house of the Lorde aboue all proph etes/ and preachers/ and that thou mightest put them in pynson/ or in the stocks. Howe happyneth it then/ that thou hast not repoi sed Jeremy of Anothar/ whiche neuer lea uerth of his prophecies. And besides al this he hath sente vs wordes vnto Babylon/ and tolde vs pynnes/ that our captiuitie shall longe endure/ that we shoulde dwelde vs hou ses to dwell therein/ and to plante vs gar dens/ that we might enioye the frutes there of. Whiche lettre Sophonias the pnest deli uereth/ and let Jeremy the prophet heare it.

Then came the worde of the Lorde vnto Jeremy/ sayinge: Sende wordes to all them that be in captiuitie/ in this maner: Thus hath the Lorde spoken concerninge Semia the Uelahamitte. Because that Semia hath propheted vnto you without my commissio n/ and brought you into a false hope/ there fore thus wordes the Lorde sende vnto you: Behold/I wil vnto Semia the Uelahamitte/ and his siders/ that none of his shall remaine among the people/ and none of them shall be the good that I wil do for this people/ saith the Lorde. For he hath preached falsly of the Lorde.

The XXX Chapter.

These are the wordes that the Lorde spake vnto Jeremy sayinge: Thus saith the Lorde God of Israel: I wrote vnto you vnto the in a booke. For so the kyng cometh (saith the Lorde) that I wil bringe againe the poysoners of my people of Israel and Iudasayeth the Lord: For I will restore them vnto the lande wher I gaue to their fathers/ and they shall haue it in possession.

Agayne / these wordes speake the Lord / concerninge Iuda and Iuda: Thus sayeth the Lord: We heare terrible crye / feare and disquietnesse. For what els doeth this signific that I see? Namely that all stronge men / myn / every man his hande vpon his loynes / as a woman in the payne of her trauayle. Who euer saue a man trauayle with child: Enquire thereof / and se. Yee / all that face are maruelous pale.

¶ Also for this daye / which is so dreadfull / that none maye be lyfened vnto it: and also for the tyme of Jacobs trouble / from the which he shall yet be deliuered. For in that daye sayeth the Lord: I will take this poeple from of thy necke / and breake thy bandes. They shall no more serue straunge goddes vnder him / but they shall do seruaice vnto God their Lord / and to Iehouah their kinde / whome I will raise vp vnto them. And as for the / my seruauant Jacob / feare not (sayeth the Lord) a be not afrayed / o Israel. For lo / I will helpe that also from faere / and thy side from the lande of their captiuitie.

¶ And Jacob shall turne agayne / he shalbe in rest / a haue a prosperous life / and no man shal make him afrayed. For I am with the / helpe the / sayeth the Lord. And though / I shall restore all the people amonge whome I haue feared / they yet will I not destroye the / but correcte the / and that with discretion. For I knowe / thou art in no wise / without faulte. Therefore thus saith the Lord: I am sory for thy hurte and woundes. There is no man to make wylthy thy cause / or to bynde vp thy woundes: there maye no man helpe the.

¶ All thy louers haue forgotten the / and care nothinge for the. For I haue giuen the a cruel stroke / and chokened the roughly: and that for the multitude of thy misdeeds / for thy synnes haue had the ouerhande. Why makest thou moone for thy harme? I myself haue purged thy synnes / but for the multitude of thy misdeeds a synnes / I haue done this vnto the.

led into the captiuitie. All they that make the wastell / shalbe wasted them selfes: and all those that robbe the / will I make also to be robbed. For I will geue the thy healeth agayne / and make thy woundes whole / saith the Lord: because they reuled the / as one cast a waye and despised / o Zion.

¶ For thus saith the Lord: Beholde / I will set vp I Jacobs tentes agayne / and I will sende the vnto thy dwellinge place. The cite shalbe builded in her olde estate / a the houses shal haue their right foundacion. And out of them shal goe thankes / geuynge / and the voyce of ioye.

¶ I will multiplie them / and they shall not mynished / I shall enbue them with honoure / and no man shall subdue them. Their children shalbe as afore tyme / and their congregation shall continue in my sight. And all those that rege them / will I vylte.

¶ I captaine also shall come of them / and a prince shall sprynge out from the myddell of them: him will I chalenge to my self / a he shall come vnto me. For what is he / that geureth ouer his herie to come vnto me? saith the Lord: He shalbe my people also / a I will be Iere. iij. b your God. Beholde / on the other side shall I be the warth of the Lord breake out as a storme / a I will weete / as a mighty wynde: and shall fall vpon the heades of the vngodly.

¶ The terrible displeasure of the Lord: shall not leaue of / till he haue done / and persured the intent of his herie / which in the laste daye ye shall vnderstande. At the same tyme / saith the Lord: I be the God of all the generacions of Israel / and they shalbe my people.

The XXXI. Chapter.

¶ Thus sayeth the Lord: The people of Israel which escaped in the wilderness / founde grace to come into the lande / I founde grace to come into their rest. Euen so shall the Lord now also appere vnto me from farre / and saye: I haue loued the with an euerlastinge loue / therefore do I speake my mercy before the. I will reape the agayne / as thou daughter of Israel / that thou mayest be fast and sure. Thou shalt take thy tabernacles agayne / a go forth with the / the dancke.

¶ Thou shalt plante vynes agayne vpon the hilles of Samaria / and the grape garberces shall

2. Sa. ii. a

And when it is tyme / the watchmen vpon the mount of Sion shall crye: † Arise / let vs go vp vnto Zion to oure Lorde God / for thus saith the Lorde: Reioyce with glad-nesse because of Iacob / erie vnto the heade of the Gentiles / speake out / singe / and saye: The Lorde shall deliuer his people / the remnant of Israel / and make them whole. Beholde / I will bringe them agayne from out of the Northlandes / and gather them from the endes of the world / with the bynde and lanc that are amonge them / with the women that be greate with childe / and such as be also deliue-red: and the company of them that come a-gayne / shalbe greate.

They departed from hence in beautynes / but with ioye will I bringe them hither a-gayne. I will lide the by the ryuers of water in a straight way / where they shall not stuble:

2. Co. vii. a

† For I will be Israels father / and Ephraim
 shall be my firstborne.

2. Co. vii. a

Heare the voyde of the Lorde / Coze Gentiles / prech in the Iles that ye heare of / and saye: that hath feared Israel / shall gather him together agayne / and shall kepe him as a shep: heide vnto his flocke. For the Lorde shall redeme Iacob / and rydde him from the hande of the violent. And they shal come / and reioyce vpon the hill of Sion / and shall haue plentifulnesse of goodes / which the Lorde shall geue them: namely / wheate / wyne / oyle / yonge shepe / and calves. And their conscience shalbe as a wellwarred garden / for they shall nomore be hungrye.

2. Co. vii. a

Then shall the mayde reioyce in the daunce / see both yonge and old folkes. For I will turne them / soe into gladnesse / and will comforte them / and make them ioyfull / euen from their heries / I will poure plentifulnesse vpon the heries of the puellis / and my people shalbe satisfied with good thinges / saith the Lorde.

2. Co. vii. a

Thus saith the Lorde: † The voyce of beuaynes / weeping and lamentacion came vp into heauen: euen of Rachel mourninge for her chyldren / and wolde not be comforted / because they were awaye.

2. Co. vii. a

But now saith the Lorde: leaue off from weeping and crying / witholde thine eyes from teares / for thy labour shalbe rewarded / saith the Lorde. And they shall come a-gayne out of the lande of theyr enemies: Yee / euen thy posterite shall haue consolacion in this / saith the Lorde / that thy chyldeuen shall come agayne into their owne lande.

Moreover / I herde Ephraim / that was led awaye captiue / complayne on this maner: † O Lorde / thou hast correcte me / and thy chastenyng haue I receaued as an un-derstande. I conuerted because of me / and I shall be conuerted / for thou art my Lorde God.
 Yee / as sone as thou turnest me / I shall refouer me myselfe / and when I vnderstande / I shall synce vpon my thye. For vnto thee I haue committed shamefull thinges: O let my youth beate this repose and confusion.

Vpon this complayne / I thought thus by myselfe: tis not Ephraim my deare sonne: I oke not the childe / with whom I haue had all mynch and pastyme: for sence the tyme that I first commoued with hym / I haue him euer in remembraunce: therefore my very herte dysreth me vnto hym: gladly and louynghly will I haue mercy vpon hym / saith the Lorde. Yet the watchmen / prayde readers for the: sit thyne herte vpon the righte waye that thou shouldest walke / and turne agayne: O thou daughter of Israel / turne agayne to these ciues of thyne. How longe wilt thou go astraye / o thou shewyng the daughter: for the Lorde will woike a new thyng vpon early: A woman shall commou a man.

For thus saith the Lorde / of hoosie the God of Israel: Ie wil come therto / that when I haue brought Iuda out of captiuitie / these woide shalbe bred in the lande of Iuda and in his ciues: The Lorde / which is the saye I bydrome of righteousnesse / make the fruit full / o thou holy hill: And there shall dwell Iuda and all her ciues / the shepherdes and housholde men: for I shall fede the hungry soule / and refrecth all faynte heries. When I herde this / I came agayne to myselfe / and mused like as I had bene waked out of a sweet slepe.

Beholde / saith the Lorde / the daye cometh that I will sowe the house of Israel and the house of Iuda with me and with carrel. † Yee / I shall come therto / that like as I haue gone them / to breake them downe / to destroye them / and challen them: Euen so will I also go dili-

13. v. 1. b Beholde / the Bayes come / saith the Lorde that I will make a new conuauant with the house of Israel / and with the house of Iu-da: not after the education that I made with they fathers / wher I toke them by the hande / and ledde them out of the lande of Egypte:
 which conuauant they brake / wherfore I pursued them sore / saith the Lorde: But this shall be the conuauant that I will make with the house of Israel after those Bayes / saith the Lorde: I will plante my lawe in the inward partes of them / and write it in their heertes / and wilbe their God / and they shall be my people.

And from thence forth shall no man reach his neyghboure on his disober / a saye: I knowe the Lorde: But they shall all knowe me / from the lowest vnto the hest / saith the Lorde. for I will forgieue their mysdoes / and will neuer remember they synnes any more. Thus saith the Lorde: I which gaue the Sunne to be a light for the daye / and the Moone and sterres to shine in the night: which moueth the see / so that the floudes thereof wafered: his name is the Lord of hostes. Like as this ordinance shall neuer be taken out of my sight / saith the Lorde: So shall the side of Israel neuer cease / but alwaye be a people before me.

Whosoever thus saith the Lorde: like as the heauen aboue can not be measured / and as the foundacions of the earth beneth maye not be sought out: I So wil I also not cast ouer the whole side of Israel / for that they haue co-mitted / saith the Lorde: Beholde / the Bayes come saith the Lorde / that the cite of the Lorde shall be enlarged from the tower of Bananeth / vnto the gate of the corner wall:
 from thence shall the right measure be taken before her vnto the hill topp of Ward / and shal come aboute Gaatha / I a the whole valley of the dead carcasses and of the asbes / and all Seremoth / vnto the hie of Eadion: and from thence vnto the corner of the house towards the East / where as the Sanctuary of the Lorde also shall be set: And when it is now buyded / and set vp of this fashion / it shall neuer be broken / nor cast downe any more.

The XXXII. Chapter.

These wordes spake the Lorde vnto Jeremy in the tenth yeare of Sedechias kinge of Iuda / which was the xiiii. yere of Nabu-chodonosor / whar tyme as the kinge of Baby-lone hooste layed siege vnto Ierusalem. But Jeremy the prophet laye bounde in the court of the prison / which was in the kinge of Iudas house: where Sedechias the kinge of Iuda caused him to be layed / because he had prophesied of this manner: Thus saith the Lorde: Beholde / I will deliuer this cite into the hande of the kinge of Babylon / which shall take it. As for Sedechias kinge of Iuda he shall not be able to escape the Caldees / but surrelye he shall come into the hande of the kinge of Babylon: which shall speake with him mouth to mouth / and one of the shall loke another in the face. And Sedechias shall be carried vnto Babylon / and there shall he be / vntill the tyme that I visit him / saith the Lorde. But if thou takest in hande to fight agaynst the Caldees / thou shalt not prosper.

And Jeremy sayde: Thus hath the Lorde spoken vnto me: Beholde / Hananeel the sonne of Shallum / thine vncles sonne shall come vnto the / and require the redeme the lande / that lieth in Anath / vnto thy self: for by reason of synned it is thy parte to redeme it / and to bye it out.

And so Hananeel myne vncles sonne came to me in the court of the prison / (according to the worde of the Lorde) I sayde vnto me: Bye my lande / I praye the that lieth in Ana-th / in the countie of Ben Jamin: for by her-rage thou hast right to loose it out: for thy self therfore redeme it. The J perceaued that this was the commaundment of the Lorde / and so I loosed the lande for Hananeel of Ana-th / myne vncles sonne / and weyed him there the money / euen seuen shekels / and ten siluer pence.

I caused him also to make me a writing and to scale it / and called receiue thereby / and weyed him there the money upon the waights. So I toke the euidence with the copie (when it was orderly scaled and red cur) and I geue the euidence vnto Baruch the sonne of Nerias the sonne of Masias / in the sight of Hanania my cousin / and in the presence of the witnesses / that be named in the euidence / and before all the Iewes that were therby in the court of the mynster.

I charged Baruch also before the / sayinge: The Lorde of hostes the God of Israel commaundeth theto take this scaled euidence with the copie / and to laye it in an earthen vessel / that it maye longe continue.

For the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel hath determined / that house / felde / and vineyardes shalbe possessed agayne in this lande.

Now when I had deliuered the euidence vnto Baruch the sonne of Nerias / I besought the Lorde sayinge: O Lorde God. It is thou that hast made heauen and earth with thy greete power and thy arme / and there is nothinge so harde for thee. Thou shewest mercy vpon thy seruants / thou redeemest all the wickednes of the fathers / into the bowme of the children / that come after them.

Thou art the greete a mighty God / whose name is the Lorde of hostes: greete in counsaile / and infinite in thought: Thine eyes loke vpon all the wayes of mans children / it to remember euery one after his waye / accordinge to the frutes of his inventions. Thou hast done greete tokens and wonders in the lande of Egypte / (as we see this daye) vpon the people of Israel and vpon these me: to make thy name greete / as it is come to passe this daye. Thou hast brought thy people of Israel out of the lande of Egypte / with tokens / with wonders / with a mighty hande / with stretched out arme / and with greete terriblenes: and hast geuen the this lande / like as thou haddest promised vnto their fathers: Namely that thou woldst geue them a lande / that sheweth truly mylke and honye.

Now when they came therein / and possessed it / they folowed not thy voyce / and woldst not in thy lawe: but all that thou com-maundest them too do / that haue they not done / and therefore come all these plagues vpon them.

Beholde / these are diuinities made now agaynst the time to take it / a it shalbe worne of the Caldees that besiege it / with swerde / with hunger and heare / and loke what thou hast spoken / that same shal come vpon them.

For lo / all thinges are present vnto the: Yet sayest thou vnto me O Lord God / and commaundest me / that I shall lose out a peece of lande vnto my self / and take witnesses thereto / and yet in the meane season the time is deluyed vnto the power of the Caldees.

Then came the wordes of the Lorde vnto me sayinge: Beholde / I am the Lord God of all flesh / Is there any thinge then to be done for me: Therefore thus sayde the Lorde: I beholde / I shall deluyer this time into the power of the Caldees / and into the power of Nabuchodonosor the kinge of Babylon / they shall take it in: so the Caldees shal come / a wyne this time / and set fyre vpon it / and burne it with the gorgeous houses / in those partes they haue made sacrifice vnto Baal / and poured vnto the offeringes vnto straunge goddes / to prouoke me vnto wrath.

For I charge the children of Israel and the children of Iuda haue wrought wickednes before me cur from their youth vp / what haue they done / but prouoked me with the workes of their owne handes / sayeth the Lord.

What hath this cite bene clew / but a prooueking of my wrath / since the daye that I builded it vnto this houre. Wherein I cast it out of my sight / because of the greete blasphemies of the children of Israel and Iuda / which they haue done to prouoke me: yet they their fingers / they pines / they pielles / they prophetes / woldst Iuda / and all these citizens of Ierusalem.

When I sode up early / and taught the / and instructed the / they minded their backs to me / and norther faces: They wolde not heare / to be reformed and corrected. They haue set their goddes in the house / that is beloued vnto my name / to desyleite. They haue builded the place for Baal / in the valley of the children of Sennon / to prouoke me: soules and daughters vnto Moloch / which I neuer comin角度 them / neyther came it cuer in my thought / to make Iuda to synne with such abhominacion.

¶ Moreover / thus hath the Lorde God of Iſrael ſpoken / concerninge this cite / which Caſe ye your ſelves confeſſe / I ſhalbe deliuered into the hande of the Kinge of Babylon / when this woman with the ſwearde / with hunger and with pſtilence. ¶ Beholde / I will gather them together ſeſ all landes / wherein I haue ſcattered them in my wrath / in my fearful and greate diſpleaſure / and will bringe them againe vnto this place / where they ſhall dwell ſafely. And they ſhalbe my people / as I will de they: God.

¶ And I will geue them one herte / and one waye / ſhat they maye feare me all the dayes of their life / that they and their children after the maye proſper. And I will ſet vp an euell ſinge euonant with them. Namely: that I will neuer ceaſe to do them good / and that I will put my feare in their hertes / ſo that they ſhal not truncke awaye fro me.

¶ Yee / I will haue a liſt and pleaſure to do them good / and faithfully to plante them in this land / with my whole herte / and with all my ſoule.

For thus ſaith the Lorde: I haue brought all this greate plague vpon this people: ſo will I alſo bringe vpon them all the good that I haue promiſed them. And men ſhall haue their poſſiſions in this lade / where of ye ſaye now / that it ſhall neyther be inhabited of people nor of cattell / but be deliuered into the hande of the Caldees. Yee / lade ſhalbe bought for money / and euidences made there vpon / and ſealed before witneſſes / in the countrey of Ben Jamin / and rounde aboute Jeruſalem: in the ciues of Iuda / in the ciues that are vpon the mountaine / and in them that lic beneth / and in the ciues that are in the deſerte. For I will bringe their priſoners hither againe / ſaith the Lord.

The XXXIII. Chapter.

¶ Discover the worde of the Lorde came vnto Jeremy on this maner / when he was yet bounde in the countrey of the priſon: Thus ſaith the Lorde / which fulfillith the thinge that he ſpeaketh / the Lord which perfourmeth the thinge that he ſaith in hande:

uen he whoſe name is the Lord: Thou haſt eried vnto me / and I haue herde thee: I haue ſhewed greate and hie thinges / which were unknowne vnto you.

¶ Thus I ſaye / ſpeaketh the Lorde God of Iſrael / concerninge the houſe of this cite / and the houſe of the Kinge of Iuda: that they ſhalbe broken thorow the aduance of a weapon / when the Caldees come to beſiege them: and they ſhalbe ſlled with the head careaſe of men / whom I will ſlaye in my wrath and diſpleaſure: when I turne my face from this cite / becauſe of all her wickednes. Beholde / ſaith the Lorde: I will heale their wounds / and make them whole: I will open them the treaſure of peace / and truth.

¶ And I will returne the captiuitie of Iuda and Iſrael: and will ſet them vp againe as they were afore. ¶ From all miſdeeds / wherein they haue offended againſt me / I will cleaſe the: And all their blaſphemies / which they haue done againſt me / when they regarded me not / I will forgive them.

¶ And thus ſhall get me a name / a prayſe / and honoure amonge al people of the earth / which ſhall heare all the good that I will ſhewe vnto them: Yee / they ſhalbe afraid and aſtoned at al the good I doo / and benefites / that I will do for them. Moreover / thus ſaith the Lorde: ¶ In this place / where of ye ſaye that it ſhalbe a wilderneſſe / wherein neyther people nor cattell ſhall dwell: In this maner in the ciues of Iuda and without Jeruſalem / which alſo ſhalbe ſo worde / that neyther people nor cattell ſhall dwell there. ſhal the voyce of gladneſſe be herde againe / the voyce of the byrd / the groome / and of the byrd / the voyce of ſheep that ſhall ſynge: ¶ C Diſt / the Lorde of hoſtes / I will be to laynne / and his mercy endureth for cuer / and the voyce of them that ſhal offre vpon giſtes in the houſe of I Lord. ¶ For I will reſtore the captiuitie of this lade as it was afore / ſaith the Lorde. ¶ Thus ſaith the Lorde of hoſtes. ¶ It ſhall come yet therto / that in this land / which is voyde from men and cattell / and in all the ciues of the lande / there ſhalbe ſet vp ſhepherdes cottages: in the ciues vpon the mountaine / and in the ciues that lic vpon the playne / and in the deſerte.

In the lande of Ben Jamin / in the felde of Jerusalem / and in the cities of Iuda shall be theye be numbred agayne / vnder the hande of hym that telleth this / sayeth the Lorde 3. re. 11. a. Beholde the tyme cometh / sayeth the Lorde 3. re. 11. a. I will performe that good thyng / which I haue promised vnto the house of Israel / and to the house of Iuda. In those daies / and at the same tyme / I will bunge south vnto Soud the braunch of righteousness / and he shall be equite and righteousnesse in the lande.

 In those dayes shall Iuda be helpe / and Jerusalem shall dwell safe / and he that shall
 call her / is cūen God ouer righteous iudger.
 In those dayes shall Iuda be helpe / and Jerusalem shall dwell safe / and he that shall
 call her / is cūen God ouer righteous iudger.
 For thus saith the Lorde / Soud shall neuer want one to sty upon the state of the house of Israel / neyther shall the priestes and 4. Re. 13. c. Leuites want one to offer alwaye before me / burnt offerings / to fynde / i meat offerings / and to prepare the sacrifices.

And the worde of the Lorde came vnto Jeremy after this maner / Thus saeth the Lorde / Make the conuenaunt / which I haue made with Deye and night / be broken that there shoulde not be Deye and night in due season / Then shal I my conuenaunt also be broken / whiche I made with Soud my seruante / and so he not to haue a kinde to rage in his Trone. / So shall also the pri-1. Pet. 4. a. estes and Leuites neuer saye / but serue me / for like as the starres of heauen shal not be minished / neyther the fonde of the see 1. Pet. 4. a. measured / so will I multiply the sede of Soud my seruante / and of the Leuites my ministers.

Moreover / the worde of the Lorde came to Jeremy / sayinge / Considre / thou not what this people speake / Two kyngdes / saye theye and the Lorde chafen / and the same two haue be call amegre. / For so farre as my people come / that theye haue no hope to come together any more / and to be one people as gayne. / Therefore thus saeth the Lorde / If I haue made no conuenaunt with Deye and night / and giuen no statute vnto heauen and earth / then will I also call awaye the side of Soud my seruante / so that I will take no pleasure out of his sede / to rule the posteritee of Abiathar / Ithar and Jerob. But yet I will turne agayne theye captiuitie / and be merciefull vnto theye.

These are the wordes whiche the Lorde spake vnto Jeremy / what tyme as Na-buchodonosor the kynge of Babilon / all his booke / out of all the kingdomes / were vnder his power / and all his people fought ag-aynt Jerusalem / and all the cities thereof.
 Thus saeth the Lorde God of Israel / Go / and speake to Sedechias the King of Iuda / a tell him / the Lorde sendeth this worde Beholde / I will deliuer this cite into the hande of the kynge of Babilon / he shall burne it / and thou shalt not escape bye a hande / but shalt be led awaye mysoner / and deliuered into his power. / Thou shalt loke the kynge of Babylon in the face / and he shall speake with the mouth to mouth / and then shalt thou be led awaye. / Per heare the worde of the Lorde / Sedechias thou kynge of Iuda / Thus saith the Lorde vnto the / Thou shalt not be slayne with the sword / but shalt dye in peace. / For as thy foreshere / fingers / thy prognourous were bent / so shal thou be burnt also / and in mourninge they shall see the leide. / For thus haue I decreed / saith the Lorde.

Then spake Jeremy the prophet all these wordes vnto Sedechias kynge of Iuda in Jerusalem / what tyme as the kynge of Babilon booke besieged Jerusalem / and the remanent of the cities of Iuda. / Namely / Sedechias and Zedechia / which yet remained of the strongest cities of Iuda.

These are the wordes that the Lorde spake vnto Jeremy the prophet / when Sedechias was agreed with all the people at Jerusalem that there shoulde be proclaymed / a liberte / so that euery man shoulde let goe fro his seruaunt and handmaide / Hebrew and Chiburite / and no Jewe to holde bye another as a bondmaide.
 In this also theyd all the princes and all the people consente / which agreed vnto this con-uenaunt / & euery one shoulde let his seruaunt a his handmaide goe free / and no more to holde them as bonde. / Now as they had consente / euen so they were obedient / let the goe free. / But afterwarde they repented / a toke agayne / ser-uantes a handmaides / whom theye had let ten goe free / and so made them bonde agayne.

For the which cause the worde of the Lorde came vnto Jeremy from the Lorde / him selfe sayinge

saide vnto Baruch: We wil cern for the kinge of al these wordes. And they examined Baruch sayinge: Tell vs how bestest thou write al these wordes out of his mouth? Then Baruch answered them: He spake al these wordes vnto me with his mouth/ & I alone was with him/ and wrote them in the booke.

Then saide the prince vnto Baruch: Go thy way/ and byde the with Jeremy/ so that no man knowe where ye be. And they wente into the synge to the court. But they kepte the booke in the chaumbre of Elisama the scribe/ and redde the kinge all the wordes that he mighte heare. So the kinge sent Zebud to finde him the booke/ whiche he brought out of Elisama the scribes chaumbre. And Zebud red it/ & that the kinge and al the princes/ which were aboute him/ mighte heare. Howe the kinge sat in the winter house/ for it was in the 12. moneth/ and there was a good fire before hym: And when Zebud had red the 4. or four leaues thereof/ he cut the booke in peeces with a penne knyfe/ and cast it into the fire vpon the herb/ vntill the booke was al thien. in the fire vpon the herb.

Yet no man was abashed thereof/ or rente his clothes: neither the synge him selfe/ nor his seruantes/ though they herde all these wordes. Nevertheless/ Elnathan/ & Sallus a Gamarae broughte the kinge/ that he wold not burne the booke: notwithstandinge/ the synge wold not heare them/ but commaunded Jeremy/ & the sonne of Amalech/ & Saris as the sonne of Isriel/ and Selamja the sonne of Abdiul to laye handes vpon Baruch the scribe/ and vpon Jeremy the prophet: But the Lord kepte the out of sight. After nowe that the kinge had thente the booke/ and the seruis which Baruch wrote at the mouth of Jeremy: The word of the Lord came vnto Jeremy sayinge: Take another booke/ and write in it all the forsaide sermons/ that were wyrtten in the first booke/ whiche Iocachim the kinge of Iuda hath thente.

And till Iocachim the kinge of Iuda/ thus sayeth the Lord: thou hast thente the booke and thoughtest within thy selfe: Why haste thou wyrtten therein/ that the synge of Babilon shall come/ and make this lande wast/ & that he shall make both people and ciuitie the out of it: Therefore thus the Lord seeth of Iocachim the kinge of Iuda: I theere shall none of his generation sit vpon the seate of Dauid. This word cometh shall come out/ that the heare of the daye/ and the staffe of the night maye come vpon him: And I will wyse the wickednesse of him/ of his dede/ and of his seruantes. Moreover/ it is the euill that I haue promised them/ (though they herde me not) will I bringe vpon them/ vpon the inhabitaours of Jerusalem/ and vpon all Iuda. Then toke Jeremy another booke/ and gaue it Baruch the scribe the sonne of Nerias/ which wrote therein oute of the mouth of Jeremy: all the sermons that were in the first booke/ whiche Iocachim the kinge of Iuda hath burne. And there were added vnto them many mo sermons then before.

The XXXVII Chapter.

Selected the sonne of Josias/ whiche I was made synge thowse Nabudodonosor kinge of Babilon/ I argued in the side of Iuda/ in the side of Chamos the sonne of Iocachim. But neither he/ nor his seruantes/ nor the people in the lande woldt o beye the wordes of the Lord/ whiche he spake by the prophet Jeremy. Nevertheless/ Ser Jer. xxi. a dechias the synge since Iudal the sonne of Aq. a Selamja and Sopbonias/ the sonne of Masia the pascie to the prophet Jeremy/ sayinge: O praye thou vnto the Lord our God for vs. Howe Jeremy walked fe amonge the people at that tyme/ and was not put in prisson as yet. I Pharaoe hoole also was come oute of Egypte: whiche when the Caldees that besyged Jerusalem perceaued/ they departed from thence.

Then came the word of the Lord vnto Jeremy the prophet/ sayinge: Thus saith the Lord God of Israel. This answereth shall ye geue to the synge of Iuda/ that saire you vnto me for counsaill: I B. bolde/ I Pharaoe hoole whiche is come forth to helpe you/ shall returne to Egypte into his owne lande: But the Caldees shal come agayne/ and fighte agaynst this cite/ whyne it is/ and set fire vpon it. For thus saith the Lord: because not your owne myndes/ or thinkinge on this manner. Thus/ the Caldees go nowe they waye from vs. No/ they shall not goe there theye. For Jer. xxi. a though though ye had slayne the whole hooste of the Caldees: that beseege you: and euerie one of the slaunder in his tennye: yet shoulde they stande vp: and sit bye: upon this cite. Nowe when the hooste of the Caldees was broken vp from Jerusalem: for feare of the Egyptians armye: Jeremy went out of Jerusalem toward the laide of Ben Jamin: to certaine Gypsie cellis there amonge the people. And when he came vnder Ben Jaminis poynt: there was a pauer called Ierua the sonne of Selamias the sonne of: Saranias: which fell vpon him a toke him: sayinge: thy mindes is to runne to the Caldees. Then saide Jeremy: It is not so: I goe not to the Caldees: Neither doo I: I wolde not beleue him: but thoughte Jeremy found before the pauer: Wherfore I paueres were an gnye with Jeremy: causynge him to be beaten: and to be layed in prison in the house of Ionathas the scribe: for he was the ruler of the prison. Thus was Jeremy put into the youngion and prison: and so laye there a long tyme.

Then Sedechias the King sente for him: and called him: a gyd him quickly in his owne house: sayinge: thinkest thou this busynesse: (that now is in hande) cometh of the Lord: Jeremy answered: yea: that it doeth: a yboun (saide he) shall be vsyured into the Kinge of Babilons pauer.

Where are youe prophetes: whiche haue prophered vnto you a saide: that the Kinge of Babilis shoulde not come againste you a this lande: And therfore heare nowe my loide: I Kinge: let my pauer: ke accepte before the: and sende me nowe into the house of Ionathas the scribe: that I be not there. Then Sedechias the Kinge commaunded to put Jeremy in the foztergyre of the prison: and daylye to geaue him a cake of bread: a clo no dighte meate: vntill all the breade in the cite was eat up. Thus Jeremy remained in the foztergyre of the prison.

The XXXVIII. Chapter.

¶ Sophatias the sonne of Marban / Gydolias the sonne of Dalsur / Iudal the sonne of Selamias / a Pasbur the sonne of Mal-

chias: perceaued the wordes that Jeremy had spoken vnto all the people: namely on this maner: Thus saith the Lord: Who so remaineth in this cite: / that perishe: / yet he with the sword: / with hunger: / or with pestilence: / but who so fallerth vnto the Caldees: / shall escape: / winning his soule for a praye: / and shall liue. I For thus saith the Lord: Thus cite: (no doubt) muste be vsyured into the pauer of the Kinge of Babilon: and he also shall wyne it. Then saide the pauer vnto the Kinge: Sygne before you: let this man be put to deathe: for thus he vsyurath the handes of the souldiers: that be in this cite: / a the handes of all the people: / when he speaketh such wordes vnto the. This man verily labourerth not for peace of the people: / but mischiffeth Sedechias the Kinge: / and sayd: lo: he is in youre handes: for I Kinge may deny you nothinge. Then toke they Jeremy: a call him into the youngion of Malchias the sonne of Amelch: that dwelt in the foztergyre of the prison. And they let down Jeremy with cordes into a youngion: where there was no water: / but myte. So Jeremy stact faste in the myte. ¶ No when Abdermelech the Moian: being a chamberlaine in the Kinges court: vnder stode that they had cast Jeremy into the youngion: he wente out of the Kinges house: and spake to the Kinge: whiche then sat vnder the pauer of Ben Jamin: the wordes: My loide: the Kinge: where as these men melle with Jeremy the prophet: they do him wronge: Namely: in that they haue put him in prison: there to dye of hunger: / so: there is no more breade in the cite. Then the Kinge commaunded Abdermelech the Moian: and said: take from hence: xxx men whom thou wilt: and haue up Jeremy the prophet out of the youngion: / so: he dye. So Abdermelech toke the men with him: and wente to the house of Amelch: and there vnder an almyr: he gat othe ragges: / a woderne shouthe: / a let the yboun by a corde: into the youngion: to Jeremy.

¶ And Abdermelech the Moian sayde vnto the prophet Jeremy: O put these ragges and shouthe vnder thine arme holes: / & wrewe them and the cordes: and Jeremy did so. So they threwe up Jeremy with cordes: / a toke him out of the youngion: and he remembred captaine let the rascall people (and those that had nothing) dwell still in the lande of Iuda; and gaue them vineyardes and coine selbears; at the same time Nabuzardan also y<sup>e</sup> Kinge of Babilon gaue Nabuzarad the chiefe captaine a charge / concerninge Jeremy; saying: take a cherub him; and make much of him: for thou do him no harme; but increate him after his owne desire.

E So Nabuzarad the chiefe captaine; Nabuzardan the chiefe chamberlaine. Nergalsarzar the treasurer; and all the Kinge of Babilons lordes sent for Jeremy; / and caused him to be fet oute of the fore entry of the prison; and comited him vnto Gobilias the sonne of Ahicam the sonne of Saphan: that he should carie him home; / and so be vnder amonge the people. Now while Jeremy laye yet bounde in the fore entry of the prison; / the worde of the Lorde came vnto him sayinge: Go; and all Beldamelech the Moan: Thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes / the God of Israel: Beholde / the cruel and sharpe plague that I haue deuised for this cite; will I bringe vpon them / that thou shalt see it: but I will saue the sayers the Lorde; and thou shalt not come in the bandes of those men / whome thou fearest. For doubtles I will saue the; / so that thou shalt not perishe with the sword: but thy life shalt be sau'd; and that because thou hast put thy trust in me; sayeth the Lorde.

U Now when the captaines of the hostes of Iuda; which went with their followers were cast abroad in every side in the lande; / Iannes derlod; that the Kinge of Babilon had made Gobilias the sonne of Ahicam gouernour in the lande; and that many theye and wydes; / and the poore men in the lande; that were not led captiue to Babilon; should be vnder his iurisdiction: They came to Gobilias vnto Masphat; namely; Jismael the sonne of Natbanias; Zebanna and Zonathas the sonnes of Carea; Sarcas the sonne of Echanbamech; the sonnes of Opheus the Metophter; Iesaias the sonne of Mahan; with their companions. And Gobilias the sonne of Ahicam the sonne of Saphan; wrote vnto the; and their followers on this maner: Be not afraid to serue the Caldees dwell in the lande; / and so the Kinge of Babilon serueth; so shall ye prosper. Beholde; I dwell at Masphat to be an officer in the Caldees behalfe; and to sauisse such as come to vs. Therefore gather you reynes; come and oyle; / and kepe them in youre warehouses; and dwell in youre cities; that ye haue in kepynge.

This is the maner howe the Lorde entreated Jeremy; / when Nabuzarad the chiefe captaine had let him go fre; / Rama whither as he had led him bounde among all the prisoners; that were caried from Ierusalem and Iuda vnto Babilon. The chiefe captaine called for Jeremy; / and sayde vnto him: The Lorde thy God spake mightily before of the misery vpon this place: Hare the Lorde hath sent it; and performed it; as he had promised: for ye haue sinned againste the Lorde; / and haue not bene obedient vnto his voyce; therefore cometh this plague vpon you. Beholde; I leaue the bandes from thy handes this daye; / if thou wilt nowe go with me vnto Babilon; / or thou: for I will see to the; and prouide for the. But if thou wilt not go with me to Babilon; then remaine here. Beholde; all the lande is at thy will; / loke where thou thinkest convenient; and good for the to abyde; there dwell. If thou canst not be contente to dwell alone; then remaine with Gobilias the sonne of Ahicam the sonne of Saphan; / whome the Kinge of Babilon hath made gouernour ouer the cities of Iuda; and dwell with him; as amonge the people; or remaine; wher soeuer it please the. So the chiefe captaine gaue him his reynes with a rewarde; / and let him go. Then went Jeremy vnto Gobilias the sonne of Ahicam to Masphat; and dwell there with him among the people that were left in the lande.

Now when the captaines of the hostes of Iuda; which went with their followers were cast abroad in every side in the lande; / Iannes derlod; that the Kinge of Babilon had made Gobilias the sonne of Ahicam gouernour in the lande; and that many theye and wydes; / and the poore men in the lande; that were not led captiue to Babilon; should be vnder his iurisdiction: They came to Gobilias vnto Masphat; namely; Jismael the sonne of Natbanias; Zebanna and Zonathas the sonnes of Carea; Sarcas the sonne of Echanbamech; the sonnes of Opheus the Metophter; Iesaias the sonne of Mahan; with their companions. ## The XLII. Chapter.

I Go all the rulers/ and Johanna the sone of Carea/ Ihsanus the sonne of Osius came with all the people from the castle vnto the moos/ and sayde vnto Jeremy the prophete: O heare our pricion/ that thou maist praye for vs vnto the Lord thy God / and for the remnant/ wherof there be very fewe lefte of many/ as thou sayst vs: that the Lord thy God make therre vs a waye to go in/ and tell vs what we shoulde do. Then Jeremy the prophete sayde vnto them: I haue herde you. Beholde/ I will praye vnto God youre Lord/ as ye haue required me/ alote what answer the Lord geueth you. I shall certifie you thereof/ and kepe nothinge backe hid you. And they sayde vnto Jeremy: The Lord of truth and faithfulness be our recorde/ that we sayl do all that the Lord thy God commaundeth vs/ whether it be good or euill. We wil hearken vnto the voyce of our Lord God/ to whome we sende the: that he maye prosper/ when we haue followed his voyce of the Lord oure God.

B And after ten dayes came the woide of the Lord vnto Jeremy. Then called he Johanna the sone of Carea/ and all the captiues of the people that were with him: Yet/ all the people for the least to the moos/ and saide vnto them: Thus saith the Lord God of Israell/ vnto whome ye sent me / to lay fouth your plainte before him: I If ye will dwell in this lande/ I shall giude you vp/ a nor breake you downe: I shall plante you/ a nor rote you oute: for I am pacified/ as concerninge the trouble that I haue done to you. Feare not the kinge of Babilon/ of whom ye stand in awe: He be not afraid of him/ saith the Lord: for I wil be with you to helpe you/ and deliuer you fro his hande. I will proude you/ I wil haue mercy vpon you/ and bringe you againe into youre owne lande.

C Neuertheless/ if ye purpose not to dwell in this land/ nor to folowe the voyce of the Lord oure God: but wil saye thus: we will not dwell here / but go into Egypte: where we shall neither feare/ nor heare the noyse of barrall/ nor suffre hunger/ there wil we dwell. Then heare the woide of the Lord/ of ye remnant of Iuda. Thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israell: I If ye do whole purpose to go into Egypte/ and to be there as straungers: the sword that ye feare shall ouertake you in Egypte/ a the hunger wherof ye be here afraid/ shall hang vpon you in to Egypte/ and there ye shall dye. For al they that of set purpose vnderstode to go vnto Egypte/ there to cast them selfe of their mist/ shall perishe with the sword/ with hunger/ a pestilence: not one of them shall remaine/ there shall none escape the plague that I wil bringe vpon them.

For thus saith the Lord of hostes O the God of Israell: as my towary and indignacion is come vpon the inhabitours of Ierusalem/ so will my displeasur go fouth vpon you also/ if ye go into Egypte: for there ye shall reuyle/ and sorow/ through to shame and confusion: and as for this place/ it shall neuer see more. The Lord forsyddeth you O ye remnant of Iuda/ that ye shall not go into Egypte. And forget not that I haue warned you earnestly this daye/ els shall ye buye youre selles. For ye sente me vnto the Lord oure God/ and sayde: O praye thou the Lord oure God for vs: and loke what answer the Lord oure God geueth the/ that thinge vs againe/ and we shall do there after. Nowe haue I spected/ and declared vnto you the voyce of the Lord oure God/ for the whiche cause he hath sente me to you. I If ye will not folowe it/ be sure that ye shall perishe with the sword/ with hunger and pestilence: euen in the same place/ where youre lust was to go and dwell.

The XLIII. Chapter.

I Nowe when Jeremy had ended all the 3 woide of the Lord God vnto the people/ for their sakes to whom God had sente hym/ Ihsanus the sonne of Osius/ and Johanna the sonne of Carea/ with all the proude persones/ saide vnto Jeremy: Thou liest/ the Lord oure God hath not sente the to speake vnto vs/ that we shoulde not go into Egypte/ and dwell there: but Baruch the sonne of Nerias proudeth the against vs/ that he mighte bringe vs into the captiuitie of the Caldees: that they mighte slaye vs/ and carrie vs awaye prisoners vnto Babilon.

So Johanna the sonne of Carea/ and all the the captaynes of the hoste/and all the people followe north the commaundement of the Lozde de: Namely / to dwell in the lande of Iuda: But Iohanna the sonne of Carea and all the captaynes of the hoste/carricd away all the re-maine in Iuda/ that were come together, as gaime from the Chaldeans among whom they had bene scattered: In Iudal in the lande of Iu-da: Men/women/children/the fingers Daugh-terall thepe that Nabuzardan the chiefe captayne had left with Gobolice the sonne of Shiram. They caried away also the prophete Jeremy/Baruch the sonne of Nerias/and so came into Egypt: for they were not obedient unto the commaundement of God. Thus came they to Taphnis.

B And in Taphnis the worde of the Lozde happened unto Jeremy/sayinge: Take greate stones in thine hande / and hyde them in the brick wal/under the gart of Nabaraoe house in Taphnis: that all the men of Iuda may see/and see unto them: thus sayeth the Lord of hosties the God of Israel: Beholde / I wil send and call for Nabuzodonosor the kinge of Ba-bilon my seruants/and wil set his seate upon these stones: that I haue hyd/and he shal spee his tennis over them.

And when he cometh/ he shall smyte the lande of Egypt with slaughter/with mens/and with the sword. He shal set fire upon the temple of the Egyptians goddes/and burne them vp / as hee them selfe soners. Moreover/ he shal craue him selfe the lande of Egypt/like as a shepheard pur-ueth on his cote/and shal departe awaye from thence in peacc. The pylers also of the temple of the Sunne that is in Egypt/ shal be breake in pecces/and burne the temple of the Egyptians goddes.

The XLIII. Chapter.

In this is the worde that was shewed to Jeremy / concerninge all the Ierues/which dwelte in Egypte at Nagdall / at Taphnis/ at Memphis/ a in the lande of Panius. Thus saith the Lozde of hostes the God of Israel: Ye haue sene al t misery that I haue brought upon Ierusalem / and upon all the cities of Iuda: so that this daye they are desolate/and no man dwellinge therein: a that because of the greate blasphemies/ which they committed / to provide me vnto angers In that they wente doctre to do sacrifices/ and worshipp vnto straung goddes: whom neither they/ nor ye/ nor your fathers haue knowwen. Howbeit / I sent vnto them my seruants al the prophetes: I sent vnto early / I sent vnto them / as gaue them warninge: O do no such abominable thinges/ as thinges that I hate. But they wolde not followe nor hearken/to turne from their wickednes / and to do me more sacrifice vnto straunge goddes.

Wherefore my indignation a washe kynded/ and it sheme vp the cities of Iuda/the felde with the stretes of Ierusalem: so that they were made waste and desolate / as it is come to passe this daye. Nowe therefore thus sayeth the Lozde of hostes the God of Israel: Some happereth it / that ye do greate euill vnto youre owne soules/ and destroye the men a women/ children and bables of Iuda: that none of you is left / because ye haue me vnto wrath with the worke of youre owne handes: when ye offre vnto straunge goddes in the lande of Egypte/where so ye be gone to dwell: Thare mighte utterly perishe / and that ye mighte be reuyled and shamefully intreated of all nations.
 O haue ye nowe forgotten the wickednesse of youre forefathers / the wickednesse of the kynge of Iuda and their wives/ the wickednes that ye youre selves and youre wyfes haue done in the lande of Iuda/ in the one and in the lande of Ierusalem?

Ye are ye not for this daye/ ye feare not neither walke ye in my lawe and in my commaundementes / that I haue graue vnto you and youre forefathers.

Therefore thus sayeth the Lozde of hosties the God of Israel: I am stedfastly appoy-sed and determined to puny the you / and rote out all Iuda: be for the remnantes of Iu-da that purposely wente into Egypte/ there to cast them of their misery: I wil take them/Ta they shal all be destroyed. In the lande of Egypte shall they perishe/ beinge consumed with the sworde and with hunger. For in the least vnto the most/ they shal perishe with the sworde and with hunger. Moreover/they shal be reuyled / abused/ shamed/ and confounded: for I wil visit them that dwell in Egypte.

Jer. xxxij. Egypte/as I haue visited Ierusalem with the sword/with hunger and with pestilence: So that none of the remanent of Iuda/whiche are gone to dwell in Egypte/shall be left to come againe into the lande of Iuda: although they thinke to come thither againe: and so dwell there: for none shall come againe: but such as are fled awaye.

Then all the men which knewe that their wives had offered vnto strange goddesses: and a great foure of wives that stood there/ye/ and at the 6. capit that dwelt there in Egypte in the cincte. Danico/sun/were Jeremy/ and saide: As so the wordes that thou hast spoken vnto vs in the name of the Lord: we will in no wise heare them: But whatsoeuer goodth out of our owne mouth: that wil we do: We wil do sacrifice/and offre oblacions vnto the

Jer. vj. b Queene of heauen: like as we and oure forefathers/oure kings and oure heades haue done in the cities of Iuda/ and in the streets and filbes of Ierusalem. For then had we plentifulnesse of victuals: then were we in prosperitie/and no misfortune came vpon vs.

v Mac. j. b But sene we left off to offre/ and to do sacrifice vnto the Queene of heauen/ we haue had scarcenes of al thinges/ and perished with the sword and hunger. Laste of al/ when we women byd sacrifice: and offered vnto the Queene of heauen/ did we make her cakes/ a poure vnto her bankcassings/ to do her service without oure handes wylle?

Then saide Jeremy vnto all the people/ to the men/ to the women/ and to all the folke/ whiche had giuen hym their answers: Whyd not the Lord remember the sacrificies that ye/ and your forefathers/ your kinges and rulers (with all the people) haue offered in the cincte of Iuda/ in the streets and lande of Ierusalem: and hath he not considered this in his mynde? In so muche/ that the Lord might no longer suffer the wickednesse of your inuencions/ and the abhominable thinges whiche ye did? Is not your lande desolate a worde/ye/ and abhorred/ so that none dwelth therein any more/ as it is come to passe this daye?

ii. re. 10. vj b Jer. ij. c. iij. c. v. c. Bar. ij. a Whyd not all this happen vnto you/ because ye made such sacrifice/ and sinned against the Lord? Ye haue not followed his voice to walke in his lawe/ in his ordinaunces and statutes.

Ye see this to be the cause/ that all myssourne happened vnto you/ as it is come to passe this daye.

Nowouer/ Jeremy spake vnto all the people in all the women: Heare the worde of the Lord all Iuda/ye that be in the lande of Egypte: Thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel: Ye and your wives haue spoken with your owne mouth/ the thinge that ye haue fulfilled in vete.

Ye thus haue ye saide: We wil not saile: But do the thinge that pleases vs: we will do sacrifice and poure out bankcossings to the Queene of heauen. Purposely haue ye set vp your owne good meanings/ and hastily haue ye fulfilled your owne intente. And therefore/ heare the worde of the Lord al Iuda/ye that dwelt in the lande of Egypte.

Beholde/ I haue sware by my great name/ saith the Lord/ that my name shall not be reheared thow any mans mouth of Iuda/ in all the lande of Egypte/ to saye: The Lord God lieth/ for I wil ward to plague them/ and not for their wealth. And all the men of Iuda that be in the lande of Egypte/ shall perish with the sword/ and with hunger/ vntill they be utterly destroyed.

Nevertheless/ those that fled awaye for the sword/ shall come againe into the lande of Iuda/ but there shall be very fewe of them. Then saide Jeremy vnto all the remanent of Iuda/ that are gone into Egypte there to dwell/ that knowe whose wordes shall be founde true/ heare of mine. Take this for a token/ that I wil visit you in this place/ saith the Lord/ and that ye maye knowe/ sware that I (without doubt) will performe my purpose vpon you to punish you. Beholde/ saith the Lord/ I wil rehyser Dbaras Ophum kinge of Egypte into the handes of his enemies/ that shal take him by force: as I gaue Sedechias the kinge of Iuda into the handes of Nabuchodonosor king of Babilon/ which sought after his life. The. XLV. Chapter.

These are the wordes that Jeremy the prophet spake vnto Baruch the sonne of Neriah/ after that he had written these Sermons in a booke at the mouth of Jeremy/ In the

For they shall be mo in number then the trees / so that woman shall be able to tell them. The daughter of Egypte shall be confounded / when she shall be deliuered into the hands of the people of the Moab.

And after all these things / it shall be inhabited as afore tyme saith the Lord.

Esa. xlvj. b But be not thou asayed / O my seruants Jacob / feare not thou Israel. For so / I will helpe the from fauce / a thy side shal the lande of thy captiuitie. Z These are the wordes that the Lord speake vnto Jeremy the prophet against the Philistines / before that Pharae smote the cite of Gaza. Thus saith the Lord: Beholde / there shall waters arise out of the North: and shall growe to a great floud / running ouer and coueringe the lade / the cite / and them that dwell therein.

Esa. xlvj. c Esa. xxx. c Ezop. ij. a

And the men shall crye / and all they that dwell in the lande / shall mourne at the noyse and clamour / of their stronge barred horses / at the shakinge of their charrettes / and at the raminge of the wheels. The sakers shall wale to their chylren / so feable and weep shall they: haue be at the same tyme / when he shall be there / to destroye the whole lande of the Philistines / he shall make wast both Tyrus Sidon / and all other that are swine vnto them.

For the Lord will destroye all Palestina / and the other lles that be dryed from the countrie. Baldnesse is come vpon Gaza / Ascalon with her other valleyes shall seepe her peete.

How longe wilt thou lye / O thou forward Jer. lxxij of the Lord: Turne againe into thy sheeth / rest / and leaue of. But howe can it cease / when the Lord him selfe hath geuen it a charge againste Ascalon / and sayd it up againste the cite of the see coast?

The XLVIII. Chapter.
L Thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel againste Moab: Wo be to them that rest / and leaue of / and are as they that are at ease / for they shall be layed waste / broughte to confusion / a taken. Yee / the stronge cite of Sela / a Canaanum shall be broughte to shame and Sela shall be destroyed. Moab shall not be able in her nature: Wicked counsaill shall be taken vpon Hesbon. Come / shall they crye / let us rote them out / that they maye be no more amonge the rubble of the Gentles: yee / they maye no more be thoughte vpon: Thus the forward shall persecute the. A voyce shall crye from Bozraim: With greate wastinge a destruction is Moab made desolate.

And thus crye shall be in all her citres / At thy goinge up vnto Rubim there shall arise a lamentation: a boune towarde Bozraim / there shall be a cruel / a dralye crye: Oit you awake / saue your lises / and be hys into the beeth in thy midernesse. I for iauke thou hast trusted in thy stronge holde / a treasure / thou shalt be taken. Chamos with his priestes and princes shall goe a weete into captiuitie.

The destroyer shall come vpon all citres / none shall escape. The valleyes shall be destroyed / and the felde shall be layed waste: like as the Lord hath determined.

Make a token vnto Moab / that she get her awaye speedely: for her cite shall be made so desolate / that no man shall dwell therein. Cursed be he that doeth the worke of the Lord negligently / and cursed be he that specheth backe his sword from beddinge of bloude.

Moab hath euer bene rike a carelesse from her youth vnto this daye / and shall be eue with habitation there. Beholde / like as the Lyon cometh vp from the pleasaunt medowes of Iordan/ vnto the grent pastures of Acha: so will I dryue him / a make him runne against her. But who is the yonge man that I will iden there? Who is like vnto me? What is it that will stirre with me? What speche maye stande in my handes?

O Therefore heare the counsaile of the Lord/that he hath taken vpon Thimna: a his purpose that he hath deuyssed vpon the caryens of Cheman: The leese of the flocke shall reare them in peeces / a lose what saye thinge they haue / they shal make it wast / and their selues also. In the noyse of their fall the earth shall quake / the crye of their voyce shalbe heerde vnto the read se. Beholde / I enemye shal come and flye vpon hiber / like as it were an Eagle / a spide his wynges vpon Bosra. Then shall the herres of the wouthies in Idom be as the herre of a womā traveling of childe. ¶ Upō Damascus / Semath and Arphad shal come confusion / for they shall heare euil tydinges: they shalbe tossed to and fro / like the see that can not stand still. Damascus shalbe forefrayde / and shall flye / tremblinge shall come vpon her. Sorowe and payne shall ouertake her as a womā traveling of childe. But how shoulde so we: shypfull and glorious a cite be solatere? Heare therefore: her yonge men shall fall in the stretes / and all her men of warre shalbe taken away in / that tyme / saith the Lorde of hosties. I will kindle a fyre in the walles of Damascus / which shal consume the palace of Benabad.

E As for Ezar and the kingdome of Basor/whome Nabudodonosor the Kinge of Babylon hath taken downe / the Lord hath spoken thus vpon them: Arise / and get you vp vnto E-zar / a destroye the people towarde the East.
Their tentes and their flockes shall they take awaye / their hanginges and their vessels.
Their camels also shall they carie awaye with the. They shall come aboute the an euery side with a fearful crye.

Sie / get you gone awaye / tresp into causes that ye maye dwell there: O ye inhabitours of Basor / saith the Lorde: ye Nabudodonosor the Kinge of Babylon hath holde a counsaile concerninge you / and concluded his deuyce agaynst you. Arise / and get you vp agaynst vnder ryche a carelesse people (saith the Lorde) which haue neither gate nor doore rebarres / and that dwell not together. These camels shalbe stolen / and the voyces of their cattel dryuen awaye.

Notouer / these that he shauen will I seare to warde all the wyndes / and bunge them to destruction: Yee / a that shoue their owne familiers / saith the Lorde. Basor also shalbe a dwellinge for Dragons / and an interlastinge wildernes: so that no body shal dwell there / and no man shall haue there his habitation.

These are the wordes that the Lord spake to the prophet Jeremy / concerninge Elam: in the beginninge of the reigne of Sedechias kinge of Iuda. Thus saith the Lorde of hosties: Beholde / I will breake the bowe of Elam / and take awaye their strength: and vpon Elam I will bunge foure wyndes from the foure quarters of heauen / and will scatter them agaynst the same foure wyndes. And there shalbe no people / but some of Elam shall flye vnto them.

For I will cause Elam to be afrayed of their enemies / and of them that seke their lyues: and will bunge vpon them the indignacion of my wrath / saith the Lorde. And I will persequere them with the swerde / so longe till I haue brought them to naught. I will set mye scarin Elam / I will destroye both the kinge and the princes from thence / saith the Lorde. But in prouidence of tyme / I will bunge Elam vnto of captiuene / saith the Lorde.

The L. Chapter.
These wordes that the Lorde spake vnto the prophet Jeremy concerninge Babylon / and the lande of Caldees: ¶ I will bringe the Gentiles / they shal be herde / make a howle / to keene out / kepe no silence / but saye: Babylon shalbe wonne / I will be confounded / I and Merodach shalbe ouercome.

Yee / their goddes shalbe brought to shame / and their images shal stande in scare. For out of the North there shall come a people / agaynst her / which shall make her lande so wast / that no body shal dwell therein: neither man nor beast / for they shall flye and departe fro thence.
¶ In those dayes and at that tyme (saith the Lorde)

the vengeance of the Lorde our God / the vengeance of his temple: Yea / a voyce of the that crye agaynst Babylon: Call vp all the cr chers agaynst Babylon / pynch your ventres rounde aboute her / that none escape. W come pence her / as the barh destrued: and according as the barh done / so deale with her agaynst: for she barh 1 set vp her self agaynst the Lorde / agaynst the holy one of Israel. Therefore shall her yong men fall bounde in the strettes / and all her men of warre shall be roted out in that daye: saith the Lorde. Beholde / I speake on to the (o thou proude) saith the Lorde God of hostes: for thy daye shall come / euen the tyme of thy visitacion. And the proude shall stonble and fall: a no man shall helpe him vp. I will burne vp his cines with fire: a shall consume all that is rounde aboute hym.

F Thus saith the Lorde of hostes: The children of Israel and Iuda suffice vnto to gether. All they that haue them in captiuitie / kepe them safe / and will not let them go: but their auenger and redemer is mighty: whose name is the Lorde of hostes: he shall mayne reyne their cause: he shall make the lande waste / and iudge them that dwell therein: with another. The swerde shall come vpon *E*gi pt: saith the Lorde: vpon them that dwell in Babylon / vpon their princes / a vpon their wise men. The swerde vpon their forty sayers (as for those / they shall become fooles.) The swerde vpon their worthies / so that they shall stande in feare. The swerde vpon their hois men and charrettes / and vpon all the comon people that dwell amonge them: so that they all shall become like women: The swerde vpon their treasure / so that it shall be stolen a waste: The swerde vpon their waters / so that they shall be dried vp: for the lande will be drye: and they shall be in straunge won derfull thinges. Therefore shall wyde deales / and Drees / a Whittes dwell therein: for there shall neuer man dwell there / neyther shall any man haue his habitation there for euermore.

G Thus saith the Lorde: I destroyed Sodom and G om. W b
 more / with the cines that laye there aboute / saith the Lorde: So shall no man dwell there also / neyther shall any man haue there his habitation. Beholde / there shall come a people from the North / with a greate bonde of men / and many kinges shall stande vp the endes of the earth: They beare bowes and buellere: cruel are they and winice: full.

Their voyce are they like the raging see / they ryde vpon hoises / and come: weapened to fight agaynst the: O Babylon. As one as the kinge of Babylon heareth tell of the / his handes shall waite stable: Soisme and bea uynesse shall come vpo him / as a woman tra uelinge with childe. Beholde / like as the Lson cometh vp from the pleasant me wens of Iordane vnto the grene pastures of Eriams: will I visit them forth / and make them runne agaynst her. But whome shall I chase out / and oideyne to such a thinge: For who is like me: or who wil stirre with me: or what shepherde maye stande agaynst me: Therefore heare the counsaill that the Lorde hath geuen vpon Babylon / and the deuce that be hath taken vpo the lade of the Caldrea.
 The least amonge the people shall reare them in pecces / and loke what pleasure thinges they haue: they shall laye it wast. The nyght at the wynnunge of Babylon shall moue the earth / and the erie shall bearde amonge the Gen tiles.

The. LI. Chapter.

L Thus hath the Lorde sayde: Beholde / I will raise vp a poulous wynde agaynst Babylon / and brer cines: that beare euil will agaynst me. I will sende also into Babylon gannets to sunne her out / a besoye her lande: for in the daye of her trouble / they shall aboute her on euery side. Moreover the Lorde hath sayde vnto the bowemen / and to the that become ouer / walkes in disciplines: Ye shall not spare her yong men / fill duncall her hoist. Thus the slayne them fall downe in the lende of the Caldees / and the wounded in the strettes. As for Israel and Iuda / they shall not be forsaken of their God: of the Lorde of hostes / of the lyon of Israel: no though they haue spyled all they: lande full of synne. I flee awaye from Babylon / eury man saue his life. Let no man hold his tongue as he were dumb: for the tyme of the Lorde des vengeance is come: yee: he shall rewarde her agayne. Babylon hath bene in the Lorde des hande: a golden cuppe: that maketh all Landes dronken. Of her wyne haue all people dronken /

The Prophet Jeremy.

Isa. xij. b 2 Broken / therefore are they out of their wittnes 2po. xxiij. a 1 But solemnly to Babylon / fall & destroye ps. lxxv. b 1 No more for her / being plasters for her wound

 We wolde haue made Babylon whole / saye they / but she is not recoured. Therefore wil we let her alone / and goe euery man into his owne countrie. For her iudgement is come into heauen / and is gone vp to the cloudes. The Lorde hath brought forth our righteousnes. And therefore come on / we wil shewe Sion / the wife of the Lo. rde our God.

he eared vnto Babylon / sayeth the vough-ter that dwelleth in Zion: yee/ and my blood also vnto the Caldres sayeth Jerusalem.
Therefore thus sayeth the Lord: A Beholder: I will defende thy cause/ and avenge the: I will smite vp her see/ and drye vp her water springes.

Jer. 51: c
Babylon shall become a heape of stones/a dwelling place for Dragons/ a fearfull a wounding/ because no man dwelleth there.
They shall roare together like Lions/ and as the yonge Lyons when they be angry so shall they denge them selves. In their heare shall I set thicke thornes/ and they shall be thornes for yore: There shall they sleepe an euerlasting sleepe/ and neuer wake/ sayeth the Lord.

Jer. 51: b
I shall eare them vnto be slaine like sheepe/like whetters and goates. O how was Sashu rene: O how was the glory of the whole lande taken: how happened it that Babylon is so wounded at amongst the heathen: The siege is risen ouer Babylon/ and hath covered her in his greates waues. Her ciues are laid wast/ the lande is euen vnbuided and voyde: it is to a land where no man dwelleth/ and where no man traueleth thowme. No: ouer/ I will wyser I be at Babylon: and the thinge that he hath swallowed vp/ that same shall I puece out of his mouth. The Gentiles also shall raue no more vnto him/ yee/ and the walles of Babylon shall fall.

These Nabuzaradan the chiefe captaine toke / and carried them to the Kinge of Babylon onto Belshatha: and the Kinge of Babylon caused them to be put to death at Belshathain the lande of Hemath. And thus Juda was ledde awaye captiue/ out of his owne lande.

This is the summe of the people/whome Nabuchodonosor ledde awaye captiue.

Alph. K

How sorely the cite so desolate / that sometime was full of people: how is she become like a widowe / which was the lady of all nations: How is she brought vnder tribute / that ruled all landes.

Verb. D

She weepeth sore in the night / so that she ceases runne downe her cheeks: for amonge al her louers / there is none that comforteth her any comforte: yet / her next frendes abhorre her / and are become her enemies.

Gimel. A

Juda is taken prisoner / because he was desolated: for seruinge so many strange gods / he dwelleth now amonge the Heathen. She findeth no rest: all they that persecuted her / toke her / and so she dwelleth amonge her enemies.

Dalch. V

The streets of Sion mourne / because no man cometh more to the solempne feastes. All her gates are desolate / her widdes make lamentation / her maidens are carefull / and she herselfe is in greate heavynesse.

Re. N

Her enemies are fallen vpon her heade / & haue put her to shame: for the Lord hath chastened her because of her greate wickednesse: her children are ledde awaye captiue before her enemies.

Dalch. V

All the beautye of the daughter of Sion is awaye: her pynnes are become like whetstones that fynde no pasture. They are diuen awaye before

Before their enemies/so that they haue no more power.

Psal. 1

Now Ouch Jerusalem remembre the time of her misery a disobedience/see the ioye and pleasure that she hath had in times past: seeing her people is thought downe thow we the power of thy enemy / a there is no man for to helpe her: her enemies stande looking at her/ and laugh her Sabbath dayes to scorne.

Psal. 7

Jerusalem I nnyed curt moie and more/ therefore is she come in daye. All they that had her in honoure/ despise her: for they haue sene her synfulness. See she sigheth/ and is ashamed of her selfe.

Eccl. 3

Her synnes are defiled/ she remembred not what wolde followe: therefore is her fall so greuous/ a there is no man to comforte her. O Lord/ comforte my trouble/ for myne enemy hath the upper hande.

Job. 2

The enemye hath put his hande to all the pious thinges that he had/ yee/ euen before her eyes came the voyce then in and out of the Sanctuary: I whome thou (neuertheless) haste subydden to come within thy congregation.

Wis. 11

Ecc. 4. c

Lamed. 3

O ye all that go forthy/ beholde and see/ if there be anye sorrowe like vnto myne/ wherewith the Lord hath troubled me/ in the daye of his fearful wrath.

Mem. 2

¶ From aboute hath he sent downe a fyre into my bones and consumed me: he hath layed a net for my feet/ and thowen me wyde open: he hath made me desolate/ so that I muste cewe be mourninge.

Nun. 1

The yoke of my mansgression is come at the last/ with his hande hath he taken it vp/ and put it aboute my necke. My strengthe is gone: the Lord hath deliuered me into those handes/ whercoure I can not quyte my selfe.

Samed. 5

The Lord hath destroyed all the mightye men that were in me. He hath proclaymed a fast to slaughter all my best men. The Lord hath troben downe the daughter of Juda/ wile as it were in a wyne presse.

Zin. 7

Therefore do I wepe/ and myne eyes gusse Ierusalem out of water: for the comforter that shoulde quicken me/ is farre fro me. My children are diuyn awaye/ so: why? the enemye hath goneth the ourbande.

Re. 2

Sion casteth out her handes/ and there is no mā to comforte her. The Lord hath laid the enemies rounde aboute Jacob/ and Jerusalem is as it were a menstruous woman/ in the middell of them.

Sade. 7

The Lord is righteous/ for I haue provoked his countenance vnto anger. O take heed alyc people/ and consider my heauynesse. My maidens and my yongemen are ledde as waye into captiuitie.

Zoph. 7

I called for my louers/ but they begyled me/ for my priests and counsellors/ but they perished: euen while they sought for meate/ to saue theyr liues.

Re. 7

Consider (O Lord) how I am troubled/ my weyde is disquieted/ my hearte meryeth aboute in me/ a I am full of brauynesse. The sworde burieth me withoute and within/ a I am lyke vnto death.

Sin. 5

They heare my mourninge/ but there is none that wil comforte me. All myne enemies haue herde of my trouble/ a are glad thercof/ because thou haste done it. But thou shalt bringe forth the tyme/ when they also shall lyke vnto me.

Thau. 7

For the shall come all their aduersites/ thou shalt plucke the away/ euen as thou hast plucked me/ because of al my wickednesse. For my fouwe is very greates/ and my hearte is brauynesse.

The II. Chapter.

Aleph. x

I As a howleth the Lord barekened the daughter of Sion so sore in his wrath: he for the honour of Israel he hath casten it downe from heauen vpon the earth: howe happenceth it that he remembered nor his own Trophe: when he was angry?

Beth. 2

The Lord hath cast downe all the glory of Jacob without any fauoure: All the strong places of the daughter Juda hath he stoie in his wrath: and shrouen them downe to the ground: her kingdome and her pinnace hath he suspended.

Gimel. 3

In the wrath of his indignacion he hath stoie al the baine of Israel: he hath withdrauen his right hande from the enemye: yee / a flame of fyre is kindled in Jacob / a hath consumed vp all rounde aboute.

Daleth. 4

He hath bene his bowe like an enemye: he hath assailed his right hande as an aduersary: and euery thinge that was pleasaunt to se / he hath smiten it downe. He hath poured out his wrath like a streame into the tabernacle of the daughter Sion.

He. 5

The Lord is become like as it were an enemye: he hath cast downe Israel and all his places: yee / all his stronge holdes hath he destroyed / a filled the daughter of Juda with much sorrowe and heauynesse.

Vau. 6

B Her tabernacle which was like a garden of pleasure hath he destroyed: her blye solempne feastes hath he put downe. The Lord hath broken it so to passe / that the blye solempne feastes a Sabbathes in Sion are done forgotten: In his heauy displeasure hath he made the kinge a prisoner to be despised.

Zain. 7

The Lord hath forsaken his owne auter: a is wroth with his owne Sanctuary / a hath givē the walles of their towres into the handes of the enemye. Their enemies made a noyse in the house of the Lord: as it had bene: as a solempne feast bene.

Cheth. 8

The Lord thought to breake downe the walles of the daughter Sion: he spredde his lynce: a vicke nor in his hande: til he had destroyed them. Therefore inuoune the turrettes and the broken walles together.

Teth. 9

Her pinnace are casten downe to the ground / her barres are broken a smitte insonder: Her king a pinnace are caried awaye to the Gentiles: they haue neither lawe nor prophetes / nor yet any vision from the Lord.

Iod. 10

The Senatours of the daughter Sion sit vpon the grounde in silence: they haue shro-wed a shewe vpon thar heades / and greded the silkes with sackcloth. The maydens of Jerusalem hange downe thar heades to the grounde.

Kaph. 11

 where is meate and vnyte for whyle they so sayde: they sel downe in the strettes of the cite like as they had bene wounded / a some die

Mem. 13

What shal I saye of the (Or thou daughter

 To whome shal I compare the (O thou daughter

How is the golde become so dimmet / How is the goodly coloure of it so fauchaunged: and the stones of the Sanctuary thus seated in the corner of euery street:

Beth. D

The children of Sion that were alwaye in honour / and clothed with the moost precious golde: howe are they nowe become lyke the earthen vessels whiche be made with the porters handes:

Gimed. A

The Lamyes geue their yongones sucke with bare breasts: but the daughter of my people is cruel / and dwelleth in the wilderness like the Estriches.

Salerb. 7

Eren. 4 c

The tungen of the sucking children / cleue to the rose of thair mowthes for very thurst.
The yonge children are dead / but there is no man that geueth it them.

Ec. N

They that were wonte to saye delicatys / perish in the streets: they that aske were brought vp in purple / make nowe much of bounge.

Dau. 7

Gene. 49. c

The synne of the daughter of my people is become greater then the wickednesse of / Sodom: / that sodenly was destroyed / and nor is ken with bandes.

Rain. 7

Her abstainers / or Nazarees / where why-ar then the snowe or milke: they colour was freshe reade as the Conall / they stynt lyke Sapphyx.

Beth. N

Pal. 4. a

But nowe their faces are very blacke: In so much that thou shouldest not knowe them in the streets. Their synne cleueth to theys bones / It is withered and become lyke a dye stocke.

Teib. D

They that be slayne with the swordes / are happier than such as dye of hunger / and perish awaye fany thinge for the frutes of the felde.

Job. 7

The women (whiche of nature are pitifull) we find haue soben theys owne children with theys handes: that they mighte be their meate / in the miserably destruction of the daughter of my people.

Capb. D

The Lorde hath performed his heauy wrathe: he hath poured oute the furiousnesse of his displeasure. He hath kyndled a fyre in Sion / whiche hath consumed the founda-cons thereof.

Lamed. 7

Whether the fynges of the earth / nor all the inhabytours of the wodde haue bene sleued / that the enemye and aduersarye shoulde haue come in at the gates of the ctyte of Ierusalem.

Mem. 2

Whiche neuer theles / is come to passe for the synne of her prophetes / and for the wickednesse of her priestes: / that haue shed innocen-

Nun. 1

So that these blinde men wente stomwith bloud: / whiche els wolde touch no glour by cloth.

Sanch. D

But they cried vnto euery man: sye the slaynyng / was ase / get you hence: / saunde it not.
Yee / for theye were in the waye / ye must well among the Gentiles / and hyde no longer here.

Tin. 7

The countenaunce of the Lord hath bannyshed them / and shall neuer loke more vpon them: for they them selfes neuer regarded the pitties / nor pnyed they: eldher.

Phe. D

Wherefore see our eyes saye no / whyle we loke for vayne helpe: forynge we be cure waynyng vpon a people that can do vs no good.

Sade. 7

They saye so sharpe wayes for vs / that we can

ninge / that euery one had foure faces a foure wynges.

B Their legges were straight / but their feet were like bullockes feet / and they glistered as it had bene saye / soured metall. Under their wynges upon all the foure corners / they had mens handes. Their faces and their wynges were towards the foure corners: yet were the wynges so / that one euer touched another. When they wente / they turned the not aboute: but the one wente straight forwarde.

Ezech. 1. b

A Upon the rightside of these foure / were their faces like the face of a man / and the face of a Lyon: But upon the leftside / they had the face of an ox: and the face of an Eagle.

Their faces also and their wynges were spred out aboue: so that two wynges of one touched euer two wynges of another / with the other two they covered their bodies. Euerie one when it wente / it wente straight forwarde.

Ezech. 1. c

E Where as the spere led them / thither they wente / it turned not aboute in their goyinge.

The fashion and countenance of the beastes was like hore coales of fyre: eue / as though burnyng cristallines had bene amonge the beastes: and the fyre gaue a glistre / and out of the fyre there wente lighteninge. When the beastes wente forwarde and backwarde / one wold haue thought it had lightened. Now when I had well considered the beastes / I sawe a wofe of wheries upon the earth / with foure faces also like the beastes.

D The fashion and wyke of the wheles was like the ste. The foure wheles were ioyned and made / so loked upon: as it had bene one whele another. When one wente forwarde / they wente all foure / and turned the not aboute in their goyinge. They were large / greace / and horrible to loked upon.

Their bodies were full of eyes rounde aboute them all foure. Wher the beastes wente / the wheles wente also with them: And when the beastes lift the selfes up / from the earth / the wheles were lift vp also. Wher the spere wente / thither wente they also / and the wheles were lift vp and folowed the: the spere of life was in the wheles. When the beastes wente forth / stode still / to lift them selfes up from the earth / then the wheles also wente / stode still / and were lift vp / for the breath of life was in the wheles.

Aboue ouer the heades of the beastes there was a firmament / which was fastionned as it had bene of the moost pure cristall / and that was spred out aboue upon their heades: vnder the same firmament were their wynges layed abrade / one towards another / and two wynges covered the body of euery beaste: And when they wente forth / I herde the noise of their wynges / like the noise of greace wyeres / as it had bene the voyce of the greace God / a rusting together as it were of an host of me. And when they stode still / they let daunce their wynges. Now when they stode still / and had leuen doune their wynges / it thounded in the firmament that was aboue their heades.

Aboute the firmament that was ouer their heades / there was the fashion of a ste / as it had bene made of Saphire. Upon the stee there sat one like a man: I behelde him / and he was like a cleare light / as it had bene all of fyre within from his loynes upwarde.

And when I loked upon him / one therby loyned me / though he was like a burnyng fyre / that greech light on euery syde. Yet the byme a glistre that lightened rounde aboute / was like a ruybowe / which in a raine daye appeareth in the cloudes. Euen so was the similitude / wherein the glory of the Lord appeared. When I sawe it / I fell upon my face / and berkened vnto the voyce of him that spake.

The II. Chapter.

Then sayde he vnto me: Stande vp upon thy feet: Wher thou sonne of man / and I will talk with the. And as he was commynge with me / the spere came into me / a forme vp vnto my knees: so that I marked the thynge that he seide vnto the. And he sayde: Beholde / the sonne of man: I will sende the to the children of Israel / to these rinnagates and obstinate people: for they haue taken parte agens me / and are runne awaye fro me: they they and their foxfarbers / vnto this daye.

Ezech.

Ye / I will sende vnto a people that haue rough vyrges / a stiff stomacke: vnto whome thou shalt saye on this maner: Thus the Lord God hath said / I will sende / I will sende the to the children of Israel / to these rinnagates and obstinate people: for they haue taken parte agens me / and are runne awaye fro me: they they and their foxfarbers / vnto this daye.

they

they may knowe yet that there hath bene a prophet amonge them.

B Therefore (thou sonne of man) feare them not / neither be afrayed of their wordes: for they shall rebell against the / and despise thee. Yet thou shalt dwell amonge scorpions: but feare not their wordes: be not abashed at their looks: for it is a frowarde householde.

Se that thou speake my wordes vnto them / whether they be obedient or not / for they are obdurate. Therefore (thou sonne of man) obeye thou all things that I saye vnto thee / and be not thou stiffnecked / like as they are a stiffnecked householde. Open thy mouth / and eate that I geue thee.

So as I was loosinge vp / beholde / there was sent vnto me an hande / wherein was a closed booke / and the hande opened it before me / and it was written within and without / full of carefull mourninges: alas and wo.

The IIII. Chapter.

Then sayde he vnto me / thou sonne of man / I teate that whatsoeuer it be: yet eate that closed booke / and go thy way: / and speake vnto the childre of Israel. So I opened my mouth / and he gaue me the booke: so I eate: / and sayde vnto me: Thou sonne of man / thy belly shall eate / and thy bowels shall be filled / with the booke that I geue thee. Then dyd I eate the booke / and it was in my mouth sweeter then honey.

And he sayde vnto me: Thou sonne of man / get thee the stone vnto the house of Israel / and shewe them the wordes that I commaunde thee: for I finde the nor to a people that hath a straunge / vnknown / or harde speache / but vnto the house of Israel: Nor to many nations / which haue diuerse speaches and herde languages / whose wordes thou vnderstandest not: / neither the / if I sende thee to those people / they wilde folowe thee. But the house of Israel wil not folowe thee / for they wil not folowe me: yet / all the house of Israel haue stiff neckes and harde hertes.

Beholde therefore / I wil make thy face pcuriell against their faces / and harden thy foreheade against their foreheades / so that thy foreheade shall be harder then an Adamant / or smylone: that thou mayest feare them the lesse / and be lesse afrayed of them: for they are a frowarde householde.

He sayde moouer vnto me: thou sonne of man / take diligent heede with thine eares / to the wordes that I speake vnto thee / fall thou in thine herte: and go to the prisoners of thy people / speake vnto them / and save on this maner.

Thus the Lozde God hath spoken: When they se heare / or heare not: With whom the spere toke me vp. And I herde the noyse of a greate rustlinge and remouyng of the moose blessed glory of the Lozde: out of his place.

I herde also the noyse of the wynges of the heales / that rustled one against another / yee and the raiyng of the wheles that were by them / which rustlinge and noyse was very greate.

Now when the spere toke me vp / and I began to carie me awaye / I wente with an heauy and sory and a sorrowfull mynde / but the hande of the Lozde comforted me right sore.

And so in the beginninge of the month Abib. I came to the prisoners / that were by the water of Cobar / and remained in that place where they were: and so continued I amonge them seuen dayes / beinge very sory.

And when the seuen dayes were expired / the Lozde sayde vnto me: Thou sonne of man / I haue made thee a watchman vnto the house of Israel: therefore take heed to the wordes of my mouth / and geue them warninge at my commaundment.

If I saye vnto the / concerninge the vngodly man / that without doubt he shall dye / and thou giest him not warninge / nor speakest vnto him / that he maye turne from his euell waye / and so no issue: Then shall the same vngodly man dye in his owne vngodlynesse: but his blood wil I require of thyne hande: neither the / if thou geue warninge / and he yet forsake not his vngodlynesse: the shall be dye in his owne wickednesse / but thou hast discharged thy soule.

Now / if a righteous man go from the righte / and do the thinge that is euill: I wil laye a stumblinge blocke before him: a he shall fall on it: And as thou hast not giuen him warninge: yet / dye shall be in his owne synne / so that the vertue / which he had before / shall not be charged vpon: but heo his blood wil

The V. Chapter.

Ande the then a sharpe knyfe (O thou sone of man) namely a rasour. Take that and shoue the heere of thy heade and heerd. Then take the scales and the waighe / and heuyde the heere afunder. And burne the thirde parte thereof in the fyre in the myddest of the cawe / whan the vapors of the fete are ended / and cutt other thirde parte in peces with a knyfe. ¶ So for the thirde parte that remaineth / cast it in the wynde / and then shoue the bare knyfe.

Yet afterwarde take a litle of the same / and hynde it in the coate lappe. Then take a curisy of itt / and cast it in the myddest of the fyre / and burne it in the fyre. Out of the same fyre shall there go a staine vpon the whole house of Israel.

B Moreover / thus sayde the Lorde God: This same is Hierusalem. I fet her in the myddest of the Hevryen and nations / that are rounde aboute her / but she hath despised my iudgements more then the Gentiles them selves / and broken my commaundementes more then the nations / that lye rounde aboute her. For they haue cast out myne ordinaunces / and not walked in my lawes. Therefore thus saith the Lorde God. I for so much as ye with youre wickednesse sarrre excede & Hevryen / that dwelleth rounde aboute you: (for ye haue not walked in my lawes / neyther haue ye kept myne ordinaunces) Therefore thus saith the Lorde God.

I will also come vpon the / for in the myddest of the wil I fete in iudgements / in the sight of the Hevryen / and will handle the of such a fashion / as I neuer byd before / and as I neuer will do from that tyme forth / and that because of all thyre abominacions. For in the / the fathers shalbe sayne to eate their owne sonnes / and the sonnes their owne fatheres. Such a courte will I fete in the / the whole remnant will I fete into all the wyndes.

Wherefore / an truly as I lye (saith the Lorde God) syngge thou hast defyled my Sanctuary / with all maner of abominacions / and with all thy shamefull offences. For this cause will I also destroye the. My eye shal not pte the / neyther will I spare the.

¶ One thirde partie within the / shall dye of the pestilence and of hunger: Another thirde part shalbe slayne beuene rounde aboute the with the swerde: The other thirde partie that remaineth / will I fete abedoute towarde all the wyndes / and thare out the swerde after them. Thus will I performe my indignacion / and set my wrath agaynst them / and case my self. So that when I haue fulfilled myne anger agaynst them / they shall knowe that I am the Lorde / which with a serueng / I haue spoken it.

Moreover / I will make the wast / and abounded before all the Hevryen that dwelle aboute the / and in the sight of all them that go by the / so that the I punish the in my wrath / in myne anger / and with the plague of my rebote dispisoure / thou shalt be a very abhominacion / shame / a gasynge and woundinge stocke amonge the Hevryen that lye aboute the.

Euen I the Lorde haue spoken it / and it shall come to passe / when I spate amonge the the parious vares of hunger / which shalbe but death: Yet therof shall I stoute the / because I will destroye you. ¶ And I will cause a great hunger / and mynnysh all the piousness of bread amonge you.

Plagues and misery will I sende you / yee / and wilde bestes also to destroye you. Pestilence and bloodsheddinge / shall come vpon you / and the swerde will I bringe ouer you. Euen I the Lorde haue sayde it.

The VI. Chapter.

And the worde of the Lorde came vnto me / sayinge: Thou sone of man / turne thy face to the T mountaynes of Israel / that thou mayest prophete vnto them / and saye: Heare the worde of the Lorde God / o ye mountaynes of Israel: Thou hast the Lorde God spoken to the mountaynes / hills / and valleys / and dales:

Beholde / I will bringe a swerde ouer you / and destroye youre eye place: I will cast doune youre aulters / and breake doune youre temples. Your layne men will I slay before youre goddes / as the dead carcases of the children of Israel / will I cast before their synnages / youre bones wil I strowe rounde aboute youre aulters / and dwellinge place.

The ciues shalbe desolate / the hillchappels layed waste / youre aulters / destroyed / and breken your goddess cast downe a taken awaye / your temple layde cauciu with the grounde / your owne woife cleue roted out. Your slayne men shall lie amonge you / that ye maye learne to knowe howe that I am the Lozde.

B Those that amonge you haue escaped the sward / shall I leaue amonge the Gentiles / for I will scall you amonge the nations.
And they that escape from you / shall thinke vpon me amonge the heathen / where they shalbe in captiuitie.

To for that rebouish and vnfaithfull heart of thes / whereby they runne awaye fro me. I will breake it: yee / and put out the eye of they: that committe fornication with their Idols.

Then sayd they be ashamed / and displeas ed with their selfes / for the wickednesse and ab ominations / which they haue done: and shal kearne to knowe howe that it is not in vayne / that I the Lozde speake to bringe such mi sery vpon them.

E The Lozde sayd moueuer vnto me: Smyt thine handes together / and stampe with thy fete / and saye: Wo vnto all the abhominat ions and wickednesse of the house of Israell / because of them / they shall perishe with the sward: with hunger / and with pestilence.
Who so is farr off / shall dye of the pestilence / he that is at hande / shal dye with the sward:
a the other that are besieged / shall dye of hungre.

Thus will I iustifie my worthfull displea sure vpon the. And so shal ye kearne to knowe / that I am the Lozde / when your slayne men lye amonge your goddess / and aboute your altars: vpon all hye hills and toppes of mountaine / amonge all grene trees / amonge all thes / Oken: cuen in the places / where they dyd sacrifice to all their Idols. I will stretch myne hande out vpo them / and will make the lande waste: So that it shall lye desolate and voyde / from the wilderness of Delbar four / thousand / all their habitacions: to learne the to knowe / that I am the Lozde.

The. vii. Chapter.

A The worde of the Lozde came vnto me on this manner: The Lozde / O howe soone of man. Thus sayeth the Lozde God vnto the lande of Israell: The ende cometh / yee / nely the ende cometh vpon the fourte ners of the earth.

But now shall the ende come vpon the: for I will sende my wrath vpon the: and wil pun nysh the accordinge to the wayes / a rewarde the after all thy abhominations. I Myne eye shall not pyne the / neyther will I spare the: e but rewarde the / accordinge to thy wayes / and declare thy abhominations. Thus shall ye knowe that I am the Lozde.

Thus sayeth the Lozde God. He shalde / out misery and plague shall come af ter another: the ende is here. The ende / I saye. that waye / vpon the: is come alreadye: the houre is come agaynst the: that dwelleth in the lande.

The tyme is at hande / the daye of sedition is hard by / and no glad thinges vpon the mountaynes. Therefore / I will shortly poure out my sore displeasure ouer the: / and fulfill my wrath vpon the. I will iudge the after thy wayes / and recompence the all thy abhomi nations.

I Myne eye shall not pyne the: neyther will I spare the: but rewarde the after thy wayes / I and shewe thy abhominations: to learne you so: to knowe / howe that I am the Lozde that sitteth. Beholde / the daye is here / the daye is come / the houre is runne out / the rodde for riseth / mynfulnesse: we: scyth grene / malicious violence is growen vp / a the ongodly wagen to a staffe. Yer shall there no compynie be made for them / nor for the trouble that shal come of these thynges.

The tyme cometh / the daye draweth nyr.
I Who so buyth / let him not reuoyce: he that selleth / let him not be sorry: why? Trouble shall come in the myddest of all rest: so that the seller shall not come agayne to buye / for ney ther of the both shall lye. For the vision shall come: so greatly ouer all / the it shal not be bin dred: No man also with his wickednesse shalbe able to sau his owne lyfe.

The trompettes shal ye blowe / a make you all ready: but no man shal go to the battail / for I am wrath with all the whole multitude.

The frewarde shalbe withoute pestilence and hunger within: so that who so is in the kilde shalbe slayne with the frewarde: and he that is in the cite / shall perishe with hunger and pestilence.

And such as scape and flye from amonge them/ shalbe upon the hilles/sife as the bouce in the filde: euey one shalbe strayed because of his owne wickednesse.

All bandes shalbe latten dounce/ and all fences shalbe weale as the water: they shall T gyde the silkes with sackcloth/ feare shall fall upon them. Theyr faces shalbe confounded/ and theyr heades halde: theyr syluer shall lye in the strettes/ and theyr golde shalbe despised: † Theyr/ theyr/ syluer and golde maye not rescue them/ in the daye of the fearfull wrath of the Lorde.

They shall not satisfie theyr hungry soules/ neyther shal they enricke bellies ther with: for it is become theyr owne decaye thowore their wickednesse: because they † made therof not onely easly iocules for their pompe a pynde/ but also abominable ymagas and Idols. for this cause will I make them to be aboirded. Moreover/ I will geue it into the handes of the straglers to be spoyled: and to the wicked for: to be robbed/ and they shall destroye it.

My face wil I turne from them/ my treasury shalbe desyled: for the thebes shall go into it/ and suspende it. I wil make cleane riddaunce/ for the lande is whole desyled with wrighteous iudgement of innocent bloude/ and the cue is full of abominacions.

Therefore/ I will bingie the moost cruel tyrannours from amonge the Chethen/ to take theyr houses in possession. I will make the pompe of the proude to ceasse/ and they shall lye in their Sanctuare. When this trouble cometh/ they shall sike peace/ but they shall haue none. One mischiefe and sorowe shal followe another/ and one rumoure shal come after another: † Then shall they sike visions in vayne at theyr prophetes. The lawe shalbe gone from the pnestes/ and wysdome frd the elders. The singes shall inourne/ the pnestes shalbe cloied with brauynesse/ and the handes of the people in the lande shall tremble for feare. I will do vnto them after their owne wayes/ and accordinge to their owne iudgements will I iudge them: to learne them for to knowe that I am the Lorde.

The VIII. Chapter.

It happened/ that in the sixte yeare/ the fifth daye of the sixte moneth I sat in my house/ and the loides of the counsaill of Ieruda with me/ and the bande of the Lord God fell euen there upon me.

And as I loked vp/ I sawe as it were a likeness of offire from his lordnes downwarde/ and from his lordnes upward/ it stynde in a waye/ as it were cleare.

This similitude stretched out an hande/ Eze. vii. 1 and toke me by the heery lockes of my heade/ and he said and the spere lift me vp betwixt heauen and earth: and God brought me in a vision to Jerusalem/ into the court of the inward porte that lycht towarde the North: there stode an ymage/ with whiche he hath all thynges in his power/ was very woth.

And beholde/ the glory of the God of Israel was in the same place: ead as I had sene Eze. i. 28 it as it were in the filde. And he sayde vnto me/ Thou sonne of man. O lift vp thine eyes/ and loke towarde the North. Then lift I up myne eyes towarde the North/ a beholde: Beside the porte Northwarde/ there was an aulter made vnto the ymage of piousocation/ in the very entring in.

And he sayde further vnto me: Thou sonne of ma/ what thou vnto these do: What thou the greates abominacions that the house of Israel comitte in this place: whiche sougher not to be done in my Sanctuare?

But turne the aboute/ a thou shalt see yet greater abominacions. And with that brought he me to the court gate: and when I loked beholde/ there was an hole in the wall.

Then saide he vnto me: Thou sonne of ma/ sygge thou to the wall. And when I dygged thow to the wall beholde/ there was a done. And he sayde vnto me: go thy waye in/ a lode what wicked abominacions they do there.

So I wente in and sawe: and beholde/ there were all maner ymagas of wommes and bestes/ all Idols and abominacions of the house of Israel/ paynted euery thone rounde aboute the wall.

There stode also before the ymagas † Eze. viii. 10 loides of the counsaill of the house of Israel: and in the myddell of them stode Jaazanus the sonne of Saphan: And euey one of them had a censure in his hande/ and out of the inences/ there wente up a smoke/ as it had bene a cloude.

120. vii. a the cloude filled the summer court. † But the glory of the Lord remoued from the Cherubins/ and came vpon the thresholde of the house: so that the temple was full of cloude/ and the court was full of the shynce of the Lordes glory. ¶ Yet/ and the sounde of the Cherubins wynges was heard into the fourcort/ like as it had bene the voyce of the almighty God/ when he speaketh. Now/ whē he had bydden the man that was clothed in

B lynnyn/ to go and take the hore coales from the myddell of the wheelcs/ which were vnder the Cherubins: he wente and stode besyde the wheelcs. Then the one Cherub reachyd forth his hande from vnder the Cherubins/ vnto the fyre that was betwene the Cherubins/ and toke thros/ and gaue it vnto hym (that had on the lynnyn rayment) in his hande: whiche toke it and wente out. And vnder the wynges of the Cherubins/ there appeared the lyknesse of a mans hande: I sawe also foure wheelcs besyde the Cherubins/ so that by euery Cherub they stode a whele. And the wheelcs were (to loke vpon) after the fashion of the precious stone of Tharsis: yet (vnto the sight) were they fashioned and lyke/ as if one whele had bene in another.

When they wente forth/ they wente all iiii. together/ in turninge aboute in their goinge: But where the fyll wente/ thither wente they after also/ so that they turned not aboute in their goinge: Their whole bodies/ their backes/ their handes and wynges/ yet/ a the wheelcs also were all full of eyes rounde aboute them all foure. And I had hym call the whele of Galgal (thatis) a rounde boult. † Euery one of them had foure faces: so that the one face was the face of a Cherub/ the seconde of a man/ the thirde of a Lyon/ the fourthe of an Eagle/ and they were lifted vp aboue. This is the beaust that I sawe at the water of Cobar.

C Nowe when the Cherubins wente/ the whele wente with the: and when the Cherubins stoode their wynges to lift the selfes vpwarde/ the wheelcs remained not behynde/ but were with them also. Shortly/ whē they stode/ the selfe stode also: And when they were lift vp/ the wheelcs were lift vp also with them/ for the spirit of life was in the wheelcs.

120. viii. b † Then the glory of the Lord was lift vp from the thresholde of the temple/ and remoued vpon the Cherubins: And the Cherubins stacted with their wynges/ and lift them selfe vp from the earth: so that I sawe when they went/ and the whelcs with them. And they stode at the Eastsyde of the porte/ tharis in the house of the Lord. So the glory of the God of Israel was vpon the. This is the beaust that I sawe vnder the God of Israel/ by the water of Cobar. And I perceaued that it was the Cherubins. Euery one had foure faces/ and euery one foure wynges/ and vnder their wynges/ as it were mene handes. Now the figure of their faces/ was enen as I had sene them by the water of Cobar/ and so was the countenance of the: euery one in his goinge wente straight forward.

The XI. Chapter.

And ouer/ the spere of the Lord lift me † vp/ and brought me vnto the Eastpote of the Lordes house. And beholde/ there were xx. men vnder the voyce: amonge whome I sawe Jaasania the sonne of Afsur/ and Obelias the sonne of Banias/ the rulers of the people. Then saide the Lord vnto me: Thou sonne of man: These men synnyn mischiefe/ and a wicked counsaill take they in this cite/ sayinge: Tush/ there is no destruction at hande/ let vs buylde houses: This Jerusalem is the cauldrian/ and we be the flesch. These shall thou prophete vnto them/ yet/ prophete shall thou vnto them/ O sonne of man. And with that fel the spere of the Lord vpon nican/ and sayde vnto me: Speake/ thus sayeth the Lord: On this maner haue ye spoek (O ye house of Israel) and I knowe the imaginations of youre hertes. Many one haue ye murmurd in this cite/ and filled the street full of the slayne.

Then fore/ thus saith the Lord God: † Be slayne men that ye haue layd on the grounde in this cite/ are the flesch/ and this cite is the cauldrian: But I will bringe you out of it: † ye haue thamen out the swearde/ I wyl I also bringe a swearde our you/ I seyth e the Lord God: I will dysse you out of this cite/ I wyl dysse you out of this cite/ and will cōdemne you. Ye shall slayne with the swearde in all the coastes of Israel/ I wyl be awinged of you to learne you how to fynde that I am the Lord. This rine shall not be your cauldron / neyther shall ye be the fleshe therein: but in the cauldre of Israel wil I purify you / that ye maye knowe that I am the Lord: in whose commaundementes ye haue Len. xvij. a. not walkt: nor kept his lawes: I but haue Gen. xij. d. ¶ Now when I preached / Obeinao / sonne of Banias dyed. When fell I Rounce upon my face / and cried with a loud voyce: O Lord God / wilt thou then utterly destroye all the remnant in Israel: And so the woide of the Lord came to me on this maner. Thou sonne of man: Thy brethren / thy kynsolke / a the whole house of Iuda / which dwel at Jerusalem / saye: They be gone farre from the Lord: but the lande is geue vs in posses. Therefore all them / thus sayeth the Lord God: I will sende you farre amonge the Gentiles: a feare you amonge the nations / and I will showe it vnto a litle / in the lande where ye shall come. Tell them also / thus sayeth the Lord God: I will gather you agayne out of the nations / and bing you frō the countre where ye be scatered: a wil geue you the lande of Israel agayne: and thurber shall ye come. And as for all impedimentes / and all your abhominacions: I will take the awaye.

¶ And I wil geue you one hert / a wil plaie here. xxij. a. nre spere within your bowels. That stony hert wil I take out of youre body / and geue you a fleshy hert: that ye maye walke in my commaundementes / and kepe my ordinauntces / and so them that ye maye be my people / and I your God. Yet lase whose hertes are disposed to followe their abhominacions and wicked lumges: Those mens hertes wil I change upon theyr vne beades / sayeth the Lord God. After thus dyd the Cherubins lift vp theyr wings / and the whelcs wente with them / and the glory of the God of Israel was vpon them. I So the glory of the Lord went vp from the middelt of the cne / and stode vpon the mount of the cne toward the East. I Butche mynde toke me vp / and in a vision / whiche came by the spere of God: it brought me agayne into Caldee amonge the psoners. Then the vision that I had seen / was shed awaye from me. So I spake vnto the psoners all the woordes of the Lord / which he had shewed me.

The XII. Chapter.

The woide of the Lord came vnto me / sayinge: O thou sonne of man / thou shalt dwell in the middelt of a fromard: thou shalt dwell which haue eyes to see / and yet se not: eares to heare / and yet heare they not: for they are an obdurate householde. Therefore / O thou sonne of man / make thy gear ready: thou shalt go forth by saye: saye light / that they maye see. Ye / euen in their sight: that they shall come from thy place to another place: if peraduenture they will confide / that they be a disobedient householde: thy gear / thou shalt make ready: to flye withall: that thou shalt come out by saye: saye light: that they maye see / a thou thy self shalt go forth also: euen in their sight: as a man fleeth when he fleeth.

¶ I digge thow the wall / that they may see / and breake thow the wall: that they be a disobedient householde: thy gear / thou shalt make ready: to flye withall: that thou shalt come out by saye: saye light: that they maye see / a thou thy self shalt go forth also: euen in their sight: as a man fleeth when he fleeth. And when it was darke / I toke the gear vpon my shoulde: and bare them out in their sight.

And in the morninge came the woide off the Lord: vnto me / sayinge: Thou sonne of man / if Israel that fromard householde / eate and saye: what doest thou there: Then tell them: Thus sayeth the Lord God: Thus punishment toucheth the chief rulers at Jerusalem / and at the house of Israel: that dwell amonge them: Tell them: I am your shewrofen: like as I haue done / so shall it happen vnto you: first shall ye also / and go into captiuitie. The churill that is amonge you / shall lade his shoulers in the darke: a get him awaye. He shall breake thow the wall: to carie a flus there thow: He shall couer his face: that he se not the grounde with his eyes.

¶ My lyne wil I spidee out vpon him / a catch him in my nette: and carie him to Babilon / in the lande of the Caldees: whiche shall not fear and yet shall be dye there. As for al his helpers / and al his hostes / that be about him / I will scarre them towards al the wynde / and I will smite al the swordes / after them.

Eze. p. b. 13 b

¶ So when I haue scatted them among the heythen / and sctored them in the landes / they shall knowe that I am the Loide. But I will leaue a litle number of them / from the swordes / hunger and pestilence / to tell al their abominacions among the heythen / where they come / that they maye knowe / how that I am the Loide.

¶ Moreover the woide of the Loide came vnto me sayinge / Thou sonne of man / with a fearful trembling shalt thou eate thy bread / with carefulnesse / as thou shalt thou dyne / with carefullnesse / And vnto the people of the lande / I speake thou in this maner / Thus sayeth the Loide God / to them that dwell in Ierusalem / as to the lide of Israel / Ye shall eat your bread wth sorrowe / and dyne wth your water with heavynesse / Ye see the lande with the fullnesse thereof / shall be layde wast / for the wickednesse of them that dwell therein / And the cities that now be well occupied / shall be voyde / and the londe desolate / that ye maye knowe / how that I am the Loide.

Eze. p. b. 14 a. b.

¶ So came the woide of the Loide vnto me againe sayinge / Thou sonne of man / what cause vnto the woide is that which ye see in the lande of Israel / sayinge / Thus / I sayng that the dayes are so blacke in comming / all the visions are of none effecte / Tell them therefore / thus sayeth the Loide God / I will make that they woide to come / so that it shall nomore be commonly used in Israel.

But I saye this vnto them / The dayes are as handes / that eury thinge whiche haue bene prophesied / shall be fulfilled. There shall no vision be in vayne / neither any propheticke saye amonge the children of Israel / for it is I the Loide that speake it / and whatsoever I the Loide speake it / shall be performed / and not be blacke in comming.

¶ For euen in your dayes / O ye forwarde householde / will I vnto some thinge / a thinge to passe / sayeth the Loide God. And the woide of the Loide came vnto me sayinge / Beholde / thou sonne of man / The house of Israel sayen this maner / Thus / as for the vision / that he hath sent / it wil be many a daye / or it come to passe / It is sure of yet / the thinge that he propheticke. Therefore say vnto them / Thus sayeth the Loide God / All my woide / that I haue spoken / shall come to passe / sayeth the Loide God.

The XIII. Chapter.

¶ The woide of the Loide came vnto me / sayinge / Thou sonne of man / Speake propheticke against those prophetes that preach in Israel / and saye thou vnto them / that propheticke out of their owne hearts / Heare the woide of the Loide / thus sayeth the Loide God / I Doe be vnto those falshe prophetes / that followe their owne speere / a speere wher they see nothinge. O Israel / thy prophetes are like the foxes upon the dykes / for they stande not in the gappes / neither make they an hedge for the house of Israel / that men mighte chide the parrell in the daye of the Loide. Vaine thinges they see / and will lye / to maintein their preachinges withal. The Loide (saye they) hath spoken it / when in very deede the Loide hath not sent them. Vaine visions haue ye seen / and spoken falshe prophetes / when ye saye the Loide hath spoken it / where as I neuer saide it.

Eze. p. b. 15

Eze. p. b. 16 a

Therefore / thus sayeth the Loide God / Because ye saye / thus sayeth the Loide God / Beholde / I will vpon you / sayeth the Loide God. Myne handes shall come vpon the prophetes / that lye out vaine thinges / and preach / so that they shall not be in the counsaill of my people / nor warte in the booke of the house of Israel / neither shall they come in the lande of Israel / that ye maye knowe / howe that I am the Loide God. And that for this cause / they haue deceaued my people / and tolde them of peace / where no peace was. One seareth vp a reaf / a they daube it with louse clauie. Therefore tell them whiche haue it / with untemperd moete / that it shall fall. I for there shall come a greate shower of rayne / greate stones shall fall vpon it / and a foue storme of wind shall breake it / so shall the welle come downe. Shall it not then be layde vnto you / where is nowe the moete / that ye daubed it withall. Therefore thus sayeth the Loide God / I will breake out in my wrath / I displeasure with a stormy wynde, so that in my anger there shall come a mighty shower of frayne and hale stones in my wrath to destroye withall.

Am.

As for the wall that ye haue daubed with untemperd moire / I will breake it downe / and make it even with the ground: so that the foundation thereof shall remoue / as it shall fall / yet if ye your selves shall perish in the midst thereof: to learne you for to knowe that I am the Lord.

Ann lan

Thus will I perourme my wrath upon this wall / and upon them that haue daubed it with untemperd moire / and then will I saye vnto you: The wall is gone / and the daughters are awaye. These are the Prophecies of Israel / whiche prophete vnto the cite of Ierusalem / and loke oute visions of peace for them / where as no peace is / sayeth the Lord God. Wherefore o thou sonne of man / set thy face against the daughters of thy people / whiche prophete oute of their owne hearts: and speake thus prophete againste them / and saye thus sayeth the Lord God: Do the vnto you / that some pillows vnder all arme holes / and bolster vnder the heades both of yonge and olde / to ease soules withall. For when ye haue gotten the soules of my people in your captiuitie / ye promise them lyfe / and bid honoure me to my people: for an handfull of barley / as for a peece of bread: when ye kill the soules of them that dye not: and promise lyfe to them that haue not. Thus ye dissemble with my people: that delueth your eyes.

Esa. v. 1. Mich. 4. b.

Wherefore thus sayeth the Lord God: Behold / I will also vps the pillows / wherewith ye ease the soules in slenyge: then will I take from your armes / a let the soules go / that ye ease in slenyge. Your bolster also will I tear in peece / and deliuer my people out of your handes: & they shall come no more in your handes to be spoyled: as ye shall knowe that I am the Lord. Seynge that with your eyes ye discomfote the heart of the righteous: in whom I haue not sinned. Againe / for so much as I ye courage the hands of the wicked / so that they maye not turne from his wicked waye: and lyue: therefore shall ye spye out amonge vanitie / not prophete your owne gessen: for I will deliuer my people out of your handes: that ye maye knowe / howe that I

The XIII. Chapter.

Here I risoued vnto me certayne of the Elders of Israel / and sat downe by me. Then came the word of the Lord vnto me / sayinge: Thou sonne of man / these men beare their Idols in their hearts / and go purposely vpon the stumbling blocke of their owne wickednesse: howe haue they thyn eyes coueryd at me: Therefore speake vnto them and saye: thus sayeth the Lord God: Every man of the house of Israel that beareth his Idole in his heart / purposinge to stumble in his owne wickednesse / as cometh to a papper / to enquire any thing at me by him: vnto that man will I the Lord my selfe / as our cunfessour / according to the multitude of his Idoles: that the house of Israel maye be shamed in their owne hearts: because they be cleue gone from me / for their Idole sake.

Eze. 37. 14.

Wherefore / tell ye house of Israel: thus sayeth the Lord God: Be conuerted / for sake your Idole / and turne your faces from all your abhominacions. For every man / whether he be of the house of Israel / or a stranger / that settoweneth in Israel / whiche depaureth from me / and curseth Idols in his heart / purposinge to go still stumbling in his owne wickednesse / and cometh to a papper / for to aske counsell at me: thus saye vnto that man: will I the Lord geue answer by myne owne kyll.

Eze. 37. 14.

I will set for my face agaynste that man / and wil make him to be an example / for other / yet / and a commyn byword: and wil rote him out of my people / that he maye knowe howe that I am the Lord. And if that prophete be deceaued / when he telleth bym a word: then I the Lord my selfe haue deceaued that prophete / and will stretch forth myne hande vpon him / to rote bym out of my people of Israel: and they both shall be punished for their wickednesse.

D

Eze. 37. 14.

According to the synne of bym that curseth / shall the synne of the prophet be: that the house of Israel be led no more from me: thus we are roued: & no more dyscyled in their wickednesse: but that they maye be my people / and I their God / sayeth the Lord God. And the word of the Lord came vnto me sayinge: Thou

Thou sonne of man; when the lande synneth against me; and goest forth in wickedness: I will stretch out my hande vpon it; and will breake it: and I will bring forth the yron sword; and I will send it vpon them; to destroye man; and beast in the lande. And though Ioc / Daniel / and Job / these thre men were amonge them; yet shall they in their righteousnes deliuer; but their owne soules; sayeth the Lord God.

If I bringe anysonne Beastes into the lande; to waite vpon; and it be so desolate; that no man maye go therein for Beastes: yet these thre men also were in the lande; as truly as I Ihu (saith the Lord God) they shall saue neyther sonnes nor Daughters; but they onely deliuered them selves; and as for the lande; it shall be wast.

O; yet I bringe a sword; into the lande; and charge it; to go throughe the lande; so that I slaye a yongman a Beall in it; and yet these thre men were therein: As truly as I Ihu (saith the Lord God) they shall deliuer neyther sonnes nor Daughters; but onely the saued them selves.

If I sende a pestilence into the lande; and poure out my fure indignacion vpon it in bloude; so that I rote out of it both man and Beall; and yet Ioc / Daniel / and Job were therein: As truly as I Ihu (saith the Lord God) they shall deliuer neyther sonnes nor Daughters; but saue their owne soules in their righteousnes.

Moreover; thus saith the Lord God: Though I sende my foure tribulous plagues vpon Jerusalem; the sword; hunger; peryous Beastes; and pestilence; to destroye man and Beall out of it; yet shall there a remnant be saued therein; which shall bringe forth theyr sonnes and Daughters. Beholde; they shall come forth vnto you; and ye shall see their way; and what they take in hande; and ye shall be comforted; as touchinge all the plagues that I haue brought vpon Jerusalem.

They shall comforte you; when ye see their waye and woorkes; and ye shall knowe howe that it is not withoute a cause; that I haue done so against Jerusalem; as I byd; sayeth the Lord God.

The. Xv. Chapter.

The woide of the Lord came vnto me; sayinge: Thou sonne of man; what cometh of the vyne amonge all other treces; and of the wyne stocke; amonge all other synthe of the groue? Do me take woodd of it; to make any woike withall: Or maye there a nayle be made of it; to hange any thinge vpon: Beholde; it is call in the fyre to be burnt; the fyre consumeeth both the endes of it; the middell is burnt to ashes. Thou mete then for any woike: No.

Seeinge then; that it was mete for no woike; beinge whole; muche lesse maye there any thinge be made of it; when the fyre hath consumed and burnt it. And therefore thus saith the Lord God: Like as I cast the vyne into the fyre for to be burnt; as other trees of the woodde: Euen so will I do with them; that dwell in Jerusalem; and set my face against them; they shall go oute from the fyre; and yet the fyre shall consume them: When shall ye knowe that I am the Lord; when I set my face against them; and make the lande wast; because they haue so fore offended; sayeth the Lord God.

The. Xvi. Chapter.

Wayne the woide of the Lord spake vnto Ihu; sayinge: Thou sonne of man; shewe the cite of Jerusalem; their abominacions; and saye; thus saith the Lord God vnto Jerusalem: Thy progeny and kindred came oute of the lande of Canaan; thy father was an Amorite; thy mother an Hebrite. In the daye of thy birth; when thou wast borne; the string of thy navel was not cut off; thou wast not barbed in water to make thee cleane: Thou wast neither rubbed with salt; nor swabbed in clowthe: No man regarded the so muche; as to do any of these thinges for thee; to shewe the such fauoure; but thou wast utterly calle out vpon the felde; yet; bespyred we; thou in the daye of thy birth.

Then came I by the; and sawe the troden downe in thine owne bloude; and saide vnto thee; thou shalt be purged from thine owne bloude; from thine owne bloude. (I say) shalt thou be clenfed. So I plucked thee as the blossom of thy felde; thou art gotten vp; a woman greates; thou hast gotten a maruallous pleasant decay; thy distres are come vpon thee.

B Now when I went by the / a lofed upon the beholde/ thy time was come/ yee/ euen the time to wote the. Then spued I my clothes ouer thy eyes/ cover thy dishonesty. Yee/ I made an oathe vnto the / I and married my selfe with the / sayest the Lorde God/ as if thou becamest myne owne. Thou washed I the th water/ and poured thy floure from the / I anoynted the with oyle / I gaue the chaunge of garments/ I made y shoes of doos leather / I gydded thy about with white silcke/ I clothed the with ferdences/ I decked y with costly apperell/ I put rynges vpo thy fingers/ a chaunge about thy necke / sponges vpon thy forehead/ care rynges vpon thine carres/ and set a beuifull crowne vpon thine head. Thus wail thou weest/ with siluer a golde/ and thy raymente was of fyne white silcke / of nedle woole/ and of diuers colours.

Thou haddest eate nothing but symmels/ hony a oyle/ marapulous goodly wast thou a beuifull/ yee/ euen a very Queene wast thou/ In so much/ that thy beauty was spoken of amonge the Cyrenens/ so: thou wast excellent in my beauty/ whiche I put vpon the/ sayest y Lorde God. But thou hast put confidence in thine owne beauty/ a played the harlot / when thou haddest gotten the aname. Thou hast committed whoredome with all that went by the/ and hast fulfilled their desires. Yee/ thou hast taken thy garments of diuers colours/ a deckt thine cutlers therewith/ where oppon thou mightest fulfill thy whoredome/ of such a fashion as neuer was done/ no: shalbe.

The goodly ornaments a iewels/ whiche I gaue the of myne owne golde a siluer/ haste thou taken/ a made the mens ymages theroff/ and committed whoredome with all.

Thy garments of diuers colours haste thou taken/ and deckt them therewith/ myne oyle and incense hast thou set before the. My meat whiche I gaue the/ as symmels/ oyle and hony/ to feede the with all/ that haste thou set before the/ for a sweete sature. And thus came also to passe/ yee the Lorde God. Thou hadst taken thine owne sonnes a daughters/ whome thou haddest begotten vnto me/ and these haste thou offered vp vnto them/ to be their meat. Is this but a small whoredome of thine/ thinkst thou/ that thou shalst my childe/ and geuist them ouer to be sent vnto them? And yet in all thy abominacions and whoredome / thou haste not remembered the dayes of thy youth/ how naked and bare thou wast at that time/ and noken vnto in thine owne floure. After all these thy wickedneses / two vnto the sayest the Lorde God/ thou hast buylded thy steeles and bowdell houses in euery place/ yee/ at y head of euery strete haste thou buylded the an altar. Thou haste made thy beauty too be adored: thou haste layde out thy legges/ to eueryone that came by/ and multiplied thine whoredome. Thou haste committed fornication with the Egyprians thy neyghbours / whiche had much floure/ and thus haste thou vnto thine whoredome to anger me.

Beholde/ I haue stretched out myne hade ouer the/ and will nymth thy floure of food/ and deliuer the out/ into the willes of y Philistines thine enemies/ whiche are shamed of thy abominable waye. Thou haste played the whore also with the Assirians / whiche might not satisfie the: Yee/ thou hast played y harlot/ and not had ynough. Thus hast thou still committed thy fornication from the lade of Canaan vnto the Caldees/ and yet thy lust not satisfied. How should I reuenge thine here/ saith the Lorde God/ seeing thou hast all these things/ thou precious whore: buylding thy steeles at the head of euery strete/ and thy bowdellhouse in all places. Thou hast not ben as another whore / that maketh basse of her whynnyng/ but as a wyfe that beareth wedlocke / and taketh other in steade of her husbande. Justice are geuen to all other whores/ but thou geuist rewards vnto all thy louers/ and offerst them giftes/ to come vnto the out of all places / and too committe fornication with the. It is come to passe with thee in thy whoredomes/ contrary to the wif of other women/ seest here hath no such fornication bene committed after the/ synge/ a thou profferest giftes vnto other/ and no rewards to geuen the/ this is a contrary thing. Therefore haue the woode of the Lorde/ so thou harlot: Thus sayest the Lorde God: for so muche as thou hast spent thy money/ a bestowed ucred thy shame/whowoe thy whoredome with all thy louers/and with all the Idoles of thy abominations in the bloude of the chyldren/whome thou hast geuen them: Be-holde therfore / I will gather togerher all: by louers/into whome thou hast made thy selfe common yee/ and all them whome thou fauourest/and euery one that thou hatest: a will I discouer thy shame before them / that they all maye see thy filthynesse.

¶ No more: I will iudge the as a breake of tredecloke and a murderrer/and recompence the thine owne bloude in wrath and glory: I will geue the ouer into their power / that they shall breake downe thy steeves / and destroye thy dyedhoues: they shall strepe the oute of thy clothes/all thy sayre and beautifull weles shall they take frome the / and so kee the sit naked and bare: Yee/they shall bring the common people vpon the / which shall stone the / they shall burne the with their swordes. ¶ They shall burne vp thy houses/and pursue the in the sight of many women. Thus will I make thy whoredome to cease/so that thou shalt geue out no more rewardes.

¶ Shoulde I make my wrath to be still / take my glory frome the/be content/and no more to be displeas'd: seinge thou rememberest not the wayes of thy youth/ but hast powdered me to weath in all these thynges: Beholde therefore/ I will bring thine owne wayes vpon thine head/ sayeth the Lord God: howbeit I neuer did vnto the/ accordinge to thy wickednesse and all thy abominations. Beholde/all they that the common prouerbes / shall see thee / shall iudge also a gasynge the: Suche a mother I iudge a daughter.

¶ Thou art curren thy mothers owne daughter that hath cast of her husbande a her children: Yee/ thou art sister of thy sisters/ which forsoke their husbandes and their children.
¶ Your mother is a Hebrew / a your father an Ammourite / thine eldest sister is Samaria / she and her daughters that dwell vpon thy left hande.

¶ But thy youngest sister that dwelleth on the right hande is Sodoma her daughters.
¶ Yet hast thou not walked after their wayes/nor done after their abominations: But in all thy wayes thou hast bene more corrupte then they.

¶ No truly as I haue sayed the Lord God:

¶ Sodoma thy sister with her daughters/hath not done so euill as thou and thy daughters. Beholde the synne of thy sister So-dome were these: Dyde / fulnesse of meate/abundance/and fulnesse of thynges had she and her daughters. Besides that they reached not their harte to the poore and ney/but were proude/and did abhominable thynges before me: therefore I rote them awaye when I had sene it. Neether hath Samaria done half of thy synne/ yee/ thou hast exceeded them in wickednesse: In so much that in comparson of all abhominations/ which thou hast done/ thou hast made thy sisters good women. Therefore beare thine owne shame/ thou that in synne hast overcome thy sister: seinge thou hast done so abhominably/ that they were better then thou. Be ashamed therefore/ I saye/and beare thine owne confusion / thou that makest thy sisters good women.

¶ As for their captiuitie/ namely the captiui-tie of Sodoma and her daughters: the capti-uitie of Samaria and her daughters: I will bringe them agayne / so will I also bringe a-gayne thy captiuitie amonge them: that thou mayest take thine owne confusion vpon the/be ashamed of all that thou hast done / and to comforte them.

¶ Thus thy sisters (namely) Sodoma and her daughters / Samaria and her daughters with the selfe/ and thy daughters shall broughte agayne to your olde state. When

The XVIII. Chapter.

The woide of the Lord came onto me on this manner: What meane ye by this commandment which ye vnto in the lode of Israell / sayinge: The fathers haue care foure grapes / and the childrens teeth are set on edge: Truly as I haue saide / the Lord God / ye shall use this by woide no more in Israell.

Hold: / T all soules are myne. Life as the fathers is myne / so is the sonne mine also. The soule that synnereth / shall dye. T If a man be godly / and do the thinge that is equal a right / he careth not upon the billes: he lieth not his eyes vp to the Idols of Israell: he defyleth not his neyghbours wife: he meyleth with no mercurious woman: he greiveth no body: he giveth his better his pledge agayne: he careth none other mans good by violence: T he parteth his meate with the hungry: he closeth the naked: T he lendeth nothinge upon vsury: he careth nothinge ouer / he withdraueth his hande from doinge wronge: he hanbleth faithfully betwixt man and man: he walketh in my commandmentes / and keepeth my lawes / and performeth them faithfully: T This is a righteous man / T he shall surely lyue saith the Lord God.

If he now get a sonne that is a murthurer / shedder of bloude: if he do cure of these things: T though he do not all: he careth not the billes: he defyleth his neyghbours wife: he greiveth the poore and needy: he robbeth a foorth: he greiveth not the better his pledge agayne: he lieth up his eyes vnto Idols / and meyleth with abominable thinges: he lieth upon vsury / and taketh more ouer. Shall this man lyue / he shall not lyue. Seinge he hath done all these abominacions / he shall dye: his bloude shall be upon him.

Now if this man get a sonne also / that seith all his fathers synnes which he hath done: a foorth / neyther hath such like: T Amely / he careth not upon the mountaines: he lieth not his eyes vp to the Idols of Israell: he defyleth not his neyghbours wife: he receiveth no man: he keepeth no mans pledge: he neyther spoyleth nor robbeth any man: he dealeth his meate with the hungry: he closeth the naked: he op-presseth not the poore / he receaueth no vsury: B not any thinge ouer: he keepeth my lawes / and walketh in my commandmentes: T This man shall not dye in his fathers synne / but shall lyue without faile. As for his father: because he oppressed and spoiled his brother / and dyd wickedly amonge his people: he is dead in his owne synne. And yet saye ye: Wherefore then shoulde not this sonne beare his fathers synne: Thefore / because the sonne hath done equite and right / hath kepte all my commandmentes / and done the: therefore shall he lyue in vede.

The same soule that synneth / shall dye. T The sonne shall not beare his fathers offence: neyther shall the father beare the sonnes offence. The righteousness of the righteous shall be vpon him self / a the wickednes of the wicked a. Par. 17. 10. shall be vpon him self also. But if the vngodly will turne away from all his synnes that he hath done / and kepe all my commandmentes / and do the thinge that is equal and right: Eze. 18. 14. Doubles he shall lyue / and not dye. As for all his synnes that he dyd before / they shall not be thought vpon: but in his righteousness that he hath done / he shall lyue. T For I haue no pleasure in the death of a synner / sayeth the Lord God / but rather / that he couere and lyue.

Again: if the righteous turne away from his righteousness / and do iniquite / accordinge to all the abominacions that the wicked man doeth: shall he lyue: T All the righteousness that he hath done / shall not be thought vpon: but in the faulte that he hath offended withall / and in the synne that he hath done / he shall dye.

And yet ye saye: T what the waye of the Lorde is not indifferant. Here therefore ye haue of Israell: T Is not my waye right: T Are not your wayes rather wicked: T When a righteous man turneth away from his righteousness / and meyleth with vngodlynes: he must dye therein: Yet / for the righteousness that he hath done / must he dye. Agayne: T when the wicked man turneth away from his wickednesse that he hath done: a doeth the thinge which is equal and right / he shall lyue: his soule alyue. For in so much as he remembereth him self / and turneth him from all the vngodlynes / lynes that he hath vsed / he shall lyue and not dye. ¶

And yet sayeth the house of Israel: Tush / the waye of / the Lozde is not equal: Are my wayes vnright / a ye house of Israel: Are not your wayes rather vnquall: As for me / I will iudge every man / accordinge to his wayes. O ye house of Israel: sayeth the Lozde God.

¶ Wherefore be educated / and turne you cleane from all your wickednesse / so shall there no synne be ynto you harmed. Call awaye from you all your vngodlynesse that ye haue done: Tyme is come for you new heries and a new spise. Wherefore will ye dye / O ye house of Israel: * synge I haue no pleasure in / & death of him that dyeth / sayeth the Lozde God: Turne you then / and ye shall lyue.

The XIX. Chapter.

QUe mourne thou for the princes of Israel / and saye: Wherefore laye thy neighbor by thy neighbor amonge the Lyons / and neyghbor his neighbor amonge the Lyons whelpes: One of her whelpes he brought vp / and it became a Lyon: it learned to spoyle / and to deuoure folk. The Heathen herde of him / and toke him in their nettes / and brought him in chace vnto the lande of Egypte.

Now when the time came that all her hope and comfort was awaye / she toke another of her whelpes / and made a Lyon of him: which went amonge the Lyons / & became a fierce Lyon: learned to spoyle / and to deuoure folk: he destroyed their palaces / and made their ciuities wast. In so much that the whole lande and every thinge therein / were utterly desolate: howe the very voyce of his roaringe.

Then came the Heathen together on every side out of all countries against him / sayd they: needes for him / a toke him in their pytte.

¶ So they bounde him with chaynes / and brought him to the kinge of Babyon: which put him in prison / that his voyce / should not be heard vpon the mountaynes of Israel. As for thy neighbor / he is like a vine in thy bloud: planted by the water syde: her frutes and branches are growen out of many waters / her stalkes were so stronge / that men might haue made staves thereof for officers: she grew so hie in her stalkes.

¶ So when men sawe that she exceeded the height and multitude of her branches / she was roted out in displeasure / and cast downe to the grounde. The East wynde dyed vp her frute / her stronge stalkes were broken of wythered and burst in the syde: But now she is planted in the wilderness in a drye & thurshie grounde. And there is a fyre gone out of her stalkes / which hath burnt vp her branches / and bee frute: so that she hath no stronge stalkes / to be staves for officers: This is a pitous and miserable thinge.

The. XX. Chapter.

IN the vij. yeare the i. daye of the v. Mo. I sayd / It happened that certayne of the elders of Israel came vnto me / so I ake counsaill at the Lozde / and for the vyne by me. Then came the wynde of the Lozde vnto me in this maner: Thou sonne of man / Speake to the elders of Israel: saye vnto them: Thus sayeth the Lozde God: Are ye come hither to ake any thinge at me: So truly as I lyue / sayeth the Lozde: I will geue you no answer. Wilt thou not reprove them / (Thou sonne of man) wilt thou not reprove them: Shew them the abhominacions of their fathers: and tol them: Thus sayeth the Lozde God: ¶ In the daye when I chose Israel / I lift vp myne hande vpon the side of the house of Jacob / and swered my self vnto them in the lande of Egypte. Ye / when I lift vp myne hande ouer them / and sayde: I am the Lozde your God / euen in the daye that I lift vp myne hande ouer them: to bringe them out of the lande of Egypte / into a lande that I had psondyd for them / which should be mynle and bent / and is a pleasant lande: amonge all other. The sayde: I vnto them. Call awaye every man the abhominacions that he hath done / and I will not your kisse with the Idoles of Egypte: so: I am the Lozde your God.

¶ But they rebelled against me / and wold not followe me / to cast awaye every man the abhominacions of his eyes / and to forsake the Idoles of Egypte. Then I made me to pour my indignacion ouer them / and to iustifie my wrath vpon them: yee / euen in the myddel of the lande of Egypte. But I wold not do it for my names sake: that it should not be blasphowed before the Heathen: amonge whom they they dwelt / and amonge whome I shewed my self vnto thes / that I wolde bringe them out of the lide of Egipte. Now when I had caried them out of the lande of Egipte / and brought them into the wilderness / I gaue them my commaundementes and shewed them my lawes: † which who so keepeth shall liue in them / † I gaue them also my holy Vases / to be a token betwixt me and them / and thereby to knowe / that I am the Lorde / which hareuered them. † And yet the house of Israel rebelled agaynst me in the wilderness / they wolde not walke in my commaundementes / they haue cast awaye my lawes (which who so keepeth shoulde liue in them) / and my Sabbath Vases haue they greatly vnhalowed.

† Then I made me to poure out my indignation vpon them / and to consume them in the wilderness. Yet I wolde not do it for my names sake / lest it shoulde be dishonoured before the Heathen / in the which I had caried them awaye. But I swoue vnto them in the wilderness / that I wolde not bringe them vnto the lande / which I gaue them a lande that floweth with milke and hony / and is a pleasure of all landes / and that because they refused my lawes / and walked not in my comaundementes / but had vnhalowed my Sab-bathes / for their heare was gone after they Iddols. Neuertheless / myne eye spared them / so that I wolde not utterly slaye them / and consume them in the wilderness. Moreover / I swoue vnto theys / somes in the wilderness: † I wilke not in the statutes of your forefathers / I feye not theys: adinunces / and Vssyl: not your selfes with theys: Iddols / for I am the Lorde your God. But walke in my statutes / kepe my lawes / and do them / halowe my Sabbathes / † for they are a token betwixt me and you / that ye maye knowe / howe that I am the Lorde. Notwithstandinge / † their somes rebelled agaynst me also: they walked not in my statutes / they kepte not my lawes nor fulfill them / † which he that doeth shall liue in them. Neuer halowed they my Sabbath Vases. Then I made me againe to poure out my indignacion ouer them / and to satisfie my wrath vpon them in the wilderness.
Neuertheless / I withheld my hande for: my naime sake / lest it shoulde be vnhalowed amonge the Heathen / before / whome I had brought them forth. I lift vp myne hande ouer the also in the wilderness / that I wolde scare them amonge the Heathen / and flouze them amonge the nations / because they had not kepte my lawes / but cast asyde my commaundementes / vnhalowed my Sabbathes / and lift vp theys: eyes to theys: fathers Iddols.

Wherefore I gaue them also commaundemen-tes not good / and lawes thereto the which they shoulde not liue / and I vnhalowed the in theys: owne gyftes: / † (when I appointed for my self all theys: first borne) / to make them desolate: that they might knowe / howe that I am the Lorde.

Therefore (O thou sonne of man) tell th<sup>e</sup> house of Israel / thus sayeth the Lorde God: Beseede all this / your forefathers haue yet blas-phemed me / more / a greatly offended agaynst me: for after I had brought them into the lande / that I promised to geue them / when they sawe every hie hill and al the thiefe trees: they made there their offerings: and prouid-ed me with theys: oblations / that I might receiue sauiours there / and poured out their sinnes / fringes. Then I s<sup>e</sup>d them: what haue ye to do with all / that ye go thither? And therefore is it called the hie place vnto this daye. Wherefore / speake vnto the house of Israel: Thus sayeth the Lorde God: Ye are c<sup>o</sup>uen as vncleane as youre forefathers / and committe whosoome also with their abhominacions. In all your Iddols / where vnto ye bringe youre oblations / and † to whose honoure ye burne Incense: I seee your children / ye desfile youre selfes / euen vnto to this daye: howe darre ye the come / and see any question at me: O ye householde of Israel: Eze. xxi. c As truly as I liue (sayeth the Lorde God) I will see ye get no a<sup>u</sup>stere of me: and as so: for the thinge is that ye go aboute / it shall not come to passe / where as ye saye: we will be as the Heathen / and do as other peoplen in the lande / wood and stone will we worshippe.

As truly as I liue (sayeth the Lorde God) I will selfe will rule you with a mighty hande / with a stretched out arme / a with indig-

Moreover / the word of the Lord came vnto me/ sayinge / Thou sonne of man / set thy face toward the South / a speake to the South / and saye to the wood / towards the South. Here the word of the Lord: / thus sayeth the Lord God: Beholde / I will kindle a fyre in the: that shall consume the grene trees with the drye / no man shall be able to quench his flame / but all that looke from the South to the North / shall be therein: and all flesh shall see / that I the Lord God haue kindled it / so that no man maye quench it. Then sayde I: O Lord God they will saye of me: Tush / they are Idols / but sables that he telleth.

The XXXI. Chapter.

The word of the Lord came to me / sayinge / Thou sonne of man / set thy face toward Jerusalem / speake agaynst the Sanctuary / and prophete agaynst the lande of Israel / saye to the lande of Israel: Thus saith the Lord God: Beholde / I will vpon the / and will drawe my swearde out of the sheath / and rose out of the borb of the righteous and the wicked. Seeing then that I will vte our of the both the righteous and wicked / therefore shall my swearde ge out of his sheath / agaynst all flesh from the North to the South: that all flesh maye knowe howe that I the Lord God haue drawen my swearde out of the sheath / and it shall not be put in agayne.

Moreover / the word of the Lord came vnto me / sayinge / Thou sonne of man / what thy kyned craftes will / ye mourne bitterly for the: And if they saye / wherefore mourneest thou: Then tell them / for the wynges that cometh / at the which all beeres shall melt / all handes shall lerten / vnto / all stomaches shall faime / and all knees shall wepe sible. Beholde / it cometh and shall be fulfilled / sayeth the Lord God.

Agayne / the word of the Lord came vnto me / sayinge / Thou sonne of man / prophete and speake / Thus sayeth the Lord God: speake / the swearde is sharpened and well shouered. Sharpened is it for the slaughter / a soured that it maye be dryght. O the Destroying / that of my sonne / shall bringe vnto all wood. He hath put his swearde to the highgate / the good holde maye be take of it. This swearde is sharpened and dryght / that it maye be geuen into the hand of the man / slayer.

Eric / thou sonne of man / a heule / so / this swearde shall smyte my people / and all the rulers in Israel / which with my people shall slayne vnto the grounde / that is this swearde. Smyte thou vpon thy breast / wherefore shoulde not the plague and staff of iudgement come: Prophecie thou sonne of man / and smyte thine handes together / make the swearde roverged / yet / make it threegged / that mans laynes / swarde / that swarde of the greace slaughter / which shall smyte them / eue in their pety chaubicoes / to make them abashed and fayne at the vertes / and in all gates / to make some of them fall. O how bright and sharpe is yowr wil / bright and more for the slaughter?

 Get me to some place alone / either vpon the right hande or on the lefte / whiter soeuer thy face turneth. I will smyte my handes together also / and satisfie my wrathfull indigna-con: euen I the Lord haue sayde it.

E The woide of the Lord came yet vnto me agayne / saying: Thou sonne of man make the two stretes / that the swarde of the Kinge of Babylon maye come. Both these stretes shall go out of the lide. He shall set him vp a place / at the heade of the strete / shall he chofe him out a corner. Make the a stret / that the swarde maye come towards Babath of the Ammonites / and to the stronge cite of Jerusalem. For the Kinge of Babylon shall stande in the tur-ninge of the waye / at the heade of the two stre-tes: to / see counteyll at the fortyfeyers / ea-chynge f lances with his arrowes / to see coun-teyll at the Idoles / and to loke in the lyer. But the fortyfayinge shall poynce to the right syde vpon Jerusalem / that he maye see men of warre / to smyte it with a greate noyse / to crie out Alarum / to set battell rammes agaynst the gates / to graue vp dyches / and to make bul-wikes.

Uncertaynes / as for the fortyfayinge / they shall holde it but for vanitie / euen as though a ush were tolde them: Yea / and they them selves remember their wickednesse / so that by right they must be take and wonne. Therefore saith the Lord God: so / so much as ye your selfes shewe your offence / and haue opened your wickednesse: / so that in all your workes men maye see your synnee: Yea / in so much / I saye / that ye your selves haue made mencion thereof / shall euen in by violence.

O Thou shameful wicked gyde of Israell whose Rape is come euen the tyme that wickednesse shall haue an ende: Thus saith the Lord God: take awaye the inyre / and put of the crone / and so is it awaye: the humble is exalted / and the proud brought lowe. Durty / punish / ye / punish them wil I / and be-siore them: and that shall not be fulfilled vnto me / and to whome the iudgement belongeth / and to whome I haue geuen it. And thou / o sonne of man / prophesy / and speake: Thus saith the Lord God to the children of Ammon / and to their blasphemers / speake thou: The swarde / the swarde is in thair fouth already / to the slaughter / and feared that it glisht / because thou hast loked the out vanities / and propheted lyre / that it maye come vpon thy necke / like as vpon the other vngodly / which be slayne: whose voye came when their wickednesse was full.

Though it were put vp agayne into the sheath / yet will I punish the / in the lande where thou wast noubered and borne / a paine my indignacion vpon the / and wil blowe vpon the in the fyre of my wrath / and deliuer the vnto cruel people / which are learned to bee firoye. Thou shalt see the fyre / and thy bloude shall be shed in the lande / that thou mayest be put out of remembraunce. Euen I the Lord haue spoken it.

The XXII. Chapter.

Wherouer / the woide of the Lord came vnto me / and saide: Thou sonne of man / wilt thou not reioyce this bloud / which is shed? Shewe them their abhominacions / and tell them: Thus saith the Lord God / O thou cite that sheddest bloude in the myddst of the fe: that thy tyme maye come also: and makest the Idole to desyle the withal. Thou hast made thy selfe gilty / in the bloud that thou hast shed: and desyled the in the ydole / which thou hast made. Thou hast caused thy dayes to drawe nye / and made the tyme of thy yeares to come.
 Therefore will I make the to be confounded as amonge the heathen / and to be despyed in all the landes / whether they be nye or farr: from thence they shal laugh to scoone / thou that hast gone / so soule a name / a are full of my schisme.
 Behold / rulers of Israell haue brought euery man his power / to shed bloude in the: In the haue they despyed father and mother: in the they ceed the wydome / and the fatherless: Thou hast despyed my Sanctuary / and vni-halowed my Sabbath: My Nurseries are there in the that shed bloude / and I care vpon the bulke / and in the they see vngodlynesse.

Ezech. xvi. c. I will scatter the amonge the heathen / and shewe the abominacion in the lides / a vnd cause thy felthynesse to castte out of thee: for I will haue the in possession in the sight of the heathen / that thou maist knowe that I am the Lorde.

¶ And the worde of the Lorde came vnto me / sayng: Thou sonne of man / the house of Israel is turned to chaffe. Al they that shoulde be chastytyned in a leade are in the fyre because of this. Therefore thus saith the Lorde God: For so much as ye all are turned into chaffe: beholde / I will bringe you together vnto Jerusalem / like as syluer / chaffe / yron / tynne / and leade are put together in the furnace / and the fyre blowen there vnder to smelt them: Euen so will I gather you / put you in together / and smelt you in my wrath and indignacion. I will bringe you together / and hinde the fyre of my cruel displeasure vnder you / ye maye be melted theren.

Like as the syluer is melted in the fyre / so shall ye also be melted therein: that ye maye knowe / howe that I the Lorde haue poured my wrath vpon you.

my lawe / and despise my Sanctuary. ¶ They put no difference betwene the holy and vnholye: neyther difference betwene the cleane and vnclane / they turne their eyes fro my tabernacles: and I am vnhalowed amonge them.

Thy rulers in the are like rauenings wolues / to shed bloude / to destroye soules for their owne covetous lucre. ¶ As for thy prophetes / they haue with outperced claye / they se vnto the / and prophettise vnto the sayng: the Lorde God sayeth so: where as the Lorde hath not spoken / the people in the lande vnto the wicked extortion and robbery. They were the poore and needy: and they oppressed the stranger againstt righte. And I sought in the lande for a man that wolde make up the hedge / and set him self in the gappe before me in the landes behalfe / that I shoulde not reuerely destroye it: but I coulde fynde none. Therefore wil I poure out my cruel displeasure vpon them / and burne them in the fyre of my wrath: they shal be as vaine vnto me. ¶ I recompencc vpon their heades / saith the Lorde God.

The XXXII. Chapter.

The worde of the Lorde came vnto me / sayng: Thou sonne of man / these were two women that had one mothe: these / whiche they were yonge / I beganne to place the barloties in Egypte. There were their habitacions build / and the pappees of their maydenhead destroyed. The eldest of the was called Oola / and her yongest sister Ooliba. These two were myne / and bare sonnes and daughters. Their names were Samaria / and that was Oola: and Jerusalem / that was Ooliba. As for Oola / she beganne to goe a whoringe / whiche I had taken her to me. ¶ She was set on fyre vnto her louers the Assyrians / which had to do with her: euen the princes and lordes / that were vnto her in costly arraye: sayng yonge men / lusty ryders of horses.

Thus was her whoredome / she steeled vnto all the yonge men of Assyria: yet / she was made vpon them / and defiled her self with all their Idols. Neyertheless she did the founeccion that she vnto with the Egyptians: for in her youth she laye with her / they builde habitacions for her maydenhead / and poured their whoredome vpon her. Wherefore / I deliuered her in to the handes of her louers / euen the Assyrians.

nyans whom she solued. These discovered her shame / soe her finnes and daughters / a streer her with the sword: An euell name gaue her of all people / and they punished her.

B Her sister Doliba sawe this / and destroyed her self with inordinate loue more then she / a created her sister in whoredome: * he loued the Assyrians ( which also laye with her ) namely / the princes and greare lordes that were clothed with all manner of gorgeous apperell / lusty boyss and sayre yonge perjones. Then I sawe that they both were despyled alike. But she increased still in whoredome: for when the sawe men paynted vpon the wall the ymagis of the Caldees set forth with fresh colours / with sayre gyddes about them / and goodly bonnets vpon they: heades / of kinge alife prince ( after the manner of the Babylonians and Caldees in their owne lande / where they be borne ) / immediatly / as soone as he sawe they be bent in loue vpon them / and sent his saungers for them into the lande of the Caldees.

Now when the Babylonians came to her / they laye with her / and despyled her with their whoredome / and so was she pointed with the. And when her lust was abated from them / she fled a her whoredome and shame was discovered / and sent: then my herte forsooke her life as my herte was gone from her sister also. I neuertheless: reioyced her whoredome euer the longer the more / and remembred the dayes of her youth / wherein she had played the harlot in the lande of Egypte: The bent in lust vpon the / whose self was like the reys of assee / and their seede lyke the seede of bolsoe. Thus thou hast renewed the synnfullnesse of thy youth / when thy louers busied thy pappe / and marred thy brest in Egypte.

C Therefore ( Doliba ) thus saith the Lord God: I will raise vp thy louers / with whom thou hast sinned thy lust / agaynst me / a gather them together rounde aboute the: Namely / the Babylonians / and all the Caldees: Decod / Sceda / and Coa / with all the Assyrians: all yonge and sayre louers / princes and lordes / knyghtes and gentlemen / which be all good boyntes: They shall come vpon the with boures / charrettes / and a greare multitude of people: which shall be harnessed aboute the on euery side / with brestplates / shylde / and helmettes: I will punish the before them / see / they them selves shall punish the / accordinge to there owne iudgement. I will put my glory vpon the / so that they shall deale cruelly with the. They shall cut of thy nose and thine eares / and the remnaunt shall fall thowre the sword. They shall carry away thy finnes and daughters / and the residue shall be bent in the fyre. They shall strippe the out of thy clothes / and carry thy costly weels away with them.

Thus will I make an ende of thy synnes: * I will make an ende of thy whoredome / which thou hast brought out of the lande of Egypte: so that thou shalt turne thine eyes no more after them / and cast thy mynde no more vpon Egypte. For thus saith the Lord God: Beholde / I will deliuer the into the handes of them / whom thou hast hated: I will euen into the handes of them / with whom thou hast fulfilled thy lust / which shall deale cruelly with the. All thy labour shall they take with the / and leave thy naked and bare / and thus the shame of thy synnes whoredome shall come to light. All these thinges shall happen vnto the / because of thy whoredome / which thou hast vsed amonge the Genetikes / with whose Idols thou hast despyled thy self. Thou hast walked in the waye of thy synner / therefore will I geue the her cuppe in thy hande.

Thus saith the Lord God: Thou shalt drinke of thy sisters cuppe / howe deepe a fare fouer it be to the bottom. Thou shalt be laughed to scorn / and had as greatly in derision as is possible. Thou shalt be full of drunkenness and foure / so: the cuppe of thy sister Sennar is a cuppe of destruction: in waye / stinge: the same shalt thou drinke / and suppe it our euen to the digges / yet thou shalt care vpon the broken peeces of it / and so care thine owne brest: For euen I haue spoken vs / saith the Lord God.

Therefore thus saith the Lord God. For so much as thou hast forgotten me / and cast me asyde / so beare now thine owne synnfullnesse and whoredome. The Lord sayde moore euen vnto me: Thou sonne of man / write thou not reproue Dola / and Doliba: * Where then their abominacions: namely / that they haue broken their webbe / a slained their bondes y us wry

with bloude: yee/auen with their Idols haue they commited aduoury / and offered them their owne children (to be deuoured) whome they had borne vnto me. Yee/a thre haue they done to me also: they haue defiled my Sanctuary in thre same days/ and haue vnhalowed my Sabbath. for when they had slayne their children for their Idols / they came the same daye into my Sanctuary to defile it. Lo/this haue they done in my house. Beside all this/ thou hast sent thy messengers so: men out of farre countries/ and wch they came/ thou hast barbed / trimmed / and set forth thy self of the best feshion / thou sattest vpon a goodly bed / and a table spiced before the: wherupon thou hast fed myne Innocent and myne orle.

 Then was there greate cheare with her/ and the men that were sent from farre countries out of the deserte: wno these they gaue bracelets vpon their handes / and set glouious crownes vpon their heades. Then thought I: no doubte / these will vse their harlottry also with ponder elde whoie. And they wente in to her / as vnto a common harlot: Euen so wente they also to Dola and Doliba/ those falsly women.

O ye of that loue vertue and righteoufnes/ I will iudge the/ punish them: I as aduourers and nurserers ought to be iudged and punished. for they are dealers of weblsefe / and bloude is in their hades. Wherfore/ thus saith the Lord God: I will bringe a greate multitude of people vpon them / and make them be feared and spoyled / these shall stone them / and gore them with their spearbes. They shall slaye their sonnes and daughters / and burne vp their houses with fyre.

Thou wilt destroy all such falsynesse out of the lande/ that all women maye learne/ nee to do after your wickednesse. And so they shall laye your falsynesse vpon youre owne selfes/ and ye shalbe punished for the synnes / that ye haue commited with youre Idols / and ye shall knowe/ that I am the Lord.

The XXXIII. Chapter.

IN the xij. yeare/ in the x. month/ the x. daye of the moneth came the word of the Lord vnto me/ saying: O thou sonne of ma / write vp the name of this Daye / yee / euen the houre of this present Daye/ when the kinge of Babylon set him selfe agaynst Jerusalem. Shew this obstinate howsholde a T parable / and speake vnto them: Thus saith the Lord God: Gethe a T pot / set it on / and poure water into it / put all the peece together in it / all the good peece the leyne and the shoulder / and fill it with the best bones. Take one of the best shepe / and an heape of bones withalls let it boyle well / and let the bones seeth well thereon.

With that / sayde the Lord God on this maner: I Doe be into the bloody cite of the Temple / wherupon the rustynesse hangeth / and is not yet scoured awaye. Take out the peece that are in it / one after another: there neede no lootes be cast thefore / for the bloude is yered in it. Vpon a playne dye stone harsh the poure it / and not vpon the grounde / that it might be covered with dust. And therfore/ thus I litten her poure / her bloude vnto a playne dye stony rocke / because it shoulde not be hid / and that I might bringe my wrathfull indignacion and vengeance vpon her.

Wherfore / thus sayeth the Lord God: O / be vnto that bloody / fleshy cite / for whome I will prepare a heape of trooble: beere thou the bones together / kindle thou the fyre / scath the flesh / let all be well foddin / that the bones maye be sucke out. Moreover / let the pot emptye vpon the coales / that it maye be warme / a the meete all hote: that the flesh and rustynesse maye be consumed. But it will not goe off / there is so much of it: the rustynesse must be burnt out. Thy falsynesse is abominable / for I haue censured the / but thou wouldest not be censured. Thou canst not be purged fro thine vnderness / till I haue poured my wrathfull indignacion vpon the. Euen thus the Lord haue so deuyced: Pectit is come therto already that I will do it. I wil not goe backe / I wil not spare / I wil not be intreated: but accordinge to thy wayes and ymaginacions / thou shalt be punished / saith the Lord God.

And the word of the Lord came vnto me / saying: Thou sonne of man / beholde / I wil take awaye the pleasure of thine eyes with a plague: yet shalt thou neither mourne nor wepe / nor water thy chekes therfore: thou maicst mourne / by thy selfe alone / but vse no deadly lamentacion. Soide on thy bones / 311 on thy face upon thy feet: neither on thy face/ nor on thy head: nor on thy head. So I spake vnto the people byennes in the morning/ and as euen my wyfe dyed: then vpon the next morning/ I did as I was commaunded. And the people sayde vnto me: wilt thou not tell vs what that signified/ which thou hast? I answered them thus: sayinge: The word of the Lorde came vnto me/ sayinge: The house of Israel thus sayeth the Lorde God: Beholde/ I will surely make my Sanctuary: euen the glory of your power/ the pleasure of your eyes/ and the thinge that ye loue: your finnes and your greues: whom ye haue left/ shall fall in your waye the swerde.

D Like as I haue done/ so shall ye do also: Ye shall not thus face your faces/ ye shall eate no mourning bread/ your Bonnettes shall ye haue vpon your heads/ and shal vpon your feet. Ye shall neither mourne nor weep: / but in your finnes ye shall be as water/ and one euen with another: Thus Ezechiel is sure shewetoken. For like as he hath done/ so when this cometh/ ye shall do also: wherby maye learne to knowe/ that I am the Lorde God. But beholde/ O thou sonne of man/ In the daye when I take from them their power/ their wysdome and honour/ the luste of their eyes/ the burden of their bodies/ namely/ their finnes and your greues. Then shall there one escape/ and come vnto the sea: to shewe the. In the daye shall thy mouth be opened to him/ which is closed/ that thou must speake/ and be named by name. Yee/ and thou shalt be their shewetoken/ that they maye knowe/ howe that I am the Lord.

The XXXV Chapter.

I He reuoider of the Lorde came vnto me/ sayinge/ Thou sonne of man/ let thy face agaynste the Ammonites/ prophete vpon the land/ and saye vnto the Ammonites/ Heare the word of the Lord God. Thus saith the Lord God: For so much as thou shalt eate out my Sanctuary/ the I reuoider ite the name suspended/ and ouer the lande of Israel/ I reuoider ite name: therefore/ yee/ and ouer the house of Iuda/ I reuoider they be not weild awaye your finnes. Beholde/ I will deliuer the to the people of the East/ that they maye haue the in possession/ the lande of their askeles/ and howe see in the. They shall eate thy fruite/ I will drinke up thy mylke. As for Kabaah/ I will make of it a stall for camels/ and of Dimon a shepesholde/ and ye shall knowe/ that I am the Lorde.

So thus sayeth the Lorde God: In so much as thou hast clapped with thine hands/ and stamped with thy feet/ yee/ reioyced in thine herte ouer the lande of Israel with despyte: beholde/ I will stretch out mine hande ouer the alds/ and deliuer the to be spoiled of the Heithen/ and rote the oute from amonge the people/ and cause the to be destroyed oute of all landes: yee/ I will make the be layed wast/ that thou mayest knowe/ that I am the Lorde.

Thus saith the Lord God: For so much as I Noab and Seir do saye: As for the house of Iuda/ it is but like as al other Gentiles be: / therefore beholde/ I will make the cines of Iuda/ as a Moab weapenlike/ and take awaye their strength: their cines and these cottes of their lande/ which are the pleasures of the countrey: As namely/ Beth Besmorah/ Baalmon/ and Cariahaum: these will I open vnto them of the East/ that they maye fall vpon the Ammonites: and wil geue the these in possession: / the Ammonites shall not weild be in renouance: among the Heithen. Euen thus wil I punish Moab also/ that they maye knowe howe that I am the Lord.

Nextouer thus sayeth the Lorde God/ Because that I Edom hath augmented and caused him selfe vpon the house of Iuda/ therefore I thus sayeth the Lorde: I will reache oute my hande vpon Edom/ and take awaye a man and beasl out of it: from Teman vnto Dedan wil I make it desolate/ they shall be layne with the swerde. Therefore my people of Israel/ will I avenge me agayn vpon Edom: they shall handle him/ according to my wrath and indignacion/ so that they shall knowe my vengeance: sayeth the Lorde God.

Thus saith the Lord God: For so much as the Philistines haue bene thine/ namely/ taken vengeance with despyte/ full of rancour: / and of an olde enel wil I set them to the destructione: therefore thus sayeth the Lorde God: Beholde/ I will stretche oute my hande bande ouer þy Philistines / a Destroye the Destroyer / a causall the remaunt of the see coast to perish. A great vengeance wil I take vpon them / and pursh them cruelly: that they maye knowe / howe that I am the Lord / which haue awenged me of them.

Eze. 33. 3. 4.
33. 4. 5.

A I have punished that in the 5. yere / the first daye of the month / the worde of Lord came onto me / saying: Thou sonne of man / Because that Tyre hath spoken vpon Jerusalem. Aba / nowe I will moue the pointe of the people Be Bofen / and they turned vnto me / for I haue Destroyed my Belly ful. Yee / therefore sayeth the Lord God. Beholde O Tyre / I wil vpon the 3. I wil bringe a great multitude of people against the / like as when the see styfeth in his waues. These shall beate the welle of Tyre / and cast downe her towres: I wil scrape the grounde from her / and make her a bare stone / yee / as the danger place / where the fishers bange vp their nettes by the see side. Euen I haue spoken it / sayeth the Lord God. The Gentiles shall spoyle her / her Doughters vpon the fildes shall perish with the swerde / that they maye knowe howe that I am the Lord.

A For thus saith the Lord God: Beholde / I wil bringe iherusalem / which is the Kinge of Babylon / a Kinge of Kinges / from the North / vpon Tyre / with houses / charrettes / horsemen / and with a greate multitude of people. Thy Doughters that are in the land / shall be slayd with the swerde. But againste the cite shall make bulwokes and graue vp dykes aboute the / a lyste vp his bulde againste the. His stinges and Bartraillrammes shall be prepare for thy walles / and with his wepades beate downe thy towres. The dust of his houses shall couer the / they shall be so many / thy walles shall shake at the noyse of the horsemen / charrettes and wbeles / when he cometh to thy pointe / as me do into an open care. With þy houses of his houses / fildes / shall be made downe all thy strettes.

He shall slay thy people with the swerde / and beate downe the pillers of thy strength. They shall waile amonge thy riches / and spoyle thy marchandise. Thy walles shall they beate downe / a Destroye thy houses of pleasure Thy stones / thy tymble and foundationes / shall they cast in the water. I haue wil I bringe the melody of thy songes / and the voice of thy minstrells / to an ende / so that they shall no more be heard. I will make a bare stone of the see / a which place for nettes / thou shalt neuer be builded againe. For euen I the Lord haue spoken it / sayeth the Lord God / thus saith the Lord God spoken concerninge Tyre. The Iles shall moue at the noyse of thy fall / and at the crye of the slayne / that shall murderd in the. All Kinges of the see shall come downe from the: seates regall: they shall laye awaye their robes / and put of their costlye clothynges: Yee / with trenblinge shall they be clothed: they shall lye vpon the grounde they shall be afrayed at thy suddaine fall / and be abashed at the.

They shall mourne for the / and saye vnto the: Thou noble citty / hast bene so greatly occupied of folde / thou that hast bene the strongest vs / I see thy ruine in habitaours / of whom all men shode in feare: Howe art thou now so utterly Destroyed: Now at the nme of thy fall the inhabitaours of the Iles / yee / and the Iles them selves shall stande in feare at thine ende. For thus saith the Lord God: when I will make þy a desolate cite / as other cittyes be / that no man welletch in / a wbe I bringe the see vpon the / that great waters maye couer the: Then will I calle the downe vnto them / that yefed in the pyre: vnto a people that hath bene longe dead / and set the in a lande / as Benceth / like the olde wilderness / with them which go downe to their graues / so that nom shall dwell more in the. And I will make the to be no more in honoure / in the lande of the livinge. I will make an ende of the / and thou shalt be gone. Though thou be founde for yet / shall thou not be founde for euermore / sayeth the Lord God.

Ch. XXVII. Chapter.

A The worde of the Lord came onto me / saying: O thou sonne of man / make a lamentable complainte vpon Tyre / and saye vnto Tyre / which is a pointe of the see / that occupieth with muche people and many Iles: thus speaketh the Lord God: O Tyre / thou hast said: I am a noble citty. Prophecie againt him a gainst the whole lande of Egypte: Speake/and tell him / thus saith the Lorde God: Beholde / o Pharaos thou King of Egypte: I wil upon the / thou great waters / that liest in thy waters: Thou that saith the water is myne: I haue made it my selfe: I wil put an hole in thy chaues / a hainge all the fish in thy waters upon thy scales: after that I wil drawe the out of thy waters / yee: and all the fish of thy waters that hainge upon thy scales.

I wil cast the out upon thy lande with the fish of thy waters / so that thou shalt lye upon the selde. Thou shalt not be gathered ne: taken vp: but shalt be meate for the beastes of the selde: and for the fowles of the ayre: all they which dwell in Egypte: maie knowe that I am the Lorde: because thou haste sent a flax of redde to the house of Israel.

When they toke hold of the with their hand / thou shalt and piercest the on euery side: and if they leaned upon the: thou shalt / and

burdest the raynes of their backs. Therefore / thus saith the Lorde God: Beholde / I will bringe a sword vpon the / and rote out of the word man and beast. Yee: the lande of Egypte shall be desolate and wast: and they shall knowe / that I am the Lorde: because he seid: my water is myne: I my selfe haue made it. Beholde therefore: I wil upon the / and vpon thy waters: I wil make the lande of Egypte waste and desolate / from the tower of Syene vnto the border of the Moaues lande: so that in xl. yeares there shall no fore of man walke there / neither fore of cattell go there: neither shall it be inhabited. I wil make the lande of Egypte to be desolate amonge other wast countrees: a her cities to lye void 40. yeares / amonge other void cities: And I wil scare the Egyptians amonge the heathen and nations.

Againe / thus saith the Lorde God: When the xl. yeares are expired / I will gather the Egyptians together againe out of the nations / amonge whom they were scatered: and wil bringe the prisoners of Egypte againe into the lande of Darbures their own native countree: that they maie be there a lowly final Kingdome: yee: they shall be the finallest

They shall nomore be an hope vnto the house of Israel: neither pouseth them any more to wickednesse / to cause them turne backe / and to folowe them: and they shall knowe: that I am the Lorde God.

In the xxx. yeare / the first daye of the first month: came the worde of the Lorde vnto me / sayinge: Thou sonne of man / Nabuchodonosor the Kinge of Babilon hath made his hooste / with greate traualle and labour to come before Tyre: that euery habite maie be halde: and euery shoulde bare. Yee: hath Tyre gotten neither him ne: his hoost any reward: for the great traualle that he hath taken there. Therefore thus saith the Lorde God: Beholde / I will geue the lande of Egypte vnto Nabuchodonosor the Kinge of Babilon: that he maie take awaie all her substance: / robbe her robbetries: and spoyle her spoiles: to paye his hooste their wages: which all. I will geue him the lande of Egypte for his labour: that he take for me before Tyre. At the same tyme will I cause the hoime of the house of Israel to growe fowle: and open they mouth agayne amonge them: that they maie knowe / howe that I am the Lorde.

The XXX. Chapter.

Whenouer the worde of the Lorde came vnto me / sayinge: Thou sonne of man / prophete and speake / thus saith the Lorde God: Mourne / wo weep this daye / so: the daye to bere the bare of the Lorde is come: the bare daye of the heathen: the hoime is at hande: the sword cometh vpon Egypte. When the wounded men shall lye vpon Egypte / when her people are taken awaye: and when her foundations are destroyed: the Moaues lande shall be asayed: yee: the Moaues lande / Lybia and Lybia: all their comon people / and Eub / and all that be consecrate vnto them: shall fall with them: spoyle the sword.

Thus saith the Lorde: The main tyners of the lande of Egypte shall fall / the pyde of her power shall come vnto: euen vnto the tower of Syene: that they be slayn vnto the sword: saith the Lorde God: amonge other other desolate countries they shall make desolate / and amonge other waste cities they shall be wasted. And they shall knowe that I am the Lord / when I kindle a fire in Egypt / and when all her helpes are destroyed.

At that time shall messengers go forth from me in ships / to make the eaddest Nations afrayd: and sojournes shall come upon the in the Bay of Egypt / for doubtles it shall come. Thus sayeth the Lord God: I will make an ende of the people of Egypt / whose the bande of Abubodonos / for synge of Babilis. He and his people with him / see / and the cruel tyrannice of the Heathen shall be brought to destroye the lande. They shall bringe oure their swerdes upon Egypt / and fill the lande full of slaynemen. I will drye vp their founteynes of water / and fill the lande into the bancke of refted people. The lande and all that is therein / will I destroye / as to the enemies. Euen I the Lord haue saide it.

¶ And thus saith the Lord God: I will destroye the Idols / and bringe the ymages of Noph to an ende. There shall nomore be a prince of Egypt / and a fearefulnesse will I sende into the Egyptians lande. As for Daithures / I will make it desolate / and fynde a syn in Swan Alexandria / will I punish / and pour my wrathfull indignacion upon Sin / which is the strenght of Egypte. All the substaunce of Alexandria will I destroye / a fyre in Egypte.

Sin shall be in greate heauynesse / Alexandria shall rotte out / and Noph shall haue payne for euer. The best men of Sciopolis / a Dubaffo shall slayne with the swerde / and caried away captiue. At Tophis the Paye shall be take / when I brake there the capter of the lande of Egypte / and when the pompe of her power shall haue an ende. A cloude shall cover her / and her daughters shall be dede as waye into the captiuitie. Thus will I punish Egypte / that they maye knowe / howe that I am the Lord.

¶ It happened in xi. yeare / upon the fourth daye of the first moneth / that the Lordes woide came vnto me / sayinge thus. Behold / thou sonne of man / I will breake the arme of Pharao King of Egypte: and lo / it shall not be bounde vp to the bridle / neither shall any pleasure be layed vpon it / for to ease it / or to make it so stronge / as to holde a swerde. Therefore thus sayeth the Lord God: Behold / I will vpon Pharao the King of Egypte / I will breake his stronge arme / yet is it but a broken one: I will smyre the swerde out of his hande.

As for the Egyptians / I will feare them amonge the Heathen / a flowe them in the landes about. Againe I will strenght my arme of the King of Babilis / a geue him my swerde in his hande: but I will breake Pharaoes arme / so that he shall holde it before him pitoulsly / like a wounded man.

¶ Yet I will stablish the Kinge of Babilons arme / the arme of Pharao shall fall downe that it maye be knowen / that I am the Lord / which geue the Kinge of Babilon my swerde in his hande / that he maye breake it out vpon the lande of Egypte: that when I feare the Egyptians amonge the Heathen / and strewe them in the landes about / that they maye knowe that I am the Lord.

The XXXI. Chapter.

¶ Moreover it happened in the xi. yeare the first daye of the third moneth / that the woide of the Lord came vnto me / sayinge: Thou sonne of man / speake vnto Pharao the Kinge of Egypte / as to all his people: Whome art thou lyke in thy greatnesse? Behold / Asfur was lyke a Cedre tree vpon the mounte of Libanus / with saye braunches / so thicke that he gaue shadowes / and stood out very hye. His topp reached vnto the cloudes. The waters made him greater / and the depe sit hym vp an hye. Rounde aboute the rootes of him ranne there founteynes of water / he sente out his lile riuers vnto all the trees of the silde. Therefore was he hyer then all the trees of the silde / and whose the multitude of waters that he sente from him / be cprayed many and longe braunches. All folkes of the arte made their nestes in his braunches / vnder his shadowes / and all the bestes of the silde / a vnder his shadowe dwelle all people. Saye and beynfull was he in his greatnesse / and in the lengthe of his braunches / for his roote stode Besyde greate waters: no Cedre tree mighte be by him. In the pleasaunt garden of God / there was no fyre tree like his braunches / the plaine trees were not lyke the braunches of him: All the trees in the garden of God mighte not be compared vnto him in his beauty: for he and goodly had I made hym with the multitude of his braunches: In so much that all the trees in the pleasaunte garden of God had enuie at him. Therefore thus saith the Lorde God: For so much as he hath left vpon him selfe his stretched his toppes into the cloudes / a strange his bett is proude in his highnesse: I will vliuer him into the haunches of the mightest amonge the Heathen / which shall rote him oute. Accordinge to his wickednesse wil I cast him away / the enemies shall destroye him / at the mighty men of the Heathen shall seare him: that his braunches shall lye vpon all mountaines a in all valleys: his bowes shall be broken downe to the ground throuout the lande. Then all the people of the lande shall goe from his shadowe / and forsake him: When he is fallen / all the foles of y<sup>e</sup> ayre shall set vpon him / and all wilde bestes of the felde shall goe aboute amonge his braunches: so that from henceforth / no tree in the water shall atayne to his byghnesse / no: reache his toppes vnto the cloudes / neither shall any tree of the water stande so hie as he hath done. For vnto earth shall they all be deliuered vnder the earth / and goe vnto the graue lyke other men.

B When thou art put oute / I will cover the heauen / a make his starres spynne. I will sprede a cloude ouer the Sonne / and y<sup>e</sup> Moone shall not greeue his light. All the lightes of heauen wil I put oute ouer the / and bringe darkness vpon thy lande: saith the Lord God. I wil trouble the herites of many people: I bringe thy destruction amonge the Heathen / and certenes / whome thou knowest not: For I will make many peop<sup>l</sup>: with thy finges so asrayed thowost / that their heres shall linge vpon / when I shall my sweerde at their sacred. Godlyly that they be asnyed / eury man in him selfe / at the vice of the fall.

C Moreover / thus saith the Lorde God: In the daye when he goeth downe to the graue / I will cause lamentation to be made. I will cover the heape vpon him / I will stanch his floudes / and the great waters shall be restrained. I shall cause Libanus to be sorrowfull for his sake / and all the trees of the felde shall be fynyng. I wil make the Heathen shake at the founde of his fall / when I caste him downe to the hell / with them that descende into the pyne. All the trees of Eden / with all the chosen and best trees of Libanus / yee / and all they that are planted vpon the waters / shall mourne with him also in the lower habitacions: for they shall goe downe to hel with him / vnto them that be slaine with the sweerde / as they also vnder the shadowe of his arme amonge the Heathen. To whome shalte thou be lykened / that art so glorious and greace amonge the trees of Eden: For art thou caste downe vnder the earth / amonge the trees of Eden / where thou must lye amonge the vncircumcised / with them that be slaine with the sweerde. Then thus is it with Pharaos all his people / saith the Lorde God.

The XXXII Chapter.

A In the 25. years / the first vice of the 28. Moneth / the vice of the Lorde came vnto me / sayinge: Thou saime of man / take vp a lamentation vpon Pharaos the kinge of Egypte / and saye vnto him: Thou art reputed as a Lyon of the Heathen / and as a walfish in the see. Then castest thy waters aboute the / thou troublest the waters with thy feet / and stampst in their floudes. Thus saith the Lorde God: I wil speide my net ouer the / namely / a greacie multitude of people: thes shall come the into my yarne / for I wil cast the vpon the lande / and let the lye vpon the felde: that all the foles of the ayre maye sit vpon the: I wil geue all the bestes of the felde yongth of off: Thy flesh wil I cast vpo the hilles / and sell the valleys with thy highnesse. I wil water the lande with the aboundance of thy bloude / euen to the mountaynes / and the valleys shall be full of the.

B When thou art put oute / I will cover the heauen / a make his starres spynne. I will sprede a cloude ouer the Sonne / and y<sup>e</sup> Moone shall not greeue his light. All the lightes of heauen wil I put oute ouer the / and bringe darkness vpon thy lande: saith the Lord God. I wil trouble the herites of many people: I bringe thy destruction amonge the Heathen / and certenes / whome thou knowest not: For I will make many peop<sup>l</sup>: with thy finges so asrayed thowost / that their heres shall linge vpon / when I shall my sweerde at their sacred. Godlyly that they be asnyed / eury man in him selfe / at the vice of the fall.

For thus saith the Lorde God: the finge of Libanus sweerde shall come vpon the / vnto the sweerde of the worthies / wil I synge downe the people. All they that be mightye amonge the Gentiles / shall waste the poude pompe of Egypte / and bynging downe all her people: All the cattell also of Egypte wil I destroye / that they shall come no more vpon the waters: so that neither mans foot / nor bestes clawe shall steepe the any more. The wil I make their waters cleare / because their floudes to runne like oyle / ſaith the Lord God : whē I make the lande of Egypte deſolate / and when the counter with all that is therein / with ſweard / in that they may knowe / that I am the Lord. This is the mourning / that the daughters of the Genten ſhall make. For a ſorrowe and lamentation ſhall they take vpon Egypte and all her people / ſaith the Lord God.

In the xij. yeare / the xx. daie of the moneth came the worde of the Lord vnto me ſaying. Thou ſonne of man. Take vp a lamentacion vpon the people of Egypte / and caſte them downe / ſee / and the mighty people of the Genten alſo / euen with them that dwell in the city. And with them that go downe into the graue. Downe / how ſaie ſouere thou be / and lepe the with the vn circumciſed. Amonge theſe that be ſlayne with the ſwearde / ſhall they lye. The ſwearde is geuen already / he mighty warriors and his helpers / that be gone downe and lye with the vn circumciſed / and with them that be ſlain with the ſweard ſhall ſpeake to him out of the hell.

Aſſur is there alſo with his company / and their graues rounde about / which were ſlain and ſet al the ſwearde / whoſe graues lye ſide by ſide in the lower pyrie. His commons are buried rounde about his graue : alſo the wounded and ſlaine with the ſwearde / which men aſore mine broughte feare into the lande of the lyinge.

Iere. xlix. f.
Dan. viij. a

There is I Elam alſo with all his people / and their graues rounde about : which all deynged wounded and ſlain with the ſwearde / are gone downe vn circumciſed vnder the earth / which neuertheles ſomtime broughte feare in to the lande of the lyinge : for the which cauſe they beare their ſhame / with the other that be gone downe to the graue.

Their burfall is geuen them and all they people / amonge them that be ſlaine. Theſe graues are rounde about all them / which be vn circumciſed / and with them that be ſlaine euen with the ſwearde : for ſeyng that in times paſt they made the land of the lyinge aſtraied / they muſt now beare their owne ſhame / with them that go downe into the pyrie / and lye amonge them that be ſlaine.

There is Meſech alſo / and Tubal / a their people / and their graues rounde about. Theſe all are amonge the vn circumciſed / and them that be ſlaine with the ſwearde / becauſe aſore time they made the lande of the lyinge aſtraied.

Shoulde not they then lye alſo amonge the warriors / and vn circumciſed / which with their weapons are gone downe to hell : whoſe ſweards are laied vnder their heades / whoſe wickedneſſe is vpon their bones / becauſe that as warriors / they haue broughte feare into the lande of the lyinge. For amonge the vn circumciſed ſhalbe thou be deſtroyed / a ſlepe with them that perished thowme the ſwearde.

There is the lande of Edom with her kinges and princes alſo / which with her ſinners are layed by them that were ſlaine with the ſwearde / ſee / amonge the vn circumciſed / ſee and the which are gone downe into the pit.
Moreover / there be all the princes of the North with all the Sidonians / which are gone downe to the ſlaine.

With their feare and ſtrength they are come to confuſion / and lye there vn circumciſed / amonge theſe that be ſlaine with the ſwearde / and beare their owne ſhame / with them that be gone downe to the pyrie. Now when Dha-rao ſeyth this / he ſhalbe confounded euer al his people that is ſlaine with the ſwearde. Both Dharao and al his hoſte / ſaith the Lord God. For I haue geuen my ſwre in the lide of the lyinge. But Dharao and all his people ſhall lye amonge the vn circumciſed / and amonge them that be ſlaine with the ſwearde / ſaith the Lord God.

The XXXIIII. Chapter.

Gainc / the worde of the Lord came vnto me ſaying. Thou ſonne of man / ſpeake to the children of thy people / and tell them : When I ſende a ſwearde vpon a lande / if the people of the lande take a man of their coun-tre / and ſet him to be their watchman : ſee ſame man / when he ſeyth the ſwearde come vpon the lande / ſhal blowe the trumpet / and warne the people.

If a man now beare the noiſe of the trumpet and wil not be warneth / and the ſwearde come and

and take him away: his bloude shall be upon his owne head: for he heere the sounde of the trompe: and wolde not take heed: therefore his bloude be upon him. But if he will receaue warninge: he shall saue his life. Agayne: if the watchman se the sword come: and shew it not with the trompe: so that the people is not warned: if the sword come then: a take any man from amonge the: the same shall be taken away in his owne synne: but his bloude will I require of the watchmans hande.

B And now: O thou sonne of man: I haue made thee a watchman vnto the house of Israel: that where as thou hearest any thinge out of my mouth: thou mayest warne them on my behalfe. If I saye vnto the wicked: thou wicked: thou shalt surely dye: and thou giuest him not warninge: that he maye beware of his vngodly wayes: when shall the wicked dye in his owne synne: but his bloude wil I require of thy hande. Nevertheless: if thou warne the wicked of his waye: to turne from it: where as he yet wil not be turned from it: then shall he dye because of his synne: but thou shalt be iudged by soule.

Therefore: O thou sonne of man: speake vnto the house of Israel: I saye thus: Ouer offences and synnes: hee upon vs / and we be corrupte: in them: how shoulde we then be rescued vnto life? Well then: I As truly as I liue: saith the Lord God: I haue no pleasure in the death of the wicked: but rather that the wicked turne from his waye and liue. Turne you / turne you fro your vngodly wayes: so ye of the house of Israel. Oh / wherefore will ye dye?

Thou sonne of man: tell the children of thy people: The righteousnesse of the righteous shall not saue him / when soeuer he turneth awaye vnfaithfully: I gaue the wickednesse of the wicked: shall not hurt him / when soeuer he conuerteth from his vngodlynesse.

And the righteousnesse of righteous shall not saue his life: when soeuer he sinneth. If I saye vnto the righteous / that he shall surely liue: also / he trust to his owne righteousnesse: and do synne: then shall his righteousnesse be nomie thought vpon: but in the wickednesse that he hath done: he shall dye.

Agayne: if I saye to the wicked: thou shalt surely dye: and so he turne from his synnes: a so the thinge that is lawfull and right: Is so much that the same wicked man geure the pledge agayne: restorerh that he hath taken awaye by robbery / walke in the common demerits of life: and doeth no wronge.

Then shall he surely liue: and not dye. Yet: the synnes that he had done / shall neuer be thought vpon: for in so much as he doeth now the thinge that is lawfull and right: he shall liue. And yet the children of thy people saye: Cursed is the waye of the Lord: is not right: where as their owne waye is rather vnright.

When the righteous turneth fro his righteousness: and doeth the thinge that is wicked: he shall dye therfore. But if the wicked turne from his wickednesse: doinge the thinge that is lawfull and right: he shall liue therfore. I saye: I the waye of the Lord: is not equal. O ye house of Israel: I will iudge euery one of you after his wayes.

In the y<sup>r</sup> year: the v<sup>o</sup> daye of the 7<sup>o</sup> month: of our captiuitie: it happened: that one which was fled out of Ierusalem: came vnto me: / a sayde: the ciue is destroyed. Now the hande of the Lord had bene vpon me / the eueninge afore this man: which was scaped: came vnto me / and had opened my mouth vntill the morninge: that he came to me: Yet / he opened my mouth: so that I was nomie domme. Then came the worde of the Lord vnto me: and sayde: Thou sonne of man: shew that deed in the wasted lande of Israel: saye: Abraham was burie man: and he had the lde in possession: now are we many: and the lande is geuen vs to possesse also. And therfore: tell them: Thus saith the Lord: I In the eueninge I peceate / your eyes haue ye lift vp to Idols: and I haue shed bloude: shall ye then haue the lande in possession?

Ye lean vpon youre swordes: ye make abominacions: euery one desyleth his neyghboure: with and shall ye then possesse the lande? Saye thou these wordes vnto them: Thus saith the Lord God: As truly as I liue: all ye that dwell in this wasted lande: shall be slayne with the sword: what is vs vpon the side: will I geue vnto besties to be deuoured: those that be in stronge holdes: and beneas: shall dye of the pestilence. For I will make

Moreover / I will make a cōuenant of peace with them / and drive all euell bestes out of the land: so that they may dwell safely in the wilderness / and shepe in the woodes / Wood foure and prosperitie wil I geue them / a vnto all that be round about my hill. I will prosper vnto you a rayne wil I send them in due season / that the tree in the wood may bring forth their fruites / a the grounde her increase. They shall be safe in their lades / and shall knowe that I am the Lord / which haue broke their yoke / and deliuered them out of the handes of those that helde them in subiection.

They shall nomore be spoiled of the heathen / nor denouered with bestes of the lide: but safely shall they dwell / and no man shall fraye them / I will set vp an excellent plant for them / so that they shall suffre nomore hunger in the lande / neither beare the reprove of the heathen any more. Thus shall they vnderstande / that I the Lord / their God am with them / and that they / euen the house of Israel / are my people / saith the Lord God. Ye men are my shepe / I will be the shepe of my pasture: and I am your God / saith the Lord God.

The XXXV. Chapter.

Therefore the word of the Lord came vnto me / sayinge: Thou sonne of man / turne thy face toward the mount / Ser / prophete vpon it / a face vnto it: Thus saith the Lord God: Beholde / C o thou mount Ser / I will vpon the / I will reach out myne hande ouer thee / yee / wast and desolate wil I make the. Thy cities wil I breake downe / and thou shalt lie voyde: that thou mayest knowe / how that I am the Lord. * for so much as thou bearest an olde enemye against the children of Israel / and with a cruel hande hast made them strayed / what tyme as they were troubled and punished for their synne: Therefore / as truly as I lye / saith the Lord God / I will prepare the vnto bloude / yee / bloude shall folowe vpon thee: I semg thou shalt wast for bloude / therefore shall bloude persecute the. Thus wil I make the mount Ser desolate and wast / and bringe to passe that there shall no man go thither / nor come from thence. His mountaines wil I fill with his slayne men: by hilles / dales / and valleys shall lye full of them that are slayne with the swerde. I will make the a perpetual wilderness / so that no man shall dwell in thy cities: yee maye knowe / how that I am the Lord.

And because thou hast sayd: I will be as the Lord: therefore / both these nations and both these landes wil be myne / and I will haue them in possession / I where as the Lord was there. Therefore / thus saith the Lord God: As truly as I lye / I will hāde the accordinge to thy wrath / a gelous / yee: as thou hast dealt cruelly with them: that I maye be knowne amonge them / how I haue punished the. Yee / and that thou also mayest be sure / that I the Lord haue heard all thy despayre / full wordes / which thou hast spoken against the mountaines of Israel / sayinge: Lo / they are made wast / and geuen vnto deuour.

Thus with your mouthes ye haue made your boast against me / yee / and multiplied your proude wordes against me / which I haue heard also: together. Whereunto / thus saith the Lord God: when the whole world is in wrath / the wil I make the wast. I And like as thou comest vnto Ser / I will glāde be cause the heritage of the house of Israel was destroyed: euen so wil I do vnto the also / that thou and whole Edom shall be destroyed / and knowe that I am the Lord.

The XXXVI. Chapter.

Therefore the word of the Lord came vnto me / sayinge: Thou sonne of man / prophete vpon the mountaines of Israel / a speake / I heard the word of the Lord / a ye mountaines of Israel: Thus saith the Lord God: Because your enemy hath sayde vnto you: That the heathen shall be places are now become ours: prophete therefore / a speake / thus saith

And so ye shall dwell in the lande that I giue to your fathers / as ye shall be my people / and I will be your God. / I will helpe you out of all your wickednesse / I will call for the eune / and will increase it / and will let you haue no hunger. / I will multiplie the fruite of the trees / and the increase of the selde for you / so that ye shall haue no more repose of hunger amonge the heathen. Then shall ye remember your owne wicked wayes / and your ymaginations / which were not good: so that ye shall take displeasure at your owne selves / by reason of your synnes and abominations.

f But I will not do this for your sake / sayeth the Lorde God: he is sure of it. Therefore the house of Israel is ashamed of your synnes. Moreover thus saith the Lorde God: what tyme as I shall cleanse you from all your offences / then will I make the eunes to be occupied againe / and will repaie the places that be decayed. The desolate lande shall be buylded againe / where afore tyme laye wayll / in the sight of all them that wente by. Then shall it be sayde: This wayll lande is become like a garden of pleasure / and the voyde / desolate / and broken downe cities / are now stronge and fenced agayne. The residue of the heathen that lyce rounde aboute you / shall knowe that I am the Lorde / which repaie that was broken downe / and plante agayne that was made wayll. When I the Lorde haue spokt it / and will do it in dede.

Thus saith the Lorde God: I will yet once be founde agayne of the house of Israel / and do this for the: I shall increase them as a flocke of rinc. Like as the holy flocke / and the flocke of Ierusalem are in the bigg fleshyne scatters: so shall also the wilde wasted eunes be filled with flockes of rinc: and they shall knowe that I am the Lorde.

2 The hande of the Lorde came vpon me / and caried me out in the spere of the Lorde / and let me downe in a playne felde that was full of bones / a he led me rounde aboute by them: and beholde / the bones that laye vpon the selde / were very many / and many laye bye also. Then sayde he vnto me: Thou soune of man: thinkest thou these bones maye liue agayne? I answered: O Lorde God /

thou knowest. And he sayde vnto me: Doubte thou vpon these bones / and speake vnto them. Ye dye bones / heare the voyde of the Lorde. Thus saith the Lorde God vnto these bones: Beholde / I will put breath into you / that ye maye liue: I will giue you synowes / and make flesh grow vpon you / and couer you ouer with synne: and so giue you I breath that ye maye liue / and knowe that I am the Lorde.

So I prophesied / as he had commaunded me: I And as I was prophesyinge / there came a voyce / and a great motion / so that the bones ranne euery one to another. Now when I had soked / beholde / they had synowes / and flesh grew vpon them: and aboute they were couered with synne / but there was no breath in them. Then sayde he vnto me: Thou soune of man / prophesie thou towarde the wyndeth prophesie / and speake to the wynde: Thus saye with the Lorde God: Come (so thou art) from the four winds / and blowe vpon these flaines / that they maye be restored to life. So I prophesied / as he had commaunded me: Then came the breath vnto them / and they reccaued life / and stood vp vpon their feet / a marayous lous great foie.

Moreover he sayde vnto me: Thou soune of man / these bones are the whole house of Israel. Beholde / they saye: our bones are dryed vp / our hope is gone / we are cleane curd: Therefore prophesie thou / and speake vnto the. Thus saith the Lorde God: Beholde / I will open your graues / & my people / and take you out of your sepulchres / and bringe you into the lande of Israel agayne. So shall ye knowe that I am the Lorde: when I open your graues / & bringe you out of them. My spere also will I put in you / and ye shall liue: I will let you agayne in your owne lande / as ye shall knowe that I am the Lorde / which haue sayde it / and will fill it in dede.

The voyde of the Lorde came vnto me / sayinge: Thou soune of man / take a stick / and write vpon it: vnto Iuda and to the children of Israel his companyons. Then take another stick / and write vpon it: vnto Joseph the flocke of Ephraim / and to all the householde of Israel bys companyons. And than take both these together in thine hande / so shall there be one ſteepe thereof. Now if the chyldren of thy people ſaye vnto thee: wilt thou not ſhewe vs what thou meaneſt by theſe? Then geue them this aunſwere: Thus ſaith the Lorde God: Beholde! I will take the ſteepe of Joſeph/ which is in the bande of Ephraim/ and of the trybe of Iſrad by ſollowes/ and will put theſe in the ſteepe of Iuda/ and make the one ſteepe/ and they ſhalbe one in my bande. And the two ſteeres whereupon thou weyreſt/ ſhalt thou haue in thine bande that they maye ſe/ and thou ſhalt ſaie vnto them:

Thus ſaith the Lorde God: beholde/ I will take awaye the chyldren of Iſrad from amonge þe Hethenes/ vnto whom they be gone/ and will gather them together on eury ſyde/ and brynge them agayne into their owne lãde: yee/ I will make one people of the in the lãde/ vpon the mountaynes of Iſrael/ and they all ſhall haue but one kinge. They ſhall no more be two peoples from henceforth/ neyther be deuyded into two kyngdomes: they ſhall alſo be like the ſilke no more with their abominacions/ Idoles and all their wicked doynges. I will helpe the out of all their dreddinge places/ wherein they haue ſynned: and will ſo cleaſe them/ that they ſhalbe my people/ and I their God.

Send my ſeruaunts/ ſhalbe their kinge/ and they all ſhall haue one ſhepheard only. They ſhall walke in my lawes/ as a mynãment to thoſe that theye doth ſeepe fulfill. They ſhal dwell in the lande/ that I gaue vnto Jacob my ſeruaunt/ where as your fathers alſo haue dwelt. I ſeruaunt in the ſame lande ſhal they/ their chyldren/ & their chyldrens chyldren dwell for euermore: and my ſeruaunt Dauid ſhal be their euerlaſtinge prince. Moreover/ I will make a bande of peace with them/ which ſhalbe vnto them an euerlaſtinge conuenaunt. I wil ſaue the alſo/ and multiplye them/ my ſeruaunt I ſer amonge the for euermore.

¶ Theye dwelllinge ſhalbe with the yee/ I will be their God/ & they ſhalbe my people. Thus ſaith the Lorde alſo ſhal knowe/ that I the Lorde am þy maker of Iſrad/ whẽ my ſeruaunt ſhalbe amonge the for euermore.

The XXXVIII. Chapter.

¶ When the worde of the Lorde came vnto me/ ſayinge: Thou ſonne of man/ turne thy face towardes Gog in the lande of Mesog/ which is the cheefe prince at Meſch and Tubal: prophete agaynſt hym/ and ſaye: Thus ſaith the Lorde God: ¶ O Gog/ thou cheefe prince of Meſch and Tubal: beholde/ I will vpon thee/ and wil turne the aboute/ and put a bye in thy charco: I will brynge the forth and all thine hoſtes/ both horſe and horſemen/ which be all weapend of the beſte faſhion/ a greate people that hadde altogether ſpares/ ſhylden and ſwearde: the Perſon/ Moians and with them the Eþhians which all beare ſhylden and helmetes: Gomer/ and all his hoſtes: the houſe of Togoma out of þe North quarter/ and all his hoſtes/ &c/ and much people with the.

¶ Therefore prepare the/ ſet thy ſelf in araye/ as all thy people/ that are come vnto the by harte/ as a be thou their deſence. After many dayes thou ſhalt be viſited/ and in the latter ſceas thou ſhalt come into the lande/ that hath bene deſtroyed with the ſwearde/ & now is repleniſhed agayne with diuerſe people vpon the mountaynes of Iſrael/ which haue loſt the wayſ. Yee/ theye be brought out of the naacoms/ and theye all ſaie. Thou ſhalt come vp like a ſtoimy wyther to couer the lande/ & as a ſtoure a ſtorme cloude/ thou with all thine hoſtes/ & a greate multitude of people with the.

¶ Moreover thou ſerſt the Lorde God: ¶ At the ſame tyme ſhall many thynges come in to thy mynde/ ſo that thou ſhalt ſmagn thy ſelf/ and ſaye: I will vp too yonder playne lande/ ſeyng theye ſit at eaſe/ and theye lo ſaſely/ for theye dwell all waboute any walles/ they haue neyther barres nor doores/ to ſpore the/ to robbe them/ to laye hande vpon them/ ſo wil I gathered together from amonge the Hethenes/ which haue gotten cattell a good/ and dwell in the myddell of the lande. Then ſhall Gaba/ & Medan and the marchanttes of Tharſis with all their wares/ ſay vnto the: Art thou come to robbe? ¶ Yee/ thou gathereth thy people together/ becauſe thou wilt ſpore to take ſiluer and golder to carry awaye camel and good: and to haue a greate praye.

¶ Therefore/ o thou ſonne of man/ thou ſhalt prophete/ and ſaye vnto Gog: Thus ſaith the Lorde God: In that daye thou ſhalt knowe that my people of Israel dwellers safe: a shall come from thy place / out of the North partes: thou art much people with the / which ryde vpon hoises / wherof there is a greare multitude and innumerable foire. Yet / thou shalt come vpon my people of Israel / as a cloude to couer the lande. Thus shall come to passe in the latter dayes: I will bunge the vp into my lande / that the Hevren maye knowe me / when I get me honoure vpon the (o Gog) before their eyes.

Thus saeth the Lord God: Thou art he / of whom I haue spoken afore tyme / by my seruantes the prophets of Israel / which prophesied in those dayes and yeares / that I should bunge the vpon them. At the same tyme / when Gog cometh vp into the lande of Israel (saeth the Lord God) / shall my indignation go forth in my wrath. For in my gelusy and hote displeasure / I haue drusyed that there shalbe a greare trouble in the lade of Israel at that tyme. The very bestes in the see / the sooles of the ayre / the bestes of the feldes / and all the men that are vpon the earth / shall tremble for feare of me.

The hilles also shalbe turned vsidedaune / the steyers of stone shall fall / and all reelles shall syncke to the grounde. I will call for a sweade vpon them in all my mountaynes / saeth the Lord God: so that every mans sweade shalbe vpon another. With patiente and bloude will I punysh him: so my rayne and balefones / hie and bysmilone will I cause to raine vpon him and all his heape / yett / and vps all that greare people that is with him. Thus wil I be magnified / honoured / a knowen among the Hevren: that they maye be sure howe that I am: the Lord God.

The. XXXIX. Chapter.

Therefore thou sonne of man / propheticke against Gog / and speake: Thus saeth the Lord God: I shalbe / o Gog: thou doste pynce at Mesech and Tubal / I will vpon the / and turne the aboute / and erie the south / and be the from the North partes / and bunge the vp to the mountaynes of Israel. As for thy downe / I will fynyte it oute of thy left hande / and call thine arrowes oute of thy right hande. Thou wilt all thine heape / and all the people that is with the / muste fall vpon the mountaynes of Israel. Then will I geue the vnto the sooles and wilde bestes of the feldes / to be deuoured: there muste thou lye vpon the felds: for thou / the Lord God haue spoken it / saeth the Lord God.

Into Magog / and amonge those that sitte so carelesse in the See: will I sende a fye / and they shall knowe that I am the Lord God. I will make also the name of my holynesse / to be knowne amonge my people of Israel: and I will not let my holy name be euill spoken of any more: but the very Hevren also shall knowe / that I am the Lord God: the holy one of Israel. Beholde / it cometh / and shalbe fulfilled in Bede: saeth the Lord God. This is the daye wherof I haue spoken: They that dwell in the ciues of Israel / shall go forth and set fyre vpon the weapens / and burne them: theyles and speares / bowes and arrowes / bylles and clouddes: seuen yeares shall they be burnunge therof / so that they shall els bunge no shetes fro the feldes / neyther haue nede to hew doune any oute of the wood: for they shall haue weapens ynough to burne. They shall robbe those that robbed them / and spoyle those that spoyled them: saeth the Lord God.

At the same tyme wil I geue vnto Gog a place to be buried in / in Israel: eue the valley / where thou wilt me go from the Easte to the see wards. Those that trauaile thereby / shall abhorre it. There shall Gog and all his people be buried: and it shalbe called the valley of the people of Gog. Seuen monethes longe shall the house of Israel be burunge of them: that they maye cleue the lande. Yett all the people of the lande shall burye them. Wit shalbe a glorious daye / when I get me that honoure / saeth the Lord God. They shal vdayne men / so to be deadburiers / euer goyng: thow the lande / and appoynte them certayne places to bury those in / which remayne vpon the felds: / that the lande maye be cleued. From ende to ende shall they lye / and that vnto monethes longe. Now those that go thowre the lande / where they see a mans bone / they shall set vpa a token by it / nill the deadburiers haue buried it also in the valley of the people of Gog. And the name of the crite shalbe called Samona: Thus shall they make the lande cleane.

2po. fig. d Lord God: Speake vnto all the focke and every byde / yee / and to all the wilde beastes of the fildes: keape you together / and come gather you rounde aboute vpon my slaughter / that I haue slayne for you: euen a greate slaughter vpon the mountaynes of Israel: I care flesh / and bynne bloude. Ye shall eate the flesh of the wethers / a bynne the bloude of the pannes of the lande / of the wethers / of the lambes / of the goates / and of the oxen that be all slayne at Bajan. Eate the fat youre bellies full / and bynne bloude / till ye be dronke of the slaughter / which I haue slayne vnto you. Fyll you at my table with hoises and stronge boiues: with captaynes and all men of warre / saith the Lo:rd God.

I will bringe my glory also amonge the Gentiles / that all the Heathen maye see my iudgement that I haue kepte / and my hande which I haue layed vpon them: that the house of Israel maye knowe / howe that I am the Lo:rd their God from that daye forth. And they which theyn shall knowe / that where as the house of Israel were led into captiuite: it was so: their wickednes sake / because they offended me:

For the which cause I hyd my face fro them / and deliuered them into the handes of their enemies / that they might all be slaine with the swerde. According to their wickednesse and enfeynfull dealynges / so haue I increased them / and hyd my face from them. Therefore thus saith the Lo:rd God: Nowe wil I bringe agayne the captiues of Iacob / a haue mercy vpon the wilde house of Israel / and be gloriou for my holy names sake. All their confusion and offence that they haue done against me / shalbe reuened awaye: and so safely shall they dwell in their lande / that no man shall make them afraide. And when I haue brought them agayne from amonge the people / when I haue gathered them together out of their enemye landes / and am played in them before many Heathen: then shall they knowe / that I am the Lo:rd their God / which suffered them to be led into captiuite amonge the Heathen / but nowe haue brought the agayne into their owne lde / and not left one of them ponde.

23. xxx. d When that wil I hyd my face nomore fro them / but wil poure out my spere vpon the house of Israel / saith the Lo:rd God.

The XL. Chapter.

In the xxx. yeare of oure captiuite / in the beginninge of the yeare / the xx. daye of the month / that is the xiiij. yeare / after that the cene was synne done: the same daye came the hande of the Lo:rd vpon me / and caried me forth: euen into the lande of Israel brought he me / in the visions of God: and set me downe vpon a marvellous hie mountaine / where vpon there was a buylinge / (as it had bene of a riuer) warde the South.

Therby he caried me / a beholde / there was a man / whose similitude was like brasse / which had a threde of slag in his hande / and a meeterodde also. He stode in the dore / a sayde vnto me: carie we with thine eyes / her to with thine cares / and fassen it in thine bre / whare thoue. I shall shewe the / for to the intent that they might be shewed the / therefore art thou brought hither. And whare thoue thou seest / thou shalt certifie the house of Israel therof.

Beholde / there was a wall on the outside rounde aboute the house: the meeterodde that he had in his hande / was six cubites lōge and a spanne. So he measured the bredth of the buylinge / which was a meeterodde / and the heygth also a meeterodde. Then came he vnto the East dore / and wente vpon the slayers / and measured the pillars of the dore: wherof euery one was a meeterodde thicke. Euery chaumbre was a meeterodde longe and broad: betwene the chaumbres were six cubites. The pylle of the dore within the poiche was one meeterodde. He measured also the poiche of the inner dore / which conserned a meeterodde. He measured he the entrie of the dore that conserned eight cubites / and his pillers two cubites: and this entrie stode in ward.

The chaumbres of the dore Eastwarde / were three on euery syde: a lōge and longe. The pillers also that stode of both the sydes / were of one measure. After this he measured the widdnesse of the dore: which was six cubites / and the heygth of the dore six cubites. The edge before the chaumbres was one cubite broad vpon both the sydes / and the chaumbres six cubites wyde of euery syde. He measured the dore from the rygge of one chaumbre / to another / whose widdnesse was xxx. cubites / and one one boxe stood against another. He made pillars also: his cubits hie/round about the court boxe. Before the inward porte onto the fore entrance of y<sup>n</sup>nermer boie/were fyne cubites. The chambers a they: pillars within/rounde aboute unto the boie had syde wyndowes: So had the fore entree also / whose wyndowes were rounde aboute within. And upon the pillars there stode Sacerrees.

¶ When I brought he me into the fore court/ where as were chambers a paved worke/ made in the fore court rounde aboute xxx. chambers upon one paved worke. Now the paved worke was a longer besyde the boies/ a that was the lower paved worke. After this/ he measured the breadth from the lower boxe/ unto y<sup>n</sup>nermer court of the outside/ whiche had an hundred cubites upon the East and the North parte. And the boie in the vntermost court towards the North / measured he after the length and breadth: tyo the chambers also on either syde / with his pillars and fox corners: which had euen the mesur of the first boie. His height was fyne cubites / the breadth xxx. cubites: his wyndowes and portches with his Sacerrees/ had euen the mesur as the boie toward the East: there where vñ stepped to go vp vpon / and their portches before the. Now the boie of the y<sup>n</sup>nermer court stode straight ouer against the boie that was toward the North east. From one boie to another he measured an L. cubites.

¶ After that he brought me to the South syde, where there stode a boie toward y<sup>s</sup>outh whose pillars and portches he measured / these had the first measure / and with these portches they had wyndowes rounde aboute / like the first wyndowes. The height was fyne cubites / the breadth xxx. with stepped to go vp vpon: his portch stode before hym / with his pillars and Sacerrees on either side. And the boie of the y<sup>n</sup>nermer court stode toward the South / and he measured from one boie to another an L. cubites. So he brought me into the y<sup>n</sup>nermer court / thowtwe the boie of the South syde: which he measured / and it had the measure aforesayde. In lyke manner his chambers / pillars / and fox corners / had euen the foresayde mesur also. And he had with his portches rounde aboute / wyndowes of fyne cubites hie / and xxx cubites broad. The portches rounde aboute were xxx. cubites longe / and v. cubites broad: a his portch reached vnto the vntermost court: a upon his pillars there were Sacerrees / and vñ stepped to go vp vpon.

¶ He brought me also into the y<sup>n</sup>most court upon the East syde / and measured the boie / accordinge to the measure aforesayde. His chambers / pillars and portches had euen the same measure as the first had: a with his portches he had wyndowes rounde aboute. The height was l. cubites / the bredh xxx. cubites. His portches reached vnto y<sup>n</sup>termost court / his pillars also had Sacerrees on either syde / a vñ stepped to go vp vpon. And he brought me to the North boie / and measured it / which also had the foresayde mesur. His chambers / pillars and portches had wyndowes round aboute: whose height was l. cubites / and the breadth xxx. His pillars stode toward the vntermost court: a vpon them both were Sacerrees / and vñ stepped to go vp vpon. There stode a chamber also / whose entrance was at the boie pillars / and there the burntoffringes were washed.

¶ In the boie portch / there stode on either side two tables for the slaughtinge: to laye the burntoffringes / synoffringes and trespassoffringes thereupon. And in the outside as men go forth to the North boie / there stode two tables. foure tables stode on either side of the boie / that is vñ tables / whereupon they slaughtered. foure tables were of breuen stone for the burntoffringes / of a cubite and a halfe longe and layde / and one cubite hie: whereupon were layed the vessels and ornaments / which were used to the burnt and slaggeoffringes: whē they were slaughtered. And within there were hokes foure hanger boies / as stened rounde aboute / to hange flesh vpon / a vpon the tables was layed the offeringe flesh. On the outside of the y<sup>n</sup>nermer boie were the fringers chambers / in the inward court besyd the North boie ouer against the South. There stode one also beside the East boie Northward.

¶ And he sayde vnto me: This chamber on y<sup>s</sup> the South syde belongeth to the priestes that kepe the habitation: and this toward the temple there were made Cherubins and Seraphes like as upon the walles: and a greater spie of Golfe of woode was before on the outside of the porch. Upon both the sides of the walles / of the porch there were made depe wyndowes and Seraphes / hauinge beames and balles like as the house had.

The XLII. Chapter.

¶ Then caried he me oute into the forecourt towarde the North / and brought me into the chaumbre that stode ouer againste the backebuilding Northward / which had the length of an C. cubites / whose doore turned towarde the North. The wydenesse consyered cubites ouer againste the xx. cubites of the ynnmer court / and againste the pauerd walles that was in the forecourt. Beside al these thre there stode pillers one ouer againste another. And before this chaumbre there was a gallery of cubites wyde / and within was a reyse of one cubite wyde / and therer by the doore towarde the North. Thus the byest chaumbres were alwaie narrower then the lower and middlemost of the Building / for they haue chaumbre upon chaumbre / as stode the togerher one vpon another / not hauinge pillers like the forecourt: thesoure were they smaller then those bench and in the middes / to reken from the grounde vpwarde.

¶ The wall without that stode by the chaumbres / towarde the vntermost court upon the southside of the chaumbres / was fyfte cubites longe: for the length of the vntermost chaumbres in the forecourt was fyfte cubites also / but the length therof before the temple was an C. cubites. These chaumbres had vnder them an entraince of the East syde / wherby a man myghte go into them out of the forecourt / shewing the thicke wall of the forecourt towarde the East / righte ouer againste the separated Building. Before the same Buildinge vpon this syde there were chaumbres also / whiche had a waye vnto them / like as the chaumbres on the North syde of the same length and wydenesse.

Their entrainces / assision and doores were all of the same maner. Yee / euen lyke as other chaumber doores were / so were those also of the South syde. And before the waye towarde the sengeres steepe on the East syde / there stode a doore to go in at. Then sayde he vnto me: The chaumbres towarde the North and the South / whiche stode before the backe Building: these be the holy habitacions / wherin the priestes that do seruice before the Lorde / shall eate the most holy offeringe: and there shall they laie the most holy offeringe / meate offeringe / synneoffringe / and trespassoffringe / for it is an holy place. When the priestes come therin / they shal not go out into the forecourt: but syngre they be holy / they shal leaue the clothes of their ministracion / and put on other garments / when they haue any thinge to do with the people.

Now when he had measured al the ynnmer house / he brought me fourth thowse the East parte / and measured the same house aboute. He measured the East syde with the interdoore / which rounde aboute consyered v. C. interdoores. And the North syde measured he / which consyered rounde aboute eall so much. The other two sides also towarde the South and the West / which be measured / consyered eache of them v. C. interdoores. So he measured al the soure sides where there was one wall rounde aboute v. C. interdoores longe / and so shode also / which separated the holy from the vnholy.

The XLIII. Chapter.

¶ So he brought me to the Rose that turneth Southward to the East. Beholde / then came the glory of the God of Israel from out of the East / whose voyce was lyke a great noyse of waters / and the earth was lightened with his glory. This syghthe to loken vpon was like the syghthe that I sawe / when I wente into the water of Eobar. Then set I vpon my face / but the glorey of the Lorde came into the house thowse the East doore. So a wind toke me vp / and brought me into the ynnmer court: and beholde / the house was full of the glorey of the Lorde.

I herde one speakyng vnto me out of the house / and there stode one by me / that sayde vnto me: O thou sonne of man / this house is not as my house / and the place of my feete: for a peece where as I will dwell amonge the chyldren of Israel / for evermore: so shall the house of

of Israel shall none defile my holy name: neither they nor their kinges / thowse they whosoome / thowse theye be places / and thowse the head boies of their kinges: whiche haue builded theye the / boies in maner hard vpon my thirsholdes / and their postes almost at my postes: so that there is but a bare wall betwixt me and them.

Thus haue they defiled my holy name with theyr abominacions that they haue committed. Wherefore I haue destroyed them in my wrath: But none they shall put away their whosoome / and the head boies of their kinges out of my sight / that I maye dwell amonge them for euermore. Therefore (O thou sonne of man) shewe thou the householde of Israel a temple / that they maye be ashamed of their wickednesse / and measure them selfe an example therof.

And when they be ashamed of all theyr woefolnes / then shewe them the forme and fashion of the temple: the commynge in / the goynge out / all the maner and description thereof / yee / all the orde and ordinaunces of it / and describe it before them / that they maye seepe and fulfill all the fashions and customes thereof.

This is the description of the house: Above vpon the mount rounde about al the corners / it shall be the height of all. Beholde / that is the description and fashion of the house. This is the measure of the altar (after the true cubite) which is a spaine longer then another cubite) his bottom in the middelt was a cubite lōge and wyde / and the ledge that went rounde aboute it / was a spaine broade. This is the height of the altar: from the ground to the lower steppe / the length is two cubites / and the bredth one cubite: and fro the lower steppe to the higher are foure cubites / and the bredth but one cubite.

The altar was foure cubites hie / and from the altar vppwarde stode foure boies / and it was / six cubites longe and six cubites broade vpon the foure corners: the coveringe of the altar was .iiii. cubites lōge and broad vpon the foure corners / and the ledge that went rounde aboute / had halfe a cubite: and the bottom thereof rounde aboute one cubite: his steppe stode towards the east. And he said vnto me: Thou sonne of man: thus saith the Lord God: these are the ordinaunces & lawes of the altar / in the waye when it is made to offre burnt offerings / and to sprike bloude thereon. To the priestes / to the carriers that be of the side of the Tabernacle / and treade before me: to do me seruice / sayeth the Lord God: vnto these geue thou a sponge bullocke for a synoffringe: and take the bloude of him / and sprike his foure boies withal / and the foure corners of the altar coveringe / with the ledge that goeth rounde aboute: here with shalt thou cleanse it / and reconle it. Thou shalt take the bullocke also of the synoffringe / and burne him in a severall place without of the Sanctuary.

The next daye / take a goatbeck without blemish for a synoffring / to reconle the altar withall: like as it was reconiled with the bullocke. Now when thou hast made it cleane / then offre a yonge bullocke / without blemish / and a ramme out of the flocke without blemish also: Offre them before the Lord: let the priest cast salt thereupon / and geue the sponges vnto the Lord for a burnt offeringe: Seven wayes shalt thou bringe euerye daye a goatbeck. A yonge bullocke and a ramme of the flocke (both without blemish) shal theye offre: Seven wayes shall theye reconle and cleanse the altar / and offre vpon it. When these wayes are expired / then vpon the viij. daye and so forth / the priestes shal offre their burnt offerings / and health offerings vpon the altar: so wil I be mercifull vnto you / saith the Lord God.

The XLIII. Chapter.

After this / he thoughte me agayne to the Sanctuary vnto the East side / and that was shut. Then saide the Lord vnto me: This doore shall be still shut / and not opened for any man to go thowse it / but onely for the Lord God of Israel: yee / he shall go thowse it / also shall it be shut still. The prince him selfe shall come thowse it / that he maye care the doore before the Lord: If the porche shall be come in / and there shall be go oute againe. Then thoughte he me thowse the doore vpon the North side of the house. And as I looked about me / beholde / the glorye of the Lord byed the house: and and I will doine vpon my face. So the Loz De spake vnto me. O thou soune of man / sasigne this to thine brethren: & holde: and take vtillignēt here to all the ordinaunces of the Loz De: and all his lawes: poude well with thine heart the commynge in of the house / and the goynge forth of the Sanctuary: and tel that

Loz De God: O house of Israel: ye haue now seyng: that ye haue broughte into my Sanctuary straungers / hauinge encircumscid hertes: and sicth: where thowse my Sanctuary is: & whyled: when ye offer my bread: salt and bloude.

Thus withall youre abhominacione ye haue broken my conuenaunt / and not kepte the holy ordinaunces of my Sanctuary: thus set I persers of my Sanctuary: / uen after youre owne mynde: Therefore thus saith the Loz De God: O fall the straungers that dwell as monge the children of Israel / no straunger (whose herte and felicitie is not circumscid) shall come within my Sanctuary: No / no: the Leuites that be gone backe fro me / and haue vtreaued the people of Israel with ce-roures / goynge after their Idols: therefore shall they beare their owne wickednesse.
Shoulde they be set and ordained to ministre vnder the doore of the house of my Sanctuary: and to serue in the house: to slepe burning: & sacrifices for the people: to stand before them: and to serue them: seyng the seruce that they do them / is before they:
Idols: and cause the house of Israel to sibble

I for the whyche cause I haue pluckt ouer myne hande ouer them (seyeth the Loz De) so that now they must beare their owne iniquite: and not to come nye me / to serue me w their priesthede: in my Sanctuary: a mooll bolles of all: that they may beare their owne shame and abhominacione: which they haue done. Shoulde I vse them to be powres of the house: and to all the seruce that is done therin: But the priests: the Leuites: the sons of Iuda: that kepte the holy ordinaunce of my Sanctuary / when the children of Israel were gone fro me: shall come re: to / to be my serues: to stande before me: a to offre me the fat a the bloude: saith the Loz De God.

They shall go into my Sanctuary / and trede before my table to do my seruce / and to waite vpon myne ordinaunces: Now whē they go in at the doore of the pinner court / they shall put on linnen clothes: so that no woym come vpon them: whyche they do seruice vnder the doore of the pinner court: and within. They shall haue sack lynnin bonetes vpon their heades: and lynnin shoo-des vpon their loynes: & which in their labour they shall not put aboute them: And whē they go forth to the people into the outwarde court: they shall put of the clothes: & when they haue minstred: and laye them in the habitation of the Sanctuary / and put on other apparell: lest / they vnhalowe the people with their clothes.

They shall not shawe their heades: nor nouth the busbe of their beere: but rounde their heades onely. All the priestes that go into the ynnmost court: shall vnyke no wyne.
They shall marry no wydow: / neyther one that is put from her husbande: but a mayde of the seede of the house of Israel: or a wydow that hath had a pnyell before.

They shall shewe my people the difference betwene the holy and vnholly: & serue the cleane and vncleane. If any vnclene arise: they shall discerne it: and geue sentence afre my iudgements. My solempne feastes / my lawes and ordinaunces shall they kepe: and halowe my Sabbathes. They shall come to

And when he is clenfed: there shall be refered vnto him vñ daye: and if he go into the offringe shall they care: and every bectate thinge in Israel shall be thine: & the synnoffringe of all the frist frutes: and all freewill offeringe shall be thine.

Ye shall geue vnto the priest also the frist lunge.

linges of your house that God maye prospereth the residue. But no dead carion shall be pisset carion such as is deuoured of wilde beasts/foales or carrell.

The XLV. Chapter.

When ye vnder the lande by the last / ye shall put of the one part for the Lord to be holy from other landes: namely xxx. M. meeteroddes longe/and x. M. Broade. This shall be holy as wyde as this rounde aboute. Of this parte there shall be longe vnto the Sanctuary v. C. meeteroddes in all the foure corners/ and l. cubytes wyde rounde aboute to the suburbs. And from the measure/ namely of xxx. M. meeteroddes longe/ and x. M. Broade/ thou shalt measure/ where in the Sanctuary and the holiest of all maye stande.

The residue of that holy grounde shall be pisset/ which so serues in the Sanctuary of the Lord/ and go in before the Lord to serue him/ that they maye haue route to dwell in.

As for the Sanctuary it shall stande for it self: and to the Leuites that serue in the house/ there shall geuen .xx. habitacions of the .xx. v. M. lenger/ and x. M. bredth. Ye shall geue also vnto the cite a possession of v. M. meeteroddes broade/ and xxx. M. lages/ besyde the parte of the Sanctuary: that shall be for the whole house of Israel. Upon both the sides of the Sanctuaries parte/ and by the cite/ there shall geuen vnto the prynce/ wherefor they shoulde agaynste the cite/ as farre as reacheth Westwarde and Eastward/ whiche shall be as longe as one parte/ from the West vnto the East.

This shall be his owne lande in Israel/ that my prince be nomore chargeable vnto my people. And thus as remaineth yet ouer in 3 lande/ shall geuen to the house of Israel according to their trybes. Thus sayeth the

Lorde God: O ye princes/ ye haue now oppressed and destroyed ynough: now leaue off hande now according to the thinge that is equal a lawfull: and thrust out my people nomore/ sayeth the Lorde God. Ye shall haue a true twelue/ a true Ephra/ and a true Bar.

The Ephra and the Bar shall be alike. One Bar shall contayne the twelfth parte of an Homer/ and so shall one Ephra be: their measure shall be after the Homer. One sicle maketh xx. Geras. So xx. sicles/ and xxx. and xx. sicles make a pounce. This is the brauest offeringe/ that ye shall geue to the braud: namely the xxx. parte of an Ephra/ out of an Homer of wheat/ and the xxx. parte of an Ephra/ out of an Homer of barley. The oyle shall be measured with the Bar: euen the x. parte of one Bar out of a Eho.

Ten Barres make an Homer: for one Homer maketh ten Barres. And one lambe from two hundred shepe out of the pasture of Israell/ for a meate offeringe/ burnt offeringe/ and heath offeringe/ to reconcile them/ sayeth the Lorde God. All the people of the lande shall geue this brauest offeringe with a fre will: gayne/ it shall be the prynce parte to offre burnt offerings/ meate offerings/ and synners offerings vnto the Lord/ in the holy daies/ newe moones/ Sabbathes/ and in all the hie festes of the house of Israell. The syn offeringe/ meate offeringe/ burnt offeringe/ and heath offeringe shall be geue/ to reconcile the house of Israell. Thus sayeth the Lorde God: The first daye of the first moneth thou shalt take a yonger bullocke without blemish/ and cleane the Sanctuary.

So the priest shall take of the stoude of the syn offeringe/ and spreke it vpon the postes of the house/ and vpon the foure corners of the altier/ with the doupples of the synner comere. And thus shalt thou do also the seuenth daye of the moneth: for siche as haue synned of ignyauance/ or by rage/ hereafter do reconcile the house withall. Upon the first daye of the first moneth ye shall kipe Easter. Seuen dayes shall the feast continue/ wherein there shall no soure nor leued bread be eate.

Upon the same daye shall the prynce geue for him self/ and all the people of the lande/ a bullocke for a syn offeringe. And in the stalle of the kuen dayes he shall offre currey daye a bullocke and a ram/ that are without blemish for a burnt offeringe vnto the Lorde: and an hegyate barley for a syn offeringe. For the meate offeringe he shall geue curer an Ephra/ a bullocke/ an Ephra/ to a ram/ and an Egin of oyle to an Ephra. Upon the x. daye of the seuenth moneth/ he shall kipe the kuen daye holy

The XLV. Chapter.

THUS saith the Lorde God: the Voie of the synnerer court toward the East / shall be burnt the vij. woike dayes: But in the Sabbath and in the daye of the new moone / it shall be opened. Then shall the pynce come vnder the Voie poiche / and stande thil without by the Voie post: So the pyntice shall offre up his burnt and bealbofferinge. And he shal worshipp at the Voie post / and go his waye forth againe: and the Voie shal nomore be / but all the eueninge.

On the same maner shall the people of the land also vs their worshipp before the Lorde without this Voie upon the Sabbathes and new moones. This is now the burnt offeringe / thus the pynce shal bring vnto the Lorde vpon the Sabbath: sixe lambes without theym / and a ram without theym / and an Ephra for a meato offeringe with the ram. As for the lambes / he maye geue as many meato offeringes to them as he will / and an Hin of oyle to an Ephra. In the daye of the new moone / it shall be a yonge bullocke without theym / sixe liden and a ram also without theym. With the bullocke he shal geue an Ephra / and with the ram an Ephra also for a meato offeringe: but to the lambes / what he maye come by: And euer an Hin of oyle to an Ephra. When the pynce cometh / he shal go vnder the Voie poiche / and euen there he parte forth agayne. But when the people of the land come before the Lorde in the hie solenne feaste / as many as come in by the North Voie to do worshipp / shall go oute agayne at the South Voie. And they that come at the South Voie / shall go forth againe at the North Voie. There shal none go out at the Voie where he came in / but shal go forth right oute on the other syde / and the pynce shal go in and out amongst them.

Upon the solenne and hie feaste dayes / this shall be the meato offeringe: An Ephra to a bullocke / and an Ephra to a ramme: and to the lambes as many as be will / but euer an Hin of oyle to an Ephra. Nowe when the pynce bringeth a burnt offeringe / or a bealbo fferinge with a fre wyl vnto the Lorde / the East doore shall be opened vnto him / that he maye do with his burnt and bealbofferinge / as he doeth vpon the Sabbath: when he goeth forth / the Voie shall be: but after him agayne. He shall saye thus vnto the Lorde O lambe of a yeaere olde without blame / for a burnt offeringe: this shall be do eury moonyng. And so: a meato offeringe he shall geue the sixe parte of an Ephra / and the thirde parte of an Hin of oyle / to myngle with the caker / eury moonyng. Yet / this shall be a doly meato offeringe vnto the Lorde / for an euerlastinge ordinaunce: and thus shall the lambe / the meato offeringe / and oyle be geuen eury moonyng for a doly burnt offeringe.

Moreover / thus saith the Lorde God: If the pynce geue a gift vnto any of his sonnes / then shall it be his sonnes heretage perpetuall / that he may possesse it. But if he will geue one of his seruantes / some of his heretage / it shall be his to the 7th yeaere / and then to returne agayne vnto the pynce: for his heretage shall be his sonnes only. The pynce also shall take none of the people / nor put them from their possession: but to his owne sonnes shall he geue his possession / that my people be not feared abroad / but that eury man maye haue his owne.

And he brought me thowen the inuance at the syde of the Voie: to the habitation of the Sanctuary that belongeth to the pyntice / a stode toward the North: a behold / there was a place vpon the West syde / then saide he vnto me / this is the place / where the pyntice shall dwelle: and synofferinges / a bafe the meato offeringes: that theye neede not beare them into the outwarde court / and so to beholde the people. So he brought me into the uttermost court / rounde aboute all the foure corners. Beholde / in eury corner of the foure court / there was yet a little court. Yet in all the foure corners of the court / there was made a litle court of ij. cubites longe / and xxx. cubites broad: these foure litle courts were of one like measure / and there were rynges rounde aboute them all / four / reme-ber the which: these were herbes made rounde aboute.

aboute. Then sayde he vnto me: this is the high: wher the ministers of the house shall drye the same of furringes of the people.

The XLVII. Chapter.

After this he thought me againe before the Vox of the house: and beholde there gush- ed out waters from vnder the postes of the house: Eastward: for the house floode toward the East: that ranns vnto the righte syde of the house: / whiche lyeth to the aulter Southward. Then caried he me oute to the North side: and thought me: for there roūd aboute by the vntermoste dyke: / that turneth Westward. Beholde there came forth the water vpon the ryght syde. Nowe when the man that had the mectordde in his hande: wrote oute vnto the East dyke: he measured a 100 cubites: / and then he thought me: showe the water: / euen to the aulter: so he measured a thousande: and thought me: showe the water againe vnto the Ence: yet measured he a thousande: and thought me: showe the water vnto the loynes. After this he measured a thousande agayne: then was it suche a ryuer: / that I mighte not wade thowoe it: The water was so depe: / that it was needefull to haue streymed: so: it mighte not be waded oute. And he sayde vnto me: haste thou senc this: / so thou sonne of man: and wryt that: / he thought me to the ryuer bancke againe.

Now when I came ther: there stode many trees vpon either syde of the riuier bancke. Then sayde he vnto me: This water that floweth oute towarde the Este: / and runneth vnto the playne felde: / commeth into the see: and from the see it runneth oute: / and maketh the waters whole. Yee: / all that issue a moue: wher vnto this ryuer commeth: / shall recouer. And wher this water commeth: / there shall be many fish. For all that commeth to this water: / shall be lusty and whole. By this ryuer shall the fishers stande from Engaddi vnto the Iordan: / and there shalde oute their nettes: so: there shall be greates heapes of fish: / like as in the mayne see. As for his claye and purce: / they shal not be whole: so: why: / it shalbe occupied for sale.

E. By this ryuer vpon both the sydes of the shore: there shall growe all maner of frutesfull trees: / whose leaues shall not fall of: / neyther shall their fruite perishe: but euer be ripe as their monethes: for their water runneth oute of the Sanctuary. His fruite is good to eate: / and his leafe profitable for medicine. This sayeth the Lord God: Let it bye the border: / whererein ye shall vnto the lande vnto the ryghtes of Israel with the syner. Darke it indifferently vnto one as vnto another: / of the which lande I sware vnto youre fathers: / that it shoulde sel to youre empertraunce.

This is the border of the lande vpon the North syde: from the mayne see: / as men go to Gadaba: namely: / Hemath: / Bertha: / Sabarim: from the borders of Damascus: and Hemath vnto Hazer Tidon: that lieth vpon the coastes of Hauram. Thus the borders from the see south: / shall be Hazer Enan: / the border of Damascus the North: / and the borders of Hemath: that is the North parte.

The East syde shall ye measure from Hauran and Damascus: from Galed and the lande of Israel by Iordane: and so forth from the see coast: that lieth Westward: and this is the East parte.

The South syde is from Thamar south to the waters of syre vnto Eden: the ryuer to the mayne see: that is the South parte.

The West parte: namely: the great see from the borders therof: / till a man come vnto Hemath: this is the West parte.

This lande shall ye part amongst you: / according to the tribes of Israel: and vnto it to be an heritage: for you: / and for the stranger: / which dwelleth amonge you: / and begette children.

For ye shall take them amonge the children of Israel: / like as though they were of your owne householde and countrie: / and they shall haue heritage with you: amonge the children of Israel.

Loke in what time the stranger dwelleth in the same trybe: shall ye geue him his heritage: / saith the Lord God.

The XLVIII. Chapter.

These are the names of the trybes that lye vpon the North syde: by the wyse of Heton: / till thou comnest vnto Gemath: and Hazer Enan: the borders of Damascus towarde the North syde: Hemath: Dan shall haue his portion from the East quarter: vnto the

the West. Upon the borders of Dan from the East syde vnto the West / shall Isser haue his portion. Upon the borders of Asser from the East parte vnto the West shall Nephthali haue his portion.

Upon the borders of Nephthali from the East quarter vnto the West / shall Manasse haue his portion. Upon the borders of Manasse from the East syde vnto the West shall Ephraim haue his portion. Upon the borders of Ephraim from the East parte vnto the West shall Ruben haue his portion. Vpon the borders of Ruben from the East quarter vnto the West shall Iuda haue his portion. Vpon the borders of Iuda from the East parte vnto the West ye shall set asyde one portion of xxx. M. metredodes longe and bioade like as another portion from the East syde vnto the West / wherein the Sanctuary shall stande.

B Thus for the portion that ye shall separate out for the Lorde it shall be xxx. M. longe and x. M. bioade. Which separated holy portion shall belyge vnto these: namely to the priestes / towards the North xxx. M. and towards the West x. M. bioade / towards the East x. M. bioade also / a towards the South xxx. M. longe / wherein the Sanctuary of the Lorde shall stande. Yet this same place shall be the priestes / that are of the children of Gadach / and haue kepte my holy ordinance: which went not astray in the erreure of the children of Israel / like as the Levites are gone astray / and this separated peece that they haue of the landes / shall be the most holy / haue vpon the borders of the Levites. And next vnto the priestes shall the Levites haue xxx. M. longe and x. M. bioade. This shall be a euery syde xxx. M. longe / and x. M. bioade. Of this portion they shall set nothinge / nor make any permutation thereof / lest the chiefe of the landes fall vnto other / for it is beloued vnto the Lorde.

C The other v. M. after the breadth / shal by the xxx. M. shall be common: it shall belyge to the ciuities and to the suburbs for habytacio / and the cite shall stande in the myddest thereof. Let this be the measure towards the North parte: v. C. and iij. M. towards the South parte: v. C. and iij. M. towards the East parte: v. C. and iij. M. towards the West parte: v. C. and iij. M.

The suburbs haue vpon the cite / shall haue towards the North / L. and ij. C. towards the South / L. and two. C. towards the East / L. and two. C. towards the West / L. and two. C. So for the residue of the length that lyeth hard vpon the separated holy ground: namely: x. M. towards the East and x. M. towards the West / next vnto the holy portion: it and the increase thereof shall serue for their meate that labour in the cite. They that labour for the meate of the cite / shall maneyne they also / out of what tribe so euer they be in Israel.

All that is separated of the xxx. M. longe and xxx. M. bioade on the four partes / that shall ye put asyde for the separated portion of the Sanctuary / and for the possession of the cite. The residue vpon both the sides of the Sanctuary and possession of the cite / shall belonge to the prince / before the place of the xxx. M. vnto the East ende / and before the place of the xxx. M. ¶ 11. 11. 11. 11.
¶ 11. 11. 11. 11.

¶ In the thirde yeare of the raygne of Ioschum kinge of Iuda/ came Nabuchodonosor kinge of Babylon vnto Ierusalem/ and besieged it: and the Lord deliuered Ioschum kinge of Iuda into his hande/ with certayne ornamentse of the house of God/ which he caried away vnto the lande of Chennar/ to the house of his god/ and there brought them into his gods treasure. And the kynge spake vnto Asbemes the chiefe chamberlayne/ he shoulde bringe hym certayne of the chyldren of Israel/ that were come of the kynge seed: and of pryntes/ yonge springalbes without any blemish/ but fayre and wellsaoured/ instructe in all wysdome/ cunninge and vnderstandinge: whiche were able to stande in the kynge palaces/ to reade a to learne/ so to speake Caldey.

Vnto these the kynge appoynted a certayne portien of his owne meate and of the wyne/ which he vntoke him self/ so to nourish the thre year: that afterwarde they might stande before the kynge. Amonge these now were certayne of the chyldren of Iuda: namely Daniel/ Ananias/ Misael/ and Azarias. Vnto these the chiefe chamberlayne gaue other names/ and called Daniel/ Balthazar/ Ananias/ Sadrac: Misael/ Misac/ a Azarias/ Abednago. But Daniel was at a poynt with him self/ that he wolde not be vsed the thre yeres meate/ nor the wyne which he drinke. And thus he vnto the chiefe chamberlayne/ lest he shoulde vsile him self. So God gaue Daniel sauoure a grace before the chiefe chamberlayne/ that he saide vnto him: I am afrayed of my lorde the kynge/ which hath appoynted you youre meate and drinke/ lest he see youre face to be weak: if kynge then the other springalbes of youre age/ and so ye shall make me looke my beade vnto the kynge.

The Daniel answered Melassar/ whome the chiefe chamberlayne had set ouer Daniel/ Ananias/ Misael and Azarias/ and sayde: O prier but ten dayes with thy seruantes/ and let vs haue portage to eate/ a water to drinke: then loke vpon oure faces/ and there shall eate of the kynge meate. And as thou wilt/ so deale with thy seruantes. So he consented to the in this maner/ and poured the y. dayes. And after the ten dayes/ their faces were better lykynge a fatter/ then all the yonge springalbes/ which had eate of the kynge meate.

Thus Melassar toke awaye their meate and wyne/ and gaue them portage therfore. God gaue now these foure springalbes cunninge a learning in al scripture and wysdome: but vnto Daniel specially/ he gaue vnderstanding of all visions and dreames. Now when this was cspied/ that the kynge had appoynted to bring in these yonge springalbes vnto hym: the chiefe chamberlayne brought them before Nabuchodonosor/ and the kynge commended with them. But amonge them all were found none such as Daniel/ Ananias/ Misael/ and Azarias. Therfore sode they before the kynge/ which in all wysdome and matere of vnderstanding/ he enquired of them/ founde them ten times better then all the soyltyngers and charyntes that were in all hye realme. ## The II. Chapter.

In the seconde year of the reigne of King Abuchodonosor / had Abuchodonosor a dreame / vnto where thowto his spirit was vexed / and his sleep diuise fro him. Then the king commaunded to cal together al the soothsayers / charmers / wizards / and Caldees / for to shewe the king his dreame. So they came / and stode before the king. And the king saide vnto the: I haue dreamed a dreame / a my spirit was so troubled therewith / that I haue cleane forgotten what I dreamed. Upon this the Caldees answered the king in the Syriac speach: O King / God saue thy life for ever. Shewe vs what is the dreame / and we shal shewe the by what it meaneth. The king gaue the Caldees their answers / and sayde: It is gone from me: If ye will not make me vnderstande the dreame with the interpretation therof / ye shal dye / and youre houses shalbe pyssed. But if ye tell me the dreame and the meanyng thereof / ye shall haue of me gifts / rewardes / and greate honour: onely shewe me the dreame and the signification of it. They answered as gayne / and sayde: the king must shewe his seruantes the dreame / and so shall we declare what it meaneth.

Then the king answered saying: I perceive of a truth / that ye do but prolonge the tyme: for so much as ye / that the thinge is gone from me. Therfore / ye will not tel me the dreame / ye shall all haue one iudgement. But ye saue a dissensible with vaine wordes / which ye speake before me to put of the tyme. Therfore tell me the dreame / and so shal I knowe / if ye can shewe me what it meaneth. Vp vnto the Caldees gaue answer before the king and sayde: there is no man vpon earth that can tel the thinge / which the king speaketh of: Yee / there is no other king / prince / nor lord / that can such thinges as a soothsayer / charmer / or Caldeer: for it is a very harde matter that the king requireth. Neither is there any that can certifie the king therof / excepte the goddes: whose dwellinge is not amonge the creature.

For the which cause the king was wroth with great indignation / and commaunded to ser uice of the wise men at Babylon / and his proclamation wente forth / that the wise men shoulde be slayne. They sought also to slay Daniel with his companions. Then Daniel enquired Arioch the kinges steward / of the iudgement and sentence that was gone forth already to kill such as were wise at Babylon. He answered and sayd vnto Arioch beinge then the kinges butler: Why hath the king proclaimed so cruell a sentence? So Arioch tolde Daniel the matter. Upon this wente Daniel vp / and desired the king that he might haue leysoure to shewe the king the interpretation: and then came he home againe and shewed the thinge vnto Ananias / Misael / a Sarcis his companions: that they shoulde beseech the God of heauen for grace in this secrette / that Daniel and his felowes with other such as were wise in Babylon / perished not. This was the mystery shewed vnto Daniel in a vision by night. And Daniel prayed the God of heauen / Daniel also cryed loud: / and sayde: O what the name of God might be praised for ever a cuer / for wysdome and strengthe are his owne: he chaunged the Dan. ii. b. tymes and ages: he putteth downe kinges / Luc. i. e. he setteth vp kinges: he giveth wysdom vnto the wise / and vnderstande to those that are b. deffulde: he openeth the deere secrettes: he knoweth the thinge that is hid in darkness: / for Dan. iii. c. the light dwelleth with him. I thanke the Lord / and praise the / O thou God of my fathers / that thou hast lent me wysdome and streng / and hast shewed me the thinge that we desired of the / for thou hast opened the kinges matter vnto me.

Upon this wente Daniel vnto Arioch / whom the king had ordered to slay the wise at Babylon: he wente vnto him / and saide: Destroye not such as are wise in Babylon / but bringe me vnto the king / and I shal shewe the king the interpretation. Then Arioch brought Daniel into the king in all the hall / and saide vnto him: I haue founde a man amonge the prisoners of Iudea: that shal shewe the king the interpretation. He answered the king / and sayde vnto Daniel whose name was Balthazar: Art thou he that shal shewe me the dreame which I haue seene / and interpretation therof? Daniel answered the king to his face / and sayde: As for this secrette / the

which the king maketh inquisition: it is neyther the wylde/ the foucerer/ the charmer/ nor the Deuill conuicer that can certifie & kinge of it: ¶ Only God in heauē can open secretes / and be it so that he sheweth the king Nabuchodonosor / what is for to come in the latter dayes.

Mat. xi. c

Thy dream / and that which thou haste sine in thine head: upon thy bed / is this: ¶ Thou shalt see a vision / what shall come hereafter: So be that is the opener of mysterie / telleth the what is for to come. ¶ As for me / this secret is not shewed me for any wilme that I haue / more then any other spuinge: but only that I might shew it / ¶ The interpretation / is that he might knowe the thoughtes of his owne herte. ¶ Thou kinge sawest a bedchamber: there stode before the a great ymage / whose figure was maruailous great / and his visage gramine. ¶ The ymage heade was of fyne golde / his bust and armes of syluer / his body and legges were of copper / by his legges were of yron / his feete were parte of yron and parte of earth.

Mat. xxi. c

Luc. xx. b

This thou sawest / till tyme that without any bades / there was heuē of a stone / which smote the ymage upon the feete / that were both of yron and earth / a brake the to powder: then was the yron / the carth / the copper / & syluer a golde broken altogether in peeces and became like the chaffe of corn: that the winde bloweth awaye from the sommer flour: that they can no more be founde. ¶ But the stone that smote & ymage / became a great mountaine / which filled the whole earth: This is the dream. ¶ And now wilt thou see before the kinge what it meaneth.

Dan. v. b

¶ Thou art a kinge of kynges: for the God of heauen hath geue the kyngdome / ryche / strengthe and maistie: and hath deliuered the all thynges that are amonge the chyldren of men: the bestles of the felde / a the fowles vnder the heauen / and geuen the danielion ouer them all. ¶ Thou art that golde heade. ¶ After the there shall arise another kyngdome / which shall be lesse then thine. ¶ The thyrd kyngdome shall be lyke copper: and haue dominion in all lades. ¶ The fourth kyngdome shall be as stronge as yron. ¶ For lyke so yron busteth and breaketh all thynges: ¶ Vnto cūen as yron beareth curys thynges / vnto / so shall it beate Downe and Destroye.

Where as thou sawest the fete and totes / parte of earth and parte of yron: that is a deuoyd kyngdome / whose neuer thynges shall haue some of the yron grounde mixt with it / for so much as thou hast sine the yron myxt with the claye.

Detours of the fete that were parte of yron and parte of claye / signifyeth: that it shall be a kyngdome partly stronge and partly weak. ¶ And where as thou sawest yron myxt with claye: they shall myngle them selfes with the fete of synple people / a yet not conyng one with another / like as yron will not be soulered with a portherbe.

In the dayes of these kynges / shall the God of heauen set up an eternalinge kyngdome which shall not perishe / and his kyngdome shall not be geuen ouer to another people: ¶ Yet the same shall beate and Destroye all these kyngdomes / but it shall endure for euer.

And where as thou sawest / that without any handes there was cut out of the 7 mounte a stone / which brake the yron / the copper / the carth / the syluer and golde in peeces: that hath the great God smote the kinge what wil come after this. ¶ This is a true dream / and the interpretation of it is sure.

Then the kinge Nabuchodonosor / fell vnto Daniel upon his face / and bowed him self vnto Daniel / and commaunded that they shoulde offre meates / fringes and swete aboute vnto him.

The kinge answered Daniel and sayde: ¶ Vnto a truely / your God is a God aboue all goddes / a Lord aboue all kynges / and an opener of secretes: ¶ kyngs thou canst vnto uer this mysery. ¶ So the kinge made Daniel a great man / and gaue him many and great gyfte.

He made him ruler of all the countiees of Babilon / and lord of all the nobles that were at Babilon. ¶ Now Daniel increased the kyng for Syde / Music / and Admanga / so that he made them rulers ouer all the offices in the lande of Babilon: but Daniel him self remained shil in the court by the kinge.

The. iiii. Chapter.

Nabuchodonosor the kinge caused a golde ymage to be made / which was ly cubite bye / and six cubites thicke. This he made to be set up in the valley of Duran in the lande of Babylon / and sent out to gather together the rulers / lordes and nobles / the iudges and officers / the Berbers and priests / with all the rulers of the lande : that they might to the dedication of the ymage / which Nabuchodonosor the kynge had set up. So the rulers / lordes and nobles / the iudges and officers / Berbers and priests / with all the rulers of the lande gathered them together / and came vnto the dedication of the ymage / that Nabuchodonosor the kynge had set up.

Now when they stode before the ymage / which Nabuchodonosor set up / the bevelered out with all his might : O ye people / Fynnedes and tungenes / to you be it sayde : that when ye heare the noyse of the trompettes / which shall blowen / with harpes / psalteries / psalteries / symphonies and all maner of musicke : ye shall boune and worshipp the golde ymage / that Nabuchodonosor the kynge hath set up. Who so then falleth not boune and boweth him self / shall curre the same houre be cast into an hote burninge oven. Therefore / when all the folk herde the noyse of the trompettes that were blowne / with the harpes / psalteries / psalteries / symphonies and all kinde of melody : then all the people / Fynnedes and nations fell boune / and bowed them selues vnto the golde ymage / that Nabuchodonosor the kynge had set up.

Now were there certayne men of Caldees / that went euen then and accusd the Jewes / and saide vnto kynge Nabuchodonosor : O kynge / God saue thy lyfe for euer. Thou bringe kynge hast geuen a commaundement / that all men when they heare the noyse of the trompettes / harpes / psalteries / psalteries / symphonies / or all the other melodies : shall fall boune and bowe them selues towards the golde ymage : who so then fell not boune / or worshipped not / that he should be cast into an hote burninge oven. Now are there certayne Jewes / whom thou hast set ouer the office of the lade of Babylon : namely / Sydrac / Misac / and Abdenago. These men / so kynge regarde not thy commaundement / yet they wil not serue thy gods / nor bowe them selues to the golde ymage that thou hast set up.

Then Nabuchodonosor in a cruel wrath / a displeasure / commaundeth that Sydrac / Misac / and Abdenago should be brought vnto him. So these men were brought before the kynge. Then Nabuchodonosor spake vnto them / and sayde : wherfor Sydrac / Misac and Abdenago / will not ye serue my goddes : nor bowe youre selues to the golden ymage that I haue set up / wel / be ready hertafter / when ye heare the noyse of the trompettes blowne with the harpes / psalteries / psalteries / symphonies and all the other melodies : that ye fall doune / and worshipp the ymage which I haue made. But if ye worshipp it not / ye shall be cast immediately into an hote burninge oven. Let it / what god is there / that maye deliuer you out of my handes.

Sydrac / Misac and Abdenago answered the kynge / and sayde : O Nabuchodonosor / we ought not to consent vnto the in this matter / for : wherfore God whome we serue / is able to kepe vs from the hote burninge oven / (O kynge) and can right well deliuer vs out of thy handes. And though he wil not / yet shal thou knowe / (O kynge) that we will not serue thy goddes / nor do reuerence to the ymage which thou hast set up. This was Nabuchodonosor full of indignacion / so that the countenance of his face chaunged vpon Sydrac / Misac / and Abdenago. Therefore he charged and commaunded / that the oven should be made seuen tymes hotter then it was wonte to be : a spake vnto the strongest workmen that were in his hoste / for to build the oven / Misac / and Abdenago / and to call them into the hote burninge oven.

So these men were bounde in their clothes / hosen / shooes / with their other garnitures / and cast into the hote burninge oven : for the kinges commaundement was so stryct / and the oven was exceedingly hote. As for the men that put in Sydrac / Misac / and Abdenago / the flame of the fyre destroyed them. And these three men Sydrac / Misac and Abdenago fell doune in the hote burninge oven / beinge fast bounde.

Then Nabuchodonosor the kynge maruailed / and stode up in all haste : he spake vnto his counsaill / and sayde : Godd noyse / call these three men bounde into the fyre : They answered /

Nabuchodonosor/Balthasar. The prophet Daniel.

E and sayde vnto the Kinge: Yee / o Kinge. He auised me / and sayde: lo / for all that / yet do I se foure men goinge soule in the myddel of the fyre / and nothinge corrupte: I a the fourth is lyke an aungel to loke vpon. Vpon this wente Nabuchodonosor vnto the mouth of the hote burnynge ouen: he spake also / and sayde: O Sydrac / Misac / and Abdenago / ye seruantes of the God: go forth / and come hither. And so Sydrac / Misac and Abdenago w:nt out of the fyre. Then the Kinge / loded and nobles / and the kynge couysall came together to se these men / vpon whome I the fyre had no manner of power in their bodies: In so much that the very heere of their heade were not burnt / and their clothes vntchaunged / yet there was no smell of fyre felt vpon them.

Then spake Nabuchodonosor / and sayde: Blessed be the God of Sydrac / Misac and Abdenago: I which hath sent his aungel / and defended his seruantes / that put their trust in him: that hath altered the Kinges counoundements / and covered their bodies ther vpon / rather then they wolde serue or worshippe any other god / excepte their owne God onely.

Therefore I will and commande / that all people: kynnedes and tunges / which speake any blasphemy agaynst the God of Sydrac / Misac and Abdenago / shall dye / and their houses shall be desolate. Because / there is no God that maye saue as this. So the kynge promoted Sydrac / Misac and Abdenago in the lande of Babylon.

Nabuchodonosor: kynge vnto all people / kynnedes and tunges that dwell vpon the whole earth / yee: be multiplied amonge you.
 I thought it good to shewe the tokens and marvelous workes / that the hye God hath wrought vpon me. I O howe great are his tokens / and howe mighty are his wonderes: His Kingdome is an euerlasting Kingdome / and his power lasteth for euer and euer.

The. III. Chapter.
In Nabuchodonosor beyng at rest in myne house / and slo: in my palace / sawe a dreame / which made me afraid / and the thoughtes that I had vpon my bed / with the visions of myne heade / troubled me. Then sent I out a edmissiō / for all they which were of wysdome at Babylon shoulde be brought before me / to tell me the interpretation of the dreame. So there came the soothsayers / charmers / Caldees ad conuersors of deuile / to whom I tolde the dreame / but what it betoke-ned / they coude not shewe me: nil at the last / there came one Daniel / otherwise called Balthasar / accordinge to the name of my God / which hath the spere of the holy goddes in him: to whom I tolde the dreame / sayinge: O Balthasar / thou prince of soothsayers: sei so much as I knowe / that thou hast the spere of the holy goddes / and no secret is hid frō the tell me therfore / what the vision of my dreame that I haue sent / maye signifie. I sawe a vision in my heade vpon my bed / and beholde / there stode a tree vpo the grounde / which was verye / greate and mighty: the heighe reached vnto the heauen / and the decaye stended to all the endes of the earth: his leaues were sayde: he had very much fruite / so that euery mā had ynough to eat theron.

The beastes of the felds had shadowes vne-der it / a the fooles of the ayre dwelt in the bowes therof. Shortly / all creatures fed of it. I sawe in my heade a vision vpon my bed: / and beholde / a watcher / cū an holy aungel / came downe from heauē / a cried / mynely / sayinge: Howe downe the tree / beate of his decaye / B that of his leaues / a frater his frute aboue:
 that all the beastes maye get thier waye: frō vnder hyū / and the fooles from his bians-ches. Aluerthelce / leaue the grounde of his rote still in the earth / and bynde him vpon the playne felds / with chaynes of yron and stele.
 With the bowe of heauē shall be wece / and he shall haue his parte in the herbes of the groundes with ether wilde beastes.

That mans herbe of his shalbe taken from him / and a beastes herbe shall be giuen him / all seven yeres be come and gone vpon him.

This erande of the watcher / is a comman-demēt grounded and sought out in coun-sayll of hym / that is moost holy: to learne men for to vnderstande / that the best hath power ouer the kynngdomes of men / and geueth it to whome it liketh hym / and byngeth the very ouer-seer of men ouer thein. This is the dreame / that I kynge Nabuchodonosor haue seene.

Therfore o Balthasar / tell thou me what it signifieth / so: so much as all the wise men of my Kingdome are not able to shewe me what it meaneth. But thou canst do it / for the spirit of the holy godden is in the.

E Then Daniel / whose name was Balthasar / held his peace by the space of an houre / and his thoughts troubled hym. So the Kynge spake / and sayde: O Balthasar / let me ther the name: no: the interpretation thereof fearc the. Balthasar answered / sayinge: O my Lord / whio dreame happen to thine enemies / and the interpretation to thine aduer-saries. To for the tree that thou sawest / which was so greace and mighty / whose heyght reached vnto the heauen / and his bichth into all the world / whose leues were sayre / and the fruit much / vnder the which the bestien of the silde had their habitacion / and vpon whose boughes the fowles of the ayre dyd syt.

Euen thou (o Kynge) art the tree / greace and strong. Thy greatnesse increaseth / and reacheth vnto the heauen / so Voerth thy power to the endes of the earth. But where as the Kynge sawe a warcher / euen an holy aungel that came downe from heauen / and sayde: Hew downe the tree / and despoile it / yet leaue the grounde of the rote in the earth / and bynde hym upon the playne felde with chaynes of yon and sile. He shalbe met with the Jew of heauen / and his parte shalbe with the beasties of the felde / till scuen yeares be come and gone vpon hym. This (o Kynge) is the interpretacion / see it is the very decaye of him that is byest of all / and it souereth my loide the Kynge.

Thou shalt be cast out fro men / a thy dwel-linge shalbe with the bestien of the felde / with graffe shalt thou be sed like an oxe. Thou must be met with the Jew of the heauen / yee / scuen yeares shall come and go vpon the / till thou knowe / that the byest hath power vpon the Kingdomes of men / and geteth the to whom he list. Moreover / where as it was sayde / that the rote of the tree shoulde be left still in the grounde: it broketh / that thy Kingdome shal remayne whole vnto the / after thou hast learned to knowe that the power cometh from heauen. Wherefore (o Kynge) be content with my counsaill / that thou mayest loue thy syn-nes with righteousness / and thine offences with mercy to poore people: for such thinges shal prolonge thy peace. All these thinges told the Kynge Iabuchodonosor.

So after xii. monethes / the Kynge walked vp and downe in the palace of the Kingdome of Babylon / and sayde: This is the greates cite of Babylon / which I my self / with my power (strength) haue made a Kynge court / for the honoure of my maesty. Whye these wordes were yet in the Kynge mouth / there fell a voyce from heauen / sayinge: O Kynge Iabuchodonosor / to the be it spoken: Thy Kingdome shall departe from the / thou shalt be cast out of mines company: thy dwellinge shalbe with the beasties of the felde / so that thou shalt cate graffe lyke an oxe / till scuen yeares be come / and gone ouer the euen vntill thou knowest / that the byest hath power vpon the Kingdome of men / and that he maye geue the / vnto whom it pleaseth him.

The very same houre was this matter fulfilled vpon Iabuchodonosor: so that he was cast out of mines company / a dyd cate graffe like an oxe. His body was met with the dewe of heauē / till his heeres were as greace as Eagles feethers / and his nayles like byrde claws.

When this tyme was past / Iabuchodonosor lift vp myne eyes vnto heauen / and myne vnderstandinge was restored vnto me agayne. Then gaue I thanks vnto the byest.
I magnified and prayed hym that lyueth for euermore / I whose power endureth alwaye / O and bys Kingdome from one generation to another: in comparison of whome / all they that dwell vpon the earth are to be reputed as nothinge.

The hableth accordinge to his wil / amonge the powers of heauen / and amonge the impartours of the earth: a there is none that maye resiste his hande: for saye what doest thou? Job xij. b. the same tyme was myne vnderstandinge geuen me againe / and I was restored to the ho-noure of my Kingdome / to my dignite / and to myne owne shape agayne. Thy great estates and pynces sought vnto me / and I was set in my Kingdome agayne / so that I had yet greater worshippes.

Then dyd I Iabuchodonosor / magnise and praye the Kyng of heauen: for all his woikes are true/ and his wayes right. As for those I go on proudly / he is able to bringe them downe.

The V. Chapter.

Inter to his thousande loikes/ with al these thousande he made greates chere/ and when he was dronken with wyne / he commaunded to bringe him the golde and siluer vessell / which his father Nabuchodonosor had taken out of the temple at Jerusalem: that the kinge and his loikes (with his queene and concubines) myght drinke therout.

So they brought the golde vessell that was taken out of the temple of the Lo: Des house at Jerusalem. Then the kinge and his loikes with his queene and concubines dronke out of them. They dronke wyne and praysed their gods of golde/ siluer / copper/ yron/ woode/ and floure.

In verry same houre there appeared fyngers / so it had bene of a mans hande wunninge/ right ouer agaynst the candlestick / vpon the playne wall in the kinges palayce: the kinge sawe the palme of the hande that wrote. Then chaunged the kinge his countenance / and his thoughtes troubled him: so that the ioyntes of his body shoke/ and his knees smote one agaynst the other.

Wherefore the kinge crebd mightily / that by shoulde bringe him charmers / Caldees and conuicers of deuils. The kinge spake also to the wyse men of Babylon/ and said: Who so can rede this wyninge / a shewe me the playne meaninge therof: shalbe clothed with purple/ haue a chayne of golde aboute his necke / and rule the thirde parte of my Kingdome.

Upon this came all the kinges wyse men: but they coulde neither rede the wyninge / nor shewe the kyng what it signified. Then was the kinge sore afrayed / in so much that his colour chaunged / and his loikes were sore vexed. So by reason of this matter / that had happened to the kinge and his loikes / the queene went vpon her self into the banke house / a spake vnto the kyng / sayinge: O kyng / God saue thy life for euer: Let not thy thoughtes trouble thee / a let not thy countenance be chaunged. For why: there is a man in thy Kingdome / that hath the spere of the holy goddes within him / as it was seene in thy fathers dayes. He hath vnderstandinge and wysdome lyke the goddes. See the kyng Nabuchodonosor / thy father made this man chiefe of the sorceryers / charmers / Caldees and deuil conuicers: because that such an aboundant spere / knowlege and wysdome (to expounde dreames / to open secretes / and to declare harde doubtles) was seene in him: yee / euen in Daniel / whom the kyng named Balthasar. Let this same Daniel be sente for / and he shall tell what it meaneth.

Then was Daniel brought before the kyng. So the kyng spake vnto Daniel / and sayde: Let thou that Daniel / one of the prisoners of Iuda / whome my father the kinge brought out of Ieremy: I haue herde speake of the / that thou hast the spere of the holy goddes / experience and vnderstandinge / and that there hath bene greates wysdome founde in the. Now haue there bene brought me wyse and cunninge charmers to rede this wyninge / and to shewe me the meaninge therof: But they coulde not tell me what this matter signified. Then berde I saye / that thou canst expounde these thynges / and declare harde doubtles. Well than / if thou canst rede this wyninge / and shewe me the meaninge therof: thou shalt be clothed with purple / haue a chayne of golde aboute thy necke / and rule the thirde parte of my Kingdome.

Daniel answered / a / saide before the kyng: O I take for thy rewardes / kepe them to thy self / I will not receiue thy rewardes / yet not the lesse / I will rede the wyninge vnto the kyng / and shewe hym the interpretation therof. O kyng / God the best gaue vnto Nabuchodonosor / thy father the dignite of a kyng / with wisdome and honour: so that all people / kynges / redde and ninges shode in awe and feare of him / by reason of the bye estate that he had lent him. For why: he shewe whome he wolde: he smote whome it pleased him. Against whome he wolde / he set vp: and whome he list / he put downe. But because he herde was so poude / and his stomacke fell vnto wylfulnesse / he was deposed from his kyngly throne / and his maiesty was taken from him. He was hur out from amonge men / his

herre was like a beastie herre / and his dwelling was with the wilde asse: he was saine to eate grasse life an eye / and his body was wete with the dew of the heau: it he knewe / the byss had power vpo the kingdomes of men / and stretch ouer them whome he list.

E And thou his sonne (so Balthasar) for all this haste not submitted thine herre / though thou knewest all these thinges: but haste magnified thy self aboute the Lo: d of heauen / so that the vessels of his house were thought beside the: that thou and thy lordes / with thy queene and concubines / mighte drinke wyne therout. And hast played the Idols of siluer and golde / topper and yron / of woodde and stone / which can neither see / nor heare / nor vnderstande. In for the God / in whose hande consisteth thy Richth and all thy waies: thou hast not played him.

Therefore is the palme of this hande sente hither from him / to token vp this wyngge. And this is the scripture ther to written vpo: Mene / Chel / Phares. These the interpretation of the thinge is this: Mene / God hath numbered the kingdome / and brought it to an ende. Chel / Thou art wiced in the Belauce / and art founde to lye. Phares / Thy kingdome is hit in partes / and gauen to the Medes and Perses.

Then commaunded Balthasar to clothe Daniel with purple / to hang a dayn of gold aboute his necke / and to make a proclamation concerninge him: that he shoulde be the ruler of the thirde parte of his Kingdome. The very same mighte was Balthasar the kinge of the Caldeas slayne / and Darius out of Media toke in the kingdome beinge 137. years of age.

The VI. Chapter.

It pleased Darius to set ouer his Kingdome an C. and xx. lordes / which shoulde be in all his Kingdome aboute. Aboute these he set the princes / of whome Daniel was one / that the lordes mighte geue accomptes vnto them / and the kinge to be vndisfaised.

But Daniel exceeded all these princes and lordes / for the spete of God was plencours in him: so that the kinge was minded to set him ouer the whole realme. Wherefore the princes and lordes soughte to pycke out in

Daniel some quarrell agaynst the Kingdome / yet coulde they fynde none occasion nor faulte vpon him: for why / he was so faithfull / that there was no blame nor dysposyng found in him.

Then sayde these men / we shal get no quarrell agaynst this Daniel / excepte it be in the lawe of his God. Vpon this wente the princes and lordes together vnto the kinge / and sayde thus vnto him / Kinge Darius / God saue thy life for euer.

All the greates states of the realme / as the princes / Dulces / Senators and iudges / are determined to put oute a commaundement of the Kinge / and to make a sure statute / namely / that wo so desired any petition / or of any god or man (with in this thynke) vnto / excepte it be onely of the Kinge / the same person maye be cast into the Lyons Denne. Wherefore the Kinge / confirme thou this statute / and make a writinge: that the thinge which the Medes and Perses haue coudryned / be not altered nor broken.

So Darius made the writinge / and confirmed it. Howe when Daniel vnderstode that the writinge was made / he wente in to his house: and the wyndowes of his hall towards Jerusalem shod open. There kneled he vnto vpon his knees / the tymes a daye: there made he his petition / and prayd for his God lyke as his manner was to do afore tymes.

Then these men made searche / and founde Daniel makinge his pention / and prayenge vnto his God. So they came to the Kinge / at spaec before him concerninge his commaundement / sayinge: O Kinge / hast thou not subscribed the statute / that within xxx. dayes who so requirith his pention of any god or man / but onely of thy selfe / the Kinge: he shalbe cast into the Denne of the Lyons? The Kinge answered / and sayde: yea it is true. It must be as a lawe of the Medes and Perses / that maye not be broken.

Then answered they and sayde vnto the Kinge: Daniel one of the prisoners of Iuda (so Kinge) regardeth neither the one / nor the statute that thou haste made: but maketh his pention the tymes a daye. When the Kinge heerde these wordes / he was sore grieved / and wolde haue excused Daniel to deliuer him/and put of the matter/unto the Sunne went vpon one the instant that he might saue him.

These men perceaynge the kinges minde saide vnto him: knowe this (o kyng:) that the lawe of the Medes and Perses is/that the commandement and statute which the king maketh/may not be altered. ¶ Then the king had them byngge Daniel/and they caste him vnto the Lyons denne.

Dan. viii. 4

The kyng also spake vnto Daniel/and said: Thy God/whome thou alwaye seruest / euen he shal defende thee. And there was thought a stone/and layed vpon the hole of the denne: this the king sealed with his owne ringe/and with the signet of his princes: that the kinges commandement concerning Daniel/should not be broken.

So the kyng wente into his palaces/and kepte him sober all nyght / so that there was no table spied before him/ neyther could he take any slepe. But verye men in the monyng at the break of the daye / the kyng arose/and wente in all haiste vnto the denne of the Lyons.

Howe as he came nye vnto the denne / he cried with a pitous voyce vnto Daniel: see/the kyng saies/ and sayde vnto Daniel: O Daniel/thou seruant of the lymngge God: Is not thy God / whome thou alwaye ser-uest. able to deliuer thee from the Lyons? Daniel sayde vnto the kyng: O kyng/God saue thy lyfe for euer.

¶ Why God hath sent his angel / whiche hath pur the Lyons mourthe / so that they co kyng: I neuer offended the.

¶ Then was the kyng exceedingly glad/and commaunded to take Daniel oute of the denne. So Daniel was broughte oute of the denne/and no manner of hurte was founde vpon hym. For he put his trust in his God.
And as for those men which had accused Daniel/they kyng commaunded to bringe the/and to cast them in the Lyons denne: them/theyr children / and theyr wyues. ¶ So the Lyons had the mastery of them/and brake all their bones a sonder/so: euer they came at the ¶ After this/wrote kyng Darius vnto all Dan. xii people/tyrnedes and ringer: that vnder in power of the Lyons. This Daniel prospered in the raygne of Darius and Cyrus of

The VII. Chapter.

¶ In the fyfth yeare of Balthasar kyng of B Babilon/saue Daniel a dreame/and a visyon was in his heade vpon his bedde.
Whiche dreame he wrote / and the summe of the matter is this: Daniel spake/and saide: I saue in my visid by nyght / and beholde: the fourc wyndes of the heauen stroue vpon the see/and foure great beastes came vp from the see/one wilke another.

The first was a Lyon/and yet had he: * Dan. vii. 4 gloce wynges. I saue that his wynges were: * Dan. vii. 4 pluce from him / and he taken awaye from yb the earth: I so that he stode vpon his feete as I * Dan. vii. 4 saue a man/ and that there was geuen him a mystere.

Beholde / the seconde beaste was lyfe a † Beech/and stode vpon the one syde. Among po. viii his teeth in his mouth he had: the greate long teeth/and it was sayde vnto him: Arise / eate vp much flesh.

¶ Then I toke/and beholde/there was a nother lyfe vnto a Leopard: this had wyngges as a scale/tenen foure vpon the backe. Dan. vii. 4 ¶ This beaste had foure heades / and there was power geuen him. After this I saue in a vis-sion by nyght/and beholde: the fourth beaste was grimme and horrible / and maruylous stronge. It had greate yon teeth / it deuour-red and destroyed / and stamped the residue vnder feete. It was saue vnto the order beas-tes that were before it/for it had ten bouces / Dan. vii. 4 teheraf I toke good dede.

¶ And beholde/there came vp amonge them another lyfe boine/ before whome there were the

the of the fyrr domes plure awaye. Behold/ this boine had eyes lyke a man/ and a mouth speakinge presumptuous thinges. ¶ I looked nill the stones were prepared/ and yll the olde aged sat him vpon. His clothing was as white as snowe/ and the heeres of his heede was the pure wool.

His throne was lyke the fyrr flame/ and wyckes as the burnynge fyrr. There came forth a fyrr streame/ and wente out from him. ¶ A thousande tymes a thousande scrud him. ¶ Myrmes ten thousande slobde before him. The iudgement was set/ and the bookes opened. Then toke I hede thereunto/ because of the voyce of the proude woices/ which thus boine spake.

I behelde nill the beast was slayne/ and his body destroyed/ I and geuen ouer to be burnt in the fyrr.

As for the power of the other beastes also/ it was taken awaye/ but they lyke were prolonged for a tyme and season. ¶ I sawe in a vision by night/ and beholde: There came one in the cloudes of heauen lyke the sonne of a man/ which wente vnto the olde aged/ before whom he thoughte hym: Then gaue he hym power and dignite regall/ that all people/ trybes and kinges shoulde serue him.

This power is an euerlastynge power/ which shall neuer be put vpon: and his Kingdome shall endure in corrupte. My berre was viced/ and I Daniel had a troubled spacie within me/ and the visyons of my heade made me asfayed/ yll I gat me vnto ¶ one of them that shode by to knowe the trouth/ concerninge all these thinges. So he tolde me/ and made me understande the interpretation of these thinges.

These foure greare beastes are foure kinges/ which shall aryse out of the earth. These shall raigne in the kyngdome of the sayntes of the moost byest/ and possesse it still more and more for a longe season. After this I requyred diligently to knowe the trouth/ concerninge the fourth beast/ which was so farre vnto the other beastes/ as so horrible: whose teeth were of yron/ and his nayles of wysser/ which deuoured and destroyed/ and stamped the resydne vnder his feet. I desired also to knowe the trouth/ as touchinge the ten boines that he had vpon his heade/ and this other which came vp afterwarde / before whose face there fell vponne the: which boine had eyes and a mouth that spake presumptuous thinges/ and was with a grimace more visage then his fellowes.

I behelde/ and the same boine made battail against the sayntes/ and gat the victorye of them/ nill the tyme that the olde aged came/ that the iudgement was geuen to the sayntes/ sayntes: and in the tyme that the sayntes had the kyngdome in possession.

He gaue me this aunswere: That fourth beast shall be the fourth kyngdome vpon earth/ it shall be more then all other kyngdomes/ it shall deuoure/ treade vpon/ and destroye all other landes.

The ten boines are ten kynges that shall aryse out of that kyngdome/ after whome theye shall stande vpon another/ which shall be greaier then the first.

He shall subdue the kynges/ and shall speake wordes agaynst the byest of all: he shall destroye the sayntes of the moost byest/ and thynke that he maye chaunge tymes and lawes. Theye shall be geuen vnder his power/ vnto a tyme/ two tymes/ and halfe a tyme.

But the iudgemente shall kepe/ so that his power shall be taken from hym/ for he shall be destroyed/ and persyre at the last. As for the kyngdome/ power and all mighte that is vnder the heauen/ it shall be geuen to the holy people of the moost byest/ whose kyngdome is euerlastynge/ seculall powers shall serue and obeye hym. Thus sarre expende the woices.

Nevertheless/ I Daniel was so vexed in my thoughtes/ that my countenance chaunged/ thus the wordes I wrote shal in my booke be herre.

The VIII. Chapter.

¶ In the thide yere of the raigne of kyng I Balshasar/ there appeared a visyon vnto me Daniel/ after that I had sent the firste. ¶ I sawe in a visyon/ and when I sawe it/ I was at Susis in the chiefe cite which lyeth in the lande of Elam/ and in the visyon/ I sawe that I was by the ruer of Dlay.

Then I looked vp/ and sawe: and beholde there stood before the ryuer a ramme / whiche had hoornes: and these hoornes were hye / but one was hyer then another / and the myell came up last: I saw that this ramme pulsed with his hoornes agaynste the West / agaynste the North / and agaynste the South: so that no bestiall mighte stande before hym / nor we sende them from his power: but he byd as him lysed / and wayed greatly. I toke hede vnto this / and then came there an hegoate frō the West out the whole earthe / and touchyd not the grounde.

This goate had a maruailous goodly hoine betwixte his eyes / and came vnto the ramme that had the two hoornes / whome I had sent afor by the ryuer syde / and ranne fearfully vpon hym with his myght. I saw him draw nye vnto the ramme / byng very feare vpon him / yet he gaue him iudge a stroke / so that he brake his two hoines.

After he had the ramme so much strength as to stande before hym: but he colde hym vnto: trode hym vnder his fete: and no man was able to velyue the ramme out of his power.

Dan. vii. 4
and vii. 1
1. Mac. i. 2

The goate wayed exceedings greate / and when he was at the stronge / his great hoine was broken also. He grew there tother foure iudge lyke in the heade / towards the four wyn des of the heauen. Yet out of the least of these hoines there came up yet another horn / which wayed maruailous greates: warde the East towards the South / and towards the saynt pleasaunt lande. It grew up to the boole of heauen / wherof it byd cast some vnto the grounde / and of the starres also / and made the wynde fite.

Yet it grew up vnto the pynee of the boole / from whome the dailly offeringe was euen / and the place of his Sanctuarye casten vnto. And a certayne season was given vnto it / agaynste the dailly offeringe / because of wickednesse / that it mighte cast vnto the wynde to the grounde / and so to prosper in all thinges that it wynte about. Vpon this I herde one of the sayntes speake / whiche sayntes saide vnto one that asked this question.

How longe shall this vision of the daye by sacrifice / and of the waytunge ad homina tion endure: that the Sanctuarye and the pauer shall so be troden vnder foot? And he answered him: Vnto the threentye and the morninge / euen two thousande and the hundredth dayes: then shall the Sanctuarye be closed againe.

Nowe when I Daniel had seene this vision / and soughte for the vnderstandinge of it: beholde / there stood before me a thinge lyke vnto a man. And I herde a mans voyce in the ryuer of Vlay / whiche cryed / and sayde: O Gabriel make this man vnderstande the vision. So he came / and stood by me. But I was afeared at his comminge / as fel vnto vpon my face.

Then sayde he vnto me: O thou sonne of man / make wel / for in the last tyme shall this vision be fulfilled. Nowe as he was speakinge vnto me / I wayed saynt / so that I sancte vnto the grounde. But he toke holde vpon me / and set me up agayne / sayinge: Be holde / I will shewe the what shall happen in the laste warthe: for in the tyme appointed it shall be fulfilled.

The ramme whiche thou sawest with the two hoines / is the kynge of the Medes and Perses: but the goate is the kynge of Grekes lande: the great hoine that stood betwixte his eyes / that is the principall king. But wher as it brake / and foure other rose up in the heade: it is fyfthyng / that out of this people shall rise vp fower kyngdomes / but not so myghty: as it.

After these kyngdomes / whyle on godlynesse is a growyng: there shall arise a kynge of an vnshamefast face / whiche shall wyse in vayne speakinges.

He shall be myghty and stronge / but not in his own strenght. He shall be crosy about meane sure / and at that he goeth about / shall prosper: he shall slaye the stronge and holy people. And wher hee his craftnesse / shall be shal prosper in his hande / his herie shall be pauer / a manny one shall be put to death in his welbest. He shall stande up agaynste the pynee of pynce / but hee shall be destroyed without hande. And this vision that is shewed vnto the / is assured as the threentye and the morninge: therfore wyte thou up this sight / for it shall tyme longe as it cometh to passe.

Upon this was Daniel very saynte / so that I lase sicke cerayne voyes: but when I rose vp / I wrote about the tynges of Persia / and maruayled at the vision / neuer thelesse / no man knewe of it.

The. 1 X. Chapter.

D In the first yere of Darius the sonne of Achabassarus / whiche was of the side of the Medes / and was made kyng ouer the realm of the Caldres: Yee / euen in the first yere of his reigne / Daniel desired to knowe the yearly nombre out of the Bookes / wherof the Lord spake vnto Jeremy the prophet: that Ierusalem should be wast 170. yeres: and I turned me vnto God the Lord for to praye / and made myne intercession with fasting / sackcloth / and askes. I prayed before the Lord my God / and knowledged / sayinge.

O Lord / thou greate and fearfull God thou that kepst conuenaunt and mercy with them / whiche loue thee / and do thy commaundments: We haue sinned / we haue offended / we haue bene disobedient / a gaine backe: yee we haue departed from all thy preceptes and iudgements.

We wolde neuer folowe thy seruantes the prophets / that spake in thy name to oure kynges and princes / to oure fowthfathers / and to all the people of the lande. O Lord / righteousnesse be longerth vnto thee / vnto vs per sayntes / nor thynges but open shame: as it is come to passe this daye vnto every man of Iuda / and to them that dwell at Ierusalem.

Yee / vnto all Israel / wherby they be scarre on yve: thow oure all landes / wherain thou hast sheweth them / because of the offences that they had done agaynst thee.

Yee / O Lord / vnto vs / to oure kynges / a pynnes / to oure fowthfathers: euen to vs all / that haue offended the belidged open shame.

But vnto the Lord our God / per sayntes / mercy and forgiveness. As for vs / we are gone backe from him / and haue not obeyed the voyce of the Lord our God / so walke in his lawes / I whiche be layd before vs by his seruantes the prophets: yee / all Israel haue transgressed / and gone backe from thy lawes: so that they haue not returned vnto thy voyce.

Wherefore the curse and oorb / that is writ: Deut. xxxii / ten in the lawe of Moses the seruante of God: God / against whome we haue offended / is Leuit. xxvi / poured vpon vs. And he hath performed Baru. ii / a his wordes / whiche he spake agaynst vs / and agaynst oure iudges that iudged vs / to bringe vpon vs / such a greate plague / as neuer was vnder heauen / yf as it is now come to passe in Ierusalem. Yee / all this plague / as it is writen in the lawe of Moses / is come vpon vs. Yet made we not oure prayer before the Lord our God / that we might turne again from oure wickednesse / and to be learned in thy verine. Therefore hath the Lord made hast to bringe this plague vpon vs: for the Lord our God is righteous in all his workes / whiche he doeth: so why we wolde not haue ten vnto his voyce.

And now / O Lord / our God / thou that with a mighty hande / hast brought vs by Bar. ii / people out of Egypte / to geethy selfe a name: 1 2 3 4 / whiche remayneth this daye: we haue sinned 1 2 3 4 / O Lord: and done wickedly agaynst all thy righteousnesse: yet let thy wrathfull displeasure be turned awaye / C Beside this / I from thy cite Ierusalem thy holy hill. And why: for oure synnes sake / and for the wickednesse of oure fowthfathers / to Ierusalem / and thy people abhorred of all them that are aboute vs. Now therefore / O our God / heare the prayer of thy seruants / and his intercession: O let thy face shyne ouer thy sanctuary that is wast.

O my God / encline thine eare / and hearken / at the leest / for thine owne sake. Open thine eyes: beholde how we be desolate / yee / and the cite also / whiche is called after thy name: for we do not call oure prayers before thee: in oure owne righteousnesse / no: but only in the greate mercies: O Lord / heare / O forgive / O Lord: O Lord / come / stay not oure longer: but for thine owne sake / O my God: for thy cur and thy people is called after thy name.

In this was yet speakinge at my prayere / 2 / knowyng myne owne synnes / and the synnes of my people / makinge for myne intercession before the Lord my God / for thy holy bulke / sake of my God: whyle I was yet speakinge in my prayere / beholde / the man 2 / whome

The Prophet Daniel.

Dan. vi. c. (Whome I had sene afore in the visyō) came kynge to me/ and touchēd me aboute the offeringe tyme in the eueninge. He inourmed me/ and spake vnto me. O Daniel (saide he) I am now come to make the vnderstande in thy sojorne as thou beganst to make thy prayer: was so besyded/ and therefore am I come to free the. And why? for thou arte a man greatly beloued.

Dan. vi. c. b. Wherefore/ pōnde the matter well that thou mayest learne to vnderstande the visyō. I see thy wofes are vttermed ouer thy people/ and ouer thy holy ome: that the wickednesse maye be consumed/ that the synne maye haue an ende/ that the offence maye be reconciled/ and so bringe in euery synge righteousnesse/ to fulfill the visyōns and the prophesies/ and to anoynte the most holy ome. Vnderstande this then/ and marke it well: that from the tyme it shalbe concluded/ to go and repaye Jerusalem agayne/ vnto the hill (as the anoynted) pynceribere shalbe seuen weekes. Ten thē shal the strete and wallē be builded agayne: seuen/ but with hard/ troublous nme. After these se- uen weekes shal Christ be slaine/ and they shall haue no pleasure in him. Then shal there come a people with the pynce/ and destroye the tyme and the Sanctuary: and his ende shall come as the water floude. But the beforsaion shall continue tyll the ende of the battle.

1. 2. 10. 4. b. It shal make a stronge bonde with many/for the space of a week: and when the week is halfe gone/ he shall put rouine the slayne and meate offerings. And in the tēple there shalbe an abominable desolacion/ till it haue be-destroyed. And it is concluded/ that this war-syngē shal continue vnto the ende.

The X. Chapter.

2. 2. 1. b. In the thirde yere of kynge Cirus of Persia/ there was shewed vnto Daniel a conuersor called Balthasar/ a marter/ yee/a true namer/ but it is yet a longe tyme vnto it.

He vnderstode the matter well/ and percea-ued what the visyō was. At the same tyme/ I Daniel mourned for the space of thre weekes/so that I had no lust to cate bread: for flesh was gone/ there came none within my mouth: And I had not once anoynted my selfe/ till the whole the weekes were out.

Upon the seuen daye of the fyfte moneth/I was by the greake floude/ called Tigris.
 I lyfte vp myne eyes and looked/ and beholde/ Dan. vi a man clothed in lynnym/ whose loynes were 2. 2. 1. b. girded vp with fyne golde of Arabi: his body was lyke the Chrysolite stone/ his face (to loke vpon) was lyke hyacinthe/ his eyes as the flame of fyre/ his armes and hys were lyke a sayre gyltynge metall/ but the voyce of his wordes was lyke the voyce of a multitudine.

I Daniel alone sawe this visyō/ * the omen that were with me sawe it not: but a Dan. vi greake fearfulnesse fel vpon them/ so that they 2. 2. 1. b. fled away/ and hyd them selfes. I was leste there my selfe alone/ and sawe this greake vosyō/ so longe till there remayned no moie: strengthe within me: yee/ I lost my colour cleane/ I wayted away/ and my strengthe was gone. Yet herde I the voyce of his wor-des: and as soone as I herde it/ sayntnesse came vpon me/ and I fell vnto flat to the grounde vpon my face. And beholde/ an had touchēd me/ whiche set me vp vpon my knes/ and vpon the palmes of my handes sayinge vnto me: O Daniel/ thou wast de- Dan. vi luded man: reke good hede of the wordes that I shal saye vnto the/ and stande right vp/ for vnto the am I now sent.

And when he had saide these wordes/ I stode vp tremblinge. Then saide he vnto me: feare not Daniel: for why? since the first waye eate thou sit the herre to vnderstande/ and vnderstande the selfe before the God: thy was becomen the herde. And I had come vnto the herde/ thou beginnest to speake/ had nor the pynce ouer the Kingdome of the Persia withstande me: I saye. But I see the Michaell one of 2. 2. 1. b. the chief pynces came to helpe me/ him haue Dan. vi I left by the kynge of Persia/ and am come to free the/ what shal happen vnto thy people in the latter daies: for it will be longe yet of the visyō be fulfilled.

Nowe when he had spoken these wordes vnto me/ I cast vnto my heade to the grou-nde and bowed my kynge. Behold/ there vnto dedd my lippen one/ very lyfe vnto a man.
 Then opened I my mouth/ and saide vnto him that stode before me/ O my lorde/ my loyners are loosed in the vision/ and there is no more strength within me: How maye my loide forsauke the talk with my loide: sing there is no strength in me/ so that I can not take my breath: Upon this there touched me againe/ one much lyke a man/ and comforted me saying: O thou man so well beloued/ feare not the content/ take a good here vnto the/ and strange. So when he had spoken vnto me/ I recouered/ and sayde: Speake on my loide/ for thou haile refreshed me. Then sayde he/ know what thou wherefor I am come vnto the:

 now will I go agayne to fight with the prince of the Perses. As soone as I go forth/ so the prince of Babilonde shal come.
 Neuerthelesse/ I will therer the the thinge that is fast noted in the scripture of truth.
 And as for al yonder matters/ there is none that helpe me in them/ but Michael youre prince.

The XI Chapter.

And in the first yeare of Darus of Me-dias/ I sode by hym/ to comforte him/ and to strengthe him: and now will I shewe the the truth. Beholde/ there shall stande up yet the Kinges in Persia/ but the fourth shalbe farre richer then they al. And when he is in the chiefe power of his riches/ he shal prouide enemy man against the realme of Babilonde.
 Then shal there arise yet a mighty King/ whar shall rule with great Dominion/ and he what hym self. I And as soone as his Kingdome commeth up/ it shalbe destroyed/ and decayed toward the four wyndes* of the heauen. They that come after him/ shall not haue such power and Dominion as he: but his Kingdome shalbe feared/ yet euen as muche as they those. And the Kinge of the South shalbe mightyer then his other princes. Againste him there shall one make him self stronge/ and shal rule his Dominion with great power.

But after certayne yeares they shalbe ioyned together/ and the Kinge Daughter of the South shall come to the Kinge of the North/for to make friendship/ but she shall not aptaine the power of that arme/ neither shall she be able to endure thowme his mighte/ but she shalbe subde as though she her/ yet/ and he that beget her/ and comforted her for his tyme/shalbe deliuered up. Out of the boundes of her roze/ there shal one stande up in his stead:

 which with power of armes shall go thowme the Kinges lande of the North/ and handle him accordinge to his strength. As for theys Iobas and princes/ with their costly ieruels of golde and siluer/ he shall carry them awaye captiues into Egypte/ and he shall prouide against the Kinge of the North certayne yntres. And when he is come into the Kinges realme of the South/ he shalbe keyne to turne agayne into his owne lande. Wherefor his sonnes shalbe displeasid/ and shal gather together a mightye great booste of people/ and one of them shall come/ and go thowme like a waterflood: then shall he returne/ and go forth with vengeance/ and booting vnto his owne lande.

Then the Kinge of the South shalbe angrye/ and shall come south to fighte againste the Kinge of the North: yet/ he shall bringe a great multitude of people together/ and a great heape shalbe gotten into his hande: these shall be carry awaye with great preyde/for so muche as he hath cast. Some so many thousandes/ neuerthelesse/ he shall not pro-uide. For the Kinge of the North shall gether of the newe/ a greater heape of people then al/ and come south/ after a certayne tyme and yeares/ with a mighty boost and exceadinge great good.

At the same tyme there shall many stande up against the Kinge of the South/ so that the wicked children of thy people also shall exalte them selfes/ so fulfyll the wisdom/ and then salve. So the Kinge of the North shall come to laye sege/ and to take the stronge steeet cities.
 And the power of them of the South shall not be able to abyde him/ and the best man of the people shall not be so stronge/ as to resist him. Shortly/ when he commeth/ he shall handle hym as he list/ and no man shalbe so hardy as to stande againste hym. He shall stande in the pleasaunt countrey/ which thowrow him shalbe destroyed. He shall set his face west all his power to oppress his Kingdome/and to be lyfe it. Yet/ that shall he do/and gett hym vnto the Daughter amonge women/ to destroye hym. But he shall faile/nether shal he obtain his purpose. After this shall

shall be set his face vnto the Hea / and take many of them. A pounce shall stoppe him to do him a shame, & they be the confusion that els shall come vnto him. Thus shall he turne againe to his owne lande / stumbe and fall / and be no more founde: so be that came vpon him / and vsd him violence / shall stand in his place / and haue a pleasaunt kyngdome: and after fewe dayes he shall be destroyed: and that nye ther in weath nor in battayll. In his scabbe there shall arise a vile persone / not holden worthy of a kynges dignite: this shall come in craftis / and obtayne the kyngdome with fayre wordes: he shall fyghte agaynst the armes of the myghtye (and destroye them) ge / and agaynst the pynce of the conuenaunt.

So after that he hath take trespasse with him / he shall handle vncosfully / that he maye gett vp / and ourcome him with a small flocke: and so with croffynesse to gett him to the farrest place of the lande: and to deale otherwyse / then eithur his fathers or groundfathers vsd. For he shall destroye the thinge that they had robbed and spoiled: yee / all they: substaunce: ymagynynge thoughtes agaynst the strongholdes / and that for a tyme. His power and vertue shall be sleared vp with a greates army agaynst the kyng of the South / where there shall be the kyng of the South shall be moued then vnto thame / with a greates and myghty hoste also. Neuertheless he shall not be able to stande / for they shall conspire agaynst him. Yee they that care of his meate / shall hurte him: so that his hoste shall fall and many be slayne vnto.

These two kynges shall mynbed to do myghtie / and talke of vncleat at one table: but they shall not prosper: for why / the ende shall not come yee / onto the nare appointed. The shall be go home againe into his owne lande with great good: and set his herce agaynst the holy conuenaunt: he shall be busy agaynst it / & when returne home. At the tyme appointed he shall come agayne / and go toward the South: So shall it happen otherwyse then at the first yet once agayne. And why / the shippes of Egiptim shall come vpon him / that he maye be synnen and turne agayne / that he maye take indignacion agaynst the conuenaunt of holynes / to medle agaynst it: yee / he shall turne him / and thame such vnto him as leaue the holy conuenaunt.

He shall set myghtye men to vnbalowe the Sanctuary of strengthe / to put vnto the daye of strynges / and to set vp the abhominable desolation. And such as shall be the conuenaunt / shall be flatter with fayre wordes. But the people that will knowe they / Gods / shall haue the overhande and prosper: & those al that haue vnderstandinge among the people / shall enfourme the multitude: and for a longe season / they shall be persecuted with swordes / with fyre / with captiuitie / and with the trespasse awaye of theyr goodes. Howe when they fall / they shall set vp with a lytle helpe: but many shall cleue vnto them saynly.

Ye some of those which haue vnderstandinge / shall be persecuted also: that they maye be tryed / purged and clenst / till the tyme be oute: for there is yet another tyme appointed. The kyng shall be what him self / he shall. false and magnifie himselfe agaynst all that is God. Yee he shall speake manye vaine thinges agaynst the God of a goddes: where in he shall prosper: so longe till the tyme shall be fulfilled: so the conclusio is deused already. He shall not regarde the God of his fathers: but his lust shall open women. Yee he shall not care for any God / for he shall magnifie him selfe aboue al. In his place shall be worshipp the myghty Idole: a the God whome his fathers knewe not / shall be honoure with golde and syluer / with precious stones and pleasaunt Jewels.

This shall be do / for kyng helpe and succour / at the myghty Idole and straunge goddes. Such as will receaue him / and take bym for God: he shall geue them greates worshipp: a power: and make them lordes of the multrude: and geue them the lande with rewarde. In the latter tyme shall the kyng of the South streue with bym / and the kyng of the North in lyke maner: that come agaynst him with charrettes / hoisens / a with greates many of shippes. He shall come into the lande / destroye and go thow: he shall entre also into the fayre pleasaunt lande: & manye cities and countrees shall decay: & excepte the North

He shall stretch forth his handes vpon the countries/ and the lands of Egypte shall not scape him/ for thou art his goinge in/ he shall haue Dominion ouer the treasures of silver and golde/ and ouer all the precious Jewels of Egypte/ Lybia/ and Ethiopia. ¶ Heuertheless/ the yringes out of Hell as the North shall trouble him/ for the which cause he shall go forth to the strye and curse a greate multitude. ## The XII. Chapter.

In the same will come also/ that the great punice Michael/ which standeth on thy peoples syde/ shall arise vp/ for there shall come a tyme of trouble/ such as neuer was/ since there begane to be any people/ vnto that same tyme. Then shall thy people be deliuered/ yee all that be founde wyrtten in the booke. ¶ Many of the that slepe in dust of the earth shall awake/ some to everlastinge lyfe/ some to perperuall shame and reprofe. ¶ The wyse/ (such as haue taughte other) shall glister/ as the shynynge of beaues/ and those that haue instructed the multitude vnto godlynesse/ shall be as the starres/ which without ende.

B And thou O Daniel/ stur vp these wordes/ and scale the booke til the last yme. Many shal go aboute here and there/ and then shal knowe lyge increace. So I Daniel lokt/ a beholde/ there stode other two/ one vpon the righte syde of the water/ the other vpon yonder syde. And one of the sayde vnto him/ which was clothed in lynny and stode aboue vpon the waters of the floude: How longe shal it be to the ende of these wonderous woorkes? Then herde I the man with the lynny clothes/ which stode aboue vpon the waters of the floude: when he hade vp his righte and left hande vnto heauen/ and swaue by him which saych for cure: That it shall vary for a tyme/ two tymes/ and halfe a tyme: and when the power of the holy spirit be cleane feared aboade/ then shall all these thinges be fulfilled.

C I herde it well/ but I vnderstode it not. Then sayde I: O my lord/ what shall happ after that: He answered: Go thy waye O Daniel/ for these wordes shall be closed vp and sealed all the last tyme: a many shal be purified/ clenfed and tried. But the vngodly shall lyue wretchedly/ and those wretched (as many of the Mat. 24. 8) as they be/ shall haue no vnderstandynge: as for such as haue vnderstandynge/ they shall regard it. And from that tyme forth the dayly offeringe shall be put doune/ and the abhominable desolation set vp/ there shall be a thousande two hundred and se. dayes. ¶ It well is hym that was reth/ and cometh to the thousande thre hundred and fyue a thysyde dayes. Go thou thy waye now/ till it be ended: staue thy selfe/ a byde in thy tor/ till the dayes haue an ende.

Ose. vi. b. But the pyde of Israel will be rewarded him in his face/ yee both Israel and Ephraim shall fall for their wickedness/ and Iuda with them also. They shall come with their shepe and bullockes to seke the Lorde/ but they shall not fynde him/ for he is gone from them. As for the Lorde/ they haue refused him/ and brought vp blasphemous children: a moneth therefore shall he scourge them with their peccations.

B Blowe with the shearmen at Gaba/ and with the trompe in Rama/ crye out at Bethauen vpon the ponside of Bet Janim. In the tyme of the plague shall Ephraim be layed wast/ therefore sayd I faithfully warne the synners of Israel. Yet are the synners of Iuda become like the sparrenious/ and landmarckes/ therefore will I poure out my wrath vpon them like water. Ephraim is oppressed/ can haue no tithes of the same: for why? they followe the desires of men. Therefore will I be vnto Ephraim as a moth/ and to the house of Iuda as a cankerpillar.

Deut. p. c. deut. xxx. c. When Ephraim sawe his sickness/ and Iuda his disease: Ephraim went vnto Asur/ and sent vnto kinge Zarc: yet could he not be helpe you/ nor ease you of youre payne. I am vnto Ephraim as a Lyb/ and as a Lyons whelp vnto the house of Iuda. When I will speere them/ and go my waye. I will take the with me/ and no man shall rescue them. Job. v. b. I will reuocate/ if they shall seke me/ saye I will reuocate/ I will not turne agayne to the Lorde: for he hath smitten vs/ and he shall heale vs: he hath wounded vs/ and he shall bynde vs vp againe: after two dayes shall he quicken vs/ in the thirde daye he shall raise vs vp/ so that we shall lye in his sight. Then shall we haue vnderstandinge/ and endeavour our selues to knowe the Lorde. He shall goe so: as if springe of the dreye/ and come vnto vs/ as the eueninge and morninge rayne vpon the carth.

Prou. xv. b. O Ephraim/ what shall I do vnto the? O Iuda/ how shall I reuocate the? kyng your loue is like a morninge cloude/ and like a dew that goeth early awaye. Therefore haue I cutt downe the prophets/ and leaue them be slayne for my words sake: so that thy punishment shall come to light. For I haue pleasure in louing kindness/ not in offerings. Yee in the knowledge of God more then in burnt offerings. But euen like as Adam dyd/ so haue they broken my conuainces/ for me as mighte. Galaad is a cite of wicked doers/ of malicious people and bloodshedders. The multitude of the priestes is like an heape of threes/ murderers and blood thirsty: for they haue wrought abominacion. Horrible things haue I sene in the house of Israel/ there playeth Ephraim the harlot/ and Israel is defiled: but Iuda shall haue an harvest for which I will turne the captiuitie of my people.

The VII. Chapter.

Mat. x. i. c. When I vnderstode to make Israel whole/ by the vngrauousness of Ephraim and wickednes of Samaria cometh to light: they go they about with a bowe. In home they are thees: and without they fall to rebelling. They conside not in their heeres that I remedie all their wickednes. They go about with their owne inuencion/ but I see them without. They make the kinge and the prince to haue pleasure in their wickednes and yces. All these burne in aduoury/ as it were an ouen that baketh heartily when he hath lye in burninge/ till the bowe be leuended. When so goeth it this daye with our kinge and prince/ for they begynne to be woode drunken thow they were familiar with such as decaie them. They with the magnacion of their heere are like an ouen/ their slepe is all the night like the stepe of a baker/ in the morninge to be as hotte as the flame of fyre: they are also together as hote as an ouen.

They haue deuoured their owne iudgement/ their fingers are salt: yet is there none of the callers vpon me. Therefore must Ephraim be nupte amonge the heathen. Ephraim is become like a cake/ no man turneth: strangers haue deuoured his strenght/ yet he regardeth it not he waxeth full of gray heeres/ yet will he not knowe it: a pyde of Israel is cast downe before their face/ yet will they not turne to the Lorde their God/ nor seke him for all this.

Ephraim

C Ephraim is like a dove that is beguiled / and hath no berre: How call they vpon the Egyptians now go they to y<sup>e</sup> Assyrians: but while they be goinge here and there / I shall speake my reuour therein: and thare them vaine as the foales of the ayre: and accordinge as they haue so onto them / for they haue forsaken me. They must be destroyed / for they haue set me at naught: ¶ I am he that haue redeemed them / and yet they byssible with me. * They call not vpon me with their berres / but yete bou-together its to but for meate and wyne / a me will they not obeye: I haue saught them / and defended their armes / yet do they ymagin mis-chiefe against me. They turne them selues / but not a nyght: and are become as a broken botte.

 Their pynnes shall be slayne with the swerde / for the malice of their rygges / such blasphemies haue they learned in the lande of Egypte.

 their selues to destruction.

¶ They calfe (O Samaria) shalt be taken a-Itra: the woifeman made it / therefore can it be a mad man: so greate is your wickednes and

Esa. 4 / Israel was a goodly vine / but he hath soughte forth vnprofitable frutes / yet / the more frute he had / the more aulsters he made: the more good I byd to theyr laude / the more feynshippe stemed they to their ymagos. Their herte is bewylded / therefore will they be destroyed. The Lorde shall make Doune their ymagos / he shall destroye their aulsters. Then shall they saye: we haue no kynge / for why: we haue not feared the Lorde. And what shall then the kynge do to vs? They come mou together / and sweare vnto oother: they be cōfederate together / therefore groweth their punishment / as the weeds in the fowwes of the lande.

The best places of Ieruen where Israel do synne / shall be calli Doune: iusticia and thornes shall growe vpon their aulsters. Then shall they crye to the mountains: come: come vnto us / the hilles shall open vnto vs. O Israel / thou hast synned / as Gaaba byd afore vnto / where they remayned: shouldst not the battayl then come vpon the wicked childre / as wel as vpon the Gabaonites? I will dyspe the / euen after mine owne desire: the people shall be gathered together vnto them / when I prouise the for that great wickednes. Ephraim was vnto me as a lowe that is byd to go to plow / therefore I laced him / and set vpon his seaze necke. I boue Ephraim. Iuda plowed / a Jacob played the howse bande man: that they mighte some vnto righteousnes / and reape frutes of wyldeingre / that they mighte plowe vpon their frute lande / a like the Lorde id he came / and learned them righteousnes.

But now they haue plowed their wickednes / therefore shall they recepe synne / and eate the frute of synne. Oinge thou punissh thy confidence in thine owne waye / and leaust to the multitude of thy worthies: there shall growe a kēdren amonge thy people. All the stronge citis shall be leered wayis / euen as T Salmana Iuda was destroyed with his familiaris / I show him that was awenged of Baal / in the daye of battayl / where the mother perished with hir chylidren. Howe therefore saith the Lozde: Turne you vnto me with all your heertes / with fastinge / weepinge and mourninge: rent your hertes / and not your clothes. Turne you vnto the Lozde your god: for he is gracious and mercifull / longe sufferinge / & of great compassion: I ready to pardon wickednes. And the tyme shall come: that I will ouer call Ierusalem / for vpon the mount Sion / and at Ierusalem / there shall be a saluation: like as the Lozde hath promised: yee / and among the other remnant / whome the Lozde shall call.

E Therefore thus sayeth the Lorde God: This lande shall be troubled and beseged round aboute: theyr strength shall be plucked from the / and theyr palaces robbed. Thus sayeth the Lorde: I will send an hyrdeman taketh two legges / as a peece of ane care out of the Lyons mouth: I will so the chyldean of Israel (that dwell in Samaria) hauinge their couches in the corner / and they: widdes at Samaria.

The III. Chapter.

Here this woode / o ye fat fyne / that be upon the hill of Samaria: / see that do poore men wronge / and oppresse the needy / ye that saye to youre loodes: Byngye hyber / let us bynt. Therefore the Lorde hath sworne By his holinesse: The dayes that come upon you / that ye shall be lifte upon speares / and youre posterne caried awaye in fysher panyers. Ye shall get you out at the gappes one after another: and in Hermon shall ye be caste awaye / sayeth the Lorde.

B Ye came to Bethel for to worke vngodnesse / and haue increased youre synnes at Bethel. Ye thoughte youre sacrifices in the morninge / and youre rythes onto the hyde / daye. Ye made a thank offeringe of leuen / ye promised fre will offeringe / and proclaymed them: Suche luste had ye / o ye chyldean of Israel sayeth the Lorde God. Therefore haue I given you yble reth in all youre cities / and lowrenesse of breaden in all youre places: yet will ye not turne vnto me / sayeth the Lorde. When there were but thre monethes vnto / haue I / I wish helde the rayne fro you: yet I rayned vpon one cite / and nor vpon another: there one peece of grounde was moystured th / rayne / and the ground that I rayned not vpon / was drye. Wherefore two / ye / the / cytes came vnto one to drinke water: but they were not sentysed / yet will ye not turne vnto me / sayeth the Lorde.

I haue smeten you with drought and blasting: and loke howe many oardbes / vines / yardes / fygge trees / a olyue tree / ye had: the cam pillar hath eaten them up. But ye will ye not turne vnto me / sayeth the Lorde. Persistence haue I sent amonge you: / as I byd in Egypte: your yongc men haue I slayne / the / sweards / and caused youre houses be telfe captiue: I made the synchinge / saoure of youre tenes / to come up into your noses: but ye will ye not turne vnto me / sayeth the Lorde. Some of you haue I ouerthrowen / as I ouerthrowe Sedome / and Gomore: so that ye were as a shende / ye plucke out of the fyre. Ye will ye not turne vnto me / sayeth the Lorde. Therefore thus will I handle the agayne (O Israel) yet / euen thus will I handle the. Make the ready then to meete by God: O Israel. For loke make the mountaynes / be / dayner the wynde / be weyth man what he is aboute to be: he maketh the morninge and the barckens: he reacheth vpon the hie places of the earth: he Lorde God of hostes his name.

The V. Chapter.

Here this woode / o ye house of Israel / I And why: I muste make this mene so for you: The vyrgin Israel shall fall / and neuer rise up agayne: she shall castle downe vpon her owne ground / and no man shall helpe her up. For thus sayeth the Lorde God: Where as there dwelt a Man in one cite / there shall be left scarce an C. therein: a wythe there dwelt an C. there shall scarce ten dwelt for the house of Israel. Neerethes / thus sayeth the Lorde vnto the house of Israel: Cease after me / and ye shall lyue. But seke not after Bethel. Come nor at Galgal / and go not to Bersabe: for Galgal shall be caried awaye captiue / and Bersabe shall come to naught. Cease / Lorde: that ye

So their next kynselfes: a the dead buriers shall take them: and carry away their bones: and saye vnto him that is in the yonger house: is there yet any mo by the? And he shall aunswere: they are all gone: holde thy tongue: (shal be saye) / for they wolde not remember the name of the Lord.

Who can raine with besse: or plowe wth oxen vpon the harde rockes of stone? For why? ye haue turned true iudgemente into bitternesse: and the frute of righteousnesse into wormewood. See: will ye that reioice in vaine thinges: ye that saye: haue not we openned boies in our ouer strenght: Well: take hede o ye house of Israel: saith the Lord God of hostes: I will bringe a people vpon you: wch shall trouble you / from the waie that goeth towards Hemath: vnto the bryke in the midawe.

To gaue: the Lord: shewed me this vision: beholde: the Lord: God called the sye to punishe venall: and it reuoured the greate shep: yet it consumed a parte already. Then sayde I: O Lord: God: holde thy hande: for who shoulde els helpe vp Jacob that is brought so lowe: So the Lord: was mercifull therein: and the Lord: God sayde well: it shall not be.

The first Chapter.

Gen. xij. c

The worde of the Loide came vnto Jonas the sonne of Amithay sayinge: Arise/ and get thee to Ni-nue that great citie: and preach vnto it / how that their wickednesse is come before me. And Jonas made him ready to the vnto Tharsis from the presence of the Loide/a quart houn vnto Toppa: where he founde a shippe ready for to go vnto Tharsis. So he payed his fare / and wente aborde / that he myght go with them vnto Tharsis / from the presence of the Loide. But the Loide hurled a great wynde into the see / and there was a mighty tempest in the see: so that the shippe was in jeopardy of goinge in peeces. Then manyners were asayed / and cried euery man vnto his God / a the goodes that were in the shippe / they cast it into the see to lighten it of the burthen. But Jonas gat hym vnder the banckes / where he layed hym vnto and slombred.

B So the maister of the shippes came to him and sayde vnto hym: why slombrest thou?
Thy call vpon thy God: if God (happily) will shinke vpon vs / that we perishe not. And they sayde one to another: come / let vs cast lottes: that we maye knowe for whose cause we are thus troubled. And so they cast lottes / and the lot fell vpon Jonas.

Then sayde they vnto him: tell vs for whose cause are we thus troubled: what is thine occupation: whence comest thou: what countreman art thou: a of what nation: He answered them: I am an Hebreu / and I feare the Loide God of heauen: which made both the see and these landes. They were the men exceedingly asayed / and sayde vnto hym: why hiddest thou so? (for they knewe that he was fled from the presence of the Loide / because he had tolde them) and sayde mouer vnto hym: What shal we do vnto the / that the see maye cease from troublinge vs: (for the see wrought and was troublous) he answered the: Take me / and cast me into the see / so shall it let you be in rest: for I wote it is for my sake that this great tempest is come vpon you.

Nevertheless the men stayed with rowyng to bringe the shippe to lande: but it wolde not be / because the see wrought so / and was so troublous agaynst them. Wherefore they crewd vnto the Loide / and sayde: O Loide / we be not perishe for this mans death / neither laye thou innocent bloude vnto oure charge: for thou (o Loide) hast done / euen as thy pleasure was.

So they toke Jonas / and cast hym into the see / and the see leste ragynge. And the men feared the Loide exceedingly / saying / firste eies / and makinge vowes vnto the Loide.

The ii. Chapter

B Or the Loide prepared a great fysh to swallowe vp Jonas. And so was Jonas in the belly of the fysh three dayes and three nyghtes. And Jonas prayed vnto the Loide Deus Deus / our of the fysh / and sayde: In my trouble I called vnto the Loide / and he heard me out of the belly of hell / and and thou heardst my voyce. Thou hiddest call me vnto depe in the myddell of the see / and the floudes compassed me aboute: yet / all thy waves and rowles of water went ouer me / I thought that I had bene cast awaye out of thy sight: but I will per a gayne lufe to worship thy holy temple.

The waters compassed me / aien to the depe foule: the depe laye aboute me / and the waves were made aboute myne head. I wente downe to the bottoome of the hills / and was barred in with corall for cur. But thou (o Loide

Lorde my God) hast brought vp my life agayne out of corruption. Whē my soule sayned within me / I thought vpon the Lord: and my prayer came in vnto thee: euen into thy holy temple / They that haide of vayne vanities / will forsake thee mercy. But I will do the sacrifice with the voyce of thanksgiving: and will paye that I haue vowed: for why? saluation cometh of the Lord: And the Lord spake vnto the fish: and it cast our Jonas agayne vpon the drye lande.

The III. Chapter.

JHEN came the worde of the Lord vnto Jonas agayne sayinge: Twp / and get the vnto Ninue that greate cite / and preach vnto the preaching which I had the. So Jonas arose: and wente to Ninue at the Lordes commaundement. Ninue was a greate cite vnto God: namely: of the Bayes iourney.

And Jonas wente to / and entred into the citie: euen a dayes iourney: and cried / sayinge: There are yet xl. dayes / and then shall Ninue be ouerthrowen. And the people of Ninue belued God: and proclaimed fastinge: and arrayed them selves in sackcloth: so well the greate as the small of them. And the rynges came vnto the Kinge of Ninue / which arose out of his seate / and put his apparell of / and put on sackcloth / a far him doune in affliction.

AND it was cryed and commaunded in Ninue by the auctoure of the Kyng and his lordes / sayinge: Is that neither man or beest / or: no: theye / rayfought at all: and that they neither set nor drinke water: but put on sackcloth both mā and beest / and crye mightely vnto God: yee: that euery man turne from his euill waye / and from the wickednesse that he hath in hande.

Who can tell: God maye nurne and repent / and cease from his seare wrath: that we perish not. And when God sawe they would / how they turned from theyr wicked wayes: he repented on the euil / which he sayde he would do vnto them: and yd it not.

The IIII. Chapter.

JHENFORTE Jonas was fore discoment and angrie. And he prayed vnto the Lord:

and sayde: O Lord: / was not this my sayinge (I praye the) when I was yet in my country: therefore I hailed rather to the vnto Thebasia: for I knewe well ynough that thou art a mercifull God: full of compassion / longe suffering: and of greafe kindness: / a repentest when thou shouldest take punishment. And now O Lord: take my life from me (I beseeche the) for I had rather dye then lue. Ps. lxxv. 4 Ps. lxxv. 4 Then sayde the Lord: art thou so angrie? And Jonas gat hym out of the cite: and sat downe on the East syde thereof: and there made hym a borde: and sat vnder it in the shadow: till he might see what shoulde chaunce vnto the cite.

And the Lord God prepared a wyldc vine / which sprang: vp ouer Jonas / that he might haue shadowe about his head: so he liued hym out of his payne / and Jonas was exceedinge glad of the wyldc vine. But vpon the nexte morow against the springe of 3 dayes / the Lorde ordered a worme / which smote the wyldc vine: so that it withered awaye. And when the Sunne was vp / God prepared a scuerie East wynde / a the Sunne bare ouer the brade of Jonas / that he sayned agayne / and wysshed vnto his soule that he might dye: and sayde: It is better for me to dye then to lue. And God layde vnto Jonas: Art thou so angrie for the wyldc vine. And he sayde: yee / very angrie am I: euen vnto death. And the Lord sayde: thou hast compassion vpon a wyldc vine: wherof thou bist somewhat no labour: no: mayest it growe: which sprang vp in one nyght: a perished in another: And shouldest not I then haue compassion vpon Ninue that greate cite: wherof there are 40 thousande persones / that knowe not theyr righte hande from the left: / besides much cattel?

The Prophet Michas.

The first Chapter.

Michas is the worde of the Lorde / that came vnto Michas & Mo-rahtin in the dayes of Iotham / & Achas and Hezekias Kinges of Iuda: which was seuen him vpon Samaria and Jerusalem.

Hearre all ye people / * marke this well oearely / and all that therein is: For the Lorde God him self he witnesseth amonge you euen the Lorde from his holy temple. For why?
Beholde / the Lorde shall go out of his place / and come thonne / and reade vpon the bytinegore of the earth. The mountaine shall consume vnder him / and the valleyes shall cleue asunder: like as was consumed at the fyre / as the waters rine down wards. And all this shalbe for the wickednesse of Iacob / and for the synnes of the house of Israel.

But wherin the wickednesse of Iacob? Jo-nos I Samaria: Which are the bre place of Iuda: Jo nos Jerusalem: Therefore shall I make Samaria an heape of stones in fyelde / to laye aboute the vinegarde her stones shall I cast into the valley / and discover her foundation: All her images shall be broken downe / and all her wyrynge shall be burnt in fyre: ye / all her Idols will I destroye: for why?

They are gathered out of fyre: of an whote / and into an whote: hys shall they be turned agayne. Therefore I will mourne / and make lamentation / bare / and naked will I go: I will mourne like the Dogone / and take sorrow as the Wretched: for they: rounde in pass remedy. And why? it is come into Iuda: and hath touched the poite of my people at Jerusalem already. Wepe not / lest they at War perceauit.

Ethon at Beraphia: wether thy self in the dust and ashes. Thou shalt dwell in Sep-tyre: for: be hence with shame. The proude shall boast no more: for: vry sorrow: and wher her neyghboure shall take from her what she hath. The rebellious cite hopeth / that it shall not be so euil: but for all that / the plague shall come from the Lorde: euen into the poite of Jerusalem. The greate noyse of the charrettes shall feare them / that dwell at Lachis: which is an occasion of the synne of the daughter of Syon / for: in the came vpon the wickednesse of Israel. See she sent her courtiers into the lade of War.

The house of Isee will because the Kinges of Israel. And as for the (so thou that dwellest at Mossa) I shall bringe a possessor vpon vpon the / and the plague of Iaffal shall reach vnto Odolla. Make the bald: and saue the:
because of thy tender chylde: Make the cleare belbe as an Eagle / for they shalbe caried awaye captiue from the.

The II. Chapter.

Wo vnto them that saye: we will do harme / and we will vngodlynesse vpon their beddes: to perswaine in the cleare daye: for their power is against God. When they couto haue lende / they take it by violence: they will robbe men of their house.

Thus they oppresse a man for his house / and euery man for his hercage. Therefore thus saith the Lorde: Beholde / I against this house: and holde haue I vnto a plague: whether ye shall not please youre selves. Ye shall no more go so proudly: for it will be a perilous tyme. In this daye shall this terme be used / a mourning daye made ouer you: on this manner: We be vnto desolate / the portion of my peoples translated. When will be parte vnto vs the lande: that be hath taken from vs.

Trust ye lesse / I there shall no man to be vnto the thy portion: in the congregation of the Lorde: Thus helde youre tunge / I saye they: It shall not fall vpon this people: we shall not come to confusion: I saye the house of Iacob. In the spectre of the Lorde: so cleare awaye: or: so myned? Trust it is: my wordes are frently vnto them: that saye right: but my people doeth the contrary / therefore must I take parte against them: for they take awaye both core / and clothe from the simple.

Ye haue turned youre selves to sygh / the remours of my people haue ye stur out from

Ye eate the flesh of my people: and they of theyr synners: ye buche theyr bones: ye choppe them in peeces as it were into a cauldron: and as flesh into a pot.

Nowe the tyme shall come: that I will they call vnto the Lorde: he shall not heare them / but hyde his face from them: because that thowre they: oure imaginations they haue dealt so reueledly.

And as concerninge the prophetes that because my people thus the Lorde sayeth agaynst them. When they haue any thyng to bye vpon / then they preach that all shall well: but if a man put not some thyng into theyr mouthes: they preach of warre agaynst hym.

Therefore youre wisdom shall be turned to ynghel: and youre prophesyng to darkenesse. The Sunne shall go downe ouer those prophetes: as the daye shall be darke vnto them. Then shall the wisdomes be abashed: / as the syth sayers confounded: yet they shall saye call the peake of them: to stoppe theyr mouthes: for they haue not Gods word. To for me: I am full of strenght: and of the spere of the Lorde: full of iudgement and boldnesse: to shewe the house of Jacob theyr wickednesse: and the house of Israel their synne.

I heare this ye rulers of the house of Jacob: and ye iudges of the house of Israel: see: thus abhorre the thyng that is lawfull: and wast off the thyng that is straght. Therefore shall I buy the vp Syon with bloude: and Jerusalem with burninge wronge. O ye iudges: ye geue i. Re. viij. a sentence for giftes: O ye pastures: ye teach for lye. y. Re. xij. b. O ye prophetes: ye prophesy for money. Amos v. b. Yet will they be taken as thole that balde vpon God: and saye: I am not the Lorde amonge vs: Thus there can no misfortune happen vnto vs. Therefore shall Syon (for youre sake. J. r. xviij. b. Jer. l. b. Feo) be plowed like a felde: Jerusalem shall become a heape of stones: and the hill of the temple shall be turned to an hye woodde.

The IIII. Chapter.

What in the later dayes it will come to a passe: that the hill of the Lorde: house of Israel: shall be set vpon higher then any mountaynes: or hills: the people shall possesse it: and the multitude of the Gentiles shall haust them thence: sayinge: Come: let vs go vpon the good of the Lorde: and to the house of the God of Jacob: that he maye teach vs his waye: and that we maye walke in his pathes.

For the lawe shall come out of Syon: and the worde of God from Jerusalem: and shall geue sentence amonge the multitude of the heathen: and reforme the people of farre countries: so that of their swearer they shall make plowbarres: a syde of their speeres.

One people shall not lift vp a swearer agaynst another: yet they shall not learne to fyght: but every man shall see vnder his synge: and vnder his synge: and no man to fraye hym awaye: for the mouth of the Lorde of hostes hath spoken it. Therefore: where as all people haue walked: every man in the name of his owne God: yet will walke in the name of our God: yet and ever. Therefore the tyme (sayeth the Lorde) will I gather vp the lame: and the outcastes: and such as I haue chastised: and will geue issue vnto the lame: and make of the outcastes a great people: and the Lorde hym self shall be a theyr synge vpon the mount Syon: from his righte corner for euermore. And vnto the daughter of Syon: thou straght holde of the daughter Syon: vnto the shall I come:

the Lorde: shall I bowe my knee to the hye God: shall I come before hym with burne offerings: and with calves of a yeare olde?
 Hark the Lorde: a pleasure in many thou sende raiment: or innumerable streames of oyle: O shall I geue my ffirstborne for myne offence: or the frute of my body for the sinne of my soule: I will sweare the (O man) what is good / and what the Lorde requireth of the: Tamely / to do right: to haue pleasure in louynge fynchesse / to be lowly / and to walke with thy God: That thou maest be called a cire of the Lorde: and that thy name maye be righteousnesse. Heare (O ye nybes) who would els geue you such warninge? Should I not be displeas'd: for the onrighteous good in the house of the wicked / and because the measure is full: O should I iustifie the false balancers: and the bagge of deceitfull waightes: amonge those that be full of rydes wrightly: goite: where the caryens deale with fals heeds: speake lyes: and haue becarfull tuntes in their mouthes?

Therefore I will take in hande to punishe the: and to make the desolate / because of thy finnes. Thou shalt eat: and nor haue ye enough: yet: thou shalt bringe thy self daune.
 Thou shalt flye: but not escape: and thy: iate thou woldest save: wil I deliuer to y streede: Thou shalt sowe: but not reape: thou shalt press: out oyle: but oyle shalt thou not haue: to carye thy self: withall: thou shalt reede out fweete must: but shalt thyne no wyne. Ye kepe the ordinances of Amos: and all these customes of the house of Ahab: ye slowe ther pleasures: therefore wil I make the wast: and cause thy inhabitors to be abhorred: O my people: and thus shalt thou beare thyn owne shame.

The VII. Chapter.

Hear me: I am become as one that gathereth a gleanynge into the barrell. There are no my grapes to eat: yet would I sayne: With all my herte: haue of the best fruite. There is not a goby man upon earth: there is not one righteous amonge men. They labour all to seed bloude: and euery man hunteth his brother to deathe: yet they saye they do well: when they do euill. As the pyrrer wyls sayeth the iudge: that he maye do him a pleasure agayne.

The greate man speaketh what his herte doth sayeth: and the hearens sloune hym. The best of them is but as a spittle: and the moost rightetous of them is but as a hie in the hedge.
 But when the daye of thy preaders commeth: that thou shalt be visited: then shall they be wastled awaye. Let no man beleue his friends: nor put his confidence in a prince.
 Kepe the porte of thy mouth: for he that speaketh in thy bosome: I for the same shall put his father to dishonour: the daughter shall be ryse agaynst her mother: the daughter in lawe lawe agaynst her mother in lawe: and a dis-mans face shall be euen thy of his owne house: bloude.

Neuer beleue: I will luffe vp vnto y Lorde: B de: I will patiently abyde: wed my faviour: my God shall heare me. O thou enemye of myne: reape not at my fall: for I shall get up agayne: and though I see in darkenesse: yet the Lorde is my light. I will beare the pun-yshment of the Lorde: (for why) I haue offended hym: yet be set in iudgement vpon my cause: and so that I haue right. He wil bringe me forth to the light: and I shall see his righte-nousnesse.

She that is myne enemy shall luffe vpon it: and be confounded: wch now sayeth: Where is thy Lorde Gods? Mine eyes shall beholde her: when she shall be rotten: vnto as y clape in the fire. The same will come: that by gappes shall be made vp: and the lewe shall goe abroad: and at that tyme shall they come vnto the: from Assur vnto the stronge cities:
 and from the stronge cities vnto the ruere: from the one see to the other: sed the one moe tayne to the other.

Notwithstandynge: the same must be waye-sed: because of them that dwell therein: and for the frutes of their owne ymaginations.
 Therefore seeth the people with thy radd: the floke of thine heritage which dwelle desolate in the wode: that they maye be sedd vpon the mount of Carmel: of Bajan and Galaad as afore tyme. Maruylous thinges wil I do vnto them: I like as wher they came out of Egypte: they shall be as the Cherubim: and be albaned for all their power: so that they shall laye their hande vpon their mouth: and stoppe their eare. They shall like the dust like a serpent: as they shall see.

and as the wormes of the earth that remble in their holes. They shall be afayed off / Lozede our God / and they shall feare the.

Where to there such a God as thou that pardonest wickednes / and forgiuest the offences of the remnant of thine heretage: He feyrcich not his meath for cuer. And why: his delictes is to haue compassion: The he shall turne ag: yne / and be mercyfull to vs: he shall put bynne our wickednesse / and castle all oure synne into the bottomis of the see. Thou shalt feyrcich thy trust with Jerod / and thy mercy for Abagam / like as thou haste sworne vnto our fathers long ago.

The first Chapter.

i. 2. d. vi. a Dan. v. c
vi. a

In the seconde year of king Darius/ in the vi. month the fyfthe daye of the month/ came the wordes of the Lord (by the prophet Aggeus) unto Zorobabel the sonne of Sala/ which the prince of Iuda/ and so Iesus the sonne of Iosedece the hye priefte sayeth: Thus speaketh the Lord of hostes/ and sayeth: This people doeth saye: The tyme is not yete come to builde up the Lordes house. Then spake the Lord by the prophet Aggeus and saide: Ye your selves can synde curre to dwell in syled houses/ and shall the house be wastefull? Considre nowe youre owne wayes in youre herse/ sayeth the Lord of hostes/ ye sowe muche/ but ye bringe litle in: Ye eate/ but ye haue not ynough: ye drinke/ but ye are not fylled: ye decke youre selues/ but ye are not warme/ and he that earneth any wages/ putteth it in a broken purse.

Thus sayeth the Lord of hostes/ Considre youre owne wayes in youre herse/ get you up to the mountaynes/ seide the woode/ and builde up the house: I that it maye be acceptable vnto me/ and that I maye haue myne honour/ saith the Lord. Ye lofed for muche/ and lo/ it is come to lynde: and though ye bringe it home/ yete so I blowe it awaye. And why so sayeth the Lord of hostes? Euen because that my house lyeth so wastefull/ and ye rince eury man vnto his owne house/ whereof the heauen is forbidden to geue you any vnto/ and the earth is forbidden to geue you encrease. I haue called so/ aduertysheth vpon the lande/ and vpon the mountaynes/ vpon eury thinge/ vpon wyne and vpon oyle/ vpon eury thinge that the ground bringeth forth: vpon men and vpon cattell/ yea/ and vpon al handy labour.

Notce when Zorobabel the sonne of Sala/ and Iesus the sonne of Iosedece the hye priefte with the remnant of the people/ herde the voyce of the Lord their God/ and the wordes of the prophet Aggeus/ lyke as the Lord thei/ God had sent him/ the people byd feare the Lord. Then Aggeus the Lordes aungel sayed in the Lordes message vnto the people: I am with you/ sayeth the Lord. So the Lord waked up the spire of Zorobabel the prince of Iuda/ and Iesus the priefte/ and the spire of the remnant of the people: that they came and laboured in y boult of the Lord of hostes their God.

The II Chapter.

When the first daye of the sixe moneth/ in the seconde yeare of bygge Darus/ the first daye of the fourth moneth/ came the word of the Lorde by the prophet Aggeus sayinge: Speake to Zosababel the sonne of Saraiel pynce of Iuda/ and to Iesus the sonne of Iosede the bys pnyce/ and to the residue of the people/ and saye: Who is left among you/ that sayeth this house in her fylle decaye? But what saye ye now? By it: So it not in youre eyes/ euen as though it were nothinge? Vncle belefste of good hart/ o Zosababel (sayeth the Lorde) Be of good comfort/ o Iesus thou sonne of Iosede byc pnyce: take good hertes unto you also/ all ye people of the lande/ sayeth the Lorde of hostes / and do accordyng to the wordes/ for I am with you (sayeth the Lorde of hostes) lyke as I agreed with you/ when ye came out of the lande of E gypt/ and my spyrte shalbe among you/ feare ye not.

For thus saith the Lord of hostes. Yet once more wil I shake heauen and earth / the se and the drye lande: Yet / I will moue all Berthen / and the comfort of all Berthen shall come / and so will I fyl this house with honoure/ sayeth the Lorde of hostes. The place is mine/ and the golde is myne/ sayeth the Lorde of hostes. Thus the glory of the left house shalbe greater then the first/ sayeth the Lord of hostes: and in this place wil I geue prayce/ sayeth the Lord of hostes.

The first daye of the sixe moneth in the seconde yeare of bygge Darus/ came the word of the Lorde unto the prophet Aggeus/ sayinge: Thus sayeth the Lord God of hostes: Be the pnyces concerninge the lawe/ a saye: If one beare a holy scible in his core lappes/ a with his lappe to touch the bread/ or to gette myne/ oyle/ or any other meate: shall it be holy also? The pnyces answered/ and sayde: No. Then saide Aggeus: Now if one beynge defiled with a dead carcass/ touch any of these: shall it also be vncleane? The pnyces answered swore and saide: Yee it shalbe vncleane. The Aggeus answered/ and saide: Euen so is this people and this nation before me (sayeth Lemit. v. a the Lorde) and so are all the workers of ther good handes/ yee/ and al that they offe is vncleane. Uu. x. p. b

And now I praye you/ confide in this daye fourth/ and how it hath gone with you as foretold: there was layed one stone vpon another in the temple of the Lorde: That whē ye came to a cone beape of xxx. Bushels/ there were scarce ten: and that when ye came to the wynepress for to poure out / pottes of myne/ there were scarce xxx. For I smote you with heat/ blastinge and hayle stones in all the labours of youre handes: yet was there none of you that wolde turne vnto me/ sayeth the Lorde. Confide then from this daye fourth/ and after/ namely/ from the first daye of the ix. moneth/ vnto the daye that the foundation of the Lordes temple was layed: Marke it well. For not the side yet in the barnes haue not the wyndes/ the ynggettes/ the pomegranates/ and olyue trees bene yet vnfructfull: But from this daye fourth/ I shall make them to prosper.

Moreover/ the first daye of the moneth came the word of the Lorde vnto Aggeus againe/ sayinge: Speake to Zosababel the pnyce of Iuda/ and say: I wil shake both heauen and earth/ and euertowne the feat of the Kingdome/ yee/ and destroye the mighty Kingdome of the Berthen. I will ouerthrowe the charrettes/ and those that sit vpon them/ so that both horse and man shall fall vnto euery man thowse his neighbours streede. And as for the o Zosababel (sayeth the Lorde of hostes) thou sonne of Saraiel/ my seruante: I will shake the (sayeth the Lorde) ar the same name/ and make the as a scale/ for I haue chosyn the/ sayeth the Lorde of hostes.

Then the aungel of the Lord ished vnto Iesua and spake / thus saich the Lord of hostes: If thou wilt walke in my waye / & kepe my waye: thou shalt rule my house / and kepe my courtes / and I will geue the place amonge these that stande here. I will bring it forth / saith the Loide of hostes / so that it shall come to the house of the lord / and to the house of him / that falsly sweareth by my name : a shall remaine in his house / and consume it with the symbe a stence thereof. Then the aungel that talked with me wente forth / and sayde vnto me : I will rise vp thine eyes and se / what this is that goeth forth. And I sayde : what is it? Beholde / the Lorde shall take her in / and haue her in possession: ¶ he shall smyte downe her power into the see / and she shall be consumed with fire. This shall Iffracl se / and be afraied. ¶ Gog shall be very soie / so shall Ierusalem also / because her hope is come to confusion. For the kyng of Gog shall perish / and at Iffracl shall no man dwell.

Strangers shall dwell at Iffrad / and as for the paye of the Philistines / I shall rote it out. ¶ Their bloude will I take awaie frō their mōuth / and their abominacions from among their teeth. Thus they shall be leste for oure God; yet they shall be a prince in Iuda / and Ierusalem like an Iehusi. And so will I compass my house rounde aboute with my men of warre / goinge to and fro: but no opper: fourc come vpon them any more. For they haue 3 Iere now with myne eyes.

¶ I Reioyce thou greatly / o daughter Zion: Be glad / o daughter Ierusalem. For lo / thy kyng shall come vnto the / with the righteous and Gaunoure: Comly and simple is he / he shall ryde vpon an asse / and vpon the foale of an asse. I will rote out the charrettes from Ephraim / and the horse frō Ierusalem / the battayl bowes shall be destroyed. ¶ He shall geue the doctrine of peace vnto the Hebrin / and his dominion shall be from the one see to the other / and from the floudes to the endes of the worde.

¶ Thou also thou the bloude of thy conuenant: shall let thy pysoners out of the pynt / wherein is no water. Turne you now to the stronge holde / that be in sydon / and longe: ¶ they shall be deliuered: And this daye I bringe the worde / that I will rewarde the dubble agayne. For Iuda haue 3 bent out as a bowe for me / and Ephraim haue 3 filled.

¶ The sonnes of Oyon will I raise vp against the Grekes / and make thee as a giuante: for the Lorde God shall be seue aboute the / and his vncles shall go forth as the lighte rennyng. The Lorde God shall blowe the trumpet / and shall come forth as a storme out of the South.

¶ The Lorde of hostes shall defende the / they shall consume and deuoure / and subdue the with 7 synge stones. They shall synge a rage / as it were thorn wyne. They shall fylle lyke the busines / and as the houses of the aultre. The Lorde their God shall veynt them in the daye as the flock of his people: for the sonnes of his Sanctuary shall be set vp in his lande. O how prosperous and goodly a thynges shall that be: ¶ The come shall make the yongemen cheerfull / and the new wyne the maydens.

The XI. Chapter.

A When thy voyce (o Libanus) that the fire maye consume thy Cedre tree. Howe ye fyre trees/ for the Cedre is fallen/ yee/ all the proude are wasted away. Zabol (o ye Ced-res of Babil) for the myghty stronge wood is cut downe. Men maye heare the shepherdes moorne/ for theye glory is destroyed. Men maye heare the Lyons whelpes roare/ for the pryde of Zabolane is wasted away.

Thus sayeth the Lorde my God: fede the shepe of the slaughter/ whiche shalbe layne of those that possesse them: yee they take it for no synne/ but they that sell them/ saye: The Lorde hath bancked/ I am ryth. Yee theye owne thepe herdes spare them not. Therefore will I no more spare those that dwell in the lande (saith the Lorde) but lo/ I will deliuer the people/euery man into his neyghboure hande/ and into the hande of his synge: that they maye smyte the lande/ and ouer of their handes will not I deliuer them.

B I my self fynde the slaughter shepe/ a poore shepe weedy/ and toke vnto me two slawes/ the one I called louynge inekensse/ the other I called wo/ and so I kepte the shepe. The shepe herdes destroyed I in one month/ so: I might not awaye with them/ neither had they any deliue in me. The sayd I: I will seee you no more/ the thynges that theye/ scrye/ and that will persyde/ it is theye/ and let the remnant eate/ euery one the flesch of his neygh-boure. I toke also my louynge meek/ flesch/ and brake it/ that I might visynull the conue-nants/ whiche I made with all people. And so it was broken in that daye.

Apoc. xxi. c

*Ez. ii. c

Then the poore symple shepe that had a respecte vnto me/ knewe thereby that it was the woide of the Lorde. And I sayde vnto them: if ye thinke it good/ bringe wyther my pytee: if not/ then leaue. So they wayd downe.
 I saye perio/ the value that I was pyted at.
 And the Lorde sayde vnto me: call it vnto the potter (a goodly pytee for me to be valued at of the land) I toke the xxxiij. perio/ and call them to the potter/ in the boult of the Lorde.

*Mat. xxij

Then brake I my other staffe also (namely wo) that I myght loose the bretherheade be-twixte Iuda and Iffad. And the Lorde sayd vnto me: Take to the also the staffe of a foolys shepheard: for lo/ I will raise vpon a shepheard into the lande/ whiche shall not sife after the thynges that hee loof/ nor care for such as go astraie: he shall not heale the wounded/ he shall nor reuise the thynges that is weake: but he shall eate the flesch of such as be fat/ and teare their dawes in peeces.

O Zabol shepheard/ that leauest the shepe.

berde / and the shepe shalbe feared aboad: / and so will I turne myne hande to the litle one. And it shall come to passe: (sayeth the Lorde) that in all the lande two partes shalbe roced out: / but the thyde parte shall remaine therein. * And the same thyde parte will I binge: for that theye / and will cleanse them as the thise is clenfed / and theye them / like as golde is myd.
Then shall they call upon my name / and I will heare them. I will saye it in my people.
And they shall saye / Lorde is my God.

The XIII. Chapter.

Dehold the daye of the Lorde cometh / that thou shalt be spoiled and robbed / for I gather together all the Geyden to fight against Ierusalem / so that the one shalbe wined the houses spoiled / and the women desyred.
The half of the one shall go awaye into captiue: and the residue of the people shall not be remed out of the cite.

After that shall the Lorde go forth to fight against those Geyden / as men use to fight in the daye of battayl. Then shall his feet stande upon the mount Oluete / that lieth vpon the East syde of Ierusalem. And the mount Oluete shall cleue in two / Eastwarde a Westwarde / so that there shall be a greate valley / a the half mount shall remoue towarde the North / and the other half towarde the South.

And he shall ste vnto the valley of my hil-les / for the valley of the brilles shall reach vnto Bethl. See / they shall see / I like ye ste for the caribauke in the barens of Olyco. Fringe of Iuda. And the Lorde my God shall come / and all saynes with hym. In that daye shall it not be hight / but colde and frost. This shalbe that speciall daye / I which is knowne vnto the Lorde / neyther daye nor nyght:

but aboute the euenyng tyme it shall be hight.
In that tyme shall there waters of lyfe runne out from Ierusalem / the half parte of them towarde the East ste / and the other half towarde the vncermost ste: and shall continne both summer and wynter. And the Lorde my self shall fringe ouer all the earth.

And in tyme shall there be one Lord onely / and his name shalbe but one. Men shall go aboute the whole earth as vpon a selde / from Gibea to Kenimon / and from the South to Ierusalem. She shalbe set vpon and inhabited in her place. From Ben Iaminus poire / vnto the place of the fyrr poire: and vnto the corner poire: and from the tower of Hanance / vnto g. Ed. 11. 1. a the fynges veynepresses. There shall men dwel / Jer. 31. 1. f and there shalbe nomos: curfynges / but Ieru-salem shalbe safely inhabited.

Thys shalbe the plague / wherwith the Lorde will smyte all people that haue fought agaynst Ierusalem / namely: theye selfs shall consume awaye / though they stande vpon theyr feet: / theyr eyes shall corruppe in theyr holes / and theyr tounge shall consume in theyr month.

In that daye shall the Lorde make a greate sedition amonge them / so that one man shall rete another by the hande / and laye his hande vpon the handes of his neyghboure. 2. 3. 4. 1. a He shall fight also against Ierusalem / and the goodes of all the Geyden: shalbe gathered together rounde aboute: golde and siluer: and a very greate multitude of clothe. And so shall this plague go ouer houses / milkes / camels / asses / and all the bestes that shalbe in the hostle / lyfe: as powder plague was.

Every one that remaineth then of all the people / which came agaynst Ierusalem / shall go vp yearly to worshipp the fyng: / euen the Lorde of hosttes: / and to kepe the feast of tabernacles. And lette what generation upon earth goeth not vp to Ierusalem / for to wor-shipp the fyng: / euen the Lorde of hosttes: upon the same shall come no raine: / If the feared of Egypte go not vp and come not / it shall not raine vpon them neither.

Thys shalbe the plague / wherwith the Lorde will smyte all Geyden / that come not vp to kepe the feast of tabernacles: / For this shalbe the synne plague of Egypte / and the synne plague of all people: that go not vp to kepe the feast of the tabernacles.

In that tyme shall the ryding gear of the horse be holy vnto the Lorde / and the fetles in the Loides house shalbe lyke the bakens beside the auter: / yet all the fetles in Ierusalem and Iuda: shalbe holy vnto the Lorde of host-tes: / and all they that slaye off rynges / shall die. 2. 4. 1. c

APOCRIPHA

The bokes and treatises which amonge the fathers of olde are not referred to be of like authoritie with the other bokes of the Bible/ neyther are they founde in the Canon of the Hebrews.

The translation vnto the reader.

These bokes (good reader) which be called Apocrypha are not iudged amonge the Doctors to be of lyke reputation with the other scripture / as thou mayest perceiue by S. Ieronyme in Epistola ad Paulinu. And the chiefe cause thereof is that there be many places in them that seme to be repugnant vnto the open and manyfest truth in the other bokes of the Bible. Neuertheles / I haue not gathered them together to the intent that I wolde haue them despised / or little set by: / as I shoulde thinke them false / for I am not able to prouice it. Yee / I haue not verelike / if they were equally conferred with the other open scripture / by time / place and circumstance in all things considered: they shoulde neyther seme contrary / nor be vntruly and peruersly alledged. Truth it is that many facts can not be seene so well in a water / as in a fayre glasse: neyther can it be seene so clearly in a water that is stered or mouded / as in a frys water. These many other vaine places of scripture haue bene soe stered and myrre with bynd and countenous opinions of men / which haue call such a myll afore the eyes of the simple / that as long as they be not conferrred with the other places of scripture / they shall not seme otherwyse to be vnderstande / then as coueteous reasons expoundeth them. But whoso euer thou be that readeest scripture / let the holy ghost be thy leader / and let one yett expounde another vnto the: do for suche dreames / visions and vaine sentences as be hyd from thy vnderstandinge / commyte them vnto God / and make no article of them: But let the playne text be thy gyde / and the spere of God Carthide: so the cause thou thereof / shall lide the in al truth.

As for the prayer of Salomon / which thou fyndest not herein / the prayer of Agarua / and seuerall songe that be and his two fellows longe in the fyre: the fyre / namely the prayer of Salomon / readeest thou in the eighth chapter of the thirde boke of the Kinges / so that it appereth not to be Apocryphum: The other prayer and songe / namely of the the children / haue I not founde amonge any of the interpreters / but only in the olde layn text / which reporteth it to be of Theodosius translation. Neuertheles / both because of those that be vaine and serupulous / and for their sake also that haue such seuerall songes of thankes / I haue not left them out: to the intent that the one shoulde haue no cause to complaine / and that the other also myghte haue the more occasion to geue thankes vnto God in aduersite / as the the children had in the fyre.

Grace be with the. Amen.

Now serue your Lord a rate the charge of his people of Israel / after your villages and youre tribes according to an King Dauid the King of Israel hath ordeined / a according to as Salomon his sonne hath notably prepared: Ye seeke to ye all do serue in the temple according to the ording a distribution of the principall men / which are appointed out of the tribes / to do serue for the dilite of Israel. And vnto the people it was said: Josias gaue them thousand of shepes / lambes / kidnes a goats / a the thousand euen. These the Kinge of his Kingly liberality gaue vnto the people according as he had promised: a to the priestes for the Passouer. he gaue two thousand shepe a an hundred euen. Moreover Jerobias / a Semias and Urbanacel brethren a Gersibian / Jehiel / a Josabab / gaue them to the Passouer / five thousand shepe a five hundred bullockes.

Esdras. 11. d.

And when these thinges were brought to passe the priestes and the Leuites stode godly in their order / and had the unleued bread shew vnto the tribes. And after the ording of the principall men in the tribes / they offered vnto the Lord in the sighte of the people according as it is written in the booke of Moyses / and so they colled the Easter lamb / a according to was. As for the thank offeringes a the other / they brought them in ketels a pottes / a set them before the people with good will / and afterwards before the selues and the priestes. For the priestes offered the fat / vntill the tyme was cospred / but the Leuites prepared for them selues / and for their brethren the children of Aaron. The singers also the children of Asaph stode in their order / according to as Dauid had deuised. So had Asaph / Zachary and Jehotham / which were appointed by the King. Moreover the porters and Doctores stode by the Doore / and they diligently so that none went out of his standinge and serued for they: Brethren the Leuites prepared for them. Thus were all thinges performed / that belonged to the offeringe of the Lord. In that day they helde the Passouer / and offered thank offeringes before the sacrifice of the Lord / according to the commaundement of King Josias.

So the children of Israel which were then present / helde an honorable Passouer / and the feast of sanctified seruice dure longe. Yet such a Passouer was not kepte in Israel from the tyme of the prophet Samuel. And at the Kinges of Israel helde not such an offeringe this which King Josias helde / and the priestes / the Leuites / the Jewes / and all Israel of all the cities were at Jerusalem. In the eightieth yeare of the raygne of Josias was this Passouer kepte. And with a perfect heart had King Josias ordeined all his works / before the Lord / a the thinges that were written of hym in the tymes past / concerning those that sinned a were vngodly agaynst the Lord before all people / a that sought not the worde of the Lord vpon Israel. After all these actes of King Josias / which were written in the booke of Esdras / the Kinge of Egypte wente vnto / a came towarde Caracis by Euphrates / and Josias wrote to meete him. Then sente the Kinge of Egypte vnto Josias / saying: What haue I to do with thee / o Kinge of Juda? I am not fere of the Lord to fight agaynst thee / for my wate is vpon Euphrates / go thou thy waye home agayne in all the haste. And Josias wolde not turne agayne vpon his charre: But vnderooke to fyght agaynst him: as he kene not wito þe woide of the prophete: which he tolde him out of the mouth of God: But pitched a battayl agaynst him in the felde of Magaddo. And the pynees pleased to fenge Josias. Then subde the fenge vnto his seruantes: Carry me awaye oute of the battayl: for I am sore wounded. And immediately his seruantes toke hym awaye oute of the front of the battayl. Then sat he vp vpon the seconde charre: (came to Jerusalem/ vnto) and was shored in hye fathers sepulchre. And in all Ieruy they mourned for Josias: yet/ rulers also with their wyfes made lamentacion for him vnto this daie: And this was done euer still in Israel.

¶ These thinges are written in the booke of the storie of the kinges of Iuda: namely / all the actes and wykes of fenge Josias/ his kinglye pomey and maesty / his vnderstandinge in the lawe of God/ and what he vndreth / and thinges which are not written in the iiij. xxv. f. boke of the kinges of Israel and Iuda. ¶ And þe xxxv. f. boke of the kinges of Iuda: and Josias/ and made him kinge in the sleade of Josias his father vnto he was thye and thirte yeare olde. And he raygned ouer Israel thye monethes. And the fenge of Egypte put him doune: that he shoulde not raygne in Jerusalem/ and raysed vp a rayng of the people: namely on hundred talentes of siluer/ some talent of golde. The king of Egypte also made Joachim his brother fenge of Iuda and Jerusalem. As for them of the kinges counte / with the fenge his siffe and Saracles his brother: he toke them and caried them awayne prisoners into Egypte. Nyne and twenty yeare olde was Joachim vnto he was made fenge in the lande of Iuda and Jerusalem/ and he vndreth before the Lord. ¶ After iiij. xxv. f. the Nabudodonosor for the fenge of Babilon came vnto Babilon with bandes of yron/ a caried him vnto Babilon. Nabudodonosor also toke all the temple that were halowed in the temple of the Lord/ and all the treweles/ caried them vnto Babilon/ and broughe the iiij. xxv. f. into his owne temple at Babilon. Of his vnderstande and vngoblines: it is written in the booke of the actes of the fynes. And Joachim his sone raygned in his sleade: he was made fenge beinge eghthene yeare olde: and raygned but the monethes. and ten dayes in Jerusalem/ and vndreth before the Lord. So after a yeare / Nabudodonosor sent and caused him to be broughe vnto Babilon with the holy vessels of the Lord/ and made Cecobias his brother fenge of Iuda and Jerusalem/ vnto he was one and twenty yeare olde and he raygned eleven yeare.

¶ And he vndreth also in the sight of the Lord. ¶ He cared not for the wykes that were poken vnto him by the prophete Jeremie at the mouth of the Lord. And woe was had made an oath vnto fenge Nabudodonosor/ he forsware him selfe/ as he fel from him/ hauing a shyncke a heria transgressed all the lawes and ordinance of the Lord God of Israel. The rulers also and heade of the people of the Lord vndreth euel/ and became vngobly more the the Lawe/ beinge desyde in al maner of abominacions: yee/ a desyde the holy temple of the Lord at Jerusalem. And the God of their fathers sene his messengers vnto them/ no marnethim desyre/ to cal the agayne from their synce: for he wold faine haue spared them for his holy tabernacle sake. Vnto thedes/ they had his messengers in venison: a sote what God spake vnto the by his prophetes/ they made this a spoue of it. This was on so longe/ as the Lord was wath with his people for their vngoblines: and will be caused the kinges of the Caldees to come vnto which sene their fenge me with the treweles/ yet/ euen in the compass of their holy temple/ and spared no body/ neithur poynge no olde/ neither madden no: fenge me: but they were all desyred into the power of the kinges of the Caldees/ at the holy vessels of the Lord/ and the fynes measure toke they/ and caried them vnto Babilon. As for the house of the Lord/ they burnt it/ and shate downe the walles of Jerusalem/ for sye upon her towers/ destroyed all her noble buildynges/ and broughe them to nauygh/ and the people that were not slawe with the treweles/ they caried vnto Babilon.

¶ Thus became they the prisoners a sode me of the fenge of Babilon/ yet they were desyred/ as raygned for them selfe/ vnto the moe. ¶ Jer. xxx. b. the of the Lord was fulfilled/ to rebode he and xxx. b. ga. m. d.

cities that they make no more in it / and that they proceede no further with the buildinge: so: so muche as it might be the cause of warre and vsplacure vnto kinges.

More than Nabymius and Sabellius the scribe and the rulers in the lande had red the writinge of Hyngc Araxerxes / they gat them togather / and came in all the hault to Jerusalem with an hooll of hoisemen / and with muche people of soteremen / and forbade them to builde: And so they left from buildinge of the temple / vnto the seconde ycare of Hyngc Daruis.

The III. Chapter.

2 Hyngc Daruis made a greatessele vnto his seruantes / vnto all his court / and to all the officers of Media and Persia / yet / and to all the vberies and rulers that were onder hym / from India vnto Ethiopia / an hundreth and yron countries. So whā they had eaten and vsonten / beinge sensified / and were gone home againe / Daruis the Hyngc wente into his chambere / layd him doune to sleepe / and so awakend.

Then the thre yonge men that kepte the Hynges persone / and waiched his body / comoned amonge them selues / and spake one to another: Let euery one of vs saye some thinge / and loke whose sentence is wyser and more excellent than the other / vnto him shall Hyngc Daruis geue greatesse / and clothe hym with purple: He that geue him vessels of gold to vsinke in / clothes of golde and courtesie: he shall make him a costly charret / and a dyble of golde / he shall geue him a bonet of wyre siffers / and a chayne of golde about his necke: he shall be the seconde and principall name vnto Hyngc Daruis / and that because of his wysdom / and shall be called the kinges kynsman.

searsh avenge the victorye: Nowe when the Hyngc was risen vp / they toke their writinges and vskuered them vnto him / and so he saw them. Then sente he forth to call all his chiefe loobes / all the vberies and rulers of the countreys of Media and Persia: And when they were set doune in the counsaill / the writinges were red before them. And he commaunded to call for the yonge men / that they might see dare their meaninge: them selues by mouth. So when they were sent for / and came in the Hyng saide vnto them: shewe vs and make vs to vnderstande / what the thinges are that ye haue wrytten.

Then beganne the first / whiche had spoken of the strength of wysdom / and saide: O ye men / wysne is maruailous stronge / it ouercometh them that vsinke in it: Receueth the mynde / a thinge both the poore man / the Hyngc to vorage and vanite. Thus vsch it also vsch the bondma / and with the fire / with the poore and rich / taketh away their order / slauing / and maketh them carles and merry / so that none of them remembreth any heuines / but vs diuent: It causeth a man to thinke also of the thinge which he doeth / is honest / a good: he remembreth not that he is a Hyngc / nor that he is in auaricie / a that he ought not to do such thinges. Moreover / when man are vnto kinge / they forget all frendship / all brotherly saurshin: like a loue: but as seene as they are vsonten / they shewe oure the forward and wylfyrth: when they are layd doune from the wysne / so risen vp againe / they can not tell what they byd. Iudge ye now / Is not wysne the strongest: for who wolde clo take in hede to do such thinges: And when he had spokethis / he helde his tounge.

The III. Chapter.

4 Then the seconde / whiche had sayde that the Hyngc was stronge / beganne to speake / sayinge: O ye men / are not they the strongest and moost excellent / that conuere the labe / the seer / all that is in the seer / in the earth: Now is the Hyngc lord of all these thinges / a hath vberion of the all: a loke what he commaundeth / it is done. If he sende his men forth a warfare / they go a breake doune hill / walle / a towere. They are laine / and slaye / other men / them selues / a ouerposs / not the fynyge wood. If they get the victoys / they bringe the fynyge all the spoyle. Likewise / the othei that m. boke nor with waices and fynyge unte / but yll the grounde whan they ceape they bringe tribute vnto the fynyge. And if the fynyge alone doo but commaunde to fyll / they fyll: if he commaunde to foyge / they fo-ge: if he commaunde to smyze / they smyze: if he fyde byue awaye / they byue awaye: if he commaunde to buyde / they buyde: if he commaunde to theale / they theale: if he commaunde to plante / they plante. They are common people and the rulaers are obedient vnto him. And the fynyge in the meane season fyndeth him / vnto / eateh an vnto / and takeh the hie / and kepeth they ward / rounde as aboute the fynyge / and not one of them barre geth him out of the waye / to do his owne busines / but muste be obedient vnto the fynyge at a word. Iudge ye now / o ye men / how should not he goe / farr above / vnto whome men are thus obedient? And whan he had spokt this /

B he helde his tunge. The thirde / whose name was Zouababel / which had spoken of women and of the truth / beganne to saye after this maner: O ye men / is not the great fynyge / is is not the multitude of men / neyther is it wyne that exalseth / who is it then / that hath the laud / pyppe ouer them? Haue not women borne the fynyge / and all the people that rule the thinges? Haue not women borne them / and brought them vp / that plante the vyne / wherout of the wyne commeth? They make garments for all men / they geue honour vnto all men / and without women can not men lyue. If they gather golde and syluer and all precious thinges / and fe a fayre and welloured woman / they leaue altogether / and turne theyi eyes onely vnto the woman / and gaze vpon her / and haue more desyre vnto her / then vnto the syluer and golde / in any maner of precious thinge. A man leaureth his father that broughte hym vp / he leaureth his owne natural countrye / and cleueth vnto the woman: yee / he receiuereth his life with the woman / and remembereth neyther father / nor mother / nor countrye. By this then ye muste needs knowe / that women haue the vnto more / ouer you.

Docty is greue you? A man takeh his swearde and goeth his waye to steale / to fyll / to murder / to faple vpon the fe / and fyndeth a Lyon / and goeth in the barrens / and when he hath stollen / he ceapeh and robbed / he ce-geth it vnto his loue. Agayne / a man leaureth his wyfe better then father and mother / yee / many one there be that renne out of theyi wyces / and become bondmen for theyi wyces / sikes: many one also haue perished / and haue bene slayne / and haue synned because of women.

And nowe belese me / I knowe a fynyge which is greater in his power / and all landes stande in awe of hym / and no man barre laye hande vpon hym: yett byd I / that I name (the daughter of the great fynyge Barre) the fynyge conceyue / sat besyde the fynyge vpon the right hande / and toke of his crowne from his heade / and set it vpon her owne heade / and sinithe the fynyge with her left hande.
 Moreover / the fynyge loketh vpon her with open mouth: if she laughed vpon hym / he laughed also: but if she toke any displeasure with hym / the fynyge was sayne to flatter her / and to geue her good wordes / yll he had go-ten her fauoure agayne.

O ye men / are not women then stronger?
 Greater is the earth / in bye / to the heauen / than do these thinges. Then the fynyge and the pyncke loketh one vpon another. So he be-ganne to speake of the truth: O ye men / are not women stronger? Greater is the earth / in bye / to the heauen / in bye / is the course of the Sunne / he compasseth the heauen rounde about / and seteth his course agayne to his owne place in one daye. Is he not excellente that both this yee / greater is the truth / and stronger then all thinges. All the earth callith vpon the truth / the heauen prayseth it / all trees shake and tremble at it / and with it is not vnrighteous thinge. Wyne is vnrighteous / the fynyge is vnrighteous / women are vnrighteous / all the children of men are vn-righteous / yee / all thei wordes are vnrighteous / and there is no truth in them / in their vnrighteousnes also / shal they be destroyed a perished. To so the truth it endureth / and is alwaye stronger / synch and conquester / for euer / more wolde without ende.

The truth accepteth no perforce / it putteth no difference betwixt vs of poore/betwixt the myghty or synnfull / but vschly right vnto euery man / wether they be euill or good / and all men are louynghly dealt wthal in the worke of vs. In the iudgement of vs there is no vngreatous thynge / but strenght / singdom / and power and maicste for euermore. Blessid be the God of tructh.

And woth that he helde his ringe / a all the people cryed and saide: Great is the tructh / a about all. Then saide the kinge vnto hym: Yet what thou wilt / more then is appointed in thy synnges / and I shall geue it the / for thou art woude wyser then thy cōpanyons: thou shalt sit nexte me / and be my kynsmān. Then saide he vnto the kinge: Remembre thy promysse a vnto / which thou hast vowed and promysed (in the Baye whan thou earnest to the kinge dome) to buyde vp Jerusalem / and to sende agayne all the vessels and Jewels / that were taken awaye out of Jerusalem / which Cyrus separatid / wth he offered in Babylon / a wolde sende them agayne. And thy mynde was to buyde vp the temple / which the Edomytes build / whan Jerusalem was destroyed by the E. adrees. This onely (O Kinge) to the thynge that I require / this is the maicste / which I desire and see of the: that thou performe the vowe / which thou woth thyne owne mouth hast made vnto the kyng of heauen.

E Then Darius the kynge stode vp / and kysed hym / and wrote a letter vnto all the deuytyes and synners / to all the lordes and nobles / that they shoulde conuene him forth / and all them that wolde go vp wth hym. He wrote a letter also vnto all the synners that were in E. ssyria a Phenyces / and vnto E. rbanus / that they shoulde haue redresser from E. rbanus vnto Jerusalem / to buyde the cite with all. Moreover he wrote vnto all the Jewes that were gone out of his realme into Jewy because of the synne / that no officer / nor ruler / nor synne shoulde come to theyr wytes / and that all their landes / which they had conquered / shoulde be free / and not tributary: And that the Edomytes shoulde geue ouer the cite and vylage of the Jewes / which they had taken in: yet / and that they shoulde yearly geue xx talentes to the buyding of the temple / vnto the synne thynge that is woth synned / and to the dayly halowinge of the thre offeryngees / as it is commaunded / ten talentes yearly also: And that all they which come from Babylon to buyde the cite / shoulde haue synners / they and their chyldren / and all the synners.

He wote the greatesse also / and edmynd / s ded that the holy garment shoulde be geuen them / whercon they ministered: and wote that commaundementes shoulde be geuen to the Leuites / vntill the Baye that the house were synned / and Jerusalem buyded vp: and commaunded that all they that watched the cite / shoulde haue their portions and wytes.

He gaue ouer also all the vessel that Cyrus had separated from Babylon: and all that Cyrus had geuen in commaundement / the synne charged he also / that it shoulde be done a. f. n. r. vnto Jerusalem. Now whan this yonge man was gone forth / he turned his face toward Jerusalem / and prayed the kyng of heauen / and sayde: O of the comyngh wyse / of the comyngh wyse / and cleare / and I am thy seruant. Blessed art thou / which hast geuen me wyse dome / the will I prayse. O Lord / vnto the God of oure fathers.

And so he toke the letters / and wente vnto Babylon: And whan he came there / he tolde this vnto all his bretheren that were at Babylon / and they prayed the God of their fathers / that he had geuen them resistynge a liberte to go vp / and to buyde Jerusalem / and the temple (which is there called after the name of the Lord) / and they reioyced wth instrumentes / and gladnesse / seuen dayes longe.

The V. Chapter.

After this / where the pryncipall men of all the vylages chosen in the synne a synners / that they shoulde go vp wth their wytes and chyldren / wth their seruantes and marydens / wth all their camel and substynce. And Darius the kyng sent wth the a thousande buymentes / to conuene them safely vnto Jerusalem: and there they were glad / playynge vpon instrumentes / and synngynge.

And these are the names of the men / which wente vp out of the vylages according to the synne. Of the synners / the sonne of Darius / the sonne of Aaron: Jesus the sonne of Josede: Josaphim / sonne of Josobabel the sonne

Phesphat the sonnes of Malmon. All these ministered in the Sanctuary/ & were seruantes of Salomon: euen in c. l. and xxxij.

¶ These followinge are they / that wente up fro Bethmillai Thelarsa (whose princes were Carmela and Careth) and myght not beare forth their cities and kynred: how they were of Israel: The sonnes of Saluauo/ the sonnes of Tuben/ the sonnes of Tachodiscus. Of the priestes that executed the office of the priesthood/ and were not founde: The sonnes of Othia / the sonnes of Achisao/ the sonnes of Abdon / which married one of the daughters of Bargeleus/ and were named after him. The wydinge of the same kynred was sought in / I register of their generation / but it was not founde: and therefore were they forbidden to execute the office of the priesthood. Vnto these sayde Thelamas / and Tharas / that they shoulde haue no portion in the Sanctuary/ vntill they raise vp an hee priest / that were well instructed in the plaine charnes and truth. Of all Israel (beside seruantes and maydens) there were xliij. M. iij. C. and xl. There were there of seruantes and maydens vij. M. iij. C. and xxxij. Of singinge men and singinge women there were ij. C. and lxx. foure hundred / and xxx. camels. Seuen thousande and xxxij. oxen. Two hundred thousande and xij. mules. fye thousande and xxx. asses.

Their hebes also/ and the rulers in the rynges/ wher they came to Jerusalem/ and wolde buyde and set vp the temple of God agayne in his place / they gaue (after theyd habrite) vnto the temple/ the treasure a to the seruice of the Sanctuary 24. M. poudes of golde / v. thousande of silver / and an hundred priestes garments. And so direct the priestes/ and the Leuites/ and the people that wente out of Jerusalem/ and in the countre there aboute / the singere also/ and the psalters/ every one of Israel in his owne lande.

¶ In the seventh moneth came / a whil the children of Israel were eury ni at his burynges/ they came all with one consent into the countre/ which was before the East doore. And there sate Iesua the sonne of Josidce / a his brethren the priestes/ and Zoiobabel the sonne of Salathiel/ and his brethren / settinge vp an alter/ to offre breadsacrifices vpon it / as it is written in the lawe of Moyses / man of God.

There came people also of other countrees / as the Hethen out of all landes/ set vp the alter in his place / and offered sacrifices / a brens offeringes vnto the Lord in the morninge. And so they breide the feast of tabernacles / 2. M. lxxij. and it was commaunded in the lawe. And Dayly offered they as accordinge was/ and made the sacrifices appoynted/ the offeringes also of the Sabbarbes/ and of the new Moone / and all holy feastes. And all they that bowed offeringes / vnto the Lord / beganne at the new Moone of the fourth moneth / to offre vnto God / for the temple of the Lord was not yet buylded. And they gaue vnto the masons/ and carpenters/ moneymate/ and by the with chearfulness. Vnto them of Sydon also / and Tyre they gaue carnes / that they shoulde carry Carrettes from Tybarus to the temple and bearnes / and that they shoulde make shippes in the haven of Zoppa/ accordinge / as it was appoynted and ordeyned / by Cyrus Kinge of the Persians.

And in the second yeare they came into the temple of God at Jerusalem. In the seconde moneth beganne Zoiobabel the sonne of Salathiel/ and Iesua the sonne of Josidce/ a their brethren the priestes and Leuites / and all they that were come vnto Jerusalem out of the captiuitie of Babylon / and layed the foundation of the temple of God / in the new Moone of the seconde moneth in the seconde yeare / that they were come vnto Jewry and Jerusalem. And they appoynted the Leuites (that were f. about xx. yeare olde) vnto the seruice of the Lord: so Iesua and his sonnes / and his brethren all the Leuites sate together / and performed the lawe a ordinance / in the house of the Lord.

And the priestes sate and had their garments and trumpetes / and the Leuites / the sonnes of Asaph had cymbales/ cinginge banettes and psalters vnto the Lord / accordinge / as Dauid the Kinge of Israel had ordeyned. And the sange that they dyd singe vnto the Lord / was after this maner: I vsinginge vnto the Lord / for he is gracious / a his goodness vpon Israel endureth for euer. And all the people blew out with trumpetes / and singe with loud voyce/prayinge the Lorde together in the roaringe vp of the house of the Lorde. There came also from amonge the priests and Levites the rulers and elders/ accordinge to the trybes and kynredes (such as had sene the house afore) to the buildinge of this temple with greates crye and greates mourninge/ many also with trumpets and greates joye/ in so much that the trumpets myght not be heard for the weepinge and mourninge. For the common people blew goodly upon the trumpets.

G Then came the enemies of the trybes of I. Esdr. iij. Juda and Ben Jamin/ to knowe what their trumpetinge and noyse of shawmies might be. And they perceivede that it was they which were come againe out of captivitee/ and wolde buyde the temple a newe waye/ the Lorde God of Israel. So they wente to Zoubabel/ and Jesua/ and to the rulers of the vsyllages/ and saide vnto them: Shall we buyde with you also/ for we likewise haue herde your Lorde/ and we walke after the same maner/ from the dayes of Thabazareth the kinge of Assyria/ which brought vs hither. Then Zoubabel and Jesua/ and the rulers of the vsyllages of Israel saide vnto the: It is not meete that ye should buyde the temple of our God with vs: we ourselves alone will buyde vnto the Lorde. I. Esdr. iij. Like as Cyrus the kinge of the Persians hath commanded vs.

But the Heathen in the lande layed themselves against those that were in Jeruy/ helde vp the buildinge fro them/ layed waste vpon them pryuels/ flapped such as brought any thinge to the/ so bad them to buyde/ and hindered those that made them passage/ that the buildinge shoulde not be finished: a tyme continuede as kinge Cyrus liued: and so they pur of the buildinge for the space of two yeares/ vntill the reigne of kinge Darius.

The VI. Chapter.

G Over this standinge/ in the seconde yeare of I. Esdr. v. the reaigne of Darius/ Aggeus a Sacerdy the sonne of Iddo propheted vpon the in Jeruy and Jerusalem/ in the name of the God of Israel. Then Zoubabel the sonne of Blathaiel and Jesua the sonne of Josedebede vp/ and beganne to buyde the house of the Lorde at Jerusalem/ when the prophes tes of the Lorde helpeid them.

At the same tyme came Syntenes the vnderchefe in Syria a Phenicie/ with his landelords and his companions/ and saide vnto them: Who hath bydden and commaunded you to buyde the house/ to make the rofe and all other thinges agayne? And who are the workemen that buyde them? Neuer helde the elders of the Jewes had such grace of the Lorde/ that they wolde not be let (though they were prouoked thereto) but buyde on/ vntill the tyme that kinge Darius were certified therof/ and an answer receaved from him. The letter that the kinge sent vnto kinge Darius/ was after this maner.

Syntenes the vnderchefe in Syria/ and Phenicie/ and the Iudeiben with their companions/ which are head rulers in Syria/ they neede sende their salutacon vnto Darius the kinge. We certifie sure laide the kinge/ that we came into the lande of Jeruy/ and wente to Jerusalem: where we founde them buildinge the greates house of God a the temple/ with greates costly frestone/ and with goodly timbe for the walles: yet they make greates haist with the worke/ and helpe one another/ and it goeth forth prosperously in their handes/ and with greates diligence and we shalpe so it made. Then asked we the elders/ who had commaunded them to make vp the house and the buildinge: and this we heyd/ to the intent that we myght certifie the perfectly/ and write vnto the/ the names of those that were the rulers of the worke. So they gaue vs this answer: we are the seruantes of the Lorde/ which made heauen and earth: and as for this house it hath bene buyde and set vp alike tyme by the greates and myghty kinge in Israel. ij. Re. iij. But when our fathers prouoked God vnto wrath/ and sinned against the God of Israel/ he gaue them ouer into the power of Nabuchodonosor kinge of Babylon the kinge of the and ij. Re. iij. Caldes/ which brake beuene the house a bent Jeruy/ and caried awaye the people prisoners vnto Babylon.

Neuer helde/ in the first yeare that kinge Cyrus ragged at Babylon/ Cyrus the kinge I. Esdr. v. wrote and commaunded to buyde vp this house agayne: and all the countenies that Nabuchodonosor caried awaye from Jerusalem vnto Babylon.

Agg. i. c.

Babyl/ appropriated vnto his owne temple: those brought Cyrus forth agayne / and deliuered them to Zorobabel / and to Salmansar that they shoulde bringe those same ornaments agayne to Jerusalem into the temple / and to beguine from that tyme forth / to buylde the temple againe in his owne place. Then Salmansar layed the foundation of the Lords house at Jerusalem / and euer since haue they buylded / and yet is it not ended. And therefore / O Synge. If thou thinkest it good / let it be sought in the lybraries / a rolle of Kinge Cyrus: if it be fildie then / that it is done with the counsaile and consent of Kinge Cyrus / and if sure: let the Kinge be so mynded / let hym write vnto vs therof.

¶ Then commaunded Kinge Darius to seke Esdr. vi. in the lybraries: and so at Egubarus in a like cite in Media there was found such a writing: In the first yeare of the reigne of Cyrus / the Kinge Kinge Cyrus commaunded that the house of the Lorde at Jerusalem shoulde be buylded agayne (and adouers to be made there continually vnto the Lorde) whose height shalbe ten cubites / & breadth 8 cubites / and foure square with three beuel stones / with a lotte of symble of the same countrey / with a newe lotte / and the expences thereof to be gotten of the house of Kinge Cyrus. And the ornaments of golde and siluer that Nabuchodonosor tooke out of the house of the Lorde at Jerusalem / shalbe set agayne in the temple at Jerusalem / where they were afore. Synneco also the vnderchefe in Syria and Phenicis / the princes / and their companions / and the other that be head rulers in Syria and Phenicis / shall not medle neither haue any thinge to do with that place.

and oyle / and that continually sixty yeare: after the expences which the vassel that be at Jerusalem / shew to be made dayly: / that shalbe giuen vnto them without delaye: / that they maye offre sacrifices dayly to the highest God / for the King and for his seruantes / and to praye for their lyfe. Let it be proclaimed also on euery side / that whosoever breakech or despysech this commaundement of the Kinge / shalbe hangd vpon a galow / made of his owne good / and al his goodes shalbe fraised vnto the Kinge. The Lorde therefore whose name is there called vnto Iose out and despayre all the Kinges / a people that undertake by violence to hinder the same / or to deale vncharitably with the house of the Lorde at Jerusalem. I Darius the Kinge haue ordeyned / that these thinges shalbe done with all diligence.

The VII. Chapter.

¶ Then Synneco the vnderchefe in Egipt / Syria and Phenicis / and the other lande lordes with their companions / do cryed / sayinge that Kinge Darius had ordeyned / were diligent in the holy worke / a whole fellow helpe with the olde rulers of the Iewes. And so the worke of the Sanctuary wente forth prospered / when Aggeus and Zachary stood: And they performed all thinges thorow the commaundement of the Lorde God of Israel / and after the deuce of Cyrus Darius / and Artaxerxes Kinges of Persie.

¶ And thus was our house finished: vnto the xxiiij. daye of the month Taddar in the viij. yeare of Kinge Darius. And the childer of Israel the puyssles / and the Leuites / and the other that were come out of captiuitie / and such as were toynded vnto them / by accordinge as it is written in the booke of I Iose: And in the dedication of the temple they offered an hundred oxen / an C. rammes / an C. lambs / an xiij. goates for the synnes of all the people of Israel: the residue of the tribes of Israel. The puyssles also a the Leuites shode auaile in the puyssly garnetio after the tribes / euer all the yeare of the Lorde God of Israel / accordinge to the boke of I Iose / and the poyters by I Iose.

And the childer of Israel / were those that were come out of captiuitie / helde the possession the xxiiij. daye of the first month / whiche the pristles and the Leuites were sanctified. They that came out of captiuitie were not all sanctified together: but the Leuites were all sanctified together. And so all they that came out of captiuitie killed the Easter lambe for theyr brethren for the priestes also them selves. And the children of Israel that came out of captiuitie and escaped from all the abominations of the Goyes sought the Lorde and kepte the feast of unleuened bread viij. dayes longe/ raisinge and drinkinge / and were merry befor the Lorde: that the Lorde had turned the weeper of the kynge of Assyria / and aduorted their handes to the workes of the Lorde God of Israel.

The VIII. Chapter.

I After him whan Zerazertes the Kinge of Babilonia raygned there wente vnto him Esdras the sonne of Sarias / the sonne of Azarias / the sonne of Helchias / the sonne of Salum / the sonne of Sadoc / the sonne of Azubab / the sonne of Amarias / the sonne of Azarias / the sonne of Boocias / the sonne of Abisuf / the sonne of Obincas / the sonne of Eleazar / the sonne of Baruch the first priest. This Esdras wente vp from Babilon for he had good understandinge in the lawe of Moses / that was geuen of the Lorde God of Israel to be taught / and done in Iudee. And the Kinge fauoured him / and had him greete reuoluppe and honour after all his desires. There wente vp with him also certayne of the children of Israel of the priestes / of the Leuites / of the singers / porters / and ministres of the temple at Jerusalem.

In the viij. yeare of the raigne of Kinge Zerazertes in the v. month / that is in the viij. yeare of the raigne / they wente from Babilon in the next moone of the v. month / & came the hye waye to Jerusalem after his commaundement / like as the Lorde had prospered theyr iourney. For in these Esdras gat greate instructiō / that he shoulde leaue none of the thinges by hande / which were in the lawe and commaundementes of God. And he taught wholke Israel all nighte conference and iudgement.

Then came the Secretaries of Kinge Zerazertes and deliuered the writings / that were come fro Zerazertes the Kinge / to Esdras the priest / and reder of the lawe of the Lorde:

And this is the copie of the letters Kinge Zerazertes sendeth his gretinge vnto Esdras the priest and reder of the lawe of the Lorde: Of frendshipp and good will I haue obteyned and charged / yf there be any of the Jewes / of the priestes and Leuites in my realme / which desireth / and is contente to go with the vnto Jerusalem / that he maye do it. Therefore if any be minded to beare companye / let them come together / and go with the like as I am content and my. viij. frendes my counsaillers: to se what they do at Jerusalem and in Ierow / and kepe the thinges accordinge as thou hast in the lawe of the Lorde: and to bringe the giftes vnto God the Lorde of Israel / that I and my frendes haue promysed to Jerusalem / and all the silver and golde that is in the countrey of Babilon / vnto the Lorde of Jerusalem / with the thinge that is geuen for the people in the Lorde temple at Jerusalem: Yet / that the same silver & golde maye be gathered / and receaued / hope / and gaucies / and other that belonge to the se thinges / and that they maye offer sacrifices vnto the Lorde / vpon the altar of the Lorde / which is at Jerusalem.

And whatsoeuer thou and thy brether will do with silver and golde / that do after thy mynde / and after the commaundement of the Lorde thy God: and likewise with all the holy vesselles / that are geuen the for the seruyce of the house of the Lorde thy God: and other thinges whatsoeuer is necessary for the to the workes of the temple of the God / that shalbe geuen the of the Kinges treasure: and like what thou wilt with thy brether / with the golde and silver / that do after the will of the Lorde. And the Kinge Zerazertes haue commaunded the keepers of the treasures in Syria and Phoenicia / that whatsoeuer Esdras the priest and reder of the lawe of the Lorde doeth wryte it / shalbe geuen him / till an C. talentes of silver / and of golde in like maner: Of come also an C. mcalures / and xliij. an hundred vesselles of wyne / & other plenteous thinges without number. Let a' thinges be done after the lawe of the bygest God / that the wrath of God arise not in the realme of the Kinge and of his sonnes. I commaunde you also / that ye require no wynges nor tribute of the priestes / Leuites / singers / fingers / and ministers of the temple / no: of the wyrters / and that no man haue accouste to make any thyng agaynst them. So for the (C) Esdras / set thou iudges / and arbiters in the whole lande of Syria and Phenicia / after the wysdome of God: / and learne all such as are ignouant in the lawe of God thy Lotde: / and let all them that offende agaynst the lawe / be punysshed: whether it be with death / with payne / to be condemned in money / or to banyshe.

Then sayde Esdras the wyrtier: Blessed be the God of oure fathers / that hath geuen so good a minde a will vnto the hert of the kyng: / to magnific his house: that is at Jerusalem / and hath made me to be accepted in the sight of the kyng: / of his counsaill / of his frendes / and of his noble. And so I was steddfast in my mynde / accordinge as the Lord my God E helped me: / and I chose our men of Israel / to go vp with me. E And these are the heades E of their kinredes / and houses of their fathers: that wente vp with me from Babylon / our of the kingdom of Trasspercie: Of the sonnes of Shabars / Gersimud. Of the sonnes of Simeus / Amneus. Of the sonnes of Saurud / Accus the sonne of Ceelia.

Of the sonnes of Shabars / Zachary: a with him thre turned agayne an hundred a silitie men. Of the sonnes of the captiayne of Moab / Saraci / and with him ij. C. and l. men. Of the sonnes of Sarchie / Zechonias / Zecholi: and with him ij. C. and l. men. Of the sonnes of Salmasias / Getholic / and lxx. with him. Of the sonnes of Zaphacia / Sarias / Micheli: and with him lxx. Of the sonnes of Job / Abdias / Zebeli: and with him ij. C. and xij. men. Of the sonnes of Dania / Salimath the sonne of Zophia and with him an C. and lx. men. Of the sonnes of Beer / Zachary / Beby: and with him ij. C. and viij. men. Of the sonnes of Esad / Soanues / Eschani: and with him C. and x. men. Of the sonnes of Dnican / those that were the last / and these are their names: Eliphalam the sonne of Gebel / a Soneian / and with him lxx. men. All these called I together by the water Tbia / where we purged our tentes the dayes / and there I mustered them.

E So for: the sonnes of the priestes a Leuites /

I founde none there. Then sent I vnto Melasari / and Melcom / and Masini / and Melodani / and Enaathan / and Sames / and Joubunathan / Eunagan / Zachary / Mofollamum / these were the leders / and men of experyence / a I sent them word: / that they shoulde come vnto Loddne / which was by the place of the treasury / and commaunded them that they shoulde speake vnto Loddne / and to his brether / and to those that were in the treasury / so sende vs such men / as might execute his preceptes office in the house of the Lord oure God. And with the mighty hande of our Lotde God / they brought vnto vs men of good experyence / from amonge the sonnes of Moab / the sonne of Leui / the sonne of Israel / Sebeam and the sonnes and his brether / Abin / and Anim / of whom there were foure of Cananues / and the sonnes were xij. me. And of them that sturid in the temple / the name Saurud had obeyned / and the principal men that ministered for the worke vnto the Leuites in the temple: a C. and xx. men: whose names are all tolked vp in wytyng.

Then commaunded I a fastinge vnto the young men before the Lotde: / that I myght E beseech of him a prosperous iourney / a good waye for vs / yea for vs for our children: and for the cattell / because of the laynges waye: and I durst not require of the kyngs boismen and foreine: to conuey vs safely agaynst our enemies: for we had sayde vnto the kyng: / that the power of the Lotde oure God shoulde be with them / that seke him with their whole hert. And therefore we besought God oure Lotde earnestly because of these thynges / and he was mercifull vnto vs / and herde oure prayer. And I separated from amonge the rulers of the people / and from the priestes of the temple / the men / and Sebeia / and Asania / and ten men of their brether with them. And I wayed them the golde and the syluer / and all the priestly ornaments of the house of our God / which the kyng and his counsaill / and his priues / and whole Israel had geuen. And when I had wayed it / I gaue them an C. and talente in syluer / an C. talente: of syluer vessel / an C. talente: of golde / and of golden vessel / fouen myces twenty / and vessel of other metall / Cye / of good metall / in ghirringe as the golde / and sayde vnto them / ye also are holy vnto the Lozde / and the vessel are holy / and the golde and the syluer is promysed vnto the Lozde the God of our fathers. Be diligent now / and kepe it / vntill the tyme that ye deliuer it to the rulers of the people / to the priestes / to the Leuites / and to the principall men of the ciues of Iherusalem / and in the chamber of the house of cure God.

Esdras viij. ¶ So the priestes and the Leuites which recalled of me the golde / the syluer / and the vessel brought into Iherusalem into the temple of the Lozde. And from the ryuer Euphrates brake vp the first daye of the first month vntill we came to Iherusalem. And when the thirde daye was past / the weyed golde / syluer was deliuered in the house of the Lozde the fourth daye / vnto Marimuth the sonne of Joi the priest / and with him was Helizar the sonne of Phineas / and with them were Josabbus the sonne of Iehoiada / and the sonne of Bamusa certayne of the Leuites to the number and to the weighte / and the weight of them was written vp the same tyme. As for those that were come out of captiuitie / they offered sacrifice vnto the Lozde the God of Israel: euen as was ordeined for all Israel / xxxij. rammes / lxxij. sheepe / xij. goates for synne / xiiij. fine for a thank offering / and the sacrifice of the Lozde. And the senger commision deliuered they vnto the sencerdes / and debytes of the kinge / and to the vnder shiefes in Celosia / and Phineas.

Esdras ix. ¶ Now when these thinges were done / the rulers came vnto me / and sayde: The generation of Israel / the priestes / the priestes / the people / the strange people / and in dwellers of the lande / haue not put awaye their vncleanesse / from the Cananites / Gethites / Phereisites / from the Moabites / Egyptians / and Edomites. For both they and theyr women haue mingled their selues with the daughters of the / a the holy side is mixt with the outlandish Gethites / and thus the beginninge of theyr rascall / haue the rulers and yeades bene partakers of their wickednesse.

As soone as I had herd these thinges / immediately I rent my holy garmetes / and pulled out the beere of my heade / a my beere / and sat me vntill forenoon and beate. So at they that were moued thowm / word of the God of Israel / came vnto me: and I sat still full of beauntye vntill the euenynge sacrifice. Then stode I vp from fastynge / hauinge rent clothes and the holy garmetes / Enclod vnto my face / helde out my hades vnto the Lozde / and sayde: O Lozde / I am confounded and ashamed before thy face / for oure synnes are become many vpon oure heades / and our wickednesse are called vnto the heauen: for sinea the tyme of our fathers we are in great synne vnto this daye. And for the synnes of vs and our fathers / we wish oure brethren and with oure priestes haue bene deliuered vnto the kinges of the earth / into the swerde / and into the captiuitie / and became a spoyle with confusion / a shame vnto this daye. And now O Lozde God / how greate is the mercy that we haue gotten of the: in that thou hast left vs a rote and a name in the place of thy Seruatory / to disceuer our light in the house of the Lozde our God / and geuen vs mercie at all tymes of our ministracion. And when we were in captiuitie / we were not forsaken of the Lozde our God: but he made the kinges of Persia gracious and fauorable vnto vs / so that they gaue vs byrathes and meate / yet a keue to builde vp the temple of oure Lozde God agayne / to repaye the wastid place of Syon / and to dwell in Ierusalem and Iherusalem. And now O Lozde / what shall we saye / hauinge all these thynges in possession: for we haue broken thy commaundementes / which thou gauest vnto vs by the bandes of thy seruantes the prophetes / sayinge: The lande that ye go vnto / and that is geuen you for an heritage to haue in possession / is defiled with the uncleunnesse and filthines of the Egiptian / and with theyr abhominacion haue they polluted it altogether. ¶ Therefore shall ye not bringe your daughters vnto their sonnes: nor marry your sonnes vnto their daughters: Moreover ye shall neuer see to make peace with them / that ye may increase and eate the best of the lande: and that ye maye vnto the inheritance of the lande vnto your childre for euermore. As for the thinge that now happeneth vnto vs / it cometh all for our wickednesse.

And greate synnes / yet haste thou geuen vs siche a rote / that we are come againe into our owne lande / and we are so wretched / that we haue broken thy statutes / and commaundementes againe / a mengle our selues with the vncleannes of h outlandish Heathē.
O Lord / art thou angry with vs / wouldest thou rote vs cleane out / that oure rote a name remaine none.
O Lord God of Israel / thou art true / for oure rote endureth yet vnto this present daye.
And beholde / now are we before the in oure synnes / nowe can we not stande before the in them.

W And when Esdras with this prayer had knowledged the synne / weeping / and lyeinge flat vpon the grounde before the temple / there gathered vnto hym from Ierusalem a greate multitude of men and womē / of yonge men and maydeno / for there was a very greate weeping and mourninge in the congregacion.
So when Iechonias the sonne of Iehoiada one of the chyldren of Israel cryed / he seide vnto Esdras / we haue synned agaynst the Lozde / because we haue marryed outlandish womē of the Heathē. Now art thou our all Israel.
We will sweare an oath therefore vnto y Lozde / that we shal put awaye all oure wyues whiche we haue taken of the Heathen with theys chyldren / yf as it is appoynded by oure forefathers.
Stande vp then / open thou it and declare it playnly vnto vs / according to the lawe of the Lozde / so: the matter belongeth vnto the / and we will helpe the / quyte thy selfe manly.
So Esdras arose / and toke an oath of the rulers of the priestes / and of the Leuytes and of all Israel / to do after these thynges / and they sware.

The IX. Chapter.

When Esdras stode vp from the court of the temple without / and wente into the chamber of Jonathan the sonne of Eleasub / and remained there / and are no meate nor drinke vsynke / for the multitude of the wickednes of h people.
And there was made a proclamation in all Ieremy and at Ierusalem / for all such as were gathered at Ierusalem out of captiuitie / that whosoever came nexte to Ierusalem within one of the dayes / according to the vngement of the Lozde / should be receiued.

sayll / his goddes shoulde be taken from him / and be excluded from the congregacion of the captiuitie.
And in this daye were all they of the tribe of Iuda / and Ben Jamin gathered together at Ierusalem / the xx. daye of the ix. month.
And the whole multitude sat trembling in the court of the temple / for it was winter.
So Esdras arose vp / and sayde vnto them: ye haue done vnrightously / in thaire baucten outlandish wyues / to marriage / and so to inuocate the synnes of Israel.
And nowe knowlege the same / and geue payse vnto the Lozde God of oure fathers / and performe his will / departinge from the Heathen of the lande / and from the outlandish wyues.
Then cryed the whole multitude with loude voyce / and sayde: yf as thou hast spoken / so will we do.
But so muche so the people are many / and the wynter here / we maye not stande without the house / agayne / this worke is not a thinge that can be finished in a daye or two / for we be many that haue synned in these thynges.
O veyne therefore / that the rulers of the multitude and all they that dwell with vs / as many as haue outlandish wyues / the priestes also / and iudges of euery place / maye stande in the tyme appoynded / yf they luse vp the waye of the Lozde in this busynesse.

Then Jonathan the sonne of Ezei / and Ozias / and Thecan receaued the charge of this matter / and Bogotaimus / and Leuis / and Sabathens helped them therin.
After this / all they stode vp / that were come out of captiuitie.
And Esdras the priest chose vnto him the principall men from amonge the fathers / according to theyr names / and in the new moone of the tenth month they sat together to examine this matter.
And so the matter was a vtternynge / concerninge the men that had outlandish wyues / vntill the new moone of the ysste month.
And of the priestes / one had myxe them selfes with outlandish wyues / there were founde: I Of the sonnes of Iesu the sonne of Josidee / and his brethren / Hages / Eleazer / Joubus and Zoadenis / which offered them selfe to put awaye theyr wyues / and to offre a vaine for theyr synnes.
And of the sonnes of Chanani / Ahasab / Esso / and Zedek / and of the sonnes of Iarico

The prieftes and Leuites / and al they that were of Israel / dwelt at Jerusalem and thoroout at the land / in the new moone of the feynith moneth / and the chyldren of Israel ¶ Esdias were in their dwellinges. And the whole multitude came together vpon the floore at the East syde of the holy poire of the temple. And they spake vnto Esdias the hie priefte a rede / that he wolde dyngge the lawe of Moyses / whiche was geuen of the Lorde God of Israel. So Esdias the hie priefte broughre the lawe vnto the whole multitude / to man and women / and to all prieftes / that they might heare the lawe / in that new moone of the feynith moneth. And he red in the floore / that he shoulde for the holy poire of the temple / fro the mourninge early vntill the eueninge / before men and women. And they applyed theyr mynde all vnto the lawe.

¶ And Esdias the priefte and rede of the lawe stode vp vpon a scaffold of wood / whiche was made therfore / and vpon his right hande there stode by hym Martharbias / Sammus / Amanias / Aarias / Dnaas / Dychias / a Balsamus / vpon his lefte hande stode Galdeus / Misael / Malchias / Abufabas / Sabus / Misael and Zachary. Then rose Esdias the boke before that whole multitude / for he was the priefte / and had in most honoure of them all. And when he had red vnto the lawe / they stode all straight vp vpon theyr feete. So Esdias prayed the Lorde the moste hie God / the Almightye God of hostes. And all the people answered / Amen / and helde vp theyr handes / fell vnto the earth / and prayed the Lorde / Jcius / Benneas / Serachias / Jaddimus / Serubus / Sabarheus / Calirbes / Aarias / Joradus / Ananias / and Philius the Leuites whiche taught the lawe of the Lorde / and red the lawe of the Lorde in the congregation / and every man set those before that enderfode the lawe. Then spake Atharabes vnto Esdias the hie priefte and rede / a to the Leuites that taught the multitude / sayinge / This daye is holy vnto the Lorde / and all they that herde the lawe / wepte. So Esdias sayde / Departe youre wayes then / and eate the brist / and drynke the sweetell / and sende giftes vnto them that haue nothinge / for this daye is holy vnto the Lorde / and hee not ye say. Then wente they their waye euerychone / and theyd eate and drynke / and were merry / and sende rewardes vnto them that had nothinge / that theyr alms theyr care with gladnesse / for they were exceedingly reioyced / thowoe the women that were red vnto them in the lawe / And so they were all gathered to gether at Jerusalem to hold the feast / accordinge to the commandment of the Lorde God of Israel.

Go thy waye / and shew my people their synfull dedes / and theye chydie their wickednesse / whiche theye haue done against me / that theye maye tell their chylders / children the same / for the synnes of their fathers are increaced in them. And whye / theye haue forgotten me / and haue offered vnto straunge gods. And no / I euen be / that broughte them out of the lande of Egypte / from the house of bondage. But theye haue provoked me vnto wrath / and despised my counsaile. Will thoue vnto then the heere of thy brade / and cast all ouer our them / for theye haue not bene obedient vnto my late.

It is a people without learninge / a nauourour. How longe shal I forsake them / vnto whome I haue done so much good. Manye Kinges haue I destroyed for their sake. I Darius with his seruantes / and all his power haue I synnen doune and slayne. All the nations haue I destroyed and roted out before them / and in the East haue I broughte two landes / and people to nauight / euen Egipt / and Chilon / and haue slayn al their enemies. Speake thoue therefore vnto the / sayinge. Thus sayeth the Lorde. I led youe thowme the see / and haue giuen youe sure stretes / since the beginninge. I gaue youe Moses to be your captayn / and Aaron to be the puelle. I gaue youe light in a pylle of fyre / and greace wone. I gaue youe a dore haue I bene amonge youe / yet haue ye forgotten me / saith the Lorde.

Thus sayeth the almyghty Lorde. I gaue youe quazles to eate / and tentes for your succoure. Neuertheless / ye murmured / and ascribed not the victorie of youre enemies vnto my name / yet / this same daye do ye yet murmoure. Where are the benefits that I haue done for youe. When ye were hungry in the wilderness / and ye did not crye vnto me. Whye haste thoue broughte vs into this wilderness / to kil vs. It had bene better for vs to haue serued the Egipcians / then to dye in this wilderness. Then had I pitee vpon your mourninges / and gaue youe Manna to eate. Ye are aungels foode. Whye ye were thirsty / ye did not I beue the hard stone / and caused water ynough to floure thereout. For the heare / I covered youe with the leaues of the trees. A good pleasure set lande gaue I youe. Ye did castle out the Canaanites / the Pherysico and Philistines before youe. What shall I do more for youe / saith the Lorde.

Thus sayeth the almyghty Lorde. Whye ye were in the wilderness / in the water of the Amontee. O cenge a thyll / and blaspheyme my name. I gaue youe not fyre for your blasphemie / but castle a tree into the water / and made the ryuer strete. What shall I do vnto the. Iacob. Thoue Iuda woldst not obeye me. I will turne me to another people / and vnto those wyl I geue my name / that theye maye kepe my statutes. O cenge ye haue forsaken me. I wyl forsake youe also. When ye besyue me to be gracious vnto youe / I shal haue no mercy vpon youe. When ye call vpon me / I wyl not heare youe. For ye haue defiled youre handes with bloud / and youre feete are swife to commye mans laugher. Ye haue not forsaken me / in a manner. But youre owne selkes / saith the Lorde.

Thus sayeth the almyghty Lorde. haue I not prayed youe as a father his sonnes / as a mother her daughters / and as a noyse her sonnes babes / that ye wolde be my people / and I shoulde be youre God / that ye wolde be

The III. booke of Esdras.

Mat. xxv. d Be my children/and I shoulde be your own father: I gathered you together/as an hene gathereth her chickens vnder her wynges. Es. i. a and lxxi. a But now what shal I do vnto /I you shall call you out for my face. What ye offre vnto me /I shal turne my face fro you: for your solepne feaste dayes/your new moones/your circumsisations haue I forsaken. I sent vnto my seruantes the prophetes/whom ye haue taken and slayne/and zorn thar bodies in pecces/whofe bloodes I will requyre of your handes/seyeth the Lord.

f Thus seerth the almyghty Lorde/your house must be desolate. I wyll cast you out as the wynde doeth the strawe: your children shall not be fruitful/for they haue despysed my commaundment/and done the thinge tharis euell best for me. Your houses wyll I geue vnto a people that shall come/and they that neuer herde me /shall helpe in me: and they vnto whome I neuer shewed token/ shall do the thinge that I commaunde them. They haue sene no prophetes/yer shall they call they: synners to remembrance / and knowlege them. I repute me vnto the grace that I wyll do for the people whiche is to come /whofe children reioyce in gladnesse: and though they haue not sene me with bodily eyes/yer in spirite they belefe the thinge that I saye. And nowe forther beholde what greates wo: shippes/and fe the people that cometh from the East/ vnto whome I wyll geue the Ruff. Some of Absahai / Isaac and Jacob / of Oseas / Amos and Madaas / of Joel/Abdy / Jonas / Utaum and Abacuc / of Sophony/Aggeus/Sachary and Malachy / whiche is called also an aungel/for messaunger of the Lord.

The II. Chapter.

A Thus sayeth the Lorde: I thoughte this people out of bondage/I gaue the my commaundmentes by my seruantes the prophetes/whome they wolde not heare/ but despysed my counsaile. The mother that bare them /syerth vnto them: Wo your waye children /for I am a wydowe and forsaken: I thoughte you vp with gladnesse: but with sorowe and heauynesse haue I lost you: for ye haue sinned before the Lorde your God/and done the thinge tharis euell before hym. But what shall I nowe do vnto you: I am a wydowe and forsaken: go your waye/ to my children/and aye mercy of the Lorde. So for me a father/ I cal vpon the for a witnesse ouer the mother of this children/ whiche wolde not kepe my conuenaunt: that thou synge them to confuson/ and theyr mother to a spoyle/that she beare nomore. Let their names be feared abroade amonge the Hebrers/ let them be put ouer of the carth/for they haue thoughte some of my conuenaunt.

Wo be vnto the Assur/that thou that hydest the vnrightheous by the. Thou wokedst people/tremendib what I byd vnto Soddam Gen. x. i. and Gomorre/whofe laide is turned to pitch and asphes. Euen so also wyll I do vnto all them that beare me not/seyeth the almyghty Lorde. Thus seerth the Lorde vnto Esdras: Tell my people/that I wyll geue them the kyngdome of Ierusalem /which I wolde haue geuen vnto Siracl. Theyr glory also wyll I take vnto me/ and geue them the cucelashinge rabetnacles / whiche I had prepared for thes.

The tree of lyc shall be vnto them a sweete smellynge oymntment: they shall neyther labour nor be weery. Wo ye your waye / and ye shall receaue it. Praye for your selues a fewe dayes/that they maye dwell therein. None is the kyngdome prepared for you /therefor ward. Take becaun and erythe to remember: for I haue gooden the euell in pecces/and created the Ruff: for I lyse seerth the Lorde. Nowe ther embrace thy children/and synge the op with gladnesse: make thar iete as full as a piler/for I haue chosen /seyeth the Lorde.

And those that be dead wyll I raise vp as gayne from thair places/and bring them out of the graues/for I haue knowen my name in Isracl. Feare not thou mother of the children/for I haue chosen the /seyeth the Lorde. And for thy helpe I shall lend the my seruantes Esay and Ieremy /after whose counsaile I haue sanctified and prepared for the: th. trees with diuersifd frutes / as manye velties flowing with mylle and honny / a faine mountaunce/wherupon thre growe roses a lites/wherin I will syl my children abowe. I wyll geue iustice for the wydow/ be iudge for fatherles: geue to the poore/ defende the feble/ close

As for the naked: beale the wounded and sicke: laugh not a lame man to scoone: defende the crepe/and let the blind come into thy sight of my cleannes. Take the olde and yonge with in thy walke: Take wher so euer thou fyndest the dead: steepe them/and burye them/and I shall geue the first place in my resurrection. Holde still: O my people/ and take thy rest/ for thy quyetnes is come. See the chyldren O thou good noyse: stablish their feete. As for the seruantes whome I haue geuen the: there shall not one of them perishe: for I will see them from thy number: wcheye not thy selfe.

For when the daye of trouble and heauynes commeth/other shall wepe and be sorrowfull: but thou shalt be merry and plentuous. The: Heuyn shall be gelous/ but they shall be able to do nothinge againste the: sayeth the Lo. De. My handes shall couer the: so that thy chyldren shall not see the fyre euerlastinge. Be ioyfull O thou mother with thy chyldren/ for I will deliuer the: sayeth the Lo. De. Remembre thy dead chyldren: for I shall bringe them out of the earth/ and shew mercy vnto them: for I am mercifull/ sayeth the Lo. De. alwayes.

2. Embrace thy chyldren / vntyll I come and shew mercy vnto them/ for my welles runne ouer/ and my graces shall not faile. I Esdras receaued a charge of the Lo. De vpon the mount Oreb/ that I shoulde go vnto Israel. But when I came vnto them/ they sceme at naught/ and despyed the commaundement of the Lo. De. And therfore I saye vnto you/ O ye Heuyn / that heare and vnderstande: Look for youre shepherde/ he shall geue you neuerlesinge rest: for he is nye at hande / that shall come in the ende of the worlde. Be ready to the rewarde of the kyngdome/ for the euerlastinge lyfys shall thynge vpon you for euermore. He the habytone of this worlde/ receaued the ioyfulnessse of youre glory. I testifie my fauoure openly: O receaued the gyfte that to geue you/ and be glad/ geuynge thanks vnto hym/ that hath called you to the heauyn kyngdome. Arise vp/ and stande fast: Beholde / the number of those that be lealed in the staffe of the Lo. De/ whiche are departed from the habytone of the worlde/ and haue receaued glorious garments of the Lo. De. Take thy number O Zion/ and shut up thy purysed/ whiche haue fulfilled the lawe of the Lo. De. The number of thy chyldren whome thou lovestest: for he fulfilled: Beside the power of the Lo. De/ that thy people wuld haue ben called from the beginninge/ may be halowed.

I Esdras saue vpon the mount Zion a great people/ whome I could not number/ Apoc. v. 4. and they all praised the Lo. De with songes of thanksgyuyng. And in the myddist of them there was a yonge man of an hie stature/ more excellent then all they / and vpon eury one of their heedes he set a crowne/ and was cuer hygher and hygher/ whiche I marauyld at greatly. So I aske the aungell and sayde: Sy/ what are these? He answered and said vnto me: These be they / that haue put of the mortal clothinge/ and put on the immortall/ and haue testifyd and knowleged the name of God. Now are they crowned / and receaued the rewarde.

Then sayd I vnto the aungell: what yonge person is it that crowneth them/ and geueth them the palmes in theyr handes? He answered and sayde vnto me: It is the sonne of God/ whome they haue knowlegid in the worlde. Then begaune I greatly to comende the/ that glode so stedfastly for the name of the Lo. De. And so the aungell sayde vnto me: Go thy waye/ and tel my peple what maner of thinges/ and howe great wonderes of Lo. De thy God thou hast seene.

The IIII. Chapter.

IN the thyrtye yeare of the fall of the cite/ I was at Babylon/ and lay troubled vpon my bed/ and my thoughtes came to ouer my herte: for I sawe the desolation of Zion/ and the plentuous reualty of them that dwell at Babylon: and my spere was sore mewed/ so that I beganne to speake fearfull wordes to the most heryest/ and sayde: O Lo. De Lo. De thou speakest at the beginninge/ when thou spakest at the beginninge/ when thou plantedst the earth/ and that thy selfe alone / a goodly commaundement vnto the people / and a body vnto Adm/ whiche was a creature of thy hande: / and haste sowed in hym the seed of lyfe/ and so be sowed before the / and thou leddest hym into paradys/ whiche garden of pleasure thy right hande had planted/ or and to see forth the similitudes before the wherof thou canst declare me one / I will shewe the also the waye but thou thyselfe to stand / I shal shewe the fro whence the wisedoms cometh. And I sayde: tell on my Lord. Then sayde he vnto me: Wo thy woffeyne me the weight of thy / or measure me the blay of the wynde / or call me againe the waye that is past. The answered I and said: What man boime is able to do that? Why requartest thou such of me? And he sayde vnto me: If I should see the how deepe dwellings are in the see: Or how great water springes are vpon the firmament? Or how great water springes are in the beginninge of the depe: Or which are the outgynges of Paradise? Peraduenture thou woldst see vnto me: I neuer wente vnto ye into the depe nor in hell/ neyther dyd I euer clymbe vp in to heauen. I wote belesse/ nowe haue I seed the but onely of fyre and wynde/ as of the waye there thorow thou hast receyued/ and from the which thou canst not be separated: and yet canst thou geue me no answer of them.

B He saide moreover vnto me: Thine owne thinges/ and such as are growe up with the canst thou not knowe: how shouldest thou then be able to comprehend the waye of the highes: and now outwardly in the corrupcion to orde: / to understande the corrupcion: that is euident in my syght: Then sayde I vnto him: It were better that we were not at all: then that we should liue in wickednesse/ and to suffere/ and not to knowe wherfore. He answered me/ and sayde: I wente in a woodde:
and the trees toke such a voyce and sayde:

he. ii. b Come let vs go/ and fyghe agaynst the see/for we have in maye deperate a waye before vs/ and that we maye make vs yet more woodde.

The floudes of the see also in like maner toke this voyce/ and said: Come/ let vs go vp/ and fyghe agaynst the trees of the woodde/ that we maye make our lande the wylder. The thought and voyce of the woodde was but vaine a no-thinge worth/ for the fyre came and consumed the woodde: The thought of the floudes of the see came likewise to naughte also/ for the same floodde vp and flopped them.

C If thou wouldest iudge nowe betwixte these two/ whome woldst thou iustifye/ or whome woldst thou eddorne? I answered a saide: Verely it is a foolish thought that they wold haue deuyed. For the grounde is geuen vnto the wood/ and the see also hath his place to deare his floudes. Then answered he me a sayde: Thou hast geuen a right iudgement/why iudgest thou not thy selfe also? For lyke as the grounde is geuen vnto the woodde/ and the see to his floudes: euen so they that dwell vpon earth/ maye vnderstande no bing: But Joba. ii. c that which is vpon earth/ and he that dwel. q. c. li. g leth about the heauens/ maye onely vnderstande the thinges that are about the heaues.

Then answered I and sayde: I beseeche the Lord. Let me haue vnderstandinge: for it was not my minde to be curious of the be-thinges/ but of fyre as the daye meth with all: namely/ wherfore that I shall be blasphemed of the heuyn / and for what cause the people whome thou euer hast loued/ do geue ouer/ to be punished of engodly nationes: and why the lawe of our fathers is broughte to naughte/ and the wysdomme remouaunte come to none affecte/ and we passe awaye out of the worlde as the greeshoppers/ and our life is a very feare/ and we are not worthy to optaine mercy. What wyl be do then vnto his name/which is called vpon ouer vs? Of these thinges haue I seyd question.

D Then answered he me and sayde: The more thou searchest the more thou shalt maruall/ for the wynde he hath lest to passe awaye/and can not comprehend the thinges that are promised for righteous in tyme to come/for this worlde is full of vngodlynesse. Job. v. c and weaknesse.

But as concerninge the thinges wherof thou seest me/ I wylt all the. The euill is so-wen/ but the best: and therof is not yet come.
If the euill now that is sowne/ be not turned vpside downe/ and if the place where the euill is sowne/ passe not awaye/ then can not the thinge come that is sowne with the good. For the come of euill seede hath bene sowne in the heart of man from the beginninge/ and how much vngodlynesse hath bene sowne: yet vnto this tyme/ and how much shal be yet synge forth/ vntill he come into the herne?

Donde nome by thy selfe/ whan the come of euill seede is cur downe/ how greete a burne shalte fyll: I answered and sayde: Howe/a whan shall these thynges come to passe?

Wherefor are oure yeares few and euill? And be answered me/sayinge: Hast not thou to much upon the Gyss/for thy baylynes to be about him is but in wayne /thou makest to make a 30. Why not the scales also of the righteous are question of these thynges in their holyngs sayings: Howe longe shall I hope of this fashon: Whan cometh the frute of my barne/and my reward? And up pon this Iremiel the archaungel gaue them answeringe and sayde: I. When whan the num bre of the sedes is fylled in you: for he hath weyed the woelde in the Balaunce in measure and numbre hath he measured the tyme/and moued it not/ontyll the same measure be ful fylled. Then answered I and sayde: O Lo rd/Lord/nou are me al ful of synne/and for oure sake. p. aduerture it is not /that the barne of the righteous shall not be fylled/because of the synnes of them that dwell up pon earth.

2p.c. vi. b

So be answered me/and sayde: Go thy waye to a woman with chyldre/and ope her whan the barsh fulfilled her. ix. monethes/ if her chyldre maye kepe the byrth any lon ger within her. Then sayde I: No Lorde/that can she not. And he sayde vnto me/ In hell the secreete places of soules are lyke the pryncy chaumber of a woman. So: lyke as a woman that trauaileth/ maketh haill / whan the tyme a necessity of the byrth is at hande: Euen so doeth the haill to deliuer it that is committed vnto her. Take what thou desy rest to see/shalbe seede the from the begin ninge. Then answered I and sayde: If I haue founde fauoure in thy syghte / and if it be possible/and if I be more therofre/brow me then / whether there be more to come then is past/ or more past then is for to come. What is past/ I knowe: but what is for to come/ I knowe not.

And he saide vnto me: Stande vp vpon / right syde/ and I shall espyde the similitude vnto the. So I stode/ and beholde/ an whore surmyng ouer vnto ouer before me/ and it happened that whan the flame was gone by/the smoke had the upperhande. After this there went ouer before me a watery cloude/and sente doune muche rayne with a storme/ and the stormy rayne was past/ the drippes remayned still. Then sayde he vnto me: lyke as the rayne to more then the drop pes/ and as the fyre exceedeth the smoke/ euen so the measure of the thynges that are past/hath the upperhande. Then wente the drop pes and the smoke about: and I played and sayde: Maye I lyeue / chynell thou / whyll that tyme? Or what shall happen in those dayes? He answered me/ and sayde: Do for the tokens wherof thou askest me/ I maye tel le of the them in a p.arse: For as touchinge thy lyfe/ I maye not shewe the/ for I am not sint therofore.

The V. Chapter.

¶ Euerbel/ Bala concerninge the tokens/ I ¶ Marke the: Behold/ the dayes shal come that they whiche dwell vpon earth/ shalbe ra ren in a great numbre/ and the waye of the ruchy shalbe hyd/ and the lande shalbe barren from faryth: But iniquyte shall haue the up perhande/ aske as thou hast sente nomy/ and as thou hast herde longe ago. And the lande that thou seest now to haue rule/ shalbe thou hant ly seruaill. But if God graunte the to lyeue/thou shalbe after the thirde trompte/ that the Sunne shal suddenlye shyne again in / nyght/and the Moone the tyme in the daye/ and stonn shall droppe out of wood/ and the stone shall geue his voyce/ and the people shalbe in quiete: and euen he shall rule/ whome they hope not that dwell vpon earth/ and the sou les shall flur/ and the Sodomitish/ se that cast out his fysh/ and make a noyse in the nyghte/whiche many shall not knowe/ but they shall all heare the voyce therof.

There shalbe a confusion also in many pla ces/ and the fyre shalbe oft sente agayne/ and the wynde beastes shal goe they waye/ a men stretuous women shal beare monsters/ and salt waters shalbe found in the streete: one scorde shal fyghte againste another/ then shal all tye and vnderstandinge be hyd/ and put asyde to their secreete places/ and shalbe soughte of many/ and yet not be founde: then shall on righteousnesse/ and voluptuousnesse haue the upperhande vpon earth. One lande also shall spee another/ and say: Is righteousness gone thou we the? And u shall saye: No. In the same same tyme shall men hope / but nothinge openlyne: they shall labour: but their wayes shall not prosper.

So theare the such tokens I haue leue / and if thou wilt praye agayne / and wepe as now / and fill iuen Daies / thou shalt heare yet greater things. Then I awaked / and a fearfulness wente throughe all my body / a my mynde was fible and carefull / so that I almost frouned withall. So the aungel that was come to talke with me / helde me / comforted me / and set me up vpon my feete.

¶ And in the seconde night it happened / that Salathiel the captayne of the people came vnto me sayinge: Where hast thou benet and why is thy countenance so heavy? Knowest thou not that Israel is committed vnto the / in the lande of their captiuitie? Up then / and care / and forsake vs now / as the shepherde that lea-ueth his flock in the handes of wicked wolves.
Then sayde I vnto him: Go thy waye fro me / and come not nye me: and he herde it: and as I sayde / so went he his waye fro me. And so I filled iuen Daies / mourninge and weeping / like as Thiel the aungel commaunded me. And after iue Daies it happened / that the thought-es of my hert were very greuous vnto me / agayne / and my soule receaued the spere of onderstandinge / and I begane to talke with the moost by ghest agayne and sayde: O Lord Lorde / of euerie wood of the earth and of all the trees thereof / thou hast chosen the one only vineyard: and of all lades of i whole worldes / thou hast chosen the one pye: and of all floures of the grounde / thou hast chosen the one lyte:
and of all the verbes of the see / thou haste siled the one ryuer: and of all buylde cines thou hast halowed Zion vnto thy self: and of all the soules that are created / thou hast named the one vs: and of all the cattell that are made / thou hast provided the one shepe: and amonge all the multitude of folkes / thou hast gotten the one people / and vnto this people whom thou loudest / thou gauest a lawe / that is proud of all.

¶ And now O Lorde / why hast thou giuen this one people ouer vnto many / and vpon the one rote / thou hast prepared other / and why hast thou feared thy one only people amonge many: which reade the doune / yee / which haue euer withstande thy promyses / and neuer beleued thy conuenaunces / And though thou we-rest enemye vnto thy people / yet shouldest thou punish them with thine owne handes. Now whan I had spoken these wordes / the aungel that came to me the night afore / was sent vnto me / and saide vnto me: Heare me / and hearken to the thinge that I saye / a I shall tell y more.

And I sayde: Speake on my Lorde. Then saide he vnto me: Thou art fore vnto a trouble-led fo / Israels sake. Louest thou the people better the him that made them? And I sayde: No Lord / but of very greif and compassion haue I spoken for my raynes payne me every houre / because I wolde haue experience of the waye of the moost by ghest / a to see our parte of his iudgement. And he saide vnto me: that thou maest not. And I said wherfore? Lorde?
Wherunto was I born them? Or why was not my mothere shuldred then my graue?
So had I not sene the mysrye a trouble of Zacob / and the traualye of my people of Israel.

¶ And he saide vnto me: Gladde me the thin-ges that are not yet come: gather me together the thoppes that are scattered abroad: make me the flourer grene agayne that are withered: open me the thynge that is closed: and bringe me forth the wyndes that are shut up. And bringe me the image of a voyce / and then shall I Re-clare y thinge that thou labourst to knowe.
And I sayde: O Lorde Lorde / who maye knowe these thinges / but he that hath not his drelling with me: Is fo for me / I am vnwysse: how maye I then speake of these thinges / wherof thou askest me? The sayde he vnto me: like as thou canst / so none of these thinges / I haue spoke of / euen so canst thou not synde of my iudgements / or in the ende the loue that I haue promysed vnto my people. And I sayde: Beholde O Lorde / yet art thou nye vnto them that haue no ende: and what shall they do that haue bene before me / or yet to be now / or they that shall come after vs? And he sayde vnto me: I will lye / my iudgement vnto a answered and sayde: Couldst thou not make

The III. booke of Esaias.

I Then answered he me and saide: The creature maye not haue above the maker / neyther maye the worlde holde the at once / that shalbe created.

And I saide: How hast thou saide then vnto thy seruants / that thou lyuinge mater hath made the creature lyuinge at once / as the creature bare it: euen so mighte it now also beare them that be present at once. And he saide vnto me: The childes bed of a woman / and saie vnto her: If thou bringest forth children: why dost thou it not together / but one after another: Praye her therefore / to bringe forth ten children at once. And I saide: She can not / but must do it one after another.

Then saide he vnto me: Euen so haue I gotten a child: shed vnto the earth / for those that be foune vpon it by process of tyme. For like as a yonge child maye not bringe forth the thinges that belonge to the aged: euen so haue I ordeined the worlde which I made.

G And I red and saide: Seeing thou hast now giuen me a waye / I will speake before: for our moether of whom thou hast tolde me / is yet yonge: a now she diuethlye vnto age. He answered me a saide: Aye a woman & beareth children: as she shall tell the. Saye vnto her: whether she are not they / whom thou hast now brought forth: like these that were before the: but lesse of stature: And she shall answer the: They that be borne in 3 yowth of strenght / are of one fashion: as they that are doune in 3 tyme of age: what 3 childes delf sayeth: Are other wyse. Consider now thy self: how 3 ye are lesse of stature: the thos 3 were before you / as so are they that come after you: lesse then ye: as 3 creatures which now begynne to be old: / a haue passed ouer the strenght of youth. Then saide I: Lord: 3 blesde 3 / if I haue founde sauoure in thy sight / where thy seruants / by whom thou hast created thy creature:

The VI. Chapter.

I When the grounde was made / before the worlde stode: or euer the wyndes blew: before it thoudyrt / and lightened: or euer the foundations of Paradyse were layed / before the fayre flowers were sene: or euer 3 notable paueris were established: before the innumerable multitudes of angels were gathered together: or euer the bygnesses of the aye were listed vp / afore the measures of the firmaments were named: or euer the chynnyes in Syon were hoted: or the pastent yeaeres were sought out: and or euer the inuencions of them that now synne / were put asyde: before they were sealed 3 now gather saith for a treasure: then did I confide and ponde all these thynges: and they all were made thow me: a thow none other: by me also they be ended: and by none other.

Then answered I and saide: which shalbe the paring assunder of the gymes: Or when shalbe the ende of the first / and the beginning of it: that foloweth: And he saide vnto me: From Abraham vnto Isaac: vnto Jacob and Esau were borne of him: / Jacobs hande helde first the heale of Esau: for Esau is the ende of this worlde: and Jacob is the beginning of it: that foloweth. The hande of man betwix the heale and the hande. Or her question / I shal dreake thou not.

I answered then and saide: O Lord: 3 Lord: if I haue founde sauoure in thy sight / I beseech the: where thy seruants the ende of thy tokens / whereof thou shewest me parte / lest might. So he answered a saide vnto me: Stande vp vpo thy feet: and heare the perfecte voyce and sounde. There shall come a grate mocion: but the place where thou standest shall not be moued: And therefore when thou hearell the wordes: be not afraied: for the ende shall the worde and foundacion of the earth be vnderstande. And why: 3 worde therof trembleth and quaketh: for it knoweth that it must be chaunged at the ende. And it happened / that when I had herde it / I stode vpo my feet: and herkend: and behold: there was a voyce that spake / and the sounde of it was like the sounde of many waters: and it saide. Behold: the dayes come: that I wil begynne to vame me: and so vsyd them that dwell vpon earth: and will begynne to make inquisition of the: what they be: that haue burte conuice: vnto rightconuices / and when the lower cste of Syon shalbe fulfilled: and when the wail of that that wailsh away: shalbe euer sealed: then will I do these to them.

best worde of all thy creatures: Of him come we all/and the people also / whome thou hast chosen specially vnto thy self. All this haue I saide now a litte before the: that I might shewe/ how that the worlde is made for oure sake. As for the other people which also come of Adam / thou hast saide that they are nothinge/ but be like a spyrte/ and hast likened the aboundance of them vnto a thowpe (that fallerh) from the rofe of the house.

And now (O Lord) the Briten which haue neuer bene reputed as nothinge / haue begonne to be deuided ouer vs / as to deuoure vs: but we thy people T (whome thou hast called the first borne / thy only begotte / a thy seuerer louer) are geuen into their handes a power. If the worlde now be made for oure sake / why haue we not the inheritaunce in possession with the worlde? How longe shall this endure?

The VII. Chapter.

And it happened after that I had spoken out these wordes / there was sent vnto me an aungel (which had bene by me also the nyghts before) and he sayde vnto me: O Esdras / a heare the wordes that I am come to tell y. And I saide: speake on Lord my God. The saide he vnto me: The see is set in a wyde place / that it might be depe a greate: but the intrance is narrow and small like a ryuer. For who wolde go into the see / to lye vpon it / and to rule it? If he wente northow the narrow / how might he come into the broad?

Item another Citie is buylded and set vpon a broad felde / and is full of all goodes: the intrance is narrow and fobaine / like as if there were a sye at the ryght hande / an a depe water as I left / as it were onely one straight path bermye them both / so small / that there comde but one man go thre.

If this cite now were geuen to an aye / a he neuer wente thowr this narrow waye / how wolde he recouer his inheritaunce? And I sayde: Is it so Lord. Then sayde he: Euen so is Israel also a pereton. And why? for their sake haue I made the worlde: and when Adam transgressed my statutes / then was the thinge iudged that was done. Then were the intrances of the worlde made narrow / full of fowre and traunse / They are but few a euell / full of perels and labour. For the inuauence of the foire worlde were wyde and sure / and brought immortall frute.

If they now which are entred into this worlde / maye not compend the these strayinge and vayne thinges / much lesse maye they comprehend and vnderstande the secrete thinges: Why disquietest thou thy self the / syngre thou art but a corruptible man: And what woldest thou knowe / where as thou art but mortall: And why hast thou not recoured into thine bert the thinge that is for to come / but that is present?

Then sayde I: O Lord Lord / thou hast obeynd in thy lawe / T that the righteous shoulde inheret these thinges / but that the vnsaithfull and engodly shoulde perishe: Heuere theleso / the righteous shall suffre strayinge thinges / and hope for wyde: for they that haue lyued engodly / and suffred strayinge thinges / shal not se the wyde.

And he sayde vnto me: There is no iudge aboute God / and none that hath vnderstandinge aboute the Highest. For there be many that perishe / because they despyse the lawe of God that is set before them. For God hath geuen strayinge commaundment to such as come / that they knowe what they do / and how they shoulde lyue: as if they kepte this / they shoulde not be punyshed.

Heuere theleso / they were not obedient vnto him / but spake agaynst him: imagined vayne thinges / and purposed to synne: and saide mo recouer / that there was no God / and that God regarded it not. His wayes haue they not knowen / his lawe haue they despyed / and benepd his promise: in his statutes and ordonances haue they not bene faithfull and stood fast / and haue not performd his woike.

And therfore Esdras / vnto the full plenty / of the empye / emptyis. Behold / the ryme shall come / that these toke which I haue tolde the / shall come to passe / and the hyde shall appere: and the earth that now passeth awaye / shal be shewed: a whosouer is deuoured from the foire sayde euell / shall se my wonders. For my sonne Iesus helde openly declared / with those that be with him: and they that comaine / shalbe mercy in foule hundred yeres.

After these same yeres shal my sonne Christ eye/and all men that haue life: and the worlde shalbe turned into the olde silence seuen daies/life as in the fore iudgements/ so that no ma shall remaine. And after seue daies/ y<sup>e</sup> worlde shalbe yet a waileth not/ shalbe raysted vp/ a shall eye corrupte. And the earth shall restore those that haue slepte in her / and so shall the dust those that dwell in silence/ and the secreet pla ces shall deliuer those that be committed onto them. And the moost hyghest shalbe openly declared upon the state of iudgement/ a all mi stry shall vnto the awaye/ and lon ge sufferinge shalbe gathered together. But the iudgement shall continue / the ruerth shall remaine / and faith shall waie/ fudge/ the worke shall folowe/and the rewardes shalbe the wode/ the righteous nes shall waie / and the vnrightheousnesse shall beare no rule.

¶ Then sayde J: † Abiadam prayed first for the Sodomitcs / † and Moscs for the farthe r that synned in the wilderness / a he that came after him for Israell in the tyme of Achas and Samuel T and Dauid for the destruction / a Salomon for them that came into the Sane meri / † Achas for those that receaued rayne/and for the dead that be myght lyue: and † E zechias for the people in the tyme of Senna cherib: and Querec other in like maner which haue prayed for many.

¶ Euen so now/ sayinge y<sup>e</sup> corrupte is growen vp / a wickednes increased / and the righteous haue prayed for the vngodly / wherfore shall it nor be so now also?

¶ He answered me/ and sayde: This present worlde is not the ende/ there remayneth much honour in it / therefore haue they prayed for the wraie. But the daye of vome shalbe the ende of this tyme / and the begynninge of the immortallite for to come / wherein all corrup tion vanysheth/ all voluptuousnes is loushed/ all misdele take awaye/ rightheousnes growen/and the vertie spoure vp. Then shall no man be able to saue hym that is destroyed / nor to opprelle hym that hath gotten the victory. J

¶ I answered then / and sayde: This is my first and last sayinge/ that he had bene better / nor to haue geuen the earth vnto Adam : no cle whā it was geuen him: to kepe him that he shoulde not synne. For what profit is it for men now in this present tyme to lyue in hauntyce / and after death to loke for punyishment? O thou Ad / what hast thou done: for though it was thou that synned/ thou art not fallen alone/ but we all that come of the. For what profit is it vnto vs/ if there be promysed vs an immortall tyme / where as the medle with veady wor kes: and that there is promysed vs an euera stinge hope / where as we our selues are euell and payne: and that there are layed vp for vs dwellinges of health and fredome / where as we haue lyued euell: and that the wofullippe of the hyghest is kept to defende them / which haue led a pacient life/ where as we haue wal ked in the moost wicked wayes of all: and that there shalbe shewed a paradys / whose frute endureth for euer / wherein the fredom a me dicine / where as we shall not go in: for we haue walked in vnpleasunt places: And that the face of them which haue absteyned / shall shyne about the starres / where as our faces shalbe blacke and barret: For whyle we lyued and byd vnrightheously / we considered not that we shoulde suffre therfore after death?

¶ Then answered he me/ and sayde: This is the consideration and thought of the bestayl/which man hath vpo earth: that if he be ouer come/ he shall suffre as thou hast sayde. But if he get the victory / he shall receiue the thinge that I saye. For this is the life/ wherof Moscs spake vnto the people while he liued/ sayinge: T hose the life that thou mayest lyue. Viewe theles / they deluded him not/ neyther the pro phets after him: to/ nor me which haue spo ken vnto the / that hauntyce should not reach vnto them to their destruction / like as we are in for to come ouer those that haue suffred them selues to be enfourmed in saluacion.

¶ I answered then a said: I knowe Lord/that the hyghest is mercifull / in that he hath mercy vpon them / which are not yet in the worlde: and vpon those also that walke in his lawes: a that he is pacient: alonge sufferinge towards those that haue synned in their woo les: and that he is liberal to geur where as it requereth: and that he is of great mercy/ for he multiplieth his loynge/ and his mercies towards those that are present/ and that are past/ and to them which are yet to come. For: if he multiplie not his mercie / the worlde shall not be made lyuynge/ with those that dwell therein. He ge with also / for if he gaue not of his goodnesse / that they which haue done euell / mighte be casted / the ten thousande parte of men shoulde not be made luyngre. And if iudge forgaue not those that be healed with his woide / and if he wolde destroye the multitude that stryue / there shoulde be very few left in an innumerable multitude.

The VIII. Chapter.

AND be answered me sayinge: The moost why ghesell made this woilde for many / but the woilde to come for few. I will tell the a similitude / Esdras: As when thou aress / earth / it shall saye vnto the / it geueth much moules / wherof earthen vessels are made / but like of it that golde cometh of.

Then so is it with the moost of this woilde.

There be many created / but few shalbe preserued. Then answered I and sayde: Then slowe vnto the wit / O thou soule / a deuoure the vnderstandinge / for thou art agreed to heren and to geue care / and wyslinge to propheticis / thou hast no longe space giuen / but onely to lye. O Lord / wile thou not geue thy seruants leue / that we maye praye before the / and that thou maist geue seide vnto oure heere / and buylde oure vnderstandinge / that there maye come frute of it / and that euery one which is corrupte / and beareth the slate and piece of a man / maye lyeue?

For thou are alone / and we all are one worlemant / shippe of thy hande / life as thou hast sayde / and life as the body is fashioned noue in the dolle / bed / and thou gesseth the members / and thy creature is preserued in fyre and water: as is moniche doeth thy woife suffre thy creature / which is fashioned in her: but the thinge that preseructh / and it that is preserued / shall both be kepte togerther: and when yme is / the chylbeded deliuereth the thinge that is kepte and growen in her.

B For thou hast commaunded the biesles to geue mylke vnto the frute / that thinge which is created and fashioned / maye be needfuld for a tyme: and then thou disposeth and ordrest it with thy mercy / bingest it vp with thy righteousness / no: ourest it in thy lawe / a resourment is with thy vnderstandinge / manifeste as thy creature / and maketh it luyngre as thy woife. Wange then that thou best: orest luyngre which with so great labour is created and fashioned / wherof thy commaundement / thou couldest lighly oide also / that the thinge which is made / mighte be preserued.

And this I spake now of all men in general / as thou knowest: but of thy people / whose sake I am sayng: and of thy inheritance / for whose cause I mourne / and of Israel / for whose sake I am woofull: a for Jacob / for whose sake I am greued: herfore begonne I to praye before the / for my self and for them / for I see the fall of vs / euen of vs / it well vpon earth. But I haue herde / thy swiftnesse of the iudge / which is to come: herfore beare my voyce / a vnderstande my woide / a I shall spake before the.

This is the beginninge of the woordes of Esdras / before he was recreated: O Lord / thou that dwellest in euertlastingnesse / whose eyes are lift vp in hee / whose shode is exceedinge hie / whose glory is manly maye not be edyphended / before whom the hostes of heauen stode with tremblinge / whose kepinge is turned in winde a fyre / whose woide is true / whose talkinge is stedfast / whose commaundement is stronge / whose ordinance is fearfull / whose lofe vnto vs / the bestee / whose wrath maketh the mountains to melt awaye / and whose truth beareth wyntes: O heere I praye of thy seruants / and makest with thine care the peticion of thy creature.

For whye I lyeue / I will speake: and so lyege as I haue vnderstandinge / I will answer. O lofe not vnto the synnes of thy people / which serue the in the trust. Haue no respect vnto the wicked studies of the children / but to the desyre of those that kepe thy rethmones with sorrowes. Thinke not vpon those that haue walked saynely before the / but vpon them / which with well haue knowne thy feare.

Let it not be thy will to destroye the / which haue had beassy maners / but to lofe vnto them that haue clearly taught thy lawe. Take thou no indignacion at them / which are wise the bestes: but loue them / that alweye put their trust in thy righteousness and glory: for we and oure fathers haue all the same synnes and vncase / but because of oure synnes / thou shalt be called mercifull.

So: if thou hast mercy vpon vs / thou shalt be called mercifull / where as we haue no woordes of kes of righteousness: for the righteous which haue layed up many good woikes together / shall out of their deues receaue rewarde. For what is man / that thou shouldst take displeasure at him: Or what is the corruptible mortal generacion / that thou shouldst be so rough toward him?

I For of a truth there is no man amonge n. viij. g
the that be borne / but he hath dealt wickedly:
lx. vi. f
and amonge the faithfull there is none / which hath not done amysse. For in this (O Lord) thy righteousness a thy goodnes / shall be praye ed and declared / if thou be mercifull onto the / which are not ryght in good woike.

Then answered he me / and sayde: Some things hast thou spok right / and accordinge vnto thy woordes it shall be. For I will not ve-rely confide the woike of them / which haue synned before deathe / before the iudgement / because of destruction / I but I will reioyce ouer the woike / and thought of the righteous. I wil remembre also þe pylgrimage / the holynakinge and the rewarde. Like as I haue spoken now / so shall it come to passe. For as the housband man soweth much seede vpon the grounde / and planteth many trees / a yet alwaye the thinge that is sowne is plauted in not all fepte safe / neither doeth it all take rote: Euen so is it of them that are sowne in the woilde / they shall not all be perserued.

I answered then and saide: If I haue founde grace / shal I me speake / Like as the housband man seke perserue / if it receaue not rayne in due season / or if there come to much rayne vnto it: Euen so perserue man also / which is created with thy handes / and is like vnto thine owne image a to thy self / for whose sake thou hast made all thynges / and sowed him vnto the housbande mans sode. We not weib at vs. (O Lord) but spare thy people / a haue mercy vpon thine owne inheritaunce: O be mercifull vnto thy creature.

Then answered he me and sayde: Thin-ges present are for the present / and thinges to come for: such as be to come. For thou wastest yet much / seynge thou maigest loue my creature about me / I haue oft times diuerten nye vnto the / but neuer to the vnrighteous. In this also thou art maruailous before the Hy-gheyl / in that thou hast humbled thy self / as it becommeth the / and hast not regarded thine owne self / that thou art had in rich honoure amonge the righteous. Therefore shall greate wretchednesse and misery come vpon the / that in the latter tyme shall dwell in the woilde / for they haue walked in greate pride.

But vnderstande thou for thy self / and see oue glory for such as be like theise: vnto you is paradyse opened / the tree of life is plauted / the tyme to come is prepared / plenteousnesse made ready: a cite is buylded for you / a rest is prepared / yet / perfect goodnesse a wysdome. The roic of euil is maried from you / that weaknes and more is hyd from you / and into hell flyeth corruption in foigefulnesse. So we are van-nyshed away / and in the ende is shewed the treasure of immortallite. And therefore saye thou no more questions / concerninge the multitude of them that perishe. For they haue taken liberty / despyed the Hygheyl / thought false of his lawe / and forsaken hys waye.

Moreover / they haue trode vnto his righteous / I a layde in their heart that there is no C. vj. c. / and that wrongly: for they dye. For life as the thinge þ I haue spoken of / is made ready for you: Euen so is thyself and perne prepared for the. For it was not his wil that man shoulde come to nauight: but they which be created / haue despyed the name of him þ made them / and are vnshankfull vnto him: which prepared life for the. And therefore is my iud-gemente now at hande. These thinges haue I not shewed vnto all men / but vnto fewe: namely vnto the / and to such as be like the.

Then answered I and sayde: Beholde O Lorde / now hast thou shewed me the multitude of the tokens / which thou wilt begynne to do at the last: but at what tyme and when thou hast not shewed me.

The IX. Chapter.

He answered me then a sayde: Measure I shou the tyme diligently in it self / when thou seyst that one part of the tokene come to passe / which I haue tolde the before / so shalt thou vnderstande / that it is þ very faine tyme / wherein the Hygheyl wil begynne to vylt the woilde / which he made. And what there shall be sene earthuaile a vposure of þ people in the woilde / the shall thou wel vnderstande / þ I moost were before the euen from the beginninge.

For life as all that is made in the world/ hath a beginninge and ende / and the ende is manifest: Euen so the tyme also of thyngest have playne beginninges in wonders a signe/ and the ende in wo:ninge and in tofens. And euer one that shalbe saued / and shalbe able to scape: by his woites a by faith / wherby he haue bel. ued / shalbe preferred fro the saide perils/ a shall se my sauour in my lande and within my borders / for I haue halowed me from the wilde. Then shall they be in carefullnes/ which now haue abused my waies: and they that haue cast them out vespynefully / shall dwell in paynes.

B For such as in their life haue receaued benedictions/ and haue not knowen me / and they that haue abhorred my lawe / whyle they had yett freedom/ a when they had yett open roume of amendement and conuersion / and vnderstode not/ but vespyned it in some must know after death in payne. And therefore be thou nemore carefull/ howe the vngodly shalbe punysshed / and howe the righteous shalbe saued / and whome the worlde is / and for whome the worlde is / a wher it is. Then answered I and sayde: I haue talked before a now I speake / and will speake also hereafter / that there be many mo of them whiche perisb / then shalbe saued / like as the floude is greater then the woppe.

iiij. Esdr. iiij.

And he answered me / sayinge / like as the felde is / so is also the se: as the floures be / so are the colours also / such as the woike ma is / such is also the woike: and as the housbande man is him self / so is his housbande also / for it was by tyme of the worlde. And when I prepared for the that are now / or euer the worlde was made / wher in they shall dwell / then was there no man that withstode me. Now when euer one was / a the maste also in the worlde whiche is now prepared / and the moneth that creaseth not / and the lawe which is vncardable / their maners were corrupte. So I considered the worlde / and behold / there was perrell / because of the roughnes that were come into it. And I saue / and spared them greatly / and haue kept me a wyndery of the grapes / and a plant from amonge many generacions.

Let multitude perisb the / which are growen vp in wayne / and let my grape and wyndery be kept euen my plante: for with great labour he haue I made it vp.

Neuer theles / if thou wilt take vpon the yett seven dayes mo / (but thou shalt not fast in them) go thy waye then into the felde of floures / where no house is builded / and eate care of the floures of the felde / trust not fluff / drinke no wyne / but eate floures onely. Praye vnto the Hyghest continually / so will I come / and talke with the.

So I went my waye / a came into the felde which is called Ardach / like as he commaunded me / and there I sat amonge the floures / and ate of the herbes of the felde / and the deare of the same fasted me. After seven dayes I saw vpon the grasse / a tiny herbe was next vnto me like as afore: a I opened my mouth / and beganne to talke before the Hyghest / a saide: O Lord / thou that sheest thy selfe into vs / thou hast declared and opened thy selfe vnto our fathers in the / wyshernes / in a place / where no man dwelleth / in a barren place / where they came out of Egipte / a thou speakest say: Hearc me O Israel / a make my woide / thou se of Jacob. Behold / I some my lawe in you / and it shall bringe frute in you / a ye shalbe honoured in it for euer. For our fathers which receaued the lawe / kept it not / a obserued not thy ordinaunces and statutes / a the frute of thy lawe was not declared / for it might not / for why / it was thine. I for they that receaued it / perisbed / because they kept not the thinge that was foreen in them.

It is a custome when a grounde receaueth frute / or the see a ship / or a vessel meare a drinke / that when it perissheth / or is broken / therein a thinge is to so: / or wher in any thinge is put the thynges also perishe a are broke / which are foreen / or put therein. But vnto vs it hath not happened / so / for we haue receaued the lawe / perisb in sinne / a oure herre also which receaued the lawe: notwithstandinge / the lawe perissheth not / but remaineth in his labour.

And when I considered these thinges in my herre after this maner / I looked about me with mine eyes / a vpo the righte side I sawe: a wo:nt man / which mourned sore / in a bare linnen raris / a wept he loude voyce / her clothes were rent in pece / a he had afflictions vpo her head.

J Then let J my thoughtes go / that J was in / and turned me vnto her / and saide J wherefore wepest thou? why art thou so sory and discomforted? And she saide vnto me: Syl / let me bewaile my selfe and take yet more sor-rowe: for J am sic vexed in my minde / and brought very lowe. And J saide vnto her what aylest H? H who hath done any thing vnto thee? she saide: J haue bene vnfruitful and barren / and haue had an housbande thirtie yeares. And these xxx. yeares J do no thinge els butt daye and night a al houres / but make my prayer to the Hyghest. After thirtie yeares God herd me thy handmaiden / looked vpon my misery / considered my trouble / and gaue me a sonne / and J was glad of him / so was my housband also a al my neighboures / and we gaue greate honour vnto the mightie ye. And J nourished hym with greate tra-uayle. So when he grewe vp / and came to the yme that he shoulde haue a wyfe / J made a feast.

The X. Chapter.

And it happened that when my sonne went into his chamber / he fel doun / and wept: then our chiefe we all the lygh- tes / and all my neighboures rose vp to comfort me. The toke J my rest vnto the seconde daye at night: and when they had al rested / H they might comfort me / J rested also / and rose vp by night / a fled / a am come hither into this field / as thou sayst / and am purposed not to come in the cite / but to remain here / and neyther to eate nor drynke / but continually to mouere and to fast vntill J dye.

Then let J my meditations and thoughtes fall / that J was in / and spake to her in displeasure: Thou foolish woman / seist thou not our becausne / a mourninge / and what happenech vnto vs? howe Sion our mother is all to wofull and sory / and howe she is cleane wroughte doun in a misery: syng we all now in heauynee / a make cure more / so: we shal sone rest. So: so: the becausne that thou sairst / is but for one sonne. Demaunde the earth / she shal rest the / J is she which ought by reason to mouere / for the sal of so many that grow vpon her. For from the beginning al me are bone of her / a orber shal come: and behold / they walke almost all into destru-cion / and many of them shal be rot out.

Who shoulde then by reason / make more mourninge then she / that hath lost so greate a multitude: and not thou / who seist art sory but for one. But if thou wouldest say vnto me: My mourninge is not like the mourninge of the earth / for J haue loste the frute of my bar-dy / which J bare in becausne: as for J earth according to the ordinance of J earth onely so that many are gone awaye in her / as it is come to passe: Then saide J vnto her / like as thou hast doine with trauaile a sorrowe / euen so the earth also from the beginning / giueth her frute vnto ma / for him that made her. And therefore withholde thy sorrowe and heauynee by thy self / and loke what happeneth vnto the beare it strongly. For if thou iudgest J make and ende of God to be righteous and good / and receaue his counsaile in mine / thou shalt be commaunded therein. So they way then in to the cite to the housbande.

And she saide vnto me: that wil J not do /
J wil not go in the cite / but here wil J dye.
So J commauned more with her / and saydest Do not so / but be counsailed / a follow me: for how many fallen hath Sion? Be of good con-foute because of the soun of Jerusalem. For thou seist that our Sanctuary is laied wast / our aulter broken / our temple destroyed / oure playinge of instrumentes and singing laied doun / she thankes giuinge put to silence / our myrris is vanisshed awaye / the lighte of oure candelstick is quashed / J Arke of the ceduauis is taken from vs / al our body thinges are destroyed / a the name that is called vpon our nes is dishonoured / our childre are put to shame / oure pistles are burnt / our Linces are carried away into captiuite / our virgins are despyled / and our wyces rauished / our righteous men spoyled / and oure childre destroyed / our yong men are brought in bondage / and oure strong wothies are become weak: a Sion / whiche scale is the greatest of al / do kisse vp / J her wofulnes: so: she is deliuered into the handes of them that hate vs.

And therefore take of the greate becausne / and put awaye the multitude of sorrowe: that the myghthe maye be mercifull vnto the / and that the Hyghest maye geue the reste fro thy labour: and trauaile. And it happenech J J v thar

The. iiii. booke of Esther.

that wha I was talking with her/her face vnd shyne and glister/so that I was afrayed of her and mused what it myght be. And immedy ly she call out a great voyce/very fearefull so that the earth shok at the noise of h<sup>er</sup> voyce:
and I looked/and beholde/the woman appea red vnto me no more: But there was a cite buildid/ and a place was scrued from the grounde and foundation.

Then was I afrayed / and cried with a loude voyce/and sayde: where is Vred the aungell iij. Est. iij. a which came to me at f<sup>irst</sup>: for he hath cau sed me to come in many considerations/ and bye thoughtes/and myne ende is turned too corruption/and my prayer to rebulke. And as I was speakinge these wordes/ he came vnto me/and looked vpon me/and I laye as one that had bene dead/and myne vnderstanding was altered/ & he toke me by the ryght hande/and comforted me/ and set me vp vpon my feet/and sayde vnto me: what afeith thou art why is thine vnderstandinge vexed: and the vnderstandinge of thy her/and wherefore art thou so? And I sayde: Because thou haste forsaken me: and I haue done t<sup>he</sup> accoordinge vnto thy wordes/ I wente into the felde/ and there haue I sene a thynge/ that I am not able to exp<sup>ress</sup>: He sayd vnto me: Stande vnto me/ and I shall geue thee ex p<sup>osition</sup>.

Then sayde I: Speake vnto me my Lord vnto forsake me not/ & I dye in waynes: for I haue sene that I knewe not/ and herbe that I do not knowe. Vnto shall my vnderstanding be decreasid/ and my mynde: But nowe I beside the/ that thou wilt shewe thy seruante of this wonder. He answered me then/and sayde: heare me / and I shall enforme thee/ and tell thee wherefore thou art afrayed/ for the Hyghest hath opened many secreete thyn ges vnto the.

He hath sene that thy waye is ryght / and that thou seest howe continually for thy people/ and muste geate lamentacyon for Syon: and therefore vnderstande the vssion/whiche thou sawest a lytle while ago after this maner: Thou sawest a woman moure nyng/ and thou hast comforted her: Neuer theles/ thou wast thou the lyknes of the wo man no more/ but thou thoughtest there was a ctyric buildid: and lyke as she tolde the of the fall of her sonne/ so is thou the answerer The woman whome thou sawest / is Syon: and where as she tolde the/ that she hath bene thyr<sup>ty</sup> . yeares vnfrutefull and barren / those are the xxx. yeares/ wherin there was no offe ringe made in her.

But after xxx. yeares Salomon buyl ded her/ and offred/ and then bare she barren a sonne. And where as she tolde the / that she was fedd hym with labour / that was the treuyllyng of Jerusalem. But where as she sonne dyed in her chaumbre / that is the fall of Jerusalem: And thou sawest her lyknesse/how she mourned for her sonne: and what els happened vnto her / I haue shewed the.
And nowe God seith that thou art so? in thy mynde/ and suffrest from thy her for her/and so hath he shewed the her clearnesse/ and the faynes of her beuys.

And therefore I had the remaine in the felde/ where no house is buildid. For I knew that the Hyghest wolde shewe this vnto the/therefore I comanded the to go into the felde: where no foundation nor buildinge is. For in the place where the Hyghest will shewe his ctyric / there shalbe no mans buildinge.
And therefore feare not / and let not thine herbe be afrayed / but go thy waye in/ and se the glorious and fayre buyllynges/ and howe greate it is/ and howe greate thou thyselfe!
After the measure of thine eyes / and then shalte thou heare as muche as thine eares maye comprehend. For thou art blessed a bout many other / and arte called with the Hyghest as the sowe. But to morowe at nyght thou shalt remayne here / and so shall the Hyghest shewe the vissions of bye thyn ges/ which he will do vnto them that dwell vpon earth in the last daies. So I slepe the same nyght/ as he commaunded me.

The. Xl. Chapter.

Then came I a dreame: and beholds/ there I saw/ and muste geate lamentacyon for Syon: and therefore vnderstande the vssion/
whiche thou sawest a lytle while ago after
this maner: Thou sawest a woman moure
nyng/ and thou hast comforted her: Neuer
theles/ thou wast thou the lyknes of the wo man no more/ but thou thoughtest there was

des rested. The head in the middell was greater then the other two rested in the residue.

Moreover I sawe that the Begle stode with his wynges/and raygned upon earth/ and ouer all them that dwell upon the earth/ and I sawe that all thinges vnder heauen were subiect vnto him/and no man spake against him/ nor one creature vpon y earth. I sawe also that the Begle stode vpon his clawes/and gaue a sounde with his fetters/ and a voyce sayinge after this maner: waiche not altogether / slepe euery man in his owne place/ and ward for a neme/ but let the heades be perserued at the last. Where the lesse/ I sawe that the voyce wente not out of his heades/ but from the middell of his bodye.

And I numbered his contrarye fetters/ and beholde/ there were egyptic of them. And I looked/ and beholde/ vpon the egyptic there arose one fetter/ and raygned ouer all y earth. And it happened that when it raygned/ the ende of it came/ and the place thereof appeared no more. So the next fol: winge stode up and raygned/ and had a greate tyme: and it happened/ that when it raygned/ the ende of it came also lyke as the first/ so that it appeared no more.

Then came there a voyce vnto it/ and said: Heare thou that basle kytte in the earth/ so long tyme I lay vnto the/ so that thou beginnest to appere no more: There shall none after the attayne vnto thy tyme/ nor not halfe the tyme. Then arose the thirde/ and raygned as the other arose/ and appeared no more also. So wente it with all the residue one after another/ so that euery one raygned/ and then appeared no more. Then I looked/ and beholde/ in piocesse of tyme the fetters that folowed were set vp vpon the right side/ that they might rule also/ and some of them ruled/ but within a while they appeared no more: for some of the were set vp/ but ruled not. After this I looked/ and beholde/ the f. fetters appeared no more/ and the two wynges/ and there was no more vpon the Begle's bodye. But two heades that rested/ and fixe fetters. Then sawe I also/ that the fixe fetters were parted in two/ and remained vnder the heade/ that was vpon the right side/ for the foure continued in their place. So I looked/ and beholde/ they that were vnder the wynges/ thought to set vp them selves/ and to haue the rule. Then was there one set vp/ but shortly it appeared no more/ and the seconde were sooner aware then the first. And I beholde/ and lo/ the two thought also by them selves to raygne: and when they so thought/ beholde/ there waked one of the heades that were at rest/ namely/ it was in the middell/ for that was the greater of the two heades. And then I sawe/ that the two heades were filled with hym/ and the heade was turned with them that were by hym/ and ate vp the two vnder wynges that wold haue raygned.

But this heade put the whole earth in feare/ and bare rule in it/ ouer all those that dwelt vpon earth with much labour/ and he had the gouernaunce of the world ouer all the soles that haue bene. After this I looked/ and beholde/ the heade that was in the middell/ suddenly appeared no more/ like as the wynges/ then came the two heades/ and beholde ruled vpon earth/ and ouer those that dwelt therein. And I beholde/ and lo/ the heade vpon the right side/ reuoured it that was vpon the left side. And I herde a voyce/ which said vnto me/ loke before/ that a confesse the thing that thou seest. Then I sawe/ and beholde/ as it were a Lyon that roareth/ runninge happilye oute of the wood/ and he sente oute a mans voyce vnto the Arge/ and sayde: Heare thou/ I will talke with the/ and the Arge/ shall saie vnto y: This is not thou that hast the victory of the foure bestes/ whome I made to raygne vpon earth/ and in my world/ and that the ende of their times mighte come vnto them?

And the fourth came/ and ouerwonne all the bestes that were past/ and had power ouer the world with greate fearefulness/ and ouer the whole compasse of the earth/ with y moost wicked labour/ and so longe tyme dwelt he vpon the earth with decreace/ and the earth halt thou iudged not with truth. For thou hast troubled the mee/ thou hast burst y pearceable and quere/ thou hast loued lyare/ and destroyed the dwellinge of the that thought for the frute/ and haste esse/ thoue the wale/ sea of such as ynd the no herme: Therefore is thy wrongeous dealinge/ and blaspemye came vp vnto the Hyggest/a thy wyd vnto I mighty. The Hyggest also hath lofed vpd the proude nimos/a beholde they are ended / and their abhominacions are fulfilled. And there for appere nomore thou Zegle/a thy horrible winges/ and thy wicked fethers / and thy vngacious heades/ and thy synful clawes/a all thy vaine bodyes: that the earth maye be refreshed/ and come againe to her self/ wchā she is deliuered from thy violence / and that she maye hope for the iudgement and mercy of him that made her.

The. XII. Chapter.

And it happened vhan the Lyon spake vnto these wordes vnto the Zegle/ I saue and beholde/ the head that afore had the upper had appeared nomore: neither vvd the foure winges appere any more: that came to hym/ and were set vp to raigine/a their kingdome was small/ and full of vpsoure.

And I saue / and beholde/ they appeared nomore/ and the whole body of I Zegle was stent/ and the earth was in greate feare. The awaked I out of the traunce of my mynde/ a from greate feare/ and saide vnto my spete: Lo/ this hath thoue giuen me/ in that thou seardest out the waye of the Hyggest: lo/ yet am I weery in my mynde/ and very weak in my spete / and lytle strength is there in me / for the greate feare that I receaued this nyghte. Therefore vvd I now beseeke the Hyggest/ that he will comforte me vnto the ende / and I

Saide: Loide Loide / if I haue founde graue before the syght / and if I am iustified with the before many other / and if my prayer come vp before thy face/ comforte me then/ and shewe thy seruauit the interpretation and playne difference of this horrible syght/ that thou mayest perfectly comforte my soulet for thou hast iudged me worthy/ to shewe me the last of tyme.

And he saide vnto me this is the interpretation of this syght. The Zegle whome thou sawest come vp from the see/ is the kyngdome whiche was sent I in the vision of thy brother Danuel/ but it was not expounded vnto him/ for now I declare it vnto the.

Beholde/ the voyes come / that there shall ryse vp a kyngdome vpon earth/ and it shall be feared aboue al the kyngdomes that were ere fore it: In the same kyngdome shall xij. kynges raigne one after another. For the seconde shall begynne to raigne/ and shall haue more tyme then the other / and thus do the xij. wynges signifye/ which thou sawest. As for the voyce that spake/ and that thou sawest goe out from the heades. But not from the body. In becauseneship/ that after tyme of that kyngdome/ there shall arise greate stryunges/ and it shall stand in parcel of fallynge/ neuer before/ it shall not yet fall/ but shall be set into his Beginninge. And the eyght vnder winges whiche thou sawest hang vnto the wynges of hym/ beforen that in hym there shall arise eyght kynges/ whiche tyme shall be but smal/ and their yeares swifft/ and two of them shall beare. But when the myddell tyme cometh / there shall foure kynges in the tyme/ vhan this tyme begynne to come that it maye be ended/ but two shall be kepte vnto the ende.

And where as thou sawest the heade restinge/ this is the interpretation. In his lesse shall the Hyggest raise vp the kyngdomes/ and call many agayne into them / and they shall haue the Dominion of the earth/ and of those that dwell therein/ with much labour aboue al those that were before them. Therefore are they called the heades of the Zegle: for it is they that shall dyange forth his wefednesse agayne / and that shall performe/ and synn his laste. And where as thou sawest/ that the greate heade appeared nomore/ it signifyeth that one of them shall dye vpon his bed/ and yet with payne / for the two that remaine/ shall stayne with the swerde. For the swerde of the one shall weaure the other/ but at the last shall be full thoware the swerde by himselfe.

And where as thou sawest two vndermines vpon the heade/ that is on the right syde/ it signifyeth that it is they whome the Hyggest hath kepte vnto theyr ende: this is a smal kyngdome/ and full of trouble. The Lion whome thou sawest raigne vp out of the wood/ and roaringe/ and sprakinge vnto the Zegle/ a rebuynge him for his vngrighteousnesse is the wynde/ whiche the Hyggest hath kepte for them/ and for their wickednesse vnto the ende: he shall reioyse them / and reue them asunder before them. For he shall see for them syuinge before the iudgemente / and shal rebulke them: for the residue of my people shal be beliner wth trouble: those that be per-secured ouer mine ende: and he shal make the ioyful vntill the cominge of the haic of iudge-ment: wherof I haue spoken vnto the from the beginninge. This is the vicame that thou sawest / and this is the interpretacion. Thou only hast bene mere to knowe the secreete of the hyghest.

Therefore wryte all these thynges that thou hast sene in a booke / and hyde them / and teach them the wryte in the people / whose heres thou knowest maye compendhe and kepe the secretes. But wryte thou here thy selfe yet seuen dayes mo / that it maye be be-weyde the / whatsoeuer it pleaseth the Hyghest to declare vnto the / and with that he wente his waye.

And when all the people perceaued / that the seuen dayes were pass / and I not come agayne into the cite: they gathered them altogether from the east vnto the moost / and came onto me / and sayde: what haue we offended the: and what euil haue we done a-gaynste the: that thou forsakell vs / and syrest here in this place? For of all people thou onely arte lesse vs: as a grape of the vyne / and as a candell in a dark place / and as an hairen and a hippe persecuted from the tempest.
Hau we not the aduersite ynough / but thou misse forsake vs: Were it not better for vs / that we had bene viuent with Syon: for we are no better then they that dyed there / and they wryte with loude voyce. Then aun-swered I them and sayde: Be of good com-forte O Israel / and be not heauy thou house of Jacob: for the hyghest hath you in remembraunce / and the myghty hath not forgotten you in remission. As for me / I haue not forsaken you / neyther am I departed from you: but am come into this place to paye / because of the mystery of Israel / that I myghte see mercy for the lowe estate of youre Sanctuary. And nowe go youre waye home eury man / and after these dayes wyll I come vnto you. So the people wente theyr waye into the cyncyke: as I commaunded them: but I remayned still in the selde seuen dayes / as the angell had me / and I am one of the sources of the selde / and had my meate of the herbes in those dayes.

The XIII. Chapter.

What I dreamed a dreame by nyght. And Beholde there arose a wynde from the west / that moued all the floudes thereof. And I lokt / a beholde / the man was stronge / and increased with the cloudes of brauen / and when he turned his countenance so consider / all the thynges trembled that were sene vnder him: and when the voyce went out of his mouth / all they stent that herd him / like as the earth when it feleth the fyre.

After these I sawe / and beholde there gathered together a multitude of men oute of numbre from the four wyndes of the heauen / to fyghte agaynste the man that came oute from the see. And I lokt / and beholde / he graued hym selfe a greate mountain / and flew vp upon it. But I wolde haue sene the godde: or place / wherout the hyl was grauen / and I coulde not.

I sawe after these / that all they which came to fyght agaynst him / were fere afraied / and yet durste they fyghte. Wherfore / when he sawe the fearenesse and violence of the people / he neyther lysse vp his hande nor helde sworde / nor any weapen: but only as I sawe he sent out of his mouth as it had bene a blast of fyre / and oute of his lippe the wynde of the flamme: and oute of his runge he caste oute sparkes and stormes / and they were all mynne together: the blast of fyre / the wynde of the flamme / and the greate storme: and fell wth a rushe vpon the people / whiche was prepared to fyghte / and sarme them vpon eury chonct: so that of the innumerable multitude there was nothinge sene / but only dust and smoke. Wher I sawe this / I was afraied.

Afterwarde sawe I the some man come to Babone from the mountain / and calling vnto him another peaceable people: and there came much people vnto him: som were glab / some were sory: some of them were bounde / so that they were caried and brought south.

Then was I sike thowt the greate feare / and I waked / and sayde: thou hast sene thy kinsman: all thy wonders from the begynning

The III. booke of Esdras.

gynnyng/and hast counted me worthy/that thou myghtest receaue my prayer: shewe me nowe yet the interpretation of this dreame.
 For thus I canstode in my vnderstanding: Wo vnto them that shalbe left in those dayes/ and mude more wo vnto them that are not lesse behynde: for they that were not left were in heauynesse.

Nowe vnderstande I the thynges that are layd vp in the latter dayes / whiche shall happen vnto them/and to those that are not lesse behynde. Therfore are they come into greates parcels/ and many necessites / lyke as these dreames declare. Yet is it easer / that he whiche suffreth hurte/ come in these / then to passe awaye as a cloude oute of the world: and nowe to se the thynges that shal happen in the last.

E Then answered he me/ and sayde: The interpretation of the sygne shal I shewe the/ and I will open vnto thy the thyng that thou halst requyred. For thou hast spoken of them that are lesse behynde / and this is the interpretation. He that taketh awaye the perill in that tyme/ hath kept hym selfe. They that be fallen into harme / are sude as hawt woikes / and sayth vnto the moost myghtye. Knowe this therfore / that they whiche be lesse behynde / are more blisseth then they that be dead. This is the meaninge of the vyson.

Where as thou sawest a man commynge vp from the Deppe of the see/ the same is he whome God the Hyghest hath kepte a great season/ whiche by his owne selfe shall velyuer his creature/ and be the lordie them that are lesse behynde. And where as thou sawest / that out of his mouth there came a blast of wynde / fyre and storme/ and howe that he lyft up neir ther towards: not weapen / but that the rustynge in of hym destroyed the whole multitude / that came to fyghte agaynst hym: I synifyeth / that the dayes come / when God will velyuer them that are vpon earth / and in a tynce of tyme shall be come vpd the / that dwell in the earth. And one shall vnder take to fyghte agaynst another / oue cite agaynst another / one place agaynst another / one people agaynst another / and one realme agaynst another. When this cometh to passe / then shall the tokens come / that I shewed the before: and then shall my sonne be declared / whome thou sawest clymme vp as a man. And whal the people heare his voice / every man shal in that owne lande leave the state / that they haue one agaynst another / a annumerable multitude shalbe gathered together / as they that be wyllynge to come and to ouercome hym by fyghtynge. But he shall stande vpon the toppes of the mount Zion. Hierusalem / Zion shal come / and shalbe thewed / beinge prepared and builded for all my / lyke as thou sawest the hyl graue fouh with- out any hande. But my sonne shal rebuke the people that are come for their wickednes / with the tempest / and for their cruel ymaginacions: a they: paynes / wher with they shalbe punished / are lyfened vnto the flame: and without any labour / that he velyuereth / by the law / which is compared vnto the fyre.

And where as thou sawest / that he gathereth an other peaceable people vnto hym: whiche are the ten trybes / which were carryd awaye prysoners oute of theyr owne lande / in the tyme of Oseas the kynge: / whome Salmana- sar the kynge of Assyria toke prysoners / and carryd them ouer the water / and so came they into another lande.

But they gaue them this counsayl / that they shoulde leaue the multitude of the Gy- then / and to go forth into a farther countrey / where neuer man fynde dwelth: that they myghte there kepe their statutes / whiche they neuer kepte in their owne lande. And so they entred in at the narrowe passagge of the water of Euphrates / and God shewed to them Esdra so: them / and helde still the floude till they were passed ouer: for whome that countrey there was a greates waye / namely of a yere / a an halfe iourney / for the same region is called Asereth. Then dwelt they there vnto the latter tyme: and when they come forth agaynst the Hyghest / shal hold still the springes of the streame agayne / that they maye go throuer / therfore sawest thou the multitude in peace. And they that be lesse behynde of thy people / are those that be founde within my border. Nowe when he velyuereth the multitude that is gathered together / he shal declare his people that remaine / and then shall be shewe the greates wondere.

J Then saide J: O Lord, Lord, beu me shio: wherefore haue J sent the man edmunge vp from the Drepe of the see?

And he saide vnto me: Lyke as thou callye neyther seke out nor knowe the thynges that are in the Drepe of the see: euen so mayest thou not se my Drepe: or those that be with hym: but in the tyme of the Daye. This is the interpre-tacion of the dreame / whiche thou sawest / therefore thou onely art here lyghtened: for thou hast forsaken thine owne lawe / and applied thy Diligence vnto myne / and soughte it.
¶ Thy lyfethall thou diddest in wyse domes:
and hast called vnderstandinge thy mother:
and therefore haue J shewed the the treasure of the Byssell. After this sayde J wyl shew the moete a talk with the moete at large: yee/beuay and wonderous thynges wyl J ve-

Then wente J forth into the felde: geuyng paynt and spakes greatly vnto Godd: because of his wonders which he did in tyme: and because he gouerneth the same: and such as is in tyme: and there J sat the Dayes.

The XIII. Chapter.

When the derde Day J sat vnder an Oke tree: then came there a voyce vnto me out of the bush: and sayde: Esdras: Esdras.
And J saide: here J am Lord: and stode vp vpon my feete. Then spake he vnto me: In the bush the God J appeare vnto Moyses / and talked with hym: when my people serued in Egypte: and J sent him / and led my people out of Egypte / and thoughte him vpon the mounte Synay: where J helde hym by my a longe season: and tolde him my wonderous woikes: and shewed him the secretes of the tymes: and the endes: and commaunded him / saying: These woikes shalt thou declare: and not hyde them. And nowe J saie vnto the:
that thou laye vp in thine herte the dreames that thou hast sene / and the interpretations which J haue shewed the: for thou shalt be re-ceaued of all / thou shalt be turned: and re-mayne with my counsaill: and with suche as be lyke the: vntill the tymes be ended. For the woide hath lost his youth: and the tymes begyne to weage olde. For the tyme is deuoued into twisse partes: and ten partes of it are gone already: and halfe of the tenth partes

Exod. 3

Yet remaineth there that: whiche is after the halfe of the tenth partes.

Therefore prepare and orde thy house: and resourne thy people: comferte suche of them as be in trouble: and tell nowes of the retribucion: les go from the mortal thoughtes: caste awaye the burrbens of man: put of the weak nature: laye vp in some place the thoughtes. that are moost beuay vnto the: and haue it to flye from these tymes: for suche sell and wicket consist: as thou haste nowe / sine happen shall they so yet much worse. For: the weaker that the woide be: and the tyme is the more synne / and wretchednesse increase / in them that dwell vpon earthe. For the truely is sted farre awaye: and lesyng is harde at hande. For nowe hasteth the visyon to come that thou hast sene.

Then answered J and sayde: Beholde Lord: I wyl go as thou haste commaunded me: and resourne the people whiche are picken: But they that shall be borne after ward who wil exhoite or rebuke them?

Thus the woide is set in darkness: and they that dwell therein: are withoute light: for thy lawe is kindled: because: no man knoweth thynges that are done of the: or that shall be done. If J haue founde grece before the: sende the holy ghoost into me: and J shall wyte all that hath bene done in the woide sence the begynning: whiche was written in thy lawe: that nin maye fynde the part: and that they which wil byde in the later dayes maye lyue.

And he answered me: sayinge: Go thy waye: gather thy people together: and saie vnto them: that they seke thee not for J. Dayes but loke thou gather the manye goe: reues:
and take with the: Sarcas: Sabina / Seleucus: Echanus and Thall: these fyue / whiche are ready to wyte swiftly: and come byrd: and J shall lyghte a rable of vnderstandinge in thine herie: whiche shall not be put oute: till the thynges be perfourmed: which thou shalt begynne to wyte. And then shalt thou declare some thynges openly vnto the: perfect:
and some thynges shalt thou sere secretly vnto the: to morowe at this houre shalt thou begynne to wyte.

Then wente J forth: as he commaunded maunded you. And for so muche as he is a the thinge that he had geuen you. And now are ye here/ and youre diethen amonge you.

Therefore if so be that ye wyl subdue youre owne vnderstandinge/ and resourme youre shall ye optayne mercy. For after death shall the iudgment come/ when we shall lye a gayne: and then shall the names of the right eous be manifested/ and the names of the vn godly with their woices shalbe declared. Let no man therefore come nowe vnto me/ nor aske any question at me these xl. dayes.

So I toke the syue men/ as he commaun me sayinge: Hoises/ Open thy mouth/ and shynke that I geue the. Then opened I my mouth/ and beholde/ and reached me a full cuppe/ whiche was full of water / but the co herre had vnderstandinge / and wysdome grew in my breast/ for my spyte was kepte in remembraunce/ and my mouth was opened standinge vnto the syue men/ that they wore the bye thynges of the nyght/ whiche they vn derstode not. But in the nyght they vnd erstande: as for me/ I spake in the day/ and helde not my mouth by nyghte. In xl. daies/ they were two hundred and foure booke.

And it happened when the xl. dayes were fulfilled/ that the Hyghest spake/ sayinge: The synne that thou hast wyrtten / speake openly/that the worthy and vnrworthy maye rede it.
But kepe the lxx. last/ that thou mayest speake

The. X. V. Chapter.

Beholde/ speake thou in the cares of my people the wordes of prophesye/ whiche I wyl put in thy mouth/ sayeth the Lord/ and cause them to be written in a letter/ for it is the truely. Feare not the imaginacions/ ag gainst the let not the vnfaithfulnesse of them trouble the/ that speake against the. For al the vnfaithfull shal be in theyr vnfaithfulnesse.
Beholde sayeth the Lord/ 3. 3. 3. 3. 3. 3.
I wyl bynge plagues vpon the woulde: the swerde / hung er / death / and destruction / for myrde: the harsh the upperhande in all the earth / a theyr shamefull woices are fulfilled.

Therefore sayeth the Lord/ 3. 3. 3. 3. 3. 3.
I wyl bolde my tynge nomoie vnto theyr wickednesse/ whiche they do so vngodlye: neyther wyl I suffre them in the thynges that they deale withall so wyrtedlye. Beholde/ the innocet bloude of the troubled cryeth vnto me / and the soules of the righteous complaine con tinually: and therefore sayeth the Lord/ 3. 3. 3. 3. 3. 3.
I wyl surely auenge/ and reccauie vnto me all innocent bloude from amonge them.

Beholde/ my people is led as a flocke of shepe to be slayne/ I wyl not suffre them now to dwell in Egipte/ but wyl bynge them out with a myghty hande / and a freid: about arme/ and smite it with plagues as aforesaid/ and wyl destroye all the lande of it. Egipte shall mourn/ and the foundations of it shalbe smyren with the plague/ and punysshment that God shall bynge vpon it.

They that ryll the grounde/ shall mourne/for their seedes shalbe destroyed/ thoure the blastinge and hale/ and an horrible floure. W d worth the woulde and them that dwell there in/ for the swerde and their destruction shal wreth hie: and one people shall stande up to fyghe against another/ and swerde in theyr handes. For men shalbe vnslydfast/ and some shall be violence vnto others: they shal not re garde theyr kynge and prynces/ the wayes of their bynynges and bandynges in theyr po wer. I man shal be desyre to go into the cryes and shal not be able. For because of their pryde the cines shalbe broughte in feare/ the houses shall shake / and men shalbe afayed. I man shall haue no pyrie upon his neyghbours / but one shall pynne another vnto battayl / to spoyle theyr goodes / because of the hunger of bread / and because of the greate trouble.

- Behold / I gather and call together all the fryges of the earth / which are from the pyrie fryges / fro the South / fro the East / a Libanus is turne vnto they / and refile the frynges that they haue geuen them. Like as they do yet this waye vnto my chosen / so wil I do also / a reco- pence them in their dosome. Thus sayeth the Lorde God / My ryght hande shal not spare the synners / and my swerde shall not crosse ouer them / that shed the innocent bloude vpo the earth. The fyre is gone out fro his wrath / and hath consumed the foundations of the earth a the synners / sic I strawe that is kind- led. Wo worth them that synne / and kepe not theyr comaundmentes / sayeth the Lorde: I wil not spare them. Go poure waye ye childre from violence / desyre not my Sanctuary: for the Lorde knoweth all them that synne agaynst him / and therefore velyueth be them vnto death and destruction: for now are the plagues come vpon the world / and ye shall remaine in them. For God shall not deliuer you because ye haue synned agaynst hym.

E Beholde / an horrible vision cometh from the West / where generacions of Draggones shal come out / the people of the Arabes with much charities / and the multitude of them shalbe as the wynde vpon earth / that all they which beare the ragynge in theyr wrath / maye feare and be afayed: and as the wynde blowe out of the wood / so shall they go out / and with greate power shall they come / and stide: fight- ings with them / and shall wast the portion of the lande of the Assyans.

And then shal the Draggones haue the vpp- er hande / not remembryng they: bynd / and shall turne aboute swearing together in greate power / to persecute them. But these shalbe afayed / and fepe silence: at theyr power / and shall flye / and one out of the Lande of the Assyans shall beseege them / and consume one of they / and in theyr boost shalbe feare a drede / and stryfe amonge their kynges.

- F Beholde / cloudes from the East / and from the North vnto the South / and they are very horrible to loke vpon / ful of wrath and stoume. They shall smyte one vpon another / and they shall smyte at the greate starre vpon earth a their starre / and the bloude shalbe from the swearde vnto the belly / and the smofe of man vnto h Camelo liter: And there shall greate fearfulness and trembling vpon earth / a they that see the wrath shalbe afayed / and a trem- bling shall come vpon them.

And then shall there come greate raynes from the South and from the North / a parte from the West / and from the stormy wynde from the West / a shall blow the vp agayne / and the cloude which he raysed vp in wrath: and the starre to cause feare towards the East and Westwinde shalbe destroyed / and the greate cloude shalbe lift vp / and the myghty clou- des ful of wrath / and the starre / that they maye make all the earth afayed / and them that dwell therein / and that they maye poure out ouer all places an horrible starre / fyre and hysle / and stryng swerde / and many waters: that all felde maye be full / and all ryuers / and they shall dreafe downe the cities a walles / moun- taynes and hills / all trees / wood and h grass of the medowes / and all their frute. And they shall go stedfast vnto Babylon / and make her afayed / they shall come to her / and besege her / the starre and all wrath shall they poure out vpon her.

Then shall the dust and smofe go vp vnto the heauen / and all they that be aboute her / shall be waye her / and they that remaine vnder her / shall do seruce vnto them that haue put her in feare. And thou Asia that comfortest thy selfe all vpon the hope of Babylon / a art a wofbypp of her persone. Wo be vnto the thou wiche / because thou hast made thy selfe vnto her / and hast deete thy doghters in whodom / that thy myghte trumpe and please thy louers / which haue alwaye besyred to commite whodom with the: thou hast so lowed the abhominable cune in all her works and intentions.

Therfore sayeth God: I will sende plagues vpon the / whodom / pouerte / hunger / warre and pestilence / to wast thy houses / vnto destruction and death / a the glory of thy power shalbe dyed vp as a floure / vnto the beate crysh that is sent ouer the. Thou shalt

The rewarde of thy whoordome shalbe recompensed the in thy doisme / therfore shalt thou receaue rewarde.

B Lyfe as thou hast done vnto my chosen (sayeth the Lozde) euen so shall God do vnto the / and shall deliuer the into the plague. Thy chyldren shall dye of hunger / and thou shalt sal thyow the sweate. Thy cyces shalbe broken doune / and all thine shall perishe with the sweate in the felde. They that be in the mountaynes / shall dye of hunger / a cate their owne flesh / and drynke their owne blood: for very hunger of bread a thurst of water. Thou vnhappy shalt come show the see / a receaue plague agayne.

In the passage they shall cast doune the sayne axe / and shall rote out one parte of thy laude / and consume the portion of thy glory. They will tread the vyne lyfe shoulde / and they shall the fyre / and shall consume the thy cyces / and thy laude / thy wood / and thy frutes / full in cress shall they burie vp with the fyre. Thy chylden shall they carry awaye captiue : a glofe what thou best / they shall spoyle it / and marre the beuty of the see.

The XVI. Chapter.

Who vnto the Babylon and Asia / who vnto the Egypte and Syria: gyde your selfe with clothes of sack and heere / a mourne for your chylden / be loy / for your destruction is at hande. A fawarde is sent vpon you / a who will turne it back / A fyre is kindled amonge you / and who will quench it? Plagues are sent vnto you / and what is he that will drye them awaye? Maye any man drye awaye any humyre Lyon in the wood? Or maye any man quench the fyre in the stubble / wha it hath begunne to burne? Maye one turne agayn the arrowe that is shot of a strange archer? The myghty Lozde sendeth the plagues / a what is he that will drye them awaye? The fyre is kindled a gone / soth in his wrath / and what is he that will quench it? He shall cast lightnings / a who shall not feare? He shall thunder / and who shall not be afraid? The Lozde shall threace / and who shall not vnto be beaten to powder at his presence? The earth quake / a the foundations thereof / the sea ariseth vp with waues from the depte / and the floudes of it are ynquiet / and the fishes thereof also before the Lozde / and before the glory of his power. For stronge is by right hande that holdeth the bowe / his arrowes that be shuter are sharpe / and shall not mysse / wha they begynne to be shot into the endis of the world.

Beholde / the plagues are sent / and shall not turne agayne / tyll they come vpon earth. The fyre is kindled / and shall not be put out / tyll it consume the foundations of the earth. Liken an arrowe which is shot of a myghty archer / returneth not backward / euen so the plagues that shalbe sent vpon earth / shall not turne agayne / Who is he / who is he / who will deliuer me in those dayes? The begynninge of sorrowe and great mourninge: the begynninge of verry a greate death / the begynninge of warres / and the power shall hide in feare: the begynninge of euell / a they shall tremble euery one. What shall I do in these thynges wha the plague come? Beholde / hunger and plague / trouble and anguyshe are sent / as scourges for amendment. But for all these thynges they shall not turne from their wickednesse / nor be alwayse mynde full of the scourges.

Beholde / wayles shalbe so good deepe vpon earth / that they shall thynke them selfe to be in good case: euen then shall myschance growe vpon earth / warres / verry and greute dysquietnes. For many of them that dwell vpon earth shall perishe of hunger / and the other that escape the hunger / shall the sweate drye / and the dead shalbe cast out as dogges / and there shalbe no man to comfote them. For the earth shalbe wayles / and the cyces shalbe cast doune: there shalbe no man left to tyll the earth / a to sowe it. The trees shall geue frute / and who shall plucke the of and gather the? The grapes shalbe vyne / a who shall treade them? For all places shalbe desolate of men / so that one man shall drye to se another / wto heare his voyce. For of one whole cite there forget your vnrightheadynesse; and medle no more with them: so shall God lede you forth; and helper you from all trouble. For beholde/ and heare of a greate multitude is kindled ouer you; and they shall take away certayne of you; and sith the vble wylde Beoole: and they that consent vnto thei/ shall be had in derision/ laughyng to scoone/ and troden vnderfete.

B For vnto the place there shall be a place/ and in the next ciuite a greete insurrection vpon those that saue the Lozde. They shall be like mad men; they shall spare no man: they shall speele a wayst full as feare the Lozde: their goodes shall they take from them/ and flur them out of their houses. Then shal it be knowen who are my chosen/ and they shal berseyed as the golde in the fyre. Heare O ye my beloued/ seeth the Lozde beholde/ the dayes of trouble are at hand/ but I will helper you from the same. Be not yfraid/ vnto perie not for God is youre captayne.

Who so keperth my commaundmentes and preceptes/ seeth the Lozde God: let not youre synnes weye you downe/ alia not youre vnrightheadynesse be left vpon. We be vnto the thet are subdued vnto theyr synnes/ and iangled in their wickednesse: lyke as a felde in bedged in with busshes/ and the paystherof covered with thornes/ that no man maye traueyle throught: and so is he taken/ and cast in the fyre and brened.

The booke of Tobias.

The first Chapter.

Tobias was of the trybe and cite of Nephthaly/ which lyeth in the hie countres of Galilee/ about Naas/ in the waye to wade the West/ hauyng the cite of Sephet vpon the left syde. Though he was taken prysoner in Syraen of Salmanasar kynge of the Assyrians/ neiuertheless/ beyng in captiuitie/ he forsoke not the waye of trust: In so much that whatsoeuer he myght get/ he pared it vailly with his fellow prysoners and deteynes/ that were of his kynred. And though he were longer than all they in the trybe of Nephthaly/ yet he was not bebaue him self chydely in his woikes. And when all the other wente to the golden calves/ which Ieroboaem the kynge of Israel had made/ he him self alone fled all their companyes/ and gat hym to Ierusalem vnto the temple of the Lozde/ and there worshipped the Lozde God of Israel/ sayethfully Testifyng all his first frutes and rybes/ so that in the thide yere he ministrall all the rybes & frutes vnto the straungers and conuerites. These and such lyke thynges he was accordinge to the lawe of God/ when he was yet but younge.

But when he was a man/ he toke a wyfe of his owne trybe a wyfe called Anna/ and of this wyfe he begat a sonne/ whome he called after his owne name/ and taught hym from his youth vp to feare God/ and to refrayne from all synne.

Now when he was with his wyfe/ his sonne/ and with all his kynred was come in captiuitie vnto Ninus/ what tyme as they aldyd the care of the meates of the Assyren/ he kept his soules/ and was neuer defyled in their meates. And for so much as he was/ myndfull of the Lozde/ in all his hert/ God gaue him fauoure in the presence of Salmanasar/ the kynge/ which gaue him power to go where he wolde/ and so had he lybercie to do what him lyst.

So wente Tobias vnto all the that were in pryson/ and comforted them/ and gaue them wholesome exhortacions. And when he came to Ragas a cite of Medes/ he hauyng taken a company of siluer (of the thynges wherwith the kynge had honoured hym/ and save amygge a greete lenas of company of people of his kynred/ one Gabelus/ which was of his owne trybe) beyng in necessity/ he gaue hym the sayde weyght of siluer vnder an hand resyngne.

After a longe season when Salmanasar the kynge was dead/ a Scythian which was named Sargined in his steade/ which barde the chylidren of Israel/ Tobias wente vailly the waye out all his kynred/ and comforted them/ and gaue gave of his goodes to every one of them as much as he myght: he fed the hungry / clothed the naked / and buried the dead and slaine / and that diligently.

D And when Sennacherib the kinge came agayne and fled out of Jewry ( what tyme as God punisheth hym for his blasphemy ) and in his waye slew many of the chyldren of Israel / Tobias T buried their bodies. But when it was to be the tyme / he commaunded to slaye hym / a take awaye all hys goodes. Whereupon / Tobias wryth his wyfe fled his waye / and was byd naked / for there were many that louted hym. But after xlv. dayes hys wyfe was slaine of his owne synne. Then came Tobias agayne to his house / and all his goodes were restored unto hym.

The II. Chapter.

After these thynges upon a solempne daye of the Lord / Tobias made a good feast in his house / and sayde unto his sonne: Wherfore saye I bringe hyther some of oure trybes / such as feare God / that they maye make merry wth vs.

And wha he was gone / he came agayne and tolde his father / that one of the chyldren of Israel laye upon the strete. And immediately he kepte his table / left the feast / came fastinge to the dead coarke / toke him and bare him pryvely into his house / that when hys Sonne was done he myght safelye burye him. And when he had byd the coarke / he byd eate his meate wth mourninge and feare / remembreinge the wordes that the Lord sayde by the prophet Amos: youre hye feastes shalbe turned so for rowe and heavynesse.

Mic. j. But wha the Sonne was done / he wente in his waye and buried him. Then all his neighbours reprovde him / sayinge: It is not longer since T it was commaunded to slaye the because of this matter / a hall scarce escaped the vengeance of death / and buryest thou the dead agayne. Whereupon / Tobias feareinge God now then the Kinge / toke the bodies of hys slaine / byd them in his house / and buried them at mysynight.

E It happened upon a daye / that he had buried hys dead / and was weary / came home / and layed him doune by the wal and slepte. And whyle he was a slepe / there fel downe vpon him grete warme voyge out of the starlowes nest / so that he was blinde. This tentacion byd vs. viij. a God suffre to happen vnto him / that they which and p. q. a came after / myght haue an example of his pacience / life as of holy Job. For in so much as and p. q. a he ever feared God / fro his youth vp / a kepte his commaundementes / he was not heauy agaynst God / that hys plague of blindness chaunced vnto him / but remained steadfast in hys feare of God / a thanked God all hys dayes of his life.

For like as blessed Job was had in vcrsion of hys wyfe / when he was had in vcrsion of hys kynde / when he was had in vcrsion of hys clothes and fynysholles / which sayde vnto hym: I where is thy hope / for the which thou hast done almes and buried the dead. But Tobias rebuked them / and spake: I feare not for Tobias. viij. a for we are the chyldren of holy men / and loke for the lyfe / which God shall geue vnto them / that neuer turne their belief from him. Anna his wyfe T were dayly to the weynginge tyme and loke wher sayng she coulde get wth the labour of her handes / she brought it. And it happened that she toke a fynd and brought it home.

And when her husband herd it crye / he sayde: I loke that it be not stolen / restore it a gayne to the owners: for it is not lawfull for vs to eate: to touch any thyng of these. Then was his wyfe angry / and sayde: Know is thy hope become vayne openly / and thy almes deedes are manifest. With these / a such lyfe wordes byd she cast him in the rebib.

The III. Chapter.

When Tobias toke it heauyly / a with teares beganne to make his prayer / sayng: O Lord / thou art righteous / and all thy iudgements are true / True / all thy wayes are mercy / faithfulness / and iudgment. And now O Lord be myndful of me / and take no vengeance of my synnes / neyther remembre my mysdedes / nor the mysdedes of my elders. For we haue not bene obedient vnto thy commaundementes / therefore are we spoiled / brought into captiuitie / into death / into vcrsion / and thome vnto all nacions / amonge whome thou hast scattered vs. And now O Lord / thy iudgements are greates / for we haue not bene accordinge to thy commaundementes / neyther haue we walked innocently before the. And now O Lord / deale wth me accordinge to thy will / and commaunde my spytel to be re-reued in peace / for moie expedient were it for me to byschyn to lyue.

B In the same tyme it happened / that Sara the daughter of Raguel at Ragas a cite of the Medes was slaudered of one of her fathers hand maydens / namely / that she shoulde haue had seuen housbandes / which as soone as they were gone in vnto her / were slayne of the deuill called Asmodeus. Therefore when she reproued the mayden for her faulte / she answered her / sayinge: God let vs neuer se sonne nor daughter of the moie vpd cared / thou filer of thy husbandes. Wilt thou slay me also / as thou hast slayne seuen men? At this voyce wente Sara into an hye chamber of her house / and thre dayes and thre nyghtes she cryed byd care not wyneke / but continued in prayer / and besought God with teares / that he wolde deliuer her from this rebute.

C Upon the thirde daye it chaunced / that when she had made an ende of her prayer / she prayed the Lozde / sayinge: Blissd be thy name O God of oure fathers / which when thou art weyrb / best mercy / and in the tyme of trouble thou seiguest the synnes of them that call vpon the. Vnto the O Lozde turne I my face / vnto the list I vp myne eyes. I beseeche the O Lozde / loose me out of the bandes of this rebute / do take me vnterly awaye from of the earth. Thou knowest Lozde / that I neuer had desyre vnto man / a that I haue kepte my soule cleane from all uncleany lust. I haue nor kepte company with those that passe their tyme in spoite / neyther haue I made my self partaker with the that walke in lightre bebaououre. Neuertheless / an housbande haue I consented to take / not for my pleasure / but in thy feare.

D How peradventure / eather I haue bene vnworthy of the / or els were they vnmete for me / for thou happily hast kepte me to another housband. For why: thy counsaill is nor in þ power of ma. But whoso euer loueth the / and knoweth the a myght / is sure / that if his lyfe be tempted a poynt / in lancherth in the tryeng: and if he endure in patience / he shal haue a rewarde and be byghlye crowned: and if he be in trouble / that God (no doubt) shall deliuer hym: and if his lyfe be in challyng: that he shall haue leaue to come vnto thy mercy.

For thou hast no pleasure in oure dampnation: and why: after a soime thou makest the weber fayre and shil: after weyng and becomynge than geuest greare wyce. Thy name O God of Isra: / be prayed for euer. At the same tyme were both their prayere herd in the sight of the maistry of the byghest God. And Raphael the holy aungel of the Lozde was sent to helpe them both / whose papers came together before God.

The. liii. Chapter.

So when Tobias thoughte his prayer to God he herde that he might dye: he called vnto him his sonne Tobias: and sayde vnto him: My sonne: beare the wordes of my mouth: a laye them in thine hart as a foundation. Whi God taketh awaye my soule / burye thou my body: / a holde thy mother in honoure all the dayes of her life. For thou ouygest to remember thye: what a howe great paine she suffred for i in her woibe. And when he also hath fulfilled the tyme of her life: burye her besyde me. Bue God in thy thoughte all the dayes of thy life: and beuere: / a lest / at any tyme thou consent vnto synne / and lest / thou let slippe the commaundmentes of the Lozde our God.

Geue almes of thy goodes / and turne neuer thy face from the poore: and so shal it come to passe: that the face of the Lozde shal nor be turned awaye from the. I De mercifull after thy power. If thou hast much / good plences / a usly: if thou hast lile / do thy diligence glashly to geue of that lile. For so gaderest thou thy self a good rewarde in the vne of necessity. Fele into deliuereth / a from death / and suffreth not the soule to come in darrence. I geue thee comforte in almes before the bygh God: vnto all them that do it.

E My sonne / kepe the wel for all whoso cometh / a besyde thy wyfe. For that no fault be known of the. Let neuer pyde haue rule in thy mynde: nor in thy woide: / for in pyde becometh all destruction.

F Whoso euer woetheth any thynge / for the: immediately geue him his byx: and loke that thy byrd seruaunt wraies remaine not by the ouer night. I loke that thou neuer be vncomf to another man: the thynge that thou woeldest not another man shoulde do vnto the. I take with thy byrd with the hungry and poore: and conuerse

The V. Chapter.

The answered Tobias vnto his father/and sayde: father / all that thou hast commanded me/ will I do / and ther diligently.
But how I shall require thys money / I can not tell. Where doest he knowe me / nor I him. What cost shall I geue him: And as for the waye thither / I neuer knew it. Then his father answered him / and sayde: I haue his hand writinge by me / which when thou shew-est hym / immediately he shall paye the. But go thy waye now / and get the some faithfull man to go with the / for an hys / that thou maiest receaue the money / whyle I am yet lyuinge.

B Then wente Tobias out / and vpo the threere befornde a saye yonge man landinge / gyroded vp / and as it were one ready to take his iourney. And he knewe not that it was an angel of God / but selued him / and sayde: From whence art thou / thou good yonge man: He answered: Of the children of Israel.

And Tobias sayde vnto hym: Knowest thou the waye / that ledeth vnto the countrey of the Medes: He answered: I knowe it well / and all those stretes haue I gone oft tymes / and haue lodged with oure brother Gabelus / that dwelth in Ragas a cite of the Medes / which lyeth vpon the mount Egharbanias. Tobias sayde vnto hym: I praye the / say for me / till I haue tolde my father these thynges. Then wente Tobias in / and tolde hys father all. The which his father maruailed / and played that he wolde come in vnto him.

Now when the angel came in / and selued him / and sayde: I praye the for euermore.
And olde Tobias sayde: what ioye can I haue/that syt here in darcknes / and se not the light of heauen: The yonge man sayde vnto hym:
Be of good cheere / God shall helpe the thowly.
And Tobias said vnto hym: Canst thou bringe my sonne to Gabelus / vnto the cite of Ragas in Media: And when thou comest agayne / I shall paye the the thy hys. And the angel sayde vnto hym: I shall lede the sonne / and bringe him to the agayne. The Tobias answered him: Till me I praye the / of what house / or of what tribe art thou?

The angel Raphael sayde vnto him: I Jest thou after the furred of an hyeling: / or I Jest thou a gyde for thy sonne to go with him: But that I make the not careful / I am Agaras the sonne of greate Hananias. And Tobias answered: Thou art come of a greate furred / but I praye the / be not displeasid / that I desired to knowe thy furred. The angel sayde vnto hym: Thy sonne shall I lede forth safely / and bring him whole to the agayne.

Then answered Tobias and sayde: well go on youre waye / a God be in youre iourney / a his angel beare you company. So when they had prepared all thynges / that they wolde take with the in their iourney / Tobias had his father a his mother farewell / and they wente on their waye both together. Now when they were gone / his mother beganne to wepe / and sayde: The staf of oure age hath thou taken Tob. a awaye / and sent him from vs.

Wolde God that money had neuer bene / for the which thou hast sent him awaye. If we had bene content with our pouerte / this had bene greate thynges vnto vs / that we sawe oure sonne here. Then sayde Tobias vnto her: wepe not oure sonne shall come to vs agayne safe and solide / and thine eyes shall see him. For I trust that the good angell of God shall beare him company / and carye well all the thynges that be doeth: so that he shall come to vs agayne with ioye. At these wordes his mother left of from weeping / and helde her tynge.

The. VI. Chapter.

The angel Tobias went on his waye / as a dogge followed hym / and the first nyght they abode by the water of Tigris. Then went he out to wash his feet / and beholde / there came forth an horrible fish to deuoure him. Of whome Tobias was affrayed / and cried with a loude voyce / sayinge / Lord be cometh vpon me. And the angel sayde vnto hym: Take him by the toule / as I haue him to the. And he dyd so / and drewe him vpon the lande / and the fish beganne to leape at his feete.

Then sayde the angel vnto him: Take out the bowels of this fish / and as for the herre / the gall / and the leuer / kepe them by the. For these thinges are necessary and good for medicine. Tobias dyd so / and rosted the fish / and they toke him with them in their iourney: the residue they salted / as much as was sufficient for them / till they came to Rages. The Tobias aged the angel / and sayde vnto hym: I praye the brother Tarsius / tell me / whether are these thinges good of the fish / that hast bydden me to kepe?

The angel answered him and sayde: If thou layest a peece of the herre vpon the coales / the smoke thereof dyueth awaye all maner of euill spirites / whether it be from man or from woman / so that from thence forth the same shall come no more vnto them. The gall is good to annoynt it / to fraike the eyes with all / where as there is any blemish in them / so shall they be whole.

E And Tobias sayde vnto him: where wilt thou that we remaine? The angel answered and sayde: *I here is a nye kinsman of thine / one Raguel by name / which hath a daughter called Sara / a hard neither sonne nor daughter but her. All his good belongeth vnto the / and thou wilt marry his daughter: and there for desire her of her father / and he shall geue her to the wyfe. The answered Tobias and sayde: Do I vnderstande / she hath bene married vnto such house bandes / and they all are dead: and I haue herde saye / that the Beuell slew the. I am affrayed therfore / lest such thinges happen vnto me also: which if it came to passe / I praye I am the onely sonne of my father and my mother / I should beinge them in their age wish so to their grauce.*

Then sayde the angel Rapphal vnto him: Feare me / and I will tell the / what they be of whome the Beuell hath power. Namely / that they receaue marriage of such a falsion / that they shut God out from the and from their herit / and geue them selves to their owne lust / as euen as it were an house / a mysh / which haue no vnderstandinge: vpon such hath the Beull power. But when thou takest her / as art come into the chamber / with hold thy self from her the dayes / and geue thy diligence vnto no thyng / but vnto prayer with her.

And in the firste nyght fleue of the fish / and the Beull shalbe diuyn awaye. The seconde nyght shalt thou be receared into the company of the holy patriarke. The thirde nyght shalt thou obtaine the blessinge of God / so that whole and sounde childre shalbe borne of you. After the thirde nyght take the mayden in the feare of God / and more for the desyre of children / the for any fleshy lust: that in the tye of Abraham thou maiest obtaine the blessinge in children.

The VII. Chapter.

Then went they into Raguel / which receared them ioyfully. And when Raguel looked vpon Tobias / he sayde vnto Anna his wyfe: How lyke is this yonge man vnto my sisters sonne. And wha he had spoken this / he sayde: whences be ye good berthe? They said: Of the myde of Raphael / our of the captiuite of Ninus. Then said Raguel vnto the: *Know ye my brother Tobias? They sayde: yea / we knowe him well. And when he had spoken much good of him / the angel sayde vnto Raguel: Tobias of whom thou speakest / is this dogge mans father. Then Raguel bowed him self downe / and wepte / toke him aboute the neck / and kysed him / and sayde: *I Gods blessinge haue thou my sonne / for thou art the sonne of a good vertuous man. And Anna his wyfe a Sara his daughter wepte also.

Now wha they had talked together / Raguel had kyll a wether / and to make a feast. And when he payed them to fyre vnto the Gentill Tobias said: I wil neither eat nor drinke here this daye / except thou first graunte me my portion / a promise me to geue me thy daughter Sara. Wha Raguel herde this / he was astonished / for he knewe what had happened vnto the

the other seven men that wente in vnto her: and he beganne to feare that it should chaunge vnto him also in lyke maner.

And whyle he stode so in doubt: and gaue the yonger man no answer: the angel saide vnto him: feare not to geue him thy daughter: for vnto this man that searcheth God / becomerth thy daughter in wyse: the fore mighte none other haue her.

Then saide Raguel: I doubt not: but God hath accepted my prayere and reares in his sight: and I trust he caused you to come vnto me for this same intent / that this daughter of myne might be married in her owne kintred: according to the lawe of Moske. And now doubt he thou not: but I wil geue her vn to the: So he toke the ryght hande of his daughter: and gaue her into the right hande of Tobias: and saide: The God of Abraham / the God of Isaac: and the God of Jacob be with you: soyne you together: and fulfill bye blessinge in you. And they toke a letter and made a writinge of the marriage. And then made they merry: and prayed God. And Raguel called Anna his wyfe vnto hym / a Gad her prepare another chamber: and ther he thoughte Sara his daughter: and she wepte. Then saide he vnto her: Be of good chere my daughter: the Lord of heauen geue the ioye / for the heauynesse that thou haste suffered.

The. viii. Chapter.

¶ One after that they had supped / they thoughte the yonger man into her. Then thoughte Tobias vpon the wordes of the angel: and toke out of his bagge a peece of the leu of the fysshe: and layed it vpon the hote coales. So the angel Raphael toke halbe of the Beuill: and sente him awaye: and bound him in the wyndermentes of the hys E gypte. Then spake Tobias vnto the virgine: and saide: O Sara: let vs make oure prayer vnto God to daye: to mooue and reue me oure: for this the ryghte myght we reconcele oure selfe with God: and when the thirde holy night is past: we shal soyne together in the deuync of marriage. For we are the chyldren of holy men: and we maye not come together as the heathen: that knowe not God.

Then stode they vp toghether: and besoughte God earnestly: that he wolde preserue them. And Tobias saide: O Lord: God of oure fathers / prayed be thou of heauen in earth of the see: wales a floudes / & of all the creature: & therein. Thou mayest aduance Gen. 4. b the mould of the earth: a gauest him Adam for an helper. And nowe Lord: thou knowest that it is not because of voluptuousnes: that I take this sister of myne to wyfe: but only for the loue of children / in whome thy name be blessed for euer. And Sara saide: haue mercy vpon vs: O Lord: haue mercy vpon vs: and let vs both come whole and sounde to a good age.

And aboute the cecke trowe / it happened that Raguel called his seruantes: and they wente with hym to make a graue. For he saide: it is chaunced vnto him peradventure: as it was vnto the other scut int: I wente in vnto her. Howe: when they had made the graue: Raguel came agayne to his wyfe: and saide vnto her: sende one of thy mayens to loke if he be dead: that I maye burye him as fore it be lighte daye.

So she sent a mayden to se / whiche when she came into the chamber: she founde them whole and sounde / sleepinge togerher. And so she came agayne: and broughte good tydinges. Then Raguel and Anna his wyfe prayed the Lord: and saide: Displayed be thou O Lord: God of Israel. For it is not happened vnto vs as we thoughte / for thou hast dealt mercifully with vs: and put awaye from vs the enemye that persecuted vs: and hast benedid niere vnto vnder two beloued. O Lord: cause them to magnifie the more perfectly / and to offere the sacrifice of thy people / and of theyr brethren: that all people maye knowe: that thou only art God in all the earth.

And immediately: Raguel commaunded the seruantes to fill the graue that they had made: with earth: asone it was light: and had his wyfe prepare a feast / a to make ready all thinges that were necessarye for meate to such as wente by the waye. He caused two fat kyne also: and foure wethers to be slayne: and meate to be prepared for: all his neighbours and frendes.

And Raguel charged Tobias to remaine with with him two weekes. So for all the good that he had, he gaue Tobias the one halfe of it, and made this wyrring; that the halfe which remained, should fall vnto Tobias after their death.

The X. Chapter.

Then Tobias called vnto hym the sungel whome he thought he haue ben a mā and sayde vnto hym: Whether Agarias / I praye þe herfe vnto my wyf: If I shoulde geue my self to be thy seruant, I shall not deserue thy pouerty. Neuertheless, I beseeche þat thou wilt take the scales and the seruantes, & go vnto Gabdius in Ragos the cite of Medes, and deliuer him his hand writing, and receaue the money of him, and praye him to come to my marriage. For thou knowest thy self, that my father telleth the dayes: and if I tary one daye to longe, he will be say in his mynde. Wherefoyl thou howe earnestly Raguell hath requyred me, so that I can not saye hym naye.

Then toke Raphael foure of Raguells ser-uautes, and two Camels, and wente vnto Ragos the cite of the Medes: and when he had founde Gabelus, he gaue him his hand wyrring, & receaued all the money. He tolde him also of Tobias the sonne of Toby, howe all thinges had happened, and caused hym to come with him to the marriage. Now when he came into the house of Raguell, he founde Tobias sitting at the table, and he leapt vp, and they kylled one another, and Gabelus wept, and prayed God, and sayd: The blessing of the God of Israel haue thou for thou art the sonne of a right vertuous and iust mā, and of one that feareth God, & geueth greate almeas. And blessing haue thy wyfe, and your parentes, that ye maye fe your children, and your chudrens chydren, vnto the thirde and fourth generacion, and that youre selfe maye be blessed of the God of Israel, whiche raygeth woful withoute ende. And when they al had sayde Amen, they went to the kist, but with the feare of the Lord helde they the kist of the marriage.

The X. Chapter.

Then while yonge Tobias made longe parience, by reason of the marriage, his father was ful of care & heauynesse, & thought what shoulde be the cause that my sonne ta-reth so longe: Or why shoulde he be kepte so longe there: Peraduenture Gabelus is dead, and no man will geue him the money.

Thus beganne he to be very sorrowfull, he and Anna his wyfe with hym, and be-ganne to wepe both together, because theys sonne was not come agayne vnto them at the daye appoynted. So for his mother, she wept with discomfortable teares, and sadde: Who is me, my sonne: Wh what ayled vs to sende the away into a straunge countrey, thou light of oure eyes, I thou staff of oure age, thou comforte of oure eyes, I thou hope of oure generacion: Whinge the thinges that we haue arc only in the, we shoulde not haue sente the awaye from vs.

Then Tobias comforted her, and sayde Holde thy tounge, and be not discomforted, oure sonne is whole and sounde: the mā that we sente him withall, is saythfull enough.
Neuertheless, he might in no wyfe be comforted, but wayl wente oure, looked aboute, and wente aboute all the streets, wherby he thought he shoulde come agayne: that if it were possible, he might fe hym comming a farr off.

But Raguell sayde vnto his sonne in late Orary here, and I shall sende a messenger vnto thy father Tobias, to tell hym that thou art in good health. Tobias sayde vnto hym: I am sure that my father and my mother counte euery day, and that theys her-tes are sore.

So when Raguell prayed Tobias with many wordes, and he wolde in no wyfe heare him, he vsuered Sara vnto him, and the half parte of al his goodes, in seruautes and handmaiden, in shepe, in camels, & in fync, and much money, and so sent him a waye with hym, with peace and ioye, and sayde: The boldy angell of the Lord be with you in your iourney, and dilynge you forth safe a founde, that ye maye fynde all thinges in good case with youre chere, and that myn eyes maye fe oure chidren afore I dye.

So the elders embraced theys daughter kysed her, and let her go, & biddinge her to honoure her father and mother in leue, to loue her husband, and to rule well her household.

to kepe her house in good order/and to shewe her selfe blamelesse.

The XI Chapter.

¶ QUOWE as they were going homeward againe / upon the seventh daye they came to Charra / whiche lieth in the halfe waye towards Minue. And the angell sayde : Wonder Tobias / thou knowest howe thou hast left thy father: therefore if it please thee / we two will go before/and let the howe holde with thy wyfe and the cattell come soft and safely after vs. And when Tobias was content that they should go before / Raphael sayde vnto him: Take of the galle of the fish with the / for it shalbe necessarye. So Tobias toke of the galle / and they wente their waye. But Anna the mother of Tobias sat daily by the wayeside vpon the toppe of an hill / from whence she might see faure about her.

¶ And whye she was wayninge there for his comminge / she tolde afaire of / and anone she perceaued her sonne comminge / and ranne and tolde her howe she was / sayinge: Beholde / thy sonne commeth. And Raphael saide vnto Tobias: As soone as thou comest into the house / immediatly worshippe the Lord thy God / and geue thanks vnto him / then go to thy father / and kisse him / a strike his eyes ouer with the galle of the fish / but thou hast foughte with the / so be sure / that his eyes shall straight waye be opened / and thy father shall see the light of heauen / a shall reioyce at the sight of the. Then the dogge that had bene with the in their journey / ranne before and came as a messenger / and wagged his taile for gladnes.

¶ So the blinde father arose / and beganne to runne / and stumbled with his feete / a gaue a seruant his hande / ranne to meet his sonne / receaued him / and kysed him / he and his wife and beganne to wepe for ioye.

How when they had worshipped a thanked God / they sat downe. Then toke Tobias of the fishs galle / and annoynted his fathers eyes: and eared halfe an houre / and then beganne the stemes to go out of his eyes / lyke as it had bene the wynde / bynne of an egge: which Tobias toke and blew from his eyes / and immediatly he receaued his sight.

¶ Then they prayd God / he and his wyfe / and all they that knewe hym. And Tobias sayde: O Lord God of Israel / I geue thee prayse and thanke / for thou hast chastened me / and made me weale. And I loue the / so I see my sonne Tobias. After seven dayes came Sara his wyfe also whole and sound with all the household and cattell / with camels and much money of his wyfe / and with the money that he had receaued of Gabelus: and he toke his father and his mother all the benediction / which God had deuise for him / by the man that led him. This also and Nabab / Tobias sister sonne came and were glad / a reioyced with him / by reason of all the good that God had shewed vnto him.

And so for the space of seuen dayes they made merry / and were right ioyfull merry men.

The XII Chapter.

¶ AS Tobias called his sonne vnto him / he sayde: What maye we geue this holy man that went with the Tobias / a reward for his father and saide: father / what reward shal we geue him: O: what thinge can deserue his benediction: He hath bene my gyde / and brought me safe againe: he receaued the money from Gabelus / he caused me to see my wyfe: he vsur the euil spirit fro her: he hath bene occasion of gladnesse to her father and mother: he deliuered me: that I was not deuoured of the fish: he hath made the to see the light of heauen: we all haue receaued great good of him. How shoulde we worshippinge these thinges vnto him: But I praye the my father / if thou wilt desire him / if happily he will vouchsafe / to take with him the half of all that we haue brought.

So the father a the sonne called him / toke hym aside / and beganne to praye him / that he wolde be content to take in good worth / the halfe parte of all that they had brought. Then sayde he secretly vnto them: Praise the God of heauen / and geue thanks vnto hym before all men hying / for he hath rewarded his mercy / vnto vs. It is good to hyde the benygne secret: but to shew and to paye the wolke of God / it is an honorable thinge. Prayer is good with fasting / and to geue almes is better / then to haue vnto practice of golde. For almes deliuereth from death / and cleanseth synne / and causeth to synce eternally.

stinge Iste. But they that do synne and vnrighteousnesse/are the enemye of theyr owne soules.

E Therefore I tel you the truth/and wil hide nothing from you. Whi thou praydest with teares/and burydest the dead/and ledest thy dynner/a hyddest the dead in thy house vpon the daye nme/that thou mightest burye them in the night/ I offered thy prayer before the Lorde. And because thou wast acceptie and beloued of God/ it was necessary that reuerenon should vrye the. And now hath the Lorde sent me to heale the/a to deliuer Sara thy sonnys wyfe from the euill spete. For I am Raphael an aungel/one of the seuen that stande before the Lorde.

When they herde this/they were sore as frayed/and trembled/and fell vpon their faces vnto the grounde. Then saide the aungel/Peace be with you/fear not. Where as I haue ben with you/it is the wyll of God/geue praye and thanke vnto him.

You thought that I had eate and drinke with you/But I vscinate that is inuisible/a drinke/that can not be sene of men.

Now therefore is I synne that I must turne again / vnto him that sente me: But be ye thankful vnto God/and tel our al his wonderous workes.

And when he had spoken these wordes/ he was take away out of theyr sight/so that they saw him no more. Then fell they vpon their faces by the space of thre houres/and prayed God/and whi they rose vp/ they tolde al his wonderous workes.

The XIII. Chapter.

The noble Tobias opened his mouth / a prayed the Lorde/and sayde: Create art thou o Lorde for euermore/and thy kyngdō shall worlde without ende / I for thou scourgest a beast/ i thou ledest vnto hell/ and thyngest out again/and there is none that maye scape thy hande. O geue thanke vnto the Lorde ye chyldren of Israell/ and praye him in the syght of the hepyten. For amonge the hepyten whiche knowe him not hath he feared you/ so the intent that ye shoulde be we sord his maruylous workes and cause them for to knowe/ that there is noue other God al-myghty: But he. He hath chastened vs for our misdedes/ and for his owne mercy sake shall he saue vs.

Considre then / howe he hath deale with you/ and praye hym with feare and vnde/ a magnifie the cuerlastinge syng in youre workes.

I will praye him euen in the lande of my captynne / for he hath brewed his malysse vnto a synfull people. Turne you therefore O ye synners / and do ryghteousnesse before God/ and be ye sure/ that he wyll shewe his mercy vpon you. As for me and my soule/we wyl reioyce in God. O praye the Lorde de all ye his chosyn/ holde the dayes of gladinesse/ and be thankfull vnto him. O Jerusalem I thou cite of God/ the Lorde hath punysht the for the workes of thine owne handes. O praye the Lorde in thy good things/ and geue thanke to the cuerlasting God/ that he maye buyde vp his tabernacle agayne in the / that he maye call agayne vnto the/ all such as be in captynne/ and that thou mayest haue ioye for euermore. With a saye lighte shalt thou synne/ and al the endes of the worlde shall honour the.

The people shall come vnto the fro farre/ & saye they shall singe glises / and worshipp the Lorde in the / and thy lande shall they haue for a Sanctuary/ for they shal call vpon the great name in the.

Cursed shall they be that despyse the/ and they that blaspheme the shall be condemnid: But blessed shall they be that buyde the. As for I thou shalt reioyce in thy chyldren/ for they al shall be blessed/ a gathered together vnto the Lorde. Blessed are they al that loue the / and be glad of thy peace. Praye thou the Lorde o my soules/ for I Lorde oure God hath deli-uered his cite Jerusalem from al her trouble.
I wil counte my selfe happye / if my sde re-manc to se the clearnes of Jerusalem.

The gates of Jerusalem shalbe builded with Sapphyre and Smeragde/ and all the compassse of her walles with precious stoncs.
Al her stretes shalbe paved with white Marble stoncs/ and in all her stretes shal Allezars be sordge/ as was the Lorde/ which hath cryed ber/ that his kyngdome maye be vpon for euermore/ Amen. And so Tobias made ende of his saynges.

The XIII. Chapter.

AND after that Tobias had gotten his sighte againe, he liued six. yeares, and saue his childrens children. Nowe when he was an hundred and two yeare olde, he dyed and was buried honorably in Ninive. For when he was sixe and fyftee yeares of age, he loste the sighte of his eyes, and when he was ix. yeare olde, he gat his sighte againe. The residue of his liued he in ioye, and increased well in the feare of God, and departed in peace.

But in the houre of his death he called vnto him his sonne Tobias, a scuen yonge spain galbe, his sonnes children, and sayde vnto them: The destruction of Ninive is at hand, for the worde of the Lordde can not faile, a oure brethren that are scattered out of the lande of Israel, shall come thither againe. And the whole lande of it hath bene waile, shall be filled: In the house of God that was bent in it, shall be builded againe, and all such as feare God shall returne thither: the heathen also shall forsake theyr Idols, and come to Jerusalem, and dwell there, and all the kinges of the earth shall be glad of her, and worshippe the Lordde God of Israel.

And therfore my childre, heare your fathers: I serue the Lordde in faithfulness, I seke after his will, I do the thing that pleases him. Commaunde your childre that they do right, geue aimes to mynselfe of God, and euer to be thankfull vnto him in trust, with all theyr power. Heare me therefore my childre, abide not here: but in what dayes I seuer ye haue buried youre mother, besyde me, get you from hence. For I feare that the wickednes of it shall bringe to destruction and ende.

After the death of his mother, Tobias departed awaye from Ninive, with his wyfe and children, and with his childrens children: a came againe to his father and mother in lawe, and founde them weale and in a good age, a toke the care of the. And he elsid they: grete, and was begre vnto all Nages, goodes, and saue the sixth generacion, and childrens children. And when he was x. yeare of age, he dyed in the feare of the Lordde, and his synfull soule buried hym. And all his posterite continued in a good lyfe, and holy conuerfacion: so that they were loued, and accepted both of God and men, and of all the people of the lande.

The ende of the Boke of Tobias.

The Prophet Baruch.

These are the wordes of the Boke that Baruch the sonne of Nerias, the son of Maasia, the sonne of Sebuchas, the sonne of Sedecy, the sonne of Belshazzar, wrote at Babylon in the sixth yeare the seuenth day of the month: I whar nine as the Caldees wanne iulij. xxx. d. Jerusalem, and Babilon.

The first Chapter.

AND Baruch thy rede the wordes of this Boke, that Iechonias the sonne of Joachim kynge of Iuda wher heare: and in the presence of all the people, that were come to heare, before ye, and before all the noble kynge sonnes. Before the lordes of the countie, and clere, and before the whole people, from the lowest vnto the highest: Before all them that dwelle at Babylon, by the water of Eoddy. Which when they herde, it wept, fasted, and prayd before the Lordde.

They made a collectes also of money, accordyng to euery mans power, and sent it to Jerusalem vnto Joachim, the sonne of Belshazzar, the sonne of Salon prest, with the other prestes: and to all the people whiche were with him at Jerusalem, what tyme as they had gotten the ornaments of the temple of the Lordde, that were taken awaye out of the temple, that they mighte bringe them againe into the lande of Iuda the x. daye of the month Siban: namely syluer vessels, whiche Sedechias the sonne of Ioyias kynge of Iuda had made. After that Nabuchodonosor kynge of Babilon had taken Jeronias / with all his princes / lordes / and all the people / also the captiue from Jerusalem vnto Babilon.

Deu. xliij. c. And they saye: Behold we haue sente you money to buye you burnes offeringes / and incense: withall: make you incuencede thade / and offer: so: sinne upon the altar of the Lord our God.

Ier. xxxij. b. i. Tim. 4. a. And praye for the prosperite of Nabuchodonosor kynge of Babilon / and of Balthasar his sonne: that their voices maie be vpon earth: as the voices of heauen: that God also maie geue vs strenght: and lychten oure eyes: that we maye lye vnder the defence of Nabuchodonosor kynge of Babilon / and vnder the proteccion of Balthasar his sonne: that we maie louge: do them seruaice: and synde fauoure in their sighte: Pray for vs also vnto the Lord our God: for we haue synned against the Lord our God / and vnto this daye is not his wrath turned yet away from vs. And feare redde this booke: which we haue sente vnto you: to be reheared in the temple of the Lord: vpon the hye dayes / and at tyme comenice.

Baruc. 4. b. Dan. 9. a. Thus shal ye saie: The Lord our God is righteous: but we are worthy of confusyon and shame: like as it is come to passe this day vnto all Iuda: and to euery one that dwelleth at Jerusalem: into our fingers / pinces / pinckles / propphetes / and to our fathers. We haue synned before the Lord our God: we haue not put oure trust in him: nor geue him credence: we haue not obeyed him: we haue not hearkened vnto the voyce of the Lord our God: to walke in the commaundementes that he gaue vs. Hence the daye that he brought our forefathers out of the lande of Egypt vnto this present daye: we haue bene euer a misbeluinge and vntrustful people vnto the Lord our God: he strayinge our selues utterly: a thence kynge backe: that we shoulde not heare his voyce.

Leuit. xxvi. Deu. xxxij. iij. xod. xij. Therefore there are come vpon vs greete plagues and diuerser curses: like as the Lord our God hath sent vnto vs: he hath brought vnto vs our forefathers out of the lande of Egypt: to geue vs a lande that floweth wth mylke and wth mylke as it is to this daye. We trust bellesse: we haue not hearkened vnto the voyce of the Lord our God / according to all the wordes of the prophetes: whom he sent vnto vs: a to oure rulers: but euery man followed his owne minde: a wicked imagination: to offer vnto strange goddes: and to doe euill in the sighte of the Lord our God.

The. 11. Chapter.

Of the which cause the Lord our God hath performed his dayes: wherof he hath certified vs / and oure heades that ruled in Jerusalem: yet: and oure kynge: oure princes: with all Israel and Iuda: And iudge places hath the Lord brought vpon vs: as neuer came to passe vnder the heauen: like as it is fulfilled in Jerusalem: accordinge as it is written in the lawe of Moyses: that a man shoulde eate the flesh of his owne souerayn: and the flesh of his owne daughter. Therefore he hath deliuered them into the handes of all the kynge: that are rounde aboute vs: to be consumed: and desolate: a feared them abroade in all landes of nations: Thus are we thought vnto: and not aboute: for we haue synned against the Lord our God: and not bene obedient vnto his voyce. Therefore the Lord our God is righteous: and we with our fathers: as a reason is: are brought to open shame: as it is to se this daye. And as for these places that are come vpon vs already: the Lord hath deuised them: for we saye: wolde we not praye vnto the Lord our God: that we might euery man turne from his ynholpe vnwike. So the Lord hath caused such places to come vpon vs: as it is: righteous in all his workes: which he hath comendated: vnto which we also haue not bene: nor hearkened vnto his voyce: for to walke in the commaundementes of the Lord: he had geue vnto vs.

And now O Lord of Israel: thou that hast brought thy people out of the lande of Egypt: with a mighty hande / with tokens and wonders: with thy great power: and outstretchyd armes: a hast gotten thy selfe a name: as it is come to passe this daye: O Lord our God: we haue synned: we haue bene wickedly: we haue debauded oure selues on godly in all thy righteous iustices. Turne thy wrath from vs: we beseeche the: for we are but a few left amonge the heathen: where thou hast scamed vs. Hearce our prayers: O Lord: and oure the Lord will we praise. for thou haste put thy feare in our herces to the intent that we shoulde call upon thy name/and praise the in our captiuitie:and that we mighte turne from the wickednesse of our forefathers/that sinned before the.

Au. viii. a
Pl. li. viii. a

B Behold/ we are yet this daye in oure captiuitie:where as thou hast scattered vs/to be an abhominacion/curse a synne:like as it hath happened vnto our fathers also /because of all their wickednesse a departinge from the.

Pl. li. viii. a

O Israel/heare the commaundementes of Iyfe:pende them well with thyne eares/that thou mayest learne wysdome. But how happened it Israel/that thou art in thine enemies lande:thou art waste olde in a country/and despitid with the dead. Why art thou become lyke them/that go vnto to they: graues: Euen because thou haste forsaken the well of wysdome. For if thou haddest walked in the way of God/truely thou shouldest haue remained shi safe in thine owne lande.

Jere. li. b

ps. viii. b
ps. viii. c

E Where are the piynnes of the Genten become/and sude as ruled the Beastes vpon the earth: They that had they: pasture with the foales of the earth/they that hooded up siluer and golde:/wherein men must so muche/and made no ende of they: gatheringe. What is worth of them/that eoyded siluer/and were so careful/and coulde not bynge they: woiles to passe: They be roted out/a gone vnto to hell/and other men are come vp in their steade. Yonge men haue sene lichte/and dwelt vpon earth:but the way of resoi:macion haue they not bynge/ nor vnderstand the pathes therof:neither haue their children receaued it/ye/night feare is it from them. It hath not bene herde of in the lande of Canaan/neither hath it bene sene at Egerman.

D The Agarenes sought after wysdome/that which is carthly/like as the marchauntes of the lande do. They of Egerman are cunninge also/and they laboure for: wysdome a vnderstandinge:but the waye of true wysdome they knowe not/neither do they thinke vpon the pathes therof. O Israel/howe great is the house of God: and howe large is the place of his possession: O Creatur be and hath no end: nye and vnmeasurable. What is become of those famousse grauntes/that were so great vnto vs/so worthy men of warre: Those had not the Lord chosen/neither haue they founde the waye of resoi:macion/therefore were they destroyed:and for so muche as they had no trust/they perished because of they: foolishnesse.

Who hath gone vp into heauen to take wysdome there/and brought her downe from the cloudes: Who hath gone our the see to synde her/and hath chosen her aboute golde/and so brought her hither: No man knoweth the wayes of wysdome/neither is there any that can sike our the see. But he that wotech all thinges/ knoweth her/ and he hath founde her out with his soeknowleg. This same is he which prepared the earth at the beginninge/and filled it with all maner of foales and Beastes. When he sinderth oute the lichte/it goeth out/and when he collect it againe/it obeyeth him with feare. The starres kepe their watche/and geue they: lichte/ye/and that gladly. When he collecteth them/they sate here we be. And so wotech chearfulnesse/they shewe lichte vnto him that made them. This is oure God/and there shal none other be compared vnto hym: It is he that hath sinderd oute all wysdome/and hath geuen her vnto Jacob his seruante/and to Israel his beloved. Afterwarde eoyde becomen him self vnto earth/and dwelt amonge men.

The III. Chapter.

This is the bolke of the commaundementes of God/and the lawe that endureth for euer. All they that kepe it/shall come to lye:but suche as forsake it/shal come to death. Turne the o Jacob/and take bolke of thyselfe by this waye showe we thy brightnesse/and thyne. Geue not thine honoure to another/ thy woishippe to a straunge people. O Israel/ howe happy are we/ singe that God hath shewed vs such thinges as are pleasur vnto him: Be of good cheare/ thou people of God/ o thou auncient Israel. We are se like smudge: They then / howbeit / not for your utter destruction: but because ye provoked God the Lord to wrath and displeasure: therefore were ye delivered vnto your enemies: for ye displeas'd the euertlasting God that made you / offeringe vnto Beuels / and not God. Ye haue forgotten hym that brought you vp / and your nurse haue ye greued / o Jerusalem.

B When she saue that the wrath of God was cominge vpon you: she sayde: Hearken o ye that dwell aboute Syon: for God hath brought me into greate heauynesse: and why: I fe the captiuitie of my people / of my sonnes and daughters / which the euertlasting God will bringe vpon them. With ioye vsyd I nurysh them / but now must I leaue them with weepinge and sorrow.

Let no man reioyce ouer me wydowe / and forsake: which for the synnes of my chyldren / am desolate of eury man. For why: they departed from the lawe of Gods: they wolde not know his righteousnes / nor walke in t waye of his commaundementes: and as for the pathos of the truth and godlynesse: they had no lust to go in them.

C O ye dwellers aboute Syon: come / and let us call to remembrance the captiuitie / that the euertlasting God hath brought vpon my sonnes a my daughters. The hath brought a people vpd them from farre / an vneueritous people / and of a straunge language: which neither regarde the olde / nor pnye the wronge.

These haue caried awaye the Beare beloued of my wydowes / leauinge me alone / both desolate and chydlesse. But alas / what can I helpe you: How be that hath brought these plagues vpon you / deliuer you also from the handes of your enemies.

Go your waye: O my chylden / go your waye: for I am desolate and forsaken / I haue put of the clothynge of peace / and put vpon me the sackcloth of prayer: / as for me tyme I will call vpon the moste Highest. Be of good cheere to my chylden: I crye vnto the Lord / and he shall deliuer you from the power of the enemies / your enemies.

For verely: I haue euer a good hope of your prosperous health: yee / a very gladnesse to come vpon me: yet: the holy one / because of mercie: that ye shall haue of oure euertlasting saluoure.

With mourninge and wepyng: yd 3 Iez you go fro me / but with ioye and perpetuall gladnesse: shall the Lord bringe you agayne vnto me. Lyke as the neyghbours of Syon saue your captiuitie from God: Euen so / that they also fe shortly your saluation in God / which shall come on you with greate honoure and euertlasting worshippe.

O my chylden: I suffre patiently the wrath of that shall come vpon you. For the enemy hath persecuted the: but shortly thou shalt see destruction / and shalt treade vpd his necke. My dearlings haue gone rough hard wayes: for they are led awaye as a flocke that is feared abwaide with the enemies. But be of good co-fort: O my chylden: and crye vnto the Lord: C For he that led you awaye / hath you yet in remembrance: and lyke as ye haue bene mmended to swaue fro your God: / so shall ye now endeuoure your selues. Ye reme in to come agayne / and to see him. For he that hath brought these plagues vpon you: shall bringe you euertlasting ioye agayne with your health.
 Take a good heere vnto the o Jerusalem: for he which gaue the that name: goerth the so to do.

The wicked doers that now put the to trouble: shall perishe: and such as haue reioyced at thy fall: shall be punysht. The cities whome thy chylden serue: and that haue caried awaye thy sonnes: shall be correcte. For lyke as they be now glad of thy decaye / so shall they mourne in their owne destruction. The ioye of their multitude shall be take awaye / and their chere shall be turned to sorrow. For a fyre shall fall vpon them from the euertlasting God / to endure: and it shall be inhabited of Beuels for a greafe season.

The V-Chapter.

G Jerusalem / loke aboute the towarde the East: and beholde: the ioye that cometh vnto the fro God. For lo: thy sonnes / whome thou hast forsaken / and that were feared abroade / come gathered to gether fro the East and West / reioycinge in the worde of the holy worshippe and honoure that cometh vnto the from God; with euerslasting glory. God shall put the blade of righteousnesse vpon the; and set a crowne of euerslasting worshippe vpon thine head: for vpon the will God declare his brightnesse that is vnder the heauen: Yet an euerslasting name shall be giuen the of God; with peace of righteousnesse; and his honoure of Gods feare.

B And so Jerusalem / stande vp on hie: loke aboute the towarde the East; and beholde; thy children gathered from the East vnto West: which reioyce in his holy woide; / hauinge God in remembrance. They departed from the on fore; and were led awaye of their enemies; but now shall the Lord bringe them: carried with honoure; as children of the Kingdome. For God is purposed to bringe vnto all floure mountaine; / yee; and all hie rockes; / to fill the valleys; / to make them euen with the ground: that Israel maye be diligent to yue into the honoure of God. The woodes; / and all pleasant trees shall ouershadowe Israel at the countenance of God. For hyther shall God bringe Israel with wyfull myght; and in the sight of his mercie; with the mercy and righteousnesse; that cometh of him self.

A copie of the epistle: that Jeremy the prophet dyd sende vnto the Ierues; which were led awaye prisoners by the kynge of Babilon. Wherem he certifieth them of the thinge that was commaunded him of God.

The VI Chapter.

Because of the synnes that ye haue done God; ye shalbe led awaye captiue vnto Babilon; vnto the kynge of Babilon. So when ye be come into Babilon; ye shall remayne there many yeares; and for a lōge season; namely vñ generations: and after that will I bringe you awaye peaceably from thence. Now shall ye see in Babilon goddes of golde; of siluer; of wood; and of stone: haue vñ mens shoulders; / to cast out a fearfull sight; before the Kinges. But loke that ye do not as the other be not ye afrayed; / and let not the feare of them overcome you.

Therefore; when ye see the multitude of peere; / worshipinge them behinde; and before; / saye ye in your heartes: O Lord; what thou doest; that oughtest only to be worshippid. Mye cunning; also shall be with you; and I my self wil care for your soules. As for; / the ymages of those goddes; the carpenter hath polished them; / they are they; and layed ouer with siluer; / yet are they but vayne thinges; and can not speake. Like as a wench that loueth peramoure; is truly deceiue; / thus are these made and hangid; with golde. Crownes of golde verely haue theyr goddes vpon their heades; so the priestes them silkes take the golde a floure from them; and put it to their owne vsuage; / they giue of the same vnto barbares; and mynne theyr robes withall. Agayne; they take it from the robes; and deceiue their goddes therewith. Yet can not these goddes visit them; sit fast from rustes and mothes. When they haue couered them with clothinge of purple; they naye their faces; for the sull of the temple; wherof their is much against them. One hath a scepter in his hande; as though he were vnder of the countie; yet can he not steepe such as offende him. Another hath a sword; as an are in his hande; / for all that; is he myght able to defende him selfe from battayl; not for more thereto.

By this ye maye vnderstande; / that they be no goddes; therefore; that ye neither worshippe them; nor feare them. For like as a vessel that a man vsyth; is nothinge worth; when it is broken; / euen so is it with their goddes. When they be set vp in the temple; their eyes be full of sull; / shew the face of those that come in. And like as the stones are flouit in rounde aboute vpon him; / that hath offendid the Kinge; / as if it were a dead body; kepte byde; / graue; / thus so the priestes kepe the vtter with barres and lockes; / lest their goddes be spoiled of the robbers. They set vp candles before them; / yea verely; and that many; / wherof they can not see one; but euen as blackes; so stande they in the temple. It is sayde; / that the serpentes and womes; / which come of the earth; / gnawe out theyr herres; eatinge them; and their clothes also; / and yet they fele it not.

Jerem xxx.
a.b

Their faces are blacke shew the smoke that is in the temple. The onles / sivalowes / and byrdes flye upon them / yee / as the carres runne ouer their heades.

D By this ye maye be sure that they are not goddes / therfore feare them not. The golde that they haue / is to make them deuyfull : for all that / excepte some body vngit of their rust / they will geue no shynce : and when they were cast into a fource / they felt it not. They are bought for money / and haue no birth of life within them. ¶ They must be boren upon mens shoulders / as those that haue no feet : whereby they declare vnto men / that they be nothinge worth. ¶ Confounde he they them / that worshippeth them. For if they fall to the grounde / they can not rise vp agayne of their selfes. ¶ Yet though one helpe them vp / and set them right / yet are they not able to stande alone : but must haue proppes to set vnder the feet of dead men. As for the thinge that is offered vnto them / their priestes sell it and abuse it : yet the priestes wises take therof / but vnto the selfe and parte they geue nothinge of it / the women with childe / and the murtherous laye handes of their offerynges. By this ye maye be sure that they are not goddes / therfore be note afraid of them. From whence cometh it then / that they be called goddes? The women sit before the goddes of syluer / golde and woodes / and the priestes sit in their temple / hauinge open clothes / whose heades and beardes are shauen / and haue nothinge vpon their heades / nor ringe and ereringe vpon their goddes / as men do at the feast when one is dead.

E The priestes also take awaye the garnitures of the ymagis / as theye their wyfes a childe in the pill. Whether it be good or euil that any man do vnto them / they are not able to recompence it : they can neither set vp a kynge nor put him downe. In like maner they maye neither geue riches / nor reward euil. ¶ Though a man make a vow : vnto them / and kepe it not / they wil not require it. They can not deliuer a man from death / neither are they able to sende the weak from the mighty. They can not close a blinde man to his sight / nor helpe any man at his neede. They can helpe no mercy to the wydowes / nor do good to the fatherlesse.

Their goddes of wood / stone / gold and syluer / are but euen as other stones / that be between of the mountayne. They that worshippeth them / shalbe confounded. How shoulde they then be taken for goddes? yet / how rare men call them goddes : And though the Caldees worshippeth them not / hearinge that they were but womme and coude not speake. Yet they them selfes offre vnto Bel / and would sayne haue him to speake : as they saye / they could fele that may not moue. But when these men come to vnderstandinge / they shall forsake them / for their goddes haue no felinge. ¶ A great sorte of women gyded with coardes / sit in the streetes / and burne olue bettes. How if one of them be conueyed awaye / and laye vnto any such as come by : she calleth her neyghbouresse in the eare / because she was not so weably repured / nor her coarde broken. What purpose is done for them / it is but in vaine and lost. Who maye it then be thought or sayde that they are goddes? Carpenters and goldsmithes make them / neither be the any other thinge / but euen what the wofe men will make of them. Yet / the goldsmithes them selfes that make them / are of no luge countenance : How shoulde then the thinges that are made of them / be goddes? Waine therefore are the thinges / yet : very shame is it / that they leaue behinde them their posterite. For as often there cometh any warre or plague vnto them / when the priestes ymagyn / where they maye hyde their selfes with them. How can men thinke then that they by goddes / which neither maye defende them selfes from warre / nor deliuer them from mysfortune : for : syng they be but of wood / of stone / of syluer and of golde : all people and kynge shall knowe hereafter / that they be but waine thinges : yet / it shalbe openly declared / that they be no goddes : but euen the very wyfes of mens handes / and that God hath nothinge to do with the. They can see no thinge in the lande / nor geue rayne vnto man. They can geue no sentences of a matter / neither defende the lande from wronge : for : they are not able to do so much as a frowe / that stretcheth betwixt heauen and earth.

When there happeneth a fre : in the house of God those goddes of wood / of syluer / and of golde / the priestes will escape and save them selves/but the goddess burne as the balles therein.

They can not withstand any finge or bartaphow maye it be thought or granted/that they be goddesses: Moreover these goddesses of woodde/ of stone/ of golde and syluer / maye neither defende the selves fro thes nor robbers: yee / the very wicked are stronger then they. These strype them out of their apparell/that they be clothed withall / these take they golde and syluer from them / and so get them awaye: yet can they not helpe the selves. Therefore it is much better for a man to be a finge/and so to therre hye power: or els a profittable vessel in a house / wherein he that oweth it/myght haue pleasure: yee / or to be a Voie in a house / to spee such thinges safe as be therein: then to be such a vayne god. The Sunne / the Moone / and all the starres when they geue their shene and light are obedient / a Vo men good: When the lighteninge glistereth / all is clare: The wynde bloweth in euery countree/and when God commaundeth the cloudes to go rounde aboute the whole worlde / they do as they are bydden: when the fyre is sent downe from aboue and commaunded it burne th by hills and wooddes: But as for these goddesses they are not like one of these thinges/neither in deuy nor strength. Wherfore men shoulde not thinke / nor saye that they be gods-des / sayinge they can neyther geue sentence in iudgement / nor do men good. For so much now as ye are sure / that they be no goddesses/then feare the not: For they can neyther speake euel nor good of finges. They can shewe no tokens in heauen for the Herthen / neyther shene as the Sunne / nor geue light as the Moone: yee / the unreasonable beastes are better then they: for they can get the vnder the rofe / and so them selves good: So can ye be certified by no manner of meance / that they be goddesses: therefore feare the not. For like as a stray baggarde in a garden of cucumbers keep-eth nothings / euen so are their goddesses of woodde / syluer and golde: and like as a wythe thorne in an orcharde that eury byrde fether vpon it like as a dead body that is cast in the diffe. Eue so is it in these goddesses of woodde/syluer and golde.

By the purple and scarlet which they haue upon them / a soone sayber awaye / ye maye vnderstande / that they be no goddesses: yee / they them selves shalbe consumed at the last / which shalbe a greate confusion of the laude. Blessed is the godly man that hath no images / and worschippry name: so he shalld be free from respise.

The booke of Iudith.

The first Chapter.

Aphazar a finge of h<sup>e</sup> Me-des subdued many people vnto his Dominion / a builded a noble stronge ciue which he called Eglathshani-nis. The walles of it made he of free stone / four square red / seuenne cubites hie / and thirte cubites broad. He made towres there vpon of an hundred cubites hie. But vpon the four corners eury side was twenty foote broad.
He made the portes in the brighte like as the towres. This finge trusted in his myghty host / and in his glorious charriottes.

So in the twelfth yere of his reigne / it happened that Nabuchodonosor the Kinge of the Assyrians (which reigned in the greate cite of Babilone) fought agaynst Iudith / and ouercame him in the greate felde called Ragau / beside Euphrates and Tigris and Jardason / in the felde of Ariorb the finge of the Elites.

Then was the Kingdome of Nabuchodonosor exalted: 7 and his bert was lift vp: and he sent vnto all them that were in Celiia / in Damascus / in Libanus / and vnto the Her-then that dwel in Carmel and Cedar / and to such as dwell in Galile in the greate felde of Edidon / to all them that were in Samaria / and

and beyonde the water of Iordane vnto Jerusalem / and the whole lande of Iesse vnto the mountaynes of Ethiopia. Vnto all these by Nabuchodonosor the Kinge of the Assyrians / sende messengers. But they all thone consent wolde not agre vnto him / a sent the messengers againe empne / a put them awaie without honoure. Then Nabuchodonosor the Kinge toke indignation at all those lodes / and fierce by his rone / and by his Kingdom / that he wolde be avenge of all these countries.

The II. Chapter.

IN the 17. yeare of Kinge Nabuchodonosor / vpo the 17th. daye of the first moneth / it was deuised in the court of Nabuchodonosor the Kinge of the Assyrians / that he wolde defende him self. So he called vnto him all the elders / all his captiues and men of warre / and shewed them his secret counsaill / and tolde the that his purpose was to bringe the whole earth vnder his Dominion. Now when they were all content with this sayinge: Nabuchodonosor the Kinge called Holofernes the chiefe captiue of his warres / a saide vnto him: Go thy waye forth against all the Kingdomes of the West / and specially against those that haue despised my commandement. Thou shalt spare no realme / all stronge cities shalt thou bringe in subiection vnto me.

When Holofernes called together all his captiues a rulers of all his power in Assyria / and mustred the souldiers vnto the hoost / like as the Kinge commaunded him / namely an hundred and twenty thousand fightinge men vpon foote / and twelue thousand archers vpo horsebacke. All his ordinaunce sene he befote with an innumerable multitude of Camels / so that the hoost was well prouided for: with oxe and smal cattel / and that without number. He caused come to be prepared out of all Syria by his hoost. Much golde and siluer also toke he out of the Kinges house. So he toke his iourney / and he and all his hoost / with charrettes / bowmen and archers / of whome there were so many / that they covered the grounde of the lande like the gre: loppers.

And when he was gone pass the borders of the Assyrians / he came towarde the greete mountaynes of Tigre / which lye vpon the left side of Cilicia: and so he wente vpon into all their castilles / and waine every stronge holde. So so: the wealthy cite of Meloribus / he brake it downe / and spoyled all the children of Charisio and the Simalicia / which laye towarde the wilderness / and vpon the South side of the lande of Chelou. He wente ouer Espharces also and came into Mesopotamia / and brake downe all the bige cities that were there / from the biroke of Nambie till a man come to the sea: and he toke the borders in fro Cilicia vnto the castles of Zaphet towarde the South. He caried awaye all the Madianites / and spoyled all their goodes: a who soeuer withsode him / he slew the with the sweerde. After this he wente downe into the felde of Damascus in the tyme of Barucis / and bent up all the come and all the trees / and caused the wynde to be cut downe. And the feare of him fell vpon all them that dwelt in earth.

The III. Chapter.

SO the Kinge and princes of all cities a Kingdome sent their embassaiours / namely they of Syria and Mesopotamia: Syria Sobal and Lydia and Cilicia / which came to Holofernes / and sayde: Let thy wrath cease to warde vs: It is better for vs so serue the great Kinge Nabuchodonosor with our liues / and to be subiecte vnto the / then that we shoulde dye and be slayne / and receaue greater hurte. All our cities and possessions / all mountaynes and hilles / all felde / greete and small cattel / sheepe / goates / horses and camels / all our goodes and householdes be in thy power / vnder thy subiection be it altogether. We our liues also and our childien wylbe thine wane: come vnto vs a peccable lode / and use our seruice at the pleasure.

Then came Holofernes downe from the Mountaynes with his men and greete power / and conquered all stronge fenced cities / and all that dwelt in the lande. And out of all necessity he toke stronge men / a such as were meete for the warre / to helpe him. There came such Iudith v. a. a score also vpon those countries / that the dwellers of all the cities / the princes and rulers a the people together / wente forth to inrite him as he came / and receaued him honourably with garlandes and robes / with saunces / subiects and wyne.

might they not swage his rigorous stomack: but he destroyed their cities / a heere younc their woodes, for Nabuchodonosor the King had commaunded him / that he shoulde rote out all the goddesses of the lande / to the intent that he onely might be called and taken for God / of the nations which Holofernes with his power brought under him. So were he shewen Syria Sobal / and the wall Appamia / and all Mesopotamia / came to Iuducane in the lande of Gaba / and Syropoli / and toke their cities / and remained there thirty dayes / where in he caused all the whole multitude of his host to be gathered together.

The. liii. Chapter.

WHan the children of Israel that dwelt in Jency herdes / they were sore afraied of him. There came such tremblinge also and feare upon them / that they feared he shoulde go onto the cite of Jerusalem / and the temple of the Lorde / as he had done to other cities and their temples. So they sent into all Samaria rounde aboute unto Jerido / toke in / a occupied all the toppes of the mountaine / made fall the counte with walles / and prepared come for them agaynst the battayl.

Elachim also the prieste wrote unto all them that dwelt towarde Iudith (which Iech ouer against the great felde by Sotha Im) / unto all those by whom men might haue passage into it / that they shoulde take in the wayes of the mountaine / where there might be any waye and passage to Jerusalem / and that they shoulde hold diligent watch / where any straight way was betwixt the mountaine. And the children of Israel by as Elachim the prieste of the Lorde had commaunded the. / And all the people crie earnestly / and humbled their soules with fastings and prayers / they and their wyfes. The priestes put on heere clothes / and laye the yonge babes before the temple of the Lorde / and couered the altire of the Lorde with an heere cloth. And with one accord crie they unto the Lord God of Israel / that their childre shoulde not be geuen into a pray / and their wyfes into a spoyle / that their cities shoulde not be layed wast / a that their Sanctuary shoulde not be unholowed / and so they to be a theme and rebuke vnto the Nation.

wene rounde aboute all Israel / a spake vnto them / sayinge: Be ye sure that the Lorde will heare your petitions / if ye continue steadfast in fastinge and prayers / in the sight of the Lorde. Remember the seruante of the Lorde / which ouerthrew the Amakchites (that truste) in their might and power / in their host / their shildes / in their chariutes and horses / not with weapons / but with holy prayers. Thus so shall all the enemies of Israel by vs continue in this waye that ye haue begonne. So upon this exhortation they continued in prayer before the Lorde. In so much that they which offered beent sacrifices vnto the Lorde / offered the offerings vnto the Lorde / by nage arayed in heere clothes / and had asses upon their heads. And they al be sought God from their whole hert / that he wolde vs his people of Israel.

The V. Chapter.

WHil moue came to Holofernes the prince of the reues of the Assyrians / that the childre of Israel prepared them selfe to make resistance / and how they had stoped the wayes betwixt the mountaine. Then was he exceedinge wroth / and called all the princes of Moab / and the captaine of Ammon / and sayde vnto the: Tell me / what people is this that spech in the mountaine? Or what manner of cities are they? What is their power? Or what manner of hoste haue they? What is their captaine? And why do they despise me? I come then all those that dwell in the East / a come not forth to meete vs / that they might receiue vs with peace?

Then Abdos the captaine of all the Ammonites answered / and sayde: Thyselfe telle to heare me / I will tell the truth before the / concerninge this people that dwell in the mountaine / and there shall no lye goe out of my mouth.

This people is of the generation of Caldees / they dwell first in Mesopotamia / for they wolde not follow the goddesses of their fathers / were in the lande of the Caldees / a so forsoke they the customes of their fathers (which had many goddes) and worshipped one God that made heauen a earth: which also commaunded them that they shoulde goe from hence / and dwell at Haran. which God had geue them / that they should walle in it / they were destroyed in diuers tyles of many nations / and many of the were carried away prissoners into a strange country. But now lately they haue turned them selues agayne vnto the Lord their God / and are come to gather againe out of the countrey where they were scattered abroad: a thow haue they conquered these mountaynes and dwelt therein: as for Ierusalem where their Sanctuary is: they haue it againe in possession.

And therefore my loude / make diligent in quisid / if this people haue bene wickednesse in the sight of their God / then let vs go vp agaynst the / for doubtles their God shall deli-uer them into thy handes / and subdue them vnto thy power. But if this people haue not displeas'd their God / we shall nor be able to withstande the / for their God shall defende the / Iudith. xj. c

Now when Achio: had spoken out these wordes / all the princes of Holofernes were wroth / and thought to slay him / a side one to another / what is he this / which durst saye the children of Israel are able to withstande.
Nabuchodonosor: the kinge a his hoost / where as they are an vnconquered people / without strength or vnderstandinge of the states of warre: that Achio: therfore may knowe that he hath deceaued vs / we will go vp into the mountaynes: and when the mighty men of them are taken / he also shall stande with the sward: that all the people maye knowe: that Nabuchodonosor: is the God of the earth / and that there is none other without him.

The Vi. Chapter.

So when they had left of speakinge: Holofernes toke some indignation / and sayde vnto Achio: for so much as thou hast proph-ecied vnto vs sayinge: that the people of Israel shalbe defended of their God / I will showe thee that there is no God / but Nabuchodonosor.
See / when we slaye them all as one man / thou also shalt perishe with them: thowt the sward of Assyriano: / a all Israel shalbe destroyed with the / that shall thou seleat: Nab-uchodonosor: to the lord of the world carry.
Then shall I sward of my knight hood go thorow thy sides / and thou shalt fall downe street amonge the wounded of Israel / and shalt nor come to thy self agayne / but be utterly destroyed with the. But if thou thinkest thy prophesie to be true / why dost thou then change thy colour: / why art thou afraid? Thinkest thou that my wordes are not able to be performed? But that thou mayest knowe / that thou shalt see these thinges with thine eyes / hold: from this houre forth will I sende the vnto yonder people / that when the punishment of my sworde (which they haue woorthily deserved) falleth vpon them / thou mayest be punished with them.

So Holofernes commaunded his seruantes to take Achior: and to carry him vnto Bethulia: and to deliuer hym into the handes of the chylidren of Israel. Then Holofernes seruantes toke him: / and wente thowre the plaine felde. But when they drewe nye vnto the mountaine: the syngers called came out against the: / neuer theles / they garth them awaye by the syde of the mountaine: and bounde Achior hand a foote to a tree: and so left him bounde: and turned agayne vnto their loide.

Now withstandinge / the chylidren of Israel wente younge from Bethulia / came onto him / louised him: brought him to Bethulia / set him in the myddell of the people: / and asked him what the matter was / that the Assyrians had left him bounde.

¶ Chias the sonne of Mitha of the tribye of Simeon: and Charmin (which is also called Gorbelen) were the principall rulers at that same tyme. Now when Achior stode in the myddell of the Senaours: and before the all: he tolde the: what answer he gaue Holofernes: and to the thinge that he asked him: / a how Holofernes people wolde haue slayne him for so sayinge: and how Holofernes him self was wroth: and commaunded him for the same cause to be deliuered vnto the Israelites: that when he ouercame the chylidren of Israel: he myght commaunde Achior also to be put to death with them: to mentice: because he saide: that the God of heauen is their defender.

Iudith. v. b

Iudith. v. f

And when Achior had plainly tolde out all these thinges: to the people fell younge vpon their faces: playinge the Lorde: / poured out their prayes together vnto the Lorde: / with a general complainte and weeping: and said: O Lorde God of heauen and earth: beholde their payde: and loke vpon our tearynes: and consider how it shalde be with thy sanctes: and make it to be knowne / that thou shalt not loose / which holde them fast by the: / and that thou bringest the lawe: / that punishment of them selves: / and make their heart in their owne strength. So when the weeping and prayer of the people (which they had made the whole daye longe) was ended: they comforted Achior sayinge: the God of our fathers / whose power and strength thou hast praised: shall so reward the: that thou shalt rather see their destruction. When the Lorde our God the halgued his seruantes this libertie: God be with the also amonge vs: so that if it please the: thou with thyne mayest dwell with vs.

Now when Asias had ended the counsaile: he toke hym into his house: and made a greace supper: / called all the elders to it: / and so they refreshed them selves after the fasting. And afterwarde was all the people called together: whiche made their prayers all the night longe in the congregation: and besought the God of Israel for helpe.

The VII. Chapter.

¶ The next daye Holofernes commaunded his host to go vp against Bethulia. There were an C. a xx. thousand fightinge men on foote: a two an twentie thousand horsemen: besyde the preparinge of them that were wounne: and came to them on euery syde out of the countrey and ciues which be hard by. All these prepared them selves vnto the battayle against the Israelites: and came on by the hill syde: vnto the top that looketh ouer against Bethulia: from the place whiche is called Bethana: vnto Bethina: that is to saye toward the dielion.

Now when the chylidren of Israel sawe so greate multitude of the Assyrians / they fell younge flat vpon the grounde: / shrowed asbes vpon their heades: / and prayed with one accord: that the God of Israel wolde shew his mercy vpon his people. And so they toke their weapons: and sat betwixt the mountaynes in the narrow place: and kept the waye daye and night. But whyle Holofernes was goinge aboute: he founde the water springe whiche floweth from the South syde was conueyed into the one by a conduyte: this commaunded he to be directe directe another waye / a to cut their conduytc in sinder. There were welles also not farre frō the walles / whiche they used secretly / more for pleasure then for necessite.

C Then wrote the Ammonites a the Moa-biters vnto Holofernes / and sayde: The children of Israel muste neyther in spare nor a-rowe / but haue taken in / and kepe the moun-taynes and hilles. That thou mayest ouer-come them / therfore without the strikinge of any battail / let men to kepe the welles / that they thame no water out of them: so shalt they destroye them without swerde / or at the least they shalbe so sible / that they muste be fayne to geue ouer the cite / which they thinke not able to be wonne / for so muche as it lyeth in mountaynes. These wordes pleased Holofernes well and all his men of warre / and he set an hundred men at euery well round aboute.

And whan this watch had endured twene-tye daies / the assierses a all sprunges had water / sayde them that dwelt in the cite of Be-thulia / that in the whole cite they had not drinke ynough for one day / for the people had water geue them daily in a measure. Then came the men and women / yonge persons a children al vnto Olo / and saide all with one uoyce: I God be iudge betwene vs and the for thou hast deale cruel with vs: thou woldst not speake peacably with the kynge of Assi-rians / therfore hath God solde vs in they handes / a there is no man to helpe vs / where as we are broughte home before they eyes in this and greate destruction. Therfore gar-ther nowe to together all the people that be in the cite / that we maye all yelde oure selues willingly vnto the people of Holofernes: for better it is that we be captiue and prayse the Lorde with oure lyfes / then to be slayne and perishe / and to be laughed to scorn: and shamed of euery man whan we se oure wy-fes and chyldren bye before oure eyes. We take heauen and earthe this daye to recorde / and the God of oure fathers / whiche punyshed vs / accordinge to the deservyng of our synnes / and geue you warning / that ye geue vp the cite nowe into the power of Holofernes hoost / that oure cite maye be shoure with the sword / which do shal endure longe for wante of water and for thirst.

Whan they had spoken their these wordes / there was a greate wepyng and howlyng in the whole congregacion / and that of eu-ery man / and they cryed an whole houre longe vnto God with one voyce / sayynges I we haue synned with oure fathers / we haue done amysse / we haue deale wickedly. Thou that art gracious / haue mercy vpon vs / pun-nysh oure vnrighuousnesse with thine owne scourge / and geue not thof out that knowlege the / vnto a people which knoweth the not self / they say among the Gentens: where is their God.

And whan they were so weery with this cryinge a wepyng / that they helde their tunges / Olois shode vp with watrey eyes / a saide: To take good herren vnto you / I deare bies then / and be of good cheare / and let vs waite yet these fyue dayes for mercy of the Lorde: praducture he shal cur awaye his indignacion / and geue glory vnto his name. But if he helpe vs not / whā these fyue dayes are pass / we shal do as ye haue saide.

The VIII. Chapter.

Whan it happened whan these wordes came to the eares of Iudith a wyddow which was the daughter of Merari / the son of Izer / the sonne of Ieseph / the sonne of Olois / the sonne of Elai / the sonne of Jammeon / the sonne of Kuben. And her hous-bander was called Manasse / which dyed in the daye of the Barthe baruch / for whyle he was bynding the sbaines together in his felde / the beate came vpon his heade / a he dyed at Bethulia in his cite / and there was he buried beside his father. Now was Iudith his desolate wydowe this yeres a six monethes.

And in his higher partes of her house she made her selfe a pray chamber / where the dwelle / beinge closed in with her maidens. She dyd weare a smocke of beere / a fasted a fyue daies of her life / excepte the Sabbathes a new moone and the solempne dayes that the people of Israel kepte. She was a fayre and beautiful persone. Her housbande also had left her

Thou that gauest their wifes into a pray/a their daughters into captiuitie / and all their praye for a spoile onto the seruantes/which dare a zeile onto the helpe me wydome / O Lorde my God / I beseech the. For thou hast done all things from the begynning/and loke what thou best taken in hande and Deuytye / it came euer to passe. For all thy wayes are prepared / a thy iudgements are done in thy curlesing fowlewole. O loke now upon the armies of the Assyrians / like as it was thy pleasure somtyme to loke vpon the host of the Egyptians/whan they byngge warpened / persecuted thy seruantes/and put their trust in their charrettes / harness / and in the multitude of their men of warre. But thou lokest vpon their host/castinge a thicke darkness before them: and whan they came into the depe/the waters ouerwhelmed them.

B Eurne so Lorde / let it go with these that trust in the power and multitude of their me of warre/in their charrettes/arowes and speares/and knowe not that thou only art oure God/I which destroyest warres from the begynning/and that thou art the Lorde. O lift vp thine arme now lyke as euer from the begynning/and in thy power byngge theyr power to naught / cause their myghte to fall in thy weath. They make their host/that they will vnhalowe and defile thy Sanctuary/ and to wayle the tabernacle of thy name/and to cast downe the home of thine altar with their sword. Byngge to passe / O Lorde that the pyde of the enemy may be cut down with his owne sword: that he maye be taken with the snare of his owne me/ and that thou mayest myne him with the spyas of mye hie. O geue me a stedfast mynde/that I maye despyse hym and his strength/and that I maye destroye him.

E This shall byngge thy name an everlasting remembrance/I if the bande of a woman overthome hym. * For thy power O Lorde / I stande in the power of men/neither shall thou any pleasure in the strength of hor

so. There was neuer proude person that plece Iudith a sed the/But in the power of the humble and Discreit Iudith meke hath thy pleasure bene curiouse.

O thou God of the heauens/thou maker of the waters/and Lord of all creatures / heare me poore woman/calling vpon thee/and puttinge my trust in thy mercy. Remember thy conuenaunt O Lorde/and minister wordes in my mouth/and stablish this verite in my hart/that thy house maye continue fill in holynes/and that all the Earthen maye knowe a vnderstande/that thou art God / a that there is none other but thou.

The X. Chapter.

Und whan she had lyste of entree to the Lorde/she rose vp from the place/where she had lye flat before the Lorde/and called her maiden/went downe into her house/called the beery cloth from her / put of the garnemes of her widowhode/washed her body/anoynted her self wth precious thinges of sweete fauour / stoyded a planted her here/for an houre vnto her brade/and put on such apparel as belonygeth vnto gladnesse / suppers vpon her feet/ armettes/spanges/earnges/singerringes/ and deckt her self with all her best araye.

The Lorde gaue her also a speciall beute and saynesse/for all this decking of her selfe was not done for any velleptuousnesse and pleasure of herselfe/But of a righte discrecion and vertue/therfore vnto the Lorde increace her beute. So that she was exceedinge amiable and well fauoured in all minis eyes. She gaue her mayde also a bonnell of wyne / a pot with egle portage/retre/brad and dyse/and went her waye.

Now whan she came to the porte off cire/ she sounde. Osias and the elders of the ciree wainnge there. Which whan they sawe her/ they were astonnyed/a miruailled greatly at her beuty/interbeloues/they ased no question at her/But let her go/sayinge: the God of our fathers geue the his grace/and with his power persourme all the deuce of thy beere: that Jerusalem maye reioyce ouer the / a that thy name maye be in the numbre of the holy and righteous. And all they that were there/sayde with one voyce: so be it so be it. Iudith made her praye vnto the Lorde/and wente out at the porte/she and her mayde.

The booke of Iudith.

And as he was going downe the mountayne/ it happened that aboute the spyng of the Deyce/ the spere of the Assyrians met with her/ and toke her/ sayinge: whence comest thou? Or whither goest thou? She answered: I am a daughter of the Hebrewes/ and am fled from them/ for I knowe that they shalbe geuen vnto you to be spoyled: because they thought some to yelde them selues vnto you/ that they mighte fynde mercy in your syght. Therefore haue I refused by my selfe after this manner: I wil go before the punte of holnesse/ and tell him all their secretes/ and wyl shewe him/ how he maye come by them/ and myne intent/ so that not one man of his hoste shal perishe.

And when these men had herde her waies/ and considered her saye face/ they were also wondred/ for they wondred at her excellent beauty/ and sayde vnto her: Thou hast saved thy life by fynding oute this Deyce/ that thou woldest come vnto our loide: and be thou sure/ that whā thou comest vnto him/ he shal interete the wel/ and thou shalt please him herely. So they brought her into Holnesse paylton/ and tolde him of her. Nowe when she came in before him/ immediately he was ouercome/ and taken with her beautye. Then sayde his seruantes: who wolde despyse the people of the Jewes/ that haue so fayre women? Shoulde we not by reason fyght against them for theset? So when Iudith sawe Holnessees syttinge in a canopye/ that was wrought of purple/ sylke/ golde/ silke ragde and precious stones/ she loked fall vpon him/ and fell downe vpon the carpe. And Holnessees seruantes toke her vp agayne at their loides commaundement.

The. XI. Chapter.

Then saide Holnessees vnto her: Be of good chere/ and feare not in thine herte/ for I neuer hurted man/ that wolde serue Nabuchodonosor the kynge. As for thy people/ they had not despised me/ I should not haue lisy up a speare against the. But tell me now/ what is the cause that thou art departed fro them/ in wherfore art thou come vnto me?

And Iudith sayde vnto him: Thy vnderstande the wordes of thy handmayden: for if thou wilt do after the wordes of thy hand-mayden/ the Lorde shall byngne thy matter to a prosperous effecte. So truly as Nabuchodonosor a loide of the lande/ by which/ as truly as his power lyceth/ which is in the to the punishment of al men that go wrong/ all men shall not onely be subdued vnto him thowso the/ but al the bestes also of the feld. For all people speake of thy prudent actyue/ and it hath euer bene reported/ howe thou onely art good and myghty in all his kynge dome/ and thy discrecion is commended in all landes.

The thyng is manifest also that Achior B spoke/ and it is wel knowne/ what thou commaundest to do vnto him. For this is playne and of a suretye/ that our God is so worthy to be/ by the reason of our synne/ that he hath shewed by his prophetes vnto the people/ how that for their synnes he wil deliuer them ouer vnto the enemy. And for so much as the children of Israel knowe that they haue so displeasid their God/ they are sore afraid of the. They suffre greate hunger also/ for wante of water/ they are dead now in a manner. Moreover/ they are appointed to laye all their catell/ that they maye drinke the bloude of the/ and are purposed to spende all the holy ornaments of their God/ whiche he hath forbidden them to touch/ for coine/ wyne/ and aske. Bynge now that they do thes thinges/ it is a playne case/ that they muste nedes be distressed. Which when I thy handmayden perceaued/ I fled from them/ as the Lorde hath sent me vnto the/ to shewe the thes thinges. For I thy handmayden worshipp God euen here now besyde the/ and thy handmayden shal go forth/ and I wil make my prayer vnto God/ and he shall tell me/ when he wyl rewarde the their synne: then shall I come and shewe the/ a byngne the thowso the middell of Jerusalem/ so that thou shalt haue al the people of Israel/ as I shepe without a shepherde: there shall not so much as one dogge barkte against the/ so: thes thinges are shewed me by the prouidence of God: and for so much as God is displeasid with the/ he hath sent me to tel the the same.

These wordes pleased Holnessees and all his seruantes/ which maruailed at the wysdome of her/ and sayde one to another: there is not such a woman vpon earth/in bcurye of discretion of woodes. And Holofernes sayde vnto her: God hath done wel/that he hath sent the hyfher before thy people/that thou mayest geue them into oure handes. And for so much as thy promise is good if thy God performe it vnto me/he shall be my God also and thou shalt be excellent and greates in court of Nabuchodonosor/for thy name shall spoken of in all the lande.

Jud. 11

The XII. Chapter.

A Then commended he her to go in where his measure laye / and charged that she should haue her dwelling there/and appointed / what should be geuen her from his table. Iudith answered hym / and sayde: As for the meate that thou hast commaunded to geue me / I maye not eate of it as now (lest I displeas my God. But wyl eate of such as I haue thoughte with inc. Then sayde Holofernes vnto her: If these thynges that thou hast thoughte with the sayle / what shall we do vnto the? And Iudith sayde: As true as thou lyest my lord / thy handmayden shall not spende all this/tyll God haue thoughte to passe in my hande/the thing that I haue sayde.

B So his seruantes broughte her into the tent/where as he had appointed. And as she was goinge in/the besydes that the myghte haue leue to go forth by night a befoye daye/to be prayer / and to make intercession vnto the Lorde. Then commaunded Holofernes his chamberlaynes: that she should go out and in at her pleasure/to praye vnto her God those thre dayes.

And so in the nyght season she went fourth into the valley of Bethulia/and washed her selfe in the welletwater. Then wente she vp/and thoughte the Lorde God of Israell/that he wolde prosper her waye / for the deliueraunce of his people. And so she went in/and remained cleane in her tent/ tyll she toke her meate in the cuneyng.

C Vp the fourth daye it happened/that Holofernes made a costly supper vnto his seruautes/and vnto Dago his chamberlayne: for they were counsaill this. He busseth he may be unwilling to consent to kepe company with me. For it were a shauere vnto all Assyas/that a woman should so lauge a ma-to scoine / that she were come from him vnto medled withal.

Then wente Dago vnto Iudith / and saide: Let not the good daughter be alyeue to come into my lorde/that he maye be honoured befoze hym / that she maye eate and beynke wyne/and be merry with hym. Vnto whome Iudith answered: Woe am I/that I should saye my lorde naye: wharsoeuer is good befoze his eyes / I shall do it: and loke what to his pleasure/that shall I thinke well done as long as I lyue.

So she stode vp / and deckt her selfe with her apparell/and wente in / and stode befoze hym. And Holofernes here was whole moued/so that he stente in desire towarde her.
 And Holofernes sayde vnto her: Woe am and for youne / and be merry / for thou haste founde sinelore befoze me. Then sayde Judith: Sir/ I wyl binke for my mysdoynce me-rryer to daye/then euer it was in all my lyfe.
 And he toke and ate and drank befoze him/the thynges that her mayde had prepared for her. And Holofernes was merry with her/and thanke more wyne/then euer he dyd as fore in his lyfe.

The XIII. Chapter.

Now when it was late in the nyght his seruantes made haste/very man to his lodginge. And Dago/that the chamber boye and wente his waye / for they were all ouerladen with wyne. So was Iudith al-lone in the chamber. As for Holofernes/ he laye vpon the bed all drunken/and of very drunkennes he fell a slepe.

Then commaunded Iudith her mayden to stande without befoze the doore/ and to waite.
 And Iudith stode befoze the bed / makinge her prayer with teares/and moued her lips secretly / and sayde: Strengthen me O Lorde God of Israell/and haue respecte vnto the woikes of my handes in this boure/that thou mayest let vp thy crite of Ierusalem lyke as thou hast promised: O giue vnto that by the I may performe the thynges/ whiche I haue desired: thowme the besest that I haue in the.

And when she had spoken this/ she wente to the bed side/ and looke the waye that hangd

hanged vpon it/ and drew it oute. Then toke she holde of the heery lockes of his head/ and sayde: Strengthen me O Lord God in this pouere/ and with that/ she gaue hym two strokes vppon the necke/ and smote of his heade. Then toke she the canopy awaye/ and rolled the dead body asyde. Immediately she gat her forth/ and deliuered the heade of Holofernes vnto her mayden/ and had her putt in her wallet.

And so these two wente forth together after their custome/ as though they wolde passe/ and so passed by the hostle/ and came throume theyr valley vnto the poute of the citty. And Iudith cried afaree of onto watchmen vpon the walles. Open the gates/ sayde she: for God is with vs/ whiche hath shewed his power in Israel. And when they heard her voyce/ they called the elders of the citty together. And they came all to meet her/ hile and greet/ yonge a olde/ for they thought not that she shoulde haue come so soone. So they lighted candles/ and gathered aboute her euery chone/ but she wente vp into an hye place/ and caused silence to be proclaimed.

When euery man nom helde his tounge/ Iudith sayde: O prayse the Lord oure God/ for he hath not despyssed/ nor forsaken the that putt theyr trust in hym: and in me his hande made he hath performed his mercy/ whiche he promysed vnto the house of Israel/ yee/ in my hande the same nyght hath he slaine the enemy of his people.

And with that she toke forth the heade of Holofernes out of the wallet/ and shewed it them/ saying: Beholde/ the heade of Holofernes the captayne of the Assirians/ and this is the canopy/ wherein he laye in his chonkenesse/ where the Lord oure God hath slain hym by the hande of a woman.

But as truly as the Lord lyueth/ his aunzell hath kepte me/ goinge thither/ remynng there/ and a comynng thirke again fro thence. And the Lord hath not suffred me his badmarden to be despyssed/ but without any falshehoode of synne/ hath he brought me againe vnto you: a that with grate victory/ so: hat I am escaped/ and ye deliuered. O geue thankes vnto him euery chone/ for he is gracious/ and his mercy endureth for euer.

So they praysed the Lord altogether/ and gaue thankes vnto him. And so her they saide: The Lord hath blessed the in his pouere/ for thowme the he hath brought oure enemies to naught.

And Oyas the chiefe ruler of the people of Israel/ saide vnto her: Blessed art thou O daughter of the Lord the hie God/ Iaboue all woman vpon earth.

Blessed be the Lord the maker of heauen and earth/ whiche hath gyded thee a right to wounde and to smyte of the heade of the captayne of oure enemies. So this daye he hath made thy name honorable/ that thy prayse shall neuer come oute of the mouth of men/ whiche shall alwaye remember the power of the Lord: for yee thou hast not spared thine owne selfe/ but putt the in peccority/ consideringe the anguyshe and trouble of thy people/ and so hast helped their sal before God our Lord. And all the people sayde: Amen/ Amen.

Whio also was called/ and he came. The sayde Iudith vnto him: The God of Israel vnto whome thou gauest wynde/ that he wolde be auenged of his enemies/ wyl he hath thio nyght thowme my hande susteyned of the heade of all the onfaythfull. And that thou maist se that it so is/ beholde/ this is the heade of Holofernes/ whiche in his presumptuous pryde despyssed the God of the people of Israel/ and threatened the with destruction/ saying: I when the people of Israel w taken/ I shall cause the also to be sticke with sword. When I thio: saue Holofernes heade/ he fel downe vpon his face to the grounde for very anguyshe a feare/ so that he founde wybil. But after that he was come agayne to hym selfe/ he fel downe before her and praysed her/ saying: Blessed art thou of thy God in all the tabernacles of Jacob: for all the people that heare of thy name/ shall praise the God of Israel because of the.

The XIII. Chapter.

Iudith sayde vnto all the people: Blesse the heare me/ Sye of vpon this heade vppon oure walles/ and when the Sunne arissh/ take euery man his weppen/ and fall out euently/ not as though/ ye wold go byde th/ but to renne vpon them with violence. Wha
the

the speer in the tentes for this/they shal of necessity: be compelled to flye back ward/ and to rayse vp their captiues to the Battail. So whā their captiues come into Holofernes paullions/ and fynde the dead body wrapped in the bloude/scarfullnes shall fall vpon them: and whā ye perceaue that they flye/ folowe them without all care/ for God shal deliuer the into you to be destroyed.

Then Abai seyng the power of God/ which he had shewed vnto the people of Israell/ fell from his Chaire/ and beleefe/ a put his trust in God/ and let him self be circumcised: a so was he numbred among the people of Israell/ and al his posterite vnto this daye.

B Now as soone as it was daye/ they shekte vp Holofernes beade vpo the walles/ and euerie man toke his weapon/ and so they wente out with an horrible crye. Whā the spyes sawe that/ they ranne vnto Holofernes tent. And they that were within the tent/ came before his chamber/ a made a greates rustlinge to wake him vp/ because they thought with knyfte to haue raised him. So: there durst not one of the Assyrians fronte/ go in/ nor to open.

But whā the captiues and princes/ and all the chiefe in the kynge of the Assyrians/ booll came to gether/ they sate vnto the chāmbler/ and se: Wo your weape in/ and wake him vp/ for his myle are crepe out of their holes/ and haue prowekt vs vnto Battail.

E He wente Vago into his chamber/ stode before the bed/ a clapped with his handes/ for he thought he had bene sleepinge in Iudith.

But whā he had berkened perfectly with his carco/ a could perceaue no slynging/ he wente nyxer to the bed/ a left it vp/ and the same he the dead body of Holofernes slynged there without a heade/ relected in his bloude vpon hearth. Then cryed he with a loud voice/ and with weepinge rent his clothes/ a wente into Iudiths tent/ a found her not. And so he leapt oute vnto the people/ and sayde one woman of the women hath brought al Nabuchodonosore people to shame.

So: lo/ Holofernes lyceth vpon the ground and hath no beade.

Whā the chiefe of the Assyrians booll herde they rente their clothes/ a there fel an intolerable feare a tremblinge vpo the/ so they myndes were sore afreyed. And there was an exceedinge greates crye in the whole boaste. The. X. V. Chapter.

Holofernes was headed/ they mynded and counsaill fell from the/ and such a feare came vpon them: that they vnderstode to defende them selfe by slynging weapone/ a sake not to another/ but hanged youne their beade/ left al behynde the/ and made haill to escape from the Assyrians: so they herde/ they were hanged/ slange to come after with their weapone/ and so they fled by the wayes of the feldea/ a thorow all the forepartes of the vale.

And whā the children of Israel sawe that they fled/ they folowed vpon them/ and wente youne with trumpettes/ blowinge a making a greates crye after them. So for the Assyrians/ they had no ordur/ a kept not their selles/ so they fled/ but fled their weate. Neurtelste/ the children of Israel fel vpon them with one company a aide/ a vtroumsted as many as they might get. And Otho sent messangers vnto all the cities and countrees of Israel.

So al the regions and euery cite sent oute their best men after them in harness/ a sinter the with the sword/ al they came to the vntermost parte of their borders. And the other that were in Bethulia/ came into the tentes of the Assyrians/ and toke al that they which were fled/ had left behynde them/ and so they found greates good. And they that came againe to Bethulia from the Battail/ toke with the sutchynges as had ben they/ and there was no numbere of the cattell/ and of al the costly wares/ so that from the lowest vnto the highest/ they were al made ryche of the spooles of them. And Zaccub the byghe prest at Ierusalem/ came to Bethulia with al the elders/ that they mighte Iudith.

Now whā she came out vnto them/ they beganne al to prayse her with one voyce/ sayyng: thou wretshippe of the cite of Ierusalem/ thou ioye of Israel/ thou honoure of our people/ thou hast done manly/ and thy hart is comforted/ because thou haste leued thyselfe/ and chastyne/ and haste knowen men that thynne wene house/ ande: therefore hath the hande of the Lord comforted the/ and blessed thalle thou be forever. And all the people sayde: So be it/so be it.

In thury dayes coulde the people of Israel scarce gather vpon the spoiles of the Assyrians. But all that belonged vnto Holofernes/and had bene his specially/ (whether it were of golde/ or of siluer/ or precious stances/ or clothyng/ and all uncounted) they gaue it vnto Iudith. And all the people reioyced/ both woman/ maydenes/ and yonge people/ with pytes and harpes.

For they myghte was not distressed of the yonge men. It was not the sonnes of Etran that slew hym/ neyther haue the greates gauntes set them selues against him: but Iudith the daughter of Merari with her saye beuyle hath discomfited/ and brought him to naught. For she layed away her widowes garment/ and put on the apparell of gladnesse in the reioycyng of the children of Israel. She anoynted her face/ a bounte ber beere in a haouet/ to begyle hym. Her sleppers ranshed his eyes/ her beuyle captiuynd his mynde/ with the swerde smote she of his necke. The Persians were astonnied at her redfastnesse/ and the Medes at her boldnes. rayl/ for the very feare of the Lozde my God. Let vs synge a songe of thankesgynge vnto the Lozde/ a newe songe of prayse/ tuc we synge vnto our God. Lozde/ Lozde thou art a greates God/ myghty in powre/ whom no man maye overcome. All thy creatures shoulde serue the/ for thou passst but the Gentes/ and they were made: thou souest the wylde/ and they were created/ and no man maye withstande thy voyce. For he shall geue fyre and stormes into they: helde/ that they maye burne/ and sele it for euermore.

After this it happened/ that after the victory all the people came to Ierusalem/ to geue prayse and thankes vnto the Lozde. And when they were purified/ they offered all their sacrifices/ and they promysed offerings. And Iudith offered all Holofernes weapons/ and all the iuwels/ that the people had geuen her/ and the canopy that he toke from his bed/ and hangd them vpon the Lozde. The people was ioyfull/ as the wise: and this ioye by reason of the victory which Iudith endured thic monethes.

So after these dayes/ every man wente home agayne/ and Iudith was in greates reputation at Bethulia/ and righte honorably taken in all the lande of Israel. Vnto her vertue also was chalyse ioynded/ that after her husbande Manasse dyed/ she neuer knew man all the dayes of her lyfe. Vpon the hys solempne dayes she wente oute with greates worshippe. She dwelt in her husbandes house an hundredth and fuyre yeare/ and lyste her hand maydenes/ and dyed/ and was buried besyde her husbande in Bethulia: And all the people inourned for her seuen dayes. So longe as she lyued/ there was none that troubled Israel/ and many yeares also after her death.

The daye wherein this victory was gotten/ was solempny holden/ and reuered of the Jewes.

the xij of the Hebrewe nois in Chaldee

The XI. Chapter after the Lann.

In this chapter is describ'd the vicame of Mardocheus.

Mardocheus & sone of Jair / the sone of Semei / the sone of Esay of s tribe of Ben Zamin a Jew: which had his dwelling in Susa / a men of great reputation / a excellent amonge all the that were in the kings court / Vicar the sse he was one of the prisoners / whom Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon had car'd awaye from Jerusalem vnto Babylon / with Zechonias the king of Juda. In the seconde yeare of the reigne of great Artaxerxes in the first daye of the moneth Nisan / had this Mardocheus such a vicame: He thought he herde a greake tempest / horrible thunderclappe / earthquake / and greake uppoure in the lande: and that he sawe two greake dragons / ready to fight one against another.
There cri'd was greake. At the which roaringe and cri' all they that were vp to fight against the righteous people. And the same daye was ful of darkness a verye vndeare / ful of trouble a anguish / yea a greake fearfulness was there in all the lande. The righteous were amsid / for they feared the plague and euill that was deuised ouer them / and were at: poyn't with them sises to dye. So they cri'd vnto God / and while they were cryinge / the liue wells grew into a greake riu'er / a into many waters. And with that it was daye / and the Sunne rose vp agayne. And the lo'ly were espas'd and v'reuou'd the glorious a proude.

Now when Mardocheus had sene this vicame / he wote / and muste s'edfastly in his hert what God wolde do: and so he desy'red to knowe all the matter / a his mynde was there upon vntill the nyght.

The XII. Chapter.

In this chapter is declared: howe Mardocheus v'reuou'd the treason of the two seruants against the kinge / and therfore v'reu'd the kinge rewarde hym.

In the same tyme dwelt Mardocheus with Bagatha and Thares the kings chamberlaynes and porters of the palace. But when he herde their deuice / and had v'ligently consider'd their insaginations / he perceau'd that they wente aboute to laye they: cruel han-des vpon the kinge Artaxerxes: and so he certified the kinge thereof. Then caused the kinge to examen the two gelded with tomes. And when they had graunted it / they were put to death.

This the kinge caused to be put in the cronicles for an euerlasting remembrance / and Mardocheus wrote vpon the same matter. So the kinge commaund'd / that Mardocheus shoulde do seruice in the court / and for this saythfulness of his / he gaue hym a rewarde.
But Aman the sone of Amadath the Agathie / which was holden in greake honoure a reputation in the kings court / vnderooke to hurte Mardocheus and his people / because of two chaub'er laynes that were put to death.

The XIII. Chapter.

Artaxerxes / by the entysing of Aman / sent out in all countre / for the destruction of the Jewes. The prayer of Mardocheus.

hundredth and seven and twenty landes/ sendeth his friendly salutation vnto all the princes and chieftes of the countries / which be subiecte vnto his Dominion. When I was made soueraine ouer many people / and had subdued the whole earth vnto my Dominion / my mynde was not with crueltye and wronge to exalte my self by the reason of my power: but purposed with equite alwaye and gentylnes / so gouerne those that be vnder my iurisdiction / and wholly to set them in a peaceable lyfe / and thereby to bringe my Kingdome vnto tranquylitee / that men myght safely go thorow on euery lyfe / and to renew peace agayne / which

B all men desire. Now when I sayd my saylers / how these thynges myght be broughte to a good ende / there was one by vs / excellent in wysdome / whose good wyll / truely and saythfulnes hath oft bene stemed and proued / (which was also the principal and next vnto the kynge) Aman by name / which certified vs / how that in all landes there was crepte in a rebellious folk / that made statutes and lawes agaynst all other people / and haue alwaye despised the proclaimed commaundementes of kynge: and how that for this cause it were not to be suffred / that such rule shoulde continue by you / and not to be put vaine. Synge now we perceaue this same / that this people alone are contrary vnto euery man / vsynge strange and other maner of lawes / and trauersande oure statutes and boynges / and go aboute to stablish shewde matters / that oure kyngdome shoulde neuer come to good estate and stedfastnes: Therefore haue we commaunded / that all they that are appointed in wynges / and shewed vnto you by Aman / (whiche is ordeyned and set ouer all oure busynesse / and the moost principal next vnto the kynge / and in maner as a father) shall with theyr wyfve and chyldren be destroyed / and rote out with the swerde of theyr enemies and aduersaries: and that there shalbe no mercy shewed / and no man spared. And this shalbe done the first daye of the month called Adar / of this yere / that they which of olde (and now also) haue euer bene rebellious / maye in one daye with violence be thrust vaine into the helme of helle: that after this maner / our Empire maye haue peace & tranquylitye.

But the Mardocheus thought vpon all the workes and noble actes of the Lord / and made his prayer vnto him / sayinge: O Lord / Lord / thou valeaunt and almyghty kynge / (so all thynges are in thy power / as if thou wilt helpe and velyue Israel / there is no man that can withstode noi let the: for thou hast made heauen and earth / and what wondrous thynges fouer is vnder the heauen: thou art Lord of all thynges / and there is no man that can resist the (O Lord.) Thou knowest all thynges / thou wotest Lord / that it was neither of malice / nor for presumptiue / nor for any desire of glory / that I wolde not haue vaine my self / nor worshippede yonder proud presumptuous Aman / (for I wolde haue bene content / and that with good will / if it might haue bene Israel any good / so haue I lyue bene for thy sake) but that I dyd it because I wolde not let the honour of a man in the steade of the glory of God / and because I worshippede none but only my Lord. And thus haue I bene innocent / nor presumptuous.

And therefore O Lord / thou God a King / haue mercy vpon thy people / for they magnifye how they maye bringe vs to naughtyffe: that mynde and desire is to destroye and to ouerthrowe the people / that hath euer bene thyne in heritance of olde. O despise not thy prayer / which thou hast velyued / and broughte out of Egypte for thine owne self. Heare my prayer / and be mercifull vnto thy people / whom thou hast chose for an heretage vnto thy self. Turne oure complaynte and sorrowe into ioye / that we maye lyue O Lord / and prayse thy name. O Lord / suffer not the mouthes of them that prayse the to be destroyed.

All the people of Israel in lyke maner cryed as earnestly as they coulde vnto the Lord / for theyr death and destruction shode befoe theyr eyes. ¶

The XIII. Chapter.

Of the sorrowe / complaynte / and prayer of queene Esther.

Hene Esther also beinge in the banell of death / resorted vnto the Lord / and layd a waie for glorious apparel / and put on a garment mentes that serued for synginge and mourninge. In the steade of precious ornamente/ she feared aches and boynge vpon her brade: and as for her body/she humbled it/a brought it very lowe. Til she places where she was wonte to haue ioye afores/ those fylled she with sere/that she place out her self. She prayed also vnto the Lord God of Israel with these wordes.

O my Lorde/ thou only art oure King/ helpe me desolate woman/which haue no helpe but thee/ for my misery and destruction is herde at my hande. I fro my youth vp I haue herde out of the lined of my father/that thou takest Israel from amonge all people/ and so haue our fathers of their forefethere/ that they should be thy perpetual inheritaunce/ and lest whar thou thyddest promise them/ thou hast made it good vnto them.

Now well Lorde/ we haue synned before thee/ therefore hast thou giuen vs into the hande of oure enemies/ because we worshipped their goddes. Lord thou art righteous. Nevertheless/ it faulseth them not/ that we are in bitter and heauy captiuiue/ and oppressed amonge them/ but thou hast layed their handes vpon the handes of their goddes: so that they begynne to take awaye/ the thynges that thou with thy mouth hast ordeyned and appoynted: to bestrope thyn inheritaunce/ so that it to stoppe the mouthes of them that pryse thee/ to quench thy glory/ and worshipp of thy house and thyn sanctuary/ and to open the mouthes of the heathen/ that they maye pryse the power and vertue of the goddes/ and to magnifie the fleshy syngge for euer.

O Lorde/ geue not thy cepter vnto the that be northyng/ lest they laugh vs to scorne in oure misery/ and sal: but turne their deuice vpon their selfes/ and punishe him that hath begonne the same ouer vs/ and set him to an example. Thinke vpon vs O Lorde/ and shew thy self in the tyme of our distress and of our trouble. Strengthen vs O thou syngge of gods/ geue thou Lord of all power/ geue me an eloquent and pleasaunt speech in my mouth before the Lyon. Turne his hart into the hate of oure enemies/ to destroye him/ as a such as consert vnto him. But deliuer vs with thy hande/ and helpe me desolate woman/ which haue no defence nor helpe but only thee. Lorde thou knowest all thynges/ about worke: that I loue not the glory/ and worshipp of the vniuersites/ and that I hate and abhorre the bed of the vncircumcised/ and of all heathen.

Thou knowest/ and wotest my necessite/ that I hate the token of my peccemencen/ and worshipp which I beere vpon my brade/ whar tyme as I must shew my self/ and be fine/ and that I abhorre it as an vncleane cloth/ as I weare it not whan I am quiete alone by my self. Thou knowest also that thy handmaiden haue not caren at Amencorable/ and that I haue had not pleasure no: delite in the syngges feast/ that I haue not deuote the dynkers offeringes/ and that thy handmaiden haue had no ioye sens the daye that I was broughte hither vnto this daye: but only in thy O Lorde. O thou God of Abraham/ o thou myghty God about all/ heare the voyce of them that haue none other hope/ and deliuer vs out of the hande of the wicked/ and deliuer me out of my feare.

The XV. Chapter.

Queene Esther appeareth before the kinge with an heauy hart for the trouble of her people/ and God turneth the kynges herte.

AND vpon the thirde daye it happened/ that Esther layed awaye the mourninge/ & garments/ and put on her glorious apparill/ and decee her self goodly/ (after that she had called vpon God/ which is the preseruer and Saviour of all thynges) toke two maydens with her: vpon the one she leane her self/ as one that was sicker: the other folowed her/ and bare the trayn of her vesture. The syngge of her heuy made her face rose coloured. The semblance of her face was chearfull and asynable/ but her heart was sorrowfull for greaue feare. She wente in thowm all the doores/ and stode before the kynges. The kyng sat vpon the throne of his kingdom/ and was clothed in his goodly aray/ all of golde/ and set with precious stones/ and he was very terrible. He lift up his face that shone in clearnes/ and looked grimly vpon her. Then set the

A cople of the commandemente / which kyng Artaxerxes caused to be preclaymed in all the countreys of his Dominion / for the wealth of the Jewes.

D The greates kyng Artaxerxes / which rais-eth from India vnto Ethiopia / ouer an hundred and fyve landes / sendeth vnto the princes and rulers of the same landes / such as laue him / his frendly salutes. There be many that for the souerayn frendshippe and bene-fices / which are diversly done vnto them for their woollshippe / be cur the more proude and hate mynded / and vnder take not onely to hurte oure subiectes / for plentifulles benefices more they hat to suffre / and begynne to synagyn some thyng against those that do them good / and take not onely all vntanfullnesse awaye from men / but in payde and presumption / as they that be vnyuydefull and vntanfull for the good weede / they go aboure to escape the iudgement of God that seyth all thynges / which iudgement haneth a punyssheth all tres-pences. It happeneth of also / that they which be set in office by the bygger power / and vnto whome the busynesse and causes of the subiectes are comyng to be handled / were proude / and desyre them selfes with beddinge of innocent bloude / which bringeth them to inole-scible hurte. Which also with false and vniceatfull wordes / and with lyeinge tales / because and betraye the innocent goodnes of princes.

D Now is it profitable and good that we take hede / make search therafter / and consider / not onely what hath happened vnto vs of olde but the shamefull / dishonnest / a nosseme thin-ges / that the vcheytes haue now taken in hede beside oure eyes / and therby to beware in tyme to come / that we maye make the kyngdome quiete / and peaceable for all men / and that we myght somer tyme dreare it to a chaunge : as for the thyng that now is present before oure eyes to withstande it / and to put it vnto / after the moost friendly maner.

† What tyme now as Aman the sonne of Zimadathu the Macedonian / a stranger verely of the Persians bloude / a farrer from oure goodnesse / was come in amongst vs as an ale-aunt / a had oportunityed the frendshippe that we beare towards all people / so that he was called oure father / and had in hys honoure of euery man / as the next and principall vnto the kyng he coulde not forbear hym self fro his paye / both vnder taken not onely to robbe vs of the kyngdome / but of oure lyfe also.

With many folde benefices also hath he desyred to bestrope the hardoodens oure helper and preseruer / which hath done vs good in all thynges : a innocent Esther the lyfe partner of oure kyngdome / with all her people. For hys mynde was / what he had taken the out of the waye / a robbed vs of the / by this meenes to translare the kyngdome of the Persians vnto them of Macedonia. But we synde that Je-wes / which were accusid of the vcheytes / that they might be destroyed / are no euill doers / but wee reasonable a vryght lawes / and that they be the deuotion of the most hye tynges God / by whome the kyngdome of vs and oure proprietours hath bene well odyed by her prouidens. Therefore as for the letters and commandmentes / that were put forth by Aman / the sonne of Zimadathu / ye shall doo well / if ye haue them

The booke of Wyfdome.

Mat. 13. b ryme of oure lyfe is but fhow and reboune/ and i. Cor. 7. d when a maio once gone/ he hath no more ioye nor pleasure/ neyther houre we any man that turneth agayn from death: for we are boin of naught/ we shalbe here after as though we had neuer bene. For our bierh is as a smoke in our noftrale/ and the wynde as a sparke to moue oure bierh. As for our body/ it shalbe vry alikes that are quenched/ a our soul shall vanishe as if softe ayre our lyfe shall passe awaye as the trace of a cloude/ and come to naught with the myll that is dyuen awaye with the beames of the Sunne/ and put doune with the beare thereof. Oure name also shalbe forgotten by lyte and lytle/ and no mā shall haue oure woikes in remembraunce.

B For our tyme is a very shadowe & passeth i. Pa. 133. c awaye/ and after our ende there is no returne ninge/ for it is fast calde/ so that no man commeth agayne. Come on therfore/ let vs enioye the pleasures that there are/ a let vs soone use the creature like as in youth. We will fill oure felkes with good wyne and oymments/ these shall no floure of the tyme go by vs. We will arounne our felkes with roses asoft they be wythered. There shalbe no faire meadowes/ but our lust shall go thowit. Let euery one of you be partaker of oure voluptuousnes. Let vs leaue foune tokens of oure pleasure in euery place/ for that is our poison/ do get we nothyng. Let vs oppresse the poore righteous/ let vs not spare the wyrdome nor olde man/ let vs not regarde the brades that are gray for age. Let the laue of vnrighteousnesse be oure auctorite/ for the thyng that is sible is nothyng ¶ word. Therefore let vs defraude & righteous/a word: theye nor for our profytee/ be to cleane contrary to our thynges. He cheketh vs for offending against the law/ and slaundereth vs as transgressours of all nouriour. He maketh his boast to haue the knowledge of God/Joan. 8. a yee/ he calleth him self Gods sonne. He is *Esa. 118. a the brwayer of our thoubtes. * He greueth vs also to lose upon him/ for his lyfe is not like other mens/ his wayes are of another saluon.
 He counteth no but vnyue persons/ he with-draweth him self from our wayes as from fil-thines: he commendeth greatly the latter ende of the will/ and maketh his boast that Gods his saluon is vs: for if his woordes be true/let vs proue what shall come upon him/ so shal we knowe what ende he shall haue. For if he be the true sonne of God/ he will receaue byn/ Plai and deliuer hym from the handes of hye ene- ma mics. * Let vs examen hym with veyspetfull ¶ rebuke and tounchainge/ his waye shall be his dignitee/ and proue his patience. Let vs cōdemne hym with the most shamefull death: for lyfe as he hath spoken/ so shall he be rewarded.

Such thynges do the vngodly imagin/ and go astray/ for their owne wickednes hath blinded the. As for the mysteries of God/ they vnderstand them not/ they neyther hope for the rewarde of righteousness/ nor regarde & worshippe that holy soules shall haue. For God created man to be vnderstryde/ yee/ after the World of his owne likenesse made he hym.
 Imagelesse/ thowt enyue of & vceul came death in to the world/ and they that holde of his fide/ do as he doeth.

The III. Chapter.

B The & soules of the righteous are in the handes of God/ and & payne of death shal be not touch them. * In the syght of the wyse/ ¶ they appare to dye/ and their ende is taken for very destruction. The waye of the righteous is iudged to be vter destruction/ but they are in rest. And though they suffre payne before me/yet is their hope full of immortallitee. They are punished/ but in few thynges/ inuertible/ how-in many thynges shall they be well rewarded. ¶ For God proueth them/ a synberth them mee for him self/ as the golde in a furnace be trye them/ and receaueth them as a burnis offeringe/ and when the tyme cometh/ they shalbe lofed upon.

The righteous shall byrne as the sparke B that rine thowt the reade byfde. * They shal iudge the nations/ and haue dominion ouer ¶ the people/ a their Lord shall rainge in our they that put their trust in him/ shall enber-stande the truth/ and such as be faptrifull/ wil agre vnto him in loue/ for his chesen shall haue gyfte and peace. * But the vngodly haue punished according to their owne imaginacons/ for they haue vespysed the righteous/ a forsaken the Lord.

Who so vespyseth wyfdome and nouriour/he is vnhappye/ and as for the hope of soules/is hat wayne / theyr laboure vnfrutefull / and their wyse vnproffytable. Their wyse are vnifferre / and their chyldeyn moost vngodly.

 Theyr creatur is cursed. Blessed is rather the barren and vnderflesh / which hath not knowen the synfull bed: she shall haue frute in the rewards of the holy soules. † And blessed is the greid / which with his handes hath wrought no vngodlyousnesse / nor imagined wicked things against God. For vnto him shalbe geuen the speciall gift of sayth / and the moost acceptable poscion in the temple of God. For glorious is the frute of good laboure / and the rote of wyldome shall neuer fade awaye. As for the chyldeyn of aboumentes / they shall come to an ende / and yf seke of an vngodlyous bed shalbe rosed out. And though they lyue longe / yet shall they be norynge regarded / and their last age shalbe without honoure. If they dye haylly / they haue no hope / neyther shall they be spoken to in the Raye of knowlege. For horrible is the death and ende of the vngodlyous.

The III. Chapter.

How faire is a chastyt generation with vertue: The memoriall thereof is immortal for it is knowen with God and men. Where it is present / men take example there at: and if it go awaye / yet they desyre it. It is alwaye crouned and holden in honour / and requyred the reward of the vnderflesh barayl. But the multitude of vngodly chyldeyn is vnproffytable / and the thynges that are plantyd with whordomes / shall take no deperose / nor laye any fast foundation. † Though they be grene in the braunches for a tyme / yet shall they be shaken with the wynde: for they stande not fast / and shoue the vnderflesh of the wynd they shalbe rosed out. For the vnperfect braunches shalbe dyen / their frute shalbe vnproffytable a soure to cate / see / mee / for norynging. And why: all the chyldeyn that are borne of the wicked / must beare recorde of the wickednesse against theyr fathers and mothers / when they be aged. But though the righteous be ouertake with death / yet shall he be in rest.

Age is an honorable thyng: neuer theles / it standeth not only in the lough of tyme / nor in the multitude of yeares: but a mans wylddome is the graye here / a vnunderflesh lyfe is the olde age. He pleased God / and was be-loued of him: so that wher eue he lyued and synnere / he translated him. † Yet / so delyerly was he taken awaye / to the iument that wickednesse shoulde not autler his vnderstandinge / a thar spoyryse shoulde not begyle his soule. For the crafty be weryng of lyes make good thynges vayne / the vnunderfleshnesse also and wickednesse of voluptuous desyre / turne asyde the vnderstandinge of the synple. Though he was soone dead / yet fulfilled he much tyme. For his soule pleased God / therefore hastid he to take hym awaye from amonge the wicked. Thus the people se / and vnderstande it not: they laye not vp such thynges in their hertes / how that the loughng fauour and meepe of God is vpon pouer his sayntes / and that he hath respecte vnto his chosen.

Thus the righteous that is dead / condem-neth the vngodly which are lyuinge: and the youth that is soone brought to an ende / yf lyste lyfe of the vngodlyous. For they se the ende of the wyse / but they vnderstande not what God hath chaused for him / and wherfore the Lord hath taken hym awaye. And wher they se him a despyse hym / therefore shall God also laugh them to scorne: So that they them selues shall dye here after (but without honoure) yet / in shame amonge the dead for enemie. For without any voyce shall he burst those that be putt vp / and remove them from the foundacions / so that they shalbe layd wyrt vnto the Arghest. They shal mourne / and their memoriall shall remembre their synnes / a thar owne wickednesse shall beuerye them.

The V. Chapter.

Then shall the righteous stande in greate stedfastnesse against such as haue deat Nat. sig. a extremely with them / and taken awaye theyr laboure. When they se it / they shalbe weryd with horrible feare / and shall wonder at the hastynesse of the sodane health: growninge for very distress of mynde / and shall saye wryth them selues / hauninge in wardes for a mournninge for very angulsh of mynde.

These are they / whome we sonyntyme had in venison / and resked vps. † We sonyntyme thought theyr lyfe very madnesse / and their ende to be without honoure. But lo / how they are counted amonge the chyldeyn of God / a thar porcion is amonge the sayntes. Therefore we haue erred from the waye of trouth / the lyght of righteousnesse hath not shyned vnto vs / and the Sunne of vnderstandinge rose not vpon vs. We haue weryed our selues in the waye of wyldeynesse and destruction. Tedyous wayes haue we gone / but as for the waye of the Lorde / we haue not knowen it.

B What good hath cure pyde done vnto vs? O what profit hath the pompe of ryche brought vs? All these thynges are passed awaye lyke a shadowe / as a messenger runninge before a hyppre that passeth ouer the wayes of the water / which whan it is gone by the trace thereof can not be founde / neyther the path of it in the foudes. O as a byrde that flyeth thowse the ayre / and no man can see any token where she is flowne / but onely heareth the noise of her wynges / bearyng the lyght wynde / partynge the ayre thowse by vehemence of her goynge / a flyer on shalyng ber wynges / where as afterwarde no token of her waye can be founde. O lyke as when an arrowe is shot at a mark / it parteth the ayre / which immediately commeth together agayne / so that a man can not knowe where it wente thowse.

Ente so we in lyfe maner as soone as we were done / begonne immediately to drawe to our ende / and haue shewed no token of verue / but are consumed in oure owne wyldeynesse.

E Such wodes shall they that haue sinned / speake in the hell: for the hope of the vngodly to lyke a dyce thysel flour / or duste / that is blowen awaye wyth the wynde: lyke as thynne soome that is scattered aboade wyth a floome: lyke as the sinne which is disperseed here and there wyth the wynde / and as remembrance of a stranger that targeth for a vayne / and then departeth.

But the righteous shall lyue for euer more: they rewarde also is with the Lorde / and their remembrance with the Highest. There fore shall they receaue a glorious kyngdome: a deuisfull crowne of the Lordes hande: for wyth his right hande shall he couer them / and wyth his owne arme shall he defende them. Rio they also shall take awaye the harness / and he shall wrappe the creature to be auenged of the enemies. He shall put vnrighthousnes for a bysplaye / and take sure iudgement in stead of an helme. The inuincible spide of enmie shall he take / this cruell warre shall he sharpe for a speare / and the whole compass of the world shall fyght with him against the vnyuers.

Then shall the thunder bolto go out of the lightninges / and come out of the raynbowes of the cloudes to the place appointed: out of the hard stony indignation there shall fall thyrt hyles / and the water of the see shall be wroth against the: / a the foudes shall runne roughly together. Ye / a myghty wynde shall stande vp against them / and a storme shall scatter the aboade. Thus the vnrighthousnes of them shall bringe all the lide to a wildernes / and wyldeynes shall ouerthowse the dwellinges of the myghty.

The VI. Chapter.

Wylsosome better than strength / and a man of vnderstandinge is more worth then one that is stronge. Heare therefore of the iudges of the endes of the earth. Where are ye that rule the multitudes / and dwelpe in much people. For the power is geuen you of the Lorde / and the strength from the Highest: which shall trye your woorkes / and search out your immaginations. How that ye byng of officers of his kyngdome / haue not executed true iudgement / haue not kepte the lawe of righteousness / no: walked after his will. Howibly a that righte soone shall he appere vnto you: for an herde iudgement shall they haue that beare rule. They is graunted vnto the simple / but they shall be in auctourie: halbe for punysshed. For God which is Lorde ouer all / shall excepte no mans person / neyther shall he stande in awe of any mans greatness: for he hath made the final and greates / and curch for all a life. But the myghty shall haue the force punysshment.

Vnto you therefore o ye kynges. Do I speake / that ye maye learne to: soome a no go anylfe: for they that hope righteousnesse / shall righteously iudged: a they that are learned in righteous thynges / shall fynde to make iustifere. Wherfore set your lust upon my wodes / and loue them / so shall ye come by nouerous / wylsosome is a noble thyng / and neuer sayd: as was sayd / the is calyfyne of them that loue her / and founde of such as seke her. Ethe pe-

The booke of Wyfdom.

B. 61. a

standings/theynge cleane and sharpe. for wyfdom to nymblyc then all nymblyc thynge: for she geeth thoroze / and anayneth to all thynges/ because of her clemens. for she is the surp of the power of God/ and a pure cleane expressing of the clearenes of almyghty God. Therefore can no vnderfeld thyng come in to her. for she is the brightnesse of the everlastinge lyght/ the vnderfeld myroure of the mayesty of God / and the ymage of his goodnesse. And for so much as she is one/ she maye do all thynges: and beinge stedfast her selfe/ she remueth all/ and among the people conuertye she her selfe into the holy soules. She maketh Gods frendes and Diapheres: for God loueth no man/ but hym in whome wyfdom dwelleth. for she is more beautifull then the Sunne/ and greatly more lyghte then the starres/ and the daye is not to be compared vnto her/ for vnto daye cometh night. But wickedynges can not ouercome wyfdom / and folyshenes maye not be with her. The. VIII. Chapter.

Wyfdom reacheth fro one ende to another myghte/ and louingly doeth she ende at thynges. I haue loued her/ and laboured for her euen fro my youth vp: for by my Diligence to marry my selfe with her/ such loue had I vnto her beautye. Who so hath the company of God/ commendeth her noblyte/ yett the Lord of all thynges hym selfe loueth her. for she is the shepemaistrice of the nurroze of God/ and the doctour out of his woordes. If a man wolde desyre ryche in this lyfe / what is ryche then wyfdom that woerth al thynges: Thou wilt saye: vnderstandinge woerth. What is it amonge al thynges/ that woerth more then wyfdom? If a ma loue vertue and ryghteousnesse/ let hym laboure for wyfdom/ for she hath greate vertues. And why: for the readye sobrenesse and prudence/ righteousnesse and strenght/ which are suche thynges as men can haue nothinge more profitable in their lyfe. If a man desire muche knowlege/ she can tel the thynges that are passyng and discreete thynges/ for to come/ she knoweth the folies of woordes/ and can expounde vayne sentences. She can tell of tofens and wonderous thynges: so: euer they come to passe/ and the endes of all rynges and agree-

So I purposed after this maner: I wyll take her vnto my company / and comon loouingly with her: no doute she shall geue me good counsell/ and speake remsouably vnto me in my carefulnes and greffe. for her sake shall I be wel and honestly taken amonge the common / and lordes of the counsell. Though I be yong: yett shall I haue sharpe vnderstandings/ that I shall be maruylous in the sight of greate men / and the faces of prynces/ shal wonder at me. I when I hold Jobb. I speake/ they shall abyde my lesure: when I speake/ they shall loke vpon me: and if I talke much/ they shall laye theye handes vpon theye mouth. Moreover/ by the meanes of her I shall obtayne immortalyte/ and leaue behynde me an everlastinge memoriall / amonge them that come after me. I shall see the people in orde / and the nationes shall subdued vnto me. Horrible tyrannies shall be afraid/ whā theye do thus heare of me: amonge the multitude I shall be coured good / and myghty in battail. When I come home/ I shall fynd rest with her: for her companye hath no bytternes/ and her felowship hath no reidousnesse/ but merr and ioye.

Now when I considered these thynges / by my selfe/ and pondered the in my hert/ howe that to be ioyned vnto wyfdom/ is immortall: and greate pleasure to haue her frendes/ shipp: howe that in the woordes of her bandes are infinite ryche: howe that who so frendes company with her shall wyse: and that be which talketh with her/ shall come to honoure: I wente aboute sekinge to get her vnto me. for I was a lad of a rypp wyse/ had a good vnderstandinge.

But when I grewe to more vnderstandinge/ I came to an vnderfeld bodye. Neuertheles/ when I perceived that I could not kepe my selfe chaste/ excepte God gaue it me / (and that was a poynte of wyfdom also) to knowe whose gyfte it was. I flepte vnto the Lordes/ and soughte him/ and with my wpaile hert/ I saide after this maner.

The. IX. Chapter.

God of my fathers/ and Lord of mercies: thou that haste made all thynges / with thy woerde/ and ordeyned man to be wyllyng thy wyfdom/ that he shoulde haue Dominion ouer auer the creature which thou hast made: that he shoulde obide the woilde accordinge to con-quyte and righteousnesse/and execute iudgment with a new hea: geue me wyfdom/which is euer about thy seide/and put me not

14. 17. b oute from amonge thy chailden: for I thy seruant/ and sonne of thy handmaiden/ am a feble person of a shote tyme/ as to yonge to the vnderstandinge of iudgment and the lawes.
 And though a man be neuer so perfecte amonge the chailden of men/ yet if thy wyfdom be not wth him/ he shall be nothinge regarded. But thou hast chosen me to be a kynge 14. 18. b vnto thy people/ and the iudge of thy sonnes and daughters.

B Thou hast commaunded me to buyde a temple vpon thy holy mount/ as an altar in syene wherin thou dwellest: a lense of thy holy tabernacle/ which thou hast prepared fro the beginninge/ and thy wyfdom with it/which knoweth thy woike: which also was with the whan thou madest the woilde/ and knew what was acceptable in thy syght/ and right in thy commaundementes. O sende her oure of thy holy beauen: and from the throne of thy maiesty/ that she maye be wth me/and labour wth me: that I maye knowe/what is acceptable in thy syghte. For she knoweth and vnderstandeth al thinges: and she shall lode me soberly in my woike/ and persure me in her power. So shall my woike be acceptable/ and then shall I gouerne thy people rightously/ and be worthy to sit in my fathers seate. For what man is he/14. 19. b that maye knowe the counsaill of God: Or who can thinke what the will of God is:
 For the thoughtes of mortall men are mystable/ and oure forcastles are but vneraync.

14. 20. a And why: a mortall and corruptible body is decay vnto the soule/ and the carthy manshearte soune the vnderstandinge that musteth vpon many thinges. Very hardly can we discerne the thinges that are vpon carth/and greate labour haue we: so we can sende the thinges which are before oure eyes: Who wil then seke oute the grounde of the thinges that are thone in heauen: Oh Loorde/ who can haue knowlege of thy vnderstandinge and meaninge/ except thou geue wyfdom/and sende thy holy spooill from aboue: that the wayes of them / whiche are vpon carth maye be resourmed: that men maye learne the thinges that are pleasaunte vnto the / and be persured thowt wyfdom.

The X. Chapter.

Wyfdom persured the first man/ whom I God made a father of the woilde/ wha he was created alone/ thoughte him oute of his offense/ toke him oute of the moule of the carthy/ a gaue him power to rule all thinges.
 Whan the vnrighuous reyns were in his warsh from this wyfdom/ the brother dede persued thowt the warsh of murbur. 1. 2. b gane/ whan the water destroyed the whole vii. woilde/ wyfdom persured the righuous thowt a poxe tree/ whereof she was gouerner her self. 1. 3. b For ouer/ wha wickednes had gotten the vpper hande/ so that the nations were putt vp wth payde/ she knewe the righ-tous/ persured him faultlesse vnto God/ and layd vp sure mercy for his chailden. 1. 4. b persured the righuous/ whan he fled from the vngodly that persued/ what tyme as the fyre kill doune vpon the fruce cyne: 1. 5. b as yet this voye the vnrighuous/ wast and sines kynges/ and geueh testimony of they: wylednesse/ the vnrighuous/ and vnrighuous frutes that growe vpon the trece.

And for a token of a remembrance of the vnrighuous soule/ there standeth a pylle of salt. For all suche as regarded not wyfdom/gat not onely this hurte/ that they knewe not the thinges which were good/ but also left be-hinde them vnto men/ a memorial of their follynges: so that in the thinges wherin they sinned/ they coulde not be byd. But as for such as take hebe vnto wyfdom/ she shal de-liuer them from sorrowe.

1 Whan the righuous fledde because of his brotheres warsh/ wyfdom led hym the righthe waye/ shewed hym the kyngdome of God/ gaue him knowlege of holy thinges/made him rich in his laboures/ a thoughte to passe thinges that he werte aboue. In the deceitfulness of suche as defrauded him/ she stode by him/ and made hym ryche. She saued hym from the enemies/ and defended hym from the decauers. She made hym stronge in battayll/ and gane hym the victory that he nryght knowe/ how that wyfdom is stronge

How might any thing endure / if it were not thy will: Or howe could any thinge be preserved / excepte it were called of thee: But thou sparest all / for all are thine / O Lord / thou lovest of soules.

The XII. Chapter.

Lord howe gracious and sweete is thy spirit in all thinges: Therefore chastened thou them measurably that go wronge / and warnest them / concerninge the thynges wherein they offende: thou speakest vnto the Lordes / and sponest them to leaue their wickednes / and to put their trust in thee. ¶ He for those olde inhabitants of thy holy lande / thou mightest not awaye with them / for they committed abhominable workes against thee: as witchcraft / soecry / and Idolatry: they slew their owne children without mercy: they dyd eat the mens bowels / and deuoured the bloud: For because of such abhominacions / misbeliefs and offeringes / thou slewest the fathers of the desolate soules by the handes of oure fathers: that the lande whiche thou lovest / as thou hast a father / might be a dwellinge for the children of God.

Neuertheless / thou sparedest them also / as men / and sendest the forerunners of thyne host / euen honorettes to destroye them out by little and litle. Nor that thou wast vnable to subdue the engebodie vnto the righteous in Haman / or with cruell beasts / or with one rough wood to destroye them together: But thy minde was to destroye them out by litle and litle / geauinge them tyme and place to amende / knowinge well that it was an vnrightheous reason and wicked of nature / and that theye theught might neuer be altered. For it was a curid side from the beginninge / and feared no man: For haste thou pardoned their synnes / for who wilt saye vnto thee: why haste thou vnto that: Or who wilt stande against thy iudgement: or who will come before thy face an euenger of vnrightheous mēts: Or who will blame thee / if the people perishe whome thou hast made: for there is none o thee God durshou that careth for all thinges: that thou mayest declare howe that the iudgement is not vnrighthe. There were neuer synge / nor offence in thy sight require aedpotion of them / whome thou hast destroyed.

For so muche then as thou art rightheous thy selfe / thou ostendest all thinges rightheously / and punished euen him that hath not deserued to be punished / as thou hast him for a stranger and an alenun in the land of thy power. For thy power is the beginninge of rightheousnes: and because thou art Lord of all thinges / therefore art thou gracious vnto all. When men thinke theye not to be of full strenght / thou declarest thy power: and boldly beleeuest thou them euer that knowe thee not. But thou Lord of power iudgest quickly / and ostendest vs with great wisshipp / for thou mayest do as thou wilt.

By such workes nowe hast thou taughte thy people / that a man also should be iust and louinge: and haste made thy children to be of a good hope: for eue when thou iudgest / thou giueth tyme to amende from synnes. For in so much as thou hast punished / and with such diligencie bestrued the enemies of thy seruantes / which were worthy to die / where whome thou gauest them tyme and place of amendment: that they mighte turne from theye wickednes: with howe great diligencie thou punishest thou thyne owne children / vnto whose fathers thou haste sworne: and made conuauentes of good promyses: So where as thou dost but chasten vs / thou punishest oure enemies by such wayes: to the intente that when we punished / we should remember thy goodnes: and when we oure selves are punished / to put our trust in thy mercy.

Wherefor where as men haue spued ignominans and vnrightheously / thou hast punished them fast / euen thowoe the same thinges that theye worshipped. For theye wente as strays very longe in the waye of crooute / and helde the deities / whiche euen their enemies despyred / for goddes / giuinge as children of no vnderstandinge. Therefore haste thou sente a scornful punishment amonge them / as amonge the chyldeyn of ignorance. So for such as wold not be reformed by thes leuonnes and rebukes / theye felt the worthy punishment of God. For the thynges that theye iustified / theye bare them vnpenitentlye: beinge not content in them / but unwilling. And when theye perished by the same thinges that theye worshipped.

holke for goddes / they knowledg then / that there was but one true God / whome afove they wolde not knowe / therefore came the ende of their vmparacion upon them.

The XLII. Chapter.

Rom. i. b Wysne are all men / whiche haue not the knowlege of Gods / as wer they that out of the good thynges whiche are sene / knewe not hym / that of hym selfe is euerlastinge.

Deut. iii. c Whyther toke they so much regarde of the worke that are made / as to knowe / who was the crafter / man of them : But some toke the fyre / some the wynde / or aye / some the cause of the flamme / some the water / some toke Sūne and Moone / or the lightes of heauen whiche rule the earth for goddes. But though they had such pleasure in their deuyty / that they thought the to haue ben goddey / yet should they haue knowen / how much more faster he is / made them. for the maker of deuyty had ordeyned al these thynges : if they marvelled at the power and wyfdom of them / they should haue perceaued thereby / that he whiche made these thynges / is mightier then they.

B For by the greatnes a deuyty of the creature the maker therof maye playnly be knowen.
For what standinge / they are the lesse to be blamed / that sought God and wold haue found hym / yet myssed. And why : for so muche as they wente aboute in his workes and sought after them / it is a token that they regarded it hath much of his wyfdom that are sene / howe beutyfull they are not wholy to be excused. For if they wnderstand a knowlege was so great that they coulde discernen / howe a the creatures / why did they not rather fynde oute the Lorde thereof.

2. sa. iiii. b But vnhappy are they / and amonge the dead is they hope / that cal them god whiche are but the workes of menos handes : golde / siluer and the thynges that is founde oute by cunninge / the similitude of scalles / or any vaine thynge that hath ben made by hande of olde. For as when a carpenter cutteth doune a tree out of the wood / a parcell of the barke of it cunningly : and so with the one parte ma-keth a vessel to the vsyd / and righted meate with the restyde. As for the other parte that is left / whiche is profitlesse for noryng / for it is a crooked peece of wood / and full of knob-

2. sa. iiii. b But he carueth it diligently / that one his wanne / and accordinge to the knowlege of his cunninge / he getteth it some proporsion / for his ioyne / it after the similitude of a man / or maketh it lyke some best / that he at ouer word read and paineth it / as he wold what soule is in it / he casteth some coloure vpon it. Then maketh he a conuement tabernacle for it / serueth it in the wal / a maketh it full with vni-uersall / so for it / it shall happen to fall : for it is well knowen / that it can not helpe it selfe.
And why : it is but an ymage / and mulle of necessite / he helped.

Then goeth he and offereth of his goodnes vnto it for his children and for his wyfe / he se-keth helpe at it / he seeth counsyll as he is not ascribed to speake vnto it / that hath no soule / for health he maketh his petition vnto him that is sicke / for lyfe he prayeth vnto him that is dead : he called vpon him for helpe that is not able to helpe him selfe / and to sende him a good iourney / he prayeth him that may not goe / and in al the thynges that he taketh in hande / whether it be to open / or to close or to worke / he prayeth vnto / in that can be no maner of good.

The XLIII. Chapter.

Wayne / another man purposing to falle / vnto the beginninge to take his iourney / that row the rage / see / calleth for helpe vnto a stocke that is farre weaker then the tree / that beareth him. For as for it / the conuention of many hath founde it / and the craftisman maketh with his cunninge. But thy prouidence / O father / gouernest all thynges from the begynninge / for thou hast made a waye in the see / a sure path in the myddest of the waues / Declaringe thereby that thou hast power to helpe in al thynges / yet though a man wente to the see without thyppes. Accurthelless / that the workes of thy wyfdom shoulde not be vaine / thou hast caused an Ark to be made : and thereto do men committe their liues to a smal peece of wood / passinge ouer the see in a shippe : and are saued.

For in the olde tyme also when the prouide granted perished / therein whome the hope was left / so increace the wood / trentments / thyppes which was gouerned thow / thy hande / and so lest / he binde hym vnto the wylde. For happy is the man/where shewy ryghteous-ness commeth: But cursed is the ymage of wood/that is made with handes/yecc/both it a be it made in hee/Beccause he made it/ and it is/Beccause it was called god/ where as it is but a frayle thyng. For the vngodly and his vngodlines are both like abhominable vnto God. When so the worke and he that made it also / shalbe punished together. Therefore shall there a plague come vpon the ymages of the heathen/so out of the creature of God they are become an abhominacion/a tempta-cion vnto the soules of men / and a snare for the site of the onnyse. And why: the schinge out of ymages is the beginninge of vngod-dome/and the dunginge vp of them is destruction of lyfe. For they were not from the beginninge/ neither shal they continue foreuer. The wealthy ydelnes of men hath founde them out vpon earth: therefore shal they come spedyly to an ende. When a father mourned for his sonne that was taken away from him/he made him an ymage/ in al the basyl of his head sonner a fy begganne to worshipp: hym as God/ which was but a dead ma / a vngodly ned his seruantes to offere vnto him. Thus by proccesse of tyme/ as thowome large custome/this erreour was receyued as a law/ a ryne copelled men by violence to honour ymages. As for those that were so farr off / men myght not worshipp them presently / their picture was thought for farr (like the ymage of a kyng/ whome they wolde honour. So the inuent that is great diligence they might wor-shipp him which was farr off/ as though he had bene present. Againe/ the singularite countinge of the crastisman gane the ignorantie also a greete occasion to worshipp ymages.

For the workeman willinge to do him a pleasur that for him a worke/ laboured with al his cunninge to make the ymage of the best fashion. And so / shewy the cury of the world/the commo people was deceaued/ in so much they toke him no we for a god / which a litle afte was but honoured as a man. And this was the erreour of mannyse/ when men/ sye ther for so ferre ther owne affection/ as to do some pleasure vnto kinges/ ascribed vnto honour and hecree the name of God / which ought to be geuen vnto no man.

Moreover/ this was not ynough for them that they erred in the knowlege of God: but where as they liued in the greete warres of ignorance/ those many and greete plagues called they peare. For cyther / they stee: they owne children a offred ther/ or they sacrific in h night season/ or els doth vnrasonable wastes: so they septe neither lyfe nor marriage clean: but cyther one sture another to vnto malicious/ or els greued his neyghbour to adourity. And thus were all thynges murte together: bloud/ mans laughter/ the/ distri-bulacion/ vngodly on/ vncharity/ vnjuste/ vn-purity/ vnquynge of good men / vn-thankfulnes/ despyng of soules/ chaunging of wyth/ vnstedfastnesse of marriage/ vn-faythfulnes/ vnclennesse. And why: the honouringe of abhominable ymages/ is the cause of the beginninge/ and ende of al euil. For they that worshipp Idols/ cyther they are made when they be merry/ or els propheteies/or lyue vngodly/ or els lightly forserue them selues. For in so much as they truste in the Idols/ which haue neyther soule nor vnderstandinge/ though they sweare falsly/ yet they thinke it shal not hurte them.

Therefore commeth a greete plague vpon them/ and that worthy: for they haue an euil opinion of God/ geuyng hede vnto Idols/swearinge vnjustly to deceaue/ and dyspysinge ryghteousnesse. For they swearinge is no verue / but a plague of them that synne/ and goeth euer with the offense of the vngodly.

The XV. Chapter.

Behoudeoure God/ art swete/ longe suffering and true/ and in mercy iudiceth thou al thynges. Though we synners are we thine/ for we knowe thy strengthe. If we synne not/ then are we sure that thou regardst na-fey to knowe the / is perfecte ryghteousnesse.
Yeete knowe thy ryghteousnes and power/ as the rote of immortallite. As for the thing that men haue found out thow their euilnesse is but not deceaued vnto the paynting of the picture (and vnprofitable labour) and

The booke of Wisdome.

B Neertheleffe / they that loue such euill thynges are worthy of death / they that truste in them / they that make them / they that loue them / and they that honoure them. The poete also saith a temperate soft earth / labourerth us / and giveth the fruite of a vessel / wherofour frucht for our vice / and so of one peece of claye he maketh some cleane vessel for seruys / and some contrary. But where to eury vessel serueth / that knoweth the poete hym selfe. So with his vaine labour he maketh a god of his same claye : this doeth euen he / whiche a little afore was made of earthe hym selfe / and within a litle while after / when he dyeth / turneth to earth againe.

C Wherwith standinge / he careth not the more because he shal labour / nor because his life is shorte : but he stryeth to exact goldsmithes / the floure / and cuppers / and saith it for an honour to make wayne thynges : for his herte is assured / his hope is but wayne earth / and his life is more vyle then claye : for so much so he travaileth nor his owne nether / that gauē him his soule to worke / and stered in hym the death of life. They counte our life but a payme / and oure conuersion to be but a market / and they men shoulde euer be gettinge / yet / and that by euill meanes. Nowe the part of earth maketh fragile vessel / and ymagineth / to truste hym selfe to offende aboute all other.

D All the enemies of thy people / and that holde them in subiection / are vnwise / vnhappy / and exceedinge proude vnto their owne soules : for they iudge all the Tolles of the Aegypten to be gubbes / whiche neyther haue eyes / sight / to see / nor noses / to smell / nor eares / to heare / nor fingers / of handes / for to gripe / and so for their sake / they are to slowe to go. For man made them / and he that hath but a borrowed spere / fashioned them. But no man can make a god lyfe vnto him : for seynge he is but mortal him selfe / it is but mortal that he maketh with vniuersall handes. He him selfe is better then they whome he worshipeth / for he lyueth / though he was mortal / but so they dyed neuer they. Yet / they worshippe scales also / whiche are moost miserable : for compare thynges that can not fele vnto them / and they are wiser then those. Yet is there none one of these bestes / that with his synge can behold any good thyng / neyther haue they great pleasure / than he vnto God.

The .XVI. Chapter.

O these and such other thynges haue they suffered worthy punyshment / and therefore the multitude of bestes are theye rodded out. In stead of the which punishment thou hast graciouslye iudged thine owne people / and given them their wisye / that they shoulde for a newe and straunge taste / preparing them quayles to be their measure the intente that / by the thynges which were shewed / and sent vnto them / they that were so greedy of meate / mighte be withhelden euen from the bestes that was necessary. But these vnto whome some were brought vnto power / and wailed a newe meate. For it was requisite that / withoute any excuse / they shoulde come vpon those which used tyranny / and to shewe onely vnto the other / whome their enemyes were destroyed. For when the cruell humyewoodnesse of the bestes came vpon them / they perished throu the synge of the cruell serpentes.

Wherwith standinge / they wretched endured not perpetually / but they were put in feare / for a litle season / that they mighte be reformed / hauyng a token of saluacion to remember the commaundment of thy lawe. For he that conuerted / was not healed by the thyng that he sawe / but by the saluacion of al. So in this thou shouldest see thine enemies / that it is thou / whiche shouldest from all euill. So thou / when they were byten with greasypoppers / and they / they dyed / for they were worthy to perish by such. But neyther the death of the gonat / nor of vnyuersall wmmes ouercame thy children / for thy mercy was euer by them / and helped them. Therefore were they punished to remember thy wordes / but happily were they healed agayne / lest / they shouldest fall into so depe forgetfulnesse / that they mighte not use thy helpe.

It was neyther herbe / nor plaster that restored them to health / but thy wordes / Lord / whiche healeth al ailgees. It is thou / Lord / that hast the power of lyfe / death / thou hast vnto thynges / that they mighte not use thy helpe.

Psal. cxiij. b

Exod. xij. b

Reg. i. b

¶ one soule / and when hya spiere goeth forth / it turneth not agayne / neyther maye he call a-gayne the soule that is taken awaye: It is not possible to escape thy hande. For the vngodly that weld not knowe the / were punysshed by the strength of thyne arme: ¶ With straunge waters / hartes / and raynes were they persecutid / and thow fyre were they consumed. For it was a wonderous thinge / that fyre might do more then water / which quencherth al thyn-ges: but the wolde is the auenger of vngoddous. Some tyme was the fyre so tame / that the bestles which were sent to punyssh the vngodly: went not and that because they shoulde and knowe / that they were persecuted with the punysshment of God. And somtyme burns the fyre in the water on euery syde / that it myght destroye the vngodly nation of the earth.

¶ Agayne the vngodly shall see thynne owne people with aungels / and sinte the bread ready for beeing / without their labour: theyng very pleasaunt and well gustid. And to see thy rythes / and frentesse vnto thy chyliden / thou gaust euery one their desire / so / euery man myghte take what leked him best. But the snoter and yfe abede the violence of the fyre / and melted not: that they myght knowe / that the fyre burninge in the harte and raine / destroyed the frute of the cencire: the fyre also forget his strenght agayne / that the righteous myghte knowe: For the creature that serueth the which art the maker / is feare in punysshing: the vngodly / but it is easy and gentle to do good / vnto such as put their trust in the. Therefore thyd all thynges alre at the same tyme / and were all obedient vnto thy grace / which is the noyse of all thynges / accordinge to the desire of the that had neede thereof: that thy chyliden (¶ Lord) whome a thoulouht myght knowe / That it is not nature / and the growinge of frutes that sedeth me / but that is in thy word: which preferueth the that put their trust in the. For loke what myght not be destroyed with the fyre / as soone as it was warmed with a litle Sunne beame / it melted: that all me myght knowe / that thow thou ought to be geue vnto the before ¶ Sunne ryse / and that thou oughtest to be wo: shipped before the verye springe. For the hope of the vngodly shall melt awaye as the winter yse / and perise as water that is not necessary.

The XVII. Chapter.

¶ Neare are the iudgements of the Lord: / And thy countsayle can not be expysshed: Non-theles men do erre / that will not be reformed with thy wyfdom. ¶ For when the vngodly righteous / they were haue thy holy peoples subiectiō / they were bound with the bandes of darkenes and longe nyghts / but vnder the roste / theyng to escape the euillastinge wyf-dome. And whyle they thought to be hyd in the darkenesse of their synnes / they were scarrred aboade in the very myddell of the dark-roueryng of forgetfulnes / put to horrible feare and wonderously wred. For the corner where they where / myght not kepe them from feare: because the founde came vnto a wred them: ye / many terribil and straunge visions made them afrayed.

¶ No power of the fyre myght geue the light: / Neyther myght the clere flammes of the stars lighten that horrible nyght. For there appeared vnto them a sodane fyre / verye dydeful As the which when they sawe nothinge / they were so afrayed / that they thought the thinge which they sawe / to be the more fearefull. ¶ For the feare / and enchailement that they dosed / it came to derision / and the proude wyf-dome was brought to shame. For they that promysed to dyue awaye the fearefulnes / and biede from the weak soules / wher they feare them selves / and that with sore. And though none of the wonderes feare them / yet were they afrayed at the bestles which came vpon them / and at the byssing of the spre-tes: ¶ In so much that with trembling they frouined / and sayde: they sawe not the aspe / whiche no man yet maye escape.

¶ For it is an heauy thinge / when a mans owne conscience beartye recorde of his wickednes / and condempneth him. And why / a wred and wounded conscience / taketh euery cruel thynges in hande. ¶ Fearefulnes is not thynges clo: but a declaryng that a man self helpe and defence / to auersure for him self.
And loke how much lesse the hope is within the: noicis the vncertaintye of the matter / for the which he is punysshid. But they that cause in the nyght / sleep the feare: that led vpon them from vnder and from aboue / some time were they afrayed thoro the feare of the wonders / and somtyme they were so weake / that they suomed withall: for an hayssly and sodayne fearfullene came vpon the. Afterwarde ffany of the had fa len: he was kepte and shut in prison / but without chaimes. But if any dwelt in a yllage / if he had ben an hynd or household ma: he suffred intolerable necessities for they were all bounde with one chaime of darkenesse.

B Whether it were a blasinge wind / or a furete songe of the byrds amonge the thicke broundies of the trees / or the vehemence of heu-stie runninge water / or greate noyse of the fallinge founde of stones / or the playinge and rininge of beastes whom they sawe not / or the myghty noyse of roaringe beastes / or the sounde that auntwerch agayne in the hye mountaynes: it made them tremble for very feare. For all the earth shined with cleare light / and no man was hindered in his labour. Onely vpon them there fell a heauy nyght / and image of darkenesse that was to come vpon the. Yet they were vnto them selfes the most heauy and horrible darkenesse.

The XVIII. Chapter.

I Heretofore cleauly shewen had a very great light: and the enemies herde their voyces / but they sawe not the figure of the. And because they suffred not the same thinges / they magnified the: and they that were vexed afore (because they were not hurte now) thanked the: as be sought the (O God) that they might be a difference.

Jod. xij. a I Heretofore had they a burninge pyller offire to lede them in the vnknowne waye: and thou gauest the the Sunne for a fire gift without any hurte. Reason it was / y they shoulde want light: as to be put in the prison of darkenesse: which kepte thy chyldren in capti-uety: by whome the vninterrupte light of lawe fathers receyued afore: y they knowinge vnto whi: desies they had receyued: might be lawe of freyght: but the vngodly were destroyed. For like as thou hast hurt oure enemies / so hast thou promoted vs whome thou callest best afore. For the righteous dulness of y good men offered secretly / a odred the lawe of righte-uousnes vnto vnto: that the iust shoulde receiue good and euell in lyke maner / synninge payse vnto the father of all men. Agayne there was herde an vnconuenient voyce of the enemies / and a pitous crye for chyldren that were betrayed. The master and the ser-uaunt were punished a lyke / the meane man and the kinge suffred in lyke maner. For they altogether had innumerable that dyed one death.

B Whether were the lyuinge sufficient to Ephebury the dead: for in the ruinge of an eye / the noblest nation of them was destroyed. As oft as God helped the afore: y yet wolde it not make the delect: but in the destruction of the first boone they knowledged: that it was the people of God. For whyle all thinges were still: and when the nyght was in the myddell of her course: thy Almighty wrode: O Lord scape Dauide from heauen out of thy rayll trouce: as a rough man of warre / in the myddell of the lande that was destroyed: and the sheep strayed: put foummed thy straighte: the mainement standinge: and synninge all thin-ges with death: yet it fode vpon the earth reached the heauen. The synners of the ead: became vexed the sodenly / and fearfullest: came vpon them vnwete.

Then laye there one here / another there: half dead / half quicke / and shewed the cause of his deathe. For the visions that vexed the / thewed them the cause of their synnes: that they were not ignorant: wherfore they perished.

The effects of death toucheth the righteous also: and amonge the multitude in the wildernesse there was infurrection / but thy wrath endured not longe. For the blamelesse man wrote in all the hayssly: and toke the battayl vpon him: brought forth the weapon of his mi-nistracion: conuen prayer and the censur of reconuilinge: set him self agaynst the warre: and so brought the infery to an ende: Declaringe the by that he was thy seruant. For he overcame not the multitude with bodily power: nor with weapons of myght: but with the word he subdued him: that vexed him / y synge

nyge the in remembrance of the oath / and conuenaunt made vnto the father. for when the head were fallen doune by beaues one vpon another / he stode in the myddell / pacified the wrath / and purged the waye vnto the yung. And why / in his longe garment was all the beauty / and in the foure corners of the stones was the glory of the fathers graue / and thy manly was written in the crone of his head. Vnto these the Destroyer gaue place / a was afrayed of them: for it was onely a trauaile worthy of weath.

The XIX. Chapter.

AS for the vngodly / the wrath came vpon them without mercy vnto the ende. For he knewe before what shoulde happen vnto them / wher they had consented to let them go / and had sent the sun with greace vnto them. they wolde repente / and folowe vpon them. For when they were yet mourning and making lamentacion by the graues of the dead / they vngodly / they sayd / why shal we not: so that they persecuted them in their flings / whome they had call & callid with prayer. Worthy necessity also brought them vnto this ende / for they had cleane forgotten the thynges that happened vnto them afore. But the thyng that was wantinge of their punishment / was requisite for to be fulfilled vpon them with touniers: that thy people might haue a maruailous passage thow / a that they might fynde a straunge year.

Then was euery creature fashioned againe of the new according to the will of their maker / obeynges thy commandement / that thy children might be kept without hurte. for the cloude overbadowed their tentes / and the drye earth appeared / wherof as yet was water: so that in the read see there was a waye without impediment / and the greates dept became a grene fild: wher thow all the people were that were defended with thy hande / serge thy wonderous and maruailous woikes. for as the horses / so were they fed / and leape life lambe / passinge thy Lo:de / which had best deliuered them. And why: they were yet vngodly of thy thynges / that happened whye they dwelt in the lande: how the grounde brought forth theye in steade of carell / and pouer the ryer scauled with the multitude of frogs in steade of fyshes.

But at the last they sawe a new creation of bydes / whar ryng as they were becaued of Job xxi. 6 with lust / and besyde delicate meates. for Ham xi. 8 when they were speakinge of their appetit / the queyles came vpon them from the sea / and punishmentes came vpon the synners / not without the tokens which came to passe: as for the vngodly / they were suffred with theye according to their wickednes / they dwelt so abhominably and churlyly with straungers. Some receaued no onknewen gestes / some brought the straungers into bondage: that theyd them good. For as all these thynges / there were some that not only receaued no straungers with their wyll / but persecuted those also / and theyd the much euill. iq. Joan. 8 that receaued them goodly. Therefore were they punished with blindnesse / & life as they that were covered with dyane darkness: at the dyces of thynges: so that euery one sought the trauaile of his dyce.

Thus the elements turned into their selfe / life as whar one tyme is chaunged vpon an instrumente of myght / and yet all the residue kept their melody: which maye easily be perceaued / by the sight of the thynges that are come to passe. The drye lande was turned into a watery / a the thyng that was swamine in the water / wente now vpo the drye ground. The fyre had power in the water (contrary to his owne vermic) and the water sought his owne kinde to quench. Againe the flammes of the noysome beastes hurte not the feth of them that wente with them / neither meted they the yf / which do in drech lightly. In all thynges hast thou promoted thy people (Lo:de) and broughte the to honoure: thou hast not despysed them / but alwaye and in all places hast thou stande by them.

Wyfdom.

The booke of Iesus the sonne of Syrach / whiche is called in Latyne Ecclesiasticus.

The prologe of Iesus the sonne of Syrach vnto his booke.

Many and greate men haue declared wysdome vnto vs out of the lawe / out of the prophetes / and out of other that folowed the: In the whiche thynges Israel ought to be comended / by the reason of doctrine a wysdome: Therfore they that haue it and reade it / shoulde not onely them selves be wyse there thorow / but serue other also with teachinge and wyynnge.

After that my ground father Iesus had geuen diligent labour to reade the lawe / the prophetes and other booke that were left vs of oure fathers / and had wel exercised him self therein: he purposed also to wyte some thynges of wysdome and good maners / to the intent that they which were willinge to learne and to be wyse / myght haue the more vnderstandinge / and be the more apte to leade a good conuersation.

Wherefore I exhorte you to receaue it louynghly / to reade it with diligence / and to take it in good troube / though oure wordes be not so eloquent as the famous orators. for the thyng that is wyiten in the Hebrue tynge / foundeth not so well vban it is translated into another speache. Nor onely this booke of syrach / but also the lawe / the prophetes / and other booke founde faere other wyse then they do / vban they are spoken in their owne language.

Now in the xxxviij. yere vban I came into Egypte in the tyme of Ptolome Euergetes / and continued there all my life / I gat liberty to reade and wyte many good thynges. Wherefore I thought it good and necessary / to bestowe my diligence and traualse to interpret this booke. And consideringe that I had tyme / I laboured and byd my best to persourme this booke / and to bringe it vnto light: that the straungers also whiche are disposed to learne / myght applye the selues vnto good maners / and lyue accordinge to the lawe of the Lord.

All wysdome cometh of God the Lord / and hath bene euer with him / and is before all tyme. Who hath numbred the sande of the see / droppes of the rayne / a the dayes of tyme / Who hath measured the height of heauen / the breadth of the earth / and the depthe of the see / Who hath sought out the grounde of Gods wysdome / whiche hath bene before all thinges / and the understandinge of pudence from euerlastinge. (Gods woude in the height is the wellle of wysdome / and the euerlastinge commaundementis are the intrance of her.) Vnto whome hath the rote of wysdome bene declared / vnto who hath knowne her wys / vnto whome hath the doctrine of wysdome bene disclosed / and who hath vnderstande the many folde entrance of her.

B There is one euen the Highest / the maker of all thinges / the almyghty / the kinge of power / of whome me ought to stande greatly in awe / whiche sitteth vpon his throne / beyng a God of Dominion. He hath created her thowrow the holy ghaost / he hath sene her / nūbered her / and measured her. He hath poured her out vpon all his wothes / and vpon all flesh accordinge to his gift / he geueh her richely vnto them that loue hym. The feare of the Lord is wysdome and triumphe / gladnesse / and a ioyfull crowne. The feare of the Lord maketh a merry herte / geueh gladnesse / ioye and longe lyfe. Who so feareth the Lord / it shall go well with hym at the last / and in the daye of his death he shalbe blessed.

C The loue of God is honorable wysdome: like vnto whome it appeareth / they loue it / for they se what woderous thinges it doeth. The feare of the Lord is the beginninge of wysdome / and was made with the faithfull in the mothers wombe: it shall go with the chosyn woman / a shalbe knowen of the righteous a faithfull. The feare of the Lord is the right Gods seruice / what ptesimeth and iustifieth the hert / and geueh mysh and gladnesse. Who so feareth the Lord / shalbe happy: a what he hath neede of comforte / he shalbe blessed. To feare God / is the wysdome that maketh mysh / and bringeth all good with her. She fyssheth the whole house with her giftes / and the garners with her measure. The feare of the Lord is the crowne of wysdome / and geueh plentifulous peare and health. He hath sene her and numbred her / knowledge and vnderstandinge of wysdome hath be poured out as rayne / and she that helde her fast / hath be brought to boynour.

D The feare of the Lord is the rote of wysdome / and her binaunces are longe lyfe. In the treasures of wysdome is vnderstandinge and deuotion of knowlge / but wysdome is abhorred of synners. The feare of the Lord dyueth out synne / for he that is without feare / can not be made righteous / and his wysful boldnes is his owne destruction. A patient man wil suffice vnto the ryme / and then shall he haue the rewarde of ioye. A good vnderstandinge wyl hyde his wothes / for a time / and many mens lippes shall speake of his wysdome. In the treasures of wysdome is the declaration of doctrine / but the synner abhorreth the worship of God. His synne if thou desire wysdome / kepe the commaundementis / a God shall geue her vnto the / for the feare of the Lord is wysdome and nurture / he hath pleasure in sayth and lousynge mekenesse / and he shall fill the treasures therof. Be not dishoneste and vnfaithfull to the feare of the Lord / and come not vnto synners with a Duble hert. Be not an spyocyte in the sight of men / a tale good hede what thou speakest. Wlartd well these thynges / lest / thou happen to fall and brynge thy soule to dishonoure / and so God disouer thy secretes / and cast the blame in the myddel of the congregation: because thou woldest not receaue the feare of God / and because thy herte is full of synnedesse and deccates.

 prepare they: heeres / and humble their soules in his sight. They that feare the Lord / kepe his commaundmentes / and will be patient / till they see him self sayinge: For better is it for vs to fall into the handes of the Lord / then into the handes of men: for his mercy is so greate as him self.

Lec. 33. 1. c
 Susan. d

D The children of wysdome are a congregation of the righteous / as their exercise is obedience and loue. Heare me youre father to my deare children: I go therefore / that ye maye be wise. For the Lord will haue the father honoured of the children / and soke wher a mother commaundeth her children to do: he will haue it kepte. Wo so honoureth his father / hys synnes shall be forgotten him: and he that honoureth his mother / to like one that gathereth treasure together. Wo so honoureth his father: shall haue ioye of his owne children: I when he maketh his prayer / he shall be heard. He that honoureth his father / shall haue a longe life: as he that is obedient for his father sake / his mother shall haue ioye of hym.

He that feareth the Lord / honoureth his father and mother: and doth them service: as it were vnto the Lord him self. Honoure thy father in the Lord / and in all patience: that thou mayest haue his blessinge: For the blessinge of the father buyrdeth vpon the soules of the children / but the mother curseth vpon the foundations. Reioyce not when thy father is reproued / for it is no honoure vnto thee: for a shame. For the wisshippe of a mans father is his owne wisshippe / and where the father is without honoure / it is his dishonour of the sonne. My sonne make much of thy father in his age / and greue him not as longe as he liueth. And if his vnderstandinge fayle / haue patience with him / and despyse him not in his strength. For the good word that thou bestest vnto thy father / shall not be forgotten: and when thou thy selfe wantest / it shall be remembered the: and for thy mothers offences / thou shalt be recompensed with good: for it shall be founded for the in righteousness / and in the daye of trouble thou shalt be remembered: thy synnes also shall melt awaye / life as the fire in the saye warme weber.

He that forsaketh his father / shall come to shame: and he that despyse his mother / is cursed of God. My sonne perfume thy wokes with louinge meeknesse / so shalt thou be beloued above other men. The greater thou art / the more humble thy selfe / in all thynges:
 and thou shalt fynde fauour in the sight of God. For great power belongeth only vnto God / and he is honoured of the lowly.

Rust not vnto thy rydes / Tand saye not: myde; I haue ynough for my lyfe. For it shall not helpe in the tyme of vengeance and temptacion. Followe not the lust of thyne owe; herte in thy strength; and saye not: thus; howe should I / or who wyll cast me downe because of my weake? for doubtles God shall aunge it. And saye not: I haue commited no synne; but what euil hath happened me: for the almyghty is a pacient rewarder. Because thy synne is forgiven the / be not therefore without feare; neyther beape one synne vpon another. And saye not: thus; the mercy of the Lo:de is greates / he shall forgieue my synnes; be they neuer so many. For lyke as he is mercifull; so goyth wrath from hym also; and hye indignacion commeth downe vpon synners.

Be not proude in the deuicy; of thyne owne vnderstandynge; lest / thy leaues wither; and thy frute be destroyed; and so thou be left as a drye tree. For a wretched soule destroyed by hym; hath it; maye hym to be laughed to scoine of his enemyes; and bringeth him to the portion of the vngodly. Trustee woide multipliyeth frenches; and pacifieth them that be in vauiance; and a thankfyll tynge will be plentifulous in a good man. If thou gettest a frende; / t pence him first; Be and be not haughty to greue him rebence. For some man is a frende but for a tyme; and will not abyde in the daye of trouble. In the handes of craftismen shal the woordes be commended: so shal the prynces of the people in the wisdom of their talyngge. A man full of woordes is perillous in this cyte: and he that is murmurous/ and putt harte in his talyngge/is to be abheered.

The. X. Chapter.

¶ Wyse iudge will orde his people with discretion/ and where a man of vnderstandinge beareth rule/ there goeth it well. To the iudge of the people is hym selfe/ euen so are his officers: and loke what maner of man the ruler of the cyte is/ such are they that dwell therein also. An vnwyse iudge destroyeth his people/ but where they that be in auctorite/ are men of vnderstandinge/ there the cyte prospereth.

The power of the earth is in the hande of God/ and whan his wille is/ he shal set a prouyde ruler vpon it. In the hande of God is the power of man/ and vpon the scrybes shal be laye his honoure.† Remember not wronge of thy neighbour/ and medle thou with no vngyuous wyfte. Pude is hateful before God and men/ and all wickednes/ if of the cyte then is to be abbeered.† Cause of vnyggyt diuerse because/ a realme shalbe translated fr one people to another.

There is nothinge worse then a couetous man. What auanest thou thou/ thou earth a sallowe/ there is not a moie wicked thinge then to loue money. And why? such one hath his soule to sell: yet to be suretylthy souage while he lyueth.

And though the phisician seewe his hope neuer so longe/ yet in conclusyon it goeth after this maner: to daye a fringe/ to morowe dead. For whan a man dyeth/ he is the heire of serpente/ bestles and wommes. The beginninge of mans pryde / is to fall awaye from God: why? his hert is gone fro his maister/ for pryde is the original of all synne. Who so saith holde therof/ shalbe filled with cursynges/ and at the last it shal ouerthowe him. Therefore hath the Lord brought the sonnyng gacions of the wicked to his honoure/ and destroyed them vnto the ende.

¶ God hath destroyed the scates of proude prynces / and set vp the meke in their stead. God hath withered the roces of the proude / and heuen/ and planted the lowly amonge the earth. God hath ouertrowen the landes of the earth/ and destroyed them out of ground. He hath caused them to wyther awaye by moriall of ite in to easse fro out of the earth.

(God hath destroyed the name of the proud/and left the name of the humble of mynde.) Pride was not made for mā neither twofold nes for mens chylden. The fyde of men that feareth God/shalbe broughte to honoure: but the fyde which trasgresseth the commaunde-mentes of the Lozde/shalbe shamed. He that is the ruler amonge brethren is holden in honour amonge them/and he regardeth such as feare the Lozde:

The glory of the ryche/of the honorable and of the poore is the feare of God.

Despyse not thou the iust poore man/ and magnifie not the ryche on godly. Greater is the iudge and mighte in honour/ yet is there none greater then he that feareth God.

¶ Into the seruicant that is discrete / shall the fre be discrete. ¶ He that is wise and wel nourished/ will not grudge when he is respected/ and an ignorant body shal not come to honour. Be not proude to do thy worke and dyspar not in the tyme of aduersyte.

¶ Better is he that laboureth/ and hath plenty of soules of all thynges/ then he that is gori-ous/ and wauereth bread.

¶ My sonne/ kepe thy soule in mekenesse/ and goue her byr due honoure. Who shall iustifie hym / that synneth agaynst hym self? Who will honour hym / that dishonoureth his owne lyfe? The poore is honoured for his faithfulness and trust/ but the ryche is had in reputacion because of his gooddes. He that or-dieth hymself honestly in pouerte/ how much more shall he bechaue hymself honestly in ry-che? And who so ordieth hymself dishonestly in his ryche/ how much more shal he bechaue hym self dishonestly in pouerte.

The .xl. Chapter.

¶ He that wysdome of hym that is broughte to lorde / shall lyfe vp bys heade/ and shall make hym to lye amonge great men. Comen-de not a man in his beutyce/ neyther despyse a man in his vntw appareauce. The key is but a small beall amonge the sooles/ yete heer frute is exceeding grete. Be not proude of thy ray-ment/ and exalte not thyself in the daye of thy honoure: for the workes of the highest one-ly are woderful/ yete glorious/ secret and vno-knowne are his workes. Many straunges haue bene sayne to lye doune upon the earth/and the vnlychly hath wrome the croune.

Many myghtye men haue bene thoughte lowe/ and the honorable haue bene dysserued into other mens handes. Take condemne no man/ before thou haue tryed out the matter/ and when thou hast made inquisition/then reforme righteously. ¶ Weic no sentence antye before/ thou hast herde the cause/ but syt like men will out theyr tales.

¶ Striue not for a matter that toucheth not thy self/ and stande not in the iudgement of synners. My sonne/ medle not with many matters: ¶ If thou wylt be ryche/ thou shalt not be vnglyt/ and though thou folow after/ yet shalt thou not gete it: and though thou run-nest thy waye afoze/ yet shalt thou not scape.
¶ There is some man that laboureth/ and the more he wretched hym self / the lesse he hath.
Zygane / some man is slouthish/ hath nyde of helpes/ wanteth strenght/ and hath greate pa-uertes/ a Gods eye logeth vpon hym to good/stretch hym vp/ yete bys lowe estate/ and lyste red vp bys heade: so that many man mar-uyl at hym/ and geue honoure vnto hys.

¶ Prosperite and aduersyte/ lyfe and deathe/pouerte and ryche are made of the Lozde/(Wysdome/ nurture and knowlege of the lawe are with God: loue and the wayes of good are with hym. ¶ Erroure and vberences exerce thy self therein/ and remain in thy wofe vnto the age. Continue not in the workes of synners/ but put thy trust in God / and bye in thine estate: for it is but an easy thyng ryche/ and that suddenly. The blessing of God

The. XLII. Chapter.

¶ As thou wilt: do good: know to whom thou doest it: and so shalte thou be greatly thanked for thy benefytes. Do good vnto the righteous: and thou shalte synde grete rewards: though not of hym: yet (no doubt) the Lorde him selfe shal rewarde the. He standeth more in a good case: that is alwaye occupied in euell: and greeth no alme: for the Hygell hateth the synners: and hath mercy vpon them that shew the workes of repentaunce. Bewe thou vnto such as feare God: and receaue not a synner: As for the vngodly and synners: he shal recompence vengeance vnto them: and fepe the to the Daye of wrath.
Bewe thou vnto the good: / and receaue not the synner: do well vnto hym that is lowly: but geue not to vngodly. Keepe not thy head beauen hym: that he be not myghty: then the selfe therein. For so shalte thou receaue trise: as much euill: in all the good that thou doest vnto hym: And why: the Hygell hateth synners: and shal rewarde vengeance to the vngodly.

In prosperite a frende shal not be knowne: /
In aduersite an enemye shal not be hid.
For when a man is in wealth: greeth his enemies: but in beautye and trouble a ma shal knowe his frende. Truste neuer thine enemye: for lyke as an yon rusteth / so doeth his tryckednes. And though he make much crouchinge and felyng: yet kepe well thy mynde: and beware of hym. See hym not

Be not despoyned of the good daye/and let not the poyson of the good daye ouerpasse the. Shalt thou not leaue thy traualles/and labours vnto other men? In the decaynginge of the heretage graue and take/and sanctifye thy soule. Woe fe thou rghteousnesse before thy death/for in the hell there is no meate to fynde.

¶ All flesh shall fade awaye like grasse/a lyfe flourishinge leaf in a grene tree. Some growe: some are cast downe: euen so is the generation of flesh and bloud: one cometh to an ende/another is borne.

All traytours rthynges shall fayle at the last/and the woefe thereof shall goe withall. Whery chosyn wyfe shall be iustified/and he that malyth wythall/shal haue honoure therein. ## The .XV. Chapter. ¶

¶ He that feareth God/wyl do good/and who so feareth the lawe/ shall prayne wysdome. To an honourable mother shall be mercie hym/and as a vyrgyne shall she receaite a hym. ¶ With the bread of lyfe and vnderstandynge shall she fede hym/and she geue him the meate of the wydsome wysdome to dynte. If she be collan in her/ he shall not be moude: and if he haue hym faste by her/ he shall not come to confusyon. She shall bringe him to

honoure amonge his neighbors/and in the myddest of the congregacion shall he opene his mouth. With the spere of wysdome a vnderstandynge shall he fyll hym/and clothe hym with the garment of glory. She shall heape treasure of myrthe/and wyse vpon hym/and geue him an euerslastynge name to heritage. Foolyshe men wyl not take holde vpon her/ but such as haue vnderstandynge will mete her/for she is fayne from pryde and deceate. Men that goe aboute with lyces/will not remember her: (But men of trouth shall be found in her/ euen vnto the beholdinge of God.) Wyse is not felmy in the mouth of the vngodly/for he is not sent of the Lorde. For of God cometh wysdome/and the payse shall please by the wysdome of God/and shall be plentiful in a faithfull mouth/and the Lorde shall geue her vnto hym.

Saye not thou: It is the Lordes faulte that I am gone by/ for thou shalt not do the thyng that God hateth. Saye not thou be hath caused me to goe wronge/for he hath no mende of the vngodly. God hateth all abhominacions of erreure/and they that feare God/wyl loue none such. ¶ God made man from the beginninge/a lyfe hym in the bande of his counsaill. He gaue hym his commaundmentes and preceptes: if thou wilt obserue the commaundmentes/and kepe acceptable faythfulnessse for euery thyng that thou shalt do: thou shalt see water and sye before the/ reache oute thine hande vnto which thou wilt. Before man is lyfe and death/ good and euell/ like what hym lyfeth/shal be geuen hym: for the wysdome of God is greate and inmyghe in power/and beholdeth all men continually. ¶ The eyes of the Lorde are vpon them that feare hym/and he knoweth all the wayes of man. He hath commaunded noman to be vngodly/never he hath geuen any man lawe to synne: for he desireth no multitude of vnfaythfull and vnproffytable children.

The .XVI. Chapter.

He made out of him an helper lyke vnto hym selfe / and geue them discrecion and iudgement / and carce / and a herte to vnderstande / and fylled them with instruction and vnderstandinge. He created for them also the knowlege of the spere / fylled their herte with vnderstandinge / and strewed them good and euell. He set his eyes vpon theyr hertes / declaringe vnto them his greate and noble workes: (that they shoulde praise his holy name together / reioyce of his wonders / be tellinge of his noble actes.) Besydes this / he gaue them instruction / and the lawe of life / for an heritage. He made an euerlastinge conuenant with them / and strewed them his righteousness and iudgements. ## The. XX. Chapter.

of synne/ but not in due season: Againe/some man holdeth his tongue/ and he is wyse and discrete. It is much better to geue warninge and to reprove/ then to beare euell wylle for that knowlegeth him self openly / shalbe puffed from hurt and destruction. Like as whan a chamberlayne sheweth vnto a lust desireth a mayden/ euen so is it with him that speaketh violence/ a vnrightheousnes in the lawe: O how good a thyngge is it/ a man that is re-proued/ to shewe openly his repentance: for so shal he scape wysefull synne.

Some man keepeth silence / and is founde wyse: but he that is not ashamed what he sayeth/ is hateful. Some man holdeth hysunge/ because he hath not the vnderstandinge of the language: and some man keepeth silence/waynge a conuenient myne. †A wyse man wyl holde his tongue/ yll he se dooturne/ but a wanton and an vn discrete body shal re-garde no myne. He that speaketh many wordes / shal hure his owne soule: and he that taketh auersion vpon him vnrightheously shalbe hated.

Some man hath of synne opiofertie in wised thynges: Againe/ some man getteth much and hath harme and losse. There is some gift that is no thyngge worth: Againe/ there is some gift/ whos reward is vubble. Some man ge-teth a sal for beynge to proude/ and some commeth to worshippe from lowe estate. Some man buyeth much for a litle price/ and mull paye for it scuenfoldes.

A wyse man with his wordes maketh him self to be laud / but the fauours of soules shalbe poured out. The gift of the vnwyse shall go to the no good / for his eyes are scuenfold. † He shall geue lye / and saye he gaue much: he openeth his mouth and erich out/as it were one that erich out wyne. To day he knderth to morrow he ascheth agayne/ and such a man is to be hated. The soule sayeth: I haue no frende / I haue no thanke for all my good deede: euen they that eate my bread/ speake no good of me. O how oft / and of how many shal be laughid to scorn: He taketh a more pride/ and fall by such wordes/ as then if he fell vpon the ground: euen so shal the faller of wised men come harshly. In the mouth of him that is vntaught / are many vncouenient and vnmete wordes. A wyse sentence shall not be slowd at the mouth of the soule / for he speaketh it not in due season.

Some man synneth not / because he hath not wherewithal / in his rest he shalbe syn-ged. Some man there is that destroyeth his owne soule with shame / and for an vnwyse bodys sake destroyeth he it / (and with acception of persons shal be vnde him self.) Some man promyseth hys frende a gyft for very shame/ and getteth an enemye of a man/yet shal it be euer in the mouth of the vnwyse.
A chese is better then a man that is accusned to synne/ but they both shal haue destruction to heritage. The condicions of heare are vn honest/ and theyr shame is euer with them.

A wyse man shall brynge him self to honour with his wordes / and he that hath bot vnderstandinge shalbe set by amonge great men. † He that sylleth his lande / shal increase his heape of scoone: he that wasteth righteousnes / shalbe exalted / and he that pleaseth greue men / shal escape much euell. † A rewarder and gyfte / blinde eyes of the wyl man theyr hym domme / that he can not tell men theyr sanctite. † Wyse dome that is hyd/ and treaware of hym / lest it turne the to manys / and thou shalt not be desyred with his synne. Depart from hym / and thou shalt fynde rest / and shalt not be traueyn back into his foolshenes.

Whare is heauer than leede: And wher shoulde a soule be called clo but leade: Sand / sile and a lombe of syon to easer to beare / when an vn-wyse / foolys / and vngodly man. Lyke as the bande of wood bounde together in the foundacion of the house can not be loued / euen so is it with

with the hart that is stablished in the thought of counsaill. He that thought of the wyse / shall neither feare: nor be offended at any tyme.

D Like as a fayre playsted wall in a wynter hause/and an hie buyldinge / maye not abyde the wynde and storm: euen so is a soules hart arrayed in his imaginacion: he searcheth at euery thinge / & can not endure. He that nyppeth a mans eyebryngeth forth teares: the that puc-keth the hart / bringeth forth the meangynge of a thought. Who so casteth a stone at the bysde/sweepeth them awaye: and be that blasphemeth his frende/breaketh his frendsshippe/though thou desirest a swerd at thy frend / yet despayr not/for thou mayest come agayne to thy frend. If he speake fouly / feare not/for ye maye be agreed together agayne: except it be so / yf thou blasphemest hym / 9th daync hym / open his secretes/ and wound him traytourously: for all such thinges shall wyse awaye a frende.

E Be saythful vnto thy neyghbour in hys po-uerie / that thou mayest receiue with him also in his prosperite. Abye standfast vnto him in the tyme of his trouble/ that thou mayest be heere with him in his heretage. Like as the vapour and smok goeth out at the oven before the fyre/ euen so euil wordes/rebukes / a thier teyngeas go before bloudsheddyng. Be not abandoned to defende thy frende: so for me / I will not byde my face from hym / though he shoulde do me harme. Who soeuer heareth it shall beware of him. ¶ Who shall see a watch before my mouth / and a sure scale vpon my lyppes/that I fall not with them/ and that my tunge destroye me not?

The. XXIII. Chapter.

F Lord / farther a gouernour of my lyfe/leau me not in their imaginacion a coun-saill. Wh let me not fall in such reposit. Who will kepe my thought in the scourge / a yf boe tyme of mysdome in myne heret/ that he spare not myne ignorauces/ that I fall not with thes/lest myne ignorauces increace/ that myne offences be not many in numbrie / and that my finnes ceade not: lest I fall before myne enemies/ and so my aduersary receiue. ¶ Lord/thou seker and God of my lyfe/ leau me not in their imaginacion. ¶ O let me not haue a proude lere/ but turne awaye all voluptuousnes from me. Take fro me the lustes of my body/let not the desires of entences take holde vpon me/ and geue me not ouer into an vniuersal messall and oblutinate mynde.

G Meare me so ye chyldeyn / I wil geue you a doctrin/ how ye shal orde youre mouth: who so kepeth it / shall not perishe: who so wyshippes/not be hurt thereto: wised wyse. As for the synner/ he shalbe taken in his owne nauyghte:
that is proude and cursed / shall fall therein.
¶ Let not thy mouth be accustomed to swearinge / for in it there are many falles. Let not the naminge of God be continually in thy mouth: for like as a seruaunt which is of spunyshed/ can not be without some sore / euen so whatsoeuer he be that sweareth and nameth God / shall not be cleane poured from synne.
A man that vseth much swearinge/ shalbe sted with wisednes / a the plague shall neuer goe from his house. If he begyle his brother/his faulte shalbe vpon him: if he knowlege not his synne/ he maketh a dubble offence: a if he swear in wayne / he shall not be founde righteous/ for his house shalbe full of plague.

H The wordes of y sweaer bringeth deathe. ¶ God graunte that it be not founde in y house of Jacob. But they that sweare Godd / shal all such and lye not welmyng in synne. ¶ Vt not thy mouth to vnbonest and falslye talkinge/for in it is the woide of synne. Remember thy father a thy moether/ when thou art set amonge greate men: lest / God forget the in their gyfte and lest / thou doynge in their custome / suffer rebuke/ a wyse not to haue bene boync/ and so curse the Baye of thy nauite. ¶ The man that is accustomed with the wordes of blasphemy/will neuer be reformed all the dayes of his lyfe. To synne wyse is to much/ but the ryde bringeth warth and destruction. In a wode stomack can not be quenched/ euen like a burn-ninge fyre / yll it haue swallowed vpon some thinge/ euen so an vnchaste man hath no rest in his flesh/ yll he haue finded a fyre.

All dead is swete to an whoremonger / he wil not leaue of/ till he haue his purpose. ¶ In that breadeth rebuke / and regardeth not his soule/ but sayeth: ¶ Custome/ who seyth me? ¶ I compassid aboute with vartuouses/ the walkes compe me/ a body seyth me: whome nede I to feare. The best will not remembre my syn-nes. He vnderstandeth not that his eyes se all things/for all such feare of me by which awaye the feare of God from him: for he feareth onely the eyes of men / and considereth not that the eyes of the Lord are clearer then the Sunne/beholdinge all thy wayes of me / and thy grounde of the hepe / and loosinge euery man hereto in secret places. The Lord God purue all thynges / or euer they were made / as after they be brought to passe / also be looked upon them all. ¶ The same man shall be openly punished in the streete of the cite / and shall be chased abroade lyke a yonge horse foale: and when he shrinketh least upon it / he shall be taken. Thus shall he be put to shame of euery man / because he wolde not vnderstande the feare of the Lord.

¶ And thus shall it go also with euery wyfe that leaueh her housbande / and getteth enheritance by a straunge marriage. ¶ First / the hath ben vnfaithfull vnto the lawe of the High Priest: Secondly / she hath forsake her owne housbande. Thirdly / she hath played the whoie in aduoury / and gotten her chyldren by another man. She shall be brought out of the congregation / and her chyldren shall be loosed vpon her. Her chyldren shall not take rote: and as for frute / her brynches shall bringe forth none.
¶ Whome all reports shall she leaue behinde her / and her dishonoure shall not be put out. And they that remaine / shall knowe that there is nothinge better then the feare of God: a that there is nothinge sweeter / then to take hede vnto the commandementes of the Lord. ¶ A greate messhippe is it to followe the Lord: / for longe lyfe shall be receaued of him.

The XXXIII. Chapter.

¶ Whosome shall praysie her self / and be honoured in God / and respect in the myd-dest of his people: In the congregacions of the High Priest shall she open her mouth / a triumphe in the beholdinge of his power: In the myd-dest of her people shall she be exalted / a wondered at in the holy synesse: In the multitude of the chosen she shall be recommended / and amonge such as be blessed she shall be praised / and shall saye: I am come out of the mouth of the High Priest first borne before al creatur. ¶ I reuiled the hyght that sayeth not to ays in the heauens covered all the earth as a cloude: ¶ My dwellinge is aboue in the hyght / and my scate is in the pyller of the cloude. ¶ My self alone haue gone rounde aboute the compass of heauen / and peared the grounde of the hepe: I haue walked in the floudes of the sea / and haue stande in all landes: my Dominion is in euery people and in euery nation / a with my power haue I troben downe the herres of all / both hyght and lowe.

¶ In all these thynges also I sought rest / and a dwellinge in some entraince. So the creator of all thynges gaue me a commaunde-ment: and he that made me / appointed me a tabernacle / and sayde vnto me: Let thy dwel-linge be in Jacob / and thy inheritance in Israel / and rote thy self amonge my Chosen. ¶ So was created from the beginninge and before the world: and shall not leaue of vnto the world to come. ¶ In the holy habitacione haue I I serued before hym / and so was I established in Syon. ¶ In the holy cite resied in lyke manner / and in Jerusalem was my power. I rote rote in an honourable people / euen in the por-cion of the Lord: and in his heritage / and kepe me in the fulnes of the sayntes. I am set vp an hye lyke a Cedar vpon Libanus / and as a Cyprus tree vpon the mount Hermon: I am created lyke a palm tree in Cedus / and as a rose plante in Iericho: As a fyre olue tree in the felde / and am called lyke as a plantayne tree by the water syde. I haue gotten a smell in the streete as a Cinamon a Palme: that hath so good a sauoure: yea / a sweete odoure haue I gotten / as it were Myrrour of the best.

¶ I haue made my dwellinge so smell as it were of rosyn / Galbanū / of Cloves and Incence / and as Libanus when it is not beuen downe / a myne odoure is as the pure Balme.
As the Cherubyns haue I stretched out my bandes / and my brynches are the brynches of honour and louinge sauoure. ¶ As the vyne haue I broughte forth frute of a sweete sauoure / and my floures are as the frute of bruyse / and ryche. I am the mother of bruyse / of loue / of feare / of knowlege and of holy hope.
¶ In me is all grace of life and reuer: In me is all hope of life a vertue. Come vnto me / all that be desyrous of me / and fill your selves with my frute: for my frute is sweeter then hony / and so is my inheritance more then the hony combe: the remembrance of me endureth

endureth for evermore. They that care me/shal have the more hunger: and they that thinke me/shall thurst the more. Who so berkeneth unto me/shall not come to edification: and they that worke in me/shall not offend. They that make me to be knowne/shall have everlasting life. ¶

All these thinges are the booke of lyfe/the edification of the Hyghests/a the knowlege of a truth. ¶ These commaunded the lawe in the preceptes of righteousnes/for an heritage vnto the house of Jacob / a admitted the promysse vnto Israel. ¶ Out of Dauid his seruau/ he ordayned to raise vp a moost myghy kinge: springe in the feare of honour for euermore. ¶ This ysleth vsy dome lyfe as a floude of Phison/ and as the floude of Egrus/ when the new frutes are a growinge.

This bingeth a pleurouis understandinge lyfe Euphrates: and ysleth it vp/ as Jordan in the rye of baruch. This maketh nurture to breake forth as the light / and as the water Gibon in the baruch. The syrt hath not knowen her perfectly / no more shall the fall see out the ground of her. For her thought is fuller than the see / and her counsayll is profounder than the great depe.

I vsy dome haue cast out floudes. I am as a greate waterdriete out of the ryuer. I am as the ryer Euphrat: and as a water conduyte am I come out of the garden of pleasure. I saide: I wyll water the garden of my yonge plates/ and fill the frute of my bryth. So my water boke became: cspreadinge greate / and my ryer appoched vnto the see. For I make doctrine to be vnto all me as lyght as I saie mourninge/ and I shall make it to be euer the cleare. (I wyll pleasee thow all the lower partes of the earth. I wyll loke vpon all such as be a slepe/ and lighten all them that put their trust in the Loude.) I shall yet poure out doctrine like as prophery / and leaue it vnto such as see after vsy dome/ and their generations shall I neuer faste vnto the holy euerlastinge worde. ¶ Beholde/ howe that I haue not laboured for my self alone / but for all them that see after the truth.

The XXX. Chapter.

These thinges here are / that my speere fauouret / which be also allowed before

God and men. ¶ The wyte of baruch / the Gen. xij. b. soue of neyghboure/ and man and wyfe that agree well together. ¶ Ro. xij. a. ¶ Ecl. xl. d.

The thinges here be which my soule hateth / and I utterly abhorre: the lyfe of the: A poore man that is proude. A rych man that is a lyar: ¶ And an olde body that eateth and is vndrayste. ¶ Ge. xviij. b.

If thou hast gathered nothyng in thy youth/ what wilt thou fynde when in thine age? How pleasaunt a thinge is it / when grage headed men are discrete/ a whā the elders can geue good counsaill: ¶ How comly a thinge is vsy dome vnto aged men: yet/ vnderstandinge and counsaill is a gloudis thinge. The crowne of olde me is to haue much experiences/ and the feare of God is their wysshipe.

There be it thinges/ which I haue iudged B in my heart to be happy / and the tenth wyll I tell forth vnto men with my tounge. A mā that ysyle the lytch/ hath ioye of bye children/ and feyth the fall of his enemyes. Well is hym/ that dwelleth in an houserise of vnderstandinge / and that hath not fallen with his tounge/ and that hath not bene fayne to ferue such as are and vsy a vantage for hym. Well to hym / that synketh a saythfull seide/ and well to hym / which telleth of vsy dome to an eare that heareth hym. ¶ How greate is her that synketh vsy dome a knowlege: Yet is he not aboue hym / I feareth the Loude. The feare of God hath feyt it self aboue all thinges. Blessed is the man / vnto whome it is graunted to haue a feare of God. Vnto whome shall he be lykned that feyth it fall: The feare of God is the begynninge of his loue/ a the begynninge of faid is to claue fast vnto it. The heauynes of the heert is all the punishment/ and the wickednes of a woman goeth aboue all. All punishment and plague is nothyng in coparsion of the plague of the heert/ euen for all wickednes is nothyng to the wickednes of a woman.

Wharsoeuer happeneth vnto a mā / is no thinge in comparison of it / that his euil wylers do vnto hym/ and all vengeance is nothyng to the vengeance of a enemye. There is not a more wicked heade then the heade of the serpent / and there is no warth aboue the warth of a woman. ¶ I wyll rather dwell with a Lyon and diggon / then to kepe house with a wicked wyfe. The wickednesse of a woman chaungeth her face / she shall moule her countenance as it were a Beer / and as a sack shall she steeve it amonge the neyghbours. Her housbande is broughte to shame amonge his neyghbours / and when he heareth / it maketh him to syghe. All wickednes is but litle to the wickednes of a woman / the poison of the vngodly shall fall vpon her.

If a woman get the mastery / then is she contrary to her housbande. 2. A wicked wyfe maketh a sovy hert / an heauy countenance and a dead wounde (weake hande and rable fnesse / is a woman that enuioiseth not her housbande.) 3. Of the woman came the begynnynge of synne / a thorn her we all are dead. Beuie thy water no passage / no / not alyke / neyther geue a wicked woman her wele. The XXXVI. Chapter.

21 Happy is the man that hath a vertuous wyfe / for the number of his yeares shalbe vnbible. An honest woman maketh her housbande a joyfull man / and she shall fill the yeares of his life in peace. 2. A vertuous woman is a noble gift / which shalbe geue for a good portion vnto such as feare God. Whether a man be rich or poore / he maye haue cure a merry hert / and dearefull countenance. There be thre thynges that my hert seareth / and my face is affected of the fourth. Treason in a citie / a seditious people / and wysonne tongue / all these are heauier then the death. But when one is gealous ouer his wyfe / it bringeth payne and sorrow vnto the herte: and a woman that telleth out all thynges is a scourge of the ryge. Whā one hath an euil wyfe / it is euill as when an vnlike pore of eken must shewe together: The shee getteth her / getteth a scorpion. A drunken woman is a greake plague / for she can not couer her ony shame.

Judic. xxi.

B The whoredom of a woman maye be knowe in 3 pryde of her eyes and cyclyddes. 4. If thy daughter be not shamefast / holde her straitly / lest she abuse her selfe thow ouer much liberte. Beware of all the dishonors of her eyes / and maruail not if she do againste the. Lefe as one that goeth by the waye and is thyrstye / so shal she open her mouth / and vntike of euery neyge water that she maye get.

By every hedgē shall she set her bounde / and open her quyner against euery arrowe. 2. Lofing wyfe reuoyceh her housbande: and so doth her bones with her wyfdom. 2. A woman of few woordes is a gift of God / and to a well nurtoured mynde maye nothing be eopeded.

An honest and manerly woman / is a gyfte aboute other gyftes / for there is no waight to be compared / vnto a mynde that can rule it selfe. Like as the Sunne when it ariseth / is an ornament in the hie beaue of the Lord: / so is a vertuous wyfe the beaue of al her house. Like as the cleare light vpon the holy candle / like so is the beuerye of the face vpon an honest body. Like as the golden pillers are vpon the feete of iherosolyme / so are the fayre legges vpon a woman that hath a constanc mynde. (Perpetual are the foundations that be layed vpon a whole stoney rocke / so are the commaundmentes of God vpon an holy woman.)

There be two thynges that greue my hert / and in the thirde is a displeasure come vpon me. Whan an excrete man of weare suffreth scarcenes and pouerte. Whan men of vnderstandinge and wyfdom are not se by: And whan one departeth from righteousnesse vnto synne: Who so doth subscribe the Lord: he hath prepared him vnto the sweade. There be two maner of thynges / which me thynke to be harde and peryllous: 2. marchant can not lightly kepe him fro wronge / neyther a tauerne hym selfe from synne.

The XXXVII. Chapter.

Because of pouerte haue many one offend / dedde be that seketh to be ryche / turneth his eyes asyde. Like as a nayle in the wall thefeth fast betwixte two stones / euen so doth synne thefeth betwixte the hie and the seller. If he holde him not vntilgently in the feare of the Lord: his house shall soone be ouerthrowen. Like as whā one sitheth / the sybthynge remynerth in the syuoc remynerth thare some vnto diene

Cleane thinge in the thought of man. The ouen proueth the porters we sell / I so worth temptation of trouble trye ryghteous men. The tree of the felde is knowne by his fruite / so is the thought of man here knowne by his woodes. Prayse no man excepte thou haue harde him / for a man is knowne by his woodes. If thou followest righteousnesse / thou shalt get her / as put her upon the as a saye garnet. (And thou shalt dwell with her / as the deal defende the euer / and in the daye of knowledge thou shalt fynde stedfastnesse.) The bydes referte vnto theur / lyke so doeth the trouth turne vnto them that be occupied withall. The Lyon mayeth for the praye / so do the synners lurke vpon the workers of wickednesse. The ralynges of hym that feareth God / is nothinge but wysdom: as for a foule he chaungeth as the Moone. If thou be among the vnbelifers / kepe thy woide to a conuenient tyme / but amonge such as be wyse / C

Espake on hardy. The ralynges of soules is abominacion / a their spoure is voluptuousnesse and misnouriture. Much swearinge maketh the beer to stande vp / and to styue with such / stoppeth the eeres.

The selfe of the proude is bloudshedding / and their blasphemynge is heavy to heare. D Who so vscovereth secretes / leseth his credence / and fyndeth no frende after his wyll. Loue thy frende / and hynde thy selfe in faultfulnessse with hym: but if thou be wayest his secretes / thou shalt not get hym agayne. For lyke as the man is that bestroeth his enemy / so is he also that dealeth falsly in the frendship of his neighbour.

E Lyke as one that leeteth a byde go out of his hande / can not take her agayne: Euen so thou / if thou geue ouer thy frende / thou canst not get hym agayne. Yee / thou canst not come by hym / for he is to farr of. He is vnto the as a Koo / escaped oute of the snare / for his foule is wounded. As for woodes / they may be bounde vp agayne / and an euell woide may be reconyld: but who so be wayeth the secretes of a frende / there is no more hope to be had vnto him.

I If that wynterh with the cyes / ymagineth some euill / and no man shall take hym from it. Wha thou ar present / be thou highly commende and prayse thy woide: but at the last he shall turne his tayle / and sclander thy sayinge. Many bynges haue I heard / but nothinge so euill as the Lord: which selfe also abhorreth such one.

Who so casteth a stone on hye / it shall fall vpon his owne heade: and he that smyterh with gyle / woundeth hym selfe. Who so diggeth a snare / shall be taken in it hym selfe. Who so greuteth a wicked noyforme counsayll / it shall come vpon hym selfe / and he shall not knowe from whence. The proude blasphemere and are fonesfull / but vengeance lurketh for them as a Lyon. They that reioyce at the fall of the ryghteous / shalbe taken in the snare / anguish of herte shall consume them before they dye. Anger and righteousnesse are two abhominable thinges / and the vngodly hath them both vpon hym.

The XXVIII. Chapter.

He that feareth vengeance / shall fynde vengeance of the Lord: which shall surely kepe him his synnes. * For geue thy neyghboure the hurt that he hath done thee / and so shall thy synnes be forgiven the also / when thou prayest. A man that beareth hatred against another / howe darre he desireth forgiveness of God: He that sweareth no mercy to a man whiche is lyke hym selfe / howe darre he praye: forgiveness of his synnes: If he that is but selfe / beareth hatred and feareth it / who wyll intreat for his synnes:

Remember the ende / and let cunctite passe / which feareth deathe and destitucion / and abide about in the commaundementes. Remember the commaundement / so shalt thou be ryghteous ouer thy neyghboure. Thinke vpon the conuincement of the Synners / and forgeue thy neyghboure ignorance: Beware of stryfe: and thou shalt make the synnes sweeter. For an angry man fyndeth variance / and the vngodly vsquiterh frendes / and purteth vscode amonge them that beare peace: The more woode there is / the more vchement is the fyre: and the mightyer that men be / the greater is the war: and the longer the synne endureth / the more it burneth.

Blowe the sparke: it shall burne: If thou spit upon it: it shall goe forthe / and both these goe out of thy mouth. The seclauderer and double tynge is curs'd / for many one that be frends stretch he at variance. The thirde tynge hath disquieted many one / and dyuen them from one lande to another. Stronge eyes hath it blowne doune / and ouerthrowe the house of great men. The thirde tynge hath call out many an honest woman / and robbed them of their laboure. Who so barreth ones mouth / shall neuer synde reske / and neuer dwell safely. The stroke of the rod maketh vedderas / but the stroke of the tynge smyteth the bones in sunder. There be many that haue persued with the swerde / but many more with the tynge.

Will it hym that is kepte from an euell tynge / and cometh not in the anger therof / whiche barreth not the yock of synne / and is not bounde in the bandes of it. For the yocke therof is of yron / and the bande of it of stele. The deatht therof is a very euell deatht: Well were better for one then synne a tynge. But the sye of it may not oppresse them that feare God / and the flame therof may not burne them. Suche as so: sake the Lorde / shall sal be retre: and it shall burne them / and no man shall be able to quenche it. It shall fall upon them as a Lyon / and deuour them as a Leopard. Thou bestest thy goddes with roines why best thou not rather make voyce and barre for thy mouth: Thou weyest thy golde and siluer: why best thou not weye thy woe also vpon the balancet: Beware that thou speke not in thy tynge / and so fall before thyne enemies that laye waye for the.

There haue bene many that when a thinge was lent the / rekind it to be founde: and made them traueyle and laboure / that had helped them.

Whyte they receiue any thinge / they hyffe the handes of suche as geue them / and for theys neyghbours good they humble theys voyce. But when they shoulde paye agayne / they kepe it hecke / and geue euill woordes / and make many excuses / by reason of tyme: and though he be able / yet feareth he scarce the halfe agayne / and rekindeth the othe to be founde. And yf he withholde not his money / yet hath be an enemye of hym / and that onbe serued.

He payeth him with cursinge and rebuke / and geueth him euill woordes for his good dede. There be many one whiche are not glad for to lende / not because of euill / but they feare to lese the thinge if they lende. Yet haue thou patience with the symple / and withhold not mercy from him. Helpe the poore for the commaundementes sake / let him not goe empty from the because of his necessite. Lese thy money for thy brother and neyghbours sake / and burie it not under a stone / where it rusteth a coruupter. Take thy treasure after the commaundement of the Higheste / and so shalt it lende bringe the more profyt then golde. Laye vp iustice thy almes in the hand of the poore: and it shall kepe the from al euill. A mans almes is as a lamp purf with him / and that kepe a mans sauour as the apple of an eye: and afterwarde shall it be a crye / and paye euery man his rewarde vpon his heade. It shall fight for the against thine enemies: better then the styde of a gaunic / or speare of the myghtye.

A good honest man is suretye for his neyghboure: but a wicked person leteyth him come to shame. Forget not the frendshippe of thy suretye / for he hath geuen his soule for the. The vngodly despyseth the good dede of his suretye / and the vnthankful and ignorant leteyth his suretye in daunger. Some man promyseth for his neyghboure: and when he hath lost his honestye / he shall forsake him. Suretyshippe hath destroyed many a ryght man / and reuourd them as the water in the see. Myghtye people hath it dyuen awaye / and caused them to wandre in straunge countre. An vngodly man / transgressinge the commaundement of the Lorde / shall fall into an euell suretyshippe: and though he be force hym selfe to get out / yet shall he fall into daunger.

gemen. Helpe thy neighbour out after thy power/and beware/that thou thy selfe sal not in such dete? The chiefe thinge that keepeth in the lyfelye water and bread / clothyng a lod-ginge to couer the shame.

Better is it to haue a poore hyunge in a mans owne house/then Velicite saye among the straunge. * Be it litle or muche that thou hast/holde the cōrent worthall/and thou shalt not be blamed as a wagabounde:) for a myscrable lyfe is it to goe from house to house: and where a man is fremde / he varre not open his mouth. Though one be logged / and haue meate and drinke/ yet shall he be taken as an vnwarlike / and heare many byrre rough wordes/ namely thus: Wo thy waye thou straunger/ and prepare a table/ for thy self/ and seke me also of that thou hast. Away thou straunger/ for that he regardeth his honour more:) my brother cometh into my house/ and so he telleth him the necessitye of his house. These thinges are heauy to a man that hath vnderstandinge: namely / the forbiddinge of the house/ and that the lender callet him in the teeth.

The. XXX. Chapter.

Who so touch his chyld / holdeth hym vnder correccion/that he may haue ioye of hym after warde (and that he grieve not after his neighbours doers.) * Serthar tea-deth his sone/that haue ioye in him/ and not be ashamed of hym amonge his aquaintaice.
Who so enfeimeth and reacheth his sonne/groweth the enemye / and before his frendes he maye haue ioye of hym. Though the farther yee/ yet is he as though he were not dead: for he hath left one behynde him that is lyfe in hym. In his lyfe be sawe hym/and had ioye in him / and was not fowre in his death/(neither was he ashamed before his frendes.) For he left behynde hym an enfeiger agaynste his enemyes/and a good booe vnto the frendes.
For the lyfe of childe shal bynde the wou-des together and his herte is greued at euery eye. A vntamed hofe wyl be harde/ and a vntan childe wyl be wyful. If thou bring vp thy sonne delicately / he shall make the a-ffreyde/and if thou playe with hym / he shall byngre be to beauntyffe. Laugh not with him/lest thou tresp with him/also / and lesse thy teeth be set on edge at the last.

Wear him not libere in his youth / and gryue not his soly. Dure vnto his necke whyle he is yonge / byt hym vpon the syde whyle he is yett a chyld/lest he wepe/like burne/a greue nomore force of f / and so shalte thou haue beauntyffe of soule. Each thy shal and be diligent therein/lest it be to thy shame.
Better is the poore byngre whole and strage/then a man to be ryche / and not to haue his healyth. Health and welfare is aboute all gold/and an whole bodye aboute all treasure.
There is no ryche aboute a sounde bodye/and no ioye aboute the ioye of the herte. Death is better then a wretched lyfe / or continuall syttenesse. The good thynges that are put vp in a close mouth/are lyfe as whan meate is laide vpon the graue.

What god doth the offeringe vnto an Idoll. For he can neither care/tyst no sinele. Euen so is it also with the ryche / whome God maketh syde: he seith it with his yre/and groweth thereafter / and is euen as a gelded man / that lyeth with a virgine and sy-gheth. * Wee not euer thy mysde into dea-mytynesse/and weere not thy selfe in thine owne counsayl. * The ioye and cheerfulness of the herte is the lyfe of man/ and a mans glabrie is the prolonginge of his dayes. Loue thine owne soule/ and comfote thine herte: so for sorrowe and becauntyffe / vnto it farre from the / For beauntyffe hath / saye many a man/and byngreth no profyt. Zele and anger slow-ten the dayes of the lyfe: carefulnesse and so-rom byngre age before the tyme. Vnto a merry herte/ euery thinge hath a good rayst that he catcheth.

The. XXXI. Chapter.

Whaunyle and carefulnesse/ for ryche taketh awaye the slepe / and maketh the selfe consume. Whan one leeth and re-sisth care/ he waketh euer vp / like as a greate syttenesse breaketh the slepe. The ryche hath greate labour in gatheringe his ryches together/and then with the pleasure of his ryches he taketh his rest/and is refreshed. But who so laboureth and prospereth not / he is poore: and though he leaue off / yet is he better. He that toucheth ryche/ shall not be wyslysed: and who so solowely conuoyen/shall

make not thou many wordes therein. Beside the thunder goeth lightninge / and beside nature and thamefastnesse goeth loue and fauour. Stande vpon thy nines / and be not the last / but get the home soone / and there take thy possession / and do what thou wilt : so that thou do no euill / and defye no man. But afore al thinges geue thanks vnto him that hath made thee / and replenished the world with his goodes.

¶ Who so feareth the Lord / will receaue his blessinge / and they that get them to hym by nines / shall fynde grace. He that seeketh the lame / shall be fylled withall : As for hym that is but fayned / he will be offended therat. They that feare the Lord / shall fynde the iugement / their righteousnesse shall be founde as a lighte. An engodly man will not be returned / but can helpe him selfe with the example of other in his purpose. A man of vnderstandinge & spyeth no good counsaill / but a wylde and proude body hath no feare. My sonne / do nothinge without aduise / so shalt thou not repent the after the dede. Go not in the waye where thou mayest fall : where thou mayest stumbe againste the stone. Geue nether selfe into a labourous / slyppery waye / and beware of thine owne children. In all thy woorkes put thy trust in God from thy whole heart / for that is the keepinge of the commaundementes. Who so beleueth Godes word : taketh hede to the commaundementes : and he that purmeth his trust in the Lord / shall wante nothinge.

The XXXIIII. Chapter.

¶ Here shall no euill happen vnto hym that feareth God : but when he is in temptation / the Lord shall helpe him. A wyse man hath not the lame / but an hypocrite is as a styp in a raginge water. A man of vnderstandinge geueth credence vnto the lawe of God / as the lame is faithfull vnto him. Be sure of the matter / when talke thereof : Be synnelesse / instructe the masse / thou geue unto the deede of the foolish is like a cartwheele / a hee thoughte runne aboute like the yel tree. Like as a wilde horse that neyeth vnder everye that he seeth : upon him / so is it vnto a scornfull frende. Why doeth one haue excel another / saunge al the daies of the yeare come of the Sunne : The wisdom of the Lord hath parted them asunder / as so hath he ordeined the tyme and solemne feastes. Some of the hath he chosen a halowed before other haue. And al men are made of the grounde / and out of the earth of Adam.

In the multitude of science hath the Lord devided them / and made their wayes of diuerse fashions. Some of them hath he blessed / made much of them / halowed them / and clamed them to him self. But some of them hath he cursed / brought them lowe / and put the out of their estate. Like as the claye is in the Rom. of c porters hande / and all the ordinge thereof at his pleasure : so are men also in the hande of him that made them / so that he may geue the as it lyeth hym best. ¶ Against euill is good / as againste wrath is lyfe : so is the goodlye againste such as feare God. Behold / and thus are al the woorkes of the Highis / and there are euer two againste two / and one set againste some reare another. I am awaked vpon last of all / as one that gaileteth after in haruill. In the giftes gainst one of God and in his blessinge I am inuereced / and haue fylled my wynepess / lyfe a grape gether. Behold / he we I haue not laboured onely for my selfe / but for all such as loue nature and wysdome.

¶ Beare me O ye greate men of the people / and heken truly youre cares & trauels of the congregation. Geue nether forme and wiseth / neither and frende power ouer the while thou liuest / and geue not awaye thy subtilitee and good to another / lest thou repent the / as thou be sayne to begge thereofe the selfe. No linge as thou liuest and faste heareth / let no man chaunge the : for better is it that thy children do praye the / then that thou shouldst be sayne to lose in their handes. In all thy woorkes be excellent / that thine honour be neuer stained. At the nme when thou shalt ende thy daye / an synis thy life / still thou shalt be inuereced. The fodder / the whey / and the burden be lought vnto the diste / heate / rececion / and weete vnto the seruante.

¶ If thou set thy seruante to labour / thou shalt fynde rest. But if thou let him go / yde he shall seke lybertie. The ycke and the wheypp bowe wounde the necke / but same thou thy euill seruante truly bandes and

Some reare another.
as one that gaileteth after in haruill.
In the giftes gainst one of God and in his blessinge I am inuereced / and haue fylled my wynepess / lyfe a grape gether.

and correction. Sende him to labour / that he goe not ydle: for idleness bringeth much euil. See him to worke / so that he bringeth vnto him / and becōmmer him wel. If he be not obedient / sende his fetter: but do not to much vnto him in any wise / and without discreed do nothing. If thou haue a (faithfull) seruante / see him be vnto the as thine owne soule / for in bloude hast thou gotten hym. If thou haue a seruante / holde him as thy selfe / for thou hast neede of hym as thy selfe. If thou trustest him euell / and keepest him harde / and makest him to be proud: and to reane awaie from the / thou canst not tell what waye thou shalt see hym.

Ecc. XXXIII. Chapter.

Many people begyle them selves with vayne and deceaful hope / a soules trust in vicames. Who so regardeth vicames / to life vnto him / will take holde of a shadowe / a folowe after the winde: Euen so is it with the apparenyng of vicames. Before the face is the lykenesse of a face / Who can be clenfed of the vncleane? Of what much can be spoken of a lyar? Of what sayyng / witchcraft / soecry and vicamynge is that vayne: lyke as when a woman trausleth with chylde / and hath many fantasies in her herte. Where as such visyons come not of God / set not thyne herte vpon the: for vicames haue deceaied many a man: and they sayled tharput theyr truste thercin.

The lawe shall be fulfilled without lyes / a wysdome is sufficient to a saythfull mouthe. A wise man that is well instructe / vnderstandeth much: and he that hath good experyence / can make of wysdome. He that hath no experyence / knoweth little: and he that erreth / causeth much wretchednes. When I was yet in error / I learned much also: yee / I was learned / that I coulde not expresse it all / and came oft in perill of death thereby: in I was deliuered from it. Now I see that they which seere God / haue the right spere: for their hope standeth in him / that can helpe them. Who so feareth the Lord / standeth in awe of no man / and is not afrayed / for the Lord is his hope and comfort.

Blessed is the soule of him that feareth the Lord: In whome purtyeth be his trust: who is his strength: for the eyes of the Lord haue respect vnto them that loue hym. He is their mighty protection / a strong ground: A defence for the heate / a refuge for the hote noone daye / a succoure for stumblinge / and an helpe for fallinge. He setteth vp the soule / and lighteneth the eyes: He giveth health life and blessing. He that giveth an offeringe of vngiftuous good / his offeringe is refused: and the scornfull dealinge of the vngiftuous please not God. God hath no delite in the offeringe of the vngodly / neither maye synne be reconcyled in the multitude of oblations. Who so bringeth an offeringe oute of the goodes of the poore / doeth euen as one that kylleth the sonne before the fathers eyes.

The bread of the needfull is the life of the poore: he that defraudeth him thereof / is a man of blood. Who so robberth his neyghbour of his luying / doeth as great a synne / as though he slew him to death. He that defraudeth the labourer of his hire / is a blood shedder. Who killeth one / killeth / and another dieketh vnto: what profit haue they then but labour? When one payeth / a another curseth / whose voyce wyl the Lord heare? He that wyl killeth hym selfe: because of a dead body / and then toucheth the dead again / what doeth his rushinge? So is it with a man that fasteth: for his synne / and doeth them agayne: for who wyl heare his prayer? Of what doeth his fastyng helpe hym?

Ecc. XXXV. Chapter.

Who so feareth the lawe / bringeth offeringe of his ynght. He that holdeth false the commandment / offereth the righte healthy offeringe. He that is thankfull / and recompeneth / offereth synne flour. Who so is merciful / and giveth almes / that is the righte thankfull offeringe / God hath pleasure whā one departeth from synne: and so his true vngiftuousnes redoubteth vs with hym. Thou shalt not appere empty before the Lord: for a such is done because of the commandment. The offeringe of the righteous is better than the sweete smell is it before the Highest. The offeringe of the righteous is acceptable vnto God / and shall neuer be forgotten. Wee hum his honoure with a heart full ful eyes/a hope not backe the fillinges of thy balnes. In al thy graces shew a merry con-stantnes/a balme thy rythes vnto God with gladnes. Beauen vnto God accordinge as he hath enriched and prospered h: † a loke what thine hande is able to do: that geue with a deareful rhyne for the Lord recompenseth/and geueth the seven tymes as much againe.

B Beauen vnto goddeous graces/for such wil not be reuenge. Beware of wrengeous offerynges/for the Lord is a righteous iudge/and he regardeth no mans person: He accepteth not the person of the poore / * but he heareth the prayer of the oppressed. He heepp-eth not the besyche of the fatherlesse / nor the wyddow when she poureth out her prayer vnto him. Doe h: not God h: † reare h: rine soune the chere of the wyddow: Or heere: th: be not the complaine ouer sude as make her to wepe: Who so serueth God after his pleasure / shall be accepted/and his prayer reas-deth vnto the cloudes. The prayer of him that humblyeth hym selfe geueth thowme the cloudes/tyll he come nye. She will not be comforted/nor go her waye/tyll the hyghest God haue respecte vnto her / geue true sentence/and performe the iudgement. And h:
 Lord be will not be slack in commynge / no tary longe: tyl he haue synners in soder the barres of the vnneryfull/and auenged him selfe of the Heythen: tyll he haue taken away the multitude of the cruell/and broken the ceper of the vnrighitous: tyl he geue eery man after his worth/and rewarde them as they haue deserued/tyll he haue helyered his people/mayntened theyr cause / and reoy-ced them in his mercy. O howe saie a thing is mercy/in the name of anguish and trouble:
 It is lyke a cloude of rayne/that cometh
 in the tyme of a drought.

L That humblyeth hym selfe geueth thowme the cloudes/tyll he come nye. She will not be comforted/nor go her waye/tyll the hyghest God haue respecte vnto her / geue true sentence/and performe the iudgement. And h: Lord be will not be slack in commynge / no
 tary longe: tyl he haue synners in soder the
 barres of the vnneryfull/and auenged him
 selfe of the Heythen: tyll he haue taken away

 ced them in his mercy. O howe saie a thing is mercy/in the name of anguish and trouble:
 It is lyke a cloude of rayne/that cometh
 in the tyme of a drought.

The XXXVLE chapter.

His mercy vpon vs O Lord/whon God of all thynges haue respecte vnto vs: because vs the light of thy mercies/a sene thy feare amonge the Scithen/a straungers/which selfe not after the: that they may knowe how h: there is no God but thou: that maye thow thy wonderous woefes. Lift up thine hande ouer the outlandis Scithen/that they maye learne to knowe thy might and power.

Like as thou art halowed in vs before thine/so thynge to passe h: thou mayest be magnified also in the before vs: h: they maye knowe h: h: h: as we knowe. For there is none other God/but only thou O Lord. Renew the wemens/a chaunge h: wonderous woefes. Swere thine hande and thy right arme gloriously. Rayse thy indignacion / and poure out thy wrath.
 Take away the aduersary / and smite the enemy. Make the nime soute / remember thy cōuertant: that thy wonderous woefes may be payed. Let the wrath of the fyre consume them/that theye so carde: and let them perishe/that do thy people hurte. Swere in thine heade of the pynnes that be ouer enemies / a saie there is none or: or but we.

B Gather al the rythes of Iacob together a gaine: that they maye knowe how that there is none other God: but only thou / that they maye shewe thy wonderous woefes / and be thy people and heretage/like as from the begynnynge. O Lord be mercy vpon the people that hath thy name: and vpon Israel/to whome thou haste loked to a fyre boine soune. O be merciful vnto Jerusalem * the centre of thy Sanctuary/the cene of thy rest. Tyll Zion with thy vnspeakable vertuous / and thy people with thy glory. Geue reuices vnto thy creatur / whome thou madest from the begynnyng/and raise vp the prophetes that haue bene sowed in thy name. Awarde the that waye for the / that thy prophetes maye be founde faithful. O Lord beare the prayer of thy seruantes/accordinge to the blessinge of Aaron ouer thy people / that al they which dwell vpon earth/maye knowe/that thou art the Lord the eternal God / which is from euerlastynge.

C The belly vntoureth all meares/ yet is one meate better then another. Like as the ruge tasteth venison: so doeth an herbe of vnderstandinge marre false wordes. A froward be-geueth braynes/ but a man of experience lif-teth him vp againe. The woman receaureth e-uery man/ yet is one daughter better the another. A saie wyfe reioyceth her deir/ hande/and a man loueth no thynge better. If she be louynge a vertuous wyff/ then in not her husbande like other men. Be that hath gatte a vertuous womā/hath a goodly possyssion.

he is vnto him an helpe and pillar whereupon he reth. Where no hedge is / there the goods are spoyle: and where no husband is / there the friends be mourneth. Lyfe as there is no credence given to a robber / that goeth from one cite to another. So is not the man beloued that hath no nest / and must turne in / where he make abye in the night.

The. XXX. X. V. Chapter.

A Very frende sayeth: I will be frendly vnto hym also. But there is some frend / whiche is onely a frende in name. Remayne there not heauinesse vnto death / when a companion and frende is turned to an enemy? O moost wretched presumption: from whence art thou sprung vp / so couer the earth with fallshede and deceate? There is some companion / whiche in prosperitie reioiceth with his frende: but in the tyme of trouble / he taketh parte against him. There is some companio / that mourneth with his frende for the belly sake: but when trouble cometh / he taketh holde of the hyde. Forget not thy frende in thy mynde / thyne upon him in thy ryche.

Eccle. vi. b.

Eccle. viii. c. and ix. c.

Every counsaill singeth forth his counsaill. Pleurable is heere is some that counsaileth but for his owne profit. Beware of the counsailler / and be aduised afore wherto thou wote of him / before thou geue counsaill for him selfe. If he be called the lord upon the / and saye vnto thee: Thy waie and purpos is good / and afterwarde he stande against the / aloke what shal become of the.

B There no counsaill at him / that suspecteth the for an enemy / and hyde thy counsaill fro such as hate the. There no counsaill at a woman concerninge thinges that she longeth for: nor at a fearfull & saynt heret body / in matters of warre: nor at a marriage / howe deare he will deape thy warre towards his: or at a hyer of sellinge: Or at an enuyous man of thanksgouinge: Or at the vnnecessfull of louinge: Or at an heuyling which hath no house / of profyte or wealth. An ydle bodye wolde not gladly heare speake of muche labour. Take no sidge folkes to counsaill / but be diligent to seeke counsaill at a veruous man that feareth God / such one as thou knowest to be a keeper of the commaundement / which hath a minde after thine owne minde / and is soe for the whan thou stomberest.

And holde thy counsaill fast in thine berte / for there is no man more faithfull to kepe it / then thou thy selfe. For a mans mynde is some tyme more disposed to tell oute / then his warden that ste about in an hye place / lookinge aboute them. And aboute at this paye: Hyghest / that he will lede thy waye in faithfulness and trouth. Before all thy wycke are counsaill friste: and o euer thou doest any thinge / be well aduised. There be foure thinges that declare a chaunged herte / whereof there sprungeth euell and good / death and life / and a masterfull tounge that babbleth muche. Some man is apte and well instructe in many thinges / and yet very vnprofitable vnto him selfe. Some man there is that can geue wyse and prudent counsaill / and yet is he hated / and continueth a begger: for that grace is not geuen him of God to be accepted. Another is robbed of all myddome / yet is he wyse vnto him selfe / and the fruite of vnderstandinge is saythfull in his mouth.

A wyse man maketh his people wyse / and the fruite of his wysdome sayle not. A wyse man shalbe pleneuously blessed of God: and all they that se him / shall speake good of hym. The wyse of man standeth in the numbre of the daye / but the daye of Israel are innumerable. A wyse man shal prayne saythfulness and credence amonge his people / and his name shalbe perpetual. Whyls some geue thy soule in thy lyfe: and if thou se any euell thinge / geue it not vnto her. For all thinges are not profitable for all men: neither hath vnyuersally pleasure in euery thinge. Be not greedy in euery caninge / and be not to haile vnto all meares. For excess of meates bringeth syckenes / and gloryng cometh at the last to an vmeasurable heate. Thowse gloryng haue many one perished: but be that dyceyth hym selfe temperately / prolongeth his lyfe.

The. XXX. V. Chapter.

Honoure the Physician / honoure him for a cause of necessity. God hath created him / for the Hyghest cometh medicine / and he shal recoure gyfte of the kyng. The wisdom of the Physician singeth hym to great wisdom

workshippe / and in the sight of the great men of this worlde: he shalbe honorably taken. The Lorde hath created medicine of the earth / & he that is wise / will not abhorre it. Was not the bitter water made sweete with a tree? that men might learne to knowe the verue therof.
The Lorde hath geuen men wysdome and vnderstandinge / that he myght be honoured in his wondrous woikes. With such woeth he healeth men / and taketh awaye their paynes.
Of such woeth the Apothecary make a conseccion / yet can no man persourme all his woerkes. For of the Lorde commeth prosperous wealth ouer all the earth.

D My sonne / Despyse not this in thy sickness but praye vnto the Lorde / and he shall make the whole leaue of thy synne / as oide thy ban-des aright: cleanse thyne here from all wickednes. Geue a sure savioured offeringe / and the fine flour for a toke of remembrance: make thy offeringe fast / as one that geueth the first frutes / and geue rounde to the Physician. For the Lorde hath created him: let him not go from thee / for thou hast neede of him. The houre maye come / that thy selfe maye be helped throughe when they praye vnto the Lorde / that he maye reuerend get health to lye longer. He that synneth before his maker / shall fall in the ban-des of the Physician.

E My sonne / I charge forth thy teares ouer the dead: and beginne to mourne / as if thou haddest suffred great harme thy self: and the ouer his body after a conuenient maner / and despyse not his buryall. Enforce thy selfe to wepe / and prouoke thy selfe to mourne / and make lamentacion expediently / and that a daye or two / as thou be euil spoken of: and the ed-fite thy selfe because of the beautyes. For of beautyes commeth death / & beautyes of the earth beareth strenght. Beautyes a powerte groweth the here in temptation & offence. Take no beautyes to herd / & yue it awaye / as remember the last thinges. Forget it not / for there is no turninge agayne. Thou shalt do hym no good / but hurte thy selfe. Remembre his iud-gement / thine also shalbe lyke wyse: vnto me beauer of the dead ceaseth in his rest / and com-fore thy selfe againe ouer him / seinge his spere is departed from him.

The wisdom of the scribe ceaseth at conuement tyme of rest: and he that ceaseth from exercise and labour / shalbe wyse. He that holdeth the plough / and hath pleasure in ploddinge and digginge the open / a geeth aboute with such woikes / he kan speake of open. He seeth his herd to make fotwoes / and is diligent to geue the fyne fodder. So is euery carpenter also and workemaster that labourerth shill night & daye: be caruerth / grauerth and curbeth out / and his desyre is in sondy cunninge thinges / and hys here ymagineth / howe he maye cunningly cast an ymage / his diligencce also and watchinge persourmeth the woike. The yonsmyth in lyke maner bideth by his stynde / and doeth his diligencce to labour the yon-the vapoure of the fyre burneth his flesch / and he must fyght with the heate of the sinace. The nose of the hammer solideth nether in his eares / a hys eyes leke styll upon the thinge that he maketh. He hath set his mynde thereupon that he will make out his woike / and therefore he watcheth howe he maye set it out / a bunge it to an ende.

So doeth the potter set by his woike: he turneth the whele aboute with his fete / he is diligent and carefull in all hys doynge / and his labour and woike is without numbic.
He fashioneth the claye with his arme / and with his fete he tempereth it. He here ymagineth howe he maye make it pleasaunt / and his diligencce is to cleanse the ouen. All these hope in their handes / and cursy one thynketh to be cunninge in his woike. Without these maye not the cities be manteyned / inhabited not occupied: yet come they not by in the con-gregacion: they vnderstande not the conuenant of the lawe: they can not declare equite a iudgement: they can not fynde out the var-sentence: but thow they shall the creature of the worlde be manteyned: they praye concerneth onely the woike and labour of cunninge.

The. XXXIX. Chapter.

urers of wysdome. He seeketh out the mystery of secreete sayings; and euer seeketh him self re-uen continually. He doeth seruite amonge greate men / and appeareth before the prince.
He goeth into a strange countrie / and iraua; keth thowto it: hee what good or euill is amonge men / he proueth it / and siterh it out.
He purpofeth in his heart / to reforme early onto the Lozde that made hym / and to praye before the highest God. He openeth his mouth in prayer; and prayeth for his synnes.

B When the greate Lozde will hee shall be filled with the spere of vnderstandinge / that he maye then poure out wyse sentences / a geue eade his deuice / a lorde bys knowlege a right a geue him vnderstandinge of secreete thinges.

He shall them feele the fruite of his learninge / a reioyce in the conuention of the lawe of the Lozde. The whole congregation shall come to be his wysdome / and it shall neuer be put out. The remembrance of him shall neuer be forgotten / and his name shall continue from one generation to another. His wysdome shall speake of / a the whole cōgregatione shall openly declare him his prayse. Whyle he lyueth he hath a greater name the a thousand beside / a after his deat; the same name remaineth vnto to him. Yet wil I speake of iud men of vnderstandinge / for I am fill as the Moone.

Ecc.
iij. b

Carken vnto me (ye holy vertuous childre) hinge forth frute / as the rose that is planted by the biocke of the silde / and geue ye a swete snel as Libanus. Flowe as the rose garden / singe a souge of praise. O geue thankes vnto God ouer all his workes. Geue glory and honour vnto the Lozde / shew his prayse with your lyppes. Doe not the souge of youre lyppes with harpes a playinge / a in geuinge thankes vnto him / saye after this maner. All the workes of the Lozde are exceedinge good / and all bys commaundmentes are met / and conuient in this season.

Gen. i. d

D A man neede not to saye what is this? what is that? at anye conuention they shall all be sought. It is his commaundment the water reioyce as a wall stand at the woide of his mouth the water shall flowe. In his commaundment is euery thinge acceptible / and receiued / and his healt; can not be mysified. The woices

Gen. vi. d

of all flesh are before him / a there is nothinge hid from his eyes. He setteth from euery thinge to euery thinge / and there is nothinge to won-derfull or byge vnto him. A man neede not to saye the / what is this? or that? For he hath made all thinges to so good vnto man. His blesinge shall renne ouer as the streame / and moysture the earth lyke a floude of water. Life as he maketh the water for thowto / so shall his woyth fall vpon the Egiptien.

His woices are playne / and right vnto the iust / but vngodly stombe at them. For the good are good thinges created from the begynninge / a euill thinges for the vngodly. All thinges necessary for the life of man are created from the beginninge: water / fyre / iron / a sile / inel / wheate / and hony / milke and wyne / eyle / a clothinge. All these thinges are created for the best to the faryhill. But to that vngodly that all these thinges are turned to harme and darne. There be spores that are created for vengeance / and in their rigourousnes haue they fallen their vintment. In the tyme of the ende they shall poure out their strenght and pacifie the woith of him that made it. Imfyre / hayle / hunger / and death / these thinges are created for vengeance.

The rooth of wilde norse / me bestles / the scoupions / serpentes / and the iwarde are created also for vengeance / to the destruction of the vngodly. They shall be glad to so his commaundmentes: and whan neede is they shall ready vpon earth: and whan their houre is come / they shall not ouerpass the commaun-dement of the Lozde.

Therefore haue I taken a good courage vnto to me from the beginninge / and thought to put these thinges in wyngge / a to leaue them behinde me. All the woices of the Lozde are good / and he geueth euery one in due sesson / and whan neede is. So that a man neede not to saye: this is worse than that. For in due season they are all pleasure and good: and therefore prayse the Lozde with whole hart and mouth / geue thankes vnto his name.

- Ecclesi. ii. a Be ashamed of wretchedom before father and mother: Be ashamed of lesynge before f prince a men of auerage: Of sinne, before the iudge and ruler: Of offence, before the congregacion and people: Of unrighteousnes, before a conyngon a frende: Of theste, before the neyghbour. † As for the trouth of God and his edumantre, not ashamed therof.
- Rom. i. b Be ashamed to lye with thine eldowes vpon the bacad: Be ashamed to lye vpon barlottes: Be ashamed to turne awaye thy face from thy frende. Be ashamed to take/ and not to geue: Be ashamed also to lye vpon another mans wyse/ and to make many rystinge wordes with her mayden/ or to stande by her bed syde. Be ashamed to vpbraid thy frende: and when thou gettest any thinge/ call him not in the teeth wythall.

Of these thinges be not thou ashamed/ a accepto no person to offende. Namely/ of these thinges be not ashamed: Of the lawe of God: of the counsaill of iudgement: to bunge the vngodly from his vngodlynes vnto righteousnes/ and to make him a good man: to scale faithfully in neyghbour and companion: to distribute the heretage vnto f frendes: to be diligent to kepe true measure and weight: to be content/ whether thou gettest much of lyte: to scale truly with temporal goodes in begyne and selling: to bunge vp chyliden with diligence: to correcte an euill seruant vnto kepe that thine is from an euill wyse: to set a locke where many handes are: what thou vntyuerest and geuest out to be kepte/ to tell it/ and to weye it: to wyte vp all the velyueringe and receauinge: to ensoure the vnlearned and vnwyse: Of the aged that are iudged of the yonge. If thou be diligent in these thinges/ truly thou shal be learned and wyse and accepted of all men.
- The daughter maketh father to wach/ so dcreely: as the carefulnes that he hath for her/ taketh awaye his slepye/ in the night/ lest she shoulde outgrowe him. And when she hath an hous bande/ lest she shoulde be hated/ and lest she shoulde be despyed or reuylid in her virgynite/ as gotten with chyliden in her fathers house: O C when she cometh to the man/ lest she behaue her selfe not righte/ continue vnfruitful. † If thy daughter be wnten/ leton/ kepe her chastely/ lest in the cause thine enemyes laugh the to scorn/ and the whole cite to geue the an euill reporte/ a so thou be fayne to heare thy shame of every man/ and be confounded before all the people. † Bewelde/ not thy every bodyes beuty/ a haue not much dwelling amonge women. Forlyt as the wome and moche cometh out of clothynge/ so doth the wisednes come of wromen.
- It is better to be wch an euil man/ then to wch a frendly wyse that putteth one to shame and rebuke. I will remember the woordes of the Lo: d/ a declare the thinge that I haue sene. In the wordes of f Lo: d/ are his treasures. The Sunne ouerleth all thinges: so byshyne/ and all bys woordes are full of the clarite: therof. Eark not the Lo: d/ brought to passe/ that his saynetes shoulde tell out all his wonderous wykes/ which f almighty Lo: d hath hath stablyshed: All thinges endure in his glory. He seeketh out the grounde of the depe and the hert/ and he knoweth all their imagination and wysdome. For the Lorde knoweth all sciencie/ and he looketh into the roken of the tyme. He declareth the thynges that are past/ and for to come/ and he telyeth thinges that are secreet. No thought maye scape him/ neyther maye any woide be byd from him. He hath garnysed the bygge excellent woikes of his wysdome/ and he is from euerlastinge to euerlastinge. Vnto him maye no thinge be added/ neyther can he be myssted/he hath no nede also of any counsell. O how amiable are all his woikes / and as a sparke to loke vpon: They tye all/ and endure for euer/ and whan Ierur nede is / they are all obedient vnto hym. They are all double one agaynst another/ he hath made nothyng that hath faulte or blemyshe. He hath stablyshed the goodes of eury thynge/ and who maye be satisfied with his glory/ whan he seeth it:

The XLIII. Chapter.

The glory of the beyghit/ is the sayre and cleare firmament/ the beuty of the heauen in his glorious clarence. The Sunne whan it appeareth / declareth the daye in the goyng out of it/ a maruailous woike of the Bygghit.
 At noone it burneth the earth/ and who maye abyde the heate thereof? Who so keepeth an oon whan it is here/ the tymes more doeth the Sunne burne vpon the mountaynes / whan it berbeth out the fyre beames/ and shyneth with the byghthenes of it / it blindeth the eyes.
 Great is the Lorde that made it / and in hys commaundement he causeth it to runne hastely.

The Moone also is in all / and at conuenient season it sheweth the tymes/ and is a roken of the tyme. It be roken of the solemne feast to taken of the Moone / a lycht that mysshed and increaseth agayne. The moneth is called after the Moone / it groweth wonderfully in her chaunginge.

The armye of heauen also is in the beyghit/in the firmament of heauen it gieweth a cleare and glorious thync. This is the clarence of the starres/ the beayful apparell of heauen/ the apparell that the Lorde lygheneth in the beyghit. At his holy woide they continue in their ordie / and nor one of them faileth in his watch. I Loke vnto the raine borne / and prayse him that made it: very beuyfull is it in his thync. He compasseth the heauen aboute with his clarence and glory / the bandes of the Bygghit haue bended it. Whom his commaun-dement he maketh the snowe to fall / and the thonder of his iudgement to synge hastily.

 Whom his commaundement the treasures are opened / and the cloude sye as the folow-In his power hath he strenghtend the cloudes/ and bidden the hayle scowes.

The mountaynes melt at the fygge of him/the wynde bloweth accordinge to his wyll.
 The sounde of his thonder beareth the earth / a so doeth the storme of the North: the wylicke wynde also lygheneth thowne as a feathered fowle / casteth out and spredeth the snowe abroad: a as the grethoppers that destroye all/ so falleth it thowne. The eye maruaileth at the beuty of the wyntennesse thereof / and the hert is afraied at the raine of it. He poureth out the frost vpon earth lyke salt / and whan it is frozen / it is as sharpe as the pycke of a thysle.

Whan the colde North wynde bloweth harde Chylfall cometh of the water. He lygheneth thowne vpon all the gatheringes together of water / and putteth on the waters as a dyssel plate. He burneth the mountaynes / a burneth the wildernesses: and loke what is grene/he putteth it out lyke fyre. The medicine of all thys is / whan a cloude cometh hastily / and whan a dew cometh vpon the heate / it shalbe refreshed agayne.

In his woide he stilleth the wynde. In his counsell he semeth the depe/ and the Lorde Iesus planted it. They that sayle ouer the see/ tell of hys perils and harmes: and whan they heare it with our eares / we maruaile the great. For there be straunge wonderous woikes / diuerser maner of nyce / beastes a walfysshes.
 Whom him are all thynges set in good ordie and perfourmed / and in his woide all thynges endure.

I speake much / but I can not sufficiently attaine vnto it / for he him selfonye is the personne of all wooides. We shoulde prayse the Lorde after all oure power / for he is great: in all his woikes. The Lorde is to be feared / Psal. scv. 8 ¶ In ij yee

ye/ very greate is he / and maruaylous is his power. Praise the Lord/ & magnifie him as much as ye maye / yet doceth he farre exceede all praise. ¶ Magnifie him with all youre power / and labour earnestly / yet are ye in no wysse able sufficiently to praise him. ¶ Who hath sente him that he myght tell vs: Who can magnifie him so greatly as he is? For there are hyd yet greater thynge then these be: as for vs we haue bene but few of his workers. For the Lord hath made all thinges / & geuen wysdome to such as feare God.

The XLIII. Chapter.

A commendacion of the olde verecious fathers.

¶ Let vs commend the noble famous men / and the generation of our forefathers and fathers. Many more glorious aces hath the Lord donne / & bened his greate power euer sence the beginning. The noble famous men raygned in their kyngdomes / and bare excellent rule. In their wysdome and vnderstandyng / they followed the counsail theyered in the prophesies.

¶ They led the folke they were the counsail and wysdome of the scribes of the people. Wysse sentences are founde in their instrucion. They sought the stoutnes and melody of musick / and brought forth the pleasant songes in scripture. They were ryche also / and coulde comforte and pacifye those that dwelt with them. All these were very noble / and honourable men in their generations / and were well reuered of in their tymes. These haue left a name behinde them / so that theye praise shall alwaye be spoken of.

¶ Afterwarde there were some / whose remembrance is gone. ¶ They came to nauight a perished / as though they had neuer bene / and became as though they had neuer bene borne / & their children also with them.

¶ Neuertheless / these are soungt me / whose righteousnes shall neuer be forgotten: but continue by theye posterite. Theye children are an holy good heretage: Theye sene endured fast in the conuenaunt. For their sakes shall their children and sene continue for euer / and theye praise shall neuer be put doune. Their bodies are buried in peace / but their name lyueth for euermore. The people can speake of their wysdome / and the congregation can talke of their praise. ¶ Nooh walked right and acceptably before the Lord: therefore was he translated for an example of amendement to the generations. ¶ Noe was a stedfast a righteous man: and in the tyme of watyr he became a reconcomlyng. Therefore was he left a remnaunt vnto the earth / when the floude came. ¶ In euery thinge conuenaunt was made with him / that all flesh shoulde perishe no more with watyr.

¶ Abraham was a greate father of many people / his glory was there none like vnto him. He kepte the lawe of the Holyest / and came into a conuenaunt with him. He left the conuenaunt in his flesh / & a reban he was tempored / he was founde faythfull. Therefore receyued God vnto him with an oath / that he wolde blisse all peoplen his sene / that he wolde multiplye and increase him as the dust of the earth / and to calte his sene as the starrs: yet and that his sene shoulde haue the possession / and inheritance of the lende from sea to sea / and from the ryuer vnto the borders of the lende.

¶ With Isaac had he stablyly the same conuenaunt for Abraham his fathers sake. For that greuous blessinge and health of all men / and conuenaunt had he stablyly with Isaac / and made it to rest vpon the heade of Jacob. He knew him / & in that he prospered him so well and richely / as gaue hym an heretage / and foundered his portion by it self / and parted it amonge the twelke tribes. Mercifull men brought he out of him / which founde fauoure before all self.

The XLV. Chapter.

¶ Of vs beloued of God and men / whose remembrance is in by the praise: hym hath the Lord made lyc in the glory of the sayntes / and magnified him / so that the enemies shodden a we of him / & shonw his wodes he had greate wonder. He made him grete in the sight of kinges / gaue him commaundement before his people / and shewed him his glorious power. ¶ He stablyly had him with his faythfulness and mekenes / and chose hym out of all men. For he herde his voyce / and ledde him in the barete cloude: & and there he pleas'd the Lord/and remain'd stedfastly in the waye of David his father. Which way was great and faithfull in his visions. In his time the Sunne wrote backe words/and he lengthen'd the Synagoge. With a righte sweete prophecy he what shoulde come to passe at the last/and to such as were fowfull in Sinne/ he gaue consolation/with which they might comforte them selves for euermore. He shew'd things that were for to come/and set forth o'uer they came to passe.

The XLIX. Chapter.

A Remembraunce of Josias/is like as when the Apothecary mixeth many precious sweete smelling things together. His remembraunce shalbe sweete as honey in all mouthes/and as the playinge of musick by the waye. He was appointed to turne the people agayne/and to take awaye all abominations of the vngodlye. He erected his borne into the Lorde/and in the tyme of the vngodlye he set up the worshippe of God agayne. All synners excepte Dauid/Esaias and Josias/commyn'd wickednesse: for euen the synners of Iuda/also forsoke the lawe of God. For they gaue theyr borne vnto other theyr banoure and worshippe also to a strainge people.

B Therefore was the cleere citie of the Sanctuary drent with fyre/and the streets thereof laye desolate and wastfull for they intreated Ieremy euill/which neuertheles was a prophete/edneyed from his mothers wombe/that he mighte rote oute/strake off/and destroye: and that he mighte builde up/and plante agayne.

Ezechiel sawe the glory of the Lorde in a vision/whiche was shew'd hym vpon the chaire of the Cherubims. For he thoughte vpon the cherubs in the rayn/to do good vnto such as had ordred their wayes a ryghte. And the bones of the twelfe prophetes stouth from out of their places: for they gaue comfort and consolation vnto Jacob/and deliuered them faithfullly. For some shall we prayse Zorobabel/whiche was as a ryng in the ryght hande.

E So was Iesus also the sonne of Iosede: these men in their tymes builded the house/and set up the Sanctuary of the Lorde agayne/whiche was prepared for an euertlasting worshipp. And Hieronimus is alwaie to be commended/whiche set up for vs the wallis that were broken downe/inade the paites and barres agayne/and builded oure houses of a newe. But vpon earth is there no man created lyke Ieremy: for he was taken up from the earth. And Ioseph/whiche was lorde of the brethren/and the upholder of his people/Hieronimus were couer'd a septer. Seth and Sem were in greates honoure amonge the people: and so was Adam aboute all the bestles/whiche he created.

The L. Chapter.

Symon the sonne of Onias the hyghte/aspiesse/whiche in his lyfe set vp the house agayne/and in his dayes made fast the temple. The hyghte of the temple also was founded of him/the vubble buildinge/and the hyghte wallis of the temple. In his dayes the welles of water flow'd oute/and were exceedinge full as the see. He toke care for his people/and deliuered them from destruction. He kepte his citie and made it stronge/that it shoulde not be besieged. He dwelt in honoure and worshippe amonge his people/and enlarged the inuance of the house and the courte. He greeth lighte as the morninge starre in the myddest of the cloudes/and as the LNoone when it is full. He shyneth as the Sunne in the temple of God. He is as hyghte as the raynesbowe in the fyre cloude/and flourisheth as the floures and roses in the springe of the yere/and the lyses by the ryuers of water: like as the Bananiches vpon the mount Libanus in tyme of Sommer. In a fyre and incense that is kindled: like as an whole ornament of pure golde/for with all manner of precious stones: and as an olive tree that is fruitfull/ as a cypres tree whiche groweth vpon a hyghte.

When he put on the garment of honoure/and was clothed with all beuare: when he wente to the holy aultare/ to garnish the couerlinge of the Sanctuary/when he toke the potensons oute of the purples bande/ he hym selfe stode by the hert of the aultare/ as he then rounde aboute in ordre. As the chaires of the cleere rocke vpon the mount Libanus/so stode they round aboute him. And as the Bananiches of the olive tree/so stode all the sonnes sonnes of Aaron in their glory. And that he might sufficiently performe his seruice/ and the aultars/ garnish the offeringe of the higheste God/ he stretched out his hande/ as ife of the vinctio offeringe/ poured in of his mycke he poured upon the bottome of the aultar a good smell onto the hyghest pyner.

Then beganne the sonnes of Aaron to fringe/ and to blowe with trompettes/ and to make a greates noyse/ for a remembraunce and prayse vnto the Lozde. Then were the people afrayd/ and fell vpon the earth vpon theyr faces/ to worshippe the Lozde theyr God/ and to geue thanks to almighty God. They songe goodlye also with their voyces/ so that there was a pleasaunte noyse in the greates house of the Lozde. And the people in theyr prayer besoughte the Lozde the higheste/ that he woude be mercifull/ vntill the honoure of the Lozde were persourmed. Thus ended they theyr ministration and seruice.

¶ Then wente he vnto/ and stretched oute his hande ouer the whole multitude of the people of Israel/ that they shoulde geue praise and thanke oute of theyr lippes vnto the Lozde/ and to reioyce in his name. He beganne yett once also to praye / that he mighte openly seme the thanksgyuinge before the higheste/ namely thus: O geue prayse and thanke/ ye all vnto the Lozde our God/ whiche hath euer bene noble and great thinge: whiche hath increaced oure dayes from our mothers wombe/ and dealt with vs accordinge to his mercy: that he wyll geue vs the iustynesse of herte/ and peace for oure synnes in Israel. Whiche faithfullly feperth his mercy for vs euermore/ and alwaye deliuereth vs in due season.

¶ There be two maner of people/ that I labour for my herde/ as for the thyrde/ whome I haue/ it is no people: They that sye vpo the mountayn of Samaria/ the Philistines/ and the foolish people that dwel in Strachina.

I Iesus the sonne of Syrach/ cleasurde of Ierusalem/ haue marked vp these informations/ and documentes of wisdom and vnderstandinge in this booke / and poured out wisdome cure of my herde. Blessed is he that exerciseth him selfe therin/ and who so wylly such to herde/ wyl be myse. If he be these thinge/ he shall be strong in all. For the lighte of the Lozde ledeyth him.

The. L. Chapter.
 A prayer of Iesus the sonne of Syrach.

¶ Thanke the O Lozde and synge/ and prayse the O God my Scouere/ I wyl reide prayse vnto thy name: for thou art my Defender and helper / and haste preserued my body from destruction/ fro the snare of manye voruous tunges/ and from the lippes that are occupied with lye. Thou hast bene my helper/ from such as stode vp against me/ and hast be luered me after the multitude of thy mercy/ and for thy holy names sake. Thou hast velyuered me from the roaring of them/ that prepared them selves to beuowe me oute of the handes of such as sought after my lyfe: from the multitude of them that troubled me/ and wente aboute to set fyre vpon me on euery syde/ so that I am not bent in the middelt of the fyre: from the depe of hel/ fro an vndeane tunges/ from lyinge wordes/ from the wicked synge/ and from an vnrighteous tunges. My soule that praise the Lozde vnto death/ for my lyfe: he wyl vnto hell.

¶ They compassed me rounde aboute on euery side/ and there was no man to helpe me. I looked aboute me/ if there were any man that woude saoure me: but there was none. The thoughte I vpon thy mercy O Lozde/ and vpon thy ceter that thou haste bene cuer of olden: namely/ that thou velyuerest such as put their trust in the/ and ryddest them oute of the handes of the heuilen. I

¶ Thus syre I vp my prayer fro the earth/ and prayed for velyuerance from death. I called vpon the Lozde my father/ that he woude not leaue me withoute helpe in the daye of my tremble / and in the tyme of the paynde. I prayded thy name continuallye/ selidinge honoure and thanke vnto it/ and so my prayer was orde. Thou saueddest me from destruction/ and velyuereddest me from the vnrighteous tyme. Therefore wyl I acknowledge and prayse the/ and magnifye the name of the Lozde.

C When I was yet but yonge / or euer I wente astray / I desired wth dome openly in my prayer / I came therfore before the temple / and sought her vnto the last. Then staunched she vnto me as a grape that is soone ripe.
 My heart reioyced in her / then wente my fore the ryght waye / yee / from yourt vp sought I after her: I bowed yowre mynre care and re-ceaued her. I founde me much wysdom / and prospered greatly in her. Therfore wyl I ascribe the gloire vnto hym that geueth me wysdom: for I am aduysed to do therafter.
 I wyl be zelous to cleue vnto the thinge that is good / so shall I not be confounded. My soule hath waxed with her / and I haue ben diligent to be occupied in her. I list vp myne hande an hynde / then was my soule lyghtned thowme wysdom: that I knowe god my fooly shewe. I adored my soule after her / the and I were one herte from the begin-ninge / and I founde her in cleynesse. And therfore shal I not be forsaken.

D My herte longed after her / and I gat a good treasure. Thowme her the Lord hath geuen me a newe tunge / wherewith I wyl prayse him. O come vnto me yee vnlearned / a well in the house of wysdom: with drawe not youre selues from her / but talke and common of these thinges / for your soules are very thyrstie. I opened my mouth and spake: I came and dye wysdom without money / bow yowre youre necke vnder her yoke / and youre soule shal receaue wysdom. She is harde at hande / and is content to be founde. Beholde / with your eyes / thowre that I haue had but litle labour / and yet haue founde much rest.
 O receaue wysdom / and ye shal haue plenteousnesse of syluer and golde in possession.
 Let your mynde reioyce in his mercy / and be not ashamed of his prayse. Worke his worke by tyme / and he shal geue you youre reward in due tyme.

 wordes are wyrtten in the thirde chapter of Daniel / after the olde text in Latin.

And they walked in the middell of flame / prayeing God / a magnifying the Lord. Abarias thus prayde on this maner. But in the middell of fyre opened he his mouth / and sayde: Blessed be thou / O Lord God of oure fathers / righte worshippe to be praysed and honoured is that name of thine for euer more: for thou arte righteous in all the thinges that thou haste done to vs: yee / faultfull are all thy woikre / thy wayes are ryghte and thy iudgements true. In all the thinges that thou haste thoughte vpon vs / and vpon the holy one of oure fathers (euen Jerusalem) thou haste executed true iudgement: yee / accordyng to ryghte / and equite haste thou thoughte these thinges vpon vs / because of oure synnes.

For why: we haue offended / and done wickedly / departinge from the: In all thynges haue we trespassid / and not obeyed thy com-mandementes / no: kepte the: neither done as thou hast bidden vs / that we mighte pray-se. Therfore / all that thou hast thoughte vpon vs / and euery thinge that thou hast done to vs / thou hast done them in true iudgment: As in velyouryng vs into the bandes of oure enemyes / amonge vngodly and wicked he-binacions / and to an vngodlynges hande / whiche the most forwarde vpon earth. And now we maie not open oure mouthes / we are become a shame and reproche to thy seruants vs / and to them that worshippe the.

Yet for thy names sake / we beseeche the: geue vs not vp for euer / because not thy conuenant and take not awaye thy mercy from vs for thy beloued Abarias sake / for thy seruant Isaac sake / and for thy holy Israels sake: to whome thou haste spoken and promysid / that thou woldst multiplye them: sith as the starres of heauen / and as the sandes of the see.

that they vpd the sic shore. For we (o Lord) are become lesse then any people/and he kepte vnder this waye in all the world:/because of oure synnes: So that now we haue newe yerpunte/Bufes/prophets/Burntofferings/sacrifices/oblation/incense/and no Sanctuary before the.

Uenue the selfe/ in a contrye herte / and an humble spiete let vs be receaued/that we may opayne thy mercy. Like as in the burnt offerings of ramme/and bullecke/ and lyke as in thousandes of fat lambee: so let oure offeringe be in thy sight this daye/that it maye please the:/for there is no confusion vnto the/ that put their trust in the. And nowe we for lowe the with all our herte/ we feare the/ and like thy face. But we nor to shame/ but deale with vs after thy louinge kyndnesse/ and accordinge to the multitude of thy mercyes/ be lyer vs by thy myacles / (o Lord:) and get thy name an euell maye be confounded. So thy seruantes couer maye be confounded. Let them be ashamed thow we thy Almightye power / and let their strengthe be broken that they maye knowe/ howe that thou onely art the Lord: God / and honoure worshippe thowout all the world.

And the Kinges seruantes that put them in/ ceased not to make the ouen hote with wide fyre/ they strawe/peche and faggottes: so that the flammie went out of the ouen vpon a fly: cubite of yee/ it roke awaye and wente vpon those Caldees that it gat holde vpon the syde of ouen. But the angell of the Lord: came wente into the ouen to Azarias and his fellowes/ and smote the flammie of the fyre out of the ouen/ and made the middell of the ouen/ as it had bene a coole wynde blowing: so that the fyre neither toucht them / greuch them/ nor byt them hurt. Then the selfe thre came out of one mouth/ praised/ honoured/ and blessed God in the fouer/ sayings:

Blessed be thou/ o Lord: God of oure fathers: for thou art praise and honoure worthy: and to be magnified for euer more.

Blessed be the holy name of thy glory / for it is worthy to be praised/ and magnified in all worldes. Blessed be thou in the holy temple of thy glory: for about all thinges thou art to be praised/ yee/ and more the worthy to be magnified for euer. Blessed be thou in the iron

The story of Susanna / which is the xij. Chapter of Daniel after the Lann.

Here dwelta man in Babylon / called Joachim: that toke a wyfe whose name was Susanna / the daughter of H. I. I. a very fayre woman/ and such one as feared God. Her father and her mother also were goodly people/ and taught her daughter according to the lawe of Moyses. This Joachim / her housband / was a greate ryth man/ and had a saye orcharde togynginge vnto his house. And to hym resorted the Jewes commonly / because he was a man of reputation amonge them. The same yere were there made two iudges/ such as the Lord spaketh of: All the wickednesse of Babylon cometh from the idlers / that is / from the iudges / which seme to rule the people. These came vnto Joachims house: and all such as had any thinge to do in the lawe / came thither vnto them.

Now when the people came agayne as after noone / Susanna wente into her houshandes orcharde to walke. The eldres seynge this / that she wenten dayly and walked / they burned for lust to her / yet they were almost out of theyr wyces / and cast vnto theyr eyes / that they shoulde not se beauen / nor remembre that God is a ryghteous iudge. For they were each wounded with the lust of her / neyther durst one shewe another his greife. And for shame / they durst not tel her their inordinate luste / that they wolde sayne haire had to do with her. Yet they layed traic for her earnestly from daye to daye / that they myghte / as they call it / haue a sight of her. And the one sayd to the other: Vp / let vs go home / for it is byrner tyme. So they wente their waye from her.

When they returned agayn / they came together / enquiring out the matter betwixt the selfe / yet / the one tolde the other of his wicked luste. Then appointed they a tyme when they myghte take Susanna alone.

It happened also / that they spred oure a conuenient tyme / when she wente forth to walke (as her maner was) and no bodye with her but two maydens / and thoughte to traue her selfe in the garden / for it was an hot season. And there was noe one person there / excepte the two elders that had byd them selfe / to beholde her. So she sayde to her maydens: go for me oyle and soper / and shut the orcharde doore / that I maye walke me. And they byd as she had their / and shut the orcharde doore / and wente oute them selfe / at a backe doore / to set the thinge that she had commaunded: but Susanna knewe not / that the elders lay there hid with in. Nowe when the maydens were gone forth / the two elders gat them vp and ranne vpon her / sayinge: Nowe / the orcharde doore is shut / that no man can see vs: we haue a luste vnto thee / therefore consent vnto vs / and let vs do.

¶ If thou wilt not / we shall syngge a testimoniall agaynst thee / that there was a yonge felow with thee / and that thou hast sine awaye thy maydens from the forthe same cause. Susanna slyghed / and sayde: Alas / I am in trouble on euery syde. Though I solerte youre mynde / it will be my death: and yf I consent not vnto you / I canne not escape youre handes. Well / it is better for me / to fall into youre handes / withoute the dede syngge / then to synne in the sight of the Lorde: and with that / she cryed oute with a loud voice: the elders cryed also agaynst her.

Then ranne there one to the orcharde doore / and synote it open. Nowe when the seruantes of the house herde that crye in the oie chard / they rushed in at the backe doore / to see what the matter was. So when the elders tolde them / the seruantes were greatly ashamed: for why / there was neuer seld a report made of Susanna. On the morowe after came the people to Iosaphat her hous hande / and the two elders came also / full of mischeuous ymaginacions agaynst Susanna / to syngge her vnto death / a space thus before the people: O vnde for Susanna the daughter of Heliadas / Iosaphats wyfe. And immediately they sent for her. So she came with her father and mother / her dysobeyn / and all her kynrede. Nowe Susanna was a tender persone / and maruailous faire of face. Therfore the wicked men commaunded to take of the clothes from her face / for she was couered / that as the lecher they mighte so be satisfied in her beautye. Then her friends / yee / and all they that knewe her / beganne to wepe.

These two elders stode vp in the midst of the people / and laied their handes vpon the head of Susanna: whiche wepte and looked vp towarde heauen / for her bette had a sure trust in the Lord. And the elders saide: As we were walkinge in the orcharde alone / this woman came in with her two maydens / whome she sent awaye from her / and sparde the orcharde doore. Whiche that a yonge fellow (whiche there was byd) came vnto her / and laye with her. As for vs / we stode in a corner of the orcharde. And when we sawe this wickednesse / we ranne to her / and perceaued that they had medled together. But we could not holde bym / for he was stronger than we / thus he opened the doore / and gat him awaye. Nowe when we had taken this woman / we aske her / what yonge fellowe this was: but she wold not tell vs. This is the matter / and we be witnesses of the same.

The commune foote belieued them / as those that were the elders and iudges of the people / and so they condemned her to death. Susanna cryed oute with a loud voyce / and sayde: O euill thinge God / I thou searcher of secretes / thou that knowest all thinges / as thou comest to passe: thou wost that they haue done false witness agaynst me: a beholde / I must dye / where as I neuer byd any such thinges / as these men haue maliciously inuented against me. And the Lord bryde her voyce. For when she was led forth to the heare / the Lord raysed up the spirit of a yonge child / whose name was Daniel / which Reg. iij. cried with a loud voyce: I am cleane from this bloude. Then all the people turned them Jer. xx. b G towards him / and saide: What meane these wordes that thou hast spoken: Daniel stode in the midst of them and saide: Are ye suche foules: Or ye children of Israel: that ye canne not discreene: Ye haue here cōdemned a daughter of Israel vnto death / and knowe not the truth wherof: Go ye on iudgment again / for they haue spoken falsse wyntesse agaynst her.

Wherfore the people turned againe in all the place. And the eldres (that is the principal heades) saide vnto him: Come ye vnto here amonge vs / and shewe vs this matter / synge God hath geuen the as great honour iiij. Re. iij. d as an elder. And Daniel saide vnto the: I put these two asyde one from another / and then shal I heare them. Whā they were put asunder one from another / he called one of them / and sayde vnto him: O thou olde knackerde carle / that hast vsed thy wickednesse so longe: thin vngenerous dedes which thou hast done afore / are now come to light. For thou hast geuen falsse iudgements / thou hast oppressed the innocent / and letten the gyltic go free / where as yet the Lord sayeth: The innocent and righteous thou slayest not. Wel then / if thou hast sene her / tell me / vnder what tree sawest thou them talking together: He answered: Vnder a Mulberry tree. And Daniel sayde: very well. Nowe thou yest euen vpon thine heade. So / the messenger of the Lord hath receaued the sentence of him / to cut the tree in two.

Then put he him asyde / and called for the other / and sayde vnto hym: O thou sode of Canaan / but not of Iuda: sayntesse hath deceaued the / a lust hath subuerted thine verite. Thus deale ye afore with the daughters of Israel / and they for feare / consented vnto you: But the daughter of Iuda wolde not abyde youre wickednesse: I will tell me than / vnder what tree diddest thou take them speaking together: He answered: vnder a Domgras tree. Then saide Daniel vnto him: Very well / nowe thou yest also euen vpon thine heade: The messenger of the Lord standeth wayning with the sword / to cut the tree in two / and to laye you therp.

With that / all the whole multitude gaue a greace / and praised God / which al-
P waye schuereth them that put their trust in him. And they came vpon the two eldres (whom Daniel had eduite with their owne mouthe: that they had geuen falsse witness) and deale with them / euen likewise as they wolde haue done with their neighbours: Ye / they dyd accordinge to the lawe of Moyses / and put them to death / thus the innocent bloude was saued the same daye.

Then Belshias and his wyfe praised God for their daughter Susanna / with Joachim her housbande and all the kinrede: that there was no dishonesty founde in her. From that daye forth was Daniel had in greater reputation in the sight of the people.

The story of Bel / and of the Dragon: which is the iiii. Chapter of Daniel after the Lann.

B Here was at Babilon an ymage / called Bel: and there were spent vpon him euery daye sixe calkes / xl. shepe / and sixe greate portes of wyne. Hym dyd the kynge worshippe hym selfe / and wroite daylye to honoure hym: but Daniel worshipped his owne God. And the kynge sayde vnto him: Why doest not thou worship Bel: He answered and sayd: I doe not worshippe things that be made with handes / but the livinge God / which made heauen and earth / and hath power vpon all flesh. The kynge sayd vnto him: I thinkest thou not that Bel is a livinge God: Or sayest thou not / howe much he eateth and drinketh euery daye: Daniel smiled and said:
 O kynge

O kynge because nor thy selfe: This is but made of claye within/ and of metall without/ neither eateth he euer any thinge.

B Then the kynge was wroth/ and called for his priestes/ and sayde vnto them: If ye tell my nor who this is that eateth vp these cyphers/ ye shall dye: But if ye can excuse me that Bel eateth them/ then Daniel shall dye/ for he hath spoken blasphemy agaynst Bel. And Daniel sayde vnto the kynge: let it be so/ accordinge as thou hast sayde. The priestes of Bel were lxx. beside their wyfes and chyldren. And the kynge wente with Daniel into the temple of Bel. So Bel pressed sayde: Lo/ we will go out/ and set thou the meate there (O kynge) and pourt in the wyne/ then shut the doore fast/ and seale it with thine owne signet: and to morow when thou comest in/ if thou findest not that Bel hath eaten vp all/ we will suffre death: or els Daniel/ that hath led vpon we. The priestes thought themselves sure ynough/ for vnder the altare they had made a peny in trauncke/ and there wente they in euer/ and vpd care vp what there was.

C So when they were gone forth/ the kynge set meates before Bel. Now Daniel had commaunded his seruantes to bunge affbes/ and that he sitted thowout all the temple/ and the kynge myght se. Then wente they out/ and sparrd the doore/ sealinge it with the kynge signet/ and so departed. In the nyght came the priestes with their wyfes and chyldren (as they were wonte to do) and vpd care and thynke vp all. In the morninge by nyght at the breake of the daye/ the kynge arose/ and Daniel with hym. And the kynge sayde: Daniel/ are the scales whole yet? He answered: Ye/ (O kynge) they be whole. Now as soone as he had opened the doore/ the kynge looked vnto the altare/ and cried with a loude voyce: Oreate art thou o Bel/ and why thy is no decreate. Then laughed Daniel/ and helde the kynge that he shoulde not go in/ and sayde: Beholde the pavement/ marke well/ whose footeleppe are these? The kynge sayde: It is the footeleppe of men/ women and chyldren.

B Therefore the kynge was angry/ and toke the priestes with their wyfes and chyldren/ and they shewed hym the peny doore/ where they came in/ and vpd care vp such thinges as were vpon the altare. For the which causeth the kynge slewe them/ and deliuered Be Jerre. li. g into Daniels power/ which destroyed hym Jerre. xli. a and hys temple.

And in the same place there was a greete Dragon/ which they of Babylon worshipped. And the kynge sayde vnto Daniel: sayst thou/ that thyo is but a god of metall also? lo/ he is curth/ he eateth and thynketh: so that thou canst not saye/ that he is no luyngge god/ therefore worshipp him. Daniel sayde vnto the kynge: I will worshippinge the Lorde my God/ The is the true luyngge God: as for this/ he is not the god of isle. But geue me leaue/ (O kynge) and I will destroye this Dragon without swerde/ staff. The kynge sayde: I geue the leaue. Then Daniel toke pitch/ sarr and berry wolle/ and vpd sceth them to gether/ and made loupes therof/ whiche he put in the Dragons mouth/ and so the Dragon burst in sonder: and Daniel sayde lo/ there is he whome ye worshipped.

When they of Babylon herde that they toke greete indignation/ and gathered the together agaynst the kynge/ sayinge: The kynge is become a Jerre also/ he hath destroyed Bel/ he hath slayne the Dragon/ and put the priestes to death. So they came to the kynge/ and sayde: let vs haue Daniel/ or els we will destroye the and thine house.

Now when the kynge sawe/ that they refused in so sore vpon him/ and that necessity constrained hym/ he deliuered Daniel vnto them: which cast him into the Lyons denne/ where he was sixe dayes. In the denne there were seuen Lyons/ and they had geuen them euery daye two bodies and two shepe/ which then were not geuen them/ that they myght deuoure Daniel.

There was in Jermy a prophet called Abacuc/ which had made portage/ and crummed bread in a bepe platter/ and was goinge into the isle/ for to bunge it to the moora. But the angel of the Lorde sayde vnto Abacuc: go/ carry the meate that thou hast into Babylon/ vnto Daniel/ which is in the Lyons denne.

people of Israel. And wha he had spoyled the cite/ he set fyre on it/ & castinge downe houses/ a wallen on euery syde. The women and theye chyliden toke they captiues/ and led awaye their catel. Then builded they the castel of Dauid with a greacie and thicke wall/ a with mighty towres/ and made it a strange holde so: them. Besyde all thys they set wicked people and vngodly men to kepe it/ floored it with weapens and detyles: gathered the goodes of Ierusalem/ and layed them vp there: thus became it a thersy castel.

And this was done to laye wayre for the people that wente into the Sanctuary/ and for the cruell destruction of Israel. Thus they shed innocent bloude on euery syde of the Sanctuary/ as I besyde it. In so much that thineyns were sayne to depart/ and the cite became an habitation of straungers/ beynge desolate of her owne sode / for her owne natives were sayne to leaue her. Her Sanctuary was cleue wycked / her holy dayes were turned into mourning/ her Sabbathes were had in derision/ a her honoure brought to naught. Lofe how greate her glory was afore/ so greate was her confusion/ and her iose turned into sorrow.

Job. 8. a
Amos

¶ And thus also the kinge sent out a commaundment vnto all his kingdom/ that all the people shoulde be one. Then they left euery man his lawe/ and all the Sytyens agreed to the commaundment of kinge Antiochus. Yec/ many of the Israelites consented there vnto/ offeringe vnto Idols/ and defilinge the Sabbath. So the kinge Antiochus sent his nescsaungers with his commission vnto Ierusalem/ and to all the cities of Iuda: that they shoulde soluer the lawes of the Sytyens/ and forbadde other burnt offeringe/ meate offeringe/ or peace offeringe / to be made in the temple of God / and there shoulde no Sabbath nor hysse feast daye be kepte: but commaunded/ that the Sactuary a the holy people of Israel shoulde be desyld.

He commaunded also/ that there shoulde be set vp other altars/ temple and Idols: to offre vp swynes/ shep and other vncleane bestes: that men shoulde leaue their chyliden vncircumcised / to defile their soules with all manner of vncleane and abhominacione: that they myght so forget the lawe/ a chaunge all the holy ordinaunces of God: and that whosoever wolde not so accordinge to the commaundment of kinge Antiochus/ shoulde suffice Iust. In lyke maner commaunded he thowout all his realme/ and set rulers ouer the people / for to edpell them to do these thinges/ commaundinge the cities of Iuda to vs sacrifice vnto Idols.

Then wente the people vnto the Sytyen by heapes/ forsoke the lawe of the Lorde/ and committed much euil in the lande: yec/ and chased out threete Israelites/ which had byd them selues in corners and pryce places. The firste daye of thre moneth Castles in the firste yeare/ set kinge Antiochus an abhominable Idole of desolation vpon the altare of God/ and theye buylde altars thowout all the cines of Iuda on euery syde / before the doores of the houses / and in the stretes/ where theye burnt incense/ and vnd sacrifice. And as for the booke of the lawe of God/ theye bent them in the fyre/ and rente them in peeces. Whanfor he was that had a booke of the Testament of the Lorde founde by him/ yec/ whosoever endeuoured him self to kepe thre lawe of the Lorde the kinges commaundment was that they shoulde put him to deeth. And thow he auterome theye created these thinges euery moneth/ vpon the people of Israel that were founde in the cities.

¶ The fyre and twenne daye of the moneth/ what tyme as theye byd sacrifice vpon thre altare/ which stode in the steade of the altare of the Lorde/ accordinge to the commaundment of kinge Antiochus/ theye put certayne wynde to deeth/ which had caused their chyliden to be crucified. For only that/ but theye bygd vp the chyliden by the necke thowout all their houses/ a slewe the crucifiedes of them.

Yet were there many of thre people of Israel which deterrmed in them selues/ that theye wolde not eate vncleane thinges/ but that theye shoulde suffice deeth/ then to be desyld with vncleane meates. So because theye wolde not bryake thre blessed lawe of God/ theye were cruelly slayne. And this greate tyrannye increased very sore vpon the people of Israel.

The II. Chapter.

¶ At those dayes there byd stande vp one of the Machabees thre sonne of John/ the sonne of

of Symeon the priestloue of the kynred of Iosias / from Jerusalem / and dwelt vpon the mount of Modin / and had v. sonnes: The eldest called Gabdias: Symon called Thafis: Judas / otherwise called Machabeus: and Eleazar / otherwise called Zbaron: and Jonathan / whose surname was Apphus. These sawe the euill that was done amonge the people of Iuda at Jerusalem: And Natarthias sayde: Wo is me / also that euer I was borne / to se this mysery of my people / and the pitous destruction of the holy ciuitie: and thus to sye so fyll / it beyng deliuered into the handes of the enemyes.

Her Sanctuary is come into the power of straungers / her temple is as it were a man that hath lost his good name. Her precious ornaments are caried awaye captiue / her olde men are layne in the stretes / and her yonge men are fallen thow the swordes of the enemyes.

What people is it / that hath not some possession in her kyngdome? Who hath not gotten some of her spoyle? All her glory is taken awaye. She was a Queene / and now she is become an hadimayde. Beholde our Sanctuary / our heuyn / our honour is wayted awaye and despyled by the Gentiles. What helpep it us then to lyue? And Natarthias rote his clothes / he and his sonnes / and put sacke cloth vpon them / and mourned very sore.

Then came the men thither wyde were sent of Kyng Antiochus / to compell such as were fled in the cite of Modin / for to do sacrifice / and to burne incense vnto Idols / and to forsake the lawe of God. So / many of the people of Israel consented and enclined vnto them / but Natarthias and his sonnes remayned steadfast. The spake the commissioner of Kyng Antiochus / and saide vnto Natarthias: Thou art a noble man / of hys reputation and greate in this cite / hauinge saye chyldre and busshen. Come thou therfore first / and fulfill the Kynges commaundement / lyke as all the Heythen haue done / see / the men of Iuda / as such as remayne at Jerusalem / so shalt thou and thy chyldre be in the Kynges fauoure / and enriched with gold / syluer and greate rewards.

Kyng. Antiochus / and fall awaye: eueri man shal keppe the lawe of their fathers: though they consent to his commaundement: yet wil I and my sonnes / and my brether / not fall from the lawe of oure fathers. God shal wyte we shoulde: That were not good for vs / that we shoulde forsake the lawe and ordinaunces of God / and to agre vnto the commaundement of Kyng Antiochus. Therfore we will do no such sacrifice / neither breake the statutes of our lawe: / to go another waye. And when he had spoken these wordes there came one of the Jewes / which openly in the syght of all had sacrificed vnto the Idole vpon the altare in the cite of Modin / accordinge to the Kynges commaundement.

When Natarthias sawe this / it grieved him at the hert: so that hys raynes stoffe withall / a big warth kindled for very zeale of the lawe. With that he gaue a skippe forth / and fylled the Jewes besyde the altare: Yee / and stee the Kynges commissioner / that compelled him to do sacrifice / and destroyed the altare at the same tyme: such a zeale had he vnto the lawe of God / Tylke as Phynneas had vnto Zambri / sonne of Salamis. And Natarthias cried with a loud voice thow we be cite / sayinge: Who so is feruent in the lawe / and kepe the conuenuent / let hym folowe me. So he and his sonnes fled into the mountaynes / and left all that euer they had in the cite. Many other godly men also departed into the wilderness with their children / their wyues / and their cattell / and remained there / for the tyranny increased so sore vpon them.

Now when the Kynges seruantes and the host / which was at Jerusalem in the cite of Soud / herde that certayne men had broke the Kynges commaundement / and were gone their waye to the wilderness into secrete places / as that there were many departed there: they followed vpon them / to syght agaynst them in the Sabbath daye / and sayde: Wylle yett rebell: Get you hence / and do the commaundement of Kyng Antiochus / and ye shall lyue. They answered: We wyll not go forth / neyther wylle we do the Kynges commaundement / to despile the Sabbath daye. Then began they to syght agaynst the: neuerthelesse / they gaue them none other answer / neyther cast they one stone at them / nor made fall their piewy places / but sayde: We will see all in oure innocency / heauen and earth shall testifie with vs / that ye put vs to death wrongfully. Thus they fought agaynst them vnto the Sabbath / and slew both men and cattel / their wyues and their chyldren / to the numbre of a thow sande people.

¶ When Machabias and hys frindes herde thys they mourned for the right soie / as sayde one to another: if so be that we all be as our brethren haue done / and fight not for oure lyues and for oure lawes agaynst the Heithen / then shall they so sooner rote vs out of this earth. So they concluded amonge the selves at the same tyme sayyng: What soeuer be that cometh to make battayl with vs upon the Sabbath daye / we will fight agaynst hym / and not be all / as our brethren that were murdred so many yeres. Upon thys came the Synagoge of the Jewes vnto them: stronge men of Israel / all such as were feruent in the lawe. And all that that were fled for persecution / came to helpe them / and to stande by them: In so much that they gathered an host of men / and slew the wicked doers in their grolousy / and the wngodly men in their wrath. Some of the wicked fled vnto the Heithen / and escaped.

Thus Machabias and his frindes wente aboute / and destroyed the altars / and circumsid the chyldren that had not yet receaued the circumcision: as many as they founde within the coastes of Israel / and sallowed mightely vpon the chyldren of pryde / and thys acte prospered in their hades: In so much that they kepte the lawe agaynst the power of the Gentiles / and the Kinges / and gaue not ouer their Dominion vnto wicked doers.

¶ After thys / when the tyme drew naxt / that Machabias shoulde dye / he sayd vnto his sonne: Now is pryde and persecution increased / now is the tyme of destruction and wrathfull displeasure: Wherefore / o my sonnes / be ye feruent in the lawe / and receyde youre lyues for the Testament of the fathers: call to remembrance what actes oure fathers dyd in their tyme / so shall ye receaue greate honour and an everlastinge name.

Remembre: Abrahams: it was not he founde faithfull in tentacion / and it was reueled vnto him for rightcouynesse: * Joseph in tyme of hys trouble kepte the commaundement / and was made a lorde of Egypte. * Dniere was oure father was so feruent for the honoure of God / that he obtyned the commaundement of an everlastinge priesthode. * Josue for fullylling the woide of God / was made the captaine of Israel. * Eleb here receide before the congregation / and receaued an heritage. * Saut also in his mercyfull kynnesse / opayned the thron of an everlastinge kynngdome. * Helio beyng gelous and feruent in the lawe / was taken vp into heauen. * Hananiah / Sancia and Misael remayned stedfast in faith / and were deliuered out of the fyre. In like maner / Daniel beyng vngodly / was saued from the mouth of the Lyons.

And thus ye maye consyde howe our all ages sence the woide beganne / that whoso euer put their trust in the Lord / were not overcome: T fear: nor ye then the woide of an wngodly man: * for his gloie is but vngodly and wngodly: soe ye is he sent vp / and to me: soe is he gone: for he is turned vnto earth / and his memorial is come to naught. Wherefore / o my sonnes / take good hertes vnto you / and requyte youre selves like men in the lawe / for it is ye do the thinges that are commaunded you in the lawe of the Lorde your God: yf ye shall optayne greate honoure thereon.

And beholde: / I knowe that your brother Symon is a man of wysdome: so that ye geue care vnto him alwaye / he shalbe a father vnto you. So for Judas Machabias / he hath bene mighty and stronge from his youth: let him be youre captayne / and obide the battayl of the people: Thus shall ye bringe vnto you all those that sauaire the lawe / and se that ye auenge the wronge of youre people / and recompener the Heithen agayne / as applye youre selves whole to the commaundement of the lawe. So be gaue the his blessinge: and was layed by his fathers: and dyed in the C. xlii. yere at Modin / where his sepulchre was made in his fathers sepulchre: / and all Israel made greate lamentacion for him.

Thus the kinge toke the other parte of the booke / and departed from Antioche (a cite of hys realme) ouer the water of Euphrates / in the hididich and fifth yeare / and wente thowen the hye countreys.

¶ And Lysias chose vnto him Ptolome the sonne of Demetrius / Nicane: and Gorgias a mighty mā / a ffringes frende. These he sent with xl. thousande fore men / a vii. thousande hoisment / for to go into the lande of Iuda / and to destroye it / as the kinge commaunded. So they wente forth with all their power / and came to Emmaus into the playne felde. When the marchantes herde rumoure of them / they a their fringes toke very much iusture a gode / for to bye the children of Israel to be their bodde men. There came vnto them also yett mo men of weare on curre syde / out of Syria and from the Palestines.

¶ Now when Judas and his brethren sawe that trouble increased / a that the heoff grew nye vnto their bodde: consideringe ffringes wordes which he commaunded vnto the people: namely / that they should utterly wast a destroye them: they saide one to another: Let vs redresse the decaye of oure people / let vs fight for oure selfe and for oure Sanctuary. Then the congregation were soone ready gathered to fight to praye and to nicke supplicacion vnto God for mercy and greet.

¶ Mach. 1. b

¶ So for Jerusalem / as laye voyde / a was as it had bene a wylder nesse. There wente no mā in nor out any / and the Sanctuary was troden doune. The alcaites kepte the castell / there was the habitation of the Hethites. The mysh of Jacob was taken awaye / the pype and the harpe was gone from amonge them.

¶ Reg. 1. b

The Misadites gathered them together / a came to Maspha before Jerusalem: for in Maspha was the place / where they prayed afore tyme. So they fasted that daye / and put sackcloth vpon them / cast ashes vpon their heades / rente theyr clothes / and layde forth the booke of the lawe / wherous the Hethiten sought the lyknesse of theyr images / and brought the pictures ornamentes / the syllinges and the Tyth. They set there also the Tabernacle (which had sufficed theyr dayes) before God / and cryed with loud voyce toward heauen sayinge: what shal we do with these? and whysayer shall we carry them awaye?

For the Sanctuary is troden doune and Gelysib / the pictures are come to heauynesse a destructione: a beholde / the Hethiten are come together for to destroye vs. Thou knowest what thinges they ymagin agaynst vs. How maye we stande before them / except thou o God. Be oure helpe.

They blew out the trompettes also with a loud voyce. Then Judas ordeyned / captaynes ouer the people: ouer thousandes / ouer hundredes / ouer fifty and ouer it. But as for such as buylded them houses / married wyfes / and planed them vnyngardes / and those that were fearfull: he commaunded them euery man to go home / accordinge to the lawe. So the Emms hooff remoued / and pryched vpon the South Iude syde of Emmaus.

And Judas sayde: Arme youre selves / be stronge / o my chyldre: make you ready a wannil to moue in the morninge / that ye maye fight with these people / whiche are agreed together to destroye vs and oure Sanctuary. Better is it for vs to dye in battayll / then to see oure people and oure Sanctuary in such a miserable case. / Neuertheless / as the will is in heauen / so be it.

The III. Chapter.

¶ Then toke Gorgias fyve thousande men of Ioffore / and a thousande of the best host: Joseph men: a remoued by nyghte come nye where whilp the Iewes hooff laye / and so to slaye them suddenly: Now the men that kepte the castell / were the conueyers of the. Then arose Judas to smyte the chefe and principall of the kynges hooff at Emmaus / for the army was not yett come to gather. In tyme came Ioffore came Gorgias by nyght into Judas tentes: and when he founde no man there / he soughte them in the mountaynes / and thoughte they had bene fled awaye because of hym. But when it was daye / Judas shewed hym self in the felde with the thousande men onely / which had nyghte battayll harnesse nor sweared to their mindes.

But on the other syde they sawe that the Hebrews were mighty and well harnessed / a their hoisinen aboute them / and all these well experie in scorne of warre. Then saide Judas to the men that were with him: I feare not ye the multitude of them: for I am not afrayed of their valente running: remembre howe oure fathers were deliuered in the read see / when B. Baraae threated them with a greates host.
 I. Euen so let vs also crye nowe towarde heaven: and the Lord shall haue mercy vpon vs / and remembre the conuenants of oure fathers: / and destroye this host before oure face this daye: And all Hebrews shall knowe that it is God him selfe / whiche deliuereth a feuerth Israel.

Then the Hebrews lft vp their eyes: and when they sawe that they were commynge agaynst them: they wente out of their tentes into the battayll: and they that were with Judas: stode vp the trompettes. So they buel-led together: and the Hebrews were viscomfyed / and fled oure the playne felde: but the hymnall of them were slayne. For they folo-wed vpon them vnto Assaremoth / and into the felde of Judeca towarde Bzot a Iamnia: so that there were slayne of them vpon a thre thousand men. So Judas turned as gayne with his host: and sayd vnto the people: Be not gredye of the spoyle / we haue yet a battayll to fyghte: for Gorgias and his hoste are here by vs in the mountaynes / but stande ye fast agaynst oure enemyes: and o-uercome them: then maye ye safely take the spoyle.

As Judas was speakynge these wordes / there appeared one parte of them vpon the mounte. But when Gorgias sawe that they of his parte were fled: and the tentes breake vp: (so by the syncke they mighte vnderstand what was done) they perceayninge this: were very sore afrayed: when they sawe also that Judas and his hoste were in the felde ready to strike battayll: they fled eueri thone into the lande of the Hebrews.

So Judas turned agayne to spoyle the tentes: where they gat muche golde and siluer: precions stones / purple a greates redes.
 Thus they wente home: and songe a Psalm of thankesgyuynge: and playd God in heauen: for he so gracious: and his mercy endureth for euer: And so Israel had a great victory in that daye.

Nowe all the Hebrews that escaped / came and tolde Lysias eueri thynge as it happed.
 Wherefore Lysias was sore afrayed: and greued in his mynde: because Israel had not gotten suche myssfortune as he wolde they shoulde: neither as the kynge commaunded.
 The nexte yere folowynge / gathered Lysias as this score thousande chosen men of force and fyue thousande hoisemen to fyghte a-gaynst them.

So they came into Jemy / and pitched their tentes at Bebeton: where Judas came agaynst them with ten thousande men.
 And when he sawe so great and myghtie an hoste: he made his prayer: and sayde: Blessed be thou O sauesour of Israel: that whiche i. x. viii. g viddest destroye the valente power of the gy-antes: in the hande of thy seruant Dauid: and gauffst the hoste of the Hebrews into the hande of Jonathan: the sonne of Saül: and of his weapen bearer.

But this hoste nowe into the hande of thy people of Israel: and let them be confounde in their multitude and hoisemen. Make them afrayed: and viscomfite the belidnesse of their strengthe: that they maye be moued thorow their destruction. Let all them shalle thorow the swearde of thy louers / then shall all they that knowe thy name: praise the with thankesgyuynge.

So they stroke the battayll: and there were slayne of Lysias hoste: fyue thousande men.
 Then Lysias / kynged the viscomfynge of his men: and the manlynesse of the Jewes:
 howe they were ready: eueri to hys owne syde lyke men. He wente vnto Antioche: and chose out men of warre: that when they were gathered together: they myght come agayne into Jemy. Then sayde Judas and his brothers: beholde / oure enemyes are viscomfyred: let vs nowe go vp / to cleanse a to repaire the Sanctuary.

Vpon this / all the hoste gathered them together: and wente vp vnto mount Syon. i. ii. g. a the shrubbes growinge in the courtes / like as in a wood as vpon mountaynes / yea / and that the priestes Celles were broken downe They renie their clothes / made greate lamentation / caste ashes vpon theys heades / fill downe flat to the groundes / made a greate noyse with the trumpets / and cryed toward heauen.

Then Judas appoynted certayne men to fghte againste those which were in the east till they had cleansed the Sanctuary. So those priestes that were ordysed / suche as had pleasure in the lawe of God / and they cleansed the Sanctuary / and bare out the be-syled stones into an vnclene place. And for so much as the altier of burntofferinges was unhallowed / he toke aduysemente what he myghte do therwith / so he thought it was best to destroye it (I esse / it shoulde happen to do them any shame / for the Hethen had besyled it) and therfore they blast it downe. So for the stones / they layed them vpon the mountayne / by the house in a conuenient place: till there came a prophet to shewe what shoulde be done with them.

f So they toke whole stones accordinge to Exod. xx. d the lawe / and builded a new altier suche one Secu. xvij. a as was before / and made vpon the Sanctuarys Josu. viij. g worship and without / and hallowed the cour-tes. They made new ornaments / a broughte the candlestick / the altier of incence / and the table into the temple. The incence layed they vpon the altier / and lighted 7 lampes which were vpon the candlestick / that they myghte burne in the temple. They set the shewbrade vpon the table / and hanged vpon the vales / and set vpon the temple as it was afore. And vpon the xx. daye of the ii. month (which is called the month Talleu in the E. syde) yea / November they toke vpon theys tymes in the moorninge for to do sacrifice / accordinge to the lawe / vpon the newe burntofferinge altier / that they had made: after the tyme and season that the Hethen had besyled it. The same daye was it set vpon againe / with songes / pipes / harpes / a cymbales.

G And all the people fell vpon theys faces / with byppinge and thankyng the God of heuen / which had geuen them the victorie. q. Par. ch. b So they kepte the Dedication of the altier viij. dayes / offeringe burntofferinges / and thankofferinges with gladnesse. They kepte the temple also with crounce and shyldes of golde / and hallowed the portes and celles / and hanged doies vpon them. Thus was there very greate gladnesse amonge the people / because the blasphemye of the Hethen was put awaye.

So Judas and his brethren with the whole congregacion of Israell / ordeyned that the tyme of the Dedication of the altier shoulde be kepte in his season from yeare to yeare / by the space of viij. dayes / from the xx. daye of the month Talleu: yea / a that with myth and gladnesse.

And at the same tyme builded they vpon the mounte Zion with hye walles and stronge towers round aboute: lest the Gentilles shoulde come and treade it downe / as they had afore.
¶ Therfore Judas set men of warre in it / a kept it / and made it stronge for to defende Bethsura: that the people myghte haue a refuge againste the Edomites.

The. v. Chapter.

Happened also that when the Hethen grounde aboute bethsura / howe that the altier ter and the Sanctuary / were set vpon in they olde estate: it displeasid them very sore / wherefore they thought to destroye the generacion of Jacob that was amonge them: In so much that they beganne to slaye and to persecute certayne of the people. ¶ Then Judas sought againste the dyrbien of Esau in Idumea / a againste those which were at Arababans / a for they dwelte rounde aboute the Israellites.
where he stode and spoyled a great multitude of them. He thoughte also vpon the malice and vnfaithfulness of the dyrbien of Ben / howe they were a snare and stoppe vpon to the people / and howe they layed waite for them in the hye waye / wherefore he spurr them vpon into towres / and came vnto them / addem-ned them / and bent vpon them to way / with all that were in them.

Afterwarde wente he againste the children of Ammon / whereof he founde a myghty power and a greate multitude of people / with Elymothe theys captaynes. So he stroke many Rattayls with them / which were destroyed beside bym. And when he had slayne them / he wanne Gazer the citie / with the rounce belonginge thereto / and returned againe into Jewry. The Seythen also in Galaad garthered them together againste the Israelites that were in theyr quarters / to slaye them: but they fled to the castell of Soterman / and D sent letters vnto Judas and his brethren sayinge: The Seythen are gathered againste vs on euery syde / to destroye vs / and nowe they make them for to come and laye siege to the castell / wherunto we are fled / and Ty-mothe is the captayne of theyr hoste: come therfore: and deliuer vs out of theyr handes / for there is a greate multitude of vs slayne already. Iec / and our brethren that were at Tubin / are slayne and destroyed ( will nye a thousand men) and their wyfes / theyr chy-ldrn and their goodes haue the enemies led awaye captiue.

Whye these letters were yet a readyng / beholde: there came other messengers from Galile / with rmyr clothes: whiche tolde euen the same rydinge / and sayde / that they of Ptolomaus of Tyris and Sydon were garthered againste them / and that all Galile was filled with enemyes to destroye Israel.

When Judas and the people herde this / they came together / a greate congregacion / to theyr / what they myghte do for theyr brethren / that were in trouble and besieged of theyr enemyes. And Judas sayde vnto Symon his brother: chuse the cure certayne men / and go deliuer thy brethren in Galile.
 Do for me and my brother Ionathas / we will go into Galaadithym. So he lefte Josephus the sonne of Zachary and Arias / to be captaynes of the people / and to kepe the remnaunte of the hoste in Jewry / and commanded them / sayinge: Take the ouersight of this people / and se that ye make no warre agaynste the Seythen / vntill the tyme that we come agayne. And vnto Sunon he gaue the thousand men for to go into Galile / thus Judas him selfe had eght thousand into Galaadithym.

Then wente Symon into Galile / and stroke threse battails to the Seythe: whome he vntoformed / and sloumed vpon them vnto to the porte of Ptolomaus. And there were slaine of the Seythen almost iiij. thousande.

So he toke the poyles of them / and carried awaye the Israelites: they were in Gassilie and Arbans: which they wroth their children and all that they had / and brought them into Jewry with greate gladnesse. Judas Machabeus also and his brother Ionathas wente ouer Iordane and trauayled iiij. dayes iourney in the wyldernesse. Where the New busshes mete them / and receued them for vnyngly / and tolde them euery thinge that had happened vnto theyr brethren in Galaad them / and how that many of them were besieged in Borsas / Bosis / Alimia / Casphas / Ma-grib and Carnaim (al these are stronge walle and mighty greate cityes) and that they were kepte in other cities of Galaad also: a to knowe they are appoynted to synge theyr hoste vnto these cities / to take them and to wyne them in one daye.

So Judas and his hoste turned in all the hault in the wyldernesse towards Bosis / and wanne the citie / slawe all the males with the sword: toke al theyr goodes / and set vs vpon the cite. And in the night they toke their iourneye from thence / and came to the castell.
 And by nyghte in the morninge when they toke vp beholde: there was an innumerable people / bearinge labors and other instrumentes of warre / to take the castell and to ouercome them.

When Judas sawe that the battails be-ganne / and that the noyse thereof wrote vp and rane into the heauen / and that there was so greate a crye in the cite: He saide vnto his hoste: syng this daye for youre brethren. And so came behynd their enemyes in the compan-yes / and sturce vp the promptes / and cryed in their prayer to God.

But as soone as Timotheos hoste perceaued that Machabeus was there / they fled frō hym / and the other slawe them vnto righte fowle: so that there were killed of them that same daye / almost eight thousande men. Then departed Judas vnto Masphalaid sig vnto it and wanne it / slawe all the males in it / spoled it / and set fyre vpon it. For because he and toke Casdon / Magrib / Bosis / and the other cities in Galaad.

After this gathered Timothe another hoste / whiche pershed their tentes before Aso & Mac. 2d pon beyonde the water. Judas sent to spye the hoost / and they thought him woide agayne / sayinge: All the heithen that be round about vs / are gathered vnto hym / and the hoost is very great. Yet / they haue heard the Arabians to helpe them / and haue pitched their tentes beyonde the water / and are ready to come and fighte against the. So Judas went on to meete them.

And Timothee sayde vnto the captaynes of his hoost when Judas and his hoost come nge the ryuer: if he go ouer fyfthe / we shall not be able to withstand him: for why / he will be to stronge for vs. But if he darre not come ouer / so that he pitched his tentes beyonde the water: then will we go ouer / for we shall be stronge ynough agaynst him. Nowe as soone as Judas came to the ryuer / he appointed certayne scribes of the people / and commaunded them / sayinge: se that ye leaue none behynde vpon this syde of the ryuer / but let euery man come to the battayll: So he wente fyfthe ouer vnto them / and his people after him.

And all the heithen were discomfyred before him / and let their weapens fall / and ranne into the temple that was at Carnaim. Whiche cite Judas wanne / and diene the temple with all that were in it: So was Carnaim subdued / and mighte not withstande Judas. Then Judas gathered all the Israelites that were in Galadisthim / from the leest vnto the mooste / with theyr wyfes / and theyr children (a very great hoost) for to come into the lande of Juda.

¶ So they came vnto Ephron / whiche was a iuglydlye great and stronge cite / and laye in their waye. For they coulde not go by it / neither of the right hande nor of the lefte / but must go thowre it. Neuertheless / they that were in the cite / wolde not let the go thowre / but walled up the portes with stones. And Judas sent vnto them with peaceable wordes / sayinge: Let vs passe thowre your lande / if we maye go into oure owne countrey: there shall no body do you harme / we wil but onely go thowre. But they wolde not let them in.

Wherfore Judas commaunded a proclamacon to be made thowreout the hoost / that euery man shoulde kepe his ordie: and so they dyd their best lyke valaunt men.

And Judas besyged the cite all that daye and all that nyght / and so wanne it: where they slewe as many as were males / and destroyed the cite / and spoiled it / and wente thowre all the cite ouer the that were slain. Then wente they ouer Jordan into the plain felde before Birsan. And Judas helpep those forward that came behynde / and gaue the people good exortacion all the waye thowre / tyll they were come into the lande of Juda. Thus they wente vp vnto the mounte Syon / where they offered with mery and thanksgyuinge: because there were none of them slayne / but came home agayne peaceably.

Nowe what tyme as Judas and Jonas that were in the lande of Galad / and Simon their brother in Galile before Dolo nays: Then Josephus the sonne of Zachary / and Asarias the captaynes / hearinge of the actes that were done / and of the battaylls that were styfene: sayd: Let vs get vs a name also / and go fighte against the heithen / that are rounde aboute vs.

So they gaue their hoost a commaundement / and went toward Jamnia. Then came Gorgias and his men out of the cite: to fighte agaynst the: Josephus also and Asarias were chaeb vnto the borders of Jermy / and there were slayne that daye of the people of Israd 4. M. men: so that there was a greate misty amonge the people / and all because they were not obedient vnto Judas and his brethren: but thought they shoulde quyre them selues manfully. Neuertheless / they came not of the side of these men / by whome Israd was helpep. But the me that were with Judas / were greatlye commaunded in the sighte of all Israd / and all Syria: wherfore their name was herde vpon / and the people came vnto them byddinge them welcome.

After this wente Judas forth with his brethren / and soughte againste the children of Israhel / in the lande that lyeth towarde the South / where he wanne the cite of Achid: and the rounde that lye besyde it: and as for the walles and towres rounde aboute / he bent them up. Then remoued he to go into the lande of the Philistines / & went thowre

Samaria. At the same tyme were there many grieuous slayne in the battail which wilfully/ and without aduysment wente oute for to fight to gett them honoure. And when Judas came to Jazer in the Philistines lande/ the diable moue they auitare/did the ymagines of their Idols/spoyle the temples/ & came again into the lande of Juda.

The VI. Chapter.

Iudas when kynge Antiochus trauelyed into the partes of the hynde countreys/ he herde that Elimas in Persia was a noble and plentifull cite in siluer and golde/ and that there was in it a very rich temple: where as were dorset/ core amoures/ and shyldes of golde/ which Alexander the sonne of Philippe/ king of Macedonia had lefte beqwyth hym. Wherefore he went about to take it/ cite/ and to spoyle it/ but he was not able: for the citifens were warned of it/ and fought with him. And so he fled/ and departed with greates heauynesse/ and came againe into Babylon. Moreover/ there came one which brought hym rydinges in Persia/ that his hostes which were in the lande of Juda/ were byuen awaye/ and howe that Lysias wente forth with a greate power/ and was byuen awaye of the Jewes: howe they had wonne the victorie/ and gotten greate goodes out of the hostes that perished: howe they had broken yuene/ & abominacion/ which he set vpon the auitare at Jerusalem/ and fenced the Sanctuary with hie walles/ like as it was afore: see/ and Bethsura his cite also.

B So it chaunged/ that when the kynge had herde these wordes/ he was afrayed/ and greued very sore. Wherefore he layed him yuene vpon his bed/ and sell selfe for very sorrowe: and because it had not happened as he had desired. And there continued he longe/ for his greif was cuer more and more/ so that he sawe he must needs dye. Therefore he sente for his frendes/ and sayde vnto them: the sleep is gone from myne eyes/ so: the very sorrowe and vexacion of heric that I haue. for when I consider in my mynde the greate aduersite that I am come vnto/ and the floudes of beaues which I am in/ where as afore tyme/ I was so merry/ and so greatly set by/ by reason of my power. Againe/ consideringe the euell that I haue done at Jerusalem/ where I toke all the rynges of golde and siluer that were in it/ and sent to scith awaye the inhabiours of Jewry without any reason/ why? I knowe that these troubles are come vpon me for the same cause. And behold/ I muste dye with greates sorrowe in a straunge lande.

Then called he for one Philippe a frende of his/ whom he made ruler of all his realmes/ and gaue him the crowne/ his robe and his ringes: that he shoulde take his sonne Antiochus vnto him/ and bringe him vp/ till he might raigne him selfe. So the kynge Antiochus dyed there in the C. xliij. year. When Lysias knewe that the kynge was dead/ he ordeyned Antiochus his sonne/ whom he had broughte vp/ to raigne in his fathers steade/ and called hym Eupator. Howe they that were in the castell at Jerusalem/ kepte in the Jewes rounde aboute the Sanctuary/ a foughte cuer still to do them harme/ for the strengtheninge of the Hebreus.

Wherefore Judas thought to destroye the/ and called all the people together/ that they might laye siege vnto them. So they came together in the clayere/ and besiged them/ laye siege forth their ordinaunce and instrumentes of warre. Then certayne of them that were besiged/ wente forth vnto whom some godly men of Israel ioyned them selfes also/ and wente vnto the kynge/ sayinge: Howe longe will it be/ as thou punishest and auenge our brethren: We haue bene cuer minded to do thy father seruice/ to walke in his statutes/ and to obey his commaundementes: Therefore oure people sel from vs/ and wherofeuer they founde any of vs/ they sleue the: and they haue not onely maled will vs/ but with all oure countreys: and behold/ this daye are they besigginge the castell at Jerusalem/ and haue made vp the strange holden in Bethsura: And if thou dost not prauente the right soone/ they will do more then thes/ as thou shalt not be able to ouercome them.

When the kynge herde this/ he was very angrye/ and called all his frendes/ the captaynes of his fore men/ and of all his hostemen together. He byed men of warre also out of other realmes/ and out of the Isles of the see/ which came vnto him. And the numbre of his hooste was an hundred thousande fore men/and twentie thousande hoisemen/and xxxij.

Elephanes/ well exercised to Battayll. These came thowre: Idumea vnto Bethsura/and beseged it a longe season/ and made dyuers instruments of warre againste it. But the Ierues came oute and shente them/ and foughte lyfe. Then departed Judas from the castell at Jerusalem/ and remoued the hoost towarde Bethsacaran ouer againste the Kynge armye.

So the Kinge arose before the daye/ and thoughte the power of his hoost into the way to Bethsacaran/ where the hoostes made the to the heauel/ blowinge the trompettes. And to prouide the Elephanes for to fyghe/ they shewed them the fapce of reade grapes/ and molberries. And when the Elephanes amonge the hoostes/ that by euery Elephante there shode a M. men wel harnessid/ and helmettes of stele vpon their heades: Yee vnto euery one of the Elephanes also/ were adde of Elephanes/ goinge wher soeuer he wente/and departed not from him. Euery Elephat was couered with a stronge tower of wood/where vpon were xxxij. valiant men with weapons to fyghe/ and therein it was a man of Iude to rule the best.

As for the remanent of the hoisemen/ he set them vpo both the sydes in two partes with trompettes/ to prouide the hoost/ and to ster vp such as were slowe in the armye. And when the Sunne shone vpo their shylde of golde and stele/ the mountaines glistered again at them/ and were as bright as the cress shetes of fyre. The Kinges hoost also was de-uided/ one parte vpo the highe mountaines/the other lowe beneth: so they wente on/ trasinge good boode/ and keepinge their ordie. And al they that dwelt in the lande/ were afrayed at the noise of thers hooste/ when the multir mde wente forthe/ and when the weapons snooted together/ for the hoost was both greate and myghty. Judas also and his hoost entered into the Battail/ and slewed v. l. men of the Kynge armye.

Nowe when Eleasar the sonne of Sura/and sonne of the Elephanes deckte with the Kynge badge/ and was a moxe goodlye best then the other: He thoughte the Kynge shoude be vpon him/ and iscepered him selfe to deliuer his people/ and to gett him a perpe-tall name.

Wherfor he ranne with a courage vnto the Elephante in the myddell of the hooste/ syn-ginge them vnto of both the sydes/ and slew many aboute him. So wente he to the Elephanes feet/ and gat him vnder him/ and slew him: then fell the Elephante vnto vpon him/ and there he dyed. Judas also and his men/ seinge the power of the Kynge and the myghty violence of his hoost/ departed fro them. And the Kynge armye went vp againste them towarde Jerusalem/ and pitched they tences in Ieruzselys mounte Zion. Mo-reouer/ the Kynge toke truce with them/ that were in Bethsura.

But when they came out of the cite (C. xij.) cause they had no vittales within/ and the lande laye vntylled/ the Kynge toke Bethsura/ and set men to kepe it/ and turned his hoost to the place of the Sanctuary/ and layed sege to it a greate whyle. Where he made all manner ordynance: handbowes/ syny barres/rackettes to cast stones/ scopyons to shute arrows/ and syngees. The Ierues also made ordynance againste theirs/ and foughte longe season.

But in the cite there were no vittales/ so it was the seuenth yere of the warres/ and those Ieruben that remained in Ieruzselys had eate vp al their store. And in the Sanctuary were fewe men left/ for the hunger came vs vpon them/ that they were fatered aboode euery man to his owne place.

So when Lysias herde that Philipe T. whome Annotus the Kinge while he was yet young/ had ordeined to synge vpo Annus his sonne/ that he mighte be Kinge: was come againe out of Persia and Media with the Kynge hoost/ and thoughte to optayne the Kingdome: He gat him to the Kynge in all the bayll/ and the captaynes of the hoost/ and sayde: We decreace daylye/ and oure vittales are but small: Agayne/ the place that we laye sege vnto/ is very stronge/ and it were oure parte to seke the realme. Let vs agree with these men/ and take truce with them/and with all their people/ and graunte them too hie after their lawe / as they byd as-fore: they be greued/and do all these thin-ges against vs / because we haue bespised their lawe. So the king and the princes were content/and sent into them to make peace/and they receiued it. Nowe when the kynge and the princes had made an oath vnto the/they came oute of the castell / and the kynge wente vp to mount Sion. But when he saw that the place was well fenced / he diake the oorb that he had made/ and commaunded to bestrope the wall rounde aboute. Then he parted be in all the haile/ and returned vnto Antioche / where he founde Phylippe hauinge Dominion of the city. So he foughte agaynst hym/ and toke the cytie agayne into his handes.

The .VII. Chapter.

After the C. li. yeare came Demetrius the 14 Sonne of Seleucus fro the cytie of Rome with a small company of men/ vnto a cytie of the see coast/ and there he bare rule. And it chanced/ that when he came to Antioche the cite of his progenitors/ his hoste toke Annochus / and Lysias / to bringe them vnto hym. But when it was tolde hym/ he saide: let me not see thys face. So the hoste put them to death. Nowe when Demetrius was set vpon the throne of his kyngedome/there came vnto him wicked / and vngodlye men of Israel: whose captain was Alcimus/that wolde haue bene made hye prieste.
 These men accused the people of Israel vnto the kynge / sayinge: Judas and his brethren haue slayne thy seedes/ and theye vs oure oure owne lande. Wherefore sende nowe some man / to whom thou trustest credence / that he maye goe and see all the destruction/which he hath done vnto vs and ro y kynges land/ and let hym be punished with al his fre-15 des and sauourers.

Then the kynge chose Barchides a frende of hye/ which was a man of greate power in the realme (beyond the greate water) and faithfull vnto the kynge: and sent hym to se the destruction that Judas had done. And so for that wicked Alcimus / he made hym byrde: Dues/ and commaunded hym to be a iudged of the chiefe of Israel. So they rode vp/ and came with a greate hoste into the lande of Iudas/ sending missengers to Iudas and his brethren/ and speakinge vnto the wyth peaceable wordes: But vnder becaie.

 1 Therfore Judas and his people beleeued not
 i. Mar. 1. d theyr sayinge / for they sawe that they were come with a greate hoste.

After this came the scribes together vnto Alcimus a Backbiter/ trustinge the best vnto them. And first the Shirenes required peace of them/ sayinge: Alcimus the Dues is come of the side of Aaron/ how can he becaie vs?
 So they gaue them lounge wordes / and swore vnto them/ and saide: we will do you no harme/ neither your frendes: and they be-leued them. But the very same daye toke they
 i. men of them / and slew them: according to the wordes that are writen: They haue cast the flesh of the sainetes/ and shed their bloude rounde aboute Ierusalem/ and there was no man that wolde burye them.

So there came a greate feare/ and diede a 16 Emonge the people / sayinge: there is neither truth nor righteousnesse in the/ for they haue broken the appointment and oath that they made. And Barchides remoued his hoste fro Ierusalem/ and pitched his tente at Bethzaida: where he sent forth / and toke many of them that had forsaken hym: He slew many of the people also/ and cast them into a greate pye. Then he committed the lande vnto Alci-mus / and lesse men of warre with hym to helpe him/ and Barchides him selfe wente vnto the kynge. And thus Alcimus defendid his byrde with thys waye/ and al such as repud Ierusalem/ restored vnto him: In so much that they occupied the lande of Iudas/ and did much euill vnto the Israelites.

Nowe when Judas saw al the mischief that Alcimus and his company had done / (yete more then the Scithen them selfe) vnto the Israelites: He wente forth rounde aboute all the borders of Iewry/ and punished those unfaithfull renegates so that they came none oute into the countrey. So when Alcimus sawe that Judas and his people had gotten the upper hande/ and that he was not able to abyde them / he wente agayne to the kynge/and saide all the woill of them that he coulde.

 his chiefe prynces (whiche bare euill will unto Israel and commaunded him / that he should vntrely destroye the people.

So Nicanor came to Jerusalem with a great host / and sente vnto Judas and his brethren with frendly wordes / But vnder deceite sayinge: there shalbe no warre betwixt me and you: I will come with a few men / to se how ye do with frendly hope. Upon this he came vnto Judas / and they saluted one another peaceably: but the enemies were appointed to take Judas by violence. Neuertheless it was tolde Judas / that he came vnto hym but vnder deceite: wherefore he gat hym awaye from hym / and wolde se bys face no more. Wher Nicanor perceaued that his counsayl was betwrayed / he went out to fyghte agaynst Judas besyde Capharsalama: Where there were slayne of Nicanors host. v. M. m. lxx. the residue fled vnto the castel of David.

After this came Nicanor vp vnto mounte Syon: and the Priestes with the elders of the people went forth to salute hym peaceably / as to shewe him the burnt sacrifices that were offered for the sinne. But he laughed them to scorn / moeued them / despyed their offerings and spake vnto them by / see / and swore in his wrath sayinge: If Judas and his hoste be not deliuered no we into my handes / as one as euer I come againe (and fare well) I shal burne vp this house. With that wente he out in a great anger. The priestes came in / and stode besyde the altier of the temple / weeping and sayinge: How so much as thou shalt haue chosen this house / that thy name might be called vpon therein / and that it shoulde be an house of prayer and penitenc vnto thy people: Be auenged of this man a his hoste / and let them be slayne with the sword: remember the blasphemies of them / and suffer them not to continue any longer.

When Nicanor was gone from Jerusalem / he pitched his tente at Berboon / and there an doct met him oute of Syria. And Judas came to Dabars with iii. M. m. and made his prayer vnto God / sayinge: O Lord

Es xxxij. f. d. because the messengers of kinge Serus. m. x. d. nacherb blasphemed the / the angell wente and xv. d. fourth / and slawe an. C. lxx. thousande of the. m. j. c. f. g. Euen so destroye thou this hoste before vs / so theye that other people maye knowe / howe that he hath blasphemed thy Sanctuarie: and punishe him / accordinge to his malicioynesse.

And so the hostes stroke the felde / the thirtieth daye of the month Adar: and Nicanors host was vnto the daye / and he him selfe was first slaine in the barrail: When Nicanors men of warre sawe that he was kylled / theye call awaye their weapons and fled: but the Jewes followed vpon them an whole dayes iourney / from Dabzar vnto Gagara / blowinge with the trompettes / and makinge tokens after them. So the Jewes came forth of all the countes there aboute / and blewe out theyr hoines vpon them / and turned agaynst them: Thus were they all slayne / and not one of them left.

Then they toke their substaunce for a pray / and smote of Nicanors head / and his right hande / whiche he helde vp so proudly: And it was brought in with them / and hanged it vp after Jerusalem. Wherefore the people were exceedingly reioyced / and passed ouer that daye in great gladnesse. And Judas ordeyned that the same daye (namely the xij. daye of the month Adar) shoulde be kepte in mirth euery yeare. Thus the lande of Juda was in rest a litle whyle.

The. VIII. Chapter.

Judas heerde also the fame of the Romanes / that they were myghty and valiant men / agreeable to all thinges that are requyred of them / and make peace withall men / which come vnto them / and howe they were boughty men of strengthe. Besyde that it was tolde him of their battails / and noble actes whiche theye dyd in Galacia / howe they had conquered them / and thought them vnder tribute: and what great thinges they had done in Spayne / howe that with their wyfedom / and sober behauiour they had wonne the Mines of siluer and golde that are there / and prayned all the lande / with other places farre from them: howe they had vnto the daye / and slayne Doune the Kinges that came vpon them from the uttermost parte of the earth / and howe other people gaue them tribute euery yeare: Howe they had slayne and ouercome Dhillipe and the Perses / the Kinge of Ethiopia / and other moe in barrail / whiche had brought their ordinance agaynst them: how they destroyed greare Antiochus kinge of Asia (that wolded neede fyght with them) hauyng an hundred a y<sup>r</sup>. Elephanes/ with his souldiers/ charrettes/ and a very greate host: how they rote him selfe / and obeyned him (with such as shoulde raygne after him) to paye them a greate tribute / y<sup>e</sup> / and to fynde them good surteyes and pledge: Besydes all this / how they had taken from hym India / Arabia and Lydia (hys best landes) and geuen them to kynge Eumenus Againe: B how they perceauyng that the Grekes were commyng to vex them / sent agaynst them a captaine of an host which gaue them battayll / slawe many of them / led awaye their wyfe and child captiue / spoiled them / rote possession of their lande / destroyed their strong holdes / and subdued the to their bonde men vnto this daye: Moreover / how that as for other Kingdomes and Isles / which somtyme withstode them they destroyed them / and brought them vnder their dominion: But helped euer their owne frendes / and those that were confederate with them / and conquered Kingdomes / both farre and nye: and that whosoever herde of their renowne / was afrayed of them: for whome they wold helpe to their Kingdomes / those rayged / and whome it lysted not them to raygne / they put hym doune: And how they were come to greate preeminence: hauyng no kynge amonge them / neyther any man clothed in purple / so be magnified their honour: but had obeyned the selfe a court / wherein there sat iij. C. and xx. Senators daily upon the counsaill / to dispatch euer the busynesse of the people / to kepe good order: And how t every yere they chose a Mayre / to haue the gouernance of all their lande: to whome eury man was obedient / and that there was neyther euill will nor dissencion amonge them.

E Then Judas had Eupolemus the sonne of Thon / the sonne of Jacob and Jason / the sonne of Eleazar / and sent them vnto Rome for to make frendshyppe / and a bonde of loue with them: that they mighte take from the bondage of the Grekes / for the Jewes sawe that the Grekes wold subdue the Kingdome of Israel. So they wente vnto Rome (a very great journey) and came into the court / and sayde: Judas Maccabeus wish his brethren / a the people of the Jewes haue sent vs vnto you / to make a bonde of frendshyppe and peace with you / and ye to note vs as youre louers and frendes. And the matter pleased the Romaynes ryght wel / wherefore it was wyrtten vpon the which the Romaynes made a wytyng in tables of slat / and sent it to Jerusalem: that they myght haue by them a memorial of the same peace and bonde of frendshyppe / after this maner: God saue the Romaynes / and the people of the Jewes both by see and by lande / and kepe the forward and cunity from the for euermore. If there come first any warre vpon the Romaynes / or any of their frendes / whosoever at their dominion / the people of the Jewes shall helpe them / as the ryme requyret / and that with all their heretes. Also they shall neyther geue nei sende vnto their enemies viayles / weapons / monye / nor shyppes: but fullyl they charge at the Romaynes pleasure / and take nothyng from them therefore. Agayne / if the people of the Jewes happen first to haue warre / the Romaynes shall stonde with the with a good will / accordinge as the ryme will suffice. Neither shall they geue vnto the Jewes encynyes / viayles / weapons / monye / nor shippes. Thys are the Romaynes consent to / so / and shall fullyl their charge with out any decaie.

Accordinge to these articles / the Romaynes made the bonde with the Jewes. Now after these articles / sayde they / if any of the partyes will put to them / or take any thyng from the / they shall do it with the consente of both: and whatsoeuer they adde then vnto them / or take from them / it shall stand fast. And as touching that Demetrius hath done vnto the Jewes / we haue wyrtten vnto hym / sayinge: Wherefore layest thou thy heauy yoke vpon the Jewes our frendes / a louers: If they make any complainte of the agayne vnto we shall defende them / and fyght with the by see and by lande.

The IX. Chapter.

Sill the meane season when Demetrius departed that / Hieron and his host was i. Ma. vii. f. slayne in the fildes / he proceded further to sende Josephus. Bathydes and Trymyn againe into Jewry / to the lib. vii. f.

and those that were in the right wyng of his host with them. So they wente forth by the way that ledeth vnto Galsala / and pitched their tentes before Melosoth which is in Tribellus / and wanne the cite / and slawe much people. In the first moneth of the Elif. yeare / they brought their host to Ierusalem / a rose vp / and came to Berea with xx. M. foire men / and 4 M. hostmen.

Nowe Judas had pitched his tente at Laifa / there thousande chosen men. And when they sawe the multitude of the other army / it was so greates / they were sore afrayed / a many conueyed them selfe out of the host. In so much that there abode no mo of them but viij. C. men. When Judas sawe that his host fayled him / a that he must needs fyghe / it brake his herte / that he had no tyme to gather them together / wherefore the mā was in extreme trouble. Wherefore he sayde vnto them that remained with him. Vp / let vs go agaynst oure enemies / peraduenture we shall be able to fyght with them. But they wolde haue stopped him / sayinge we shall not be able / therefore let vs nowe saue oure lyues / and turne agayne to our brethren / and then wil we fyght agaynst them / for we are here but fewe. And Judas sayde: God forbid / that we should fle from them. Wherefore / our tyme be cometh vs byc manfully for oure brethren / and let vs not shewe oure honoure. Then the host remoued out of the tentes / and stode agaynst them. The host was deuided in two partes: slyng casters and the archers wente before the host / and all the myghty men were foremost in the fide. Bathydes him self was in the right wyng of the battayll / and the host there nye in two partes / a blew the trompettes. They of Judas fide blew the trompettes also / and the earth shoke at the noise of the hostes / and they stroke a fide from the morow tyll nyght. And when Judas sawe that Bathydes host was strongest of the right fide / he toke with him all the hardymen / and brake the right wyng of their order / and folowed vpon them vnto the mounte Zor.

Now when they which were of the lefte wyng / sawe that the right fide was overcome / they persecuted Judas and them that were with him. Then was there a sore battail / for many were slayne and wounded of both the partes / Judas also him self was killed / and the remnant fled. So Jonathan and Symon toke Judas their brother / and buried him in his fathers sepulche in the cite of Modyn. And all the people of Israel made greates lamentacion for him / and mourned long / sayinge: Alas / that this worthy shoulde be slayne / which deliuered the people of Israel. As for other thinges pertaininge to the battayll / of Judas the noble actes that he dyd / and of his worthynesse / they are not written / for they were very many.

And after the deathe of Judas / wicked men came vp in all the coastes of Israel / and there arose all such as would vngodlynesse. In these dayes was there a greates warre in the lande / and all the countie gaue ouer them selfe and theirs vnto Bathydes. So Bathydes doke with them / and made the lode in the lde. These sought our and made search for Judas frendes / and brought them vnto Bathydes: which auenged him self vpon them with greates vespere. And there came fo greates trouble in Israel / as was not since that tyme that no prophet was sent there.

Then came all Judas frendes together / and sayde vnto Jonathan: for so much as thy brother Judas is dead / there is none lyke him to go forth agaynst oure enemies / agaynst Bathydes / and such as are aduersaryes vnto our people. Wherefore this daye we doke the for him / to be oure prince and captaine to eddie our battayll. And Jonathan toke the gouernance vpon him at the same tyme / and ruled in leade of his brother Judas. When Bathydes gat knowlege therof / he sought for to slaye him: But Jonathan and Symon his brother / preuailing that / fled into the wilderness of Checua with all their company / and pitched their tentes by the water pale of Ziphar.

Which tyme Bathydes vnderstode / he came our Iordane with all his host vpon the Sebdath Daye. Now had Jonathan sent his brother Thon / a captaine of the people / to paye his frendes of the Nabuthites / that they wolde lende the theyr ordinaunce / for they had much. So the chyliden of Tamby came out of Madaba / and toke Thon / and all that he had / and wente mentes of warre/and sought against Bathydes/and vschewed him. And Bathydes was sore vexed / because his counsayll and nauayle was in payne. Wherefore he was woth at the wicked men/that gaue him counsayll to come into their lande/and slawe many of the. Then purposed he with his company to go awaye into his owne countrie: whereof when Jonathan had knowlege/ he sent Ambassadors vnto him/ for to make peace with him / as that he shoulde vschew him his prisoners agayne. To the which Bathydes consented gladly/ as theyd accordinge to his best desire/ and made an oorb that he should neuer do him harine all 7 dayes of his lyfe. So he returned vnto him all the prisoners that he had taken out of the lande of Iuda / and then turned and wente his waye into his owne lande/ neither proceeded he any further to come vnto the borders of Iuda. Thus Israel had no more warre. And Jonathan dwelt at Madmas / and beganne there to gouerne the people / and destroyed the vngodly men out of Israel.

The X. Chapter.

In the hundredth lx. yere came Alexander the sonne of noble Anthonus / and roke Ptolomais / whose cytyfyns receaued him / as there he raygned. When Demetrius herde thereof / he gathered an exceedinge greate hoost / and wente forth against him to fight. Wherefore Demetrius sent letters vnto Jonathan with louinge wordes / and prayed him greatly. So he sayde: we will first make pece with him/ before he binde him self with Alexander against vs: as he shall remember the euill that we haue done against him / his brother and his people. And so he gaue Jonathan leue to gather an hoost/ to make weapens/ and to be confederate with him/ and commaunded the pledges that were in the castell / to be released vnto him.

Then came Jonathan to Jerusalem / and red the letters in the audience of all the people / and of them that were in the castell. And therefore were they sore afraied/ because they herde that the kynge had given hym licence to gather an hoost. Thus were the pledges released vnto Jonathan / which restored them to their elders. Jonathan also dwelt at Jerusalem / and beganne to buyde vp / and to repayre the cite: commaunding the wofle men to build it / and the mount Syon rounde aboute with fre stone/ to be a stronge hold/ and so they byde. So for the Hebrewen that were in the castles which Bathydes had made vp/ they fled: so that euery man left the place/ and wente into his owne countrie. Onely at Bethsura remained certayne of the Jewes/ which had forsaken the lawe/ and commaunders of God/ for Bethsura was their refuge.

Now when kynge Alexander herde of the promyses that Demetrius had made vnto Jonathan / and when it was tolde him of his bayntayle and noble actes / which he and his brother had done/ and of the great nauayles that they had taken: he sayde: where shall we fynde such a man/ well/ we will make him oure frende/ and be confederate with him. Upon this he wrote a lettre vnto him with these wordes: Kynge Alexander salueth his brother Jonathan. We haue herde of the / that thou art a valaunt man/ and meete to be our frend/ wherefore this daye we ordeyne the to be the bythe guest of thy people/ and to be called the kynge frende. Upon this he sente him a purple clothyng and a crowne of gold/ that thou mayest confyde what is for oure profyt / a fere frende byppe towarde vs.

So in the viij. moneth of the C. lx. yere vpon 7 solemn feast daye of the tabernacles/ Jonathan put the holy raiment vpon him. Then gathered he an hoost / and made many weapens. Which when Demetrius herde/ he was maruailous sore/ and sayde: Alas / what haue we done/ that Alexander hath presented vs in gettinge the frend byppe of the Jewes/ for his owne bekenne? Yet will I wretchelyngly vnto the also / yee / and promysethen dignities and rewardes / that they maye be of my syde. Whereupon he wrote vnto the these wordes: Kynge Demetrius sendeth greeninge vnto the people of the Jewes. Where as ye haue kepte youre education towards vs / and continued vs oure frendshippe/ notwithstandinge to oure enemics/ we were glad wofle we herde thereof. Wherefore remaine still and be faithfull to vs/ and we shal well recompence you for the thynges that ye haue done on oure partye: we shal relece you of many charges/ and give you rewardes.

Josephus
ca. ii. lib.
f. 4.

And now I discharge you/and all the Jewes from tributes / I forgue you the customes of sale/and releafe you of the croune taxes of the thirde parte of sheke / and half of the sheke of shekes / which to myne owne duty.
 ¶ These I leaue for you from thys daye forth: so that they shall not be taken of the lande of Judah/ nor of the other cities which are added therunto/ out of Samaria and Galile: from thys daye forth for euermore. Jerusalem also with all thinges belonginge thereto / shalbe holye / free / yet the rybes and tributes shall pertaine vnto it. As for the power of the castell which is at Jerusalem/ I remitte a geue it vnto the hygge priest/ that he maye set in it such men as he shall chuse to kepe it. I freely deliuer all the Jewes that are prisoners/ howe ouer all my realme: so that euery one of them shalbe free from payinge any tribute / yet / euen of thesee ead.

All the solempne feastes / Sabbathes / Leciuones / the dayes appoynted / the thre dayes before and after the feastes shalbe free for all the Jewes in my realme: so that in them no man shall haue power to do any thinge/ or to moue any busynesse against any of them in any maner of cause. There shall xxx. M. also of the Jewes be wyrtyn up in the Kinges booke/ and haue theyr wages payed/ as all other men of warre of Kinges shoulde haue: and of them shalbe ordeyned certayne to kepe the Kinges strong holdes / yet / and some of them shalbe set ouer the Kinges busynesse/ that they maye faithfullye deale with the same. The Jewes also shall haue priuies of theyr owne/ and walke in theyr owne lawes / as the Kinge hath commaunded in the lande of Iuda.

And the thre cities that are fallen vnto Jewry from the countie of Samaria and Galile/ shalbe taken as Jewry / and be vnder oncemyther be subiecte to any straunge laide/ but to the hygge priest. As for Ptolomay and the lande pertaininge thereto. I geue it vnto the Sanctuary at Jerusalem/ for the necessarye expences of the holye thinges. Nowe uer / I will geue euery yeare xv. M. Syckles of siluer out of the Kinges cheeke ( which pertaineth vnto me ) to the worke of the temple: yet sende lare what remapnerth / which they that had oure matters in hande in tymes pass haue not payed) that same shall they geue vnto them also. And byrdes all thys/ the v. M. Syckles which they are yearly of the rentes of the Sanctuary / shall belonge vnto the priests that so serue.

Item / whosoeuer they be that stepe vnto the temple at Jerusalem / or within the liberties thereof / where as they are fallen into the Kinges hande / for any maner of busynesse / they shalbe pardoned/ and all the goodes that they haue in my realme / shalbe free. For the buydinge also and repayinge of the worke of the Sanctuary / expences shalbe geuen out of the Kinges Cheeke: yet / and for the makinge of the walles rounde aboute Jerusalem / for the breakyng downe of the olde / and for the settinge vp of the strong holdes in Jewry / that the colles and charges be geue out of the Kinges Cheeke.

¶ But when Jonathan / a the people herde i. Ma. 10. 6 these wordes / they gaue no credence vnto they / neyther receaued them: for they remembred the greate wickednesse that he had done vnto Israell / and howe sore he had vexed the. Where fore they agreed vnto Alexander / for he was a prynce that had beate frendly with them / and so they stode by him alwaye. Then gathered kynge Alexander a greate hoost / and broughte by a rinye agaynst Demetrius. So the two Kinges stroke battall together / but Demetrius hoost fled / and Alexander followed after / and fell vpon them. A myghtye fore felde was it / continuinge till the Sunne wente downe / and Demetrius was slayne the same daye.

And Alexander sente Ambassadors vnto Ptolome the kynge of Egyppe with these wordes / sayinge: for so much as I am come agayne to my realme / and am set in the throne of my progenitours / and haue gotten the Dominion ouer come Demetrius / conquered the lande / and streken a felde with hym / so that we haue discomfsted both him and his hoost / and set in the throne of bys Kingdome. Let us now make frendshyppe together / geaue me thy daughter to wyfe: so shall I be the sonne in lawe / and both geue the rewardes / and beere greate dignite. Ptolome the kynge gaue answere / sayinge: Happy be the daye wherein thou art come agayne to the lande of thy progenitours / and set in the throne of theyr Kinge home. And now will I fulfill thy wynnings: but mete me at Ptolomays / that we may see one another: that I may marry my daughter unto the according to thy desire. So Ptolome wente out of Egypt with hys daughter Cleopatra / and came unto Ptolomays in the C. lxxij. yeare: where kynge Alexander met hym / & gaue Alexander hys daughter Cleopatra / and married them at Ptolomays with great wealth: lyke as the manner of kynnges is to be.

Then wente kynge Alexander onto Jonathas: that he shoulde come and mete hym. So he wente honorably unto Ptolomays / and there he met the two kynnges / and gaue them great presentes of golde and siluer: a founte

G sauioure in theyr syde. And there came together against Jonathas certayne wicked men / and vngenerous prynces of Israel / makinge complayntes of hym / but the kynge regarded them not. As for Jonathas / the kynge commaunded to take of his garments / and to clothe hym in purple: and so they dyd. Then the kynge appointed hym to sit by him / and sayde unto hys prynces: Go with him into the myddest of the cite: and make a proclamacon: that no man complayne against him of any matter / and that no man trouble him for any manner of cause.

So it happened that when his accusers sawe f worthyppe / which was proclaymed of him: and that he was clothed in purple / they fled eury where. And the kynge made much of him / wrote him amonge his chiefe frendes / made him a Duke / and partaker of his Dominion. Thus Jonathas wente agayne to Jerusalem with peace and gladnesse. In the C. lxxij. yeare came Demetrius the sonne of Demetrius from Creta into his fathers lande: wherof when Alexander herde tell / he was ryght soyl: and returned unto Annoche. And Demetrius chose T Appollonius ( which had the gouernance of Elefryia ) to be hys captayne.

So he gathered a greate hoost / and came unto Iamnia / and sente worde unto Jonathas th: by ghe post / sayinge: Darrest thou with stande vs thy self alone: As for me / I am but laughed to come and stamed / because thou prouidest thy strength agaynst vs in the mountaynes. Now therfore if thou trustest in thine owne strength / come vnto me to see the playne felde / and there let vs prouide our strength together: thou shalt fynde that I haue valcaunt me of warre with me: and shalt know who I am / and the other that stande by me: which saye / that youre force is not able to stande before oure face / for thy fathers haue bene wyllyng to geue us their owne lande. And now / how wilt thou be able to abyde so greate an hoost of boismen and foremen in the fildes: where as is neyther rocke / stone / nor place to flye vnto.

When Jonathas herde the wordes of Appollonius / he was moued in his mynde: wherfore he chose x. thousand men / and wente out of Jerusalem / and Symon hys brother met hym: for to helpe hym: And they pitched theyr tentes at Joppa: but the cite kepte hym forth: for Joppa was an holde of Appollonius. Then Jonathas layed siege to it / and they that were in the cite / for very feare let hym in: and so Jonathas wanne Joppa. Appollonius heard of this / toke xij. thousand boismen / with a greate hoost of fore men / and wente as though he wolde go to Azorus / and came immediately into the playne felde: because he had so many boismen / and put hys trust in them. So Jonathas followed vpon hym to Azorus / and there they stroke the battayll: Now had Appollonius left a M. boismen behynde them pryncely in the tentes. And when Jonathas knew that such waye was layed behynde the / they wente rounde about the enemies hoost / and shot darre at the people from the mountaynes to the eurning. As for Jonathas people / they kepte theyr ordie as he had commaunded them / and the enemies boismen were cut labouringe.

Then brought Symon forth his hoost / and set them agaynst the fore men. For the boismen were weery already. So he discomfited them / and they fled. And they that were feared in the felde / gaue them to Azorus / and came into the temple of Wagon theyr Idol: that they might there saue theyr lyues. But Jonathas set fire vpon Azorus / and all the cities rounde aboute it / and toke their goodes / and bent up the temple of Wagon with all them that were fled into it.

Thus were slayne and viuent wel nye viij. thousand men. So Jonathan reioyced the hooll from thence/and brought them to Astaion: where the men of the cite came forth/and met hym with greate wooshyppes. After this wente Jonathan and hys hoost agayne to Ierusalem/with greate substaunce of good. And when king Alexander herde these thinges/ he thought to do Jonathan more wooshyppes / & sent hym a vntow of golde / as the vse is to be given vnto such as are of the kinges neste bloude. He gaue hym also the cite of Accaron (with the landes belonginge thereto) in possession.

The XI. Chapter.

AND the king of Egypte gathered an host of <sup>thous</sup>thysande men: like the sande that lyeth upon the seashore / and many shippes: and wente aboute thowt weccate to oportunitye the Kingdome of Alexander/ and to ioynen vnto hys owne realme. Upon this he toke hys iourneye into Syria/and was taken into the citie / and made came forth to meete hym / for kinge Alexander had commaunded them so to do / because he was hys father in lawe. Now when Ptolome entered into any cite / he leste men of warre to kepe it / and thus he byd thowout all the citines. And when he came to Thorus / they shewed hym the temple of Sagon and Thorus wher that was beuist up / with the other thinges which were destroyed / the dead bodies cast awaie / and the graues that they had made by the waye syde / so such as were slayne in the self: And tolde the kinge that Jonathan had done all these thinges / so the met they might get hym euill will. But the kyng sayde not a worde thereto.

And Jonathan met the kyng with greate honoure at Joppa / where they saluted one another / and roke they rest. So when Jonathan had gone with the kyng / vnto the water that was called Eleutherus / he turned agayne to Ierusalem. Now Ptolome had gotten the Dominion of the citie vnto Selencia vpon the seacoast / ymagininge wised counsails agaynst Alexander / and sent Ambassadors vnto Demetrius / sayinge: Come let vs make a bande betwixt vs / so shall I geue the my daughter that Alexander hath / and thou shalt reigne in thy fathers Kingdome. I repente that I gaue Alexander my daughter / for he goeth about to slayne me. And thus he slayned Alexander / because he wolde haue had hys realme.

Thus he toke hys daughter from him / gaue her vnto Demetrius / and soke Alexander / so that hys malice was openly known. And Ptolome came to Triuoch / where he set two crowncs vpon hys owne head: the crowne of Egypte and of Asia. In this meane season was kinge Alexander in Cilicia / for they that dwelt in those places / had rebelled agaynst him. But when Alexander herde of this / he came to warre agaynst him. So kinge Ptolome brought forth hys hoost / and met hym with a myghty power / and chased him awaye. Then fled Alexander into Thady / there to be defended / and kinge Ptolomes honoure increased. And Sabbid the Arabian smote of Alexanders heade / and sent it vnto Ptolome. But the thyrde daye after / this kyng Ptolome him self / and they whome he had set in the stronge holdes / were slayne of those that were within the citie. And Demetrius raygned in the hundredth and seuen and sixty year.

At this same tyme gathered Jonathan them that were in Jewry / to laye siege vnto the castell which was at Ierusalem / and so they made many instrumentes of warre agaynst it. Then wrote there certayne vngodly persones / which hated theyr owne people / vnto kyng Demetrius / and tolde him / that Jonathan desired the castell. So wher he herde it / he was angry / and immediately came to Ptolome / and wrote vnto Jonathan that he should not laye siege to the castell / but come & speake with hym in all the hast. Accurthelasse / when Jonathan herde this / he commaunded to besige it. He chose also certayne of the elders and prieftes of Israel / and put hym self in the parrell / and toke with hym golde / siluer / clothyng / and diuers ptesentes: and wente to Ptolome vnto the kyng / and founde hym gracious.

And though certayne vngodly men of hys owne people made complainces vnto him / yet the kyng increased hym / & lyke as his prieftes & counsaillors had done before / and promised him in the sygn of all his frendes / confirmed hym

i. Mac. 2. b in the bygbe priesthode with all þ' worshippe that he had afore / and made him his chiefe frende. Jonathan also desired the kinge that he wolde make Jewry fre / with the thre head cities of Samaria / and the lades pertayninge thereto: upon the whiche Jonathan promysed him the C. talents. Whereunto the kinge consented / and gaue Jonathan wynginge of the same / containinge these wordes: Kinge Demetrius sendeth gretinge vnto his brother Jonathan / as to the people of the Jewes. We sende you here a copy of the letre / which we had wyrite vnto ourc elder Lathenus / concerninge you / that ye shoulde knowe it.

Kinge Demetrius sendeth gretinge vnto Lathenus his elder. For the faithfulness that ourc frendes the people of the Jewes kepe vnto vs / and for the louinge kindnes which they beare towards vs: we are determyned to do them good. Wherefore we obeyne all the costes of Jewry with the thre cities / Lyda and Ramatha (which are added vnto Jewry from Samaria) and all the lades pertayninge therunto: to be fully separated for such as do sacrific in Jerusalem: both concerninge the paymentes which the kyngie toke yearly afore tyme / and the frutes also of the earth and reues. As for other tythes and tributes that belonged vnto vs: we discharge them therof from this tyme forth. In lyke maner / we graunte vnto them all the customes of salt and crone taxes / which were brought vnto vs. And thys freedom shall they haue firme and steadfast / from this tyme forth for euermore. Therefore let ye make a copy of these ourc letters / a deliuer it vnto Jonathan: that it maye be kepte vpon the holy mount in a conuenient place.

¶ After thys / when Demetrius the kyngie sawe that thys lande was in rest / and that no resistauce was made hym: he sent awaye all his hostes eueri man to hys owne place / excepte an armie of straungers / whome he brought from the Isles of the Seythen / wherefor all hys fatheres hostes had euell wil at him. ¶ Now was there one Trypho (that had bene of Alexanders parte afore) which when he sawe that all the hostes murmured against Demetrius: he wente to Eualuel the Arabyan (that brought vp Antiochus the sonne of An-alexander) and laye soze vpon him / to deliuer hym this yonge Antiochus: that he myght raygne in hys fatheres steade. He tolde hym also what greate euell Demetrius had done / and howe his me of warre louted hym now: and so remayned there a longe season.

And Jonathan sent vnto kyngie Demetrius / to buye them out which were in the castel at Jerusalem and in the other refuges: for they had Israel greate harme. So Demetrius sent woide vnto Jonathan / sayinge: I will not onely do theke thinges for the a thy people / but at tyme conuenient / I will do both þ' and thy people greate worshippe. But now thou shalt do me a pleasure / if thou wilt sende me men to helpe me: for all myne armie is gone fro me. So Jonathan sent hym iii. M. stronge men vnto Antioche / and they came vnto the kyngie: wherefore the kyngie was very glad at their comming. But they that were of the cite / euen an C. x. thousand men / gathered them together / and would haue slaine the kyngie / which fled into hys countee: and the citefyns kepte the stretes of the cite / and beganne to fyght.

Then the kyngie called for the Jewes helpe / which came vnto him aldogether / and wente abowde thowse the cite / a fewe the same weye an hundredth M. men: set they vpon the citie / gaue many spoyles in that weye / and deliuered the kyngie. So when the citefyns sawe that the Jewes had gotten their will of the cite / and they them selves dysposyted of their purpouse: they made thair supplication vnto the kyngie / sayinge: Graunte vs peccet / and let the Jewes ceasse from troublinge vs / and the cite / and vpon thys they call awaye theyr weapons. Thus they made peccet / and the Jewes gaue greate worshippe in the sight of the kyngie / and in the sight of all that were in his realme / and were spoyled of thowse out the kyngdome: and so they came againe to Jerusalem with greate goodes.

So the kyngie Demetrius sat in the trowthe of hys kyngdome / and had peccet in his lande. ¶ Neuertheles / he dyssembled in all that euer he spake / and withdrew him selfe from Jonathan: neyther rewarded him accordinge to the benefytes which he had done for him / but troubled hym very sore. After thys came Trypho.

phon agayne with yonge Antiochus / which raygned / and was crowned kynge. The therfore gathered vnto him all the men of warre / whome Demetrius had put awaye / these foughte agaynst Demetrius / whiche fled and turned his backe. So Tryphon toke the Elephanter / and wanne Antioche. And yonge Antiochus reioice vnto Jonathan / sayinge: I conferme the in thy piesthode / and make the ruler of iud: countre / that thou mayest be a fronde of the kynge.

Vpon this he sent him golden vessell to be frued in / and gaue hym leane to synke in golde / to be clothed in purple / and to weare a colar of golde / he made his brother Simon also captayne / from the coastes of Syria vnto the borders of Egypte. Then Jonathan toke his iourneys / and wente thow the ciues beyond the water of Jordan: / al the men of warre of Syria gathered them vnto him / for to helpe hym. So he came vnto Scalon / and they of the cite receaued him honorably: and from thence wente he vnto Gaza / but they wolde notke him in: wherefore he layed sige vnto it / burninge vp / and spoylinge the places that were aboute the cite.

¶ And the ciues of Gaza submitted them selfe vnto Jonathan / whiche made peace w them / but toke of their sonnes to pledge / sente them to Jerusalem / and wente thow th coūtre vnto Damascus. Now when Jonathan herde that Demetrius princes were come in to Cadace / which is in Galile: / with a greate host / purposinge to pur Demetrius oute fr medlinge in the realme: he came agaynst the / and lefte Simon his brother in the landes whiche came to Bethsura / and layed sige to it a longe season / and bescomfyted the. So they besyde to haue peace w him / which he grauntid them / and afterwarde put them out from thence / toke the cite / and set men to kepe it. And Jonathan with his hooste came to the water of Genezar / a by nines in the moynng gat them to the plainc felde of Zoi.

And beholde / the hoostes of the Heithen mete them in the felde / and layed warde for them in the mountaunce: so that when Jonathan came agaynst them / other (which were layed to ward) rose out of their places / and fought / and they that were of Jonathan side fled every man: and there was not one of them lefte / excepte Marathas the sonne of Absalomus / and Judas the sonne of Calphi the captayne of the hooste. Then Jonathan rente his clothes / layed earth vpon his heade / made his prayer / and turned agayne to them in the felde: where they fought together / and he put them to slyght. Now when his owne men that were fled / sawe this: they turned agayne vnto hym / and helped hym to folowe vpon all they enemyes vnto their tentes at Cadace. So there were slayne of the Heithen the same daye iiij. M. men / and Jonathan turned agayne to Jerusalem.

The. Xli. Chapter.

¶ Jonathan saynge that the time was nere / for hym / chose certayne incen / and sente them vnto Rome / for to stablish the / to reuoc the frendshipp with them. He sent likewise also vnto Sparta / and to other places in like maner. So they wente vnto Rome / and entred into the counsil and sayde / Jonathan the hygh piest / and the people of the Jewes sent vs vnto you / for to reuoc the olde frendshipp / a bonde of loue. Vpon this the Romaynes gaue the fre passpozes / for he shoulde lede them home into the land of Iuda peaceably. And this is the copy of the lettres that Jonathan wrote vnto the Spartians.

Jonathan the hygh piest / with the elders / piestces / and the other people of the Jewes sende greting vnto the Spartians their bretheren. There were lettres sente long agoe vnto Onias the hygh piest / from Arius which than raygned amonge you / that ye are our bretheren / as the wynting made therypon spicifyeth. And Onias intreated the Ambassadoure that was sente honorably / and receaued the lettres: wherein there was mencion made of the bonde of loue and frendshipp. But as for vs / we cede no sliche wyntinges: for why / we haue the holy booke of scripture in our hande to our comforte. We trustiddest / we had rather sende vnto you / for the reuynng of the brotherhode and frendshipp / lest / we shoulde be straunge vnto you / for it is longe since the tyme that ye sente word vnto vs. Wherefore / in the sacrificy / that we offer / and other ceremonies / vpon the hygh solempne dayes / other we alwaye remember you without ceasinge (like an reason is / and as it becommeth vs to thinke upon oure brethren) yete and is right glad of your prosperous honoure.

And though we haue had greate troubles and warres / so that the ynges aboute vs haue soughten against vs: yete wolde we not be greuous vnto you / nor to other of oure louers and frends in these warres. for we haue had helpe from heauen / so that we are deliuered / and oure enemies subdued. Wherefore we chose Hlumenius the sone of Annochus / and Antipater the sonne of Jason / and sent them vnto the Romaynes / for to renewe the olde bonds of frendshippe and loue with them.

We commaunded them also to come vnto you / to salue you / and to deliuer you oure letters / concerninge the renouacion of oure brotherhode. And now ye shal vs right well / to geue vs an aunswere therevnto.

¶ And this is the copy of the writings / which Treus the kynge of Sparta sente vnto Onias: Treus kynge of the Spartians sendeth greaunge vnto Onias the hye pueist. It is founde in the writinge / that the Spartians and Jewes are brethren / and come of the generation of Abraham. And now we: so much as this is come to oure knowlege / ye shall vs well / to write vnto vs of oure prosperite / as for vs we haue written our mynde vnto you: Oure carrell and goodes are yours: as yours / oure. These thinges haue we commaunded to be shewed vnto you.

When Jonathan herde / that Demetrius pueices were come forth: to fyght against him with a greater hoste then afoze / he wente fro Jerusalem / and met them in the lande of Bethan / for he gaue the no space to come into his owne countrey. And he sent spyes vnto their tentes / whiche came agayne / and tolde him that they were appointed to come upon him in the night season. Wherefore when the Sunne was gone downe / Jonathan commaunded his men to watch all the night / and to be ready with weapons / for to fight: as for watchmen rounde aboute the hoste. But when the aduersaries herde that Jonathan was ready with his men to the battayl / they feared / and were dismayed in their bettes / and kyndled fyres in their tentes / brake vp / and gat them a waye. Neuertheless / Jonathan and his company knewe it not tyl the morninge / for they saue the fyres burninge.

Then Jonathan followed upon them / but he myght not ouertaken them / for they were gone ouer the water Eleutherus. So Jonathan departed vnto the Arabians (whiche were called Zabadi) / then / and toke their gouernour. He proceeded furthier also / and came vnto Samarias / and went thowoe all that countrey. But Simon his brother toke his journey / and came to Thelasa to the next strong holde / departinge vnto Joppa / and wanne it. For he herde that they wolde stande of Demetrius party: wherefore he sente men of warre in the cync to kepe it. After this came Jonathan home agayne / and called the elders of the people together / and they set with them / for to bulde vp the stronge holdes in Jerus / and the walles of Jerusalem: to set vp an hygge walles betwixte the cauld and the cines / for to separate it fro the cines: that it might be alone / and that men shoulde neyther see nor sell in it.

Upon this they came together / for to bulde vp the cync: and so: so much as the walles upon the wyke of the West syde (called Cappethera) was fallen downe / they repaired it. And Simon set vp Bethaida in Sephela / and made it strong / strange gates and lockes vpon it. ¶ Now when Triphon purposed to raigne in Asia / he crouned / and to lye the kynge Annochus: he was afrayed that Jonathan wolde not suffre him / but fyght against him. Wherefore he wente aboute to take Jonathan / and to kyl him.

So he departed / and came vnto Bethsan. Then wente Jonathan south against him to the battayll with fourty thousande chosen men / and came vnto Bethsan also. But when Triphon sawe that Jonathan came with so great a hoste to destroye him / he was afrayed / and therefore he receaued hym honorably / commaunded him vnto all his frends / gaue him rewardes / and commaunded his men of warre to be as obedient vnto him / as to hym selfe.

And sayde vnto Jonathan: whye hall thou caused this people to take such trauals / seeinge there is no warre betwixt vs? Therefore sende sende them home againe / and those certayne men to waite vpon the / and come thou with me / to Ptolomais / for I will geue it the with the other fforre holdes / men of warre and they officers: Doe for me / I must departe / this is onely the cause of my commynge. Jonathan beleued hym / and vnd as he said / purringe away his hoost / which wente into the lande of Iuda. He kepte sur. vii. by hym / wherof he sente ii. into Galilee / and one iii. went with him selfe.

Nowe as soone as Jonathan entred into Ptolomais / the rinceps scerred the gates of the cite / and toke him / and slewe all them with the swardes / that came in with hym. Then sente Triphon an hoost of fore men and hoismen into Galilee / into the greete playne selbe / to destroye all Jonathan company. But when they knewe that Jonathan was taken / and all they saynes that waied vpon him: they toke counsaill together / and came forth ready to the battaill. So vnder they followed vpon them / saue that it was a matter of life / they turned backe agayne: as for the other / they wente into the lande of Iuda peaceably / and serued Jonathan / and the that were with him / ryghte so. And Israell made greete lamentacion. Then all the Ieythen that were rounde aboute them / soughte to destroye them: So they sayde: nowe haue they no captayne / nor any man to helpe them. Therefore let vs overcome them / and rote oute their name from amonge men.

The XLII. Chapter.

2 When Simon herde that Triphon gathered a greete hoost to come into the lande of Iuda / and to destroye it / and saue tharthe people was in greete fearfulness: and care: He came vp to Ierusalem / and gathered the people together / and gaue them exortacion / sayinge: Ye knowe what greete care take I and my brethren / and my fathers house haue stricken for the lawe a the Sanctuary / what maner of troubles we haue senthorow xxij. necessarye wherof I all my brethren are sayne 144 for Israell sake / I am left alone. And nowe let not me spare myne owne life in any maner of trouble / for I am no better then my brethren: But will auenge my people and the Sanctuary / our children and our wiues / for all the Ieythen are gathered together / to destroye vs of very malice.

As these wordes the hertes of the people were kindled together / so that they cryed to a loude voyce / sayinge: Thou shalt be our captayne in steade of Iudas / and Jonathan thy brethren / odie thou our battall / a wharsoeuer thou commaundest vs / we shall do it. So he gathered all the men of warre / makinge hoost to synish all the wallies of Ierusalem / whiche he made stronge rounde aboute. Then sente he Jonathan the sonne of Abdalomus with a fresh hoost vnto Joppa / whiche vnder the oute that were in the castell / and remayned there him selfe. Triphon also removed from Ptolomais with a greete armye / to come into the lande of Iuda / a Jonathan with him beinge in ward. And Simon pitched his tentes at Iddus before the playne felde.

But when Triphon knewe that Symon stode vp in steade of his brother Jonathan / and that he wolde warre agaynst him: he sent messaungers vnto him / sayinge: Where as we haue kepte Jonathan thy brother / it is for money that he is owinge in the kynges accomptes / concerninge the busynesse that he had in hande. Wherfore sende nowe an hundred talents of syluer / and his two tonnes for surenes / that when he is letten forthe he shall not forsake vs: and we shall sende him againe. Neuertheless / Symon knewe that he dyssembled in his wordes: yet commaunded he the money and childre / to be helyered vnto him: lest he shoulde be the greater enemye agaynst the people of Israell / and saye: Because he sente him not the money and the children / therefore is Jonathan dead.

So Simon sent hym the children and an hundred talents / but he dyssembled / a word not let Jonathan go. Afterwarde came Triphon into the lande / to destroye it / and went rounde aboute by the waye that ledeth vnto Iddus. But wharsoeuer they wente / thither wente Simon and his hoost also. Nowe they that were in the castell / sent messaungers vnto Triphon / that he shoulde make haste to come by the wyldernesse / and to sende them viualles: And Triphon made ready all his hoismen to come tharthe nighte. Neuertheless / it was a very greete sorrowe / so that he came war in Galaadithim. And when he drewe nye Boschama / he slew Jonathan and his sonnes there / and the turned for to go home into his owne lande.

Then sente Simon for to see his brotheres dead carcases / and buried it in Modin his fathers cite. So al Israel beweped him with greate lamentacion / and mourned for him very longe. And Simon made vpon the sepulchre of his father and his brotheren a buildinge / bygh and lofe vnto of fre stone behynde and before / and for vnto pillars / one against another / for his father / his mother and foure brotheren / and set greate pylers rounde about with armes vpon them for a perpetuall memory / and carued shippes beside the armes / that they might be sene of men sailinge in the see. This sepulchre which he made at Modin / standeth yet vnto this daye.

Josephus
capit. 9.
lib. xij.

¶ Nowe as Tryphon wrote south to walke with the yongre kynge Antiochus / he slew him trayterously / and raygned in his steade / crowned him selfe kyng of Asia / a vyd muche euel in the lande. Symon also diuided vp the castles in Jewry / makinge them stronge with towres / greate walles / portes and loctes / and layd vp vitayles in the stronge holdes. And Simon chose certayne men / and sente them to kynge Demetrius / to desyre him / that he wolde discharge the lande from all bondage / for Tryphon had spoyled it very sore. Whereupon Demetrius the kynge answered hym / and wrote vnto hym after this maner.

Demetrius the kynge sendeth gretinge vnto Simon the bygh priest his frende / with the elders and people of the Jewes. The golden croune and precious stone that ye sente vnto vs / haue we receaued : and are ready to make a stedfastt peace with you / yee / a to write vnto our officers / for to release you / concerninge the thinges wherin we made you free / and the appointment that we make with you shalbe firme and stable. The stronge holdes which ye haue builded / shalbe your owne. As for any ouersight or faute committed vnto this daye / we forgiue it / and the croune rays that ye ought to vs also. And where so was any othe tribute in Ierusalem / it shal now be no tribute / and lofe wdo are mete amonge you to be in our court / set the be written vp that there maye be peace betwixte vs.

Thus the yoke of the Grekes was taken from Israel / the hundredth a secury year. And the people of the Jewes beganne to write in their lawes a actes on this maner : ¶ In the first year of Simon the bygh priest / i. m. xii. and prince of the Jewes.

In those dayes wente Symon vnto Gaza / and beseged it rounde about / where he set vp ordynance of warre. And wainge a towre which he toke. So they got into the towre / leape into the cye / which was in a greate fure : In so muche that the people of the cite rente their clothes / and clymmed vp vpon the walles with theyr wyfes and chyldren / besychyng Symon to be at one with them / sayyng.

O rewarde vs not after our wickednesse / for be gracious vnto vs / and we shal do the seruyc. The Simon for very pittie / wolde fyghte none agaynst them / but put them out of the cite / and caused the howse / wherein the ymagines were / to be clenst / and so entred the cite with psalmes of prayse / geuyngc thankes vnto the Lozde. So when he had cast all abominacions oute of the cite / he set skemen in it as kepce the lawe of God / and made the cite stronge / and builded a dwelling place for him selfe.

Now when they in the castell at Ierusalem were kepce so straitly / that they coude not come forth no into the country / a night neither daye nor sile / they were very hungrye / and many of the famished to death. In so muche that they besought Simon to be at one with them / which he graunted them. So he put them out from thence / and clenst the castell from filthynesse. And vpon the xxiiij. daye of the seconde moneth in the C. lxxx. yere they entred into it with thankesguyngc / a traunshes of palme trees / with harpes / croudes / cymbals and lutes / synnyng psalmes and songes of prayse vnto God / for that greate enemy of Israel was overcome.

And Simon ordeyned that the same daye shoulde be kepte euery yere in gladnesse / and made stronge the byl of the temple / that was beside the castell / where he dwelte him selfe with his company. Simon also receauyng that Upon his sonne was a myghty man of armes/made him captayne of all the hostes/ and caused hym to dwell at Gaza.

The XIII. Chapter.

In the C. lxxij. yeare gathered kynge Demetrius his hoste/ and departed vnto Media/ to get hym helpe for to fight against Eryphon. Nowe when Arfaces the kynge of Persia and Media herde/ that Demetrius was comd within his borders/ he sente one of his princes to take hym alyue/ and to bring hym vnto him. So he wente and slew Demetrius hoste/ toke hym selfe/ thought hym to Arfaces/ which kepte him in ward. And all the lande of Iuda was in rest/ so longe as Simon liued: for he soughte the wealthe of his people/ therefore were they glad to haue hym for their ruler/ and to haue him worshippe alweye.

Simon wanne the cytie of Joppa also for an hauei town/ and made it an inuincible in to the blow of the see. He enlarged the borders of his people/ and conquered them more land: he gathered vp many of their people that were prisoners: he had the Dominion of Gazza/ Bethsura and the castell/ which he clenched from syntheinesse/ and there was no man that resisted him: So that euery man kylled his grounde in peace/ the lande of Iuda and the trees gaue their fruite a crenteece. The elders that all in idid came/ and toke theyr veyce for the wealth of the lande: the younge men put on wooshippe and harnesse upon them. He prouided viuals for the cyties/ and made goodly fronge boltes of them: so that the same of his wooshippe was spoken of vnto the ende of the worlde. I For he made peace with them/ out the lande/ and Israel was full of mythe and ioye.

Euery man for vnder his vyne and figge tree/ and there was no man to fraye them away: there was none in the lande to fight against them/ for then the kynges were ouercome. He helped those that were in aduersite amonge his people/ he was diligent to see the lawe kepte: so for such as were vngodly and wicked/ he toke them away. He set vp the Sanctuary/ and increased the holy vesselles of the temple.

When the Romaynes and Spartians had gotten worde that Jonathan was dead/ they were right ioy. But when they herde/ Simon his brother was made high priest in his stead/ and how he had wonne the lande againe with the cyties in it: they wrote vnto him in tables of lator/ to renew the frendship and bonde of loue/ which they had made alyue with Iudas and Jonathan his brother. Which writinges were red before the congregacion at Jerusalem.

And this is the copy of the lettres that the Spartians sent. The Senourour/ and aines sine of Sparta sende greetinge vnto Simon the greates priest with the elders/ and the other people of the Jewes their brethren. When youre Ambassatours that were sente vnto oure people/ certified vs of your wooshippe/ honoure and prosperous wealth: we were glad of their coming/ and haue written the carande which they spake before the counsaile of the people: namely/ that Klumenius the sonne of Antiochus/ a Zingpater the sonne of Iason the Jewes Ambassatours are come vnto vs/ for to renew the olde frendship with vs. Upon this the people consented/ that the men shoulde be honorably increased/ and that the copy of their carande shoulde be written in the spirital booke of the people/ for a perpetual memory vnto the Spartians/ and that we shoulde sende a copy of the same vnto Simon the greates priest.

After this had Simon sende Klumenius vnto Rome/ with a golden sheke of a thousande pounde weight/ to confirme the frendshippe with them: which when the Romaynes vnderstode/ they said: what thanks shal we recompence againe vnto Simon and his children: for he hath stablished his brethren/ and ouercome the enemies of Israel. Wherefore they graunted him to be fre. And all this wrote the Jewes in tables of lator/ and nailed it vnto the pillers upon mount Zion. The copy of the writinge is this:

The xviij. daye of the month I Iulius in the August. lxxij. yeare/ in thirde yeare of Simon the high priest/ in the greates congregacion of the priestes/ rulers of the people/ and elders of the countree at Tharamel/ were these wordes openly declared.

For so much as there was much warre in our eurlande; therefore Simon the sonne of Marthus (come of the children of Jacob) and his brethren; put them selves in perill; and resisted the enemies of their people: that their Sanctuary and lawe might be maineyned/and byd their people great worshippe. Jona-thas in like maner after that he had governed his people a bene their hygh priest; byed; and lych buried besyde his elthers.

After that wolde their enemies haue roden they: holy thinges vnder foie; destroyed their lande; and utterly waiked they: Sanctuary. Then Symon withstode them; and fought for his people; spent much of his owne money; wrappeden the valcants men of his people; gaue them wages; made stronge the cites of Iuda; with Bethsura that lyeth vpon the borders of Jewey; (where the ordy-nauice of they: enemies laye somtyme) a little Jewes there for to feper.

I He made fall Joppa also; which lyeth vpon the ste; and Gaza that stodeth vpon Jertus/(where the enemies dwelle as yet) and there he set Jewes to kepe it; and wharsoeuer was mete for the subduynge of the aduersaryes/that layed be there. Nowe when the people sawe the noble actes of Simon; and what trousshipp; he purposed to do for them; his godly behauiour; and faithfulness; whiche he kepe vnto them; and howe he sought by all wayes the wealth of his people; because he byd all this; therefore they chose him to be their prince and hygh priest. And in his tyme they prospered well by hym; so that the Heathen were taken out of their lande; and they also whiche were in the cite of Dauid at Jerusalem in the castell; where they wente out; and despyd all thinges that were about the Sanctuary; and byd greate hartne vnto clen-nes; and Simon put men of the Jewes in it for the defence of the lande and the cite; and set up the walles of Jerusalem.

C And kynge Demetrius confirmed him in his hygh priesthode; made him his frende; / a byd him greate trousshippe. for he herde that the Romayns called the Jewes that freedes/louers an Bethsura; howe honorably they re-ceaued Symons Ambassadors; how the Jewes and priestes consented that he should be their prince and hygh priest perpetually; (yll God raised vp the true prophet) and that he should be their captain; to care for the Sanctuary; and to set officers vpon the workes therof; ouer the land; ouer the wayes; ouer the houise of defence; to make provision for the holy thinges; and to be obeyed of euery man/a al the wynges of the lande to be made in his name; that he should be clothed in purple and golde; and that it should be lawefull for none of the people nor priestes to breake any of these thinges; to withstande his wordes; nor to call any congregation in the lande without hym; that he should be clothed in purple; and weare a colar of golde; And if there were any whiche disobeyed or strake this ordynance; that he should be punnyshed.

So all the people consented to allowe Simon; and to do accordinge to these wordes.
Simon also him selfe toke it vpon him; and was contented to be hygh priest; the captain and prince of the Jewes and priestes; and to gouerne them al. And they commaunded to make this wyrtynge in tables of lator; and to fasten it vnto the compassse of the Sanctuary in an open place; and to lay vpon a copy of the same in the treasury; that Simon and his posterite might haue it.

The XV. Chapter.

When kynge Antiochus the sonne of Demetrius sente letters frome the Iles of the sea; vnto Simon the hygh priest and prince of the Jewes; and to al the people; conteinynge these wordes; Antiochus hy kynsendeth greting vnto Simo the hygh priest and to the people of the Jewes. for so many as certaine wicked men haue gent the kingdome of our progenitors; I am purposed to challenge the; againe; and to restore it to the olde state.

Wherfore I haue gathered a greate host/and made shippes of warre; that I maye go thero; to the countrey; and be auenger of them whiche haue destroyed eare lande; and wryt-ted many cities in my realme. And therfore nowe I make the fre al; from all the tributes; wherof al syngeis my progenitors haue discharged the; and from other customes (wherof from they haue released the) whateuer they be: For I geue the leaue to euer man

money of thine owne within thy lande. As for Jerusalem/ I say that it be holy and free: and all the weapons and houses of defence/ which thou hast builded and kept in thine handes/shalbe thine. Where as any thinge is or shalbe owinge vnto the kynge/ I forgiue it the/ from this tyme forth for euermore. And when we haue obtayned our kingdome/ we shall be the/ thy people and the temple greate worshippe: so that your honoure shalbe knowne througout the whole world.

In the thirtieth year wente Antiochus into his fathers lande/ and all the men of warre came together vnto him/ so that fewe were left with Tripbon. So the kynge Antiochus followed vpon him/ but he fled vnto Dora/ whiche lyeth by the sea syde/ for he sawe that there was mischefe commynge vnto hym/ and that his host had forsaken bym. Then came Antiochus vnto Dora with an hundred and twenty thousande men of armes yppon fore/ and eynht thousande horsemen. So he compassed the cytie rounde about/ and shippes came by the sea. Thus they verid the cytie by lande and by water / in so muche that they suffre no man to go in nor oute.

In the meane season came Valerianus (as they that had bene with him) from the cytie of Rome/ hauinge letters wryten vnto the kynge and prouinces/ wherin were conteyned these wordes: Iudas the Maxe of Rome sendeth greynge vnto Ptolome the king. The Ambassadours of the Jewes our frendes/ being sent from Simon the bygh priest/ and from the people of the Jewes/ came vnto vs/ for to reuise the olde frendshipp and bened of loue/ and broughie a balde of golde weighing a thousand pounde/ which we were contente to receaue of them. Wherefore we thought it good to wryte vnto the kynge a prouince/ so to do them no harme/ nor to take parte against them/ their ciues nor countreies/ neither to mainteyne their enemies againste the. If there be any wicked persones therfore fled from their countrey vnto you/ deliuer the vnto Simon the bygh priest/ that he maye punish them accordyng to thei owne lawe.

Christiane wordes wrote the Romaines also vnto Demetrius the kynge/ to Attalus/

Traba/ Arisaca and to all regions: as Samefano/ rothem of Sparta/ Delo/ Mido/ Sydon/ Caria/ Samosa/ Phamphilia/ Lycia/ Adarnassum/ and to Rhodoe: to Sela/ Aco/ Sida/ Trado/ Gorynia/ Gnydimio/ Cyprus and to Cyren. And of euery letter they sente a copy to Simon the bygh priest/ and to the people of the Jewes. So Antiochus the kynge broughie his hoste vnto Dora the seconde tyme/ to take it: where he made Syuers ordinaunces of warre/ and kepte Tripbon in/ that he shoulde not come forth. Then Antiochus sent Antiochus two thousande chosen men to helpe hym with golde/ syluer and other plentifulous gear: Neutrithelisse/ he wolde not receaue them/ but stafe at the education which he made with Simon afore/ and withdiere him selfe from him.

He sent Athenobius also a frende of his vnto Simon for to reason with him/ sayng: Ye withholde fro me Joppa and Gaza/ with the castel that is at Jerusalem/ which are ciuities of my realme/ whose borders ye haue destroyed/ and bene great euill in the lande/ by usinge the domination in many other places of my kyngdome. Wherefore/ deliuer now the ciuities which ye haue taken/ with the tributes of the places that ye haue rule vpon/ without the borders of Jewy: Or els geue me fyue hundred talents of syluer/ yee/ and for the harme that ye haue done in the ciuities/ and for the tributes of the same/ other fyue hundred talents. If no/ we shall come and syghte againste you.

So Athenobius the kynge's frende came to Jerusalem/ and when he sawe the great worshippe and honoure of Simon in golde/ syluer/ and so greate plenty of ornamentes/ he marvelled/ and tolde Simon as the kynge commaunded him. Then answered Simon/ and sayd vnto hym: As for vs/ we haue neuer taken other mens lande/ nor withholden them/ but onely our fathers heretage/ which our countreys had vntil presently in possessiō a certayne tyme. This heretage of our fathers we haue chalenged in processe of tyme. And where as thou complaine'st concerninge Joppa and Gaza/ they byd grete harme to our people and in oure lande/ yet will we geue an C. talents for them.

was sore abashed / and layed bandes on them that were come to deliuer him / and scru-e them: for he knewe that they wente aboute to kill him.

As for other thinges concerninge: Thon: of hys warres / of hys noble actes ( wherein he behaued him self manfully ) of the buildinge of wallies which he made / and other of his deeds: They are written in the Cronicles of his

The first Chapter.

The dietien of the Jewes / which be at Ierusalem in the lande of Jewry / wish unto thof dietien of the Jewes that are thowout out Egypt: good fortune / health and peace. God the Lord be gracious vnto you / and thinke vpon hys omercant that he made with Ab: a barn: Isaac / and Jacob his faithful seruants: and geue you all such an herit / that ye maye loue and serue him / see / and performe his will with an whole herte / & of a willinge mynde: He open youre hertes in his lawe: & his commaundementes / sende you peace: heare your prayres / be at one with you / and neuer forsake you in tyme of trouble. This is here our prayer for you.

What tyme as Demetrius raygned in the C. lxxij. year: the Jewes wrote vnto you in the trouble: & violence / came vpon vs. In those yeres after that Jason departed out of hys lande a fingeome: they bent vp the portes / & shed innocent blood. This made we our prayer vnto the Lord / and were herder: we offered / & lighted the candles / settinge southe cakes and bread. And now come ye vnto the first of tra: bernacles in the moneth * Caslu. * Leu. xxij. f * 11. v. 18. f

In the C. lxxvij. yeare / the people that was at Ierusalem and in Jewry / the counsaile and Judas him self / sent this wolofsome silitacion vnto Aristobolus hyng Polioemes master / which came of the generacion of the anoynd priesles: and to the Jewes that were in Eggypte: In so much as God hath deliuered vs from greate perels / we thanke him hyghly / In that we resisted so myghty a fuge. And why: he broughte me out of Persya by heapes / to fyght agaynst vs and the holy cite. For as he was in Persya (namely the captayne with the great host) he pryshed in the temple of Mancas / beyng deccauded thowre the deuyse of Mancas priesles. For as he was purposed to haue dwelt there: Antiochus and his frindes came thither / to receaue much money for a dowry. So whē Mancas priesles had layed forth the money / he entred with a small company into the compasse of the temple / and so they shut the temple.

Now when Antiochus entred by shopeninge the ptey intrauence of the temple / the priesles stoned the captayne to death: the web the in pores that were with him / smote of their heades / and they we them out. In all thinges God be prayed / which hath deliuered the wicked in to oure handes.

Where as we now are purposed to kepe the purificacion of the temple vpon the xxij. daye of the moneth Caslu / we thought necessary to craue you thereof: that ye also might kepe the tabernacles feast daye / and the daye of the fyre / which was giuen vs when Helmias offred / after that he had sit vp the temple and the altier. For what tyme as oure fathers were led awaye vnto Persia: h priesles / which then sought the honoure of God: toke the fyre piuely from the altier / and hyd it in a valley / where as was a depe dye pyr: a therein they kept it / because the place was vnknown to euery man. Now after many yeeres when it pleasid God / that Helmias shoulde be sent from the finge of Persia: he sent the childres Leu. vi. 4 children of those priesles / which had hyd the fyre / to seke it. And as they tolde vs / they founde no fyre / but thyske water.

The II. booke of the Machabees.

¶ The commaunded be them to haue it vp/ and to bringe it him/and the offeringes with all. Now when the sacrifices were layed on and odred/ the priest Nchemias commaunded to sprenkle them /and the wood with the water. When this was done/ and the烟火 came that the Sunne shone/ which afore was hid in the cloude/ there was a great fire kindled / In so much that every man maruayled. Now all the priestes praised/ while the sacrifice was a makinge. Jonathan praised first/ and the other gaue answer.

And Nchemias prayer was after this manner: O Lord God maker of all thynges/ thou fearfull and strong/ thou righteous and mercifull / thou that art onely a gracious King/ onely liberal/ onely iust/ Almighty and everlasting/ thou that vespuest Israel from all trouble / thou that hast chosen the fathers and baloued them: receaue the offeringe for the whole people of Israel / preserve thine owne posson/ and baloue it. Gather those together that are scattered abroad/ fram vs: vespue them that are vnder the heathens bondage/ lye upon them which are vespysed and abhorred/ that the heathen maye knowe and se/ how that thou art our God/ punished the that oppresse vs/ and proudly put vs to dishonoure. Set thy people agayne in thy holy place/ I lye as Moses had spoken.

¶ And the priestes longe Psalmes of thankesgymnges so longe as the sacrifice endured. Now when the sacrifice was burnt. Nchemias commaunded the grate stones to be sprenkled wth the residue of the water. Which when it was done/ there was kindled a flame of them also: but it was consumed thowm the light/ that shyned from the altier. So when this manner was knowen / it was tolde the kyng of Persia / that in the place were the priestes (which were led away) had hyd fire / there appeared water in steade of fyre/ and that Nchemias and his company had purified the sacrifices withal. Then the kyng consideringe the matter religiosity/ made him a temple/ to proue the thinge that was done. And when he founde it so in dede/ he gaue the priestes many giftes / a diuers rewardes: see he tolde the with his owne hande / and gaue the. And Nchemias called the same place Nephthar/which is as much to saye/ as a cleansing: but many men call it Nephthar.

The II. chapter.

¶ It is founde also in the writings of Jeremy the prophet: that he commaunded them which were carryed away / to take fire: as it is saide afore. He commaunded them also/ that they should not forget the lawe and commaundementes of the Lord: and that they should not erre in their myndes / when they se images of silver and golde with their ornaments. These and such other thinges commaunded he them/ and reboted them/ that they should not let the lawe of God goe out of their hartes.

¶ It is written also how the prophet (at the commaundement of God) charged the/ to take the bernece/ and to bringe with them / and he wente south vnto the moystayne / where Moses layed downe vpon/ and saue the heritage of God. And when Jeremy came there/ he founde an open caue / wherein he layed the tabernacle of the Lord: a the altier of incense / and so stopt the hole. There came certayne men to gather also following him/ to marke the place/ but they could not fynde it. Which when Jeremy perceaued/ he reuioued them/ sayinge: As for this place it shalbe vnknowen vntill the tyme that God gather his people together a gayne/ and receue the vnto mercy. Then shall God shew them these thinges / a the maney of the Lord shall appaere / and the cloude also / I lye: as it was shewed vnto Moses/ and I lye: as it was tolde Salomon/ vespied that the place myght be sanctified/ and it was shewed him.

¶ So he began a wyse man/ handied honorably a wyse/ offeringe vnto God in halowinge of the temple when it was synned. And I lye as when Moses prayed vnto the Lord/ I lye as he came downe fro heauen/ and consumed the burnt offeringe: I lye as he prayed Salomon also/ I lye as he came downe fro heauen/ a consumed the burnt offeringe. And Moses said/ because I lye offeringe was not receiued/ therefore is consumed. In I lye maner Salomon kepte the dedicated: a halowing eight dayes.

¶ In the Annotations a writinges of Jeremy were these thinges put also/ and how he made a library / a how he gathered out of all countries the booke of the prophetes / of Dauid: the the epistles of the kings/and of the presentes. Euen so Judas also / loke what he learned by experience of warre / and such thinges as had happened vnto vs / he gathered them altogether/and so we haue them by vs. If ye now desire to haue the same / sende some body to fetch them vnto you. Where as we then are aboute to celebrate the purification / we haue written vnto you. Therfore ye shall do well / if ye kepe the same dayes. We hope also that the God ( which deliuered his people / and gaue the all the heretage / kingdome / priesthode and ¶ 4 Sanctuary T that he promysed them in the lawe ) shall shortly haue mercy vpon vs / and gather vs together from vnder the heauē into his holy place: for he hath saued vs from great perils/and hath cleansed the place.

B To concerninge Judas Machabeus and his brethren / the purification of the greete temple / the dedication of the altar / yee / and of the warres that concernē noble Antiochus a king / & Eupator his sonne / of the Spanynges that came downe from heauen vpon thase / which manfully defended the Iewes. ( For though they were but fewe / yet defended they the whole lande / & drove awaye the enemies host / & recovered agayne the temple / that was spoilen of thoroout all the world / & deliuered the cite & vnging the best that is lawe of the Lawde which was put downe / myght with all tranquillite be restord againe vnto the Lorde / & was so mercifull vnto them. ) As touchinge Jason also of Cyren / we haue vnder take compendiously to bringe into one booke / the thinges that were comprehēded of him in hys. For we consideringe the multitude of the booke / how harde it should be for them that wolde mēble with stories a cetera / and that because of diuers matters / haue vnder take so to comprehend the stories : that such as are disposed to reade / myght haue pleasure and pastyme therein : a that they which are diligent in such thinges / myght the better thinke vpon them: yee / and that whosoever red them might haue profit thereby.

E Neuertheless / we our selves that haue meddled with this matter for the shorteninge of it / haue taken no small labour / but greate diligence / watchinges and reuare. Like as they that make a feast / wolde saye to other men pleasure: Euen so we also ( for many mens sake ) are very well content to take the labour / where as we maye shortly comprehend the thinges that other men haue truly written.

For be that buildeth an house a new / must prouide for many thinges to the whole buyldinge: but he that paynteth it afterwarde / sekerly but only what is comely / & aedement to garnyshe it wythall. Euen so do we also in this manner. And why? Be that begynneth to wyte a story / for first / must wyth hys vnderstandinge gather the matter together / for his wordes in order / and diligently sele out every parte: But he that afterwarde will shew it / vsith fewe wordes / and toucheth not so matter at the largell. Let this be sufficient for: a prologe / now wil we begynne to shewe so matter for: it is but a foote / & thinge to make a longe prologe / and to be shorte in the story itself.

The III. Chapter.

¶ 1 Satyrus as a holy cite was inhabited in all peace & wealth / and when Iewes were yet very well kepte ( for so was it eoddaye ned by Onias the hygh priest and other godly men / that were enemies to wickednesse. ) It came therto / that euen the hitiges and punces the selves byd the place greate worshippe / and garnyshe the temple with greete gytes: In so much that Selucius kyng of Asia / of hys owne reueue / bare all the cosse belonginge to the seruyce of the offeringes. Then Symon a maister of the tribe of Ben Jamin / a ruler of the temple / laboured to waite some mischiefe in the cite / but the hygh priest resisted him.

¶ 2 Neuertheless / when he myght not ouercome Onias / he gar him to Appollonius the soune of Thersa ( which the was chief kynde in Celosyria and Dheities ) a tolde him / that the treasury in Jerusalem was full of innumerable money / and how that the common goodes / which belonged not vnto the offeringes / were readyng greate also: yee / and how it were possible that all these myght come vnder the kinges power.

¶ 3 Now when Appollonius had shewed the kyng of the money / as it was tolde him / the kyng called for Heliodorus his steward / and sent him with a commaundement to bringe hym the said money. Immediately Heliodorus toke his iourney / but vnder a colour / as though he wolde go thowm Clostria a Phe-nico to vsyte the citie / but his purpose was to fulfil the Kings pleasure. So whē he came to Betusalem / and was louingly receiued of the hygh priest into the citie: he tolde what was determined concerning the money / and shewed the cause of his cominge: he asked also / if it were so in dede. Then the hygh priest tolde him / that there was such money layed vp for the vpholdinge of wydwowes and fatherlesse children / and how that a certayne of it belonged vnto Syreanus Tobye a noble mā: and that of all the money ( which that wicked Symon had betrayed ) there were iiii. hundred talents of syluer / and ii. hundred of golde / see / and that it were vnpossible for those meane meanynge to be decreaued / that had layed vp their money in the place and temple ( which is had in trousshipe thowme & whole world. for the magnificauce and honoure of thesame. Whereunto Heliodorus answered that the Kinge had commaunded him in any wise to bringe him the money.

E So at the daye appoynted / Heliodorus entered into the temple to orde this matter. But there was no small feare thowmeout & whole citie. The priestes sit vnto before the auter in their ornaments / and called vnto heauen vpon him / & which had made a late concer-ninge stuffe greue to feare / that they shoulde be safelye preferred / for such as committe the vnto K. ping. The wbo so had lofed the hygh priest in the secret wolde haue greued his herte: for his countenance a the chaunginge of his coloure / declared f in wardes forom of his mynde.
The man was all in heauynesse / and his body in fiare: wherby they that lofed vpon him / might perceaue the greue of hys herte. The other people also came out of their houses by heapes vnto the comun prayer / because & place was lyfe to come into confusion. The women came together thowme the stretes / with heery clothes aboute their chesles.

S The virgins also that were kepte in / ranne to Onias / to the walles / other some lofed out at the wydwowes: yet / they all helde vp their handes toward heauen / and praied. A miserable thinge was it to lofe vpon the commune people / and the hygh priest beyng in such trouble. But they besought the almyghty God / that the goodes which were committid vnto the / might be kepte whole / for those that had despuered them vnto their keepinge. The uerbeles / & thinge that Heliodorus was determined to do / & performed he in the same place / he hym self personallye beyng aboute the tresoury with his men of warre. But the spite of almyghty God shewed him selfe openly / so that all they which presumed to obeye Heliodorus / fell thowme the power of God into a greate fearefulnessse and vbede. For there appeared vnto them an hoise / with a terrible crye man synninge vpon him / & cecit in goodly araye / and the hoise smote at Heliodorus with hys force fre. Now he that sat vpon the hoise / had harnesse of golde vpon him.

Moreover / there appeared & saye a beunful yoge me in goodly araye / which stode by him / smouged him of both the sydes / and gaue him many stripes without ceasinge. With & fill Heliodorus suddenly vnto & ground. So they toke him vp / & beynge cōspelled aboute to greate parchynesse. Nabaz him out vpon a beare. & thus he that came with so many runners and men of warre into & subtreasoury / was taken out where as no man might helpe him: and so the power of God was manifest and knowne. He laye still some also by the power of Gods destinie of all hope and lyfe. And they prayed the Lord / that he had shewed hys power vpon hys place and temple / which a lyte afore was full of feare and trouble: and that thowme the reuelacion of the almyghty Lord it was fylled with ioye and gladnesse.

The certayne of Heliodorus frede prayed Onias / & in all hast he wolde call vpon God / to graue him his lyfe / which was geuinge vpon the good. So the hygh priest considered the matter / a lest / the King should suspecte that the Jewes had done Heliodorus some euil: be offred an health offeringe for him. Now whē the hygh priest had opened his petition / the same yonge men in the same clothinge appeared / and stode byside Heliodorus / sayinge: That Onias & hygh priest / for hys sake hath the Lord grauned & they lyfe: herfore seyng that God hath scourged the / geue him paye and thankes / and shew euery man his might and power. And when they had spoken these wordes they appeared no more.

So Heliodorus offered vnto God / made great prayers vnto him which had graunted him his life / thanked Onias / toke his hood / & wente agayne to the kinge. Then testified he vnto euery man of the great workes of God / that he had seene with his eyes. And when the kinge asked Heliodorus who were meete to be sent yet once agayne to Jerusalem / he sayde: If thou hast any enemy or aduersary vnto thy realme / sende him thither / and thou shalt haue him punysshed / if he escape with his life: for in that place / no doubt / there is a special powe and workinge of God. For he that dwelleth in heauen / visiteth and defendeth that place: and all that come to do it harme / he punyssheth and plaguethe the. This is now the matter con-cerninge Heliodorus / and the kpinge of the treasury at Jerusalem.

The III. Chapter.

A His Symon now / of whome we spake 44 also / beyng a bewaier of the money and his owne natural countrie / reported the woof of Onias: as though he had moued Heliodorus vnto this / and as though he had ben a binger vp of euel. Thus was he not ashamed to call him an enemy of the realme / that was so faythfull an ouerser a Defender of the citie of his people: yet / so serueth in the latte of God. But when the malice of Symon increased so farre / that thou wast his frends there were certaine maligners committed: Onias considered the perill that might come thow this strife / & how that Appollonius (namely the chiefe lorde in Celosina & Phenices) was all set vpon tyranny / and Symons malice increased the same: He gat him to the kinge / not so en accusar of the cities / but as one that by hym self intended the commune wealthe of the whole multitude. For he sawe it was not possible to lye in place / neyther Symon to leau of from his foolishnesse / excepte the kinge shd loke therto.

B But after the deathe of Silencus / wher An-tiochus (which is called the noble) toke the kingedome: Jason the brother of Onias laboured to be his priest: for he came vnto the kinge / and promised him the hundred and fifty talentes of siluer / and of the other reuenues. xxx. ta-lentes. Besides this he promised him yet an C. and L. if he might haue the schole of schol-den: and that he might call them of Jerusale Antiochians. Which wher the king had graun-ted / and he had gotten the superiourie: he be-ganne immediatly to chaunge his fynisment to the custome of the Grethyen / put doune the thynges that the Jewes had set vp of loue / by whom the father of Eupolmius / which was sent Ambassatoure vnto Rome / for to make the bonde of frendshippe and loue. He put doune all the lawes and lycensses of the Jew-es / and set vp wicked statutes. He durst make a syghtrynge schole vnder the castell / and set sayre yonge men to learne the maners of whores and diuells.

Thus was now the begynninge of the thyngs / and straunge conuersation / broughte in thowt the vngacious and vnderde-uilednesse of Jason (which shoulde not be called a priest / but an vngodly person). In so much that the priestes were now nomore occupied aboute the seruice of the altare / but bespyed the temple / regarded not the offerings: yet gaue theyr diligence to learne to fight / to wrestle / to leape / to daunce / and plyinge the stone: not scynge by the honour of their fathers / but lyked the glosy of the Grekes best of all-for the which they stroue periously / & were greedy to folowe theyr slauises: yet / theyr lust was in all thynges to be lyke them / which afore were theyr enemies and Destroyers. Howbeit / to do wickedly against the latte of God / shall not escape vnpunished: but of this we shall speake hereafter.

What tyme as the Olympiades spoites were played at Tyzus / the kinge him self beyng presente / this vngacious Jason sent wicked eery men / bearyng from them of Jerusalem (which is this yeare now were called Antiochians) iiij. hundred drachmas of siluer for an offeringe to Hercules.
These had they that caried them / besides vnder such a fishyon / as though they shoulde not haue bene offered / but bestowed to other uses. Neuertheless / he that sent the / sent them to the intent that they shoulde be offered vnto Hercules. But because of those that were present / they were geuen as to the makinge of sippes. And Appollonius the sonne of Cleostus was sent into Egypte / because of the noble men of Fyng: Ptolome Diplomatour.
Now wher Antiochus perceaued that he was put out from ierusalem in þe realme he sought hys owne profyte / departed from thence / came to Toppa / and then to Ierusalem : where he was honorably receaved of Iason a the cite / and was brought in with toche of light / and with great pryse : and so he turned hys hoost vnto Phenice.

¶ After id. ycare Iason sente Manclaus the
#-ma. iiii. b foure daye Symons brother to beare þe money vnto the kinge / and to bunge him answer of ofther necessary matters. But he when he was powerd of the kinge for magnyfyenge of hys powerd / turned the hyge priellhode vnto hym self / layinge vpon it. Calentes of syluer for Iason. So when he had gotten commaunde-mentes from the kinge / he came haungyng nothyng that becomyth a priell / but bearinge þe stonace of a cruel tyrante / a the warf of a wilde brute beast. Then Iason ( which had deceaved hys owne brother ) synged þe hys self was begyled also / was sayng to streinto the land of þe Ammonites / and Menelaus gat þe dominion. But as for the money that he had promysed vnto the kinge / he dyd nothinge therin / vnto Sosstratus the ruler of þe castell requyred it of hym. For Sosstratus was the man that gathered þe custome / wherfore they were both called before the kinge. Thus was Men-elaus put out of the priellhode / and Lysima-chus hys brother came in hys stead. Sosstratus also was made lorde of the Eppysians.

¶ It happened in the meane season / that the Tharsians and Malloepans made insurreccion / because they were geyuen for a present vnto the kinge. Annochus concubine. The came the kinge in all the hast / to sylle them agayne and to pacifye the matter / leauyng Andronicus there to be hys cherye / as one mek therfore.
Now Menelaus supposyng that he had gotten a ryght conuenient tyme / stole certayne wessels of golde out of the temple / and gaue the to Andronicus for a present / and some he solde at Tyus / and in the citie thereby.

Which when Onias knewe of a sycrte / he reioyced hym / but he kepte him in a Sanctuary beside Saphnis / lyeth by Antioche. Wherefore Menelaus gat hym to Andronicus / and prayed him that he wolde slaye Onias. So when he came to Onias / he counsayled him craftily to come out of the Sanctuary / geuyng him his hand in an oath ( howbeit he suspecte him / and the he flew Onias / without any re-garde of righteousnesse. For the which cause not onely the Jewes / but other nacions also toke indignacion / and were displeasid for the vnrightheous death of so godly a man.

And when the kinge was come agayne fro Cilicia / þe Jewes and certayne of the Grekes wrote vnto hym / cōplaynyng for the vn-rightheous death of Onias. Yee Annochus hym self also was foy in hys mynde for Onias / so that it pyned him / and he wepte / remembryng his sobrenesse and manerly behauiour. Wherfore he was so findled in hys mynde / that he commaunded Andronicus to be striped out of his purple clothyng / and so to be led thowt out all the cite / yee / and the vngacious ma to be slayne in the same place / where he commyted his wickednesse vpon Onias. Thus the Lorde deceaved hym his punishment as he had deserued. Now when Lysimachus had bene many w. x. dayes in the temple thowt the court / yll of Menelaus / and the voyce came abroade : the multitude gathered them together agaynst Lysimachus / for he had staryd out now much golde.

So when the people arose and were full of despleasure / Lysimachus armed id. vii. mi-thistes to defende him : a certayne tyrant begyng their captaine / which was growe both in age and woodnesse. But when the people vnderstode the purpose of Lysimachus / some gat stoncs / some good stronge Rubbes / and some cast assbes vpon Lysimachus. Thus there were many of them wounded / some begyng slayne / and all other dyed away. But as for that wicked churchoberber hym self / they filled hym besyde þe treasury. Of this matter therfore there was kepte a course agaynst Men-elaus.

Now when the kinge came to Tyus / they made a cōplaine vnto him of Menelaus / concernyng this busynesse / a the Ambassadors were there. But Menelaus wente and promysed Drome to geue him much money / if he wolde perswade the kinge. So Drome wote the kinge into a court : where as he was set to coole hym / a thought him out of that mynde.
In so much that he discharged Menelaus fro the accusations / that not withstandinge. was caric

cause of all mischance: and those poore men which if they had told theyr cause/yeer before the Egyptian/ they shoulde haue ben iudged innocent: them he condemned to death. Thus were they soone punished/which followed vpon the matter for the cite/for the people and for the holy vessel. Wherefore they of Tyros toke indignacion and buried the honorably. And so thow the countournesse of the that were in power/Menclaus remayned still in authorite/increasinge in malice / to the hurte of the ciuitie.

The V. Chapter.

As the same ymie Annochus made him ready to go agayne into Egypte. Then where there sene at Ierusalem (xl. dayes longe) boisterunninge to and fro/in the ayre which had rayments of gold/and sparrowes. There were sene also whole hostes of smē weapered / and hostes runninge in an odire / how they came together / how they helde forth theyr shyldes/how the barressed men threw out theyr sweades/and shor theyr darts. The thync: of the golden weapons was sene/and of all maner of armure. Wherefore euery man payed/ that those tokens myghte come to good. Now whē there was gone forth a falsk rumour / as though Annochus had bene dead: Jason toke a M men/and came seditiously vpon the cite. The ciuitie rann onto the walles / at the last was the cite taken / and Menclaus fled into the castell.

B As for Jason/ he spared not his owne cities fro in the slaughter / neyther considered he what greates euill it were to destroye the prosperity of his owne kynsmen: but byd as one that hath gotten the victory of his enemyes / a not of his frendes. For all this ga he not the superiorite / but at the last receiued confusion for by malice / and fled agayne lyke a vagabond bounde into the lande of the Ammonites. Fy-nally (for a rewarde of his wickednesse) he was accused before Antiochus the kynge of the Arabians: In so much that he was sayne to flye from cite to cite/being despyed of euery mā as a forsaker of the lawes / and an abominable persone. And at the last / as an open enemy of hys owne naturall countie and of the ciuitie he was driven into Egypte.

Thus be that afore put many out of theyr owne naturall lande/ perished from home by self. He wente to Eaccodmon/ by synninge there to haue gotten succoure by reason of synne.

 And he that afore had casten many one out vnburied/ was thowen out him self / no man mourninge for him/ nor puttinge him in hys graue: so that he neyther enioyed the buryal of a stranger/ neither was he partaker of his fathers sepulchre.

Now whē this was done the kynge suspected / that the Jewes wolde haue falle fro him/wherefore he came in a greates displeasure out of Egypte / and toke the cite by violence. He iconmaunded his men of warre also / that they shoulde kyl and not spare/ but slaye downe such as withstode them / slymmed vp vpon the sea. Thus was there a greates slaughter of younge men/ olde men/ women/ chyldren/ and virgins. In iii. dayes were there slayne less M. fourty thousande put in pysson / and no lesse sold. Yet was he not content with that but thrust go into the most holy temple/ M nelauis that traytoure/ to the lawes and to hys owne naturall countie/ beinge hys gyde/ and with his wicked handes toke the holy vessel/which other kynges and ciuites had geuen they-ther / for the garnishinge and honoure of the place: them toke he in his handes vnworthely/and despoyled them.

So madde was Annochus / that he considered not how that God was a hille worthy / for the synnes of them that dwelle in the cite / for the which such confusion came vpo that place.
 And why: if it had not happened then to Judic. 8. b haue bene lapped in many synnes / thys Annochus / as soone as he had come / had seditiously bene punished/ and stur out for hys presumption: as lyke as Heliodorus was / whose Te. 4 Ma. 13. b leucus th: kynge sent to robbe the treasury.
 Theuerthelss / God hath not chosen the people for the places sake / but the place for the peoples sake: and therefore is the place become partaker of the peoples trouble / but afterwarde shall it enioy the wealth of them. And lyke as it is now forsaken in the wrath of Almighty God / so whē the greates God is reconciled / it shall set vp in hys hys: whyspye agayne.

So when Annochus had taken a M. 8 and viij. hundredy talents out of the temple / he gat hym to Iudiee in all the hast / thinkinge in his mynde / that he might make men saye vpon the dyse lande / and so go vnto the see / such an bygge mynde had he. He lefte Heliodore there to rege the people: At Ierusalem he left Philippe a Phygian / in maners more cruell then him self / that set him there. At Garsim he left Andronicus / and Menelaus / which were more greuous to the ciuities then other. ¶ Now as he was thus set in malice against the Jewes / he sent Appollonius an hated prince with xxx. M. / commaunding him to slaye all those that were of perfect age / and to sell the women / maydens a chyldren. When he came now to Ierusalem / he sayned peace / and kept him self vntill the Sabbath daye. And then he commaunded his men to take them to theyr weapens / for the Jewes kept holy dayes / and so he slew all them that were gone forth to the open playe / runninge here at there throughe the cite with his men weapered / and murthered a great number. ¶ But Iudas Machabeus which was the tenth / fled into the wilderness / led his lyfe there with his company amonge the wyld beasts / and vpon the mountaynes dwellinge there and eange greif / lest / they shoulde be partakers of the synners synne.

The VI. Chapter.

I¶ Or long after this / sent the kinge a messenger of Antioch / for to compel the Jewes to alter the ordinances of the fathers and the lawe of God / to despoyle the temple that was at Ierusalem / a to call it the temple of Iupiter Olympian / a that the which should be in Gazarem / should be as those which dwell at the place of Iupiter the herberous. This wicked fiction of the wyldnes was heauy vpon all the people / for the temple was full of voluptuousnes / debuyng and delluge of the Gentens / of rybaldes and harlots together. The woman wente into the holy place / a here in that was unlawful. The altare also was full of unlawful thinges / which the lawe forbiddeth to laye vpon it. The Sabbathes were not kepte / the other solempne festes of the lande were not regarded. To be playne there durst no man be a witness that he was a Jewe.

In the daye of the kinges synn they were compelled perforce to offre: and when the feast of Bacchus was kepte / they were constrained to weare garlandes of yuca / a so to go aboute for the honoure of Bacchus.

Moreover / thowt the counsaill of Prolo- me there wente out a commaundment in the nexte cities of the Gentens / that they shoulde increase the Jewes in lyfe maner / namely / to compel them for to do sacrifice after the lawes of the Gentens: and who so wolde not to put them to death. A pitious thinge was it to see. There were ii. women accused to haue circised theyr sonnes / whom when they had led rounde aboute the cite (the babes hanginge at their brestes) they cast them downe headlinges ouer the walles. Some that were crept into Denues / a had kepte the Sabbath / were accused vnto Philippe / and bent in the fyre because that for the feare of God they kepte the commaundment so stedfastly / and wold not defende them selves.

Now I deside all those which reade this booke / that they refuse it not for the sake of aduersity: a iudge the thinges that are happened: for no detrucced / but for a chasteninge of our people. And why? When God suffereth not sinners longe to solouet theyr owne synne / but shortly punyssheth them / it is a token of his greace louinge kindnes. For the greace haue we of God more then other people / that he suffereth not so longe to synne unpunished / lyfe other nations / that when the daye of iudgement cometh / he maye punyssh them in the fulnes of theyr synnes. If we synne / he correcteth vs / but he neuer withholdeth his mercy from vs: and though he punyssh us with aduersitye / yet doeth he neuer forsake his people. But let this that we haue spoken now with fewe wordes / be for a warninge / and exhortacion of the Gentens. Now will we come to the declaringe of the matter. ¶ Cleasur one of the principal scribes / an aged man / and of a wellsaured countenance / was constrained to speake with open mouth / a to seeke Lawe swynce self. But he desynging rather to set gloriously then to lyuel with shame / offered hym self willingly to the martyrdom. ¶ Now when he sawe that he must needs go to it / he toke it pacyently: for he was at a paynte with hym self / that he wolde consente to no vnlawfull thinge for any pleasure of lyfe. But he beganne to confesse his discrete and honorable age / his noble and worshipfull flocke / and howe that from his youth up he had bene of an honest and good conuersation / yee / and how constantly he had kepte the ordinaunces / and lawes commaunded by God / wherefore he gaue them this aunswere / and saide :

I had I rather ysell be laied in my graue. For it becommeth not mine age / saide he / in any wyse to dyssemble / whereby many yonge persones might thinke / that he leasur beinge 173. yere old and ten / were now gone to a straunge life : and so thowome mine yocertise / for a litle time of a transitory life / they might be deceaued : by this meane also should I beside mine age / and make it abhominable : for though I were now deliuered from the tormentes of men / yet should I not escape the hande of almighty God / neyther alise nor death. Wherefore I will dye manfully / and so as it becommeth mine age : whereby I maie peradventure leaue an example of stedfastnes for such as be yonger / with a ready minde / and manfully dye an honest death / for the moost worthy and holy laure.

When he had saide these wordes / immediately he was taken to the torment. Nowe they that led him / and were made a life afore he came to take displeasure / because of his wordes that he saide / for they thought he had spoken them of an high minde. But when he was in by the murtherdome / he mourned and saide : Thou O Lord : which hast the holy knowlege / knowest openly : that where as I might be deliuered from death / I suffre these sore paines of my Body : but in my mynde I am well content to suffre them / because I feare thee. Thus this man dyed / leavinge the memorial of his death for an example / not onely vnto yonge men / but vnto all the people / to be stedfast and manly.

It happened also that there were off. Sixty Wher (with their mother) taken and compelled by the King against the lawe / to eat swynnes flesh / namely with scourges and leithen whippes. And one of them whiche was the chiefe / saide : What sekest thou / and what requirest thou of vs? As for vs / we are ready rather to suffre death / then to offend the lawes of God and the fathers. Then was the King angry / and had heare cauldrons and shafes pottes. Whiche when they were made hote / immediately he commaunded the kinge of him that spake first / to be cut out / to put the sinne over his head : to paye of the mppes of his handes and feet : and that in the sighte of his mother / and the other of his brethren. Now when he was cleane mardred / he commaunded a frye to be made / and so while there was any breath in him / to be strid in the cauldron. In the which when he had bene longe payned / the other brethren with their mother exhorted him to dye manfully / sayinge : The Lord God shall regarde the trust / and comfort vs / like as Moses testifieth and declareth in his songe / sayinge : I and he will haue compassi on his seruantes.

So when the first was dead after this manner / they brought the seconde to haue him in his prison / pulled the skynne with the beere over his head / and axed him if he wolde eate swynnes flesh / or he were payned in the other membres : also thowout his bodye. But he aunswered boldly / and saide : I will not do it. And so was he counted like as the first. And when he was euen at the geuinge up of the ghoost / he saide : Thou most virtuous person / puttst vs nowe to death / but the kynge of the world shall raise vs vp / which dye for his lawe / in the resurrection of our lastinge life.

After him was the thyrde had in prison / and when he was requyred / he put out his tounge / and that righte soon / holdinge forth his handes manfully / and spake with a stedfast faith : These haue I of beauen / but nowe for the lawe of God I despyse them / for my truste is that I shall receive them of him againe. In so muche that the Kinge / and they which were with him / maruayled at his yonge mans boldnesse/ that he nothing regarded the paynes.

E Now when he was dead also/they wored 2 fourth with noisettes in like maner. So whē he was now at his death/he sayde: It is better that we beinge put to death of men/haue oure hope and trust in God/ for he shall raise vs vp again. For ife/ thou shalt haue no J. span. v. c. resurreccion to life.

And when they had spoken to the firste/they reuerenced him. Then looked he vnto the Kinge/and sayde: Thou haste power amouge men/ for thou arte a mortal man also thy selfe/so do what thou wilt/ but thinke not for God hath forsaken oure generacyon. Abide therefore thyll a while/ and thou shalt see the greates power of God/ howe he will punyssh the/and thy selfe.

After hym they broughte the sixe / whiche beinge at the payne of death/ said: Be not deceaued (o King) for this we suffre for our owne sake/ because we haue offended oure God / a therefore maruailous thinges are shewed vpon vs. But thinke not thou whiche tastest in hande to stricke against God/ that thou shalt escape unpunished.

This excellent mother (worthy to be well reported of/ and had in remembrance) sawe her seuen sonnes dye in one daye/ and suffred it patiently / because of the hope that she had at God. Yet/ hee exhorted every one of them in especiall/ that they shoulde be chaste/ with pure wysdome / walinge vpon her mysse/ the thoughte with a manly stomacke/ and sayde vnto them: I can not tel howe ye came in my wombe/ for I neither gaue you birth nor soule/nor life. It is not I that toynded the members of youre bodies together/ but the maker of flesh/ whiche fashioned the birth of mā/and begganne all thinges. Euen he also of his owne mercy shall geue you birth and life again/ like as ye now regarde not youre owne selves for his lawes sake.

Nowe thoughte Antiochus that she had despised him/ therefore he let her go with her reynocers/ and begganne to exhorte the yongest sonne (whiche yet was left) not onely with wordes/ but swore vnto him with an oath/that he shoulde make hym a ride and wethy man / if he wolde forsake the lawes of his fathers. Yet/ and that he shoulde geue him/whatsoeuer were necessary for him. But whē the yonge man wolde not be moued for all these thinges/ he called his mother/ and coosayde her to saue her sonnes life. And when he had exhorted her with many wordes/she promysed hym/ that she shoulde speake vnto her sonne. So she turned her vnto hym (laughynge the cruell tyrannour to scorne) and spake with a bolde voyce: O my sonne/haue pite upon me/ that bare the nynthe monethes in my wombe / that gaue the sucke/nourshest the/ and broughte the vp vnto this age. I beseeche the (my sonne) loke vpon heauen and earth/ and al that is therein/ and consider that God made them / and mans generacyon of naughte. So shalt thou not feare the hangman / but suffre death stedfastly/like as thy brethren haue done: that I more receaue the againe in the same mercy with thy brethren.

While she was yet speakinge these wordes/the yonge man sayde: Whome loke ye for: Wherefor do ye crye: I will not obeye the Kinges commaundement / but the lawe that God gaue vs by Moses. As for the lawe that ymaginest all mischiefe againste the Jewes/we/ thou shalt not escape the hande of God:
 for we suffre these thinges / because of oure synnes.

And though God be angry with vs a litle while/ for oure chaslening and reforma-cion/ yett shall he be at one again with his ser-uantes. But thou O shamefull and most abhominable persone. Poyde not thy selfe the rote wayne hope/ in beinge so malicious tpo the seruantes of God: for thou hast not yett escaped the iudgment of the God/ which is almighty/ and seeth all thinges. My brethren that haue suffred a litle paine/ are now vnder the cōuenant of everlastinge life: but thou rote the iudgment of God/ thou shalt be punnished righteously for thy pūde.

As for me/ lyke as my brethren haue done/ I offre my soule/ and my body for the lauer of oure fathers/ callinge vpon God/ that he will soone be mercifull vnto oure people yett/ and with paine and punishmente / to make the graunte/ that he onely is God. In me nowe and in my brethren the wrath of almighty

70 hundred men. He caused Esdras also to reade the holy booke vnto them / and to geue them a token of the helpe of God.

I. M. iiii. b. Then he him selfe beinge captaine in the fore front of the battail/ ouerflew with his ear nois. And God was their helpe/ in so muche that they slew aboute 15. M. men/ and compelled the more parte of Vlicanos host to flye/ they were so wounded and feble. Thus they toke the money from those that came to bye them/ and folowed open them on euery side. But when the time came vpon them / they returned/ for it was the Sabbath / a therfore they folowed none vpon them. So they toke their weapons and spoiles/ and kepte the Sabbath/ giuinge thanks vnto the Lord/ which had deliuered them that day/ and showed them his mercy. After the Sabbath/ they distributed the spoiles to the fecke / to the fatherlesse/ and to wydowes / and the residue had they them selves with theirs. Where this was done/ and they all had made a general prayer: they besought the merciful Lord to be at one with his seruantes.

1. M. xiii. d.
1. M. xxx. e.
1. M. xxx. f.

Of those also that were with Timotheus and Bacides/ which foughte againste them/ they slew 15. M. / winninge byghte and stronge holdes/ and bounde no spoiles/ euer giuinge an equal portion vnto the fecke/ to the fatherlesse/ to wydowes/ and to aged persons. And when they had diligently gathered their weapons together/ they layed them all in conuenient places/ and the remnant of the spoiles brought they to Jerusalem. They slew Philarches that wicked persone/ whiche was with Timotheus/ and had wedged many Jewes. And when they helde the thanksgiuinge at Jerusalem for the victory/ they burnt those that had set fire on the portes of the temple/ namely Calisthenes/ which was fled into an house/ and so they gat a wondrous rewarde for they: wickednesse. As for that moste ungracious Vlicanos / whiche had broughte a thousand marchantes to bye the Jewes/ he was the more the helpe of the Lord. He thoughte vaine/ euen of them whome he regarded not: in so muche that he put of his glorious rayment/ fled by sea/ and came alone to Antioche with greate shame and dishonoure/ whiche he gat throughe the distresse tion of his host. Thus he that promysed the Romanes to paye them their tribute/ when he toke Jerusalem: beganne now to saye playnely/ that God was the defender of the Jewes/ and therfore not possible to wounde them/ because they folowed the lawes whiche God had made.

The 1 X. Chapter.

At the same tyme came Antiochus againe with dishonoure oute of Persia. For when he came to Dersepolis/ and vnder toke to robbe the temple and to sabutte the eyne of the people/ raine together and defended them selves/ in so muche that he and his were same too flye with shame. And soo after that flight/ it happened that Antiochus came a gayne with dishonoure. But when he came to Egbathana/ he gat knowlege what was happened vnto Vlicanos / and Timotheus. Now as he was auarneyng him self in his wrath/ he thoughte he was able to auenge the iniury that was done to them vpon the Jewes: a therfore commaunded he to make ready his charret/ haytinge on his iourney withoute ceassing: the iudgemente of God purueying him/ because he had often so wronged/ that he wolde come to Jerusalem/ a make it a grane of the Jewes. But the Lord God of Israel / that seyth all thinges/ smote him with an inuisible plague/ whiche no man coulde heale.

1. M. xxxi.

For as soone as he had spoken these wordes/ there came vpon hym an horrible paine of his bowels/ and a sore griefe of the entrails. And that was but right: for he had martyred other mens bowels with vniuers and straininge tomentes/ howbeit/ he wolde in no wise cease from his malice. Yet he was so the prouder/ and more malicious againe/ the Jewes: But whye he was commaundinge to make hazyle in the matter/ it happened that he fell vaine violently from the charret/ so that he busid his body/ and byd him great payne.

1. M. xxxii.

And so he that thoughte/ he myghte commaunde the floudes of the sea/ for proude was he beyonde the condicon of man/ and to wepe the byghte mountaynes in a port of scales/ was now broughte vaine to the grounde / and caried vpon an hearse/ Innow knowing the manifest power of God upon hym selfe that the wicked body of his was full of worms; whiche in his payne fell quier out of his selfe: In so much that his hoaste was covered with the smell / and styncke of him. Thus he had litle afose thought he might reach to the starres of heauen / hym myghte no man now abyde nor beare / for the vehement of styncke.

Therefore he synged thoughte from his greate payde / Beganne for to come to knowlege of him selfe; for the punishment of God warned by / and his payne increased euermore and more. And when he him self might not abyde his owne styncke / he sayde these wordes: It is reason to be obedient vnto God; and that a man desyre not to be like vnto hym. This wicked persone prayed also vnto the Lorde; of whome he should be haue obtained mercy. And as for the cyne that he came onto so hastily; to bringe it vnto to the grounde; and to make it a graue for dead men; now he desired to velsure it fre. And as touching the Jewes; whome he had iudged not worthy to be buried; but wolde haue cast them ouer so to be deuoured of the fowles and wyld beasts; sayinge: that he wolde haue destroyed both old and yonge: Nowe he promysed to make them lyke the eyesyns of Aibes. And where as he had spoiled the holy temple afose; nowe he maketh promise to garnyshe it with greate gytes; to increase the holy ornaments; and of his owne reuerence to beare the costes and charges / Belowe synge to the offeringes; yet / and that he wolde also become a Jewe hym selfe; to go throue euery place of the wolde; and to picke the power of God.

But when his payme wolde not craffe / for the righteous iudgement of God was come upon him / oute of a very despayre he wrote vnto the Jewes a lettre of intercession; containinge these wordes: The synge / and pynce Ananias wyseth vnto the vertuous synners of the Jewes; much health a good prosperite.

If ye and oure children fare well; and if all thinges go aore your mynde; we geue grete thankes. In my syncke; I also do I remembre you waintry; for as I came out of Persia; and was taken with sore disease; I thought it necessary to care for the common wealthe: Vnto ther despayre I in my selfe; but haue a good hope to escape this sickness.

But consideringe that my father led an good innocencye in the hys place; and shewed who should be raygne after hym; that if there happened any controuersy; or any harde thyng were declared; / they in the lande myghte knowe thes chuse lorde; that there should be no inuerracyon: Agayne / when I ponde by my selfe; haue that all the myghty men; and neyghbours rounde aboute; are layinge waye; and leste but for oportunitie to do harme; I haue obeyned that my sonne Ananias shall raygne after me; whome I oft commended to many of you; when I was in the hys kyngdomes; and haue wysen vnto hym as it foloweth hereafter. Therefore I praye you; and requyre you; to remembre the benefytes that I haue done vnto you generally; and in especiall. For I hope that he shall be of sober and lowlye behauiour; and if he foude my deuyse; he shall be indifferente vnto you.

Thus that murtherer and blasphemour of Sant-viſe God was sore smitten; and hys as he had intreated other men; he died a myserable death in a sleaunge countrey vpon a mountayne. And his bodye byd Philippe ( that wente with him; ) carrye awaye; whiche fearinge the sonne of Ananias; wente into Egipte to Proteole Philomete.

The X. Chapter.

Mchabees now and his companye; thow they had the helpe of the Lorde; / wanted i. mac. iij. the temple and the cyne againe; destroyed the altare and chappels that the heythen had builded; sheweth the synners; that they the temple / made another altare of sacrifices; and after 4. yeares they offered sacrifices; feruently the incense; the lyghes; and the bread. When that was done; they fell downe flat vpon the grounde; and besoughte the Lorde; that they mighte come anonie into such a troublous; if they synned any more aganſt hym; he him selfe to chasten them with mercy; and not to come in the handes of those alcaunters and blasphemous men.

Now vpon the same daye that the straung gers polluted the temple/it happened that on

 f. 111. v. 1. the very same daye it was defiled agayn with B. 111. v. 1. the xxij. daye of the moneth called Cas-leu. They kepte with dayes in gladnesse/like as in the feall of the tabernacles: rememberinge that not longe agoe/they helde the feall of the tabernacles upon the mountaynes and in Venues like Beasts. And to the same token they bare greene Bowes/Shaftes and pal-mes before him that had gotten them good fortune to cleanse his place. They agreed also together/and made a statute that every ycare those dayes shoulde be solemny kepte of all the people of the Jewes.

How Antiochus the first (that was called the noble) dyed/it is sufficiently tolde. Now will we speake of Micion the sonne of that wicked Antiochus/howe it happened with him: and so with few wordes to comprehend the aduersite that chauned in the warres. Whehe had taken the Kingdome/he made one Eyo-frax/whiche had bene captayne of the hooste in Dymecra and Syria ruler ouer the ma-ierie of the realme. For whome that was called Macion/beinge a ruler for the Jewes/C. and specially so for in iudgment for such wronge as was done vnto them) undertoke to deale peaceably with them. For the which cause he was accused of the frendes before Eupator: and when he was suspecte to be a traytour (because he had kille Eypers/that Philometor had committed vnto hym: and because he departed from noble Antiochus/that he was come vnto) he poisoned him selfe and dyed.

Now when Gorgias was gouernour of the same places/ he toke straungers/ and vendere of them to warre with the Jewes.
 Moreover the Joumeans that helde the strongest holdes/ receaued those that were driuen from Ierusalem/ and toke in hande to warre also. But they that were with Ma-chabeus/ besought and prayed vnto the Lord/that he wolde be theyr helper: and so they fell into the strong holdes of the Joumeans/ and wanne many places by strength: Suche as came against them they slawe/ and kille no less (ofaltogether) then twentie thousande: neuer helde some/ no less then nyne thousande) were fled into two stronge towres/hauynge all maner of ordinaunce to withstande them.

Then Machabeus leauynge Simon/ Joosepbus/ Zachus/ and those that were with the (which were very many) went to besige the/ and to fighte were moost noble was. Now they that were with Simon/ beinge led with courtesousnesse/ were increased for mo-ny/ thowre certayne of those that laye in the towres: toke fyr. M. shaftes/ and let some of them scape. But when it was tolde Machabeus what had happened/ he called the captaynes of the people together/ ac-cordinge the force/ that they had solde the Bethien for money/ and let their enemies go.
 So he slawe those traytours/ and immediatly wente in hande with the two towres. And when they had ouerthrewen them/ manly with their weapens and handes/ theye slawe in the two castles more then twentie thousande.

Howe Timotheus/ whom the Jewes had overcome/ asfor/ gathered a multitude of strayinge people/ brought in a hoost also of men of the Alsians/ to repyne Ieruz/strength. But when he sawe nye Machabeus/ and they that were with hym/ fell in to their piaces/ sprinkled asbes vpon their bea-des/ beinge gyled with beery cloth aboute theyr loynes/ fell downe before the altier/ and besoughte the Lord/ that he wolde be mercifull to them/ but an enemye vnto theyr enemyes/ and to take parte against their aduersaries/ accordinge as it is promysed in the lawe. So after the praye/ they wente on further from the cete: and when they came nye the enemyes/ they prepared them selves against them.

And beinge in the morninge at the break of the daye/ both the hoostes buckled together. The one parte had the Lord for theyr refuge/ whiche is the genur of prosperity/ strength and victory. The other had a manly stomack/ whiche is a captayne of warre.

The battail now beinge greate/ there appeared vnto the enemyes from heauen. The men upon horsebacke with dyades of golde/ and ledding the Jewes/ and two of them had bynng Machabeus brennyng them/ that kepte

kep him safe on euery side with their weapons/ but those vartes and lyghtninges vpd the enemies / where thow they were confounded wold blindeesse/ and so sore afrayed that they fell vayne. There were slayne of fore men twentie thousande and v. C. and vii hundred boismen. As for Timotheus hym self/ he fled vnto Hager a very strong hold/ where in Lercas was captayne. But Machabecus a his company layed siege to it cherefully uerces. Now they that were within trusting to the strength of the place / cursed and banned recedingly/ and made greate crafyng with wicked wordes. Cleuerlyesse/ vpon the fifth daye in the morninge twentie yonge men of Machabecus company/ byngge set on fire in their mynde because of the blasphemie: came manfully vnto the wall / and with golde stomackes they and theyr other companions clymmed vp vpon the wrec/ and crafyng to set fire vpon the portes/ and to burne those blasphemous persons quyle. Two dayes were they destroyinge the castell whiche when they founde Timotheus / that was crept into a corner / they kyled hym. and stowe Lercas his brother in lyke manner with Appollonance. When this was done/ they songe Psalmes with praise and thankes/ geuyngs vnto the Lorde/ which had done so grete thynges for Isreal/ and giuen them the victory.

The. XI. Chapter.

WH longe after this/ Lysias the kynge of Egiptwarde and a kynsman of his/ (whiche had the gouernance of his matter) toke soie displeasure for the thynges that had happened/ and when he had gathered his armyen of fore with all the hoste of the boismen/ he came againste the Jewes/ thinkinge to wyne the cytie/ to make it an habitation for the Gentens/ and the temple wolde he haue to be an house of iure / lyke as the other goddes houses of the Gentens are/ and to sel the puelles office euery yere. Not consideringe the powere of God/ but was wylde in his mynde/ to wyngge in the multitude of fore men/ in thousandes of boismen / and in hys ixxx Elephanes.

So he came into Jewry/ and then to Beir sura/ a castell of defence/ lyinge in a narrowe place byr surlonges from Jerusalem / and wanne it. Howe when Machabecus and his company knew that he stronge holdes were taken/ they fl to theyr prayers with weping. ¶ And nere befoie the Lorde/ and althe people in lyke maner thoughte hym / that he wolde sende a good aungill to Belser/ Jstascl. Machabecus hym selfe was the firste that made hym ready to the battayll/ exhortyng the other that were with hym / to reuerbe them selfe/ and to helpe theyr brethren. And when they were gosynge forth of Jerusalem together/ with a ready and wyllyng mynde/ there appeared befoie them vpon horsebacke a man in whyte clothinge with barnesse of golde/ sharyngge his speare. Then they prayesed the Lorde altogether / whiche had rescued them mercy/ and were comforted in their mynde: in so muche that they were ready/ not onely to fyghte with men / but with the most cruell Beastes/ yee / and to runne thow row welles of iron.

Thus they wente on wyllyngly / hauyngge an helpe from heauen/ and the Lorde mercyfull vnto them. They fell mightily vpon theyr enemies lyke Lions/ thoughte thonne thousand fore men / xv. hundred boismen/ put all the other to flyght/ many of the beinge wounded/ and some gas awaye naked. Yet Lysias hym selfe was fayne to flye shamefully / and so to escape. Cleuerlyesse/ the man was not withoute vnderstaubinge / but considered by him selfe that his powere was minished/ and pondied hom the Jewes beinge sende by the helpe of almighty God / were not able to be ouercome: wherfore he consented to all thynges which were reasonable/ and to make the kynge their frende. So the whiche prayer of Lysias Machabecus agreed/ fyngge in althynges the comune wealth / and wherfore Machabecus wrote vnto Lysias concerninge the Jewes/ the kynge graunted it. For there were letters wyten vnto the Jewes from Lysias conteynynge these wordes.

Lysias sendeth gretyngs to the people of the Jewes. Ihon and Abislon which were sente from you / Belserued me wynges/ and and requyred me to fulfill the thinges concerninge their carande. Therfore loke what myght be graunted. I certifyed the kynge therof and what soeuer was conuenient / I agreed thereto. If ye now wyll be faithfull in the matere / I shall endeuer my self hereafter also to do you good. As concerninge other thinges by every article therof / I haue commytred them to youre messaungers / and to those whome I sente vnto you / to comune with you of the same / as theye shall see. In the hundred and xviij. daye of the moneth Dioscorinius.

Whome the kynge's lettre concernyd these wordes: kynge Antiochus sendeth greninge vnto his brother Lysias. For so muche as our father is now dead / our will is / that they which are in oure realme / shuld withoute any insurrection / and every man to be diligent in his owne matere. We vnderstande also / that the Jewes wolde not consente to oure father / for to be brought vnto the custome of the Gentiles / but they fly to kepe theirowne statutes / for the which cause they requyre of vs also / to let them remayne still by theirowne lawes.

¶ Wherefore oure mynde is / that this people shalbe in rest: we haue concluded and determined also / to restore them theyr temple / gaynes: that they maye lyue accordinge to the vic and colline of theyr forefathers. Thou shalt do vs a pleasure therfore / if thou sende vnto them / agre with them: that when they are certifyed of oure mynde / they maye be of good cheare / and loke to theyr owne wealthe.

And this was the lettre that the kynge wrote vnto the Jewes: kynge Antiochus sendeth greninge vnto the counsayll / and the other people of the Jewes. If ye see well / we haue oure desire: as for vs / we are in good health. Menelaus came and tolde vs / howe that youre desire was to come vnto to youre people / which are with vs.

Wherefore those that wyll come / we geue them fre liberte / vnto the xxx. daye of the moneth of Tysyll / that they maye vse the meates of the Jewes / and theyr owne lawes / like as afore: and none of them by any maner of wayes to haue harme / for thinges done in ignorance. Menelaus whome we haue sent vnto you / shall comon with you at large / as theye will. In the C. lviij. yeare / the xv. daye of the moneth of Tysyll.

The Romaynes also sent a lettre / concerninge these wordes: Quintus Minnius / and Tirus Manlius / Ambassadors of the Romaynes / sende gretinge vnto the people of the Jewes. Loke what Lysias the kynge's kynsman hath graunted you / we graunt you the same also. But as concerninge the thinges which he referred vnto the kynge / sende hyther some with speede: and ponder the matere diligently amonge youre selves / that we maye cause the best to youre profyte / for we muste departe now vnto Antioche. And therfore wyte shortlye agayne / that we maye knowe youre mynde. Fare well. In the hundredth eghte and fourty yeare / the xlvij. daye of the moneth of Tysyll.

The XIII. Chapter.

¶ When these conuauentes were made / Lysias wente vnto the kynge / and the Jewes tylld theyr grounde. But Tymotheus / Appollonius the sonne of Gemes / Teremes / and Demophon the gouerneur / Hycanot the captayne of Cyprus / and theyr layen those places / wolde not let them haue in rest and peace. They of Zappa also / whiche were such a shamefull side: they perswaded the Jewes that they shoulde amonge them to go with theyr wyfes and chyldren into the theyppes / which they had prepared / and theyr with the as though they had ought them no euill wyll. So: so muche then as there was gone forth a generall proclamation thowme the cause of peace / they consented thereto / and subscribed nothinge: but when they were gone into the theyppes / they slaundered no lesse than two hundred of them.

When Judas knewe of this crueltie / he went vnto his people / he commaunded those that were with hym to make them ready: / as they charged them to call vpon God the righteous iudge / wntre forth agaynst those murderers of his brethren / set fyre in the haue in the same place.

There was also in the same place a tower of L. cubits high/beaped with asbes: but about it was fo made / that men mighte loke downe on euery syde. Whereinto the kynge commaunded that shameful person to be cast amongst the asbes/as one that w<sup>o</sup>ld excuse of all on graciousnesse. And reason it was/ that he should haue such a death/ and not to be buried: for he had done much mischief vnto the aulter of God / whose fire and asbes were holy / therefore was it right that he shoulde also shoulde be destroyed with asbes.

But the kynge was wode in his mynde/ and came to shewe him self in a cruell vnto the Jewes then his father was. Which reb<sup>e</sup> Judas perceaued / the commaunded the people call upon the Lo<sup>r</sup>d<sup>e</sup> by night and theye that he wold now helpe them also / yf hee as he had done alwaye: (for they were afrayed to be put from their laue / from the natural countre and from the holy temple:) and not to suffer the people (which a litle while afore beganne to recourte) to be subdued againe of the blasphemous nations.

So when they had done this together/ and besoughte the Lo<sup>r</sup>d<sup>e</sup> for mercy / with weeping and fastinge thre dayes longe / that upon the grounde: Judas exhorted them to make them selves ready. But he a the elders together desired to go forth first with their people/ afore the kynge thoughte his hooste into Jewry/ and afore he beseged the cite/ and so to committe the matter vnto God. Wherefore he ascribed the power of all thinges vnto God the maker of the woulde / exhortinge his people to fight manfully / yee / euen vnto death. For the lawes/ the temple / the cytie/ their owne natue countre/ and to defende the ciuities/ and for his hoost before M<sup>o</sup>den. He gaue them also that were with him / a token of the victory of God / choosinge oute the manliest yonge men/ wente by night into the henge position / fflowe of the hoost prig. M<sup>o</sup> / men / and the greatest Elephas / with those that sat upon them.

Thus when they had thoughte a greate feare and trowre among the tentes of their enemies/ and all thinges wente prosperously with them / they departed in the breake of the daye/ God beinge their helper and Refor<sup>r</sup>der. Then when the kynge perceaued the manlynesse of the Jewes/ he wente aboute to take the stronge places by craft/ and renoued his hooste vnto T<sup>o</sup>chisura / whiche was a well kepte house of defence of the Jewes: but they were chaast awaie/ burnt and vscomfited. And Judas sente vnto them that were in / such thinges as were necessary. In the Jewes hooste also there was one Rhobecus / whiche tolde the enemies their secretes: but they sought hym oute / and when they had gotten hym / they put hym in prison. After this the kynge commaunde with them that were in T<sup>o</sup>chisura/ to kee truce with them / be parted/ a stroke a battail with Judas / who ouercame him.

But when he vnderstode that Philippe (whome he had leste to be ouerfere of his busynesse at Antioche) beganne to rebell against him/ he was astonnied in his mynde / so that he yelid him selfe to the Jewes/ and made them an oath to do whatsoeuer they thoughte righte. Nowe when he was reconcyled with them / he offered / made much of the temple / gaue greate gyfte vnto / enbued Machabeus/ makinge hym captaine and gouernoure from Ptolomays vnto the Gerrenes.

Nevertheless / when he came to Ptolomais/ the people of the cite were not content with that bonde of frendshippe: for they were afrayed that he wold breake the conuallu: Then wente Lisan vp into the scate / and enfourmed the people / shewed them the cause why/ and pacified them. So he came againe to Antioche. This is now the matter concerninge the henges iourney and his returne.

The XIII. Chapter.

After thre yeares was Judas enfourmed / that whome that Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus was come vp with a greate power and shippes / thorothe the haven of Tripolis (to take certayne commedious places and countre) agaynste Antiochus and hys captayne Elytas. Now Alymus (which had bene hygh priest / a wilfully defyled him self in the tyme of the myrringe / sayng / that by no means he coulde be helpe / nor haue any more entrance to the altar: he came to King Demetrius in the hundredth and one and fiftye yere / presentyng vnto hym a crowne of golde / a palme / a olyue tree which (as men thought) belonged to the temple / that daye he helde his tynge.

B But when he had gotten oportunitie for his mabnesse / Demetrius called him to counsaill / and asked him what thynge or counsaile the Jerrees leered vnto: He answered: The Jerrees that be called Assides / whose captayne is Judas Machabeus / mainteyne warres / make insurrection / and will not let the realme be in peace.

So: I beyng depyued of my fathers honoure / I meaner f hygh priesthode / am come hither partly / because I was saythfull vnto the kynge / and partly because I sought the profyt of the cittyens. And why: all oure people (whosoev the wickednesse of them) are not a litle troubled. Wherefore I beseeche the (o kynge) consider all these thynges diligently / and then make some prouision for the lande and the people / according to the kyndnesse that thou hast offered vnto them. For: as long as Judas hath the upper hande / it is not possible that men can lyue in peace.

When he had spoken these wordes / other frendes also hauyng euell will at Judas / set the kynge Demetrius on fire agaynst him /

j. Ma. viij. c. ¶ Which immediately sent Nicano (ruler of the Elephanes) a captayne into Jewry: commaunding hym to take Judas hym self aloue / but to slaye them that were with him / and to make Alymus hygh priest of the temple.

C Then the Seriben which fled out of Jewry from Judas / came to Nicano by flockes / thinkinge the harme and decaye of the Jewes to be their welfare. Now when the Jewes herde of Nicanos commyng / and the gatheringe together of the Seriben: they speecheled the selfes with carth / & adought him (which made them his people / and euersendebd his owne poicion with euerydow fers. that he wolde perserue them still. So as the commaundement of the captayne / they removed from thence / and came to a toun called Bessafan. And Symon Judas drew ther self in hande with Nicano / but thow the sabaue commyng of the enemies / he was afrayed.

Newerbelos / Nicano: hearinge the manerlynnes of them that were with Judas / and the bolde stomackes / they had to fight for their natural countrie / durst not proue the matter with bloodshedding. Wherefore he sent Possidenius / Theodosius and Matheo before / to greue and to take peace. So when they had taken longe aduysment thereupon / and the captayne shewed it vnto the multitude: they were agreed in one mynde to haue peace. And they appoynted a daye to sit vpon these matters quietly amonge them selves / the shoke also were brought and set forth. Neuerbelos / Judas commaunded certayne men of armes to wateyn comenit places / lest there shoulde suddenly aryse any euill that rowe the enemies. And so they comenit reasonably together.

Nicano / whyle he abode at Jerusalem / ordeid hym self not unreasonably / but first awaie the people that were gathered together. He loued Judas euer with his heart / and fauoured hym. He prayed hym also to take a wyse / and to bringe forth chyldren: So he married / lyued in rest / and they led a comynne lyfe. But Alymus perceauyng the loue that was betwyxe them / and how they were agreed together / came to Demetrius / and tolde hym that Nicano had taken strange matters in hande / and ordeyned Judas (an enemy of the realme) to be the kynge successor. Then the kynge was for to speare successe / and thow the wicked accensions which Alymus made of Nicano / he was so prouoked / that he wrote vnto Nicano / sayng: that he was very angry for the friendship and agreement / which he had made with Machabeus. Neuerbelos / he commaunded hym in all the hast / that he shoulde take Machabeus prisoner / and sende hym to Antioche.

Which litters when Nicano had sent /

he was

he was at hyo wytted ende/ and fore greined/ wheren they had agreed: specially / seynge Machabees was the man that neuer dyd hym harme. But because he might not wishly stande the synge/ he sought opportunitie to fulfill his commaundement. Norwithstandyng/ when Machabees sawe that Nicano beganne to be churke vnto hym / and that he intreated hym more roughly then he was wonte/ he perceaued that such vnkyndnes came not of good/ and therefore he gathered a few of his iuen/ and with them him self from Vlicanus. Whiche when he knewe that Machabees had manfully picuicited hym/ he came into the greate and moost holy temple: and commaunded the priestes (whiche were dyngne their vsual offerings. to velyue hym the man. And when they sware that they coulde not sell/ where the man was whome he sought/ he stretched out his hande/ and made an oorb/ sayinge: If ye will not velyue me Judas captiue / I shall remoune this temple of God into a playne fildes/ I shall scape vour the aulter / and consecrate this temple vnto Bacus. After these wordes he departed.

¶ Then the priestes lifte vp theyr handes toward heauen/ and besought hym that was euer the Refunder of theyr people / sayinge: Thou O Lorde of all/ whiche haste neede of nothing/ wouldest that the temple of thy habitation shoulde be amonge vs. Therefore nowe/ moost holy Lorde/ kepe this house our vndefiled/ whiche lately was defiled. ¶ Nicore was accused vnto Nicano one Nazir/ an Alderman of Ierusalem/ a louer of the whole cite / and a man of good repute: whiche for the synde herre that he bare vnto the people/ was called a father of the Jewes. This man oft tymes/ when the Jewes were mynded to kepe them selues vndefiled/ besought and velyued them/ seynge contentedly fastly to spende his body and his lyfe for his people.

¶ So Nicano willinge to declare the hate that he bare to the Jewes/ sent syue hundred men to take him: for he thoughte / yf he gat hym/ he shoulde diuynge the Jewes in greate decaye. Howe when the people beganne to rushe in at his house/ to breake the doore/ and to set fyre on it: he seynge nowe taken/ wold haue defended him selfe with his sword: choosynge rather to dye manfully / then to yelde hym selfe to those wicked docters: and because of his noble stocke / he had rather haue bene put to extreme trouble.

¶ Norwithstandyng/ what tyme as he mist of his stroke for haste / and the multitude fell in violently betwixt the doore: he ranne boldly to the wall/ and cast hym selfe doune manfully among the beape of them / whiche gaue soone place to his fall/ so that he fell vpon his belly. Neuertheless / while there was yett breath within him/ he was mynded in his mynde: and while his bloude gushid oute scabbingly (for he was very sore wounded) he ranne thorow the myddell of the people/ and gat him to the toppe of a rocke. So while his bloude was nowe gone/ he toke oute his one sworde with both his handes/ and threwhem vpon the people: calling vnto the Lorde of lyfe and spere: to rewarde him this agayne/ and so he dyed.

The. XV. Chapter.

¶ Nowe when Nicano knewe that Judas was in the countrey of Samaria / he I. Ma. v. 28 thought with all his power to strike a fildes with him vpon a Sabbath daye. Neuertheless / the Jewes that were compelled to go with hym / sayde: We do not so cruelly and vnkindly / but halowe the Sabbath daye/ and worshipp him that cryth all thinges. For all this/ yett saide the vngenerous prynces: I Jo. ii. Reg. 37. there a mighty one in heauē that commaunded the Sabbath daye to be kepte: And whē they sayde: yea / the lyuing God / the myghty Lorde in heauen / commaunded the seuenth daye to be kepte / he sayde: And I am myghty vpon earth / and commaunded them for to arme them selues / and to performe the synge busynesse. Norwithstandyng / he myghte not haue his purpose.

¶ Nicano had deuyced with greate wyse to ouercome Judas / and to bringe ayde to the victory. But Machabees had euer a fast confidence and a perfect hope in God / that he wolde helpe him/and exhorted his people not to be afrayed at the commynge of the heuren/Sur alwaye to remember the helpe that had bene shewed vnto them from heauen/yea/and to be sure now also/that almighty God wolde geue them the victory. He spake vnto them out of the lawe and prophetes/puttinge them in remembrance of the Barnabais/that they had stricken asunder/and made them to be of a good courage.

So when their betters were plucked vp/ he shewed them also the beccarfulnessse of the Gethens/and how they wolde kepe no conue-nans nor oorb. Thus he weakened them not with the armour of shyde and speare/ but with wholesome wordes and exhortations.
He shewed them a dream also/wherby he made them all glad/ whiche was this:
He thought that he sawe Onias ( which had bene bygd piusly/ a vertuous and louynge man/ and of honest conuersacion/ wel spoken/ and one that had bene exercised in god-lines from a chyldre/ holdinge vp his handes toward heauen/ and prayinge for his people.
After this there appeared vnto him another man/ whiche was aged/ honorable and glorious. And Onias sayde: This is a louer of Gethens/ and of the people of Israel. This is he that payeth muche for the people/ and for all the holye cire: Jeremy the prophet of God.
He thought also that Jeremy helde oute his ryght hande/ and gaue him (namely vnto Judas) a sword of golde/ sayinge: Take this holye sword/ a gife from God/ wherewith thou shalt finallye vnto the enemies of the people of Israel.

And so they were well comforted/ shew-ing the wordes of Judas/ and toke courage vnto them/ so that the yonger men were determined in their myndes to fyght a to byde shy-flye aris: In so much that in the thynges which they toke in hande/ their boldnes shewed the same/ because the holye cire and the temple were in perill: for the which they toke more care then for their wyfes/ children/ Gethens/and kinfolkes. Agayn/ they that were in the citie/ were most careful for those which were to fyght. Now when they were all in a hope that the iudgement of the matter was at hande/ and the enemies sturre nye/ the host beinge set in aray/ the Eliphantes and hoismen/ eueryone standinge in his place/ Ma-chabeus considered the commynge of the multitude of the ordinaunce of sucher weapons/the cruellnesse of the bestialles/ and helde vp his handes toward heauen/ callinge vpon the Lorde that doeth wonders/ which geueth Iuda nor the victory after the multitude of weapons/ Iuda and power of the host/ but to the that please him/ according to his owne wil. Therefore: in his prayer he saide these wordes.

O Lorde/ shew that thyddel sende thine iud-gement/ and the kynne of Esdras kynge of Iu-da/ and in the host of Sennacherib sturre Iuda an hundredth a syue an foure score thousande/ Iuda sende now also thy good angell before vs (O Lorde of heauen) in the fransfulnessse of thy myghty arme: that they whiche come agaynst thy holye people to blaspheme them/ maye be afrayed. And so he made an ende of his wordes. Then Nicano: and they that were with him/ sturre nye with shames and songes: But Judas and his companie with prayer and callinge vpon God.

With their handes they smote/ but with theyr kyres they payed vnto the Lorde/ and stew: notwithstandinge the men: for thowthe present helpe of God they were gloriously comforted.

Now when they left of stand were turninge agayne with ioye/ they understoode that Nica-no: nor him selfe was slayne with the order. Then they gaue a greete shoute and a crye/ pray-yng the almighty Lorde with a loude voyce. And Judas ( whiche was euer ready to spende his body and lyfe for his cirefens) commanded to smyte of Nicano: hede/ with his arme and hande/ and to be brought to Jerusalem. When he came thre/ he called all the people/ and the priestes at the altir/with those that were in the castell/ and shewed them Nicano: hede/ and his wycked hande/ whiche he had presumptuously bolden vp agaynst the temple of God. He caused the tunge also of that vngodlye Nicano: to be cut in litle peeces/ and to be cast to the soles/and the cruel mans hande to be hangd vp beside the temple.

So every man gaue thanks vnto  $\gamma$  Loz<sup>de</sup> / sayinge / blessed be he that hath kepte his place vndersyde.

$\gamma$  As for Helicors heade /  $\dagger$  he hanged it vpon the hygh castell / for an eydent and playne token of the helpe of God. And so they agreed altogether to kepe that daye holy: namely / the xij. daye of the moneth Adar / which in the Syriane language is called the nexte daye before Mardocheus daye.

Thus was Helicor slayne / and from that tyme forth the Jewes had the citie in possession: And here will I now make an ende.

All the generations from Abraham to Dauid are fourente generations. From Dauid vnto the captiuitie of Babylon/ are fourente generations. From the captiuitie of Babylon vnto Christ are also fourente generations.

¶ The birth of Christe was on this wise: ¶ When his mother Marie was married to Ioseph before they came together/ she was founde with childe by the holy ghost. But reade: Be Ioseph her housband was a perfect man/ a fore they would not bringe her to shame/ but was myn/ for as hee ded to put her away secretly. She shall bringe forth a sonne/ and thou shalt call his name Iesus. for he shall saue his people from their synnes. ¶

All this was done that the thinge myghte be fulfilled/ which was spoken of the Lord by the Prophet sayinge: ¶ Beholde/ a mayden shall be with childe/ and she shall bringe forth a sonne/ and and they shall call his name Emmanuel; which is by interpretation; God with vs. I.

Now when Joseph awoke out of slepe/ he sayd as the angell of the Lord had sayd hym/ and toke his wyfe vnto him / and knewe her not tyll she had brought forth her first borne sonne/ and called his name Iesus.

The II. Chapter.

¶ When Iesus was borne at Bethleem in Jewry/ in the tyme of Herode the kynge. Beholde/ there came wyse men from the East to Jerusalem/ saying: where is he new borne kynge of the Jewes? we haue sene his starre in the East/ and are come to worshipp him.

When Herode the kynge had herde this/ he was troubled/ and all Jerusalem with him/ and he gathered all the chiefe Priestes & Scribes of the people/ and asked of the where Christ should be borne: And they sayde vnto him: at Bethleem in Jewry. for thus it is written by the Prophet: I And thou Bethleem in the lande of Iewry/ art not the least amonge the pynces of Iuda: I For out of the shall come vnto me the captayne/ that shall gouerne my people Israel.

¶ When Herode piously called the wyse men/ and diligently enquired of them/ what tyme the starre appeared/ and sent the to Bethleem/ sayinge: Go and searche diligently for the chyld. And when ye haue founde him/ bringe me worde a gayne/ that I may come & worshippe hym alio.

When they had herde the kynge/ they departed/ and so to the starre which they sawe in the East/ went before the/ tyll it came a shode ouer the place/ where the chyld was. Whē they sawe the starre/ they were maruailously glad: & went into the house / and founde the chyld with Mary his mother / & knelt doune and worshipped hym/ and opened theyr treasures/ and offered vnto hym gyfftes: Golde / frankensence and Myrr. And after they were warned of God in a dreame/ that they shoulde not go agayne to Herode / they returned into their owne countrey another waye. I.

¶ When they were departed/ beholde/ the angell of the Lord appeared to Joseph in a dreame/ sayinge: Arise/ and take the chyld & his mother/ and flye into Egypt/ and abyde there tyll I bringe thy worde. for Herode wil seke the chyld to destroy hym. Then he arose/ and toke the chyld and his mother by nyght/ and departed into Egypte / & was there vnto the death of Herode / that the thinge myght be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord/ by the prophet which sayeth: I out of Egypte shall I calld my sonne.

¶ When Herode perceauinge that he was deceaued of the wyse men / was exceedingly wroth/ and sent forth / and slew all the chyldren that were in Bethleem / and in all the coastes therof as many as were two yere olde and vnder/ accordinge to the tyme/ which he had diligently searched out of the wyse men.

¶ When was that fulfilled/ which was spoken by the Prophet Ieremye sayinge: I On the hylls was a voyce herde/ great mourninge/ weeping and lamentation: I A child weeping for her children/ and wolde not be comforted/ because they were not. I.

¶ When Herode was dead/ beholde/ an angell of the Lord appeared in a dreame to Joseph in Egypte sayinge: Arise/ and take the chyld and his mother / and go into the lande of Israel. for they are dead / which sought the chyldes lyfe. And he arose vp / and toke the chyld and his mother / & came into the lande of Israel. But when he herde that Archelus had raygne in Jewry / in the tyme of his father Herode / he was afraide to go thither. Notwithstandinge / after he was warned of God in a dreame / he turned aside in the parte of Galile / and went and dwells in a cytye called Nazareth / to fulfill that which was spoken by the prophetes / that he shall be called a Nazarene. I.

The III. Chapter.

Iohn forbode him / sayinge: I I haue neede to be baptysed of the: and cymnell thou to me?
Iesus answered and sayd vnto hym: Lette be so now. For thus it become. he vs to fulfill all ryghteousnes. Then he suffred hym.
And Iesus asone as he was baptysed / came strayght out of the water. And lo: heauen was open ouer hym: and Iohn saw the spirite of God descende lyke a Dove / and lyyghte vpon hym. And lo: there came a voyce from heauen sayinge: This is my beloued sone / in whosue is my delyte. I

The IIII. Chapter. ¶

¶ Then was Iesus led away of the spirite into wyldernes / to be temptid of the De-uyl. And wher he had fasted fortye dayes and fortye nyghtes / he was afterwarde an hungered. And the tempter came to hym and said: if thou be the sonne of God / commaunde that these stones be made bread. He answered sayde thus wynten: I Man shall not lyyche by bread onely: but by eury woide that procedeth out of the mouth of God.

Then the deuyl toke hym vp into the holy cint / and set hym on a pyssack of the Temple / and sayde vnto him: if thou be the sonne of God / cast thy selfe downe. For it is written: The Wolde ye se a man clothed in softe raiment?

Behold / they that ware softe clothinge / are in kynges houses. But what are ye gone oute for to see? A Prophet? Yee: I saye vnto you / and more then a Prophet. For this is he of whom it is written: Behold / I sende my messanger before thy face / whiche shall prepare thy waye before the.

¶ Verely I saye vnto you: Amonge the children of women arise there not a greater then Ihon the Baptiste. Nor standinge / be that is lesse in the kyngdome of heauen: then he. From the tyme of Ihon Baptiste hitherto / the kyngdome of heauen suffreth violence / and the violente plucke it vnto them. For all the prophetes and the lawe propheted vnto Ihon. Also if ye wyl re-ceane it / this is it: Heloe / which shalde come. Who so hath eares to heare / let him heare.

¶ But where vnto shall I liken this gret reuerence? This is he of whom it is written: I will sende my messan-
ger before thy face / whiche shall prepare thy waye before the. I have spted vnto you / and ye wolde not dauce: We haue iourneid vnto you / and ye wolde not receiue. For Ihon came neyther eattinge nor drynkinge / and they saye: he hath the deuell. The sonne of man came eatinge & drynkinge / and they saye: lo / what a glutton and wyne bebbler this man is / and a com-

¶ In the same tyme Iesus answered/ and sayde: ¶ I praye the. O father and Lord of heauen and earth: that thou haste byd these thinges from the wyse and prudent/ and opene their vnto babes. Euen so father/ for so it pleased the. ¶ All thinges are giuen ouer vnto me of my father: and no man knoweth the sonne but the father: neither knoweth any man the father/ save the sonne/ as he is whom the sonne will open it. Come vnto me all ye that labour and are labored/ and I will ease you. Take my yoke vpon you/ and learne of me/ for I am meke and lowly of heart/ and ye shall fynde rest vnto youre soules: for my yoke is easy/ and my burden is light. I

The XII. Chapter. **¶

¶ In the same tyme/ wente Iesus thither wher he came vpon the Sabbath/ and his disciples were hungrye/ and beganne to plucke of the ayres of the come/ and to eate. When the Pharisee sawe that/ they saide vnto hym: Behold/ thy disciples do that/ whiche is not lawfull to do vpon the Sabbath. He sayde vnto them: haue ye not red wher Dauid had/ whan he was hungrye/ and they also that were with hym? ¶ Howe he entered into the house of God/ and had eate the shewbreades/ whiche were not lawfull for him to eate. Neither for them that were with him/ but only for the priestes. ¶ Haue ye not red in the lawe/ haue that the priestes in the temple brake the Sabbath/ and yett are blamelesse? But I saye vnto you: that there is one greater then the temple. But if ye myt what this were/ ¶ I haue pleasure in mercy/ as not in offeringe: ye wolde not haue condemned innocēce. ¶ So: the sonne of man is Lord of the sabbath.

¶ And he departed thence/ and wente into Bethsainagoge: and beholds/ there was a man which had his hande dyed vp. And they saide vnto hym: Is it lawfull to heale vpon the Sabbath? because they mighte accuse him. But he sayde vnto them: Which of you is it/ if he had a shepe fallen into a pyre vpon the Sabbath/ that wolde not take hym/ and lifte hym out? And howe muche is a man better then a shepe: Therefore is it lawfull to do good vpon the Sabbath. Then sayde he to the man: stretche forth thy hande. And he stretched it forth: and it was whole againe/ like vnto the other. I

¶ Then wente the Pharisee out/ as heelde a counsaill agaynst hym/ howe they mighte destroye hym. But whan Iesus knewe thesereof/ he departed thence/ and muche people folowed hym: and he healede them all/ and charged them/ that they shoulde not make hym knowne: that the thinge mighte be fulfilled/ whiche was spoken by the prophet/ whiche sayeth: ¶ Behold/ this is my chosēn/ whom I haue chosēn/ and my beloued in whom my soule delighteth: I will put my spūe vpon hym/ and he shall shewe iudgemente vnto the heathen. He shall not stryue/ nor crye/ neither shall any man heare his voyce in the streete. ¶ This red he that he nor dreake/ and saze that he begynneth to burne shall be not quenched/ tyl he sende forth iudgement vnto victory. And in his name shall the heathen truste. I

¶ Then was there broughte vnto hym one possessed (of a deuell) the whiche was blynde. ¶ And he healed hym/ as he healede the blynde and deeme. ¶ They saide and saue. And all the people were amazed/ as they sayde: Is not this the sonne of Dauid? ¶ But whan the Pharisee herde that/ they sayde: He deceyueh the people/ and he doeth no more. ¶ But he answered/ and saide vnto them: Every kyngdome deuided within it selfe/ shalbe destroyed/ and euery cite or house deuided in it selfe may not stande. But if I caste oute devils thowome Belzebub/thowome whom I do your children cast them oute: Therfore shal they be youre iudges. But if I caste oute the devils by the sperte of God/then is the Kingdome of God come vnto you. ¶ Or how can a man entre into a stronge mans house/a violently take awaye his goodes/except he first binde the strong man/and the spoule his house? For that is not with me/so against me: and be that gathereth not with me /scattereth abroade. Therefore I saie vnto you: All synne and blasphemie shalbe forgiven vnto men/ but the blasphemy against the sperte shal not be forgiven vnto men: And whosoever speake a word against the sonne of man/it shalbe forgiven him: But whosoever speaketh against the holy ghoost/it shal not be forgiven him/ neither in this worlde/ nor in the worlde to come.

¶ Whether make the tree good and his fruite good also /or els make the tree euell and his fruite euell also. For the tree is knowen by the fruite. Or ye generation of vipers/how can ye speake good/when ye youre selues are euill?

¶ Then answered certaine of the Scribes and Pharisees/a said: Master /we wolde sayne for a token of the. And he answered a sayde vnto them: ¶ This euell and aduoucer your generation seeketh a token/and there shal no token be geuen them/But the token of a prophete Jonas. * For as Jonas was three dayes and thre nyghtes in the Whalles Belly/so shall the sonne of man be thre dayes /and thre nyghtes in the herte of the earthe. And when he cometh/ he fyndeth it empty/ swepe and garnished. Then goeth he his waye/and taketh vnto hym seven other spertes/ worse then him selfe/and when they are entred in/they dwell there. ¶ And the ende of that is to wote the beginninge. Then so shall it go with this euell generacion. * While heyer talked thus to the people/Behold/his mother and his brethren stood without/ besyng to speake with hym. ¶ Besyme I haue write Iesus oute of the house/and sat by the see syde/and much people resorted vnto hym: so that he wente into a shyppe and sat him doune/ and al the people stode vpon the shore. And he spake many thinges vnto them in similitudes sayinge: Beholde/The sonne wente forth to some/and as he soweth/some fall by the wayeside. Then came the fowles/and they ate it vp. Some fell vpon stony ground/and anon it sprung vp/ because it had no depth of earth. But when the Sunne arose/it caught beating for so much as it had no roote/it withered a waye. Some fell amonge the thornes/a the thornes grewe vnto a thicket. Some fell vpon good ground and gaue frute/some an hundred fold/some forty fold/some thirry fold. He answered and saide vnto the: Vnto you it is geuen to knowe the mystery of the Kingdome of heauen: / But vnto them it is not geuen. For <sup>1</sup> who so hath / vnto hym shalbe geuen: and he shall haue abundaunce. But <sup>2</sup> who so hath not / from him shalbe taken a waye: euen that he hath. Therefore saide I vnto them by paraboles: for with seynge eyes they se not: and with hearing eares they heare not: for they vnderstande it not. And in them is fulfilled the prophesie of Iesay: which saith: <sup>3</sup> Ye shall heare in heede: and shall not vnderstande: and they shall see with theyr eyes: and shall not perceiue. For the heert of this people is waxed grosse: and their eares are thicke of hearing: and theyr eyes haue they closed: lest they should once se with theyr eyes: and heare with the eares: / and vnderstande with the heertes: and thur that I might heale them. <sup>4</sup> But blessed are youre eyes: for they see: and youre eares: for they heare. Verely I say vnto you: / many prophetes and righteous men haue desired to se the thinges that ye se: / and haue not seene them: and to heare the thinges that ye heare: / and haue not herde them. <sup>5</sup> Heare ye therefore the parable of the sower: When one beareth the woide of the Kingdome and vnderstandeth it not: the euill man cometh and plucketh it awaye: that is sowne in his heert: and this is he that is sowne by the waye side. But he that is sowne in the stonny grounde is this: when one heareth the woide: and anon with ioye receaueth it: neuerthelesse he hath no rote in hym: / but endureth for a season: when trouble and persécution aryseth: because of the woide: / immediately he is offended. As for him that is sowne amonge the thornes: this is he: when one heareth the woide: / and the carefullnesse of this worlde: / and the decaifullnesse of rychar shalbe the woide: / and so he becometh vnfructuall. But he that is sowne in the good grounde is this: when one heareth the woide: / and vnderstandeth it: and bringeth forth frute: and some geteth an hundred fold: some sixty fold: and some thirty fold.

Another parable put he forth vnto them and saide: The Kingdome of heauen is like vnto a man: which sowed good seede: in his fild. But whyle men slepe: there came an enemy: / and sowed tares amonge the wheat: / and wente his waye. Nowe when the blade was sprong vp: and broughte forth frute: then the tares appeared also. Then came the seruantes to the householder: / and saide vnto hym: Sy: sowedest thou not good seede in thy fild: from whence then hath it tares. He sayde vnto them: that hath the enemye done. Then sayde the seruantes: wilt thou then that we go and weede them out. He saide: No: lest while ye weede oute the tares: / ye pluck vp the wheat also with them. Let them both growe together: till the harvest: and in tyme of harvest I will saye vnto the reapers: Gather the tares first: and brynde them in sheeres to be burnt: but gather the wheat into my barnes. <sup>6</sup>

Another parable put he forth vnto them and saide: The Kingdome of heauen is like vnto a graine of musterde seede: whiche a man took: and sowed it in his fild. Which is the leest amonge all seedes. But when it is growen: it is the greatest amonge herbes: and is a tree: so that the byrdes vnder the heauen come and dwell in the boughes of it.

Another parable spake he vnto them: The Kingdome of heauen is like vnto leuen: which a woman took: and mixte it amonge the peeces of meale: all of tres leuend.

All such thinges spake Iesus vnto the people by paraboles: / and withoute paraboles: spake he nothinge vnto them: that the thing mighte be fulfilled: which was spoken by the prophet sayinge: I will open my mouth in paraboles: and will speake oute the secretes fro the beginninge of the worlde. <sup>7</sup>

Then sente Iesus the people awaye: and came home. And his disciples came vnto him and saide: Declare vnto vs the parable of the tares of the fild. Iesus answered and saide vnto the: He that soweth the good seede is the sonne of man: the seide is the woide: the good seide are the chylidren of the Kingdome: The tares are the chylidren of wyckednesse: the enemye that soweth them is the deuill: the harvest is the ende of the worlde: the reapers are the angels. For like as the tares are weeded out: and burnt in the fyre: / euen so shall it go in the ende of this worlde. The sonne of man shal sende forth his angels: / and

He answered and saide vnto the: Vnto you is giuen to knowe the mystery of the Kingdome of heauen: / But vnto them it is not gi-uen. For who so hath vnto hym shal be gi-uen: and he shall haue abundaunce. But who so hath not: from him shal be taken awaye: euen that he hath.

Therefore speake I vnto them by parables: for with seeyng eyes they see not: and with hearing eares they heare not: for they vnderstande it not. And in them is fulfilled the prophesy of Esay: which saith:

Ye shall heare in heere: and shall not vnder-stand: and shall seeing eyes shal see: and not perceiue. For the heerte of this people is waxed grosse: and their eares are thicke of hearing: and they eyes haue they closed: lest they should once see with they eyes: and heare with the eares: and vnderstande with the heerte: and turne that I might heale them.

But blessed are your eyes: for they see: and your eares: for they heare. Verely I say vnto you: I many prophetes and righteous men haue desired to see the thinges that ye see: and haue not seene them: and to heare the thinges that ye heare: and haue not herde them.

Heare ye therefore the parable of the sower: When one beareth the woide of the Kingdome: and vnderstandeth it not: the euill man cometh and plucketh it awaye: that is sowne in his heerte: and this is he that is sowe by the waye side. But he that is sowne in the stonne grounde: is this: when one beareth the woide: and anon with ioy receaueth it: neuerthelesse he hath no rote in hym: but endureth for a season: when trouble and persecution ar-yseth: because of the woide: / immediately he is offended. As for him that is sowne amonge the thornes: this is he: When one beareth the woide: and the carefullnesse of this woide: / and the necessauntesse of rythes choke the woide: / and so be becomeeth vnfirtefull.
But he that is sowne in the good ground: is this: when one beareth the woide: / and vnderstandeth it: and bringeth forth frute: and some getteth an hundred folde: / some sixty folde and some thirty folde.

Another parable put he forth vnto them and saide: The Kingdome of heauen is like vnto a man that sowed good seede in his fild.
But while men slepe: there came an enemy:

and sowed tares amonge the wheate: and wente his waye. Howe when the flade was spide vp: and broughte forth frute: then the tares awoke also. Then came the seruauntes to the householder: / and saide vnto hym: Syr: sowedest thou not good seede in thy fild: from whence then hath it tares. He sayde vnto them: that hath the enemye done. Then sayde the seruauntes: wilt thou then that we go and weede them out? He saide: No: lest while ye weede oute the tares: / ye pluck vp the wheate also with them. Let them both growe together: till the harvest: and in tyme of haruest: / I will saye vnto the reapers: Gather the tares first: and bynde them in sheues: to be burnt: but gather the wheate into my garne. I

Another parable put he forth vnto them
and saide: The Kingdome of heauen is like vnto a graine of mustarde seede: whiche a man soweth: and sowed it in his fild. Which is the leest amonge all seedes. But when it is grow-en: it is the greatest amonge herbes: and is a tree: so that the byrdes vnder the heauen come and dwell in the braunches of it.

Another parable spake he vnto them: The Kingdome of heauen is like vnto leuen: whiche a woman toke: and mixte it amonge the peeses of mee: till all was leuened.

All iuche thinges spake Iesus vnto the people by parables: / and withoute parables: / spake he nothinge vnto them: that the thing mighte be fulfilled: whiche was spoken by the prophet sayinge: I will open my mouth in parables: and will speake oute the secretes fro the beginninge of the worlde. I Then sent Iesus the people awaye: and came home. And his discipules came vnto him: and saide: Declare vnto vs the parable of the tares of the fild. Iesus answered and saide vnto the: He that soweth the good seede is the sonne of man: the fild is the worlde: the good seede are the chyliden of the Kingdome: The tares are the chyliden of wyched-nesse: the enemye that soweth them is the Deuill: the harvest is the ende of the worlde: the reapers are the angels. For soe as the tares are weeded out: and bent in the fyre: / so shall it go in the ende of this woelde.

The sonne of man shal sende sayth his angels:

there shalbe wayninge a gna syngne of teeth.
¶ Then shal the righteous shine as the Sonne in the kyngdome of their father. Who so hath eares to heare/let him heare. ¶

¶ Againe/the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a treasure hid in the felde/which a man founde and hid it:/for soe therof he went a solde all that he had/and bought that felde.

¶ Againe/the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a marchant that sought good pearles/¶ And whan he had founde a precious perle/ he went and solde all that he had / a bought it.

¶ Againe the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a net cast into the see/wherewith are taken all manner of fyshes/and whan it is full/ men drawe it out vnto the shore/and syt and gar-ther the good into the vessels/But cast the bad

The angells shall go oute/and seuer the bad from the righteous/and shall cast them into a foulnace of fyre/ there shalbe wayninge and

¶ And Iesus sayde vnto them: Hencye vnderstande all these thynges? They saide: yea Lorde. Then said he vnto them: Therfore eu-ery sene taught vnto the kyngdome of heauen is like an housholder/which bringeth out of his treasure thynges new and olde. ¶

¶ And it came to passe whan Iesus had ended these parables/ he departed thence/ and came into his owne countrie/and taught the in their Synagoges: in so muche that they were astonyed and saide: Whence cometh suche wysdome and power vnto him? ¶ Is not this the carpenters sonne. Is not his mother called Mary? and his brethren Jar-mee and Iosef/and Simd and Jude? And are not all his sisters here with vs? Whence hath he then all these thynges? And they were offended at hym. But Iesus saide vnto them: ¶ A prophet is no where lesse set by/then at home and amonge his owne. And he saied vnto many miracles there/ because of their vnbefle.

The XIII. Chapter.

¶ At that tyme Herode the Tetrarcha herde of the faime of Iesu/and sayde vnto his seruauntes: this is Iohn the Baptist. He is rysen again fro the dead/ therefore are his deeds so myghty. ¶ For Herode had taken Iohn/and bounde hym/ and put hym in prison for He-rodis sake his wyfes brother Philip wife. For Iohn saide vnto him: ¶ It is not lawfull for the to haue her. And sayne wolde he haue put hym to death/ but he feared the people/ because they helde hym for a Prophet.

¶ But whan Herode belde his 7 brethren the daughter of Herodias daunced before them/and that pleased Herode well/ wherefore he promysed her with an ooth: that he wolde geue her whatsoeuer she wolde aske.
¶ And helde syng instruente of her mother aske sayde: geue me Iohn Baptistes heade in a platter. And the kynge was fowle. ¶ Her letter: so the oothes sake/ and them that sat by him at the table/ he commaunded it to be geuen her/ and sent/ and beheaded Iohn in the prison. And his heade was broughte in a plater/ and geuen to the damzell/ and she broughte it vnto her mother. Then came his disciples/and toke his body/ and buried it/ and wene and tolde Iesus.

¶ Whan Iesus herde that/ he departed thence by shyppe into a desert place alone. ¶ ¶ And whan the people herde thereof/ they followed him on foote oute of the ciues. And Ie-sus went forth/ and sawe much people/ and had pite vpon them/ and heald their syfte.
¶ And at euen came his disciples vnto hym/and sayde: This a desert place / and the nyghte falleth on: let the people depart from the/ that they maye go into the townes/ and bye them viualles. But Iesus saide vnto them: They neede not go away/ geue ye them to eate. Then sayde they vnto him: We haue here but fyue loaves and two fyshes. And he saide: bringe them byrther. And he commaunded the people to syt downe vpon the grasse/toke the fyue loaves and two fyshes/ and loked vp toward heauen/ and gaue thankes and brake/ and gaue the loaves vnto the disciples/and the disciples gaue the to the people. And they all had eate/ and were sufficed.
¶ And they gathered vp of the broken meate remayned ouer/ twelfe baskettes full. And they that had eate/ were aboute a fyue thousande men/ Besyde waimen and children.

22. v. c. ¶ And straight waye Iesus made his disciples to entre into a shypp/ and to go ouer before him/tyll he had sent the people awaye. And when he had sent the people awaye/ he wente up into a mountayne alone/ to make his prayer. And at euen was he there hym selfe alone. And the shypp was already in the myddest of the see/ a was rollt the waues/ for the wind was contrary. But in the fourth ward of the night/ Iesus came vnto them/ walking vpon the see. And when his disciples sawe him going vpon the see/ they were afrayed/ sayinge. It is some spites/ and cryed out for feare. But straight waye spake Iesus vnto the/ and sayde. Be of good cheare/ it is I that am not afrayed. Peter answered him and sayde. Lorde/ if it be thou/ byd me come vnto the vpp the water. And he sayde. Come on thy waye. And Peter slept out of the shypp/ and went vpon the water to come vnto Iesus. But when he sawe a myghty winde/ he was afrayed/ and beganne to synke / a cryed/ sayinge. Lorde/ helpe me. And immediatly Iesus stretched forth his hande/ a caught him a said vnto him. O thou of litle faith/ wherefore doubtest thou. ¶ And they wente into the shypp/ and the wynd ceased. Then they that were in the shypp/ came and fell downe before him/ and said: O that we had knowlege of hym/ they sent out in that countrie rounde aboute/ and soughte vnto him all that were there/ and besought him/ that they mighte but touch the hem of his vesture onely. And as many as touched it/ were made whole.

The XV. Chapter.

1. ¶ Then came vnto hym the Scribes and Pharisees from Ierusalem/ sayinge. Why do thy disciples transgresse the traditions of the eldres: for they wofte not theyr handes when they eate bread. He answered and sayde vnto them: Why do ye transgresse the commaundement of God/ because of youre owne traditions: for God commaunded/ sayinge. Honour father and mother / and he that curseth father and mother / shall dye the death. But ye saye: Every man shall sweare to father or mother. The thyngs that I should helpe the verbalis geuen vnto God. By this is it come to pass/ that no man honoureth his father or his mother any more. And thus haue ye made the commaundement of God of none effecte/ for your owne traditions. Ye hypocrites/ shall well haue they propheted of you/ and said: This people hath theye vnto me with their lipps/ and honoureth me with their lipps/ but their heart is farre fro me. But in waye do theye forie me/ while theye teache suche doctrines as are not thyngs but the commaundementes of men. And he called the people to hym/ a saide vnto them: Heare and vnderstande. That which cometh in the mouth/ defileth not a man: but that which cometh out of the mouth/ defileth the man.

Then came his disciples/ and saide vnto him: Knowest thou that the Pharisees were offended/ when they herde this sayinge. He answered and said. ¶ All plantes which my heuently father hath not plantet/ shall be plucked vpp by the rootes. Let the go/ they are the blind leaders of the blinde. Wha one blinde leadereth another/ they fall both in the dyche.

¶ Then answered Peter and saide vnto hym: Declare vnto vs this parable. And Iesus sayde vnto them: Are ye yett withoute vnderstandinge: Perceave ye not/ that whateuer cometh in the mouth/ descendeth downe into the belly/ and is cast oute into the draughte: But the thyngs that procedeth oute of the mouth/ cometh from the herte/ and that defileth the man. For oute of the herte cometh euill thoughtes: murder/ breakinge of wedlocke/ whoredome/ theft/ false witnessh/ blasphemye. These are the thyngs that defyle a man. But to eate with vnwashed handes/ defileth not a man.

¶ And Iesus wente out from thence/ a departed into the coastes of Tyre and Sidon. And beholde/ a woman of Canaan went out of the same coastes/ and cryed after hym/ sayinge. O Lorde/ thou soune of Dauid/ haue mercy vpon me. My daughter is sore vexed with a deuill. And he answered her neuer a word. Then came his disciples vnto him/ and besought him/ sayinge. Sende her awaye/ for she cryeth after vs. But he answered/ and saide: I am not sent but vnto the lost shepe of the house of Israel. Whom I stand saide/Lorde helpe me. He answered and sayd: It is not good to take I childrens bread/and to cast it vnto dogges. It is trusty Lorde/sayde she: Neuertheless/ the whelpes eat of the crummes that fall from their lords table. Then answered Iesus/ and sayde vnto her: O woman/ grate to thy sayth/ he it vnto heire as thou sayest. And her bougher was made whole at the same houre. f

¶ And Iesus departed thence/ and came nye vnto the see of Galilee/ and wente vp into a mountayne/ and sat doune there. And there came vnto him muche people/ hauinge with them lame/ blinde/ dumme/ crepell and other many/ and caule them doune at Iesus feete.

¶ And he healede them/ in so muche that the people mounde vnto se the doctinne speake/ the crepell whole/ the blinde to go/ and the blinde to se. And they prayse the God of Israel.

¶ And Iesus called his Disciples vnto him/and saide: I haue compassion vpon the people/ for they haue continued with me now the daye/ and haue nothinge to eat/ and I wil not let them departe fasting/ lest they per-rishe in the waye. And his Disciples saide vnto him: Whence shoulde we get so muche bread in the wyternesse/ that we mighte satisfy so muche people? and Iesus sayde vnto them: How many loaves haue ye? They said: seuen loaves/ and a fewe litle fishes. And he commaunded the people to syt doune vpon the grounde/ and toke the seuen loaves/ and the fishes/ and gaue thankes/ and brake them/and gaue them to his Disciples/ and his Disciples gaue them to the people. And they al dyd eate/ and were satisfied. And they toke vp the broken meate that was lefte/ seuen baskettes full. And they that dyd eate/ were foure thousande men besyde women and children. f And when he had sent awaye the people/ he wente into a shippe/ and came into the parts of Magdala.

The XVI. Chapter.

¶ Then came the Pharisees and Saducees vnto him/ and tempted him/ required him to shewe them a token fro heauen. But he answered and saide: at euen ye saye I wil be saye: wether/ for the skye read. And in the morninge ye saye it will be foule wether to daye/ for the skye is read/ and gloometh. W ye yocraies/ ye can discern the fashion of the skye/ can ye not then discern the tokens of these tymes also? ¶ The euell and aduocate roue generation seeketh a token/ and there shal no token be giuen them/ but the token of the prophete Ionas. So he lefte them/ and departed.

¶ And when his Disciples were come to the other side of the water/ they had forgotten to take bread with them: Iesus said vnto the:
Take hyde and beware of the leuen of the Pharisee/ and of the Saducees. Then thoughte they in their selues/ saying: We haue taken no bread with vs. Whan Iesus perceaued that he said vnto them: O ye of little fayth/ why are ye cumbered in your myndes. Because ye haue taken no bread with you: Whye not ye perceaued? Remembre ye not those fyue loaves/when there were fyue thousand men/ and howe many baskettes toke ye vp? ¶ Neither the seuen loaves/ when there were foure thousande men/ and howe many baskettes toke ye vp? Whye perceaued ye not then/ that I speake not to you of bread/ when I sayde: beware of the leuen of the Pharisee/ and of the Saducees? Then vnderstode they/ howe that he had not them beware of the leuen of bread/ but of the doctrine of the Pharisee/ and of the Saducees.

¶ Then came Iesus into the coastes of the cint Cesarea Philippi/ and asked his Disciples/and sayde: Whome do men saye I am? ¶ They sayde: Some saye thou art Ihon the Baptistes/some saye thou art Ihon the Baptistes/some saye thou art Ieremie/ or one of the prophetes. He saide to them: But whome saye ye that I am? Then answered Simon Peter/ and saide: ¶ Thou art Chryste the sonne of the lyuinge God. And Iesus answered/ and saide vnto him: Blessed art thou Simon the sonne of Ionas/ for stille a floude hath not opened thar vnto the/ but I haue sayd that thou art Peter/ and vpon this I will bulde my congregacion/ and the gates of hell shall not preuaile againste it. And the eyes of heauē will be giuen vnto the: Whar-bounde also in heauen: And whatsoever thou shalt loose upon earth / shall be loosed also in heauen: ¶ Then charged he his disciples / that they should tell no man that he was Jesus Christ.

¶ Then sayde Jesus vnto his disciples: If any man will followe me: let him forsake him selfe and take vpon his crosse / and followe me. For who so will saue his life / shall lose it: but who so loseth his life for my sake / shall finde it. What helpech it a man / though he wanne the whole worlde / and yet suffred harne in his soule: Or what canne a man geue to redeme his soule: which shall come in the glo: of his fa: ther with his aungels / and then shall be rewarded every one accordinge to his dedes. Verily I saye vnto you: wher stande here some / which shall not rayse of death / till they see the sonne of man come in his kingdome.

The XVII. Chapter.

¶ And after sic dayes Jesus toke Peter / James / and John his brother / and brought them vp into an high mountaine / out of the waye / and was transfigured before them: and his face shone as the sonne / and his clothes were as white as the snow / and beholde / there appeared vnto the Moses / and Elias talkinge with him. The answered Peter / a sayde vnto Jesus: Lord / here is good bryng for vs: If thou wilt / let vs make here three tabernacles / one for the one for Moses / a one for Elias: while he yet spake / beholde / a bright cloude ouer shadowed the: a voice came a voice out of the cloude sayinge: This is my deare sonne / in whom I delect / heare him. When the disciples heard / they fel vpon their faces / a were sic afraid. But Jesus came a touched the: g saide: Arise / be not afraid. And when they stode vp / they sawe no man but Jesus onely.

¶ And when they came downe from the mountayne / Jesus charged the: a sayd: Tell no man of this vntill the sonne of man be risen againe fro the dead. ¶ And his disciples asked him / a sayd: why saye the Scribes them / that Elias must first come: Jesus answered a said vnto them: Elias shal come first in dede / a thing al readye to right againe. But I say vnto you: Elias is come already / a the: knew him not / but haue done vnto him what they wolde. But so shall also the sonne of man suffer of the. Then perceived the disciples / that he spake vnto the of John the Baptist.

¶ And wha they were come to the people / there came vnto him a certain man / a kneled vnto him / a said: Lord haue mercy vpon my sonne: for he is lunatique / a sore wred. For all the tyme that he is in the fyre / a in the water: a I brought him vnto thy disciples / a the: could not heale him: and Jesus answered / a said: O thou faithles a froward generation / how long shall I be to you: How long shall I suffer you: Bring him hither to me / a Jesus rebuked him / and the deuil went out of him / and the child was healed euen the same hour.

¶ The came the disciples vnto Jesus secretly a said: why could not we cast him out: Jesus said vnto the: Because of your vnbelefe. For I say verily vnto you: If ye haue faith as a grane of mustard seed: ye may say to this mountaine: remove thee to ydder place / a he shal remove / neither shal any thing be impossible vnto you. Somewhat this kind goeth not out: but by prayer a fasting. ¶ While they occupied in Galilee / Jesus said vnto the: It wil come to passe / that the sonne of man shal be deliuered into the handes of men / a the: shal kill him / a the: third daye shal he rise againe: And they were very soyl. ¶ And now wha they were come in Capernaum / a they received tribute money / came to Peter / and said: Doeth your master paye tribute: He said yea: a wha he was come home / Jesus pretended him / a said: what thinkest thou Synno / of whom do the Kinges of earth take toll tribu: Of the children / or of straungers: The said Peter to him: Of straungers. Jesus said vnto him: The are children of fre. ¶ Then deliuered he / a said: go thy way to the: and call

¶ A T the same tyme came the disciples vnto Iesus / and saide: who is the greatest in the Kingdome of heauen? And Iesus called a child vnto him / and set him in the middell amonge them / and saide: Become I say vnto you: Excepte ye turne and becomee as childre / ye shall not enter into the Kingdome of heauen: who soeuer therefore humbleth him selfe as this child / the same is the greatest in the Kingdome of heauen. And who so receauech such a child in my name / receauech me. ¶ But who so sendeth one of these litle ones / which beleue in me / it were better soill him / that a myllstone were hanged aboute his necke / and he wounded in a depth of the see. Wo vnto the world because of sellidors. ¶ See / there must selaunder come: but wo vnto that man / by whome selaunder cometh. ¶ But if thy hande or thy foot offend thee / cutt him off / and cast him fro the: It is better for the to entre in vnto lyfe / lame or crepel / than that thou shouldest haue two handes: or two feet / and be cast into euerlasting fyre. And if thine eye offend the / pluck it out / and cast it from the. Better it is for the to entre in vnto lyfe with one eye / than to haue two eyes / and to be cast into hell fyre.

For I saye vnto you: their angells do alway beholde the face of my father which is in heau: If for some of ma to come to saue that which is lost. How thinke ye? If a man haue an Ox / shepe / or one of the be gone astray / doeth not he leaue thienty a nyne in the mountaine / or goeth / or seeketh for one which is gone astray? And if it happen that he fynd it / verely I say vnto you: he reioyseth more ouer it / then ouer nienty and nyne / which wente not astray. Euen so is it not for wil beford your father in heauen / that one of these litle ones should perishe.

¶ Then came Peter vnto him / a saide: Lord / how oft shall I forgieue my brother / if he trespass against me? Seue tynnes. Iesus saide vnto him: I say vnto thee / I will forgive him / seuen tynnes / seue tynnes. ¶ For / the force is a Kingdome of heauen / which is likened vnto a Kinge / which wolde reke with his seruantes. And wha he began to reken / one was brought vnto him which ought him the thousand pounde. ¶ How when he had nothing to paye / his lord commaunded him to be sold / and his wyfe and children / and all that he had / and payement to be made. ¶ But the seruante fell downe / and besought him sayinge: O my lord haue pacience with me / a I will paye the all. ¶ Then had the lord pitty on that seruante / and discharged him / a / forgave him the pence.

And the same seruante went out / and founde one of his fellowes which ought him an Ox / pence / and layde hande vpon him / and toke him by the throte / a saide: paye me that thou owest. ¶ The his fellowe fell downe / and besought him sayinge: haue pacience with me / a I will paye the all. ¶ Heurtydeles / he wolde not / but went and cast him into prison / till he should paye the pence. ¶ When his fellowes sawe that was done / they were very sorry / and came and tolde their lord: al that had happened: the his Lord called for him / and saide vnto him: ¶ Thou wilsted for me / a I forgave the / al this debt / because thou prayedst me / shouldst thou that not haue had compassion also vpon thy fellowe / euen so / I had pnyce vnto thee / a his loan was worthy / a shuld reke him vnto the iaylers / till he payed all that he ought. ¶ Wo shall my heauenty father do also to you / if ye curet one from your brother / seuen tynnes / but ye curet not him / his trespasses.

¶ And it came to passe / when Iesus had endo

bed these sayings / he gat hys from Galile / and came into the coastes of Jewry beyond Jordan / and much people followed him / and he healed the ther.

Then came vnto him / Pharisee a tempted him / a said vnto him : Is it lawful for a mā to put away his wyfe for any manner of cause? He answered a said vnto the: haue ye not red how that he which made in the beginning / made the mā a woman a said: I for this cause / that a man leaue father & mother / and cleue vnto his wyfe / they two shal be one flesh / now are they not mayn / the but one flesh. Let no man therefore put asunder / that which God hath coupled together.

Then said they: why dyd Moses then commaunde to geue a releson of the wyfe / and I put her away? He said vnto the: Moses because of the hardenes of your hertes / suffered you to put away your wyfes / in certaynes / sith the beginning it hath not ben so. But I saye vnto you: I whosoeuer putteth away his wyfe / excepte it be for fornication / a marrieth another brekerth wedlocke. And who so marrieth her that is deuocid / committeth adoultre.

Then said his Disciples vnto him. If manner be so beruene mā a wyfe / the is it not good to marry. But he said vnto the: Al mā can not be charyd that sayng / sith they to whome it is geue. For there be some galdes / which are so ben from the / in others wombe: a there be some galdes / which are galdes of men: a there be some galdes / which haue galdes / the selles for the kingdom of heuens sake. He that can comprehend it / let him comprehend it.

¶ The were brought vnto him yong childen / that he should put his handes vpon the / a pray. And his Disciples rebud the. But Iesus saide: Suffre the childen / a forsyd the not to come vnto me / for vnto such belongeth the kingdom of heauen. And whā he had layed his handes vpon them / he departed thence.

¶ And beholde / one came vnto him a saide: Good master / what good shall I do / that I maye haue the euerglasting lyfe. He said vnto him: Why callest thou me good? there is none good but God onely. Auert thyself / if thou wilt entere into lyfe / kepe I commaundmentes. ¶ Then saide he vnto him: Which? Iesus saide: Thou shalt not kyle / thou shalt not breake wedlocke / thou shalt not steal: thou shalt beare no

Iesus saide vnto him: If thou wilt be perfecte / go thy waye and sell that thou hast / and geue it vnto the poore / and thou shalt haue a treasure in heauen / and come and followe me. When the yong man herd that word he wote he wote away / for he had greates possessions.

¶ He answered Peter / a said vnto him: Behold / I haue forsaken all / a followed the: what shall we haue therefore? Iesus saide vnto them: Verly I saye vnto you: what soeuer of man shall set in the: feare of his mayster / or / which haue followed me in the name of my father / shall set also vpon the twelfe seates / a iudge the twelfe trybes of Israel. ¶ And whosoeuer forsaketh house / or / brethren / or / sisters / or / father / or / mother / or / wyfe / or / childen / or / landes / for my names sake / I the same shall receaue an hundred fold / and endure euerglasting lyfe. ¶ But many that be the first / shalbe the last: and the laste shalbe the first.

¶ The kingdom of heauen is like vnto an holdere / which went out early in the morning: / to hye labourers into his vynegarde / and whan he had agreed with the labourers for a peny a day / he sent them into his vynegarde. B When they were nye vnto Ierusalem / and I were come to Bethphage vnto mounte of Olives / Iesus sent two of his disciples / and saide vnto them: Go into the tounne that lyeth before you / a anone ye shal fynde an asse bound / and her foale with her: loue them / and bunge the vnto me. And if any man saye ought vnto you / saye ye: The Lord hath neede of the. And they shal wate he will let them go. But all this was done / that the thinge myght be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet / sayinge: Tell the daughter of Syon: beholde / thy kinge cometh vnto the / a sittinge vpon an Ass / and a foale of f Ass tied to the side. The disciples wente / and byd as Iesus commaunded them / and bounge the Ass / and the foale / and layed their clothes vpon them / and set him thereon.

f But many of the people spred their garments in the waye: other cut downe branches from the trees / a strowed the in the way. As for the people that went before / and that came after / they cryed and sayde: Hosanna vnto the sonne sonne of Dauid. † Blessed be he that cometh in name of † Lord, & Sossanna in † heigh. K † And when he was come into Jerusalem/at the cite was moued/and said: Who is this?

And the people said: * This is Iesus the propheter of Nazareth out of Galile. † And Iesus went into the temple of God / and cast out all them that bought and solde in the temple/and ouerthrewe the tables of the money changers/and the seates of them that solde doves / and said vnto them: It is written: † My house shalbe called the house of prayer / but ye haue made it a denne of murderers. The blinde also and the lame came vnto him in the temple/and he healed them.

But when the hye priestes and the scribes saw the wonders that he dyd / and the chyldren cryenge in the temple and sayinge: Hossanna vnto the sonne of Dauid/ they dyscom-fordand sayde vnto hym: Hearest thou what babes and sucklynge thou hast ordeyned

† But in the morninge as he returned in to the cite/ he hungred. And in the waye he sawe † a figge tree/ and came vnto it / and founde nothinge thereon but leaues onely/ and sayde vnto it: Neuer fruite growe on thee from henceforth. And immediatly the figge tree withered awaye. And when his disciples sawe that/ they maruailed and sayde: How is the figge tree withered away so soone? Iesus answred and sayde vnto them: Verely I saye vnto you: † If ye haue fayth and doubtie not/what ye shall not onely do this with the figge tree/but if ye shall say vnto this mountayne: Auoyde/and calle thy selfe into the see / it shalbe done.

† And when he was in prayer / if ye beleue/ye shall receaue it.

† And when he was come into the temple/the chiefe priestes and the elders of the people came vnto hym (as he was teachinge) and sayde: † By what authorite dost thou these thynges? and who gawe the thes aueroyce?
Iesus answered and sayde vnto them: I wil te a worde of you also: whiche if ye will me.
In lyke wyse wyll tell you by what autho-ryte I do these thynges: The baptisme of Ihsu/whence was it/ from heauen or of men? Then thoughte they amonge them selves/ and said: If we saye it was from heauen / then shall he saye vnto vs: Why dyd ye not the beleue him?

But if we saye it was of men / then feare we the people / † For euery man helde Ihsu for a prophet. And they answered Iesus and said: We can not tell. Then sayde he vnto them: Whether tell I you by what aueroyce I do these thynges. It was thus saye: He that certaine man had two sonnes / and came to the fyrell / and sayde: Go thy waye my sonne/and worke to daye in my vyneyarde. He answred and sayde: I will not/ but afterwarde he repented and wente. He came also vnto the seconde/ and sayde lyke wyse. And he answred and sayde: I will serue/ and wente not.
Whether of them twayne dyd the wyll of the father? They sayde vnto hym: the fyrst. Iesus sayde vnto them: Verely I saye vnto you: The publicans & harlottes shall come in the Kingdome of God before you. † For Ihsu came vnto you / and taughte you the righte waye / harlottes beleued hym. As for you/ though ye † Here another parable. There was a them in lyke maner. At the last/ he sent by owne sonne vnto them / and sayde: they will 12:1 Jacob. Yet is not God a God of the dead; but of the living. And when the people herde that they were stayed at his doctrine.

12:2 ¶ When the Pharisees herde that he had stopped the mouth of the Sadducees; they gathered them selves together. And one of them (a Scribe) tempted him and sayde: Mas-12:3 sic / which is the chiefest commandement in the lawe? Jesus sayde unto them: Thou shalt 12:4 love the Lord thy God with all thy heart / with all thy soule / and with all thy mynde: this is the principal and greatest commandement. As for the seconde; it is like unto it.

12:5 ¶ Thou shalt love thy neyghbour as thy self.

12:6 In these two commandementes hang all the lawe and the Prophetes.

12:7 ¶ When Jesus the Pharisees were gathered together / he tolde them / and sayde: What mynde ye of Christ? Whose sonne is he. They sayde: Sauidas. He saide unto them: How then doeth Sauid in spirit call him Lord? sayinge: The Lord saide unto my Lord: Oyr thou on my right hande; till I make thine enemies thy foue foot.

12:8 ¶ He said nowe call him Lord; how is he then his sonne? And no man coulde aunswere hym one word; neyther durst any man aske hym any more questions from that day forth.

12:10 ¶ Then spake Jesus unto the people and to the disciples / and saide: The scribes and Pharisees are set downe upon Moses seate: therefore / whosoever they byd you observe / that observe it; but after they worke shall ye not do / for they say and do not. For they hynde beauty and inrollerable burthens; and laye them upon mens shoulders: But they the selves will not beare at them with one of their fingers. ¶ If their worke be they be sate of men. They set abroad their phylacteries / and make large borders upon their garments; and love to sit uppermost at the table; and to have the chiefe seates in the Synagoges; and love to be saluted in the marketes; (to be called of men Rabbi.

12:11 ¶ But ye shall not suffice your selves to be called Rabbi; for one is your master: even Christ; and all ye are brethren. And call no man father upon earth; for one is your father which is in heauen. And ye shall not suffice your sel-

12:12 ¶ Wo unto you Scribes and Pharisees; ye hypocrites / that shute up the kingdom of heauen before men: ye come not in your selves; neyther suffice ye to entre / that wolde be in.

12:13 ¶ Wo unto you Scribes and Pharisees: ye hypocrites / that deccure widowes houses; (a that under the colour of piayinge luge prayers; therefore shall ye receave the greater dampnation.)

12:14 ¶ Wo unto you Scribes and Pharisees / ye hypocrites / which compasse see and lende to make one of the blind / a man be to become one / ye make of him a child of hell / two fold more then ye your selves are.

12:15 ¶ Wo unto you blind guides; which say: Whatsoever sweareth by the temple that is nothinge; but whosoever sweareth by the golde of the temple; he is guilty. These ought to haue bene done; and not to leaue the other behinde. ¶ Ye blinde guides; which straine out a gnat; but swalowe up a Camell.

 lighteninge goeth out from the East / and shineth vnto the West / so shall the cominge of the sonne of man be. For wheresoeuer a dead carcase is / there will the Angles be gathered together.

¶ Immediately after the trouble of the same lighte / and the starres shall fall from heauen / and the powers of heauen shall moue / and the shall appeare the token of the sonne of man in heauen: and then shall all the kynredes of the earth mourne. ¶ And they shall see the sonne of man come in the cloudes of heauen with greate power and gloire. And he shall sende his angels with the great voyce of a trompe / and they shall gather together his chosen from ¶ Came a similitude of the fyggetree / wherbe sure of this / that if the good man of f house knewe what houre the thefe woulde come / he woulde surely watch / and not suffice his house in the houre that ye thinke not / shall the sonne in his herte: Tu lye / it will be longe of my lord come / and begynne to smyte his fellow-Farde. The same seruauit / whose lord shall come in a daye / when he lestech not for hym / and in an hour that he is not ware of / and shall be in an pcces / and geue him his reward with the sportes: there shall be waylinge a gnasyng of teeth.

The XXV. Chapter. ¶

¶ Then shall the kyngdome of heauen be likened vnto ten virgins / whiche were they lampee / and wente forth to meete the byde-grome. But fyue of them were foolyshe / and fyue were wyse. The foolyshe toke theyr lam-pes / and theyr oyle / theyr oyle / theyr oyle / they with them. But the wyse toke oyle in theyr vessel with theyr lampes. ¶ Nowe whyle the byde-grome taryed / they slumbered all and slepte.
 But at midnyght there was a crye made: Be-holde / the byde grome cometh / go your way out for to meete him. Then arose all those vir-gins / and prepared theyr lampes. But the foolish said vnto the wyse: Geue vs of your oyle / for our lampes are gone out. Then answered the wyse / and said: Not so / lest / there be not ynough for vs and you / but go rather vnto them that sell / and buye for your selues.
 And whyle they wente to buye / the byde grome came: a they that were ready / wente in with him vnto the marriage / a the gate was shut vpon. ¶ At the laste came the other virgins also / a sayde: Lozde / Lozde / open vnto vs. But he answered a sayde: Verely I saye vnto you: I knowe you not. ¶ Watch ye therefore / for ye knowe not the day / nor yet the houre / when the sonne of man shall come.

¶ And it came to passe when Iesus had finished all these wordes of he sayd vnto his disciples: ¶ Ye knowe that after two dayes shall I leaue / and the sonne of man shall be deliuered to be crucified.

¶ Then assembled together the byghe priestes and the Scribes / and the elders of the people into the layce of the byghe Priest / which was called Cayphas / and helde a counsaill howe they mighte take Iesus by deceit / and kill hym. But they sayde: Not on the holy daie / lest / there be an epouire in the people.

¶ Now when Iesus was at Bethany in the house of Simon Kesper / there came vnto him a woman / which had / a boye with precious oymnt / she poured it vpon his heade / as he sat at the table. When his disciples sawe that they vsdayned / she saide: wherefoe serueth this wast? This oymnt mighte haue bene sold / and gaue to the poore. When Iesus perceaued that / he said vnto them: why trouble ye the woman? She hath wrought a good worke vpon me / for ye haue alwaye the poore with you / but me shall ye not haue alwaye. Where as she hath poured this oymnt vpon my body / she hath done to my selfe. Verely I saye vnto you: wherefoeuer this Gospell shall be preached throuout all the world / there shall this also that she hath done / be tolde for a memoriall of her.

¶ Then one of the twelfe called Judas Iscariot / wente oute the hys pistles a sayde: What will ye geue me / and I shall deliuer him vnto you? And they offered him thyrtye syluer pene. And from that tyme forth / he sought oportunitie to betraye him.

¶ The firste daie of sweete bread came the disciples to Iesus / he sayde vnto him: Where wilt thou that we prepare for the to eate the Pasche? He said: Go into the cite to such a ma / a say vnto him: The master sendeth the word: My tyme is at hande / I will kepe myne Pasche by the with my disciples. And the disciples byd as Iesus had appoynted them / and made ready the Pasche lambe.

¶ And at eue he sat downe at the table with the twelfe. And as they byd eate he sayde: Verely I saye vnto you: " One of you shall betraye me. And they were cperadynge sollowe full / and beganne every one of them to saye vnto him: Why is it? He answered and sayde: He that byppith his hande with me in the bythe / the same shall betraye me. The sonne of man goeth forth as it is wynten of him. But who vnto that man / by whome the sonne of man shall be betrayed? It had bene better so: that in / he had neuer bene borne. Then Judas that betrayed hym / answered and said: Master / is it? He sayde vnto him: Thou hast saide it.

¶ And as they byd eate / Iesus toke the bread / gaue thanke / a brake it / a gaue to the disciples / and sayde: Take / eate / this is my body. And he toke the cuppe / a thanked / a gaue it them / and said: Drynke ye all therof / this is my bloude of the newe testamente / that shalbe shedde for many for the remission of synnes. I saye vnto you: I will not drynke henceforth of this frute of the vine / yet / vntill that daie that I shall drynke it newe with you in my fathers kyngdome.

¶ And when they had sayde grace / they wente forth vnto mount Olyuet. Then sayde Iesus vnto them: This nyghe shall ye all be offended in me. For it is wynten: " I will not seeke myne / the shepheard: and the shepe of the flocke shalbe scattered aboade. But after that I trefe agayne / I will go before you into the hille. Peter answered and saide vnto him: " I trefe not. Though all men should be offended in the / yet I will not be offended. Iesus sayde vnto Peter: Verely I saye vnto thee: This same nyghe before the flocke crome shall thou denye me thyrtye. Peter saide vnto him: And though I should dye with the / yet will I not denye the. Like wyse also said all the disciples.

¶ Then came Iesus with them in the felde / whiche is called Gethsemane / he sayde vnto the disciples: Eye ye here / whyle I go yonder and praye. And he toke with him Peter / a the two sonnes of Zebedee / a beganne to waite for a walfull a to be in an agonye. Then sayd Iesus vnto them: " My soule is heauy eue vnto the deathe. Carry ye here / and waite with me. And he wente forth a little / a fell flat upon his face / and prayed saynge: " O my father / if it be possible / let this cuppe passe from me: yet whether I will / or not / a I will / but as thou wilt. And he came to his disciples / a saide the a slepe / a sayd

¶ Again he went the second time a praied saying: O my father/ if this cuppe ca not passe awaye from mee/ excepte I drinke of it/ why will be fulfilled. And he came/ and founde them a slepe againe/ and their eyes were heavy. And he left them/ & went forth againe a prayed the thirde tyme/ sayinge the same wordes. Then came he to his Disciples and saide vnto them: Slepe on now: and take your rest. The XXV II. Chapter. †

When Judas which betrayed him / sawe this that he was condemned vnto death; it repented him; and thought agayne the thynge / slylur pens to the hyc piestes and the elders; and sayde; I haue done euill; that I haue betrayed innocent bloude. They saide; What haue we to do with thee? Se thou therto. And he byd cast the slylur pens in the temple; and gat him awaye; / and went and hangd him selfe.

So the hyc pieste toke the slylur pens / a sayde; It is not lawfull to put them into the Gods chest; for it is bloud money. Neuertheless; they helde a counsayll; / and boughte with them a potters felde; / for to burye straungers in. Wherefore the same felde is called the bloud felde vnto this daye. Then was that fulfilled; / which was spoken by Ieremie the Propheete / sayng; And they toke thynge slylur pens; / a pice of hym that was sold; / to whome they bought of the chyldren of Israell; a thet they gaue for a potters felde; as the Lorde commaunded me.

¶ As for Iesus; he rode before the vrbite; / a the vrbite asyd him; and said; Art thou King of the Jewes? And Iesus sayde vnto hym; Thou sayest it. And when he was accused of the hyc piestes and elders; he answered noo thinge. Then sayde Pylate vnto him; Hearest thou not howe sore they accuse thee? And he answered hym not one word; in so muche that the vrbite marvelled exceedinglye.

As Iudas the vrbite was wnto to be hysc a prisoner fre vnto the people; to whome they wolde. And at the same time he had a notable prisoner called Barrabas. And when they were gathered to gether; Pylate said vnto them; Wherof will ye say that I geue lousc vnto you? Barrabas; or Iesus; whiche is called Christ? For he knewe well that they had deliuered him of enuye. And whan he sawe wch; wch gmt; / sent out vnto him; sayng; Haue thou nothinge to say that righteous man; for I haue suffred many thinges this daye in a dreame because of him.

But the hyc piestes and the elders persuaded the people; that they shoulde say; Barabas; and destroye Iesus. Then answered the vrbite; and sayde vnto them; Wherof of these two wyllye that I geue lousc vnto you? They sayde; Barrabas. Pylate saide vnto them; What shall I do than with Iesus; whiche is called Christ? They sayde; let him be crucified. The vrbite saide; What euill hath he done then. Neuertheless; they cryed yet more; and sayde; let him be crucified. So whan Pylate sawe that he coulde not helpe; but that there was a greater vrbite; he toke water; and washed his handes before the people; and sayde; I am ongly of the bloude of this righteous man; / ye therto. Then answered all the people; and said; His bloude vnto us; come vpon vs; and vpon our chyldren. The vrbite saide; Barabas; lousc vnto them; / but cause Iesus to be scourged; and deliuered vnto Iohannes to be crucified.

Then the vrbites soulyours toke Iesus; / into the commune hall; and gathered the whole multitude ouer him; and stryped hym out of his clothes; and put a purpell robe; vpon him; and plated a croune of thorne; / and set it vpon his heade; and a rebe in his hande; and kneld before him; and mocked him; and saide; haile kinge of the Jewes. And spymd vpon him; a toke the rebe; / a smote hym vpon the heade. And whan they had mocked him; they toke the robe of him; and put his owne clothes vpon him; and led him forth; that he myght crucifye him. And as they were going out; they found a man of Cyren called Simon; whom they compelled to beare his crosse.

And whan they came vnto the place called Golgatha; / that is to say by interpretation; a place of dead mens skulles; they gaue him to thynke vnto; / myt; with gall. And whan he had tasted thereof; he wolde not thynke.

So whan they had crucified hym; they parted his garmentes; / a cast lottes therfor; that the chynge myght be fulfilled; which was spoken by the prophete; / They haue parted my garmentes among them; / and cast lottes vpon my vesture. And there they sat and wept.

If thou be the sonne of God/ come down from the crosse. The hye priestes also in lyke maner with the scribes and elders laughed him to scoone/ and saide: He hath helped other/ and can not helpe him self. the mother of the children of Zebede.

And euen there came a ryde man of Arie of Galilee called Ioseph / whiche was also a discipule of Iesus. He went vnto Pilate / and asked the bodye of Iesus. Then commaunded Pilate that the bodye shoulde be gauen vnto him. And Ioseph toke the bodye / and wrapped it in a cleane linnen clothe / and layed it in his owne newe spulchre / whiche he had breuen out in a rocke / and rolled a great stone to the doore of the spulchre / and went his way. And there was Mary Magdalene and the other Mary / sittinge ouer agaynst the spulchre.

And after certayne daies / he wente againe vnto Capernaum / and it was noised that he was in the house. And immediately there was gathered a great multitude / in so much that they had no roume / no / nor withoute the doore. And he spake the wordes vnto them. And there came vnto him certayne / which thought one sicke of the palsy / boren of foure. And when they coulde nor come nye him / for the people / they encountered the rofe of the house where he was. And when they had made a hole / they let downe the bed / by coardes / wherein

As sicke of the palsy laye. But when Iesus saw their faith: he saide vnto the sicke of the palsy: My sonne/ thy sinnes are forgiven thee.

¶ And whyles there were certaine scribes which sat there and thought in their heartes. How speaketh this man such blasphemy: For he speaketh thus man such blasphemy:

¶ Who can forgive sinnes / but onely God:

¶ And immediatly Iesus knewe in his spirit/ that they thought so in them selues / and saide vnto the: Why thinke ye such thinges in yourre heartes: Whether is it easier to saye to the sicke of the palsy: Thy sinnes are forgiven thee/ or to saye: arise / take vp thy bed / and walke? But that ye maye knowe / that the sonne of man hath power to forgive sinnes vpon earth / he saide vnto the sicke of the palsy: I saye vnto thee. Arise / take vp thy bedde and go home.

¶ And immediatly he arose / toke his bedde / & wente forth before them all in so much that they all were astonnyed/ and praised God and said: We neuer sawe such.

¶ And he wente forth againe vnto the sicke and all the people came vnto him / a he saught them. And as Iesus passed by / he sawe Leui the sonne of Alphew / sittinge at the receate of custome/ and said vnto him: folowe me. And he arose and folowed him. And it came to passe as he sat at the table in his house / there sat many publicans and sinners at the table with Iesus and his Disciples: for there were many that folowed him. And when the scribes and Pharisees sawe that he had eate with the publicans and sinners / they saide vnto his Disciples: Why doeth he eate and drinke with the publicans and sinners? Wha Iesus herde that he saide vnto them: The whole ned not the Physician/ but they that are sicke. ¶ I am not come to call the righteous/ but the sinners to repentance.

¶ And the Disciples of Ihs and of the Pharisees fasted. And there came certaine which said vnto him: why fast thy Disciples of Ihs and of the Pharisees / a thy Disciples fast not? And Iesus saide vnto them: How can the weddinge children fast / whyles the bydegrome is with them / so longe as the bydegrome is with them / they can not fast. But the tyme will come that the bydegrome shalbe taken from them/ and then shall they fast.

an olde garment / for els he taketh away the peece from the olde / a so is the rent worse. And no man putteth new wyne into the olde vessels / els the new wyne breaketh the vessels / and the wyne is spilt / and the vessels perishe: but new wyne must be put into new vessels.

¶ And it chaunced that vpon the Sabbath he wente thow the corne felde / and his Disciples beganne to make a waye thow / and to plucke the ayres of the corne. And the Pharisees said vnto him: Beholdst / what thy Disciples do / which is not lawfull vpon the Sabbath. And he saide vnto them: haue ye neuer redden what Dauid dyd when he had need / and was an hungered / both he and they that were with him: ¶ How he wente into the house of God / in the tyme of Abiathar the Priest / and dyd eate the shewbreade / which was lawfull for no man to eate but for the Priestes. And he gaue them vnto him / and to them that were with him. And he saide vnto them: The Sabbath was made for mans sake / and not man for the Sabbathes sake. Therefore is the sonne of man Lord euen ouer the Sabbath.

The iii. Chapter.

¶ He wente againe also / into the synagoge / And there was a man that had a withered hande. And they marked him whether he wolde heale him on the Sabbath / that he might accuse him. And he said vnto the men which were with him: Steppye fowth here. And he saide vnto them: is it lawfull to do good on the Sabbath? Or is it lawfull to do euill / to saue lyfe or to kill: But they helde their tounge. And he looked rounde aboute vpon the which were with him / and was fow for the harde heartes of them / and sayde vnto the man: stretch out thyne hande / and be stretched it out / and his hande was made whole lyke as the other.

¶ And the Pharisees wente out / and straight waye they held a counsaill with Herodes of Caesarea against him / how they might destroye him. But Iesus departed awaye with his Disciples vnto the see. ¶ And there folowed him much people out of Galilee / and from Ierury / and from Ierusalem / and out of Idumea / and from beyonde Iordane / and they that dwelt aboute Tyre and Sidon / a greate multitude.

The xliii. Chapter. †

When þe beganne againe to teach by the Ierusalem/ and there gathered much people vnto him/ so that he wente into a shippe/ and sat vpon the water. And all the people stode vpon the lande by the see syde. And he preached longe vnto them by parables/ and saide vnto them in his doctrine: Herse to beholde/ there wente our sower to sowe/ and it happened whyle he was sowing/ that some fell by the way syde. The same: the sooles vnder the heauen and they ate it vp. Some fell vpon the stony grounde/ where it had not much earth: and anon it came vp/ because it had not depe earth. Now whan the sunne arose/ it caught heate: and in so much as it had no rote/ it withered away. And some fell amonge the thornes/ and the thornes grewe vp/ and choked it/ and it gan no frute. And some fell vpon a good grounde/ which gaue frute/ that came vp a grewe. And some bare thyrty folde/ and some sixty folde/ and some an hundred folde/ and he saide vnto them: Whosoeuer hath eares to heare let him heare. **†

† And whan he was alone/ they that were aboute him with the twelf/ asked him concerning this parable. And he saide vnto them: Vnto you it is given to knowe the mystery of the Kingdome of God: but vnto the that are without/ all thinges happen by parables/ that with syncke eyes they may se/ a not discern: that with hearinge eares they may heere/ and not vnderstande/ lest/ at any tyme they turne/ and their synnes be forgiven them. **†

he saide vnto them: Vnderstande ye not this parable: How will ye then vnderstande all other paraboles?

17 ¶ The sower sowerth 3 woide. These be they that are by the waye syde where the woide is sowe / as soone as they haue herde it / immediately cometh Satan and taketh awaye the woide that was sowe in their heerde. And lyke- wise are they that are sowne on the stony grounde: which when they haue herde the woide / receaue it with ioye / and haue no rote in them: but endure for a tyme. When trouble and persecution ariseth for the woordes sake / immediately they are offended. And these are they that are sowne amonge 3 thornes: which beare the woide / and the carefullnes of this woide / and the deccayfullnes of ryces / and many other Iustices entrein / as chafe 3 woide / as so is it made vnfruitefull. And these are they that are sowne vpon a good grounde: Which beare the woide and receaue it / and bringe forth fruite: some thyrty folde / and some fyfety folde / and some and hundredth folde.

¶ And he saide vnto them: So a candle lighteth not to be put vnder a bushell or vnder a table: So it not lighteth to be set vpon a candlestick: ¶ For there is nothinge hid / that shall not be openly shewed: and there is nothinge secret / that shall not be knowne. Who so hath eares to heare let him heare. And he saide vnto the: Take hede whare ye heare: / with what measure ye mete / with the same shall it be measured vnto you againe. And vnto you that heare: ¶ If ye shall more be geuen. ¶ For who so hath receiued vnto hym shall be geuen: and who so hath not receiued from hym shall be taken awaye euen that he hath.

¶ And he saide: The kingdome of God is after this maner / as when a man casteth sowe vpon the lande / and slepeth / and standeth vp night and daye: / and the sowe springeth vp and groweth / he not knowinge of it. ¶ For the earth bringeth forth fruite of her self: first the trespasse / after wards the ayre / then 3 full trespasse in the ayre. But when she hath brought forth the fruite / he putteth to the sickel / because the harvest is come.

¶ And he saide: where vnto will we lyken the kingdome of God: Or by what similitude will we compare it? ¶ It is lyke a grayne of mustarde sowe: which when it is sowne vpon the lande: is the least amonge all sodes of the earth. And when it is growen: it groweth vp / and is greater then all herbes / and getteth greene braundes: so that the fooles vnder the heauen maye diuel vnder the shadowe thereof.

¶ And by manye suche paraboles he spake the woide vnto them / thereafter as they myght heare it / and without paraboles spake he no- thinge vnto them: but vnto his Disciples he expounded all thynges pryuately. ¶ And the same daye at euen he saide vnto them: let vs passe ouer. And they let the people go / and toke him as he was in the shyppe / and there were more shypes with him. And there arose a greates storme of wynde / and dashed the waves into the shyppe / so that the shyppe was full. And he was behinde in the shyppe / and slepte vpon a pillowe. And they awoke him / and saide vnto him: Master / carest thou not that we perishe? And he aroose / and rebuked 3 wynde: / and saide vnto the see: Peace / and he styll. And the wynde was layed / and there followed a greates calme. And he saide vnto them: Why are ye so fearefull: How is it that ye haue no fayth? And they feared exceedingly: / as saide one to another: What is he thyne: for wynde and see are obedient vnto him.

The V. Chapter.

And he was alwaye both daye and nyght vpon the mountaynes / and in graues cryenge / and beatinge hym self with stones. But when he sawe Iesus a face off he ranne / and fell vpon his face before hym / and cryed loude and sayde: What haue I to do with the O Iesus thou sonne of the byghest God: I charge the by God / that thou torment me not. They were aboute a two thousande swyne / and were bounden in the see.

And the swyne bearded fled / and tolde it in the cite and in the countre. And they wente out for to see what had happened / and came to Iesus / a sawe him which was possessed and had had the Legion / that he sawe and was cloathed / in his right mynd / a they were afrayed. And they that had sene it / told them what had happened to the possessed / and of the swyne.

And they beganne to praye him / that he wolde departe out of their coastes. And when he came into the shyppe / the possessed prayed him that he myghte be with him.

And immediatly her fountaine of her bloude was steyd vp / and she felt in her bodye that she was healed of the plague.

And forth with Iesus sate in him selfe the power that was gone out of him / and minded him aboute amonge the people / a saide : Who hath touched my clothes ? As for the woman / she feared and trembled / for she knewe what was done in her / and came and fell downe before him / and tolde hym the whole truth. And he saide vnto her : Thy daughter is dead / why troublest thou the master any more ? But Iesus herde right soone the woide that was spoken / and saide vnto the ruler of the synagoge : Be not thou afrayed / belese onely.

The VI Chapter. ¶

AND he departed thence / and came into his owne countre / and his disciples followed him. And when the Sabbath came / he beganne to teach in their synagoge. And many that herde it / maruysed at his learninge and

And they were offended at him. But Iesus saide vnto them: ¶ A prophet is no where lesse

¶ And it came to King Herodes eares / for his name was now knowen: he saide: Iohn his is risen againe fro death. ¶ This Herode had sent for / and taken Iohn / and put hym in prison / because of Herodias hys brother euen vnto the one half of my kingdom. She went forth and saide vnto her mother: What shall I aske? She saide: Iohn Baptistes heade / And immediatly she wrote in vnto the kinge with byssil and saide: I wil that thou geue me strayght waye in a platter the head of Iohn the Baptist. Then the kinge was fow. For for the oother sake / and them that sat at the table / he wolde not saye her nay.

¶ And immediatly he sent the hangman / and commaunded his heade to be brought in. So he went / and beheaded hym in the prison / and broughte hys heade in a platter / and gaue it

¶ And he saide: The thinge that goeth out of the man / that defileth the man. For from within/out of the heart of man procede euell thoughtes/ aduouryse / whoredome / murder / thurst / couetousnes / mykednes / deceate / vncleines / a wycked eye / blasphemie / pryde / foolishnes. All these euell thinges go from within/ and defile the man.

¶ And he arose/ and wente from thence into the badere of Tyre a Sydon / and entred into an house / and wolde let no man knowe of it / and yet coulde he not be hid : For a certayne woman ( whose daughter had a foule sperte ) herde of him / and came / and fell vpon at his feete / and it was an Hebrith woman of Syrophenices / and she besought him / that he wolde dyscuss the deuell from her daughter. She answered and saide vnto hym : Yea Lord / nevertheless / the whelpes also eate vnder the table of the chylidrens commes.

¶ And he saide vnto her : Because of this sayinge go thy waye / for the deuell is departed out of thy daughter. And she went vnto her house / fonde that the deuell was departed / and her daughter layge on the bed.

¶ And when he went out agayne from the coastes of Tyre and Sydon / he came vnto the see of Galile / wherow myddes of the coastes of the ten cities. ¶ And they brought vnto him one that was deaf / a had impediment in his speache. And they played him / that he wolde laye his hande vpon him.

Mat. xj. c. Care and hear not: and remember ye not / Joan. vj. a. That I blesse few leues amonge fyue thousande / home many baskettes full of broken meate toke ye then vp? They saide: twelfe. And Mat. xv. b. When I blesse the fyuen amonge the foure thousande / home many baskettes full of broken meate toke ye then vp? They saide: fyuen. And he saide vnto the: Why are ye then without understanding?

And he came to Bethsaida / and they brought one blind vnto hym / and prayed him to touche him. And he toke the blinde by the hande / and led him out of the town / and spyt in his eyes / and layed his handes vpon him / and axed him whether he sawe ought: And he loked vp / and sayde: I se men goynge as if I sawe them. After this he layed his handes vpon his eyes againe / and made him to see. And he was brought to ryght againe / a sawe all clearly. And he sent him home / and sayde: Go not into the town / and tell it also vnto no man therein. ¶

And Jesus went out and his disciples in to the townes of the cite of Cesarea Philippi. And in the waye he axed his disciples and saide vnto them: what do men say that I am? They answered: They say thou art Iohn the Baptist: Some saye thou arte Elias / some that thou art one of the prophetes. And he sayde vnto them: But whome saye ye that I am? They answered: Peter and said vnto him: Thou art very Christ. And he charged them strictly: that they shoulde tell no man of him. ¶ And he beganne to teache the: The sonne of man must suffre many thynges / and be caste out of the elders and of the bydes / and be put to death: and after thre dayes rise againe. And that woide spake he fre openly. And Peter toke him vnto hyin / and beganne to rebuke him. But he turned him about / and loked vpon his disciples / and reposed Peter / and saide: Go after me thou Satana / for thou sauest not the thynges that be of God / but of men.

followe me / let him denye him self / and take vp his crosse / and followe me. For whosoever will save his lyfe / shall lose it: a whosoever loseth his lyfe for my sake: and the gospell / shall save it. What woldst / is a man that he wanne the whole world / if yet toke harme in his soule? What can a man geue to redeme his soule withall? ¶ Whosoever is ashamed of me and of my woordes / amonge this aduercituous and synfull generation / of him shall the sonne of man also be ashamed: when he cometh in the glorie of his father with the holy angell. And he saide vnto them: ¶ Verely I say vnto you: There stande here some / which shall not taste of death / till they see the kyngdome of God come with power.

The IX. Chapter.
 ¶ After sixe dayes / Jesus toke vnto him Iohn Peter / James / a Iohn / and brought them vnto a mountaine out of the waye alone / and he was trasfigured before them / and his clothes were whyte as snowe / and the snowe / so whyt as no sulfer can make vpon earth. And there appeared vnto the Elias with Moses / and they talked with Jesus. And Peter answered / and saide vnto Jesus: Rabbi / here is good berynge for vs. Let vs make thre tabernacles here for the one / for Moses / and one for Elias: for he knowe not what he sayd / and they were very fearefull. And there was a cloude / which ouershadowed them. And out of the cloude there came a voyce / and saide: This is my beare sonne / heere him. And immediately they loked aboute the / and sawe no man more: then Jesus onely with them.

¶ But when they were come downe from the mountaine / Jesus charged the / that they shoulde tell no man what they had seene / till the sonne of man were risen againe from the dead.

And they kept sayinge by them / a each one another: What is that risinge againe fro the dead? And they axed him / and saide: Why sayst thou? For heere then that Elias must first come: He answered / and saide vnto them: Elias shall first come in dede / and bringe all thynges to righte againe. The sonne of men also shall suffre many thynges and be despyed / & contemned / & mistaken. But I say vnto you: Elias is come / as a they haue done vnto him what they wold: accordinge as it is written of him.

¶ And he called vnto him the people with his disciples / and saide vnto the: Whosoever will

And he came to his disciples / and saide muche people about them / and the scribes vsprungg with them / And so fone as the people saue hym / they were astonysed / & ranne vnto him / and saluted him. And he aske the scribes: What vspute ye with them? And one of the people answered / & said: Master / I haue thought vnto thy mynne / whiche hath a domme spete: and whan soeuer he toucheth him / he wreateth him / and he someth / and gnasteth with the teeth / & pynch awaye / & I haue spoke to thy disciples that they should cast him out / and they coude not.

He answered him / and said: O thou vnfaithfull generation / howe longe shall I be with you? Howe longe shall I suffice you? Bunge hym heiter to me. And they brought him vnto hym. And as fone as the spete saw him / he tare hym and fell vpon the earth / and weleed and foned. And he aske his father: Howe longe is it fene? this happened vnto him: He saide: Of a childe / and of ymaes hath he cast him into the see / and wraite to Delsroy hym: But if thou canst do any thinge / haue nerey: open vs / and helpe vs. Iesus sayde vnto hym: If thou couldest belefe. All thinge are possible vnto him that beleueth. And immediatly his father of the childe cryed with noyse / and saide: Lorde / I belefe: O helpe thou myne vnbelefe.

Then when Iesus sawe that the people ranne to he / he rebuked the foule spete / & sayde vnto him: Thou domme / and deafe spete / I charge: the / depart out of him / & entre no more into him from hence forth. And he cryed / and rent him fone / and departed. And he was as though he had ben dead / in so much that many said he is dead. But Iesus toke him by the hande / & set him vp. And he arose. And whiche came home / his disciples aske him fearely: Why could not we caste him out? And he said: This kinde can go out by no meanes / burly prayer and fastinge.

And they departed thence / & toke their iourney thowre Galilee / & he wolde not that any man should knowe of it. But he taught his disciples / and saide vnto them: The sonne of man shall be deliuered into the handes of men / and they shall put him to death / & whiche be to purto death: he shall rise agayne the thirde day. But they vnderstode not his word / and were afrayed to aske him.

And he came to Capernaum. And when he was at home / he aske them: What vsputed ye among youre sisters by the waye? But they helde their tunges: For they had vsputed by the way among the selfe: who should be the greatest. And he sat doune and called the twelue / and sayde vnto them: If any man wyl be the greatest / the same shall be the laste of all / and the seruant of all. And he toke a childe / and set him in the myddest of them / and toke hym in his armes / and saide vnto them: Whosoever receaueth such a childe in my name receaueth me / and whosoever receaueth me / receaueth not me / but hym that hath sent me. Mat. xxiij. c. iij. a. iij. c. iij. a.

John answered him / & saide: Master / we sawe one of yue out vnto in thy name / but he followeth not vs / & we forbadde hym because he followeth not vs. But Iesus saide: Forbidd him not / for there is no man that doeth a miracle in my name / & can soone speake euill of me. For whosoever is not againste vs / the same is for vs. And whosoever receueth you a cuppe of water to drinke in my name / because ye belong vnto the Kingdome / I saye vnto you: he shall not lose his rewarde. And who so offendeth one of these litle ones that belefe in me / it were better for him that a myllstone were hanged aboute his necke / and be cast into the see. If thy hande offendeth thy righte eye / better it is for the that it be cutte oute / then hangeing two handes to go into hell into a furellastinge fyre. Where their wome theye not / and their fyre goeth not out. Mat. xxiii. a. iij. c. iij. a. iij. c. iij. a.

If thy righte eye offendeth thy lefte eye / better it is for the to cutte oute the lefte eye / then hangeing two eyes to be cast into hel in the fyre euerlastinge / where their wome theye not / & their fyre goeth not out. If thyne eye offendeth the lefte eye from thee / better it is for the to cutte oute the righte eye / & so shall thou be free from hangeing two eyes to be cast into the fyre of hell: where theye: wome theye not / and their fyre goeth not out. For every man shall be salted with fyre / & every offeringe shall be seasoned with salt. The salt is good: but if the salt be vnswete / where withal shall it be sal- Leuit. x. d. Mat. v. b. Luc. xii. d.

And they shall mocke him / a scourge him / a spitte upon him: a put him to death / as on the thirde day shall he rise againe.

Then wente into him James a Iohn / sonnes of Zebedee / and saide: Master / We desire that whosoever we are of / thou wilt do it for vs. He said vnto them: What desire ye that I shall do to you? They sayde vnto him: Graunte vs that we maie sit one at thy right hande / a one at thy left hande in thy glorie. But Iesus saide vnto them: Ye wote not what ye are. What ye desire the cuppe that I shall drinke: a the baptysed with the baptime that I shall be baptysed withall? They saide vnto him: Yea that we maye. Iesus saide vnto them: The cuppe that I drinke I shall ye drinke in Gede: and be baptysed with the baptime that I shall be baptysed withall. Neuertheless to sit at my right hande and at my left / is not mine to geue you: but vnto the for whom it is prepared.

And when he ten herde that / they vsid sayd at James and Iohn. But Iesus called them / a saide vnto them: I knowe that the princes of the world haue dominacion of the people / and the mightie exercise auctorite amonge them. So shall it not be among you: but whosoever will be greate amonge you / shall be your minister. And who so will be chiefest among you / shall seruaunt of all. For the sonne of man also came not to be serued / but to do seruice / and to geue his lyfe to a redemption for many.

And they came to Jericho. And when he went out of Jericho and his disciples / and muche people there: sawe one blinde. Bartheus the sonne of Thimuis by the waye / a begger. And when he herde that it was Iesus of Nazareth / he beganne to crye and saye: Iesu thou sonne of Dauid haue mercie vpon me. And many reposed him / that he shoulde holde his ränge. But he cried muche more. Thou sonne of Dauid haue mercie vpon me. And Iesus stode still / and badde call by him. And they called the blinde / a saide vnto him: Be of good comforte / arise / he called the. And he cast awaye his garment from him / stode vp / and came to Iesus. And Iesus aunsweered / and saide vnto him: What wilt thou that I do vnto the? The blinde saide vnto him: Master / that I mighte see / Iesus sayde vnto him: Go thy waye / thy faith hath helped the. And immediately he had his sight / a followed him in the waye.

The XI. Chapter.

And when they came nye Ierusalem to Bethphage and Bethanias vnto mounte Bethanias / sent two of his disciples / a sayde Luce. 9. c. vnto him: Go into the towne that lieth before you / and as soone as ye come in / ye shall fynde a foale bounde / where vpon non man hath serten / loose it / a bringe it byther. And if any man say vnto you: Why do ye do ye that? Then say ye: The Lord hath neede thereof / and forthwith he shall sende it byther. They wente they wente / and founde the foale / and by the doore / without at the partinge of the waye / a loosed it. And certeyne of those that stode there / axed them: What do ye that ye loose the foale? But they saide vnto them / like as Iesus had commaunded them / And so they let them alone. And they broughte the foale vnto Iesus / and laied their clothes thereon / and he sat thereon. But many syned they gathered in the waye / some cast doune brawnches from the trees / and strowed them in the waye. And they that went before / and that followed after / cried and saide: Hosanna. Blessed be he that cometh in the name of the Lord: blessed be the kyngdome of our father Dauid / which cometh in the name of the Lord: Hosanna in the height.

And the Lord entered into Ierusalem / a went into the temple / a looked vpon al. And as euen he wente oute vnto Bethanias with the twelue: and on the morowe when they departed from Bethanias / he hungered / and sawe a figge tree affarre of which had leaues. The same he wente to / if he could fynde any thinge thereon. And when he came to it / he founde nothinge but leaues / (for the tyme of figges was not yet.) And Iesus aunsweered / a saide vnto it: Neuer man eate fruite of the figge more. And his disciples herde it.

And they came to Ierusalem. And Iesus wente into the temple / a beganne to buye oute the sellere a buyers in the temple / a ouerthrew the tables of the money chaungers / a the stoles of the dove sellers / and sithred not any man to carry a vessel thowse the temple. And

 And they answered: and said vnto him: We can not tell. And Iesus answered: and said

Mat. xx. c ¶ The. Xij. Chapter.
Luc. xx. a ¶ And he beganne to speake vnto them by parables: A certayne man: / planted a wy neyarde: / and made a hedge aboute it: / and bygged a wynepress: / and builded a towre: / a let it out vnto the housbandmen: / and wente into a straunge countrie. And when the tyme was come: he sent a seruaunt to the housband me: that he might receaue of it: / housbandme of the fruite of the vyneyard. But they toke hym: and bete hym: / and sente hym awaye emptye. Agayne he sent vnto them another seruaunte: / whome they stoned: / and beat: his heade: / and sent him awaye shamefully deale withall. Agayne he sent another: / whome they flew: / and many other: some they bete: / and some they put to death.

Then had he yet one sonne onely: / whome he loued: / hym he sente also vnto them at the last: / and sayde: they wyl stande in awe of my sonne. But the same housbandmen sayde: / amonge them selfes: This is the hye: / Come let vs kill hym: / so shall the inheritaunce be oure. And they toke hym: / and flew him: / and cast hym out of the vyneyard. Whi ye not red this scripture: / ¶ Because stonied went aboute to take him: / but they feared the and went their waie.

¶ And they sente vnto him certayne of the Pharises: and Herodes: / offere: / to take hym to him: Master: we knowe that thou art true the outward appareance of men: / but re gardest the way of God truly. ¶ So I haue will Gods. And they marryed at him.

Then came vnto hym the Saducees (which holde that there is no resurrection) they asked him / and saide: Master / Moses wrote vnto vs: If any mans brother die / and leaue a wyf / and leaue no children / his brother shall take his wyfe / and raise vp sēd vnto his brother. Now were there seuen brethren / the first toke a wyfe / and byed / left no sēd: and the seconde toke her / and byed / and left no sēd: the thirde in lyke maner. And they all seuen toke her / and left no sēd. At the laste after them all / the wyfe dyed also. Nowe in the resurrection whan they shall ryse againe / whos wyf shall she be of them: for seuen had hire to wyfe.

Then answered Iesus / and sayde vnto them: Do not ye erre: because ye knowe not the scriptures nor the power of God? Whan they shall ryse agayn from the dead / they shal neither marrye nor be marryed / but they are as the angels in heauen. As touching the dead / that they shall ryse againe haue ye not red in the booke of Moses / how God spake to him in the bush / and sayde: I am the God of Abraham / and the God of Isaac / and the God of Jacob: Yet is not God a God of the dead / but of the liuinge. Therefore ye erre greatly.

And there came vnto him one of the Scribes / that had herdene vnto them howe they disputed together / and sawe that he had answered them well / and asked him: Whiche is the chiefest commandement of alle? Iesus answered him: the chiefest commandement of all commandementes is this: Hear O Israel / the Lord our God is one God / and thou shalt loue the Lord thy God with all thy herte / with all thy soule / with all thy mynde / and with all thy strenght. This is the chiefest commandement / and the seconde is lyke vnto it: Thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy selfe. There is none other greater commandement then these.

And the scribe sayde vnto him: Master / cerely thou hast sayde ryght / for there is but one God / and there is none other without bym / and to loue him with all the herte / with all the mynde / with all the soule / and with all the strenght / and to loue a mans neighbour as him selfe / is more then them sacrifices and al offerings. But whan Iesus saue that he answered discretely / he sayde vnto hym: Thou arte not farre from the Kingdome of God. And after this burst no man aye hym any mo questions.

And Iesus answered and saide: whan he taught in the temple: Howe saye the scribes that Chastie is the sonne of Dauid: But Dauid him selfe sayeth thowote the holy ghost: The Lord saide vnto my Lord: Psal cix: Oye thou on my righte hande: / till I make thine enemies thy foiesole. There Dauid calleth him his Lord. How is he then his son?
 And many people herde him gladly.

And he taught them / and saide vnto them: Beware of the scribes that loue to go in longe garmentes / and leue to be salued in the market / and yet gladly aboue in the synagogues / and at the table / they weaue webbes houses / and vnder a colour they make longe prayers. These shall receaue the more dampnation.

And Iesus sat ouer against the Gods chest / and behelde how the people put money into the Gods chest. And many that were ryche / put in much. And there came a poore wydowe / and put in two mytes / which make a farthinge. And he called vnto him his disciples / and sayde vnto them: Verly I saye vnto you / this poore wydowe hath put more into the Gods chest / then all they that haue put in: for they all haue put in of theyr superfluite / but she of her pouertie hath put in all that she had / euen her whole lyuinge.

The XIII. Chapter.

And whan he wente out of the temple / one of his disciples said vnto him: Ma- ster / se what stones and what a building is this: And Iesus answered / and saide vnto him: Wilt thou al this great building: There shal not one stone be left vpon another / that shall not be stroken doun.

And whan he sat vpon mount Olyuete ouer againste the temple / Peter and James and Iohn / and And: were with hym / pryately Tell vs: Whan shall all these come to passe?
 And whan shalbe the sofen / whan all these shalbe fulfilled: Iesus answered them / and beganne to saye: Take heed / that no man be-

¶ Learne a similitude of the figge tree: When his brounde is yet tender/ and hath brought forth leaues/ ye knowe that the sommer is nye. So likewise when ye see all these thinges come to passe/ be ye sure that it is nye euen as the veyre. Verely I saye vnto you/ this generation shal not passe/ till all these be fulfilled. Heauen and earth shal perishe/ but my wordes shall not perishe. ¶ But of the day and houre knoweth no man/ neither the angels in heauen/ no/ not the sonne him self/ but the father onely.

¶ Take hede/ watch and praye/ for ye knowe not when the sonne is nye. Like as a man that wente to a straunge countrie/ and lefte his house/ and gaue his seruantes auerortye/ vnto every one his woife/ and commanded the porter that he shoulde watche. Watche ye therefore/ for ye knowe not when the master of the house cometh/ whether he cometh in the euenynge or at mydnyght/ or aboute the flockerowinge/ or in the morninge/ that he come not suddenly/ and fynde you slepyng. Like what I saye vnto you/ that saye: I vnto all: Watch.

This oynement might haue bene solde for more then thre hundred pence/and bene geue to the poore. And they gruedged against her.

But Iesus sayde: Let her be in rest: why trouble ye her? She hath done a good worke upon me. Ye haue alway the poore with you/ and whan soeuer ye wyll/ye maye do them good: but not haue ye not alwaye. She hath done what she coulde / she is come before to anoynte my body for my buryall. Verely I saye vnto you: wheresoeuer this Gospell shal be preached in all the worlde/there shall this also that she hath now done/be tolde for a remembrance of her.

Mat. xxv. 1-10 ¶ And Iudas Iscariot one of the twelue went vnto the priefests/ to betraye hym vnto them. When they herde that / they were glad and promised that they wolde geue hym money. And he sought how he might conueniently betraye him.

¶ And upon the first daye of sette weekes/ when the Easter lambe was offered / his disciples sayde vnto hym: Where wilt thou that we go prepare that thou mayest eate the Easter lambe? And he sent two of his disciples/ sayde vnto them: go your waye into the cyncell/ and there shal meete you a man beainge a pisher with water/solow him/and wheresoever he goeth in / there saye ye to the good man of the house: The master sendeth the worde: Where is the best house / wherein I maye eate the Easterlambe with my disciples? And he shall shewe you a greete paroure / whiche is paved and prepared / there make ready for vs. And the disciples went forth/and came into the cyncell/and founde it as he had sayde vnto them. And they prepared the Easterlambe.

¶ It euen be came with the twelue. And as they sat at the table and had eate/ Iesus sayde: Verely I saye vnto you: One of you that eateth with me/shal betraye me. And they were fery/and saide vnto him one after another: Is it I? and another (sayde:) Is it I? He answered/and saide vnto them: One of the twelue/euen thesame that dyppeth with me in the platter. The sonne of man truly goeth forth as it is written of him. But now into that man/whom the sonne of man is betrayed. It were better for thesame man that he had neuer ben borne.

¶ And as they had eate/Iesus toke the bread/ and gaue thanks/and brake it/and gaue it them/ and sayde: Take/eate/this is my body. And he toke the cuppe/thanked/and gaue it them/ and they dyd all thinke therof. And he saide vnto them: This is my blood of the newe testament/whiche shalbe shed for many. Verely I saye vnto you/that from henceforth I will not drinke of the frute of the vyne/tyl the day that I drinke it newe in the kingdome of God. And whan they had saide grace/they went forth vnto mount Oliuet.

¶ And Iesus saide vnto them: This night shall ye all be offended in me:for it is written: * I will smite the shepheard/ and the shepe shall be scatered abroade. Neuerthelesse/ I assure that I am rysen againe/ I wil go before you into Galile. But Peter saide vnto him: And though all men should be offended/ yet wolde not I be offended. And Iesus layde vnto hym: Verely I saye vnto the: In this same night before the cock crowe two tymes/ shalt thou denye me thrise. But he sayde yet more: Yee/ though I should be with the/ yet wyll I not denye the. So saide they all in lyke maner.

¶ And they came into the felde called Gethsemane/and he said vnto his disciples: Sit ye here/tyl I go ponder a praye. And he toke in hym Peter and James/and Iohn/and beganne to praye fearfull/and to be in an agony/ and saide vnto them: My soule is heavye vnto me/for the death/whiche ye here and watch. And he wente forth a litle/ and fel upon the ground/and prayed / that/ if it were possible / the houre might passe from him/and saide: Abba / my father / all thinges are possible vnto the/ take this cuppe awaye from me: Neuerthelesse/ and what I wil/ but what thou wilt.

¶ And he came vnto them/ and found them sleeping/and sayde vnto Peter: Simon/ sleepest thou? couldest thou not watch with me one houre? Watch and praye/that ye fall not into temptacion. The spete is wyllinge / but the

mat. xxv. d the fleshe is weak. And he wente southe a-gayne/and payed/and spake thesame woordes/and returned/and founde them sleepinge agayne: for their eyes were heauy/and they knewe not what they shoulde answer him. And he came the thirde tyme/and sayde vnto them: Slepe on now/and take youre resse. It is nowgher the houre is come: Beholde/ the sonne of man shalde bequered into the handes of synners: arye/ let vs be goyng. Beholde/ he is at hande that betrayeth me.

mat. xxvi. c And immediatly while he yet spake/ came Luc. xxii. d Judas one of the twelfe/ a with him a great Job. xviij. a multitude/ with swordes and staves/ from the hyghe priestes and scribes, and elders: And the trapour had geuen them a token/ and sayde: Whome soeuer I kysse/ that same is he/laye handes vpon him/ and lede hym awaye warily. And whan he was come/ he wene straghtwaye vnto him/ and said vnto him: O master/ master/ and kysed him. Then layde they their handes vpon him/ and toke him. But one of the that stode by/ drewe out his swerde/ and smote the hyghe priestes seruante/ and cut of his eare.

mat. xxvi. f And Iesus answered/ and saide vnto Luc. xxii. d them: Ye are come forth as it were to a mur-derer/ with swordes and with staves to take me: I was halie with you in the temple/ and taughte/ ye to kille me not. But this is done that the scripture maye be fulfilled. And all the disciples forsoke him/ and fled. And there followed him a yonge man/ whiche was clothed in linnen upon the bare kynne/ and the yonge man toke flede naked from them.

mat. xxvi. f And they led Iesus vnto the hyghe priest/Luc. xxii. d where all the hyghe priestes and elders and scribes were come together. As for Peter/ he followed him afare of into the hyghe priestes palace. And he was there/ and sat with the seruantes/ and warmed him.

mat. xxvi. f But the hyghe priestes and the whole counsaill sought witness against Iesus/ that they mighte charge him to death/ and they founde none. Many gaue false witnesse a-gainste him/ but their witnesses agreede not together. And some stode vp/ and gaue false witnesses against him/ and said: We herde him Joban. ii. c saye: I will breake doune this temple that is made with handes/ and in thre daies builde another/ not made with handes/ but the witnesses agreede not together.

And the hyghe prieste stode vp amange the them/ and sayde: Answerest thou man any thinge? But he helde his tynge/ and answered nothinge. Then the hyghe prieste axed him agayne/ and saide vnto him: Art thou Christe the sonne of the blessed? Iesus sayde: I am.
 And I ye shall see the sonne of man syle at the right hand of power/ and come in the cloudes of heauen. Then the hyghe prieste rent his clothes/ and sayde: What neede we any more witnesses? Ye haue herde the blasphemy: What thinke ye? They all condemned him/that he was guiltye of death. Then beganne they some to spytte vpon him/ and to couer his face/ and to smyte him with fistles/ and to saye vnto him: Prophecie vnto vs. And the seruante smote him on the face.

And Peter was beneth in the palace.
 Then came one of the wenches of the hyghe priest: And whan she sawe Peter warminge him/ she looked vpon him/ and saide: And thou wast with Iesus of Nazareth also. But he denyed/ and saide: I knowe him not/ neyther can I tell what thou sayest. And he wente oute into the fore court/ and the facke erre.
 And a damsell sawe him/ and beganne agayne to saye vnto them that stode by: This is one of them. And he denyed it agayne. And after a lile while they that stode by/ stode agayne vnto him. Of a trouth thou art one of them: for thou art a Galilee/ and thy speache soundeth euen alyke. But he beganne to curse/ and sweare: I knowe not the man that ye speake of.
 And the facke erre agayne. Then thought Peter vpon the woide that Iesus saide vnto hym.
 Before the facke crome two tymes/ thou shalt denye me thise. And he beganne to wepe.

The XV. Chapter.

And soone in the morninge/ the hyghe priestes helde a counsaill with the Elders/and scribes/ and the whole counsaill/ and bounde Iesus/ and led him awaye/ and deliuered him vnto Pilate: A Pilate axed him whether he kynge of the Iewes: He answered and saide vnto him: Thou sayest it. And
 the

the hygge puelles accused hym soic. But Pilate ased hym agayne / and sayde: Junsweerst thou nothyng? Beholde/ how soie they laye to thy charge. Neuertheless/ Iesus answered nomore / in so muche that Pilate maruelled.

¶ At the feast of Easter he was wont to release unto them a prisoner/whomsoever they wolde desire. There was in prison with the felonious/one called Barrabas/ whiche in the scripture had committed murder. And y people wente vp/ and prayed hym / that he wolde so as he was wont. Pilate answered them/ will ye that I geue loufe unto you the Kinge of the Jewes? For he knewe that the hygge puelles had desired hym of enuye. But the hygge puelles moued y people/ that he should rather geue Barrabas loufe unto them.

¶ Pilate answered agayne / and sayde vnto them: What will ye then that I do vnto hym / whom ye accuse to be Kinge of the Jewes? They cryed agayne: Crucific him. Pilate sayde vnto them: What euell hath he done? But they cryed yet much more: Crucific him. So Pilate thought to satisfie the people / and gaue Barrabas loufe vnto them/ and desired them Iesus/ to be scourged and crucified.

¶ And the souldiers led him into the common hall / and called the whole multitude together / and clothed him with purple / a plaide robe of scarlet/ and crowned him with all/ and beganne to salute him: Hail/ Kinge of the Jewes. And smote him vpon the heade with a reede/ and spytte vpon him/ and set vpon the face/ and worshipped him. And when they had mocked him/ they toke the purple of hym/ and put bye clothes vpon hym / and led hym out that they might crucific him.

¶ And they compelled one that passed by/ called Symon of Cyren/ which came from the cite/ and was the father of Alexander a Rufus/ to beare hys crosse. And they brought him to the place Golgatha/ which is by interpreacion/ a place of head mens skulles. And they gaue him wyne myxe wth myrre to drinke/ and he toke it not. ¶ And when they had crucified hym/ they parted bye garments/ a calling lotes therfore what every one shoulde take. And it was aboute the thirde houre/ and they crucified him. And the title of his cause was written ouer aboute him (namely:) The Kinge of Jewes. And they crucified him with two murderers / one at the right hande/ and one at the left. Then was the scripture fulfilled/ which sayeth: He was counted amonge the euell doers.

¶ And they that wente by/ reuiled him/ and wagged their heades/ and sayde: See vpo the Kinge of Jewes how goodly breakest thou vnto the temple/ Luc. xxij. b and buildest it agayne in thre dayes: Helpe thy selfe now/ and come vnto the crosse. The hygge puelles also in like maner laughed him to scorne amonge them selves with the Scrybes / and sayde: He hath helped others/ him selfe can be not helpe. If thou Christ and the Kinge of Israel/ let thine come vnto now from the crosse / that we maye see it and beleue. And they that were crucified with him/ deefed him also.

¶ And when it was aboute the sixte houre/ there was a darkness ouer the whole lande/ Mat. xxv. e vntill aboute the nyenth houre. And aboute the nyenth houre Iesus cried loude and sayde: Ely/ Ely/ lamina sabibani: which is interpreted: My God/ My God/ why hast thou forsaken mee. And some that stode by / when they herde that/ they said: Beholde/ he calleth Elias. ¶ Then ranne there one/ and fylled a sponge with vynerge / and sticte it vpo a reede/ Ioan. xij. c and gaue hym to drynke / and sayde: Holde still/ let se whether Elias will come/ and take hym vnto. But Iesus cryed loude / and gaue vp the ghost. And the vale of the temple rent in two peces from aboute yll bench.

¶ The captayne that stode thereby ouer a gaynss hym / when he sawe that he gaue vp the ghost with such a crye/ he sayde: Verely/ this man was Gods sonne.

¶ And there were womē there also / which he heelde this affare of / amonge whome was Mary Magdalene / Mary of James y litle / and the mother of Iosue and Salome/ which had folowed him/ and many other that wente vp with hym to Jerusalem. ¶ And at euen there was a great earthquake / so that the founntaynes of the temple / whiche is the foue Sabbath / there came one Iosuep of Arimathea / a worshipfull Senatour / which looked also for the Kingdome of God/ and wente in boldly vnto Pilate late

In the tyme of Herode King of Jewry/there was a priest named Zacharye of the 7 course of Abia/ a bio wyse of 7 daughters of Aard/ a her name was Elizabeth. They were both ryghteous before God/and walked in al the commaundementes and statutes of the Loide/veneprouable. And they had no child/ for Elizabeth was barren/and they were both well styren in age.

And it came to passe as he offered the pyces offer before God/ when his course came (accordinge to the custome of the priesthode) he wente into the temple of the Loide/ and the whole multitude of the people was without in prayer/whyte the incense was burnyng. And the aungel of the Loide appeared vnto him/and stode on the ryght syde of the aultare of incense. And when Zacharye sawe hem/ he was abashed/ and there came a feare vpon hym.

But the aungell sayde vnto hym: feare not Zachary: for thy prayer is herde. And thy wyfe Elizabeth shall beare the a sonne/ whose name thou shalt call Jhon/ and thou shalt haue ioye and gladnes: and many shall reioyce at thy byrthe: for he shall be greate before the Loide. Wyne and stronge drinke shall be not drinke. And he shall be fylled with the holy ghoost/ euen in his mothers wombe. And many of the chyldren of Israel shall be turne vnto the Loide theyr God. And he shall go before hym in the sperte and power of Elias/ to turne the hertes of the fathers vnto the chyldren/ and the vnfaithfull vnto the wyse dome of the enyghteous/ so make 7 people ready for the Loide.

And Zachary sayd vnto the aungel: Where

The aungel aunswere/ and sayde vnto hym: I am Gabuel that stude before God/ and am sente to speake vnto the/ and to shewe the thess glab rydynges. And beholde/ thou shalt be vomme/ and not able to speake/ vntyll the day that she come to passe/ because thou hast not beleued my woos: iij. Re. viij. des/ which shall be fulfilled in their season.

And the people waited for Zachary/ and marvelled that he taryed so longe in the temple. And when he went out/ he coulde not speake vnto them. And they perceived that he had sene a vision in the temple. And he beckened vnto them/ and remayned spechelesse.

And it fortuned/ when the tyme of this offer was out/ he went home into his house. And after those dayes Elizabeth his wyfe conceaued/ and byd her self v. monethes/ and sayde: Thus hath the Loide done vnto me/ in the dayes wherein he hath looked vpon me/ to take awaye fro me my rebute amonge men.

And in the sixte moneth was the aungel Gabuel sent from God/ into a cite of Galile/ called Nazareth/ vnto a virgin that was spoused vnto a ma/ whose name was Joseph of 7 house of Dauid/ a the virgins name was Mary. And 7 aungel came in vnto her/ a sayde: Hyle thou full of grace/ the Loide is with the: blessed arte thou amonge women.

Wha the sawe him/ she was abashed/ at his sayng/ a thought: What maner of salutation is this: a the aungel said vnto her: feare not Mary/ for thou hast founde grace with God. Beholde/ thou shalt ebrace in thy wombe a beare a sonne/ a shalt call his name Iesus/ he shall be greate/ a shall be called the sonne of the hyghest. And the Loide God shall geue him 7 feare of Dauid his father/ a he shall be hnge ouer 7 house of Jacob for euer/ a there shall be no ende of his kyngdome. Then sayde Mary vnto the aungel: Howe shall this be sayng/ I knowe not a man: The aungel aunswere/ a said vnto her: The holy ghoost shall come vnto the/ and the power of the hyghest shall ouer shadowe the. ## The II. Chapter. ¶

IT founde at the same tyme / that there was oute a commouderment from Augustus the Emperour / that the whole worlde shoulde be taxed. And this taxing was the first that was executed / when Cereus was lycenauant in Syria. And they went all / every one to his owne cite to be taxed. Then Joseph gat hym wth also from Galile / oute of the cite of Nazareth / into Jewry / to the cite of Dauid / which is called Bethlem / (because he was of the house and lynage of Dauid) that he myght be taxed wth Mary his spoused wyf / which was wth chylde.

I And it founde whyle they were there / the tyme was come / that she shoulde be deliuered. And she brought forth her first begotten sonne / and wrapped hym in swaddling clothes / and layed hym in a manger / for they had no roome in the ynnes.

¶ And there were in the same region shepherdes in the feld by the foldes / and watchyng their flocke by nyght. ¶ And beholde / the anngel of the Lorde / stode by the / and the byghenes of the Lorde / shone round about the / and they were sore afrayd. And the anngel sayde vnto them / be not afrayed. Beholde / I bring you nyngenes of great ioye / whiche shall happen vnto all people / for vnto you this daye is borne the saviour / euen Christ the Lorde / in the cite of Dauid. And take this for a token: Ye shall fynde the babe swaddled / and layed in a manger. And straight waye there was by the anngel a multitude of heavenly hostes / which praised God / and sayde: Glory be vnto God wth hys / and peace vpon earth / and vnto men a good wyll. ¶

prayinge and laubing God / for all that they had herde and sene euen as it was tolde the. ¶

¶ And when eygher dayes were ended / that the chylde shoulde be circycled / his name was called Jesus / which was named of the anngel / before he was conceaued in his mothers wombe. ¶

¶ And when the dayes of their purification / after the lawe of Moyses were come / they brought hym into Jerusalem / that they myght present hym vnto the Lorde / (as it is written in the lawe of the Lorde: ¶ Every man chylde that first openeth the matrix / shalbe called holy vnto the Lorde) and that they myght geue the offerynges / as it is written in the lawe of the Lorde (namely) a payre of turtle doves / or two yonge pigeons.

And beholde at Jerusalem there was a man / whose name was Symeon / and the same man was iust / a feared God / and longed for / a consolation of Israel / a holy ghost was in hym. And an aunsweere was geuen him of the holy ghost / that he shoulde not see death / before he had sene the Lorde Christ. And he came by inspiration into the temple.

And when the elders brought chylde Jesus into the temple / so do for hym after the custome of the lawe / then toke he hym vp in his armes / and prayed God and sayde.

Lorde / nowe letteth thou thy seruante departe in peace / accordinge to thy promise.

For myne eyes haue sene thy saviour / whome thou hast prepared for all people.

¶ A lycht for the lightnyng of the Gentyls / and for the prayse of the people of Israel. ¶

¶ And his father and mother marvelled at the thynge that were spoken of hym. And Symeon blessed them / and sayde vnto Mary his mother: Beholde / this chylde / shalbe seene to a fall / and to an vprynginge agayne of many in Israel / and for a token / which shalbe spoken agaynst. And the swearde shall pearce thy soule / that the thoughtes of many hertes may be opened.

And there was a Propheetisse / one Anna / the daughter of Phanael of the wybe of Aser / which was of a great age / and had lynced thretye yeres / wth her husbande from her virginity / a had not bene a wedowe aboute foure score and foure yeres / which came neuer from

And hee tooke hym vp into an hyghe mountayne/and showed hym all the kynngdomes of the whole worlde in the ruyne of an eye and sayde vnto hym: All thys power will I geue vnto thee/ and the glory thereof/ for it is written ouer vs in the sayde booke: I geue it to whome I will. I shal now toke the wyrd/ and they shall all be thine. Iesus answered hym/ and said: It shal be so. Iesus answered hym/ and said: Thou shalt worshippe the Lorde thy God/ and hym onely shalt thou serue.

the place where it is writte: The spycite of the

And they sayde: Is not thys Iosephs sonne?

And hee sayde vnto them: Doubtes ye will saye vnto me thys prouerbe: Without heale thy kysse. For how greates thinges haue we herde done at Capernaum? And he saith here also in thine owne countrey. But hee sayde: Verily I saye vnto you/ there is no prophet accepted in hye owne countrey. Neither in the of a truerth I saye vnto you: There were many wydowen in Israel in the tyme of Elia/ when the heauen was shut thre yeres and syxe monethes/ so that there was greates dyrth in all the lade/ and to none of them was Elia sent/ but onely vnto Syrepta of the Sydonians to a wydowen. And many leprowere there in Israel in the tyme of Elisha/ a prophet/ and none of them was cleansed/ save onely Naaman of Syria.

And as many as were in the Synagoge when they herde that/ were filled with wrath.
And they rose vp/ and thrust hym out of the synagoge/ and ledde hym vp to the edge of the hill/whereupon their cite was builded/ that they myght cast hym downe headlong. But he wente his waye/ throughto the myddell of them.
And hee came to Capernaum a cite of Galile/and taught the people on the Sabbathes. And they wounded at his doctrine/ for his teaching was with power.

And in the Synagoge there was a man possessed with a foule spycite/ who cryed loudly/and sayde: See me alone/ what haue I to do with the thou Iesu of Nazareth? Art thou come to dystroye vs? I knowe the thyng thou art/ when the holy of God. And Iesus rebured hym/ and sayde: Hold thy tongue/ and departe out of hym. And the spycite thrust hym in the myddell amonge the people/ and departed from hym/ and dyd hym no harme: and there came a feare ouer the all/ and they spake amonge the selfe/ saying: What manner of thyng is this?
he commandeth the foule spycites with authorite and power/ and they departe out. And the same of hym was noyde throughtout all the places of the countrey rounde about. For

And hee rose vp out of the synagoge/ and came into Symons house. And Symons mother in lawe was taken with a great feare/

¶ And when the Sunne was gone downe/all they that had sycke of diuerse diseases/soughte them vnto him. And he sayde hys handes vpon every one of them/and made them whole. ¶ The deuils also departed oute of many / cryinge and sayinge: Thou arte Christe the sonne of God. And he rebuked them/and suffered them not to speake/for they knewe that he was Christe. But when it was daye/ he wente ouer into a deserte place.
And the people soughte hym/that he shoulde not departe from them. But he sayde vnto them: I must preache the Gospel of the Kingdome of God to other cyties also: For ther-to am I sent. And he preached in the Synagogues of Galile.

The V. Chapter. †

¶ It came to passe that the people pressed vpon hym/so that he wode of God/¶ he stode by the lake of Genesareth / and sawe two shyppes stande by the lake syde: but the fischers were gone out of the / and had wash-shed their nettes. Then wente he into one of the shyppes/which was Symons/and praied him/that he wolde thrust out a litle from the lande. And he sat him downe/and taughte the people out of the shyppe.

¶ And when he had lefte of talkinge/ he saide vnto Symon: Launche oute into the depe/and let sette your nettes to make a draughte.
¶ And Symon answered / and sayde vnto him: Master we haue laboured all the night/and taken nothinge. But vpon thy woide/ I will louse the net. And wha they had so done/they toke a greate multitude of fische: and they nette brake. And they made signes to they selowes which were in the other shyppe/that they shoulde come and helpe them. And they came and fylled both the shyppes full/so that they sunk.

¶ When Symon Peter sawe that he fill dune at Iesus wordes/and sayde: Lord ge to me/for I am a synfull man. For he was astonnyd/and at that were with him/at this sighte of fische which they toke / and so were James and Iohn also the sonnes of Zebedee/which were Symons companions.

¶ And Iesus sayde vnto Symon: Feare not/for from hence forth thou shalt take men. And they soughte the byppes to lande/and lefte Matt. iij. a all/and followed him. †

¶ And it fortunede as he was in a cyrie / for holde/there was a man full of leprosy. Whan he sawe Iesus/ he fell vpon his face / and besoughte him/and sayde: Lord. If thou wilt thou canst make me cleane. And he stretchyd out his handes/and touchyd him/and saide: I wylle thou cleane. And immediately the leprosy departed from him. And he charged him that he shoulde tell no man/ but go thy waie / and shewe thy selfe vnto the prieste / and offre for thy cleynge as Mose commaunded/for a witnesse vnto them.
¶ But the same of him wet out farther aboad/a there came muche people together to heare him/and to be healed by him fro their syckenesse. And he departed into the wyldernes see and gaue him selfe to prayer.

¶ And it fortunede vpon a daye/that he draughte/and there sat the Pharisees and seryuantes/ which were come out of all the iourne of Galile and Jewry/ and from Ierusalem/and the power of the Lordde wente from hym/and healed every man. And scholde certaine men broughte vpon a bedde a man that had the palsy / and they soughte howe they mighte bryng him in/ and laye him before hym. And when they coude not fynde by what waye they mighte bryng him in / (for the people they dymmed vp to the toppes of the house/and let him vnto the younge with the bedde/ amonge them before Iesus. And when he sawe their faith / he sayde vnto hym: Man thy synnes are forgiuen thee. And the scribes and Pharisees be-ganne to thinke/and saide: What is he thus that speaketh thus? Who can forgive synnes/ but onely God.

¶ Nevertheless / when Iesus perceaued their thoughtes/ he answered and saide vnto to them: What thinke ye in your hertes?
Whether is easer to saye: Thy synnes are forgiuen thee. Or to saye: Arise and walke.
¶ But that ye maye knowe/ that the sonne of man hath power to forgive synnes vpon earth/ he saide vnto the sycke of palsy: I say vnto the: Arise / take vp thy bedde / and go to home.

home. And immediately he rose up before the and rose up the table that he had lye upon/and wente home / and prayd God. And they were all astonysd / and gave God the praise / and were fylled with feare / and sayde: We haue sene maruailous thynges to daye. I

Q And afterwarde he wente oute / and saue a Publicane named Leui / synnige as the res eate of custome / and he sayde vnto him: For sowe me. And he sate al / rose up and folowd him. And Leui made hym a greate feaste in his house. And many publicans / and other sa with him at the table. And the Scribes and Pharisees murmured againste his disciples / and saide: Wherefore do ye eate and drynke with publicans and synners? And Iesus answercd / and saide vnto them: The whole neede not the Phisicall / but they that are sycke.

I am not come to call the ryghteous / but synners to repentance.

E But they sayde vnto hym: Wherefore fast the disciples of Ihon so ofte / and praye so much / and the disciples of the Pharisees / y weye. But the disciples eate and drynke. And he saide vnto them: Can ye make the wed dinge chylidren fast / so long as the kyngd is with them? But the tyme wyl come / that the kyngdome shalbe taken from the / then shall they fast.

And he saide vnto them a synilitude. No man putteth a peece of new cloth into an olde garment: for so he renteth the new / and the peece of the newe agreeth not with the olde.
And no man putteth newe wyne into olde vessels / for els the new wyne bursteth the ves sels / and runneth oute it selfe / and the vessels perishe. But new wyne must be put into new vessels / and so are they both prescribed. And there is no man that putteth the olde / and wolde straight waye haue the new / for he say eth the olde is pleasaunter.

The VI. Chapter.

And it fortuned vpon an after principall the Sabbath that he wente thow the corn feld / and his disciples plucked the ayres of corne / and had eate / and rubbed them with they: and he. But certayne of the Pharisees sayde vnto them: Wherefore do ye that / which is not lawfull to do vpon the Sabbath? And Iesus answered / and said vnto them: Haue ye not red what Dauid dyd / when he was hungry / and they that were with him / home he wente into the house of God / and take the shewbread and had eate / and gaue also vnto them that were with him / which was law full for no man to eate / but for the priest onely

? And he sayde vnto them: The sonne of ma is Lorde euen ouer the Sabbath.

And it came to passe vpon another Sab bath / that he wente into the Synagogue / and taught / and there was a man whose ryghte hande was withred. But the Scribes and Pharisees marked him whether he wold heale vpon the Sabbath / that they might fynde an occasion against him. Neuerthelesse / he per ceaued their thoughtes / and saide vnto the man with the withred hande: Rise / a / steppe forth here. And he arose / and stepped forth.
Then saide Iesus vnto them: I wyl aske you a question: What is it lawfull to do vpon the Sabbath good or euill? to saue lyfe / or to de stroye it? And he behelde them all rounde a bout / and saide vnto the man: Strecte oute thyne hande. And he dyd so. Then was his hande restored him to righte / as whole as the other. But they were fylled full of madnesse / and communed together what they wolde do to him. I

And it fortuned at the same tyme that he wente oute into a mountaine to praye / and remained all nyghte in prayer to God. And when it was daye / he called his disciples / and chose twelfe of them / whome he also calld the Twelve Apostles: Simon / whome he named Pe ter / and Andrew his brother / James and Ihon / Philippe and Bartholomee / Mat thew and Thomas / James the sonne of Alpheus / Simon called Zelotes / Judas the sonne of James / and Judas Iscariot which was the traytoure.

And he wente foune with them / and stode vpon a playne in the felde / and the companye of his disciples / and a greate multitude of people / from all Ieremy and Jerusalem / and from Tyre and Sidon / by the thousandes / wh were come to heare hym / and to be heald of theyr sicknesses / and they that were vexed with the dyuill / were heald. And all the people sought to touch hym / for there went vertue from him/and healeth them all.

¶ And he lycr vp his eyes vpon his Discyples/and saide: Blessed are ye poore: for yours is the Kingdome of God. Blessed are ye that hunger here: for ye shall be satisfied. Blessed are ye that wepe here: for ye shall laugh. Blessed are ye whan men hate you/and pur you out of their companies: couple you/and cast out your name as an euill thinge: for the son of man se. Knowe ye then/and be glad: for shalde youe reward be greate in heauen. I. Euen thus sayd their fathers vnto the prophetes also.

¶ But wo vnto you that are rich: for ye haue your consolation already. Wo vnto you that are full: for ye shall hunger. Wo vnto you that laugh here: for ye shall wepe and weyle. Wo vnto you whan euery man prayseth you: Euen so sayd their fathers vnto the falsse pharisees also.

¶ But I say vnto you that heare: Loue your enemies: do good vnto them that hate you: Bless them that curse you: praye for them that wrongfully trouble you. And who so smiteth thee on the one cheeke: offer him the other also. ¶ And who so taketh away thy cloake: forbid him not the fore also. Whosoauer stretcheth the greeke him/and who so taketh away that thine righte is not a gaine.

¶ And if ye loue them that loue you: what thank haue ye therefor: for synners also loue their louers. And if ye do good for your good: what thank haue ye therefor: for synners also do euen the same. And if ye lende vnto them of whom ye hope to receaue: what thank haue ye therefor: for synners also lende vnto synners: that they maie receaue as muche againe. But rather loue ye youre enemies: do good and lende/looking for nothing thereof againe: so shall youre reward be greate: and ye shall be the children of the Highest: for he is kinde/kenne to the mercifull and to the euil.

¶ If ye be mercifull mercifull: as your father also is mercifull. Judge not/and ye shall not be iudged: condemne not/and ye shall not be condemned. Forgive/and ye shall be forgiven. ¶ Wee: and so you shall be giuen.

A good measure pressed downe/shaken together/and runninge ouer: shall men giue into youre Bosome: for with what measure ye meet/with the same shall it be measured to you againe.

¶ And he saide a similitude vnto them: as the Synne theye receiue the waye to the blinde: theye not onely then fall into the Synne: The Disciple is not aboue his master. But whosouer is perfect: the same shall be as his master. ¶ But why sayst thou a moate in thy brothers eye: and conssidest not thy thame that is in thine owne eye: Whom canst thou say vnto thy brother: Holde thill thy eye: I will plucke the moate out of thine eye: a thou thy self sayst not: I became in thine owne eye: thou yproue. First cast thou out of thine owne eye: and then shalt thou see clearly to pul the moate out of thy brothers eye. ¶

¶ But why call ye me Lorde: Lorde: Master: and do not that I saye vnto you: Whom I see you cometh vnto me and heareth my wordes: and doeth them. I will therfore saye to whom he is lyfe: He is lyfe vnto a man: Jacob: which builded a house: and bygged Temples: and layd the foundation vpon a rocke. When the waters came: the floude brake vpon that house: and coule not moue it: for it was grounded vpon the rocke. But he that heareth/and doeth not: is lyfe vnto a man: that builded his house vpon the earth: without foundation: and the streames came vpon it: and it fell immediately: and great was the fall of that house.

him that he wolde come/ and make his seruants whole. But when they came to Ierusalem/ they besought him instantly/ and said: He is worse than thou shouldst shewe this for him/ for he loueth our people/ as hath shewed vs in the Synagoge. And Iesus went with them.

¶ Nowe when they were not farre from the house/ the captayne sente friends vnto him/ sayinge vnto him/ Oh Lord/ trouble not thy selfe/ I am not worthy that thou shouldst enter vnder my rose. And therefore I thought not my selfe worthy to come to thee/ but speake the worde/ and in seruauice shall be whole. For I my selfe am a man/ subiecte to the hygher auctoryte/ and haue souldiers vnder me. And I saye vnto one/ Go/ and he goeth. And to another: Come/ and he cometh. And to my seruant: Do this/ and he doeth it. When Iesus herde that he was called at him/ and turned him aboute/ and sayde vnto the people that folowed him/ I say vnto you. So greates sayth haue I not founde/ no/ nor in Israel. And when they that were sent came home agayne/ they founde the seruant that was sicke/ whole.

B ¶ And it fortuned afterwarde/ that he wente into a cite called Naum. And many of his Disciples wente with him/ and muche people. When he came nye to the gate of the cite/ Scholde/ there was carryed oute one dead/ whiche was the onely sonne of his mother/ and she was a widow/ and muche people of the cite wente with her. And when the Lorde sawe her/ he had compassion on her/ and sayde vnto her: Wepe not/ and be come nye/ and touch the coffin. And they that dyd beare hym/ stode still. And he sayde: Yonge man/ I saye vnto thee/ Arise. And the dead sat vp/ and beganne to speake. And he embraced him vnto his mother. And there came a feare on them all/ and they payseed God/ and said: A great prophete is arisen vpon vs/ and God hath visyted his people.

¶ And thus fame of him was noyseed in all Iewrye/ and in all the regions that lase rounde aboute.

¶ And the Disciples of Ihon shewed hym/ of all these things. ¶ And Ihon called vnto hym two of his Disciples/ and sente them vnto Iesus sayinge: See thou be that shall come/ or shall we loke for another? ¶ When the men came to hym/ they sayde: Ihon the Baptiste hath sente vs vnto thee/ sayinge: See thou be that shall come/ or shall we loke for another?

¶ At the same houre healed he many fringes/ and vnto many that were blind/ he gaue sighte. And Iesus answered/ and said vnto them: Go youre waye: for as Ihon what ye haue sene and herde. ¶ The Synode se/ the balyngge go/ the lepers are clyenshed/ the deafe heare/ the dead arise. ¶ And the Gospell is preached vnto the poore/ and blessed is he that is not offended at me.

¶ When the messengers of Ihon were departed/ Iesus beganne to speake vnto the people concerninge Ihon: What are ye gone out for to se in the wilderness? Wolde ye see a reder/ that is shakyn with the wynde? Or what are ye gone out for to se? Wolde ye see a man clothed in soft raiments? Scholde/ they that are gorgeously arrayed/ and lyue delicately/ are in Kinges courtes. ¶ What are ye gone out for to se? Wolde ye see a Prophet? Yee/ I saye vnto you: one that is more than a Prophet. This is he of whom it is written: Scholde/ I finde my messenger before thy face/ whiche shall prepare thy waye before thee. ¶ For I saye vnto you: Amonge them that are sone of women there is no greater prophete than Ihon the Baptiste. Notwithstandynge/ he that is lesse in the kingdome of God/ is greater than he.

¶ And all the people that herde hym/ and the publicans/ iustified God/ and were Baptysed with the Baptysme of Ihon. But the Pharisees and Scribes despysed the counsaill of God againste them selves/ and were not Baptysed of hym. ¶ But the Lorde sayde: Wherewith shall I lyeke the men of this generacyon? And whome are they like? They are lyke vnto chyldeyn whiche synne in the markette/ and crye one to another/ and saye: We haue pyped vnto you/ and ye haue not dunced/ we haue mourned vnto you/ and ye haue not wepte. Thank no wyne/and ye saye: he hath the Beupityeth/and ye saye: This man is a glutton and a wyne bybber / a frende of publicans and synners. And wysdome is wylfyrd of her chyldren.

¶ And one of the Pharise besyde him / said: he shold care with him. And he wente into the house/and sat him down at the table.

¶ And beholde / there was in the cytie a woman whiche was a synner. When she percey-ved that Iesus sat at the table in the Pharise house / she bought a boxe with oynemente / and sode behynde at his fete/and wepte/and beganne to water his fete with teares / and to drye them with the heeres of her haire /

¶ But when the Pharise whiche had called said: If this man were a prophete / he wolde knowe what a what manner of woman this is that toucheth him / for she is a synner. And Iesus answered / a said vnto him: Simon.

I haue somwhat to saye vnto the. He said: Mester saie on. A certayne lender had two peters/ the one oughte fyue hundred pences/the other sixty: but when they had nothinge to paye/ he forgate them both. Tell me / which of them wyl loue him moost? Simon answered / a sayde: He. I suppose: to whome he forgate moost. Then said he vnto him: Thou hast iudged right.

And he turned hym to the woman and sayde vnto Simon: Seyst thou this woman: I am come into thyne house / thou hast given me no water vnto my fete/ but she hath wared my fete with teares / and dryed but she hath anoynted me heade with oynemente.

Therefore I saye vnto the: Many synners are forgate her/ for she hath loued muche.
But vnto whome lesse is forgaten / the same loueth the lesse.

And he sayde vnto her: Thy synnes are forgaten the. Then they that sat at the table with hym/ beganne to saye within themselues: What is he/ this that forgateth synners also? But he sayde vnto the woman: Thy sayth hath saued the. Go thy waye in peace. ¶

The VIII. Chapter.

¶ And it fortuneth after wards that he wente vnto the ctyes and townes / and preached/ and shewed the Gospell of the Kingdome of God/ and the rest with him. ¶ And certaine woman also whome he healed from eu-el specto and infirmitie: Namely Mary / whiche is called Magdalene/ out of whome wenten sven deuils/ and Joanna the wyfe of Chusa Herodes steruante and Susanna/ and many other that ministered vnto them of their substance.

¶ How many people was gathered together / and haryed vnto him oute of the ctyes/ he spake by a similitude. There went: oute a souer to sowe his sede / a while he was sowynge/ some fell by the waye side/and was troden vnder soles/ and the foolcs of the eyer had care it vp. And some fell on the stone/ and when it was spronge vnto/ with-red awaye / because it had no moystenes.
And some fell amonge thornes/ and the thornnes spronge vp with it / and choked it. And some fell vpon a good grounde / and sprang/and bare fruite an hundred fold. When he said this/ he crede: Who so hath eeres to hear/let him heare.

¶ And his disciples aged hym/ and saydet B. What similitude is this: And he said: Vnto you it is giuen to knowe the misteries of the Kingdome of God/ but vnto ocher in parables/ that though they see it / they shoulde not se: / and though they heare it / they shoulde not

This is the parable: the sede is the woode of God: As for those that are by the waye side / they are they that heare it / afterwarde comerth the deuill / and taketh awaye the woode out of their heeres/ that they shoulde not beleue and he saith: But they on the stone are suche as when they heare it / receiue the woode with ioye / and thethe haue no roote: theche sowe for a while / and in the tyme of temptacion they fall awaye. As for it that fell amonge the thornes / are suche as heare it / and go forth amonge the cares ryche / and voluptuous

them/and saide: Whome saye the people that

Thou arte Ihsus the Baptiste. Some: that prophets is risen againe. But he saide vnto them: Whome saye ye that I am? Then answered Simon Peter and saide: Thou arte that Christ of God. And he charged them secretly/and commaunded them/that they shoulde tell this vnto no man/and saide: For the sonne of man must suffer many thinges/aungels. ¶ I saye vnto you of a truerth / there be some of them that stande here/whiche shal not tast of death/tyll they see the kyngedome

Luc. xxi. 4. ¶ And it fortuned/ that aboute an eghtie daies after these wordes/he toke vnto him Peter/ Ihsus and James / and wente vp into a mounte: so to praye. ¶ And as he prayed/ the shape of his countenance was chaunged of another fashion/ a his garment was white/and shyned: and beholde/two men talked w him. Whiche were Moses and Elias / that appeared gloriously/and spake of his deparing/whiche he shoulde fulfill at Ierusalem.
¶ So for Peter and them that were with him/they were full of slepe. But when they awoke/they saue his glorie/ and the two men stans-ding with him.

¶ And it chaunced/when they departed fro the mounte/ Peter saide vnto Ihsus/ Master/ here is good beinge for vs. Let vs make this tabernacle: one for vs: the / one for Moses/ and one for Elias/and wyllt thou what he saide. But while he thus spake/there came a cloude/ and whyle this voyce came to passe / they founde

¶ And it chaunced on the nexte daye after/ that when they came downe from the mounte/ that much people met him/and beholde/ a man amonge the people erred out/ and saide: Master/I beseeche the/ loke vpon my sonne/ for he is myne only sonne: beholde/ he is crosse tacked here/ a soderly he cryeth/ and he reareth him/that he is merth/ and with payne he reareth he from him/ when he hath rente him. And I besought the Disciples to cast him out/ and they coulde not. Then answered Ihsus/ and saide: O thou vnfaithfull/ sill and crooked generation/ howe longe shall I be with you: and suffre you? Whyngether thy sonne. And when he came vnto him/ the diuell rente him/and tare him. But Ihsus rebuked the full spete / and healed the childe / and deliuered him to his father againe. ¶ And they were all amazed at the mighty power of God.

¶ And whyle they wound red euery one at all all that they vnderstode it not. And they were afrayed to aske him of the woide. ¶ There came a thoubt also amonge them/ whiche of them shoulde be the greatest. But when Ihsus saw the thoubtes of their hearts/ he toke a childe/and set him herde by him/ and saide vnto

But a Samaritan waye gayng his iourney: and came that waye/ and when he sawe hym/ he had compassion vpon hym/ wente vnto hym / bounde up his woundes/ and poured oyle and wyne there in/ and lift hym vp vpon his best/ and broughte hym into the tync/ and made prouision for hym. Vpon the nexte daye when he departed/ he receyued two pence / and gaue them to the ost/ and sayde vnto hym: Take care of hym / and wharsoeuer thou spendest more/ I wyll paye it the when I come agayne. Which of these thre thou thinkest thou wast neighbour vnto him that fel amonge? ⁊ answered: He sayde: He that shewed mercie vpon hym. Then sayde Iesus vnto hym: Wo thy warte the/ and so shouldest thou. ¶

¶ It fortunad as they wente / that he entred into a tounce / where ther was a woman named Martha/ which receaued him into her house. And she had a syster / called Mary/ which sat by her house at Iesus feet / and herked vnto his wordes. But Martha made her selfe much to do / so to serue hym. And the slepe vnto hym/ and sayde: Lorde/ carest thou not that my syster leaueth me serue alone? But her therfore / the helpe me. But Iesus answered/ and sayde vnto her: Martha Martha / thou carest thoughte / and carest thy selfe aboute many thynges: ¶ there is but one thinge needfull / Mary hath chosyn a good parte/ which shall not be take a waye fro her. ¶

The XL Chapter.

¶ And it fortunad that he was in a place/ and ⁊ prayed. And when he had ceased / one of his disciples sayde vnto him: Lorde / make vs to praye/ as thou also taughte thy disciples. He sayde vnto them: ¶ I thanke ye praye / saye: O our father / which art in heauen / halowd be thy name. Thy kyngdome come. Thy will be fulfilled vpon earth/ as it is in heauen. Crucie oure this daye our daily bread. And forgouere oure synnes / for we also forgiue all them that are bettred vnto vs. And lede vs not into temptation/ but deliuer vs from euil.

¶ And he sayde vnto them: which of you is it that hath a frende/ and shoulde go to him at mydnyght/ and saye vnto hym: frende / lende me thre loaues / for a frende of mine is come to me out of the waye / and I haue nothing to set before hym/ and he wythin shoulde answer and say: Whatseuer me not / the doore is shut already / and my chyldeen are with me in the chamber / I can not ryse and geue the. I saye vnto you: and though he wold not arise and geue him/ because he is his frende/ yet for cause of his vnwaresall begginge he wold arise/ and geue him as many as he wold.

B ↑ And I saye vnto you also: These it shalbe 17 to hym that knocketh/ shall it be opened. If the 25 them that aske hym.

F ↑ And he shoue out a deuil that was 26 demoneid: and came to passe when the deuill 27 was departed out / the domme spake/ and the 28 people wonderd. ↑ But some of them sayde: 29 He thyerth out the deuils thowwe Helzebub 30 the chiefe of the deuils. The other temptid 31 hym/ and desyred a token of hym from heaue.
 32 But he knewe their thoughtes/ and sayde en-33 to them: Every kyngdome deuyded within it 34 selfe/ shalbe desolate / and one house shall fall 35 upon another. If Sathan then be: at vary-36 aunce within hym selfe/ howe shall his kyng-37 dome endure? Because ye say that I vyue out 38 deuils thowwe Helzebub.

And if I vyue out deuils thowwe Helze-39 bub/ by whome then do you chylde: en vyue 40 them out? Therefore shall they be your iudges.
 41 But if I call out the deuils by the synge of 42 Gods name is the kyngdome of God come vnto 43 you.

 54 went out. And when he cometh/ he fynderth 55 it strepe and garnysed. Then goeth he / and 56 taketh vnto him seue other spires/ worse then 57 his selfe. And when they are entred / they

When the people were gathered thise to-64 gether/ he beganne to saye: ↑ This is an euill 65 generacion/ they desyre a token/ and there shal 66 no token be geuen them / but the token/ of the 67 prophete Jonae. ↑ So like as Jonae was thre 68 a token vnto the Ninuities / so shall the sonne

 78 preachinge of Jonae: and beholde/ here is one 79 more then Jonae.

↑ No man lygeth a candle/ and putteth it

 83 the body. If thine eye then be synge/ all thy body 85 then shal all thy body be ful of darkenesse. Take 86 hede therfore/ that the lyght which is in the 88 that it haue no part of darkenesse / then shall it 89 be full of lyght / and shall lyghte the euen as a 90 cleare lyghteninge.

But whyle he yet spake/ a ceruene Pharyse 91 prayed hym / that he wolde vyue with hym.

Then answered one of the Scribes / and sayde vnto hym: Master / with these wordes thou puttest vs to rebuke also. But he sayde:
mat. xxij. a. † And wo vnto you also ye Scribes / for ye lade men with vntolerable burthens / and ye

¶ Wo vnto you / for ye buylde the sepul-

¶ Therefore sayde the wysdome of God: I and some of them shall they put to decay and persecute: that the bloude of all the prophetes which hath ben shedde sence the foundaquestions / and layde wayte for hym / and sought to bunne out some thyng out of his

The XII Chapter.

¶ Here gathered together an innumerable multitude of people / in so much that they rode one another: Then beganne he / and said Mat. xxi. a. a first vnto his Disciples: Beware of the leu-mar. viij. d. uen of the Pharisees / which is hypocrysie. But * Sap. i. b. there is nothinge hyd that shall not be discouered: neither secretes / that shall not be knowen. ¶ Therefore whatsoeuer ye haue spoken in secretes / in kynesse / that same shall be cryed in light: and that ye haue spokē into the eare in the chambers / shall be preachid vpon the house toppes.

¶ But I say vnto you / my frendes / be not afraid of them that kill the body / and after that they haue no more that they can do. But I saye vnto you / whome ye shall feare. Feare hym / whiche after he hath kylled / hath power also to cast into hell: Yee / I saye vnto you: feare hym. Are not frue sparowes bought for twa farthynges? Yet is not one of them forgotten before God. The verye beeres of your heate also are numbered euery one. Feare not therefore / for ye are deare then many sparrowes.

¶ I saye vnto you. † Whosoever knowetheth me before men / him shall the sonne of man knowe also before the angels of God: But he that denyeth me before men / shall be denyed before the angels of God. † And whosoever shall speake a worde against the sonne of man / he shall be forgiven him: But who so blasphemeth the holy ghoost / it shall not be forgiven hym.

¶ When they bringe you into theyr Syn-agoges / and to the rulers and officers / take ye no thought / howe or what ye shall an-swere: or what ye shall saye: for the holy ghoost shall teache you in the same houre what ye ought to saye.

¶ But one of the people sayde vnto him. Master: bydde my brother / beynde the embarnate with me. He answered he / sayde vnto hym: Man / who hath sette me to be a iudge or betrage partur ouer you? And he sayde vnto the:
Take heed / and beware of couetousnes: for no man maye lyeth therof: that he hath aboundaunce of goodes. And he tolde them a similitude sayde: There was a ryche man / whose felde had brought forth fruite plentifully / a brought in hym selfe / and sayde: What shall I do: I haue nothinge wherein to gather my fruite and he sayde: this will I do / I will builde I haue my barnes / and buylde greater / and therein will I gather all myne increase and my goodes / a will say vnto my soule: Thou shalt haue muche goodes layed vp in store for many yeaeres / take nowe thyne ease / dunke / and be merry. But God sayde vnto him:

him: Thou soule/ this nyght shal thou require thy soule vnto the/ and whose shall it be that shal be prepared? Thus goeth it with him that gathereth treasure for him self/ and is not ready in God.

But he saide vnto his disciples: Therefore I saye vnto you. Take ye no thought for youre lyfe/ what ye shall eat: neither for youre body/ what ye shall put on. The lyfe is more then meate/ and the body more then raiment. Consider the rauenes/ they neither sowe nor reape/ they haue also neither storehouse nor barn/ and yet God feedeth them. But howe muche better are ye then the foolkes?

Which of you (thought he) toke thought therfore? could put one cubyte vnto his stature? Seynge then ye be not able to do that which is leass/ why take ye thought for the other? Consider the lilies vpon the fildes howe they growe: they labour not/ they spinne not. But I saye vnto you: that euen Salomon in all his rosalyte was not clothed like one of these. Wherefore if God so clotheth the gras that is to day in the fildes/ and to morowe shall be cast in the foune: howe muche more shall he clothe you/ to ye of litle saythe? Yee not therfore what ye shall eat/ or what ye shall drinke/ and hymne not up on hys: The Heithen in the worlde sike after all such thinges. But sicke in the kingdome of God/ and all these shalbe mistred vnto you.

Yeare not thou litle stocke/ for it is youre fathers pleasure to geue you the kingdome. Sell that ye haue/ and geue almesse. Make you bagges/ which waxe not olde/ euen a treasure that neuer fayleth in heauen/ where no theif cometh/ and no moth corrupteth: for where youre treasure is/ there will youre heire be also.

Lette youre loynes be girded about/ a youre lightes burninge/ as ye be like vnto men that wate for their lordes/ against he returne from hys marriage: that whē he cometh a knocketh/ thei maye straight way open vnto him. Blessed are those seruantes/ whome the lord (whan he cometh) shall finde waking. Verely I saye vnto you: That he shall gyrd up him selfe/ and make the selfe doore as a table/ shall go by the/ and minister vnto them. And if he comen in the seconde watche/ and in the thyrde watche/ and finde them so/ blessed are those seruantes.

But be sure of this/ that if the good man of mat. xxiiij. b the house knewe/ what houere the thefe wolde come/ he wolde surely watche/ and not suffre his house to be broken open. Therefore be ye mat. xxv. a ready also/ for at an houere whan ye thinke not/ shall the sonne of man come.

But Peter saide vnto him: Lord/ tell us thou this similitude vnto vs/ for to all men alote the Lord saide: Howe greete a thinge is a faithfull and wyfe sleward/ whome his lord seureth ouer his housholde/ to geue them their due/ in due season? Blessed is that firste Apo. xvi. c vnaunt/ whome his lord (whan he cometh) shall finde so doyng. Verely I say vnto you/ he shall serue ouer all his goodes. But if that same seruante shall say in his heart: My lord is not here/ I will be lerge to my lord/ come/ I shall begynne to smyte the seruantes a maiden/ yea/ a care and thynke/ as to be thowght: the same seruante his lord shall come in a day whan he looketh not for him/ in an houere that he is not aware of/ he shall haue him in pecco/ & geue him his rewarde with the vnbeleuers.

The seruante that knewe his lordes will/ Iac. iiij. b and prepared not him self/ neither doo accorde to his will/ shall be beate with many stripes: But he that knewe it not/ & yet doo thinge worthy of stripes/ shall beate with fewe stripes. For loke vnto whom much is geuent of him/ shall much be sought/ a loke to whome much is committed/ of him shall much be requerd.

I am come to finde fyre vpon earth/ and what wolde I rather/ then that it were findled already: nor wish slakinge. I must first be baptyssed with a baptyse/ and howe am I payned till it be ended? Thinke ye that I am come to bringe peace vpon earth? I tell you nay/ but rather debate. For from henceforth there shalbe at variance in one house the against the/ and two against the. The father shall be deuyded against the sonne/ and the sonne against the father: the mother against the daughter/ and the daughter against the mother: the mother in lawe against her daughter in lawe/ and the daughter in lawe against her mother in lawe.

And he saide vnto the people: Whan ye see a cloude ryse out of the West/ straight waye

The XIII. Chapter.

Act. x. c I Here were present at this same season certaine / that shewed him of the 7 Galileans / whose bloude had mingled with their owne sacrifice. And Iesus answered / and sayde vnto them: Suppose ye that these Galileans were greater sinners then all other Galileans because they suffered such punishment: I tell you naye / but except ye amende youre selves / ye shall all perishe likewise. I thinke ye that the caryent / vpon whome the rower in Syon sell and stowe the / were getiue aboute all men that dwell at Ierusalem: I tell you naye: but except ye amende your selves / ye shall all perishe likewise.

Mat. xxi. b I And he tolde them this similitude: I Certaine man had a figge tree / which was planted in his vineyard / and he came and sought fruite thereon / and founde none. He said he vnto the wyngardener: Behold. This this yeare longe haue I come euer yeare / and sought fruite vpon this figge tree / and fynde none: cut it downe / why bindeth it the ground: But he answered / and said: Syr / let it alone yet this yeare / till I bygge rounde aboute it / a Rynge / if it will bringe forth fruit: If no / then cut it downe after wards.

And he taught in a Synagoge vpon the Sabbath / and behelde / there was a woman which had a spere of insuriance eghyght yeares / and was crooked / and coulde not wel loken vp. When Iesus sawe her / he called her to hym / and saide vnto her: Woman be deliuered from this thysaife: and he layed his handes vpon her / and immediatly she was made straigh and prayed God.

Then answered the ruler of the Synagoge / B and rose indignacion / because Iesus healed vpon the Sabbath / and said vnto the people: There are here dayes / wherein men ought to worke / in them come / and be healed / and not on the Sabbath.

Then the Lord answered him / and said: Thou speakest vponly not eueryone of you hee hath his ox or asse from the crybbe vpon the Sabbath / or leadeth him to the water: But shouldest thou not haue had a man / whom thou haddest bounde now eghyght yeares / and loosedst fro this bande vpon the Sabbath: And when he thus said / all his aduersaries were ashamed. And all the people reioyced ouer all the excellent wordes that were done by him.

I And he saide: what is the kingdome of the Godlike: Wherunto shall I compare it: It shall be like a grain of musterd seed / which a man sowed in his garden: and it grew / and waxed a greete tree / and the fowles of the ayre dwelt vpon the braynches of it.

I And againe he sayde: wherunto shall I liken the kingdome of God: Iesus like vnto leuen / which a man took / and mixt it with manye measures of flour / till it was all leuened.

I And he wente throughte cities and townes / and taught / and toke his iourney towards Ierusalem.

And one saide vnto hym: Lord / declare thee thyself / thou that thalbe saued: But he saide vnto them: I Striue ye to entre in at the strait gate / for many / I say vnto you / shall like to come in / and shall not be able. From that tyme forth / when the good man of the house is risen vp / and hath shut the doore / then shall ye beginne to stand without / and to knocke at the doore / and saye: I Lord / I Lord / open vnto vs: And he shall answer / and say vnto you: I knowe you not wher ye are.

Then shall ye begynne to saye: we haue eaten and dronken before the / and thou hast taught vs vpon the streetes. And he shall say: I tell you / I knowe you not wher ye are: I departe fro me all ye workers of iniquite. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth / when ye shall see Abraham / and Isaac / and Jacob / and all the prophetes in the kingdome of

of God and your selves thus out. And when they shall come from the East and from the West / from the North and from the South / which shall sit at the table in the kingdom of God. And behold / there are last / which shall be first.

Upon the same day there came certaine of the Pharisees / and saide vnto him: Get thee out of the way / and departe hence / for Herode will kill thee. And he saide vnto them: Go ye and tell the foxe / wherholde / I cast out devils / and deale the people to daye and to morrowe / upon the thirde daye shall I make an ende: for it can not be / that a prophet perishe without Ierusalem.

¶ O Ierusalem Ierusalem / thou that killest the prophetes / and stonest them that are sent vnto thee / how oft wolde I haue gathered thy children together / eue as the henne gathereth her nest vnder her wynges / and ye wolde not: Beholde / your habitation shall be left vnto you desolate. For I saye vnto you: ye shall not see me till the tyme come that ye shall saye: Blessed be he that cometh in the name of the Lorde.

The XIII. Chapter.

¶ It fortuned that he came in the house of one of the chiefe Pharisees / upon a Sabbath / to eat bread / and they watched him. And behold / there were a men beset by him: which had the dropsie. And Iesus answered / and spake vnto the Scribes and Pharisees / and said: Is it lawfull to heale on the Sabbath? But they held their tynge. And he toke him / and healed him / and let him go / and answered / and saide vnto them: Which of you shall haue an eye or an asse fallen into a pitte / and will not strageght waye pull hym out / on the Sabbath daye? And they could not answer hym agayne to that.

And he tolde a simill vnto the gestes / when he marked howe they chose the hygher seats / and saide vnto them: When thou art bydden of any man to a weddinge / sit not vnto in the hygher roume / lest / more honorable men then thou be bydden of hym / and he that had bothe the and him / came and saide vnto the: geue this man roume / and thou then beginne with shame to take the lowest roume. But rather when thou arte bydden / go and sit in the lowest roume / that when he that had bothe / cometh / he maye saye vnto the: Sit vnder / or sit vp here. Then shall thou haue worship in the presence of the that sitte at the table. For man. xiii. b whosoever exalteth hym selfe / shall be brought lowe: and he that humbleth hym selfe / shall be exalted.

He saide also vnto hym that had bydden hym: When thou makest a dinner / or a supper / call not thy frendes / ne thy brethren / nor thy kynnesfolke: for theye maye requyte thee / and call thee agayne / and recompence be made thee. But wha thou makest a feast / call the poore / the crepell / the lame / then art thou blessed / for they can not recompence thee. But it shall be recompensed the in the resurrection of the ryghteous.

¶ When one of them that sat by at the table herde this / he saide vnto hym: Blessed is he / that eateth bread in the kingdom of God. But he saide vnto hym: ¶ I certayne man made a greatesupper / and called many therto. And in the houre of the supper he sent his seruants to saye vnto them that were bydden: Come / for now are all thynges ready. And they beganne altogether to excuse the selfe one after another: The first saide vnto him: I haue bought a ferme / and I must nedes go forth and see it / I pray the haue me excused. And the second saide: I haue boughte fyne yoke of oxen / and nowe I go to proue them / I praye the haue me excused. And the thirde saide: I haue married a wyfe / therfore can I not come. And the seruants came and brought the Lorde worde agayne therof.

¶ Then was the good man of the house displeasid / and saide vnto his seruants: Go out quickly into the strettes and quarters of the cite / and bringe in byther the poore / and crepell / and lame / and blynde. And the seruants saide: lo, here is done as thou hast commaunded / and there is yet more roume. And the Lorde saide vnto the seruants: Go out into the bygher wayes / and to the hedges / and compell them to come in / that my house maye be fylled. But I saye vnto you: that none of these men whiche were bydden / shall saye of my supper.

 This man beganne to buyde / and is not able to performe it. O what synge wyl go to buyell with another synge / and steech not doune first and casteth in his mynde / whether he be able with ten thousande to meete him / that cometh agaynst him with twenty thousande / O ho whyle the other is yet a grente waye off he sendeth embassage / and besyerh pece. So likewise euery one of you that so-leareth not all that he hath / can not be my Disciple.

Mat. v. 6 † Salt is a good thyng: but if the salt be neither good vpon the lode / nor in the bouge of hys lute / whate call a waye. He that hath eares to heare / let hym heare.

The XV. Chapter.

Mat. ix. a ¶ Here resorted vnto hym all the Publicans Mat. ix. b and synners / that they myght heare him.
Luc. v. d And the Pharisees and Scribes murmured Luc. v. e and ceterch with them. † But he tolde them and vi. c thys similitude / and sayde: † what man is he Mat. x. b amonge you / that hath an hundred shepe / and if he lose one of them / what leaueyth not the nyne and nynty in the wyldernesse / and searcheth after that which is lost / yll he fynde it.
 And when he hath founde it / he layeth it vpon his shoulde with ioye: and when he cometh home / he calleth his frendes and neighbours / and sayeth vnto them: Reioyce with me / for I haue founde my shepe that was lost / I saye vnto you: Euen so shall there be ioye in heauen ouer one synner that doeth penance / more then ouer nyne and nynty righteous / which † neede not repentaunce.

Luc. v. d ¶ O what woman is it that hath ten grotes / if she lose one of them / that she gyeth not a candle and sweepeth the house / and seeketh diligently till she fynde it: And when she hath founde it / she calleth her frendes and neighbours / and sayeth: Reioyce with me / for I haue founde my grote / whiche I had lost. Euen so ( I tell you ) shall there be ioye before the angels of God / ouer one synner that doeth penance. †

† And he sayde: A certayne man had two sonnes / and the yonger of them sayde vnto the father: father geue me the portion of the goodes that belongeth vnto me. And he denyed the good vnto them / and not longe thereafter gathered the yonger sonne also together / a toke his iourney into a farre countrey / a there wast ed he his goodes in riotous livinge. Now when he had spent all that he had / there was a greate dearth thero / without all the same lode.
 And he beganne to lacke / and wente hys waye / a came to a citey of that same countrey / whiche sent hym into hys felde / to kepe swyne. And he wolde fayne haue filled hys belly with the coddres / that the swyne dyd eate. And no man gaue hym them.

Then came he to hym self / and saide: How many hyred seruantes hath my father / whiche haue breade ynough / and I perishe of hunger: I wyl get vp / and go to my father / and saye vnto hym: father / I haue synned agaynst heauen and before the / and am now as thy to be called thy sonne / make me as one of thy hyred seruantes. And he gat hym vp / and came vnto his father. † But wha he was yet a greate waye off / his father sawe him / and had compassion / and ranne and fel about his necke / and kysed him. Then saide the sonne vnto him: father I haue synned agaynst heauen and before the / I am now as thy to be called thy sonne. But the father saide vnto his seruantes: bringe forth the beste garment / and put it vpon him / and geue him a ringe vpon his hande / and shoo an his fere / and bringe hyther a fet calfe and fill it / let vs eate and be merry: for this my sonne was dead / and is aliue agayne: he was lost / and is founde. And they began to be merry.

But the elder sonne was in the felde. And when he came / and drew neare to the house / he heerde

herde the mynstrelly / and dauncynge / and called one of the seruauntes vnto him / and ased what it was. He sayde vnto him : Thy brother is come / and thy sarder hath slayne a fed calfe / because he hath receaued hym safe and sounde. Then was he angry / and wolde not go in. Then wente his sarder oute / and prayed hym. But he answered and saide vnto his sarder: Lo / thus many yeres haue I bene the seruaunt / neyther haue I yete broken thy commaundementes / and thou gauest me neuer one fyddre / that I myghte make mery with my frendes. But nowe that this thy sonne is come / whiche hath slayned his goodes with harlottes / thou doste slayne a fed calfe. But he sayde vnto him: My sonne / thou arte alwaye with me / and all that is myne is thynne: thou shouldest be mery and be glad: for this thy brother was dead / and is alwaye againe: he was lost / and is founde againe. ¶

The XXVI. Chapter.

HE sayde also vnto his disciples: There was a certayne ryche man / whiche had a steward that was accused vnto him / that he had waisted his goodes. And he called hym / and saide vnto him: Howe is it / that I heare this of the? geue accomptes of thy stewardshippe: for thou maist be no longer steward. The steward saide within him selfe: What shall I doe / for this Loide will take away the stewardshippe from me. I can not bygge / and to bygge / I am ashamed: I wote what I will doe / that when I am put oute of the stewardshippe / they maie receaue me into their houses.

And he called vnto him all his lordes vnto / and sayde vnto the firste: Howe muche owest thou vnto my lord? He saide an hundred tunnes of oyle. And he sayde: Take thy bill / set thoue quyetly / and write fyfye. Then saide he vnto another: Howe muche owest thoue? He saide an hundred quartres of wheat. And he saide vnto hym: Take thy bill / and write foure score. And the Loide commended the vnrighteous steward / because he had done wysely. For the children of this worlde are in their fynde wyser / then the children of lighte. And I saye vnto you / Make you frendes to the vnrighteous Mammon / that when ye shal haue ned / they maie receaue you into euerlastinge tabernacles.

¶ He that is faithfull in the least / is faithfull also in muche: and he that is vnrighteous in the least / is vnrighteous also in muche. If ye the haue not ben faithfull in the vnrighteous Mammon / who wil helpe you in that which is true? And if ye haue not bene faithfull in another mans busynesse / who wil geue you that which is your owne.

¶ No seruaunt can serue two masters: Mat. vj. 4 for either he shall hate the one / and loue the other / or els he shall leane to the one / and despyse the other. Ye can not serue God and Mammon.

All these thynges herde the Pharisees / whiche were couetous / and they mockte hym. Then he sayde vnto them: ye are they that iustifye youre selves before men / but God knoweth youre heerte. For that which is bygge amonge men / is an abhominacion before God.

¶ The same and the prophete papher cyed vnto Ihon / and from that tyme forth is the kynge dome of God preached throughout the Gospell / and euery man presseth into it by violence. ¶ But after is it for becomen Esai. 4. a and carthe to perishe / when one tytle of the lawe to fall. ¶ Whosoever putteth away his wyfe / and marryeth another / breaketh mans mynnyng: and he that marryeth her whiche is deuoced from her hous had / breaketh wedlocke also.

¶ There was a certayne ryche man / whiche clothed hym selfe with purple / and costlye lynnens / and sared deliciously euery daye. And there was a poore man named Lazarus / whiche laye at his gate full of sores / and desired to be filled with the crosse that fell from the ryche mans table. For came the dogges / and lyched his sores. But it fortunod / that the poore man dyed / and was carryed of the Angells into Abrahams bosome. The ryche man dyed also / and was buryed.

¶ Nowe when he was in the hell / he lyst vp his eyes in the payne / and sawe Abraham asatte off / and Lazarus in his bosome / and he cryed and said: father Abraham / haue mercy vpon me / and sende Lazarus / that he masse dippe the tynge of his synge in water and coole my tynge / for I am tormentid in this flamme. But Abraham saide: Remembere sonne / that thou hast receaued good in thy life / and contrary wise Lazarus receaued euill. But none is comforted / and thou art tormentid. And besyde all this / there is a greatespace betwene vs and you: so that they which wolde go vourne from hence vnto you / can not: neither maie they passe ouer fro thence vnto vs.

Then saide he: I praye the then father that thou wylte sende him vnto my fathers house / for I haue yet syue brethren that he maye warne them / lest they also come into this place of torment. Abraham saide vnto him: They haue Moses and the Prophetes / let them beare them. But he saide: May father Abraham / but if one went vnto them from the dead / they wolde do penance. He rebelleth / he sayde vnto hym: If they beare not Moses / and the prophetes / then shal they not beleeue also / though one rose agayne from the dead. ¶

The. XVII. Chapter.

HE sayde vnto his Disciples: ¶ It is impossible the offences shoulde not come: ¶ But wo vnto hym by whome they come. ¶ It were better for him that a millstone were hangen about his necke / and cast into the see / then that he shoulde offende one of these litle ones. Take heed to youre selues. ¶ If thy brother erre / passe againste the / rebuke hym / and if he amende / forgiue hym. And though he synne againste the seuen tymes in a daye / and come seuen tymes in a daye to the agayne / and saye: I repenteth me / forgiue hym. ¶

¶ And the Apostles saide vnto the Lorde: Increase oure faith. The Lorde saide: ¶ If ye haue faith as a grayne of mustarde seede / and say vnto this Holbery tree: Plucke thy selfe vp by the roote / and plante thy selfe in the see / it shal be obedient vnto you. Which of you is it that hath a seruante / (which ploweth or feedeth the cattell) when he cometh home from the felde / that he wyl saye vnto him: Go quicke / a sye vourne to meate / so it is not thus: that he sayeth vnto hym: Make readye that I maye suppe / gyde vp thy selfe / and serue me / tyll I haue eaten and dronken / after wards shal thou eate a brinde also. Thanketh he the same seruante al / because he did that was commaunde vnto him / I trow not. So likewise ye / what ye haue done all that I commaunde you / saie: We are vnprofitable seruantes / for we haue done that we were bounde to do.

¶ And it cometh / when he toke his iourney towards Jerusalem / he wente thowrre the myddell of Samaria / and Galilee. And as he came into a toun / there met hym ten leperous men / which stode a farr of / a litle up they voice / and sayde: Jesu master / haue mercy vpon vs. And when he sawe them / he sayde vnto them. ¶ Go and shewe yourselues vnto the priestes. And it came to passe as they wente / they were clenfid / and one of them when he sawe that he was clenfid / he turned backe agayne / and prayed God with loude voyce / and fell vourne on his face at his feet / and gaue thankes. And this man was a Samaritane. Jesus answered and sayde: Are there not ten clenfid? But where are thise nyne? There were eis noue founde: that turned agayne / and gaue God the prayse / saue onely this straunger. And he sayde vnto hym: Arise / go thy way / thy faith hath made the whole. ¶

¶ But when he was demaunded of the Diabylis: when cometh the Kingdome of God? He answered them / and saide: The Kingdome of God cometh not with outward appearance / neither shal it be seene: For where is there is it. For the Kingdome of God is inward in you.

¶ And he saide to the Disciples: The tyme shal come / when ye shall desire to see one daye of the sonne of man / and shall not see it. And they shall saye vnto you: Se here. Se there. ¶ But he sayeth / neither foloweth / so as the lightynge shyneth aboue from the heauen / and lighteth ouer all tharis vnder the heauen / so shal the sonne of man be in his daye. ¶ But the first must he suffer many thinges / and be reueiled of this generacion.

¶ And as it came to passe in the tyme of that it was: so shal it come to passe also in the daies of the sonne of man. They are / they shall be / they married / and were married / I tven vnto the saie that he wente into the Trefe / and the soude came and destroyed them all.

D Lkewys also as it came to passe in the tyme of Lot; they bid eate; they byd denye; they soughte; they sold; they plantid; they boude. ¶ But euen the same waie that Lot wente out of Sodome; it rayned fyre & brimstone from heauen; and destroyed them all. After this maner shall it go in the daie when the sonne of man shall appeare.

† And at that daie; who so is vpon the rofe; and his stuffe in the house; let him not come downe; to stowe it: Lkewys he that is in the felde; let him not turne backe; for it is euer to behynd him. ¶ Remembre Lot; he wise.

† I saye vnto you: In that nighte shall twelue wyse one bedde; the one shalbe receaued; the other shalbe forsaken. ¶ Two shalbe grudging; together; the one shalbe receaued; the other shalbe forsaken. And they answered; and sayde vnto him: Where Lord; he saide vnto them: Where soeuer the deaht care; is; there will the Angels be gathered together.

Thy. XV III. Chapter.

¶ The told them a similitude / signifieng; that nat men ought to strowe to please; and not to please of; and saide: There was a iudge in a cite; whiche feared not God; / and stode in awe of no man. And in the same cite there was a wedde wif; whiche came vnto him; / and saide: Deliuere me fro myne aduersarye. And he wolde not a greaue wchale. But afterwarde he thought within him selfe: Though I feare not God; / and stande in awe of no man; yet kenge this wedde wif; is so importun; vpon me; I will deliuer her; lest she come at the last and raile vpon me.

Then saide the Lord; Here what the vnghtuous iudge; saith. But that not God also; deliuer his chosen; that crye vnto hym; day and night; though he be desure them; I seie vnto you: He shal deliuer them; and that sounle. ¶ Remember; when the sonne of man cometh; suppose ye that he shal fynde faith vpon earthe.

them selfe; that they were perfecte; and despysed othe; he saik; this similitude: They wente vnto two men into the temple to praye: The one a Pharise; the other a Publicane. The Pharise stode; and prayed by hym selfe; after this maner: ¶ I thanke the God; that I am not as other men; / rebbis; vniight; Eccl. viij. a reoue; aduocetere; or; as this Publicane.

I faste rayse in the weke; / I geue the tythes of all that I haue. And the Publicane stode asare of; and wolde not lyte vpon his eyes to heauen; but smote vpon his brest; and saide: God be thou mercifull vnto me sinner. I tell you; This man wente home in his house; iustified more then the other.

¶ For whosoever exalted him selfe; / shalbe brought low; and he that humbleth him selfe; shalbe exalted. ¶

¶ They broughte yonge child; also vnto him; that he shoulde touch it. But wha the disciples sawe that; they rebulded them. ¶ He rebuldeste; / I seie; called them vnto him; and saide: Suffre the childen to come vnto me; / and so; bydde them not; for vnto siche belongeth the kyngdome of God. Verely I saye vnto you: Whosoever receaueth not the kyngdome of God as a child; shall not enter therein.

And a certayne ruler ased him; and saide: ¶ Good master; what muste I do; that I may inheret euerlastinge lyfe. But Iesus sayde vnto him: Why callest thou me good; ¶ There is no man good; but God onely. Thou knowest the commandementes: ¶ Thou shalt not swaie wedde; ¶ Thou shalt not sle; ¶ Thou shalt not steale; ¶ Thou shalt not beare false witness; ¶ Honour thy father and mothe; ¶ And he saide: All these haue I kept; fro my youth vp. ¶ When Iesus herde that; he sayde vnto hym: Yet lackest thou one thing; sell all that thou hast; / and geue it vnto the poore; / and thou shalt haue a treasure in heauen; / and come and folowe me. ¶ When he herde that; he was so; / for he was very ryche.

¶ When Iesus sawe that he was so; / he sayde: ¶ Howe hardly shall the ryche come into the kyngdome of God; ¶ It is easier for a Camel to go; throughe the eye of a needle; then for a ryche man to entre into the kyngdome.

Gode sake / whiche shall not receaue muche more in this wyde / and euerlastinge lyfe in the the prophetes / concerninge the sonne of man:

vnto him / that Iesus of Nazareth passed by.
And he cryed / and saide: Iesu thou sonne of Dauid / haue mercye vpon me. But the people that wente before rebuked him / that he shoulde holde his tounge. Neuerthelesse / he cryed muche more: Thou sonne of Dauid haue mercye vpon me. Iesus stode still / and commanded him to be brought vnto him. And when he was come neare he ased him and saide: What wylt thou that I do vnto the?
He sayde: Lorde / that I maye receaue my syghte. And Iesus saide vnto him: Receaue thy syghte / thy faith hath saued the. And im-mediatly he sawe / and folowed him / and praised God. And all the people that sawe it / gaue God the prayse. ¶

The XIX. Chapter. ¶

2 ¶ He had ben entred in / and wente throughte Jerusalem: and beholde / there was a man nam-med Zachus / whiche was a ruler of the Publucans / and was rich / and desired to se Iesus what he shoulde be / and he coulde not for the people / for he was so wylde of stature. And he ranne before / and clymbed vp into a wyde figge tree / that he might se him: for he shoulde come that way. And when Iesus came to the same place / he looked vp / and sawe him / and saide vnto hym: Zachus / come thoue hastily / for I haue must I turne into thy house. And he came doune hastily / and receaued hym with ioye. When they sawe that / they murmured all / and saide / that he was gone in to a sinner.

But Zachus stode forth / and saide vnto the Lorde: Beholde Lorde / the halfe of my goodes geue I to the poore: And if I haue defrauded any man / I restore him foure fold: Iesus saide vnto him: This daye is health happened vnto thy house / for so muche as he also is Abrahams sonne. ¶ For the sonne of man is come to see and to saue that whiche was lost. ¶

¶ Howe while they herkened / he tolde a symilitude also / because he was nye vnto Jerusalem / and because they thought / that the kyngdome of God shoulde appeare imme-diatly. And he saide: ¶ I certaine noble man wente into a farr countre / to receaue him a kyngdome / and then to come agayne.
¶ His man called ten of his seruantes / and deliuered them ten pounde / and saide vnto them: Occupy till I come agayne. But his synecrus hated him / and sent a messager after him / and saide: We wyl not haue this man to raigne ouer vs.

¶ And it fortuned / when he came agayne after that he had receaued the kyngdome / he vyd call for the seruantes / vnto whome he had geuen his money / that he might knowe what euerie one had done. Then came the first / and saide: Syr / thy pounde hath worne ten pounde. And he sayde vnto him: Well thou good seruante / for so muche as thou hast bene faithfull in the lesse / thou shalt haue auctoryne ouer ten ciuites. The seconde came also / and saide: Syr / thy pounde hath worne fyue pounde. And to him he saide: And thou shalt be ouer fyue ciuites.
¶ And the thyrde came / and saide: Lo Syr / here is thy pounde / whiche I haue kepte in a napkin / I was afrayed of the / for thou art a hard

harde man/whon takest vp that thou haste not layd vpon/and receaist that thou haste not layd vpon/He sayde vnto him. Of thine owne mouth iudge I the thou euill seruant. And west thou that I am an harde man/takinge vp that I laide not vpon/and receainge that I had not sowe? Wherefore then hall thou not deliuered my money to the exchaunge banker? And at my comyng might I haue requerd myne owne with vantage.

¶ And he said vnto them that stode by: Take the pounde: from him/and geue it vnto hym that hath ten pounde. And they sayde vnto him: Syr/ he hath ten pounde already. But I saye vnto you: I woulde rather haue it vnto hym that he geuen: but from him that hath not speake taken awaye euen that he hath. As for those myne enemies/ whiche wolde not that I shoulde raigne ouer them/bring them hither and I will slaye them besyde me. And when he had thus sayde/ he wente on forward/ and toke his iourney to Ierusalem. I

¶ And it fortuned wha he came nye Beth-phage and Bethany vnto mounte Olyuete/he sente two of his disciples/ and sayde: Go into the tounce that lieth ouer againste you/as soone as ye ar come in/ ye shall finde a foale tyed/wheron yet neuer man sat/louse it/and bringe it hither. And if any man see you wherefore ye louse it/saye thus vnto him: The Lord hath neede thereof.

And they that were sent/wente their way/and founde euen as he had sayde. But when they loused the foale/the owners thereof sayde vnto them: Why louse ye the foale? They said: The Lord hath neede thereof. And they broughte vnto Iesus/and caste their clothes vpon the foale/and set Iesus thereon. ¶ How so he wente/they spede theys garmentes in the waye.

¶ And when he wente thence from mounte Olyuete/the whole multitude of his disciples beganne ioyfully to praise God with loude voyce/ouer all the myracles that they had seene/ & sayde: Blessed be he that cometh in the name of the Lord. Peace

And besides this he sente the hynde / but they wounded him also/ and thruste hym oute. Then sayde the Lorde of the vyneyarde: What shall I do? Then came vnto him certayne of the Scribes/whiche holde that there is no resurrection/ and axed him/and sayde: Moses writt/Moses wrote vnto vs? If any mans brother dye hauinge a wyfe/and dye without children/then shall his brother take his wyfe/ & raise vp she vnto his brother. Nowe were there seuen brethren/ the firste toke a wyfe/ and dyed childlesse: and the seconde toke the wyfe/and dyed without children also/and the thirde toke her/ & she toke all the seuen/ and lefte no children behynde them/ and dyed. The last after all them the woman dyed also. What shall now the resurrection/ whose wyfe shall she be of them: for seuen had her to wyfe. And Iesus aunswere and sayde vnto them: The chyldren of this world marrye/ and be married/ but they that shall be woorthy to enioye that world and the resurrection from the dead/ shall neither marrye nor be married/ for they can dye no more. For they are lyke vnto the angells/ and are the chyldren of God/ in so muche as they are chyldren of the resurrection.

But that the dead ryse againe/ hath Moses also signified by the Busse/ when he called the Lorde/ the God of Abraham/ the God of Isaac/ and the God of Jacob. But God is not a God of the dead/ but of the lyvinge/ for they liue all vnto him. Then answered certayne of the Scribes/ and sayde: Master thou hast sayde well. I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God come. And he took the chalice and gave thanks, and said: I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God come. And he gave it them, and said: This is my body, which shall be given for you. This do in remembrance of me. Likewise also the cuppe, after they had supped, and said: This cuppe is the new testament in my blood, which shall be shed for you.

But lo, the hands of him that betrayed me, with me at the table. And the sonne of man truly goeth forth as it is appointed. But who shall that man, by whom he is betrayed. And they beganne to eye among them selves, which of them it should be, that should do that.

There rose a strife also among them, which of them should be taken for the greatest. But he sayde unto them: The king of the world haue dominion ouer the people of the earth, they that beare rule ouer them, are called glorious lordes. But ye shall not be so: But the greatest among you, shall be as the youngest, and the chiefest as a seruant. For which is greater, he that sitteth at the table, or he that serueth? Is not he that sitteth at the table? But I am among you as a minister. So for you, ye are they that shall abey with me in my temple. And I will appointe the king of the world, into your kingdome, and ye shall sit at my table in my kingdome, and ye shall see the reward of the reward of the reward.

But the Lord said: Simon, Simon, beholde, Satan hath desired after you, that he might sift you as wheat, as wheat. But I have prayed for thee, that thy faith faile not. And when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren. But he said unto him: Lord, I am ready to go with thee into prison, and into death. Then he said: Peter, I saye unto thee: The focke shall not eat the flesh of this sonne of man, till thou haue thus sinned, that thou faile not well me.

And he sayde unto them: When I sent you without wallet, scrip, or shoo, ye went forth as any thing. They sayde: Yea. Then said he unto them: But now, he that hath a wallet, let him take it up, likewise also the scrip. But he that hath not, let him hau suffred these thinges / and to entre into his glory : And he beganne at Mosco and all the prophetes / and was spoken vnto them all the scriptures that he had spoken of him. And they were made as yonge whiche they were vnto / and he made as though he wolde haue gone farther. ¶ And they compelled him / and Luke xix. c. saide: Thy be with vs / for it draweth towardes nyght / and the dayes farre passed. And he went into rarye with them. ¶ And it came to passe when he sat at the table with the / he rofe the bread / gaue thanke / brake it / and gaue it them. Then were theyr eyes opened / and they knewe him. And he vanished out of theyr sight. And they sayde betwene them selves: Did not our hertes burne within vs: Whā he talked with vs by the waye / whyle he opened scripture vnto vs: And they rose vp the same houre / turned againe to Ierusalem / and founde the clouen gathered together / and them that were with the which sayde: The Lord is risen of a truely / and hath appeared vnto Symon. And they tolde the what had happened by the waye / and how they knewe him in breake of the bread. ¶

Joan. ix. c. ¶ But whyle they were talkinge therof. ¶ Jesus him self shode in the myddes amonge them / and sayde: Peace be with you. But they were abashed and afrayed / supposyng that they had sene a spere: And he sayde vnto them: Why are ye abashed? and wherfore ye there such thoughtes in your hertes? Wholde my handes and my fete / is it as euen I my selfe? Handle me / and se / for a spere hath not fleth and bones / as ye se me haue. And when he had thus spoken / he shewed them his handes and his fete. But whyle they yet beleued not for toyce and wounded / he sayde vnto them: ¶ Take ye any thinge here to eate: And theyr hefor hym a peece of a bryuled fish / and an hony combe. And heroke it / and dyd eat it before them.

Mar. xxi. c. ¶ And he saide vnto them: ¶ These are the wordes whiche I spake vnto you / whyle I was yet with you: For it must all be fulfilled that was writen of me in the lawe of Mosco / in the prophetes / and in the Psalmes. Then opened he their understandinge / that they myght vnderstande the scriptures / and saide vnto them: ¶ Thus is it written / and thus it

And it came to passe when he had blessed them / he departed from them / and was carryd vp into heauē. And they were stopyed him / and turned againe to Ierusalem with great ioye: and were continually in the temple / geuyng prays and thanke vnto God. Amen.

The Gospel of saynt Iohn.

The first Chapter. ¶

In the begynninge was the worde / & the worde was with God / & God was the worde. The same was in the beginninge with God. ¶ All thinges were made by the same / & without the same made nothinge that was made. In hym was the lyfe / & the lyfe was the lyght of men: and the lyght shyneth in the darkenesse / and the darkenesse comprehended it not.

There was sent from God a man / whose name was Iohn. The same came for a witness to beare witness of the lyght / that shone by him: they all myght beleue. He was not the lyght / but that he myght beare witness of the lyght. That was the true lyght / whiche lygherly all men / that come into this worlde.

He was in the worlde / and the worlde was made by hym / and the worlde knewe hym not. He came into his owne / and his owne received hym not. But as many as recei-ued hym / I to them gaue he power to be the children of God: euen such as beleife in hys name. Which are not borne of bloude / nor of the wyll of the fleshe / nor of the wyll of man / but of God.

† And the worlde became fleshe / and dwelt amonge vs: and we saue his glory: a glory as of the onely begotten sonne of the father / full of grace and truely. I † Iohn byd heare witness of him / cried / and said: It was thus of whome I spake: After me shall he come that was before me. For he was or euer I: and * of his fulnesse haue we all receaued grace for grace. For the lawe was goun by Moses / grace and truely came by Iesus Christ. I No man hath seene God ar any tyme. The onely begotten sonne / which is in the bosome of the father / he hath declared the same vnto vs. I

† And this is the recorde of Iohn / wha the Iewes sent priuies and leuites from Jerusalem to aske hym: Who art thou. † And he confessed and deuyed not: he confessed and sayde: I am not Christ. And they asyd hym: What reuer: Art thou Elias? He sayde: I am not. Art thou not the † Propheet? And he answered: No. Then sayde they vnto hym: What art thou then / that we may geue ans-were vnto the that sent vs: What sayest thou of thy selfe? He sayde: I am the voyce of a crier in the wyldernesse: Make straight the waye of the Lorde. * To the prophet Esay sayde.

And they that were sent were of the Pharisees. And they asyd hym / and sayde vnto him: Why baptisest thou the / If thou be not Christ / nor Elias / nor a propheet: Iohn answered them and sayde: † I baptise with water: but there is one come in amonge you / whom ye knewe not. It is he that cometh after me / which was before me: whose shoe lacket I am not worthy to louse. This was done at Bethesa beyonde Iordan: / where Iohn byd baptise. I

† The next daye after / Iohn sawe Iesus comminge vnto hym / and said: Beholde the Lambe of God / which taketh awaye the synne of the worlde. This is he of whom I sayde: Col. a vnto you: after inc cometh a man / which was before me. For he was or euer I: and I knewe hym nor: but he should be declared in Israel: therfore am I come to baptise with water.

† And Iohn bare recorde / and said: I sawe the spere descende from heauen lyke vnto a dowc / and abode vpon hym / and I knewe him not. But he that sent me to baptise with water / the same sayde vnto me: Vp whom thou shalt se the spere descende / a rary still on him / the same is he / that baptiseth with the holy ghost. And I sawe it / and heare recorde that this is the sonne of God. I

† The next daye after / Iohn stode againe / and two of his disciples. And when he sawe Iesus walking by he sayde: Beholde the Lambe of God. And two of his disciples berde hym speake / a folowd Iesus. And Iesus turned him aboute / and sawe them folowinge / and said vnto the: What see ye? They said to him: Rabbi / which is to saye by interpretation / Master: Where art thou at lodginge? He said vnto them: Come and se it. They came and sawe it / and abode with him the same daye. It was aboute the tenth houre.

One of the two / which berde Iohn speake / and folowed Iesus / was Andrew: the brother of Symon Peter: the same found first his brother Symon / and sayde vnto him: We haue founde Messias (which is by interpretation / the Anointed) and he brought him to Iesus.
When Iesus behelde him / he sayde: Thou art Symon the sonne of Ionas / I thou shalt be called Cephas / which is by interpretation / a stone.

The next daye after / wolde Iesus go a-gayne into Galile / and founde Philippe / and sawd vnto him: folowe me. † Philippe was of Bethsaida the cite of Andrew and Peter. Philippe founde Nathanael / and said vnto hym: We haue founde hym of whom I tolde in the lawe / and the * propheete haue written / euen Iesus the sonne of Ioseph of Nazareth.
And Nathanael said vnto him: What good can come out of Nazareth? Philippe sayde vnto him: Come and se.

The Gospel of S. Iohn.

Jesus saw Nathanael comming to hym/and sayde of hym: Beholde a ryghte Israélite/in whon is no guyle. Nathanael sayde vnto hym: from whence knowest thou me? Jesus answered/ and sayde vnto hym: Because that Philippe called thet when thou wast vnder the figge tree: I sawe the: Nathanael answered/and sayde vnto hym: Rabbi thou art the sonne of God/ thou art the kynge of Israel. Jesus answered/ and sayde vnto hym: Because I sayde vnto thet/ that I sawe the vnder the figge tree/ thou believest: thou shalt see greater thynges then these. And he sayde vnto hym: Verely verely I saye vnto you: fro this tyme forth shall see the heauen open/ and the angels of God goyng up and downe ouer the sonne of man. I

The II. Chapter. **+

2 Soone vpon the thyd daye there was a marriage at Cana in Galile / and the mother of Jesus was there. Jesus also and his disciples was called vnto the marriage. And whā the wyne was lacke / the mother of Jesus sayde vnto her: They haue no wyne. Jesus sayde vnto her: Woman what haue I to do with the? Myne houre is not yet come. His mother sayde vnto the mynisters: What soeuer he sayeth vnto you/ do it. There were set there fyfe water pottes of stone / after the maner of the purifying of the Jewes/ euery one cōtynyng two or thre measure.

Jesus sayde vnto them: Fyll the water pottes with water / And they fylled them vp to the brim: and he sayde vnto them: Drawe out now / and brynge vnto the master of the feast / and they dyd bare it. When the master of the feaste had rayshed the wyne/ whiche had ben water / and knewe not whence it came.
(but the mynisters that drew the water/ knewe it) Then the master of the feaste called the dyscyples/ and saide vnto hym: Every man at the first gauch the good wyne/ and whā they are drunken/ then they whiche is worse. But thou hast kept backe thy good wyne vntill now.

B This is the first token that Jesus dyd at Cana in Galile/ and shewed his glory/ and his disciples beleued on hym. I

Afterwarde wente he downe to Caparnaum/ his mother/ his brethren/ and his disciples/ and taryed not longe there.

+ And the Jewes Easter was at hande/And Jesus wente vp to Ierusalem/ a sounde daye synge in the temple/ whiche saide vnto thepe / and vouce / and chaungers of monye.
And he made a scourge of small cordes / and droue them out of the temple with the thepe and oger/ and poured out the chaungers money / and ouerthrew the tables / and sayde vnto them that sold the vnters: Haue thesē thynges hence / and make not my fathers house an house of merchandise. His disciples remembered it that is wynten. I The 3ile of thynē Phā house hath enen eaten me.

They answered the Jewes/ and sayde vnto to hym: What token shewest thou vnto vs/ that thou mayest do these thynges? Jesus answered and sayde vnto them: I Beleeue that I haue sayd this temple / and in the dayes well I set it up agayne. Then said the Jewes: What and fortye yere was this temple buildyng? and wylt thou set it up in the dayes? But he spake of the temple of his body. Now whiche he was ryfen agayne from the dead/ his disciples remembred that he thus sayde / and they beleued the scripture / and the wordes whiche Jesus spake.

When he was at Ierusalem at Easter in the feaste/ many beleued on his name / when they sawe the tokens that he dyd. But Jesus comitted not him self vnto them/ for he knewe them all / and neded not that any man should testifie of man. I For he knewe well what was in man. I

The III. Chapter. **+

Jewes. The same came vnto Jesus by nyght / and sayde vnto hym: Master / we knowe that thou art come a teacher from God: I for no man can do these tokens that thou doest / excepte God be with hym. Jesus answered/and sayde vnto hym: Verely verely I saye vnto not see the kyngdom of God. Nicodemus sayd vnto hym: How can a man be borne when he is older? Can he entre into his mothers wombe / and be borne agayne? Jesus answered/and sayde vnto the: Verely verely I saye vnto the:

spire/he can not come into the kyngdome of God.

B That which is borne of flesh is flesh: and that which is borne of spire/is spire. Mar-uyl not that I saye vnto the: Ye must be borne of newe. The wynde bloweth where he will/and thou hearest his founde: but thou canst not tell whence he cometh/and wherether he goeth: So is euery one that is borne of the spire.

Nicodemus answered/ and sayde vnto him: Howe maye this be: Iesus answered/and sayde vnto hym: Art thou a Master in Israel/and knowest not these? Verely, verely I saye vnto the: We speake that we knowe/and testifie that we haue sene/ and yet receaue not our witness. If ye desire not what I tel you of earthly thynges/ howe shoulde ye desire what I speake vnto you of heauenly thynges.

A And no man ascendeth vp into heauen/but he that is come doune from heauen/ (namely) the sonne of man which is in heauen: And lyke as T Moyses lyfte vp the serpent/ in the wilderness/ euen so must the sonne of man be lyfte vp/ that whosoever belieueth in hym/shoulde not perishe/ but haue euerlasting life. I

A For God so loued the worlde/ that he gave his only sonne/ that whosoever belieueth on hym/ shoulde not perishe/ but haue euerlasting life. For God sent not his sonne into the worlde/ to condempne the worlde/ but that the worlde myght be saued by hym. He that belieueth on hym/ shall not be condempned. But he that belieueth not/ is condempned already: because he belieueth not on the name of the only sonne of God. But thys is the condempnacion/ that the lycht is come into the worlde/ and men loued the darcknesse more then the lycht: for they wooldes were euell-thou. I Whosoever hateth euell hateth the lycht/ and cometh not to the lycht/ that his dedes shoulde not be reposed. But he that doeth the truth/ cometh to the lycht/ that his woerkes maye be knownen: for they are done in God. I

A Afterwarde came Iesus and his disciples into the lande of Ieremy/ and had bys deynge there with them/ and baptyfed: Iohn bap-tyfed also in Ierousa beside Salem: for there was much water there. And they came thys ther/ and were baptyfed: for Iohn was not yet put in prison.

A Then arose there a question amonge the disciples of Iohn/ with the Iewes aboute the purysyng: and they came vnto Iohn/ and sayde vnto hym: Malter/ he that was with the beyonde Iordane/ of whome thou barest witness/ beholde: T he baptyseth/ and euery man cometh vnto hym. Iohn answered and sayde: A man can receaue nothinge/ except it be geuen hym from heauen. Ye pour selues are my witness/ howe that I sayde: I am not Christ/ but am sent before hym. He that hath the byde/ is the bydegreome: but the frende of the bydegreome standeth/ and beretneth vnto hym/ and receauech greatly outer the voyce of the bydegreome: thys same voce of myne is now fulfild. He must increase: but I must decrease.

A He that cometh from on hye/ is aboue all. He that is of the earth/ is earthly/ and speaketh of the earth. He that cometh from heauen/ is aboue all/ and testifieth what he hath sene: and herde/ a woman receauech by wit-nesse. But he that receauech it/ hath se to his scale: that God is true. For he whom God hath sent/ speaketh the wordes of God: for God geueth not the spire/ vnto hym/ by measure. The father loueth the sonne. T And hath geuen hym all thynges into his hande. He that belieueth on the sonne/ hath euerlasting lyfe: he that belieueth not/ the sonne/ shall not se the lyfe/ but the wrath of God abydeth vpon hym. I

The Gospel of S. Iohn.

Sonne so upon the well. And it was aboute the fyfte houre. Then came there a woman of Samaria to draw water. Iesus sayde unto her: Geue me drinke. (For hye disciples were gone theyr waye into the cite / to buye meate.) Sothe woman of Samaria sayde vnto him: How is it that thou agest drinke of mee / synge thou art a Jewe / and I a woman of Samarians. For the Jewes meale not with the Samaritans.

B Iesus answered / and sayde vnto her: If thou knewest the gift of God / and who it is that sayeth vnto the / geue me drinke / thou woldst aske of hym / and he woulde geue the that water of lyfe. The woman sayde vnto hym: Syr Thou hast nothing to drawe withal / and the well is depe / from whiche hast thou then that water of lyfe. Yet thou greater then oure father Jacob / which gaue vs this well.
 And he hym self thanke thereof / and hye children / and hye cattell. Iesus answered / and sayde vnto her: Whosoever drinke of this water shall thurst agayne: But whosoever shall drinke of the water that I shall geue hym / shall neuer be thurst: For the water that I shall geue hym / shalde in hym a well of water / which spryngeth vp into euerlastyng lyfe.

The woman sayde vnto hym: Syr / geue me this same water that I thurst not / neyther nedde come hyer to drawe. Iesus sayde vnto her: Wo call thy housband / and come hether.
 The woman answered / and sayde vnto hym:
 I haue no housbande.

C Iesus sayde vnto her: Thou hast sayde wel / I haue no housbande: for thou hast had fyue husbandes / and he whome thou hast now is not thine housbande: there saydest thou ryght. The woman sayde vnto hym: Syr / I se that thou art a prophet. Our fathers wor-shippyd upon this mountayn / and tye saye / that at Jerusalem is the place / where men ought to worshippe. Iesus sayde vnto her: Woman / beleefe mee / the tyme cometh / that ye shall neither vpon this mountayne / nor at Jerusalem worshippe the father: ye wote not what ye worshippe / but we knowe what we worshippe: For Saluacion cometh of the Jewes. But the tyme cometh / and is now already that the true worshippers shall worshippe the father in t spirit and in tructh: For the father will haue such so to worshippe him.
 God is a spete / and they that worship hym / must worship hym in spete / and in the tructh.
 The woman sayde vnto him: I wote that Messias shall come / which is called Christ.
 When he cometh / he shall tell vs all thinges.
 Iesus sayde vnto her: I that spete vnto the / am he. And in the meane season / came his disciples / and they maruelled that he talked with the woman. Yet sayd nomā: What agest thou of what talkest thou with her: Then cometh her postlande / and went into the cite / and sayde vnto the people: Come / see a man / whiche hath tolde me all that euer I sayd. For not he Christ: Then went they out of the cite / and came vnto hym. In the meane while / he disciples prayed hym / and sayde: Master / eate.
 But he sayde vnto them: I haue meate to eat that ye knowe not of. Then sayde the disciples amonge them selves: For any man brought hym meate: Iesus sayde vnto them: My meate is this / that I do the will of him that sent me / and to synch his worke. Say neyze youre selues: There are yet foure hundredes and thre cometh the harvest: Beholde / I saye vnto you: lyse vp your eyes / and loke vpon the felde / for it is whyde already vnto the harvest.

And he that reapeth / receaueth rewarde / and gathereth frute to euerlastyng lyfe: that both he that soweth / & he that reapeth maye reioyce together. For herein is the sower true: One soweth / another reapeth. I haue sent you to reape that / whercon ye bestowde no labour. Other haue laboured / and ye are come into their laboures.

Many Samaritans of the same cite be-leued on hym / for the sayinge of the woman / whiche testified: She hath tolde me all that euer I sayd. Now when the Samaritans came to hym / they besought hym / that he woulde tary with them. And he abode there two dayes / and many mo beleued / because of hye woordes / and sayde vnto the woman: We beleue nowe henceforth / not because of thy sayinge / but we haue heerd hym oure selues / and knowe / that this of a tructh is Christ the salueur of the worlde.

After two dayes he departed thence / and thara a Propheet is northing set by at home.

¶ Nowe when he came into Galile / the Galileans recraued him / whiche had sene all that he had at Ierusalem in the feast: for they also were come thither in the feast. And Iesus came againe vnto Cana in Galile / where he turned the water vnto wyne.

¶ And there was a certayne ruler / whose sonne laye sicke at Capernaum. This herce that Iesus came out of Ieruy into Galile / and wente vnto him / and besoughte hym / that he wolde come vnto / and helpe his son / for he laye dead sicke. And Iesus sayde vnto him: Excepte ye serokene and wondere / ye sayde vnto him: Go thy waye / thy sonne li-

And as he was goinge doun / his seruant houre / wherein he beganne to amende. And they sayde vnto hym: Yesterday aboute the father perceaued that it was aboute the same houre / wherein Iesus sayde vnto him: Thy sonne liueth. † And he beleued with his whole house. This is nowe the seconde token that Iesus had / when he came from Ieruy into Galile.

The V. Chapter. ¶

¶ Afterwarde there was a feste of the Ie-wes / and Iesus wente vp to Ierusalem.
There is at Ierusalem by the slaughterhouse a poole / whiche in Hebrew is called Bethsaida / and hath fyue pouders / wherein laye many sicke / Blinde / lame / withred / whiche waite till when the water shoulde moue. For the angell wente doun as his tyme into the poole / and stered the water. Whosoeuer now went doun first after that the water was ste-red / the same was made whole / whosoeuer vnto he had. And there was a man / whiche hath lye sicke eight & thirtie yeares. When Iesus sawe him lye / and knewe that he had llyn so long / he sayde vnto him: Wilt thou be made whole: The sicke answered him: Sy / I haue no man / when the water is moued / to put me into the poole. And when I come / another stepeth doun in before me.

Iesus sayde vnto hym: † Arise / take vp a thy bedde / and go thy waye. And inimee Mar. ij. a that / whiche sayde vnto the: Take vp thy healed / wyl not who be wase / for Iesus had gotten him selfe awaie / because there was mude people.

¶ Afterwarde founde Iesus him in the B temple / and sayde vnto hym: Wholde / thou sought to slay him / because he had done thus vpon the Sabbath.

¶ But Iesus answered them: † My father / Col. iij. a cause he saide not onely the Sabbath / but made hym selfe equal with God. Then aun- Mar. xij. g

¶ When Iesus nowe perceaued that they wolde come/ and take him vp/ to make him king:/ he gat him awaie againe into a mou- taine him selfe alone.

¶ Then wente his Disciples doune to the see/ and entered into the shyppe/ and came to the other syde of the see onto Capernaum. And it was darke already. And Iesus was not come to them. And the see rose thowen a greates wynde. Nowe when they had rowed vpon a synie and twenetye or thirtie furlonges/ they sawe Iesus goynge vpon the see/ and came nye to the shyppe. And they were afraied. But he saide vnto them: Ie am I/ be not afraied. Then wolde they haue receaued him into the shyppe. And immediately the shyppe was at the lande whither they wente.

¶ The nexte daye after/ the people whiche stode on the other syde of the see/ saue that there was none other shyppe there/ saue that one/ wherinto his Disciples were entred: and that Iesus went in with his Disciples into the shyppe/ but that his Disciples were gone awaie alone. Howbeit there came o- ther shyppes from Tiberias/ nye vnto the place/ where they had eaten the bread/ after that the Lorde had geuen thankeo. Now when the people sawe that Iesus was not there/ neither his Disciples/ they toke shyppe also/ and came to Capernaum/ and soughte Iesus.

¶ And when they founde hym on the o- ther syde of the see/ they saide vnto him: Mas- ter/ wher comest thou hither? Iesus ans- wered them/ and saide: Verely verely I saie vnto you: Ye see me not because ye sawe the wynde/ but because ye see of the loaves/ and were fylled. ¶ Labour not for the meate whiche perissheth/ but that endureth to euerlastinge lyfe/ whiche the sonne of man shall geue you: for him hath God the father seled.

¶ Then saide they vnto hym: What shall we do/ that we may worke the wyse of God? Iesus answered and saide vnto them: This is the wyse of God/ that ye beleue on him/ whome he hath sente. Then saide they vnto him: ¶ What token best shal thou shew/ that we maye see and beleue the? What worke thou? Our fathers byd eate Manna in the wilderness/ as it is written: ¶ He gaue them bread from heauen to eate. Then saide Iesus vnto them: Verely verely I saie vnto you: Manna gaue you not bread from heauen/ but my father geueth you the true breade from heauen: for this is the breade of God/ whiche cometh from heauen/ and geueth lyfe vnto the world.

¶ Then saide they vnto him: ¶ How canst thou geue thise breade? I am the breade of lyfe. He that cometh vnto me/ shall not hunger/ and be that beleueth on me/ shall neuer thirst. ¶ But I haue saide vnto you/ that ye haue synne me/ and yet ye beleue not. All that my father geueth me/ cometh vnto me/ and hebo so cometh vnto me/ him will not I cast oute: for I am come doune from heauen/ not to do myne owne wyl/ but the wyl of him that hath sente me.

¶ This is the wyl of the father/ whiche he hath sente me/ that of all that he hath geuen me. ¶ I shoulde lose nothinge/ but shoulde raise it vp againe at the last daye. This is the wyl of him whiche hath sente me/ that whoso euer seyth the sonne and beleueth on him/ shall haue euerlastinge lyfe/ and I shall raise him vp at the last daye.

¶ Then murmured the Jewes there ouer that he saide: I am that bread whiche is come doune from heauen/ and they saide: ¶ Is not this Iesus/ Iosephs sonne/ whose father and mother we knowe? Howe sayeth he then: I am come doune from heauen? Iesus answered/ and saide vnto them: Murmure not amonge your selfes. ¶ Who man can come vnto me excepte the father whiche hath sente me/ shall see him. And I shall raise him vp at the last daye. It is writte in the prophetes: ¶ They shall alle be taught of God. Whoso euer receiue heareth it of the father/ and learneth it/ cometh vnto me. ¶ Not that any man hath sente the father/ saue he whiche is of the father/ the same hath sente the father.

¶ Verely verely I saie vnto you: ¶ He that be- leueth on me/ shall euerlastinge lyfe. I am that breade of lyfe: your fathers byd eate Manna in the wilderness/ and are dead. This is that bread whiche cometh from heauen/ that

Then stroue the Jewes amonge them selves / and saide: How can this selowe geue vs his flesch to eat? Iesus saide vnto them: Verely verely I saye vnto you: Excepte ye eate the flesch of the sonne of man / and drinke his bloude / ye haue no lyft in you. Who so eateth my flesch / and drinketh my bloude / hath euerlastinge lyfte: and I shall raise him vp as the last daye. For my flesch is the very meate / and my bloude is the very drinke.

As bebeluyng father hath sent me / and I lyue for the fathers sake: Euen so he that eateth me / shall lyue for my sake. Chr. VII. Chapter. ¶

¶ After that wente Iesus aboute in Galilee: For he wolde not go aboute in Jewry / because the Jewes soughte to kill him. But the Jewes that of Tabernacles was at hande. Then sayde his brether vnto him: Get the hence / and go into Jewry / that thy disciples also maye se thy workes that thou doest. He that seeth to be openly knowne / doeth nothinge in secret. If thou do suche thinges / then show thy selfe before the worlde. For his brether also beleued not in him.

Then sayde Iesus vnto them: My tyme is not yett come / but yore tyme is alwaye ready. The worlde can not hate you: But Iohn me it hateth: because I testifye of it / that the workes of it are euill. Go ye vp vnto this feaste / I will not go vp yett vnto this feaste / for my tyme is not yett fulfilled. When he saide this vnto them / he abode still in Galilee. But as soone as his brether were gone / then wente he vp also vnto the feaste / not openly / but as it were secretly. Then the Jewes soughte him at the feaste / and saide: Where is he? And there was a great murmure of him amonge the people. Some sayde: He is good. But other saide: No: he doeth but because the people. ¶ Somebe it was a Jewe / somebe it was a Samaritan / somebe it was a Greke.

¶ But in the myddes of the feaste wente Iesus vp into the temple / and taughte. And the Jewes inuained and sayde: Howe can he be the scripture / synge he hath not learned it? Iesus answered them / and saide: My doctrine is not myne / but his that hath sent me. If any man will do his will / he shall knowe whether this doctrine be of God / or whether I speake of my selfe. He that seeth of him selfe / seeth his owne praise: but he that seeth the praise of him that sente him / the same is true / and there is no vnghteousnesse in him. ¶ Hath not Moses geuen you the lawe / and none of you keepeth the lawe?

Wby

Wdy go ye aboute to kyl me? The people answered and said: Thou hast the Deuell / who goeth aboute to kyll the: Iesus answered a say: ¶ One worke haue I done / a ye al maner wayle. ¶ Moses gaue you the circumcission / (not because it cometh of Moses / but of the fathers: ) ¶ Yet so ye circumcise a man vpon the Sabbath. ¶ If a man receaue circumcission vpon the Sabbath / that the lawe of Moses shoulde not be broken / whydayne ye then at me / because I haue made a man whole every whyte on the Sabbath: ¶ Iudge not after the vnder apperance / but iudge righteous iudgement.

¶ Then cryed Iesus in a voyce as he taught / and sayde: ye see knowe me / and whence I am / ye knowe / I am of my selfe / and I not come but he that sent me is true / whom ye knowe not: But I knowe him selfe: I am of him / and he hath sent me. ¶ Then soughte they to take him / but no man laid handes vpon him / for his houre was not yet come. ¶ But many of the people belued on him / and said: Whan the Christ cometh / shall he do no tofens to this woerd?

¶ And it came to the Pharisees eares / that the people murmured such thinges of him. ¶ And the Pharisees and high priestes sent out seruantes to take him. Then saide Iesus vnto them: ¶ I am yet a litte while with you / and then go I vnto my father / and haue sente me. ¶ Ye shall seeke me / and not fynde: and where I am / thither can ye not come. Then sayd the Iewes amonge them selves: Whyther will he go / that we shall not fynde him? ¶ Wyl he go amonge the Greces / or are scattered abroade / and teache the Greces? What manner of sayinge is this / that he sayeth / ye shall seeke me / and not fynde me: and where I am / thither can not ye come?

¶ But in the laste daye which was the moost solemn daye of the feast / Iesus stode vp / and sayd: ¶ I knowe so thyng / say / let hym come vnto me / and saye. He that beluech on me / so the scripture sayeth / oute of his bowels shall flowe ryuer of the water of lyfe. ¶ But this spake he of the Spynete / which they had that beleue on him / should receaue. ¶ For the holy ghooste was not yet receaue / because Iesus was not yet glorified. ¶ Many of the people / nowe when they herde this sayinge / saide: ¶ This is a very prophete. Other sayde: ¶ he is Christ. But some sayde: Shall Christ come out of Galilee? Saich not the scripture that Christ shall come / of the side of Iuda / and oute of the ronne of? ¶ Verlikes / where he said was? ¶ Thus was there dissencion amonge the people for his sake. Some of them wolde haue taken him / but no man layd handes on him.

The seruantes came to the high priestes a Pharisees / and they saide vnto them: Why haue ye not brought him? The seruantes answered: ¶ Neuer man spake as this man doeth. ¶ Then answered them the Pharisees: Are ye also deceaued? ¶ Soch any of the rulers or Pharisees beleue on him? But the multitude mine people which knowe not the lawe / are cursed. ¶ Nicodemus saide vnto the: ¶ he that came vnto him by night / whiche was one of them: ¶ Soch our lawe iudge any man / before it heare him / or knowe what he hath done? They answered and saide vnto him: ¶ True thou a Galilean also? ¶ Search and loke / out of Galilee ariseth no prophete. And so every man wente home.

But he that sente me / is true: I and loke I haue what I haue herde of him / that speaketh before the world. For wher / they vnderstode not that he spake of the father.

Then sayde Jesus vnto the Jewes that beleued on hym: If ye continue in my worde / then are ye my disciples / and ye shall knowe the truth / and the truth shall make you free.

Then answered they hym: We are Abrahams seide / we were neuer bounde to any man. Howe sayest thou then / ye shall be free? Jesus answered them and said: Verely verely I say vnto you: Whosoever doeth synne / is the seruant of synne. As for the seruant / he is debydeth not in the house for euer / but the sonne abideth euert / if the sonne therefore make you free / then are ye free in deide. I knowe that ye are Abrahams seide / but ye seeke to kyl me. For my word taketh not among you. I speake that I haue seene of my father / and ye do that ye haue seene of youre father.

Whan he had thus sayde/ he byd spye on saide they vnto him: howe are thine eyes ope some blinde. But how he now seeth: we can not tell: who hath opened his eyes/ can we let him speake for him selfe.

Joh. vi. f E This saide his elders/ because they feared the Jewes. For the Jewes had conspired already/that any man shoud confesse that he was Christ/ should be excommunicate.
Therefore saide his elders: he is olde ynough/ saye him.

Joh. vi. c J Then called they the man againe that was blinde/ and saide vnto him: T heue God the poyse/ we knowe that this man is a synner.
He answered/ and saide: Whether he be a synner or no/ I can not tell: one thinge am I sure of/ that I was blinde/ and now I se. The saide they vnto him againe: What byd he vnto thee: Howe opened he thine eyes? He answered them: I tolde you right now. Herde ye it not: What will ye heare it againe: Will ye also be his disciples? Then carde they him and saide: Thou art his discipule. We are sure that God spake wryth Moses: as for this fe-lowe/ we knowe not whence he is.

A The man answered/ and said vnto them: This is a marauelous thinge/ that ye, wote not whence he is/ and hath opened myne eyes. For we knowe/ that God heareth not the synners: But if any man be a feare of God/and doeth his will/ him heareth he. Since the worlde beganne was it not herde/ that any man opened the eyes of one that was some blinde. If this man were not of God/he coulde haue done nothinge. They answer-red/ and saide vnto him: Thou arte altogether come in synne/ a teacher thou vnto: And they thrust him out.

Jesus herde that they had thrust him out/and when he had founde him/ he saide vnto him: Belieff thou on the sonne of God: He answered/ and saide: Lord/ who is it that I might beleefe on him: Iesus saide vnto him: I Thou haste sene hym/ and he it is that talketh wryth the. He saide: Lord/ I beleefe.
And he worshipped him. J mar. xvi. f And Iesus saide: I am come iudges ment into this worlde/ that they which se not/might see: and that they which se/ might be blinde. And some of the Pharisees that were with him/ herde this/ and saide vnto him: Are we then blinde also: Iesus saide vnto them: I If ye were blinde/ ye shoulde haue no synne. But now that ye saye we se/therfore your synne remaineth.

The X. Chapter. **+

Wherly verely I saye vnto you: he that entreth not in at the doore into the shepefold/but climbeth vp some other waye/ the same is a thefe and a murderer. But he that goeth in at the doore/ is the shepheard of the shepe: to hym the doore openeth/ and the shepe heare his voyce/ a he/ calleth his owne shepe/by name/ andeth them out. And when he hath sente for the his owne shepe/ he goeth before him/ and the shepe folowe him/ soe they knowe his voyce. So for a straunger/ they folowe him not/ but fflye from him: for they knowe not the voyce of straungers. This prouerbe I spake Iesu vnto the/ but they vnderstode not what it was/ that he saide vnto them.

Then saide Iesus vnto them againe: Verely verely I saye vnto you: I am the doore/of the shepe. All they that are come before me/are thefes and murderers. But I the shepe kenned not vnto them. I am the doore. If any man entre in by me/ he shall be saued/ and shall go in and out and fynde pasture. I thefe commeth not but for to steale/ fyll and destroye: I am come that they might haue lyfe/ and haue it more abundantly. J

I am a good shepheard. A good shepeard watcheth his lyfe for the shepe. But an hyred seruaunt/ whiche is not the shepheard/neither the shepe are his owne/ seeth the wolfe commynge/ and leaueh the shepe/ and fflyeth.
And the wolfe catcheth and scattereth the shepe. But the hyred seruaunt/ seeth/ because he is an hyred seruaunt/ and careth not for the shepe: I am a good shepheard/ I knowe the myne/ and am knowne of myne. I euen as I my father knoweth me/ and I knowe the father. And I geue my lyfe for my shepe. And I haue yet other shepe/ which are not of this fold/ and those same must I bringe also/ and they shall heare my voyce/ and there shall come out one shepheard. J

Therefore doeth my father loue me/ because I leaue my lyfe/ that I maye take it againe.
No man taketh it fro me/ but I leaue it of my selfe.

selfe. I haue power to leaue it / a haue power to take it again. This commaundement haue I receaued of my father. Then was there dissention amonge the Jewes for these sayings.
Many of the sayde: He hath the Deuill / and is madde / why heare ye hym: Other sayde: These are not wordes of one that is possi-fessed: Can the Deuill also open the eyes of the blinde?

It was the dedication of the temple at Jerusalem / and was wynter. And Iesus walked in Salomons porch. There came the Jewes rounde about hym / and sayde vnto hym: Howe longe dost thou make vs doubt? If thou be Christe tell vs plainly. Iesus answered them: I tolde you and ye belefe not.
The woikes that I do in my fathers name / they beare witness of me. But ye belefe not / because ye are not of my shepe / as I sayde vnto you. My shepe heare my voyce / as I knowe the / and they folowe me. And I geue them eternall lyfe / and they shall neuer perishe / and no man shall plucke them out of my hande.
My father which gaue me the / is greater then all: and no man is able to plucke them out of my fathers hande.

I and the father are one. Then they toke up stones agayne to stone hym. Iesus answered the: Many good woikes haue I be-weyd you fro my father / for which of the stone ye me?

The Jewes answered hym / and sayd: For the good woikes sake we stone thee not / but for the blasphemie: because that thou being a man / makest thy selfe God. Iesus answered them: It is not written in your lawe: I haue sayde: Ye are Goddes. If ye call them God-des / vnto whome the woide of God came: as the scripture can not be broken / saye ye then vnto hym / whome the father hath sanctified / and sent into the worlde: I thou blasphemest God / because I said: I am the sonne of God:
If I do not the woikes of my father / belefe me not: but if I do them / then if ye belefe not me / ye belefe the woikes: that ye may knowe and belefe that the father is in me / and I in the father.

They went about agayne to take hym / but he escaped out of their handes / and went away agayne beyonde Iordane: into the place: where Iohn had baptyfied afore / and Iohn is there he abode: and many came to hym / and sayde: Iohn byd no toles: but all that Iohn spake of this man / is true. And many belueid on hym there.

The XL Chapter.

Here laye one sycke / named Lazarus of Bethania / in the toun of Mary / and her syster Martha: (It was that Mary / which Luc. viij. b anoynted the Lord with oymntment / and kysed his feet with her feet / whose brother Lazarus lay sicke.) Then sent his syster vnto hym / and sayde: Lord / de / behold / he whome thou louest lyeth sicke. Whan Iesus herde that / he sayde: This sicknes is not vnto death / but for the prayse of God: / that the sonne of God may be prayfed there throu. Iesus loued Martha and her syster / and Lazarus.
Now whan he herde that he was sicke / he abode two dayes in the place where he was.

Afterwarde sayde he vnto his Disciples: Let vs go agayne into Jewey. His Disciples sayde vnto hym: Master / I lately wolde the Jewes haue stoned the / and wylt thou go vnto the / agayne? Iesus answered: There is not twelfe houres in the daye: He that walk-eth in the daye / stumbleth not / for he seeth the lyght of the daye. But he that walketh in the nyght / stumbleth / for there is no lyght in hym.

He spake / and afterwarde saide he vnto them: Lazarus our frende / slepeth / but I go to wake hym out of slepe. Then saide his Disciples: Lord / if he slepe / he shall do well Luce. viij. f. ynough. Howbeit / Iesus spake of his death / but they thought that he had spoken of the bodily slepe. Then saide Iesus vnto them playnly: Lazarus is dead / and I am glad for yours sake that I was not there: that ye may belefe. Neuertheles / let vs go vnto him. Then saide Thomas (which is called Didimus) vnto his Disciples: Let vs go also / that we may dye with hym.

Then came Iesus / and founde that he had lyen in the graue fyue dayes already. Bethania was nye vnto Jerusalem / about fyfene furlonges. And many of the Jewes were

- Joan. ij. d. ¶ Then sayde Martha vnto Iesus: Lord, if thou haddest den here, my brother had not ben dead: But neuertheless, I know also, that whatsoeuer thou wilst of God, that God wyl geue it. Iesus sayde vnto her: Thy brother shall rise agayne. Martha sayde vnto hym: I knowe that he shall rise agayne in the resurrection at the last daye. Iesus sayde vnto her: I am the resurrection and the life. He that belucth on me, shall lyue, though he were dead already: and whosoever lyueth and beleucth on me, shall neuer dye. Beluest thou this? She saide vnto hym: Yea, Lord, I beleue that thou art Christ the sonne of God, whose shoulde come into the worlde. ¶ And when she had sayde this, she wente her waye, and called Mary her sister secretly, and sayde: The Master is come, and calleth for the. She, when she herde that, rose up quickly, and came vnto hym: for Iesus was not yet come into the house, but was yet in the place where Martha met hym. The Jewes that were with her in the house, and comforted her: when they sawe Mary, that she rose up hastily, a went ouer, they followed her, and sayde: She goeth to the graue to weep there.
- Joan. ij. c. ¶ Now when Mary came where Iesus was, and sawe hym, she fell downe at his feet, and sayde vnto hym: Lord, if thou haddest ben here, my brother had not ben dead. When Iesus sawe her weep, and the Jewes weeping also that came with her, he groined in his spirit, and was say within hym self, a saide: Where haue ye layed hym? They saide: Lord, come and se it. And Iesus wepte. Then sayde the Jewes: Beholde, how he loued hym. But some of them sayde: Coulede not he, whiche opened the eyes of the blinde, haue made also that this man shoulde not haue dyed? But Iesus groined agayne in him self, and came to the graue. It was a caue and a stone layd on it. Iesus saide: Take away the stone. Martha the sister of hym that was dead, sayde vnto hym: Lord, he is dead, he is dead already, for he hath ben dead foure dayes. Iesus sayde vnto her: Sayd I not vnto the, that if thou wydest beleue, thou shouldest se the glory of God.
- ¶ ¶ Then toke they awaye the stone, where the dead laye. Iesus lyst vp his eyes, and sayde: Father, I thanke the, that thou hast herde me. Howbeit, I knowe that thou bearest me alwaye: but I because of the people that stande by, I sayde it, that they maye beleue, that thou hast sent me.
- ¶ When he had sayde this, he cryed loude: Lazarus come forth. ¶ And the dead came forth bounde bande and foete with graue clothes, and his face bounde with a napkin. Iesus sayde vnto them: Loose hym, and let hym go. Many now of the Jewes, which were come vnto Mary, and sawe what Iesus had sayd vnto the Pharisees, and tolde the what Iesus had done.
- ¶ ¶ Then the hye priestes and the Pharisees gathered a counsayll, and sayde: What do we? This man doeth many tokenes. If we let hym go thus, all men wyl beleue in hym. ¶ The high priestes sayde: We shall let hym go, and take awaye our lande and people. But one of them, whose name was Cayphas, whiche was hye prieste the same yere, sayde vnto them: Ye knowe no thinge, neither consider any thinge at all. ¶ It is better for vs, if one man dye for the people, then that all the people shoulde perishe.
- ¶ They spake he not of hym self, but for so muche as he was hye prieste of that yere, he prophced. For Iesus was for to dye for the people: and not for the people only, but that he shoulde gather together the chyldren of God, whiche were scattered abroad: from that day forth, they toke counsayll, how they myght put hym to death. Iesus walked no more openly amonge the Jewes, but went from thence into a countrie by the wyldernes, to a cyte called Bethaniam, and there had he bys bryngge with his disciples.
- ¶ The Jewes Easter was nye at hande. And there were up many to Jerusalem out of the countrie before the Easter, to purifie them selfes. Then shodde they up, and axed after Iesus, and spake amonge them selfes in the temple. ¶ What thyngk ye, he is comyng not to the feast? ¶ The hye priestes and Pharisees had giuen a commaundement, that if any man knewe where he were, he shoulde shewe it, that they myght take hym.

3 Six dayes before Easter came Iesus vnto to Bethaniam where Lazarus was/whiche was dead / whome Iesus rayfed vp from the dead. There they made hym a supper/and Martha serued. But Lazarus was out of them that sat at the table with hym. Then toke Mary a pounde of oynment of pure and costly Nardus / and annointed Iesus feet/and dried hys feet with her heer. The house was full of the sauour of the oymnt.
Then sayde one of hys disciples / Iudas Ischariots Symons sonne / whiche after warde betrayed hym : Why was not thyre oymnt solde for the hundred peny / and giuen to the poore? (This sayde he not/that he cared for the poore / but because he knewe that he was the bagge / and bore that which was giuen.) Then sayde Iesus: Let hit alone / thyre hart he kepte agaynste the daye of my buryenge. For the poore haue ye alwaye with you / but me haue ye not al-waye.

B Then muche people of the Jewes had knowlege that he was there/and they came not for Iesus sake onely / but also that they myght see Lazarus / that whome he had rayfed from the dead. But the whyche priestes were adused to put Lazarus to death also: because that for his sake many of the Jewes went awaye/and beleued on Iesus. It

A Upon the next daye / muche people which were come vnto the feast / whi ther berde that Iesus came towards Ierusalem / they toke briers and palme trees / and went oute to meete hym/and cryed: Hosanna.

B Blessed be he: that in the name of the Lorde cometh / kyng of Israel. Iesus gat a sponge filled / and rode thereon / as it is written: I feare not thou daughter of Syon / beholde / thy kyng cometh rydinge upon an Asses foale. Neuertheles / his disciples vnderstode not these thynges at the first / but when Iesus was glorified / then remembered they that such thynges were written of hym / and that they had done suche thynges vnto hym.

The people that was with hym when he called Lazarus out of the graue / and rayfed hym from the dead / commended the acte. Therefore the people met hym / because they herde that he had done suche miracle. But the Pharisees sayde amonge them selfes: Ye see that we perceiue nothing / beholde al the world runneth after hym.

There were certayne Grekes (amonge them that were come vnto Ierusalem / to iij. re. viij. f. worshipp at the feast) the same came vnto this Ierusalem Lippe / whiche was of Bethsaida out of Galilee. Iohn. i. c. he/and prayed hym/and sayde: Syr/tee wolde kyng Iesus Philippe come / and tolde Andrew. And agayne / Philippe / a Andriew tolde Iesus. Iesus answered them a sayde: The Ioh. iij. c. houres is come / that sonne of man must be glorified.

Verely verely I saye vnto you: If the wheat come fall into the grounde / it dye / it abyerth alone. But if it dye / it bringeth forth muche frute. If he that loseth hys lyfe / shall lose it: and he that hateth hys lyfe in this worlde / shall kepe it vnto lyfe euerlastinge. He that will serue me / let hym folowe me. And where I am / there shall my seruant be also: and he that serueth me / hym shall my father honoure. If I live in man-nyer / my soule beavy / and what shall I saye: father / martyr / helpe me out of this houre. But therfor as I Luce. ij. c. I come into this houre. father / glorifye my name.

Then came there a voyce from heauen / I haue glorified it / and will glorifye it agayne.
Then sayde the people that stode by / a berde I thondreth. Other sayde: An angel spake vnto hym. Iesus answered and sayde: This voyce came not because of me / but for youre sakes.

Now goeth the iudgement ouer the worlde. Now shall the prince of this worlde be thrust out. And I / when I am lyft vp from the earth / I will draw all vnto me. But this and
dij. c. he sayde / to signifye what he shoulde dye. Then answered hym the people. We haue herde in the lawe that Christ endureth for euer: and how sayest thou then / that the sonne of man must be lyft vp? Who is this sonne of man?

Then sayde Iesus vnto them: that the lyght is yete a litle while with you / walke while ye haue the lyght / that the darcknesse fall not upon you. He that walketh in the darcknesse / woteth not whither he goeth. Beleueye

The XV. Chapter. ¶

Lecl. pñ. c. Joan. iij. b. Actu. pñ. b ¶ I Am a true vine / and my father is an husbandman. ¶ Every braunche that bringeth not forth fruite in me / shall be cut of: and euery one that bringeth forth fruite / shall be pruned / that it maye bringe forth more fruite. ¶ Now are ye clean: because of the wordes that I haue spoken vnto you. Byde ye in me / and I in you. ¶ Like as the braunche can not bringe forth fruite of it selfe / excepte it byde in the vyne. ¶ Euen so neyther ye also / excepte ye abyde in me.

¶ I am the vyne / ye are the braunches. He that abydeh in me / and I in him / the same bringeth forth muche fruite: for without me can ye do nothinge. ¶ He that abydeh not in me / is cast out as a vyne braunche / and it wythbereth / and men gather it vp / and casteth it to the fyre / and it burneth. ¶ If ye abyde in me / and my wordes abyde in you / ye shall beare what ye wyll / and it shall done vnto you. ¶ Heren is my father prynced / that ye bringe forth muche fruite / and become my disciples. ¶ Like as my father hath loued me / euen so haue I loued you. ¶ Continue ye in my loue. ¶ If ye kepe my commaundmentes / ye shall continue in my loue: like as I haue kepte my fathers commaundmentes / and continue in his loue.

¶ These thynges haue I spoken vnto you / that my ioye myght remaine in you / and that your ioye myght be perfecte. ¶ These are my commaundmentes / that ye loue together: as I haue loued you. ¶ Woman hath greaue loue / then to set his life for his frende. ¶ I am your frende / if ye do that I commaunde you. ¶ Henceforth call I you not seruantes: for a seruant knoweth not what his lord doeth. But I haue saide that ye are frendes: for all that I haue herde of my father / haue I shewed vnto you. ¶ Ye haue not chosen me: but I haue chosen you / and ordeyned you: that ye go and bringe forth fruite / and that your fruite continue / that whatsoeuer ye do / the father in my name / he shall geue it you. ¶ This I commaunde you / that ye loue one another. ¶ If the worlde hate you / then knowe that it hath hated me before you. ¶ If ye were of the world / the world would loue his owne. ¶ Combeit / because ye are not of the world / but I haue chosen you from the world / therefore the worlde hateth you. ¶ Remember my word / that I said vnto you: ¶ The seruant is not greater then his lord. ¶ If they haue persecuted me / they shall persecute you also. ¶ If they haue kepte my wordes / they shall kepe yours also.

¶ But all this shall they do vnto you for my names sake / because they knowe not hym that sent me. ¶ If I had not come and spoken vnto them / then should they haue no synne. But now haue they noystringe to cloake theyr synne wythall. ¶ He that hateth me / hateth my father also. ¶ If I had not done amoge them / the world would saye: he is a heretic / but they should goodde haue no sinne. But now haue they sine it / and yet haue they hazed both me and my father. Neuertheless / that the sayinge myght be fulfilled / whiche is written in their lawe: † They haue hazed me without a cause. †

† But when the comforter cometh / vnto whom I shall sende you from the father / even the spirite of tructh whiche proceedeth of the father / he shall testifie of me: * and ye shall * heare witness also: for ye haue bene with me from the begynninge:

The XVI. Chapter.

These thinges haue I saide vnto you that ye should not be offended. † They shall communicate you. * The tyme cometh that whosoever putteth you to death / shall thinke that he doeth seruaice vnto God. † And these thinges shall they do vnto you / because they haue never knowne the father / nor yet me. * But these thinges haue I saide vnto you / that when the tyme cometh / ye may thinke thereon that I tolde you. † But these thinges haue I not saide vnto you from the begynninge: for I was with you.

† But now I go vnto hym that sent me / and none of you asyet me: Whyther yeost that: but because I haue saide these thinges vnto you / your heart is full of sowre. Veruertheless / I tell you the tructh. It is better for you that I go away. For if I go not away / that comforter cometh not vnto you: but if I departe. † I will sende him vnto you / and when he cometh / he shall rebuke the woilde of sinne: and of ryghteousnesse / and of iudgement. Of sinne: because they belese not on me. Of ryghteousnesse: because I go to the father: and ye shall see me no more. Of iudge-ment: because the prince of this woilde is iudged already.

† I haue yet muche to saye vnto you / but ye can not now beare it awaye / howbeit when he shall be the spirite of tructh / cometh / he shall claide you into all tructh. * For he shall not speake of hym selfe: but whatsoeuer he shall heare / that shall he speake: and he shall shewe you what is for to come. He shall glouifie me: for he shall receaue of myne / and shall shewe vnto you. † All that the father hath to myne.

These haue I saide: he shall receaue of myne / Mar. xi. c and shewe vnto you. †

† After a litle whyle / and ye shall not see me: and againe after a litle whyle: and ye shall see me for I go to the father. Then said some of his disciples amonge them selves: What is this that he saith vnto vs / after a litle whyle: and ye shall not see me: and againe after a litle whyle / and ye shall see me: for I go to the father?
Then saide they: What is it that he saith? After a litle whyle: We can not tell what he sayeth. Then perceaued Iesus that they wolde axe him / and he saide vnto them: Ye enquire of this amonge youre selves that I saide: After a litle whyle / and ye shall not see me: and againe after a litle whyle / and ye shall see me.

Verely verely I saye vnto you: Ye shall wepe and lament: but the woilde shall reioyce: for ye shall be sory / but † your sorrowe shall be turned into ioye. A woman when she travaileth bringeth forth: for her houre is come. But when she is deliuered of the chyld / she thynketh no more of the anguish for ioye: that a man is borne into the woilde. And now haue ye sor-rowe also: but I will see you againe / and your here shall reioyce / and your ioye shall no man take from you. † And in that daye shall ye axe me no question. † Verely verely I say vnto you: If ye axe the father ought in my name / he shall geue it you. Ho-ther to haue ye axed nothing in my name. † and ye shall receaue / that your ioye maye be perfecte. These thinges haue I spoken vnto you by * proouerbe. Neuertheless / the tyme cometh that I shall speake no more by pro-uerbes / but I shall shewe you plainly of my father.

In that daye shall ye axe in my name.
And I saye not vnto you / that I will praye vnto the father for you: for the father him self loueth you / because ye haue loued me / and be-leued that I am come out from God. † I went out from the father / and came into the woilde: Againe / I leaue the woilde: and go to the father.

His disciples said vnto him: Behold now talkest thou plainly / and speakest no pro-uerbe. † Now are we sure that thou knowest all

all things/a needst not that any mā should

Jesus answered them: Now ye so beleeve.
Joh. xii. b Beholde / t̄ the houre shalweh rise / as I come mar. xii. c already / that ye shall feare / euery man into his owne / and shall leaue me alone / and yet I am I not alone / for the father is with me.

These thynges haue I spokē vnto you / that in me ye myght haue t̄ peace. In the worlde haue ye trouble / but he of good comforte / I haue ouercome the worlde.

These thynges spake Iesus / and left vp his eyes towarde heauen / and saide / t̄ father / the houre is come / that thou glorific thy sonne / that thy sonne also maye glouifie thelyfe as thou hast t̄ geuen hym power ouer all flesh / that he should geue euerlastinge lyfe so as many as thou hast geuen hym. ¶ But this is the lyfe euerlastinge / that they knowe the that thou onely arte t̄ true God / and whome thou hast sent Iesus Christ.

j. Joh. ja
Ioh. x. f. c

I haue glorified the vpon earth / and t̄ sy-nysid the worlde that thou gauest me to do.
And now glorifie me thou father by thine owne selfe / with the glory whiche I had or euer the worlde was. I haue declared thy name vnto the men / whome thou gauest me from the worlde. They were thine / and thou gauest them vnto me / and they haue kepte thy worde.

Now knowe they / that all thynges whiche I haue done vnto the / are of thee. ¶ For the worlde whiche thou gauest me / haue I geuen vnto them / and they haue receaued them / and knowe of a truerth / that I am come forth from thee / a haue beleeuē t̄ thou hast sent me. I pray for the / and pray not for t̄ worlde / but for the whome thou hast geuen me / for they are thine. And all that is myne / is thine / and what thine is / that is myne. And I am glorified in them. And now am I no more in the worlde / and they are in the worlde / and I come to the. ¶ Holy father /

Keep in thine name those / whome thou t̄ hast geuen me / that they maye be one lyfe as we are. Whyle I was with them in the worlde / I sent them in thy name. Those that thou gauest me / haue I kepte / and none of the is lost / but that lost chylde: that the t̄ scripture myght be fulfilled. But now come I vnto the / and this I spake in the worlde / that they maye haue my lyfe perfecte in them. I haue geuen them thy worde / and the worlde hath them: for they are not of the worlde / euen as I also am not of the worlde. I pray not that thou shouldst take them out of the worlde / but that thou kepe them from euill.

They are not of the worlde / as I also am not of the worlde.

Sanctifie them in thy truerth. Thy worde is the truerth. Like as thou hast sent me into the worlde / so haue I sent them into the worlde: and for theyr sakes I sanctifie my selfe / that they also maye be sanctified in the truerth.

Neither do I praye for those onely but also for those / whiche thoume they worde shall beleeve on me / that they all maye be one / lyfe as thou father art in me / and I in thee / that they also maye be one / with the worlde maye beleeve / that thou hast sent me.
And the glory whiche thou gauest me / haue I geuen the: that they maye be one / lyfe as we are one. I in them / and thou in me / that they maye be perfecte in one / and that the worlde may knowe / that thou hast sent me / and haue loued them / as thou hast loued me.

¶ Father / I will that they whome thou hast geuen me / be with me where I am / that they maye see my glory / whiche thou hast geuen me: for thou hast loued me / or euer the worlde was made.

Righteous father / t̄ the worlde hath not knowne the / but I haue knowne the: and these haue knowne / that thou hast sent me. And I haue declared thy name vnto them / and will declare it / that the loue wherewith thou hast loued me / maye be in them / and I in them. ¶

¶ The XVIII. Chapter. ¶ San Iesus had thus spoken / he went forth with his disciples ouer the bricke kewall / where there was a garden / into the whiche Iesus entred / and his disciples. But Judas that betrayed hym / knewe the place also. For Iesus resorted thither oftymes with his disciples. ¶ Now when Judas had taken by ghe Priestes a Pharisces / he came thither with cressetes / with lanternes / a with wearps. Iesus no we knowinge all that shoulde come upon hym / went forthe / and sayde vnto them: Whome seke ye? They answered hym: Iesus of Nazareth. Iesus sayd vnto them: I am he. Judas also which betrayed hym / stode with them. Now when Iesus sayd vnto the: I am he / then wente backe warde / and fell to the grounde. Then asked he them agayne: Whome seke ye? They sayd: Iesus of Nazareth. Iesus answered: I haue tolde you that I am he. If ye seke me / then let these go: they were. But if woude mighte be fulfilled / which 103 b be saydet: Of them whome thou gauest me / I haue I not lost one. Then had Symon Peter a sword / and drew it out / and smote by ghe Priestes seruant / and cut of hye right eare / a the seruantes name was Malchus.

B Then sayde Iesus vnto Peter: Put up thy sworde into the sheath. Shall I not drinke of the cuppe / which my father hath geue me? Then the company and the captayne / a the officers of the Jewes toke Iesus / and bounde hym / and led hym awaye by ste to Annas / 104 d hym / and led hym awaye by ste vnto Annas / he was father in lawe vnto Capphas / * which was by ghe Priest the same yeare. It was Capphas / which gaue counsaill vnto the Jewes / that it was good / that one man should die for the people.

As for Symon Peter / he and another disciple / followed Iesus. The same disciple was knowne vnto the by ghe Priest / and wente in with Iesus into the priestes palacie. But Peter stode without at the doore. Then the other disciple which was knowne vnto the priest / wente out / and spake to the damsell that kepte the doore / and draughte in Peter. Then the damsell that kepte the doore / sayde vnto Peter: Art not thou also one of this mans disciples? He sayde: I am not.

E The seruantes and officers stode / and had made a fyre of coles / (for it was colde) / and warmed the selfe. Peter also stode with the / a warmed hym selfe. The by ghe Priest asked Iesus of hye disciples / a of hye doctryne. Iesus answered hym: I haue spokt openly before 105 b world / I haue euer taughte in the Synagoge / in the temple / wherher al the Jewes resorted / a in secretes haue I spoken nothyng. Why askest thou me? Art thou that haue herde what I haue spoken vnto them / shouldest thou can tell what I haue sayde. But I wold be had thus spoken / one of the officers that stode by / smote Iesus on the face / and saide: Answerest thou the bye Prieste so? Iesus answered hym: If I haue spoken euell / then beare witnesse of euell: But if I haue well spoken / why smyest thou me? And Annas sent hym bounde vnto Capphas the by ghe Priest.

Simon Peter stode and warmed hym selfe. Then sayde they vnto him: Art thou one of his disciples? He denyed / and saide: I am not. A seruante of the by ghe Priest / a fynsman of his whos care Peter had synne offsaide vnto him: Why dost thou lie in the garden with him.

Then Peter denyed agayne. And immediately the cocke croke. * Then led they Iesus from Capphas into the commune hall. And it was early in the morninge. And they them selfe wente not into the commune hall / lest they shoulde haue bene defyled / but that they mighte eate the Paschall lambe. Then wente Pilate oute vnto them / and sayde: What accusation byngge ye agaynst this man? They answered and saide vnto him: If he were not an euill doer / we woude not haue deliuered him vnto the. Then sayde Pilate vnto them: Take ye him / and iudge hym after your lawe. Then sayde the Jewes vnto hym: It is not lawfull for vs to put any man to death. Euer the woide of Iesus myghte be fulfilled / whiche he spake / when he signified what 106 b death he shoulde dye.

Then coughte Pilate into the commune hall agayne / and called Iesus / and saide vnto him: Art thou the kyng of the Jewes? Iesus answered: Sailest thou that of thy selfe / or haue some other tolde it the of me?

Pilate answered: Am I a Jewe? Thy people and the by ghe priestes haue deliuered the vnto me. What haste thou done? Iesus answered: My kyngdom is not of this world. If my kyngdom were of this world / my mynisters woude fyghte herfore / that I shoulde not be deliuered vnto the Jewes. But nowe is not my kyngdom from hence. Then sayde Pilate vnto hym: Wilt thou a kyngdome then? Iesus answered: Thou sayest it: for I am a kyng. For this cause am I borne/ and came into the world: that I should be testyfyed the truth. Whosoeuer is of the truth/ heareth my voyce. Pilate saide vnto him: What is the truth? And when he had sayde that/ he wente out agayne to the Jewes/ and saide vnto them: I fynde not gynnesse in hym. But I haue a custome/ that I should geue one loufe vnto you at Easter/ wyl ye nowe woe? Then cried they agayne altogether/ and sayde: Not him/ but Barrabas. Yet was Barrabas a murtherer.

The XIX Chapter.

When Pilate toke Iesus/ and scourged hym/ and the souldyers played a croune of thornes/ and set it vpon his heade/ and put a purple garment vpon him/ and saide: Hail kyng of the Jewes. And they smote hym on the face. Then wente Pilate forth agayne/ and sayde vnto them: Beholde/ I bring him forth vnto you/ that ye maye knowe/ that I fynde no fault in him. So Iesus wente out and theyd weare a croune of thornes/ and a purple robe. And he sayde vnto them: Beholde/ the man. When the hyghe priestes/ and the ministers sawe him/ they cryed and sayde: Crucifye/ Crucifye. Pilate saide vnto them: Take ye him/ and crucifye him/ for I fynde no gynnesse in him. The Jewes answered him: We haue a lawe/ and after our lawe he ought to dye. Because he made him selfe the sonne of God. When Pilate herde that word/ he was the more afrayed/ and went agayne into the commune hall/ and said vnto Iesus/ whence arte thou? But Iesus gaue hym no answer. Then said Pilate vnto hym: Speakest thou not vnto me? Knowest thou not that I haue power to crucifye the/ and haue power to louse the? Iesus answered: Thou shouldst haue no power vpon me/ if it were not geuen thee from aboue.

Therefore he that heluered me vnto the bath the more synne. From that tyme forth/ Pilate sought meanes to louse hym. But the Jewes cried and sayde: If thou let him go/ thou arte not the Emperours frende. For whosoeuer maketh him selfe kyng/ is against the Emperour.

When Pilate herde these wordes/ he thought Iesus faulty/ and sat him vnto the iudgement seat/ in the place which is called the Pavement/ but in the Hebrew/ Gabbatha. It was the daye of preparation of the Easter/ aboute the syxte houre. And he sayde vnto the Jewes: Beholde youre kyng. But they cryed: Awaye with him/ awaye with him/ Crucifye him. Pilate saide vnto them: Shall I crucifye youre kyng? The hyghe priestes answered: We haue no kyng/ but the Emperour. Then deliuered he him vnto them to be crucifyed.

They toke Iesus and led him awaye/ and he bare his crosse/ and wente out to the place called the place of dead mens bulles/ which in Hebrew is named Golgotha/ where they crucified him/ and two other with him/ on either syde one: But Iesus in the myddes. Pilate wore a superscription/ and set it vpon the crosse. And there was written: Iesus of Nazareth/ kyng of the Jewes. This superscription redde many of the Jewes. For the place where Iesus was crucified/ was nye vnto the cye. And it was written in Hebrew/ Greke/ and Layne. Then sayde the hyghe priestes of the Jewes vnto Pilate: Wryte not kyng of the Jewes/ but that he sayde: I am kyng of the Jewes. Pilate answered: What I haue written/ I haue written.

The souldyers when they had crucified Iesus/ toke his garments/ and made foure partes/ to euery souldyer one parte/ and the coate also. So for the coate it was not fought/ woughte from aboute thowme and thowme. The sayde they one to another: Let vs not deuyde it/ but caste lottes for it/ who shall haue it/ but the scripture mighte be fulfilled/ which sayeth: They haue parted my garments amonge them/ and on my coate haue they cast lottes. This dyd the souldyers in dede.

There stode by the crosse of Iesus/ his mother/ and his mothers sister Mary/ the wyfe of Cleophas/ and Mary Magdalene. Now when Iesus sawe his mother/ and the discipule standing by/ whom he loued/ he said unto his mother: Woman behold thy son: thy sounē. Then saide he to the disciple: Behold this is thy mother. And from that houre the disciple toke her vnto him.

After that when Iesus knewe that al was fulfilled: he saide: I am a thysit. There stode a cressill full of vineger. They filled a sponge with vineger/ and woude it aboute with ysoper/ and held it to his mouth. Now when Iesus had receaued the vineger/ he saide: It is fulfilled/ and bowed his heade/ and gaue vp the ghost.

The Iewes then/ so muche as it was the daye of preparinge/ that the bodyes shoulde not remayne vpon the crosse vpon the Sabbath/ (for the same Sabbath daye was greate. Besought Pilate/ that they legges mighte be broken/ and that they mighte be taken doune. Then came the souldyers/ a brake the legges of the first/ and of the other that was crucified with hym. But when they came to Iesus/ and saue that he was dead already/ they brake not his legges/ but one of the souldyers opened his syde with a spear. And immediatly there wente out bloude and water.

And he that sawe it bare recorde/ and his recorde is true. And he knoweth that he saith true/ ye mighte beleefe also. For this is done/that the scripture mighte be fulfilled: Ye shal not breake a bone of him. And another scripture sayeth: They shall see him/ whome they haue pierced.

After that Ioseph of Aramathea/ whiche was a disciple of Iesus/ but secretly for feare of the Iewes. Besought Pilate/ that he might take doune the bodye of Iesus. And Pilate gaue hym licence. There came also Nicodemus/whiche afore came vnto Iesus by nyghte/ and brought of Myrrer and Aloes mingled together/ about an hundred pound weight.

Then toke they the bodye of Iesus/ and woude it with linnen cloth/ and with the pe-recles/ as the manner of the Iewes is to bury.
 And by the place where Iesus was crucified there was a garden/ in the garden a new sepulchre/ where in was neuer man layed: there layed they Iesus/ because of the preparinge daye of the Iewes/ for the sepulchre was nye at hande.

The XX. Chapter.

Upon one daye of the Sabbath came Mary Magdalene early/ when it was yet darke/ vnto the sepulchre/ and saue that the stone was taken from the sepulchre. Then ranne she/ and came to Simon Peter/ and to the other disciple/ whome Iesus loued/ and sayde vnto them: they haue taken awaye the Lord/ oute of the sepulchre/ and we can not tell wher they haue layed hym. Then wente Peter for the/ and the other disciple/ and came to the sepulchre. They ranne both together/and that other disciple ouertooke Peter/ and came firste to the sepulchre/ and looked in/ and saue the linnen clothes layed. But he wente not in. Then came Symon Peter after hym/ and wente into the sepulchre/ and saue the linnen clothes/ and the napkin that was bounde rounde aboute Iesus head/ nor layed with the linnen clothes/ but wiapped together in a place by it selfe. Then wente in also that other disciple/ whiche came firste to the sepulchre/ and he saue and beleued: for as yet they knewe not the scripture that it behoued hym to rise agayne from the dead. Then wente the disciples agayne togerher.

As for Mary/ she stode before the sepulchre/ and wepte withoute knowe as she wepte/ she looked into the sepulchre/ and saue two angels in white garmentes/ sittinge/ the one at the head/ and the other at the feete/ where they had layed the bodye of Iesus. And they saide vnto her: Woman/ why wepest thou? She sayde vnto them: They haue taken awaye my Lord/ and I wote not wher they haue layed hym/ and when she had sayde that/ she turned her selfe backe/ and saue Iesus stand-ynge/ and knewe not that it was Iesus. Jesus sayde vnto her: Woman/ why wepest thou? Whome seekest thou? She thoughte that it had bene the gardener/ and saide vnto hym: Syr/ if thou haste doxen him/ wher? then tell me wher thou haste layed him/ and I will finde hym. Iesus sayde vnto her: Mary. Then turned she her aboute/ and saide vnto hym: Rabboni/ that is to saye: Master. Jesus sayde vnto her: Touche me not/ for I am

Luce. xxiij. c. ¶ In the same Sabbath at euen / when the Disciples were gathered together / and the doores were shut for feare of the Jewes / came Iesus and stode in the myddes / and said vnto them: Peace be with you. And when he had so said / he shewed them his handes a his syde. ¶ Then were the Disciples glad / that they sawe the Lorde. Then saide Iesus vnto the Ioh. xxi. c. agayne: Peace be with you. ¶ As my father sente me / euen so sende I you. And when he had sayde that: he breathed vpon them / and sayde vnto them: Receaue the holy ghoost. Whose sinnes ye remitt / they are remitted vnto them: and whose sinnes for euer ye retayne / they are retayned. ¶

Ioh. xi. b. ¶ But Thomas one of the twelue / which is called Didymus / was not with them when Iesus came: then said the other Disciples vnto him: We haue fene the Lorde. But he said vnto them: Excepte I see in his handes the printe of the nagle / and put my fnger into the prynte of the nagle / and put my hande into his syde / I wil not belefe.

And after eight dayes agayne were his Disciples within / and Thomas with them. Then came Iesus / when the doores were shut / and stode in the myddes / and sayde: Peace be with you. After that saide he vnto Thomas: Reade hyther thy fnger / and se my handes / and reade hyther thy hande / & put into my syde / and se not faithlesse / but belefe. Thomas answered / and sayde vnto hym: My Lorde / and my God. Iesus sayde vnto him: Thomas / because thou hast fene me / thou hast beleued. Blessed are they that se now / and yet belefe. ¶

Many other tokens had Iesus before his Disciples / which are not written in this booke. But these are written / that ye shoulde belefe that Iesus is the Christe / the sonne of God / and that ye knowe belefe might haue lyfe in his name.

The XXXI Chapter. †

¶ For that shewed Iesus hym selfe agayne ¶ At the cite of Cyberia. But on this wyse shewed he hym selfe. There were together Simon Peter / and Thomas / which is called Didymus / and Nicodemus of Cana a Jewe of Galilee / and the sonnes of Zebedee / and two other of his Disciples. Simon Peter sayde vnto them: I go a fylling: They saide vnto him: we also will go with the. They went out / and entred into a shippe straight waye. And that same night rose they nothinge. But when it was morninge / Iesus stode on the shore / but his Disciples knewe not that it was Iesus. Iesus sayde vnto them: Children / haue ye any thinge to eate? They answered hym: No. He sayde vnto them: I call oute the net on the ryghte syde / and it shall fynde. ¶ And he sayde vnto them: I call oute the net on the ryghte syde / and it shall fynde. ¶ Then they cast oute / and coude no more see it of the multitude of fyshes. Then sayde the Disciple / I whome Iesus loued vnto Peter: ¶ This is the Lorde.

¶ When Simon Peter herde that it was he the Lorde / he gassed his manell aboute hym / for he was nydded / and sprang into the see / but the other Disciples came by shippe / for they were not farre from lande / but as it were two hundred cubites / and they went the net with the fyshes. ¶ Nowe when they were come to lande / they sawe eyles laded / and fyshes theryon / and breade. Iesus sayde vnto them: Bynge hyther of the fyshes / and there ye haue to eate now. Simon Peter stepped forth / and drewe the nette to the lande / full of greete fyshes / an hundred and thre and fyfte. And for all there were so many / yet was not the net broken.

Iesus sayde vnto them: Come / and dyne. ¶ But none of the Disciples durst eate hym: Whom art thou. For they knewe not what it was he the Lorde. Then came Iesus / and toke the breade / and gaue it them: and the fyshes likewise. This is now the thirde tyme that Iesus appeared vnto his Disciples / after that he was risen agayne from the dead. ¶ ¶ Nowe when they had dynd. Iesus sayde vnto Simon Peter: Simon Iobannas louest thou me more then these so? He saide vnto hym: Yea Lorde / thou knowest that I loue the. He said vnto hym: Feede my lambs.

The. II. Chapter.

¶ When the Wednesday was fulfilled/ they were all with one accorde togather in one place. And suddenly there came a sounde from heauen/ as it had bene the comming of a mighty winde/ as it fylled the whole house where they sat. And there appeared vnto them clouen tunges/ like as they had bene of fyre. There were dwellinge at Jerusalem Iewes/ men that feared God/ out of every nation that is vnder heauen. Now when this voyce came to passe/ the multitude came together/ and were astonied: for every one herde that they spake with his owne tounge. They wondered al and maruailed/ and saide amonge the selfe: Behold/ are not all these which speake of Galile? How heare we them euenry one his owne tounge/ wherein we were borne? They were all amazed/ and wondered/ and he saide one to another: What wil this be? But other mocked them/ and saide: They are ful of strek wyne. ¶ Then stode Peter vp with the cleuen/ and laye up his voice/ and saide vnto them.

¶ Ye men of Israel/ heare these woordes: Jesus of Nazareth/ the man approued of God amonge you with miracles/ and wonders and tokens/ whiche God byd by him in

For thou shalt not leaue my soule in hell/neither shalt thou suffer thy holy to be corrup

Ye men and brethren / let the fleshy speake vnto you of the patriarke Dauid: h For he is What shall we do? Peter sayde vnto them: Luce iij. b

For this I promysse was made vnto you

Save your selves from this vntowarde ge neration. They that gladly receaued his there were added vnto this aboute thise thou

They continued in the Apostles doctrine/and in the fellowshipp/ and in breaking of bread/ and in prayer. And stare came vpon were done by the Apostles. But all they that

When as they spake to the people/ there came vnto them the prestes/ and the ruloers of the temple/ and the Sadures/ whome it greued that they taught the people/ as preached in Iesu the resurrection from the dead/ and they layed handes vpon them/ and put them in holde all the morow/ for it was now euening. ¶ They sawe the boldnesse of Peter and Thoms / and maruailed / for they were sure that they were vnlearned men / and laye people. And they knewe them also / that they were with Iesus. As for the man that was made whole / they sawe him standinge by them / and coulde not saye against it. Then commaunded they them to stande asyde out of the counsayll / and commaunded amonge them silkes / and said: ¶ What shall we do to these men / for a manifest token is done by them / and is openly knowen vnto them that dwell at Ierusalem / and we can not denye it. But that it breake out no farther amonge the people / let vs threaten them earnestly / that henceforth they speake of this name vnto no man.

¶ And they called them / and commaunded them / that in any wyse they should not speake / nor teache in the name of Iesus. But Peter & Thoms answered / and said vnto them: Iudge youre silkes / whether it is ryght before God / that we should be more obedient vnto you / then vnto God. We can not obeye / but speake that we haue seene and herde. But they threatened them / and let them go / and founde nothinge howe to punyssh them / because of the people: for they all praised God because that / which was done / for the man / upon whome this token of heath was done / was about foure yeare olde.

¶ And when they were let go / they came to their selowes / and tolde them what the hygh Priestes and Elders saide vnto them. When they herde that / they lifte vp their voyce with one accord vnto God / and saide: Lord / thou that artt the God which made heauen & earth / and the see / and all that therein is / thou that by the mouth of Saut thy seruaint hast saide: ¶ Why do the Heretikes rage? and the people imagen wayne thynges? The fingers of the earth stande vp / and the pyncke haue gathered the silkes together against the Loz-

Of a tructh / against thy holy chyld Iesus / whome thou hast annointed / both Herode / and Pontius Pilate with the Heretikes / and the people of Israel / haue gathered their silkes together / to do whatsoeuer thy hande and thy counsayll determined before to be done. And now Lord / beholde their thearcinges / & graunte vnto thy seruantes with all steadfast boldnesse / to speake thy woide / and stretch out thine hande / that healinge and tokens / and wonders may be done by the name of thy holy chyld Iesus.

¶ But the hygge priest rose vp / and all they that were with him / whiche is the secte of the Sabucee / and were full of indignacion / and layed handes on the Apostles / and put them in the commune prison. ¶ But the aungel of the Lorde by nyght opened the prison doore / and brought them out / and sayde: Go youre waye / and stepp vp / and speake in the temple to the people all the wordes of this lyfe. When they herde that / they entred into the temple early in the morninge / and taught.

Actu. xij. b

and xij. d

But the hygge priest came / and they that were with him / and called the counsaill together / and all the elders of the children of Israel / and sent to the prison to set them. The ministrers came and founde the nor in the prison / came againe / and tolde / and saide: The prison founde we shut with all diligence / and the keyes standinge withoute before the doore: but when we had opened / we founde no man therein. When the hygge priest / and the rulers of the temple / and the other bygge priestes herde these wordes / they doubted of the / whereinto this wolde growe.

¶ Then came there one / which tolde the: Her hold / the men that ye put in prison / are in the temple / standinge and teachinge the people. Then wente the rulers with their ministrers / and seiched them without violence: for they feared the people / lest / they shoulde haue ben stoned. And when they had brought them / they set them before the counsaill. And the hygge priest cged them / and sayde: Why nat we recommaunde you straitly / that ye should not teach in this name? And beholde / ye haue filled Ierusalem with pure doctrine / and ye intende to bynne / this mans bloude vpon us.

¶ But Peter and the Apostles answered and saide: We ought more to obeye God than men. The God of oure fathers haue raised vp Iesus / whome ye sleue / and hanged on the tree. hym hath the ryght hande of God exalted to be a prince and Saueour / to geue repentance and forgiveness of synnes vnto Israel. And we are his recordes of these wordes / and the holy ghoost / whome God hath giuen vnto the / that obeye hym. When they herde this / they wente abowte the herce of them / and they thought to slaye them.

¶ Then stode there vp in the counsaill a Pharise / named Gamaliel a Scherbe / had in greate reputation before all the people / and had put the Apostles asyde a litle / and sayde vnto them: Ye men of Israel / take hede to youre selves what ye do / as touching these men. Before these daies rose vp one Theudas / boasting him self. And there cleued vnto hym a number of men / aboute a foure hundred / which was slayne / and all they that enclined vnto hym / were scattered abroad / and brought to nought. After this stode vp Judas of Galile in the bayce of tribute / and he drew awaye muche people after him / and he also persecuted / and all they that enuyed vnto him / were scattered abroade. And now I say vnto you / refrayne youre selves from these men / and let them go. ¶ If theye counsaill or worke be of men / it will come to naught: but if it be of God / ye are not able to destroye it / lest ye be founde to be the men that will stryue against God. Then they agreed vnto him / and called the Apostles / and brake them / and commaunded them / that they shoulde speake nothinge in the name of Iesu / and let them go.

But they departed from the presence of the counsaill / reuoycinge that they were worthy to suffer rebuke for hys names sake. And daily in the temple and in euerie house they ceased not to teach / and to preach the Gospel of Iesus Christ.

The VI. Chapter.

¶ In those dayes when the numbrie of the Disciples in Ierusalem / arose after a grudge amongst the Greeks against the Hebrewes / because theyr women were not left vpon in the daye hundredthyng. Then the reuelled called the multitude of the Disciples together / and sayde: It is not meete that we should leaue the worde of God / and to serue at the tables. Wherefore brethren / take out amonge you seuen men / that are of honest repute / and full of the holy ghoost / and wysdom / whome we may appoynt to this needfull busynesse. But we will geue oure selves vnto prayer / and to the ministracion of the worde of God. And the sayinge pleased the whole multitude. And they chose Steuen / a man full of fayth / and of the holy ghoost / and Philippe / and Procorus / and Nicomas / and Temon / and Parmenas / and Nicolas the Proselyte of Antioche. ¶ These they set before the Apostles / and they prayed / and layed theyr handes vpon them. And the worde of God increased / and the numbrie of the Disciples multiplied greatly at Ierusalem. And there were many priestes also obedient vnto the saye.

¶ Steuen full of fayth and power / did wonders and grante toens amonge the people. Then arose there certayne of the Synagogs / whiche are called (the Synagoge) of the Libertynes / and of the Cyrenyces / and of the Alexandrynes / and of them that were of Cilicia and Syria / and disputed with Steuen / and they coulde not resist the wysdome and the spere / out of the whiche he spake. Then sent they in certayne men / that sayde: We haue herde hym speake blasphemous wordes against Moses / and against God. And they moued the people / and the elders / and the Scribes / and came vpon hym / and caught him / and brought hym before the counsaill / and set false witnesses there / whiche sayde: This man casteth not to speake blasphemous wordes against thyre holy place / and the lawe. For we herde hym saye: Iesus of Nazareth shall destroye this place / and changinge the ordinaunces whiche Moses gaue vs. And all they that sat in the counsaill / looked vpon hym / and sawe hys face as the face of an aungel.

The VII. Chapter.

¶ Then saide the hygher priest: Is it euen so? He saide: Yea brethren and fathers / hearken to. The God of glory appeared vnto oure father Abraham / whyle he was yet in Mesopotamia / before he dwelt in Haran / and saide vnto him: Get thy out of thy countrey / and from thy kynred / and come into a lande whiche I will shewe the. ¶ Then went he out of the lande of the Caldees / and dwelt in Haran. ¶ And from thence when hys father was dead / he brought him out into this lande (where ye dwell now) and gaue hym no inheritance therein / nor the birth of a sonne: And promised hym / that he wolde geue it him to possesse / and to his kede after hym / when as yet he had no chyld.

But thus sayde God vnto him: Thy sonne shall be a stranger in a straunge lande / and they shall make bondmen of them / and entreate them euil foure hundred yeares / and I people whom they shall serue / will I iudge / sayde God. And after that shall they go forth / and serue me in this place. ¶ And he gaue him the conuersione of Arctiphon. ¶ And he began Isaac / and circumcised him the eyght daye. ¶ And Isaac begat Jacob / and Jacob begate the twelfe Patriarkes.

¶ And the Patriarkes had indignacion at Joseph / and sold him into the Egypte. And God was with him / and deliuered him out of all hys troubles / and gaue hym fauoure and wysdome.

fices and eateth those fourtye yeres in wilderness: And ye toke vnto you the tabernacle of Moloch / and the starre of your God Remphan / ymagis whiche ye youre selfes made to worshippe them. And I will cast you out beyonde Babylon.

¶ Dure fathers had the tabernacle of witness in the wilderness / like as he appointed them / when he spake vnto Moses / that he shoulde make it accordinge to the patrone that he had seene / whiche oure fathers also receaued / and brought it with Iesus into the islande that the Brethren had in possession / whom God throue out before the face of oure fathers / vntyll the tyme of Dauid / which founde fauoure with God / and desired that he myght finde a tabernacle for the God of Jacob.

¶ But Salomon buyde hym an house / howbeit / the byggest of all dwellers / not in temples that are made with handes: As he sayeth by the Prophet: Heaven is my seat / and the earth is my foote stole. What house then will ye buyde vnto me / sayeth the Lord: Or which is the place of my rest: Hath not my hande made all these thinges?

¶ Ye shyned and of vncircumcised heres ye care / ye resiste alwaye the holy ghoost: Euen as oure fathers byd / so do ye also. Whiche of the Prophets banis your fathers persecuted? And they slewe them / which tolde before of the comminge of that righteous / whose raynours and murderers ye are nowe become. ¶ Ye receaued the lawe by the ministracion of angelo / and haue not kepte it.

When they herde this / it wente thorow the herres of them / and they gnashed vpon hym with their teeth. But he beyng full of the holy ghoost / looked vp towarde heauen / and saue the glorie of God / and Iesus standinge on the ryghte hand of God and sayde: Beholde / I see the heauens open / and I see of man standinge on the right hande of God. But they cried out with a loude voyce / and stopped their eares / and ranne violently vpon hym all at once / and thruste hym out of the cite / and stoned hym. ¶ And the witnesses layed doune their clothes at the feete of a yonge mā / which was called Saul. And they stoned Steuen / whiche cried / and sayde: Lot de Iesu / receaue my spere. And he kneled doune / and cried with a loude voyce: Lord / laye not this synne to their charge. And when he had thus spoken / he fell a slepe.

The VIII. Chapter.

Saul had pleasure in his death. At the same tyme there was a greate persecucion of the congregacion at Jerusalem. ¶ And they were all scattered abroade in the regions of Jewry and Samaria / excepte the Apostles. As for Steuen / men feared God / dyed hym / and made greate lamentacion ouer him. Saul made hauocke of the congregacion / and drue out men and women / and depyred them to payson. ¶ They were scattered abroade / wrote aboure / and preached the woide. Then came Philispe into a citty vnto them. And the people gaue hede with one accorde vnto the thynges that Philispe spake / bearinge hym / and synging the psalms that he did. For the vncleane spytes cried loude / and departed out of many that were possessed. And many that were sicke of the palsey and lame / were heeled. And there was greate voyce in the same cite.

But afore there was in the same citty a crafty man called Symon / whiche used to craft / and bewitched the people of Samaria / saying: that he was a man which coulde do greate thinges. And they all regarded hym from the least vnto the greatest / and sayde: This is the power of God whiche is greate. But they regarded hym / because that of long tyme he had bewitched them with his sorcery. Howbeit / when they beleued Philispe preachinge of the Kingdome of God / and of the name of Iesus Christ / they were baptised both men and women. Then Symon hym selfe beleued also / and was baptised / and he cleaue vnto Philispe. And when he saue the Iudes and Ieros / he was done / he wondred.

¶ When the Apostles whiche were at Jerusalem / herde that Samaria had receaued the woide of God / they sent vnto them Peter a Iohn. Whiche / when they were come / prayed for the / that they myght receaue the holy ghoost. For as yet he was come vpon none of them / but they were baptysed onely in the name of Christ Iesu. Then layed they theyr handes vpon hym: and they receaued the holy ghoost. I But when Symon sawe: that by the layinge on of the Apostles handes the holy ghoost was geyuen: he offered the money: and sayde: Geue me also this power: that on whome soeuer I put the handes: he may receaue the holy ghoost.

 Herben/Peter sayde vnto hym: Perch thou with thy money: becaus: thou thinkest that the gift of God maye be obtained with money.
 Thou shalt haue neyther parte nor shewe shipp in this reioyce: for thy heere is not right before God. Repent therfore of this thy wickednesse: and praye vnto God: if happily the thought of thy herte maye be forgiven the.
 For I see that thou art full of bytter gal: and wrapped in webb of nighte: and of darkness.

Then answered Symon: a sayde: † Praye ye vnto the Lorde for me: that none of these thynges: wherof ye haue spoken: come vpon ren the worde of the Lorde: turned agayne to Jerusalem: and preached the Gospell in many townes of the Samariitanes.

¶ Durche euangel of the Lorde spake vnto Philippe: and sayde: Arise: and go worde

 Jerusalem vnto Gaza: which is vnto And he rose: and wente on. And beholde: a man of the Moztians lande (a chamberlaine) and of cōuente with Candare / the queene of the lande of the Moztians: which had the rule of all her treasures: / the same came to Jerusalem: to worshipp. And returned home a-gayne: and sat vpon his charret: and red the prophet Esay.

Act. xij. b

The spirit saide vnto Philippe: Go neare: and opene thy selfe vnto this charret. Then came Philippe: vnto hym: and herde hym rede the prophet Esay: and sayde: Vnderstandest thou what thou readest? He sayde: How can I: except some man enforme mee?

Act. xij. b

And he desired Philippe: that he wolde come vp: and sit with hym. The renouice of the scripture which he redde: was this: He was led as a shepe to be slaine: and as a lambe voyceless: before his sheerer: so opened not he his mouth. In his humblenes: is his iudgement exalted. Who shall declare his generation: for his lyfe is taken awaye from the earth. Then answered the chamberlaine vnto Philippe: and sayde: I praye the of whom speakest the Prophet this? of hym selfe: or of some othere man?

Philippe opened his mouth: and began at this scripture: and preached vnto the Gospell of Iesu. And as they wente on their waye: they came to a water. And the chamberlaine sayde: Beholde: here is water: / what hinder vnto me to be baptysed? Philippe said: If thou belest: from thy whole herte: thou mayest. He answered: and sayde: I beleeve that Iesu Christ is the sonne of God. And he commaunded to holde still the charret: and they went vnto the water: both Philippe and the chamberlaine. And he baptysed hym. But when they were come vp out of the water: the spirit of the Lorde toke Philippe away: And the chamberlaine sawe him no more. But he wente on his waye reioycing. As for Philippe: he was founde at Gaza: and walked about: and preached the Gospell vnto all the cyties: / till he came to Cefarea. †

The IX. Chapter.

Saul was yet: breathing out threatenings and slaughter agaynst the disciples: And of the Lorde. And wente vnto the hygh priest: and desired of hym letters to Damasus vnto the synagoges: that if he founde any of this waye: whether they were men or women:
 he might bringe them bounde vnto Jerusalem. And as he was goinge on his iourney: it happened that he came vnto Damasus: and sodenly there shyned rounde aboute hym a light from heauen: and he fell to the earth: and herde a voyce which saide vnto hym: Saul Saul: / why persecutest thou me? He sayde: Lorde: who art thou? The Lorde sayde: I am Iesu: whom thou persecutest.
 It shall harde for the to fynde agaynst the pycke. And he bowd tremblinge and aston-nyed: sayde: Lorde: what wilt thou do vnto me? The Lorde sayd vnto hym: Arise: and go vnto the cytie: there shall we tolde the what thou shalt do.

As for the men that iourneyed with hym: they stode: and were amafed: for they herde a voyce: but sawe no man. Saul rose from the earth: and when he had opened his eyes: he sawe sawe no man. Cleuerthelesse / they toke hym by the hande / and brought him to Damasco. And he was there dayes without sight / and B neither dyd eate nor drinke. At Damasco there was a discipule named Ananias / and vnto hym saide the Lorde in a vision: Ananias.

 And he sayde: Beholde / here am I Lorde.
 The Lorde sayde vnto hym: Arise / and go into the strete whiche is called straight / and at a house of Iuda / after one called Saul of Charis: for beholde / he prayeth / a hart sent in a vision a man named Ananias comminge vnto hym / and layinge the hande vpon him / that he myght receaue his sight.

Ananias answered: Lorde / I haue heard by many of this man / how much euel he hath done to thy sanctes at J. rusalem. And here hath he auctorie of the hyghe priestes / to bynde all those that call vpon thy name. The Lorde sayde vnto hym: Go thy way / for this man is a chosen vessel vnto me / that he maye beare my name before the Gentys / and before kinges / and before the chydren of Israel. I will shewe hym / how great thynges he must suffer for my names sake.

And Ananias wente his way / and came into the house / and laud the handes vpon him and sayde: Brother Saul / the Lorde whiche appered vnto thein the way as thou camest / hath sent me / that thou myght receaue thy sight / and be fylled with holy ghoost. And immediatly / there fell from his eyes as it had bene scales / and he receaued his sight / and rose / and was baptysed / and toke meat / and was comforted.

Then was Saul a certayne dayes with the disciples that were at Damasco. And straight waye he preached Christ in the Synagoges / how that he was the sonne of God. But all they that herde him / were amazed and sayde: Is not this he / whiche at Jerusalem speyled all those that called on his name: and came hither to the intent that he shoulde bunge them bounde vnto the hyghe priestes? But Saul increased in strength / and confounded the Jewes whiche dwelt at Damasco / and affirmed that this was very Christ.

And after many dayes the Jewes helde a counsaill together to kyll him. But it was tolde Saul / that they layed waite for him. And he they wayed at the gates daye and nyghte / that they myghte kyll hym. The discipule Jostu toke him by nyghte / and put him thowen the wall / and let hym vouch in a basket.

But when Saul came to Jerusalem / he assayed to ioyne hymselfe to the disciples. And they were all afrayed of hym / and belened not that he was a discipule. Cleuerthelesse / Barnabas toke hym / and brought hym to the Apostles / and tolde them how he had sene the Lorde in the waye / and how he spake to him / and how he had gone boldly at Damasco in the name of Iesu. And he was with them / and went out and in at Jerusalem / and quere him selfe boldly in the name of the Lorde Iesu.
 He spake also / and disputed with the Grekes.
 But they wente aboute to slaye him. Then the brethren knewe that / they brought him to Cesarea / and sent him forth to Charis. So the congregacions had rest thowout all Jerey / and Galile / and Samaria: and were edified / and walked in the feare of the Lorde / and were fylled with the comforte of the holy ghoost.

It chaunced that as Peter walked thowen all quarters / he came also vnto the sanctes whiche dwelt at Lydda. There founde he a man named Encas / whiche had ben vpon his bedde eyght yeres syce of the passye. And Peter sayde vnto him: Encas / Iesus Christ make the whole / arise / and make thy bedde for thy selfe. And he arose immediatly. Marc. a. a. And all they that dwelt at Lydda and at Sarona / sawe hym / and turned vnto the Lorde.

At Joppa there was a certayne woman that was a discipule / named Tabitha / whiche by interpretation is called Dorcas: the same was full of good woikes and amisse dedes / whiche she dyd. But it chaunced at the same tyme that she was sicke / and dyed. Then wash-shed they her / and layed her in a chamber.
 But for so much as Lydda was nye vnto Jop-paly / and the disciples herde that Peter was there / they sent two men vnto him / and des-red him / that he wolde take it for no grece to come vnto them.

Peter rose / and came with them. And when he was come / they brought hym into the chamber /

chamber/and all the wedowes stode rounde aboute him/weping/and showed him the coates a garments/whiche the Lord made whyle he was with them/And when Peter had put the all forth/he kned down/ & made his prayer/ and turned him vnto the body/and sayde: Carhytha/ rise vp. And she opened her eyes: and when she sawe Peter/ she faste her doune againe. But he gaue her the hande / and lifte her vp / and called the sailners and the wedowes / and shewed her there alyfe. And it was thowen thowour all Joppa / and many beleued on the Lord. And it fortuned / that he taried a longer season at Joppa by one Symon / which was a tanner.

The X. Chapter.

A Nthere was a man at Cesarea/ named Cornelius / a captain of the company / which is called the Italiane / a deuout man / and one that feared God with all his house / and gaue muche almsse to the people / and prayed God alway. The same saue in a vision openly (about the nyenth houre of the daye) an angell of God entringe into him / and sayinge vnto hym: Cornelius. He looked vpon hym / and was afrayed / and sayde: Lord / what is it? He sayde vnto hym: Thy prayers and thyne almsse are come vp into remembrance before God / and now sende men vnto Joppa / and call for Symon / whose Synname is Peter / which is at lodginge with one Symon a tanner / whose house lyeth by the see syde: he shall tell the what thou oughtest to do. And when the angell which spake to Cornelius / was departed/ he called two of his household seruantes / and a deuoute souldyer of theirs / that wayned vpon hym / and tolde them all / and sent them to Joppa.

B On the nexte daye after / when these were gone on their iourney / and came nye vnto the cite. Peter / wente vp into a chamber to praye aboute the syete houre. And when he was hungrie / he wolde haue eaten. But whyle they made ready for hym / he fell into a trance / and sawe heauen open / and a vessel comminge downe vnto hym / as it had ben a grece linnen cloth / flynge at the foure corners / and wasler downe to the earth / wherein were all maner foure foed beastes of the earth / and wylde beastes / and weemes / and sooke of the ayre. And there came a voyce vnto hym: Rise Peter/ slaye/ and eat. But Peter sayde: Why no Lord. For I neuer vnto eat any comyn mune / or vncleane thyng. And the voyce saide vnto hym agayne the seconde tyme: What God hath cleysed / that make not thou vncleane. This was done thysfe. And the vessel was receaued vp againe into heauen.

But whyle Peter was combed in hym / he selfe / what maner of vision this shoulde be / whiche he had sene / beholde / the men that were sent from Cornelius / enquired after Cornelius house / and stode before the doore / and called / and asped whether Symon / whose surname was Peter / were lodged there: Whyle Peter was musyng of the vision / the spete sayde vnto hym: beholde / the men seke the. Arise therefore / and get the doune / and go with them: and doubte not / for I haue seyn them.

Then went Peter doune to the men that were sent vnto hym frō Cornelius / and saide: lo / I am he whome ye seke / what is the cause wherfore ye are come. They sayde: Cornelius the captaine / a iust man / and one that feared God / and of good repute amonge all the people of the Jewes / was warned by an holy angell / to sende for the into his house / and to heare wordes of the. Then called he them in / and lodged them.

The nexte daye after / when Peter forth with his company / * and certaine brethren of Joppa bare him company. And the daye followinge came they to Cesarea. Cornelius wayted for them / and called together his kinfolk / and special frendes. And as it chaunced that Peter came in / Cornelius met him / and fell doune at his feet / and worshypped hym. But Peter toke hym vp and sayde: Stande vp / I am a man also. And as he talked with hym / he went in / and founde many that were come together / and he sayde vnto them: Ye knowe that it is not lawfull for a man / byng a Jewe to igne hym selfe / or to come to a stranger. But God hath shewed me / that I shoulde call no man commune or vncleane. Therefore haue I not doubted to come / as soone as I was sent for. I see you therefore / for what intē haue ye sent for me?

Cornelius sayde: It is now foure dayes ago / when fasted I / and at the nyenth houre I spaid in my house / and beholde / there stode a man before me in a brighte clothinge / and saide: Cornelius / thy prayer is herde / a thine almyghty debtes are had in remembraunce in the syghthe of God. Sende therefore to Joppa / and call for one Symon / ( whose sy-name is Peter ) whiche is at lodgyngs in the house of Symon the tanner by the seacyde:

the same whan he cometh / shall speake vnto the. Then sente I vnto the immidialy / and thou haste done well that thou art come. Now are we all here presente be-

( whiche is Lorde ouer all ) whiche preachinge was publishede thovout all Jewey / and beganne in Galile after the baptyne that Ihon preached / howe God wrought the same Iesus of Nazareth with the holy ghoost and with power / whiche wente aboute / and did good / and healed all those that were oppressed of the deuill / so God was with hym.
And we are witness of all that hee dyd in the lande of the Jewes / and at Ierusalem whome they slewe / and hanged on a tree.

1. 13. b And God raised vpon the thirde daye / saythfull of the circumcision whiche came with Peter / were astonnyed / because that the gift of the holy ghooste was shed oure also vpon the Gentyls / for they herde that they spake with tonges / and magnified God.

Then answered Peter: I Waxe any man sayd water / that these shoulde not be baptyzed / whiche haue receaued the holy ghooste as well as we? And he commaunded them to be baptyzed in the name of the Lorde.

The XL Chapter.

The Apostles and the brethren that were in Jewey / herde saye that the Gentyls also had receaued the worde of God. And whan Peter was come vp to Ierusalem / they that were of the circumcission / chode with him / and sayde: Thou wentest into men that are vncircumcised / and balle eaten with them. But Peter beganne / and expounded the thinge in order vnto them / and saide: I was in the cync of Toppa paynging / and in a traunce / I sawe a vision / a vessell commynge downe / as it had bene a greare lynnen cloth / with foure corners / and lette downe from heauen / and came vnto me.
Into the whiche I loked / and considered / and sawe foure footed beastes of the carthe / and wyld beastes / and wormes / and fowles of the ayre. And I herde a voyce / whiche saide vnto me: Rysse Peter / slaye and cate. But I sayde: Whi no Lorde / for there neuer entred any thinge of vncleane thinge into my mouth. Cleuerlyesse / the voyce answered me againe from heauen: What God hath clefnd / that cal not thou vncleane. This was done threr tymes / and all was taken vp agayn into heauen.

And beholde / immediatly stode there thre men before the doore of the house that I was in / sent from Cesarea vnto me. But the firste sayde vnto me / that I shoulde go with them / and doute nothinge. These thre brethren also came with me / and were entred into the mans house.

And he shewed vs / howe he had sene an aungell standinge in his house / whiche sayde vnto hym: Sende me to Toppa / and call for Symon / whose synname is Peter. Hee shall tell the wordes / whereby thou and all thy house shall be saued. But whan J. beganne to speake / the holy ghooste fell vpon them:

Whiche whan he was come thither: a sawe the grace of God: he was glad: and exhorted them all: that with purpose of herte they wolde continue in the Lord. For he was a good man: full of the holy ghoste and faith. And there was a greate multitude of people added vnto the Lord. But Barnabas departed vnto Ephesus / to see Saul. bas and Saul. The XII. Chapter. ¶

At the same tyme layed kynge Herode his hande vpon certayne of the congregacion: to vexe them. As for: James the brother of Iohn: hym he stowe with the sword. And whan he sawe that it pleased the Jewes: he proceeded farther to take Peter also. But it was Easter. Nowe whan he had taken him: he put him in prison: and belueed him vnto foure quarters of soldierye: to kepe him: and thought after Easter to bringe him forth to the people. And Peter was kepte in the prison. But piact was made without ceassing of the congregacion vnto God for hym. And whan Herode wolde haue thought him oute vnto the people: in the same night slepe Peter betwene two soldierye: bounde with two cheynes. And the keepers before the doore kepte the prison.

And beholde: the aungell of the Lord was there present: and a lighte shyned in the habitation: and smote Peter on the syde: and waked him vp: and saide: Arise vp quickly. And the cheynes fell of from his handes. And the aungell saide vnto him. Gydethe: and put on thy shooes. And he dyd so. And he saide vnto him: Cast thy mantle aboute the: and folowe me. And he wente oute: and folowed him: and wist not that it was truly that was done by the aungell: but thoughte he had seene a vision. Neuertheless: they wente thowre the fyssle: and seconde watche: and came to the yron gate: that ledeth vnto the cyyte: whiche opened vnto them by his owne accorde. And they wente oute: and passed thowre one strete: and immediately the aungell departed from him.

And whan Peter was come to him: he sayde: I knowe I knowe of a truth that thou the Lord hast sent him aungell: and deliuered me oute of the hande of Herode: and from all the waitinge for of the people of the Jewes. In And as he considered the thinge: he came to the house of Mary the mother of one Iohn: where many were gathered together: and prayed. As Peter knoed: at the entree doore: there came forth a damelle berken: named Rhoda. And whan the first

Peters voyce / she opened nor the entree for gladnesse / But ranne in / and tolde that Peter stood before the entree. But they sayde vnto her: Thou art madde. Neuerthelesse / she abode by it / that it was so. They sayde: This is his angell. But Peter continued knockinge. When they opened the doore / they sawe hym / and were astonnyed. ¶ But he beckened vnto them with the hande / to holde their peace / and tolde them / howe the Lord had thought him oute of the prison. And he sayde: Shewe this vnto Iames and to the brethren. And he departed / and wente to another place.

¶ When it was daye / there was not a litle do amonge the soldyers / what was become of Peter. When Herode had called for him / and founde him not / he caused the Souldiers to be examined / and commaunded the to be carryed aways / and he wente home from Ierow onto Cesarea / and there abode. But he was displeasid with them of Tyre and Sydon. Neuerthelesse / they came vnto hym with one accorde / and made intercession to Blastus the kyngees chaumberlayne / and besyde peace / because they coulde not be annoyed by the kyngees lande. But vpon a daye appointed / Herode putte on the kyngeis apperill / sat hyme vpon the iudgment seate / and made an oracyon vnto them. As for the people / they cryed there to: This is a voyce of God / and not of man. Immediately the angell of the Lorde smote hym / because he gaue not God the honoure. And he was caryed vp / and receyved / and gaue up the ghooste. But the woode of God grewe and multiplied. As for Barnabas and Saul they came againe to Ierusalem / and valynered the hande reachinge / and toke with them Ihon / whose surname was Marke.

Chr. XIII. Chapter.

¶ There were at Antioche in the congregacion / Prophets and teachers / so Barnabas and Simon called Neger / and Lucius of Cyren / and Manahan Besides the Teachers noneistors / and Saul. And when they were come into the cytie Salamin / they shewed the woode of God in the Synagoges of the Iewes. And they had Ihon to their minister.

¶ And when they had gone throughtout the yle / vnto the cite of Paphos / they founde a cearyne soicerer and false prophet / a Iewe / whose name was Bar Jelu / whiche was the Sergeus Paulus the ruler of the countrey / a man of vnderstandinge. The same called Barnabas and Saul vnto hym / and besyde to heare the woode of God. Then the Iester Herkylmas / so fo was his name by interpretation / was thode them / and soughte to turne awaye the ruler from the faith. But Saul whiche is also called Paul / beinge full of the holy ghoost / loked vpon him / and said: Thou child of the deuell / full of all subtiltye and all deccaryfulness / and enemye of all goodnesse / thou callest not to prouert the straight wayes of the Lord. And nowe beholde / the hande of the Lord commeth vpon the / and thou shalt be thode and not se the Sunne for a season. And immediately there fell on him a myste and barenesse / and he wente aboute / and soughte them that shoulde leade him by the hande. When the ruler sawe what was done / the Seleuc / and wonderd at the doctrine of the Lord.

¶ When Paul and they that were with him / were departed by shippe from Paphos / they came to Perga in the lande of Pamphylia. ¶ But Ihon departed from them / and wente againe to Ierusalem. Neuerthelesse / they wandred thowere from Perga / and came to Antioche in the lande of Pridia / and went in the Synagoge vpon the Sabbath daye / and sat vnto. But after the lecture of the lawe / all of the pophetes / the rulers of the Synagoge sent vnto them sayinge: Good brethren / we haue any sermen to exhorte the people / save on. Then stode Paul vp / and besyde with the hand / that they shoulde holde their peace / and saide.

The XV. Chapter.

Gal. 14. a 1 And there came certayne from Ieruzalem/ and taughte the brethren: 1 Excepte ye be circumcised after the maner of Moyses/ ye can not be saved. 1 Nowe when there rose a dissencion/ and Paule and Barnabas had set them selves harde againste them/ they ordeyned that Paull and Barnabas/ and certayne other of them/ shoulde go vnto Ierusalem vnto the Apostles and elders/ about this question. 1 And they were broughte on theyr waye by the congregacion/ and wente thorow Phenices/ and Samaria/ and declared the conuersacion of the Heithen/ broughte greates ioye vnto all the heithen. 1 When they came vnto Ierusalem/ they were receaued of the congregacion/ and of the Apostles/ and of the elders/ and they tolde howe greates thynges God had done wth them. 1 Then rose there vp certayne of the secte of the Pharisees/ which beleue/ and sayde: They muste be circumcised/ and commaunded to kepe the lawe of Moyses. 1 But the Apostles and elders came togetherr/ to reason vpon this matier.

2 Nowe when there was muche disputing. Peter rose vp/ and sayde vnto them: Ye men and brethren/ knowe that a good whyle ago/ God chose amonge vs/ that the Heithen by my mouthe shoulde heare the worde of the Gospel/ and beleue. 1 And God the knower of hartes bare wytnesse ouer them/ and gaue them the holy ghoost lyke as vnto vs/ and put no difference betwixt vs and them/ and purified their hartes thowse sayth. 1 Nowe therefore/ why tempt ye God/ with layenge vpon the disciples necke the yoke/ which neither our fathers/ nor we were able to beare? 1 But we beleue to be saved thowse the grace of the Lorde Iesu Christ/ lyke as they also. 1 Then all the multitude berde theyr peace/ and gaue audience vnto Paule and Barnabas/ which tolde howe greates tofens and wonders God had done by them amonge the Heithen. 1 Afterwarde when they helde theyr peace/ James stouered and sayde: Ye men and brethren/ hearken vnto me/ Symon hath tolde howe God at the firste visited to recouere a people vnto hye name from amonge the Heithen.

And vnto this agre the wordes of the prophete as it is writen: 1 After this will I returne/ and will bulde againe the Tabernacle of Dauid/ that is fallen downe/ and that which is fallen in decaye thereof/ will I bulde againe/ and will set it vp/ that the residue of men maye see after the Lorde/ and also the Heithen/ vppon whome my name is named/ sayeth the Lorde/ which doeth all thynges. 1 Nowen vnto God are all his workes frain the begynninge of the worlde. 1 Wherefore my sentence is/ that they which be from amonge the Heithen are turned vnto God/ be not dissuspected/ but to werte vnto them/ that they abstayne them selves from filthynesse of Idolatry/ and from strangled/ and bloudes. 1 For Moyses hath of olde tyme in euery cite them that p<sup>re</sup>ach him/ and he is redde in the Synagogues euery Sabbath daye.

And the Apostles and elders with the whole congregacion thought it good to chose out men of them/ and to sende them vnto Antioche with Paule and Barnabas/ namely Iudas/ whose surname was Barsabas/ and Sylas/ which were chiefe men amonge the heithen/ and gaue them letters in theyr handes after this maner.

We the Apostles and elders/ and brethren wythe heath vnto the brethren of the Heithen/ which are at Antioche/ and Syria/ and Cilicia. 1 For so muche as we haue herde that certayne of ourse are departed/ a haue troubled you/ and combed your myndes/ saying: ye muste be circumcised and kepe the lawe/ to whom we gaue no such commaundement/ it semed good vnto vs/ beinge gathered togetherr with one accord/ to chose out men/ and to sende them vnto you/ with ourse beloved Barnabas and Paule/ men that haue tryced their lyues for the name of our Lorde Iesu Christ. 1 Therefore haue we sent Iudas and Sylas/ which shall also tell you the same with wordes. 1 For it pleased the holy ghoost/ a vs/ to laye no charge vpon you/ more then these necessaie pointes. 1 Charge abstain from the offeringes of Idolatry/ and from bloud/ and from strangled/ and from whoredome. 1 In which if ye abstaine youre selves/ ye shall do well. 1 Fare ye well.

When these were sent forth/ they came vnto Antioche/ and gathered the multitude together/ and they were glad of the Epistle. Whā they had red it/ they were glad of that consolaciō. As for Judas and Syllas/ which were prophets also/ they exhorted the brethren with much preaching/ and strenghted them.

When they had tarried there for a season/ they were let go of the brethren in peace vnto the Apostles/ to their standing. Syllas thought it good to hyde there still. But Paul and Barnabas continued at Antioche/ teaching and preaching the worde of the Lord/ with oher many.

After certayne dayes Paul sayde vnto Barnabas: Let vs go agayne/ and visite our brethren thowme all the cytyes wherem we haue shewed the worde of the Lord/ home they do. But Barnabas had gane cunsayll/ that they shoulde take with them Iudow whose name was Marke. Howbeit/ Paul thoughte it mete/ not to take hym with them/ whiche departed from them in Pamphilia / and wente not with them vnto the worke. And so sharp was the stryfe betwene them / that they departed asunder the one from the other / and Barnabas toke Marke vnto hym / and soyled on to Cyprus. But Paule chose Syllas / and departed/ theynge committed of the brethren vnto the grace of God. He wente thowme Syria and Cilicia/ establishinge the congregacions.

HE came vnto Derba and to Lystra/ Hand beholde/ a certayne disciple was there named Timotheus/ the sonne of a Grecish woman/ whiche beloued/ but hys father was a Greke: the same had a good report amonge the brethren of Lystra and Iconium. Paule wolde that the same shoulde go forth with hym/ and toke and circumcised him/ because of the Jewes that were in those quarters. For they knewe all/ that his father was a Greke. But as they wente thowme the cytyes/ they beluiced them the sentence of Kyre/ whiche was concluded of the Apostles at Jerusalem. Then were the congregacions established in the faith/ and increased in numbre daily.

But as they wente thowme Phrygia/ and the lande of Galacia/ they were tseydyden Rom. j. b of the holy ghost/ to preache the worde in Asya. Howbeit/ they came into Mysia/ they purposed to take their iourney into Bithinia/ as the spere sufferd them not.

Whan they had passed Bithonia/ they came vnto Troas. Col. i. e. da/ and there appeared a vision vnto Paul. 1. Pet. i. v. da/ by night/ that there was a man of Macedonia/ and said: Come vnto Macedonia / and brise vs. Whan he had sent the vision / we soughte immediately to go vnto Macedonia/ because the Lord had called vs thither / to preache the Gospill vnto them. Then departed we from Troas/ and came the straight course vnto Samothracia / on the nexte daye to Neapolis/ and from thence to Philippi/ whiche is the chiefe cytye of the lande of Macedonia/ and a fre cytye. In this cytye abode we certayne dayes.

On the daye of the Sabbathes wente we out of the cytye besyde the water / wher men were wonte to praye/ and we sat doune / and spake vnto the woman that resored thither. And a deuoute woman (named Lydia) a seller of purple/ oute of the cytye of Thracia/ heard vs / whose herte the Lord opened/ Job. v. e. that she gaue hede vnto the thynges that Paul spake. Whan she was happye and her housholde/ she besoughte vs / and said: If ye thinke that I beleeve on the Lord/ then come into my house/ and abyde there: And she con- strayned vs.

It fortuned whan we wente to praye/ and prayd that there mete vs a damsell/ whiche had a spere of soothsayinge / and thoughte her i. re. i. v. b. a master and mistress greate vantage wth soothsayinge: the same followed Paul and vs / and cryed and sayde: These men are the seruantes of the most hygh God / whiche shewe vs the waye of saluacion. This dyd she many dayes. But Paul was not content with it / and turned hym about / and sayde vnto the spere: I commaunde the in the name of Iesu Christ that thou departe oute of her. And he departed oute at the same houre.

For he ouercame the T. Jewes myghtely / and thiered openly by the scripture that Iesus was Christ.

The XIX. Chapter. ¶

But it so cometh whā Apollo was at E. that Paul walked thowse the upper coastes / and came to Ephesus / a founde certayne Disciples vnto whome he sayde: How ye receaved the holy ghost / since ye beleued? They sayde vnto hym: We haue not herd whither there be an holy ghost. He said vnto the: Wherewith then were ye baptysed? They sayde: With the baptisme of Iohn. Paul sayde: I Iohn baptysed with the baptisme of repentance / and spake vnto the people that they should beleue on hym / whiche should come after him / that is Iesus / that is the same is Christ. Whā they herde that / they were baptysed in the name of the Lord Iesu. And whā Deule layed the handes on them / the holy ghost came vpon them / and they spake with tongues / and prophesied. And all the men were aboute twelfe.

He went into the Synagoge / and preached boldly thre monethes longe / teaching and geuinge them exhortacions of the kingdom of God. ¶ But whā dyuers were waxed harde heered / and beleued not / and spake out of the woide of the Lawe / before the multitude / he departed from them / and separated the Disciples / and dispatched sharply in the schole of one called Tyrannus. And thys was done two yeres longe / so that all they which dwelt in Asia herde the woide of the Lorde Iesus / both Jewes & Grekes. And God wrought no small miracles by the handes of Paule / so that from bys body there were brought many fine or parietees vnto the sycke / and the diseases departed from the / and the euell spirits wente out of them.

But certayne of the vagabounde Jewes / whiche were couerous / vnderoke to name the name of the Lorde Iesus / ouer those that had euell spirits / and sayde: We charge you by Iesus whome Paule preacheth They were seuen sonnes of one Cecus a Jewe the hygh priest whiche dyd so. The euell spere answered / and sayde: Iesus I knowe / and Paule I knowe / but who are ye: And the man in whome the euell spere was / ranne vpon them / and ouercame them / and call them vnder him / so that they fled out of the same house naked and wounded. This was knowne vnto all the Jewes and Grekes / whiche dwelt at Ephesus / and there fell a feare vpon them all. And the name of the Lorde Iesus was magnified.

TMany of them also that beleeued / came and confessed / and shewed their workes. But many of them that had used curious craftes / thought the boies together / and burne them openly / and they counted the price of them / and founde it of money fifty thousande pons. So myghtly grew the woide of the Lorde / And presulyd.

When this was done / Paul purposed in his mynde to take his iourney towarde Macedonia / and Thracia / and to go to Ierusalem / and sayde: After that I haue ben there / I muste come also. And he sent vnto Macedonia two that ministered vnto hym / Timotheus and Erastus. But he hym self remayned in Asia for a season. And the same tyme there rose no litle / vnto aboute that waye. For a certayne man named Demetrius a goldsmith / whiche made siluer shynes for Diana / and brought them of the craft no small vantage. When he gathered together / a litle selowe workmen of the same occupation / and sayde: Syre / ye knowe that by this craft we haue vantage / and yete and heare / that not onely at Ephesus / but almoste also thowere oute all Asia / this Paule turneth awaye muche people with his persuadings / and sayeth: They be not goddess that are made with handes. Howbeit / it shall not onely bynge our occupacion to this point to be set at naught / but also the temple of greate Diana shall from henceforth be despyed / and her maieste also shall be destroyed / whome neuertheless all Asia / and the world were byppery.

When they herde this / they were full of wrath / cryed out / and sayde: Greate is Diana of the Ephesians. And all the cytie was on a rote / and they rushed in with one assent into the open place / and toke Titus and Aristarchus of Macedonia / Pauls companions. When Paule wolde haue gone in among the people / the viscles suffred hym not. Certaine also of the chief of Asia / whiche were Pauls good frendes sent vnto hym / and besyded him / that he shoulde not passe into the open place. Some cryed one thyng / some another. And the congregacion was out of quiete / and the mosse parte knewe not wherfore they were come together. Some of the people there forth Alexander / when the Jewes thrust him forwards. Alexander beseeched with the hande / and wolde haue given the people an answer. But when they knewe that he was a Jewe / there arose a shoute of all / and eried the space of two houres: Greate is Diana of the Ephesians.

When the rounde clerke had stilled the people / he sayde: Ye men of Ephesus / what man is it which knoweth not / that the cytie of the Ephesians is a worshyper of the greate goddess Diana / of the heauyly image? Seynge now that this can not be faide agaynst / ye ought to be contente / as to do nothinge without aduisement. Ye haue brought hyther these men / whiche are neyther churchrobbers / nor blasphemers of youre goddess.

But if Demetrius and they that are craftesme with him / haue ought to saye vnto any man / the lawe is open / and there are rylis / let them accuse one another. But if ye will go aboute in any other thyng / it maye be berayned in a lawfull congregacion. For we stande in company / to be accused of this waye of yourre / and yete is there no man gyltye / of whom we myght geue a rekenyng of this vppoure. And when he seide this / helet the

But we wente afore into the shyppe / and wode him selfe go on foote. Whan he was come to vs vnto Asson / we toke him in / a came to Mytilene/ and sayled frd thence / and came on the nexte daye ouer agaynst Chios / and on the daye folowynge we arryued at Samos / and taried at Tragusion / and on † nexte daye came we to Miletion : for Paul had determined to sayle ouer by Ephesus / that he neded not to spende the tyme in Asia : † for he had sayled to be at Jerusalem vpon the Whysmondas / if it were possible for hym.

But from Miletion he sente vnto Ephesus / and called for the Elders of the cōgregation.
 Whan they were come to hym / he sayde vnto them : Ye knowe / since the first daye † that I came into Asia / after what manner I haue ben with you at all tyme / and serued the Lorde with all humblenes of mynde / and with many teares and temptacions / which happened vnto me / by the layngte of waste of the Jewes / how that I haue kepte backe nothinge that was profitable / but that I haue shewed you / and taught you openly and piuarly sedd house and to the Grekes / † the repentance towarde God / and sayth to warde our Lord De Iesus.

And now beholde / I go bounde in † spete vnto Jerusalem / not knowynge what shall happē there vnto me / but that the holy ghoost † witnesseth in euery cite / a sayth / that ban-garde none of them / neyther counte I my life deareer then my selfe / that I maye fullyll my course with ioye / and the office that I haue re-ceaued of the Lorde Iesu / to witness the Gos-pellof the grace of God.

And now beholde / I knowe that ye shall see my face nomore / al ye / thowoe whome I haue gone / and preached † the yngowde of God.
 Wherefore I take you to recorde this daye / † that I am pure from the bloude of all men for I haue kepte nothinge backe / but haue shewed you all the counsayll of God. Take hede therefore vnto youre selves / and to all the flocke / amonge the which the holy ghoost hath set you to be Bischoppes / to fede the congregation of God / whiche he hath purchased thowoe hys owne bloude. For this I knowe / † that after my departinge there shall enter in amonge you greuous wolues / whiche shall not spare the flocke. Yee / euen * from amonge your owne selves shall men arise / speakinge peruerse Doctryne / to shame the goodes after them. Therefore awake / and remember / that by the space of thre yeres / I ceased not to warne euery oue of you / both nyghte and daye with teares.

E And now brethren / I comende you vnto to God / and to the worde of hys grace / whiche is myghty to chyfye you / and to geue you en-hentance amonge all them that are sanctified: I haue not desired siluer / golde / or ray-ment of any of you. for ye your selues knowe that these bandes haue ministered vnto my necessities / and them that were with me. I haue shewed you all thynges / howe that so la-bourynges ye ought to receaue f weakes / and to remember the worde of the Lorde / howe that he sayde. It is more blessed to geue / then to receaue.

And whā he had sayd this / he kneled downe / and prayed with them all. But there was much wepyng amonge the all / and they fell aboute Pauls necke / and kysed him / and were foyr / moof of all because of the worde / whiche he had sayde / that they shoulde se hys face no more. And they accompanysd hym vnto the shyppe.

The XXI. Chapter.

When it fortuneth that we had laun-dred forth / and were departed from thē / we came with a straught course vnto Coos / a on the Daye followinge vnto Rhodes / and fro thence vnto Patara. And when we founde a shyp readye to saile vnto Phenicia / we went aboarde / and set forth. But whā we came with in the sighte of Cyprus / we leste it on the left hande / and sayed vnto Syria / and came vnto Tyre: for there the shyppe shoulde laye forth the warr. And whā we had founde disciples / we taried there seuen Dayes. I And then tolde Paul thosue the spete / that he shoulde not go vp to Jerusalem. And it fortuneth whā he had fulfilled those Dayes / we departed a wēre our wayes / a they all broughte vs our waye with wyfes and chyldren / tyll we were come oute of the citty: and we kneled downe vpd the stone / and prayed. And when we had taken our leaue one of another / we toke ship / but they turned agayne vnto tyre. As for vs we ended the course from Tyre / and came to Ptolemaide / and saluted the brethren / a abode with them one Daye.

On the nexte Daye we that were with Paul departed / and came vnto Cesarea / and entred into the house of T Philippe the Euangelist / (whiche was one of the seuen) / and abode with him. These same had foure daughters / whiche were virgins / and prophetic. And soe varied there no Dayes / there came Sounte from Jewry a prophet / named T Agabus. When he came vnto vs / he toke Pauls girdel / and bounde his handes and feet / and sayde: Thus sayeth the holy ghoost: T The man whose girdel thou is / shall the Jewes binde thus at Jerusalem / and shall deliuer hym into the han-des of the Heythen. When we herde this / both we and they that were of the same place / besoughte hym / that he wolde not go vp to Jerusalem. Then answered Paul and saide: What do ye wepyng / and discomfyng me heret: for I am ready not onely to be bounde / but also to dye at Jerusalem: for the name of the Lorde Jesu. But when he wolde not be perswaded / we ceased / and sayde: T The Man. x. v. j. will of the Lorde be fulfilled. And after that: Dayes we were ready / and wente vp to Jerusalem. There came with vs certayne of the disciples of Cesarea / and brought with them one of Cypris / named Mnason / an olde disciple / with whosme we shoulde lodge.

 Now when we came to Jerusalem / the brethren receaued vs gladly. But on the next Daye Paule wente in with vs vnto Iames / and all the Elders came togethe. And when he had saluted them / he tolde by order / what God had done amonge the Heythen / by his ministracion.

When they herde that / they prayed the Lorde / and sayde vnto him: Brother / thou sayst how many thousande Jewes there are which beleue / and are all zealous enter the lawe.
 But they are enfourmed of the / that thou teachest all the Jewes / whiche are amonge the Heythen / to forsake Mosco / and sayll that they ought not to circumsise their chyldren / nor to walke after the same custome. What is it therefore: The multitude must needs come together: for they shall heare that thou art come.
 So they therefore that we saye vnto the: We haue foure men whiche haue a T wote on the / take them vnto the / and purifie thy selfe with them / and do the cost vnto them: that they maye shewe their beades / and they shall knowe that it is nothinge / wherof they are inforand keptst the lawe. for as touchyng them

He sayde: The God of oure fathers hath ordeyned the before / that thou shouldest knowe hys wysd / and se the thynges that is ryghtfull / and heare the voyce out of his mouth: for thou shalt be hys witness vnto all men of the thynges whiche thou hast seene & herd. And now wylt thoue tryste / and be baptysed / and washe away thy synnes / and I call vpon the name of the Lorde.

But it forned / that when I was come agayne to Ierusalem / and prayed in the temple / I was in a trance / and sawe him. He sayde he vnto me: Make hast / and get the soone out of Ierusalem: for they wyl not receaue the witness that thou bearest of me. And I saide: Lorde / they them selues knowe that I put in payson / and here in euery Synagoge them that beliened on the. And when the bloude of Steuen his witness was shed / I stode by also / and consented vnto his death / and kept the clothes of them that slewe hym. And he sayde vnto me: Wo thy waye / for I wyl sende the farr amonge the Genten.

They gaue him audience vnto this word / and lyft vp their voyces / and sayde: Away with such a fellowe from the earth / for it is not reason that he should lue. But as they cryed / a cast of their clothes / a thynge fell into the ayre / the captayne had bunge hym into the castell / and commaunded hym to be beaten with robes / and to be examined / that he myght knowe / for what cause they cryed so vpon hym. And when he bounde him with thonges / Paul sette vnto the vndercaptayne that stode by: Iourislawfull for you to scourge a man that is a Romayne / and vncondempned: When the vndercaptayne herde that he wote to the vndercaptayne / and tolde hym and sayde: What wilt thou do: This man is a Romayne. Then came the vndercaptayne / and sayde vnto him: Tell me / art thou a Romayne: He sayde: Yea. And the vndercaptayne answered: With a greete summe of payned I thys freedom. But Paul sayde: Do for me / I am a Romayne borne. Then they that waye departed from hym / they that shoulde haue examined hym. And the cheefe captayne was affrayed / when he knewe that he was a Romayne / and because he had bounde hym. On the nexte daye wolde he knowe the certaynte wherfore he was accused of the Iewes / and he lousyd hym from the bandes / and commaunded the hygge Diacenes / and all their counsayll to come together / and brought Paul forth / and set him amonge them.

The XXIII. Chapter.

Paul behelde the counsayll / and sayde: Ye men and brethren. I haue liued with all good conscience before God vnto thys daye: But the hygge Diacene Ananias commaunded them that stode aboute him / to smyte hym on the mouth. Then sayde Paul vnto hym: God shall smyte the thou painted wall: I wyl test thou and iudgest me after the lawe / and commaunde me to be synnyer contrary to the lawe: And they that stode aboute hym / sayde: Knowest thou Gods hygge Diacene: And Paul sayde: Brethren / I wyl not that he was the hygge Diacene. For it is written: The ruler of the people shall not curse. But when Paul knewe that the one parte was Saducees / and the other parte Pharisees / he cried out in the counsayll. Ye men and brethren / I am a Pharise / and the some of a Phil. A Pharise. Of hope and resurrection of the dead am I iudged. And when he had so said / there arose a dyffencion betwene the Pharisees and the Saducees / and the multitude was divided: for the Saducees saye that there is no resurrection / neyther aunsel / nor spere / but the Pharisees graunte both. And there was made a greate crye. And the Sergey of the Pharisees scize stode vp / and stroue / and saide: We fynde no euill in thys man. But if a spere / or an angel haue spoken vnto him / let us not stryue agaynst God.

But when the dyffencion was greate / the vndercaptayne feared / that Paul shoulde haue ben pluckt asunder of them / and commaunded the souldyers to go home / and to take hym from them / and to bunge him into the castell. But in the nyghte followinge / the Lorde stode by hym / and saide: Be of good cheare and rest. For as thou hast testified of me at Ierusalem / so must thou testifye at Rome also. Nowe when it was daye / certaine of the Iewes gathered them selues together / and made a voyce / neyther to care nor to feare: yll they had kylled Paul. They were more then fortye/ whiche had made this conspiracion. These came to the byghe Dukes and Elders/ and sayde: We haue bounde oure selves with a vowe / that we will eate nothinge / tyll we haue slaine Paul. Now therefore geue ye knowlege to the oppercaptaine and to the counsayll / that he maye bringe hym forth vnto you to morowe/ as though ye wolde heare hym yet better: As for we/ we are ready to kyll hym/ or euer he come nye you.

C But when Pauls sisters sonne herde of their layinge awaye/ he came/ and entred into the castel/ and tolde Paule. So Paul called vnto hym one of the vndercaptaines / and sayde: Bringe this yonge man to the oppercaptaine/ for he hath somwhat to saye vnto him. He toke hym / and brought hym to the oppercaptaine/ and sayde: Paul the wysman called me vnto hym/ and prayed me to bringe to the this yonge man/ whiche hath somwhat to saye vnto the. Then the byghe captaine toke hym by his hande/ and wente ashyde with hym out of the waye/ a sped him: What is it / that thou hast to saye vnto me? He sayde: The Iewes are agreed together to desyre the / to let Paule be broughte forth to morowe before the counsayll/ as though they wolde heare him yet better. But followe not than they mynde / for they laye waye for hym/ in thre forty men of them/ whiche haue bounde them selves with a vowe / neyther to eate nor drinke / tyll they haue slayne Paul: and euen now are they redye / and loke for thy promys.

Then the oppercaptaine let the yonge man departe / and charged him to tell noman / that he had shewed hym this. And he called vnto hym two vndercaptaines / and sayde: Make ready two hundred souldyers/ that they maye go to Cesarea/ and the score and ten housmen/ and two hundred spare men at the thirde houre of the nyght / and deliuer them bestes/ that they maye set Paule thereon/ and bringe hym safe to Celys the Debire/ and he wrote a letter on this maner.

C Claudius Lysias/ vnto the most myghty Debire Felix/ greetinge. The Iewes had taken this man / and wolde haue slayne hym. Then came I with souldyers/ and rescued hym/ and perceaued that he is a Roman. And when I wolde haue knowen the cause / wherfore they accused hym. I brought him into their counsayll: then perceaued I / that he was accused aboute questions of their lawe. But there was no accusation worthy of death/ or of bondes. And when it was shewed me this certayne / I was layed waye for him / I sent hym straight waye vnto the / and commaunded the accusers also / that loke what they had agaynst hym/ they shoulde tell the same before the Sar: well.

The souldyers (as it was commaunded) toke Paule/ and broughte him to Antipatras. But on the next daye/ they left the housmen to go with him / and turned agayne to the castil. When these came to Cesarea / they deliuered the letter vnto the Debire / and presented Paule before him also. When the Debire had red the letter/ he asked of what countrey he was. And when he vnderstode that he was of Cilicia/ he said: I will heare the / when thine accusers are come also. And he commaunded him to be kepte in Herodes iudgement house.

The XXXIII. Chapter.

After sune dayes / the byghe prieste Ananias came thence with the Elders / and with the oratore Tertullus / whiche appeared before the Debire agaynst Paule. When Paule was called forth/ Tertullus beganne to accuse hym/ and sayde: Seyinge that we lue in great pece by the means of the / and that many good thinges are done for this people by thy prouidence (most myghty Felix) that alowe we euer / and in all places / and with all shankes. Notwithstandinge / that I be nomore tedious vnto the / I praye the / that of thy curtesye thou woldest heare vs a fewe wordes.

We haue founde this man a pestilence fellowe / and a stirrer vp of sedicion amonge at the Iewes / that he wrought all the wilde / and a mynner of the secte of the Nagaretes / and he had taken in hande also to suspende the Temple / whome we take / and welde haue iudged him accordinge to our lawe. But Lysias the byghe captaine came vpon vs / and with greite violence deliuered hym out of oure handes / and commaunded his accusers to come vnto the / of whome (if thou wilt mourne) thou maist haue knowledge of all these thinges wherof wherof we accuse him. The Jewes likewise affirmed and saide that it was euill so.

But Paul (whan the Debyre had beseeched vnto hym / that he shoulde speake) answered: Myngre I knowe that thou hast ben vnto noue many yeares amonge this people / I wyl not be strayed to answer for my selfe / because thou mayest knowe that there are yett remaue but twelfe dayes / sence I came vp to Jerusalem to woorshyppe / and that they nether founde me in the Temple disputinge with any man / or makinge any piousse amonge the people / nor in the Synagogas / nor in the cytie / nether can they proue the thinge / wherof they accuse me. But this I confesse vnto the / that after this waye / whiche they call heresy / so woorshyppe I the God of my fathers / that I beleue all that is wrytten in the lawe / and in the prophetes / and haue bene towarde God / that I the same referenceon of the dead / whiche they them selfes loke for also / shalbe God of the iuste and vniuste. Therefore Iudge I to haue alwaye a cleare conscience towards God and towards men.

But after many yeares / I came and thoughte almoste vnto my people / and offered: wherupon they founde me purysfyed in the Temple withoute any maner rancoure / or vniquenesse. Howbeit / there were certayne Jewes oute of Asia / whiche shoulde be here presente before the / and accuse me / if they had oughte againste me: or els let these same here saye / if they haue founde any vnrightheousnesse in me / whiche I stand here before the counsaill: excepte it be for this one wyde that I cryed standinge amonge them: Whof the resurrection of the dead / am I iudged of you this daye.

Whan Felix heerde this / he deferred thim for hee meere very well of that waye / and sayde: Whan Lylian the vppre-prayne cometh hounce / I wyl enquire oute your matter. But he commaunded the vnder a captaine to kepe Paul / and to let hym haue rest / and that he shoulde forbidde none of his acquaintance to minister vnto him / or to come vnto him.

But after certayne dayes came Felix with his wyfe Drusilla / whiche was a Jewesse called for Paul / and herde him of the faith of Christ. Howbeit / whan Paul spake of rightheousnesse / of chastyete / and of the iudgment to come. Felix trembled and answered: So thy waye for this tyme: Whan I haue a conuenient tyme / I wyl sende for the. He hoped also / that money shoulde haue ben gyven him of Paule / therfore called he ofte for him / and commaunded with him. But after two yeares came Pontus Festus in his rounce. Yet Felix wyllynge to shewe the Jewes a pleasure / kept Paul bounde.

The XXV. Chapter.

Whan Festus came into the countrey / ouer the dayes he wente vp from Cesarea to Jerusalem. Then appeared the high priestes / and the chief of the Jewes before him against Paule / as intruced him / and desired fauoure against him / that he wolde sende for him to Jerusalem / and laye charge for him / that they might slay him by the waye. Then answered Festus / that Paule shoulde be kepte at Cesarea / but that he him selfe wolde shortly go thither againe. Let them therfore (saide he) whiche are able anoyge you / come hounce with you to accuse the man / if there be ought in him.

Whan he had rariid amonge them more then ten dayes / he wente hounce to Cesarea. And on the nexte daye he sat hounce in the iudgement seate / and commaunded Paul to be brought. Whan he was come / the Jewes whiche were come doune from Jerusalem / stode rounde aboute him / and brought many a greuous quarels against Paul / whiche they could not proue / while he answered for him selfe: I haue nether offended ought against the lawe of the Jewes / nor against the temple / nor against the Emperoure.

But Festus wyllynge to shewe the Jewes a pleasure / answered Paul / and sayde: Wilt thou go vp to Jerusalem / and there be iudged of the thynges before me? But Paul sayde: I stande: the Emperours iudgemente seate: where I ought to be iudged: to the Jewes haue I done no harme / as thou also knowest very well. If I haue hurte any man / or committed any thynge worthy of death / I refuse not to dye. But if there are no such thynges / as they accuse me of then maye no man deliuer me onto them: I appeal vnto the Emperoure. Then spake Festus with the Counsaill/ and answered: Thou hast appealed vnto the Emperoure/ so the Emperour shall thou go.

Act. xxij. a

After certayne dayes came kynge Agrippa/ and Bernyce to Cesarea to welcome Festus/ and when they had taryed there many dayes: Festus reheard Pauls cause vnto the kynge/ and saide: † There is a man lesse quesses and libers of the Jewes appeared before me when I was at Jerusalem/ and desired a sentence against him. Vnto whome I answered: † It is not the maner of the Romaynes to deliuer any mā that he should persue/ before that he whiche is accused/ haue his accusers present/ and receaue libertye to answer for him selfe to the accusation. When they were come thither together/ I made no delaye/ but sat the next day in iudgements/ and commaunded the man to be brought forth. † Of whome/ when the accusers shode vp/ they brought no accusation of such things as I supposed: but had certayn questions against him of their own persuasions/ and of one Iesus dead/ whome Paul affirmed to be alive. Howbeit/ because I vnderstode not the question/ I asked hym whether he wolde goe at Jerusalem/ and there be iudged of these matters. But when Paul had appealed/ that he myghte be kepte vnto the knowledge of the Emperoure. I commaunded him to be kepte: yet I mighte sende him so the Emperoure.

Act. xxij. b and xxij. c

Agrippa sayde to Festus/ I wolde saine heare the man also. He sayde: To morowe shalt thou heare him. And on the next daye came Agrippa and Bernyce with greate pompe/ and wrote in the commune hall with the captaynes and chiefe men of the cytie. And et Festus commaundement/ Paul was broughte forth. And Festus sayde: Kynge Agrippa/ and all ye men/ which are here with me/ see this man/ aboute whome of the multitude of the Jewes haue entreated me/ both at Jerusalem and here also/ and cryed that he ought not to lye any longer. But when I perceived that/ I he had done nothyng worthy of death/ and that he him selfe also had appealed vnto the Emperoure. I determined to sende him/ of whome I haue no certayne thinge to write vnto my Lord. Therefore haue I caused him to be thoughte forth before you: specially before the Q. Kynge Agrippa/ that after examination had/ I mighte haue somwhat to write. For me thinket an unreasonable thinge to sende a prisoner/ and not to betwe the causes whiche are layed against him.

The XXXVI. Chapter.

Agrippa sayde vnto Paul: Thou haste I please to speake for thy selfe. Then Paul stretched forth the hande/ and answered for hym selfe: I thinke my selfe/ O kynge Agrippa/ because I shall answer this daye before the/ of all the thinges wherof I am accused of the Jewes: specially for so muche as thou arte expert in all customes/ and questions whiche are amonge the Jewes. Wherefore I beseeche the/ to heare me patiently.

My lyuinge truly from youth vnto how it was led from the beginninge amonge this people at Jerusalem/ I knowe all the Jewes/ whiche knowe me afore at the first/ if they wolde refuse/ for after the most strait secte of oure Jewes/ he lawe/ I lyued a Pharise. † And nowe stande I/ and am iudged/ because of the hope of the promise/ I was made partaker of/ with oure fathers/ vnto whiche promise/ we receiue our owre selfe hope to come first/ and to see the face of God instantli daie and night. For the promise whiche hope I haue/ O kynge Agrippa/ I am accused of the Jewes. Wherefore this iudgement among you not to be deliuered/ that God hath raised vp the dead.

I also verely thoughte by my selfe/ that I oughte to do many contrary thinges cleane against the name of Iesus of Nazareth/ whiche I had at Jerusalem/ when I shut vp many sayntes in prison/ whereupon I receiued authorite of the byghe priestes. And when they shoulde be put to death/ I broughte the sentence. And throughe all the Synagoges/ I punished them of sinne/ compelled them to blispheme/ and was createdinge made vpon them/ and persecuted the cytye vnto strange cyties. Aboute whiche thinges as I wente towarde Damascus with with authoritye an licence of the byghe iustices/when as the myddayes of Synagge. I sawe in the waye/that a byghe from heauen cleare then the byghynesse of the Sunne/ shyned rounde aboute me/ and them that surrounded with me.

But when we were all fallen downe to the earth/ I herde a voyce speaking vnto me/ and sayinge in Hebrew: Saul/ Saul why persecutest thou me? It shalbe harde for the to byste agaynst the pycke. But I sayde: Lorde who art thou? He sayde: I am Jesus/whom thou persecutest. But rise vp/ and stande vpon thy feet/ for therefore haue I appeared vnto the/that I myghte ordeyne the to be a minister/ and winniffe of it that thou hast feyn/ and that I will yett cause to appeare vnto the. And I will deliuer the from the people/ and from the Hebrewes/ as amonge whome I will nowe sende the/ to open their eyes/ that they maye turne from the darkenesse vnto the light/ and from the power of the death vnto God/ that they maye receiue forgiveness of synnes/ and the inheritance with them that sanctified by faith in me.

Wherfore (O kynge Agrippa) I was not faryblisse vnto the heauently vision/ but shewed it synne vnto them at Damascus/ and at Ierusalem/ and in all the castles of Jewrye/ and to the Hebrewes/ that they shoulde be to penance/ and turne vnto God/ and to do righte woorkes of penance. for this cause the Jewes toke me in the temple/ and wente aboute to kill me. But thowte the helpe of God sente vnto me/ I stande vnto this daye/ and resisthe both vnto small and great/ and saye none other thyng/ then that the prophetes haue sayde/ that it shoulde come to passe/ and Moses: that Christe shoulde suffer/ and be the synne of the resurrection from the dead/ and shewe light vnto the people/ as to the Hebrewes.

When he thus answered for hym selfe. Festus sayde with a loude voyce: Paul thou art besides thy selfe/ muche learninge maketh the madde. But Paul sayde: I am not madde/ (moost beare Festus. but speake the woordes of trouth and sobernesse: for the kynge knoweth this well/ vnto whome I speake freely. for I thinke that none of these thynges is hid from him: for who was not borne in a corner. Welcomst thou the Prophetes: O kynge Agrippa: I knowe that thou belouest. Agrippa sayde vnto Paul: Thou persuadest me in a parte to becomee Christian. Paul sayde: I woloe to God/ that not onely in a parte/ but altogether/ I myghte persuade not the onely/ but all them that heare me this daye/ to be suche as I am/ these bondes excepte. And when he had spoken this/ the kynge rose vp/ and the Syrtre/ and Bernice/ and they that sat with them/ and wente asyde/ and called together and sate. This man hath done nothinge that is worthy of death or of bondes. But Agrippa and Festus sayde vnto Festus: This man mighte haue ben letted/ if he had not appealed vnto the Emperoure.

The XXVIII. Chapter.

When it was concluded that we shoulde sayle into Italy. They desired Paul and certayne other prisoners to the vndercaptayne named Julius/ of the Emperours souldyeres. And when we were entred into a shyppe of Adramite to sayle by Asia/ we launched from lande. And there was with vs one Aristarchus oute of Macedonia of Colof. a Thessalonica/ and on the nexte daye we came vnto Sydon. And Julius curreated Paul currouslly/ and gaue hym libertie to go to his frendes/ and to refresh the hym selfe. And from thence launched we/ and sayled harde by Cyprus (because the wyndes were agaynst vs) and sayled ouer the see of Cilicia and Pamphilia/ and came to Myra in Lycia.

And there the vndercaptayne founde a shyppe of Alexandria/ ready to sayle into Italy/ and put vs therein. And when we had sayled slowly/ and in many dayes/ were scarcely come ouer agaynst Cyprus/ for the wynde withstode vs/ we sayled in Landy/ nye vnto the citty of Salms/ and came scarcely beyonde it. Then came we to a place whiche is called Woodhauen/ nye where vnto was the citty Lausa. Nowe when mynde tyme was spent/ and saylinge was nowe scoperdus/ because that they also had selded ouerlong Paul/ they toke hym/ and sayde vnto hym: Cypr

The Actes of the Apostles.

Ife that this sayling wyl be with hurte and much damage/not onely of the lading and of the shyppe/ but also of oure lyfe.

B Then they were sayd by the vndercapayne becaused the gouernoure of the shyppe / and the master / more then it that was spoken of Paull. And for so much as the haven was not cominobious to wynter in the more part of them toke counsaill to departe thence / if by any meanes they mighte come to Phoenices to wynter there / whiche is an haue of Canby towards the South west / and North west wynde . When the South wynde blew / they supposyng to haue had theyr purpose / lousid vnto Tison / and sayed paste all Canby .

But not longe after / they arose againste theyr purpose a flowe of wynde / whiche is called North east . And when the shyppe was caught / and coude not resiste the wynde / wether let her go / and boue with the wether . But we came to an Ile / named Claudia / where we coude scarce get a bore . Whiche they toke vp / and vied helpe / and bounde it vnder harte to the shyppe / staringe / lest / they shoulde haue fallen into the Sytes / and let boue the vessell / and so were carryed . And when we had bidden a great tempest / on the nexte daye they made an ouercastinge . And on the thirde daye with oure owne handes we cast out the raielynge of the shyppe . But when nyghte Sunne / no starres appeared in many dayes / and no small tempest laye vpon vs / all the hope of oure lyfe was taken awaye .

C And after longe abstinence / Paule stode forth in the myddes of them / and sayde : Syte / ye shoulde haue hearkened vnto me / and not to haue lousid from Canby / and not to haue brought vs this harme and losse . And now I exhortie you to be of good cheare / for there shall none of oure lyfes perishe / but the shyppe onely .

For this nyghte stode by me the aungell of God / whose I am / and whome I serue / and sayde : Feare not Paull / / for thou muste be brought before the Emperoure . And lo / God hath geuen vnto the all them that sayle with thee . Wherefore / sitte be of good cheare : for I beleue / God / that is / shall come so to passe / as it was tolde me . F Howbeit / we must be cast in Sea / to a certayne glande .

But when the fourteenth nyghte came / as we were carryed in Adua aboute myd nyghte / the shypmen deemed that there appeared some countre vnto them / and they caste oute the leade / and founde it twenty foddoms : and when they were gone a litle farther / they caste oute the leade againe / and founde fyftene foddoms .

Then fearinge / lest / they shoulde fall on some rocke / they caste foure anchors oute of the sterne / and wrythed for the daye . When the shypmen were aboute to flye oute of the shyppe / and let boue the bore in the see / vnder a coloure as though they wolde caste anchors oute of the fore shyppe / Paule sayde vnto the vndercapayne and to the souldiers : Excepte these thre be in the shyppe / ye can not be saued . Then the souldiers cutte of the rope from the bore / and let it fall . And when it beganne to be daye / Paull / reborned them all to take meate / and sayde : To daye is the fourteenth daye / that ye haue taryed / and continued fastiuge / and haue receaued nothinge : Wherefore I praye you take meate for your health : For there shall not one beere fall from the heade of any you . And when he had thus spoken / he toke breade / and gaue thanks vnto God before them all / and brake it / and beganne to eate . Then were they all of good cheare / and toke meate also . We were altogether thre in the shyppe two hundred / thre score and fyftene soules . And when they had eaten ynough / they lyghtened the ship / and cast out the rebate into the see .

When it was daye / they knewe nor the lande . But they spied an haue with a Banke / into whiche they were mynided / / if it were possible / to thaul in the shyppe . And when they had taken vp the anchors / they committed them selues to the see / and lousid the ruder bandes / and hysed vp the maine sayle to the wynde / and due towards the lande . And when we chanced on a place / which had the see on both the sydes / the shyppe fasthed vpon it . And the fore part abode full vnto much / but the hinder parte brake / spowne the violence of the watter .

The souldiers counsaill was to kyll the prisoners / prisoners/self/ any of the whan he had strym med oute/shoulde theye awaye. But the vnder captayne willinge to saue Pauls/kepeth them from theyr purpose / and commaunded that they whiche coulde swimme / shoulde caste them selles fyfte into the see / and escape on lande / and the other / some on boordes/some on broken peeces of the shyppe. And so it came to passe/that al the soules came safe vn to lande.

The XXVIII Chapter.

And whā we were escaped/ we knew that the Ile was called Melite. So for the people they beheard vs no litle fyndnesse/for they fyndled a fyre / and receaued vs al be cause of the rayne that was come vpon vs/and because of the colde. Whan Paul had gathered a bonnell of fyfkes/and layed them on a fyre/there came a vyper out of the beate/and lepte on Pauls hande. Whan the people sawe the beast hange on his hande/ they saide amonge them selues. This man must needs be a neurtherer/whome vengeance suffereth not to lyue/though he haue escaped the see.

But he spake of the beast into the fyre / and felt no harme. Howbeit / they wayted whā he shoulde haue swollen/ or fallen downe dead soderly. But whan they had looked a greate whyle/ & sawe that there happened no harme vnto him / they chainged their mindes / and saide / that he was a God.

In the same quarters the chiefe man of the Ile/whose name was Publius / had a lord shyppe/whiche receaued vs / and lodged vs the dayes curteously. It fortuned whan Pu blius father laye sicke / of the sewere and of the stonny fluxe : Paul wente in vnto hym/and prayed / and layed the handes on hym/and healed him.

B Whan this was done/other also which had sycknes in the Ile/came and were healed.
And they gā vs greate honoure. And whan we departed/they laded vs with thynges ne cessary.

After this monethes we sailed in a shyppe of Alexandria/whiche had went in the Ile/and had a charge of Castor/and Pollux. And whan we came to Syracuse/ we tarped there the dayes: and whan we had sayled aboute/we came to Rhegium after one daye whan the South wynd blew / we came to Purco lia/where we founde Sicilian/ and were be sied of them to tarye there seuen dayes / and so came we to Rome. And from thence whā the Berthien herde of vs / they came forth to Aca. xv. a mete vs to Apisoum / and to the the nauere nes. Whan Paul sawe the Berthien God/a worded bold. But whan we came to Rome/the vndercaptayne deliuered the prisoners to the chiefe captain. And for Paul/ he had leaue to syde alone with one seuldier that kepte and pꝛo. a

a hym.

After the dayes it fortuned that Paul cal led the chiefe of the Jewes together. And whan they were come/ he saide vnto them: Ye men and Berthien: I haue committed no thinge against oure people/ nor against the la wes of the fathers / yet was I bounde/ deli uered oute of Ierusalem into the Romaines handes: which whan they had examined me/wolde haue let me go / for so muche as there was no cause of death in me. But whan the Jewes spake the contrary / I was constrain ned to appeale vnto the Emperoure: nor as though I had ought to accuse my people: of for this cause haue I called you/ & to you/and to speake with you: because that I for the hope of Israel/ I am bounde with this chain.
and pꝛo. a

They saide vnto him: We haue neuer recea ued letter out of Ieremye/ concurringe the me ther came there any of the Berthien / that shew ed vs: spake any harme of the. But we will heare of the what thou thinkest: for we haue herde of this sect/ that cury where there is sp fen against. And whan they had appointed him a daye/ there came many vnto him in his lodginge: vnto whome he expounded the kingdome of God: and preached vnto them of Iesus/ out of the lawe of Moyses/ and oure of the prophetes/ euen from morninge vntill the euen: And some beleued the thinge that he saide/ but some beleued not.

But whan they agreed not amonge them selues/ they departed/ whan Paul had spoken one word: Iul well hath the good hooly spo ken by the prophet Esaye vnto oure fathers/and saide: Go vnto this people/ & saye: I wish

Paul the seruant of Iesu Christi/ called an apostle/ I put a part to preache the Gospel of God (whiche he promised afore by his prophetes in the holy scriptures) of his son/ whiche was begotten of the sode of Dauid after the flesch/ and mightely declared to be the sonne of God after the spete which saies/ yeshu/ since the tyme that he rose againe from the dead/ namely/ Iesus Christ oure Lorde/ by whome we haue receaued grace and Apostellshyppe amonge al Heythen/ to set vpon the obediencc of faith vnder his name/ of whome ye are a parte also/ whiche are called of Iesu Christ I. To al you that be at Rome/ Beloued of God/ and sanctured by callinge. ¶ Grace be with you/ and peace from God oure father/ and the Lorde Iesus Christ.

¶ I thank my God thowwe Iesu Christe for you all/ that youre sayth is spoken of thowwout all the worlde. For God to my wittnesse (I whome I serue in my Iob) spete in the Gospell of his sonne/ that with a cleare oute callinge I make mencyon of you/ & be I praye/ that I myghte once haue a prosperous iourney/ (by the weyll of God) to come vnto you. For I long to se you/ I mighte bestow vpon some spiritual gyfte to strengthe you (that is) that I myghte be comforted with you/ thowwe youre sayth and myne/ whiche we haue together.

But I wolde ye shoulde knowe (herthen) howe that I haue oftentimes purposed to come vnto you/ (but haue ben let hereto) In that I myghte do some good amonge you/ like as amonge other Gentiles/ I am verie sorow to the Grekes/ to the vngretes/ to the wyse/ and to the vntwyl. Wherefore (as muche as in me is) I am ready to preache the Gospel vnto you at Rome also.

¶ For I am not ashamed of the Gospill of Christe/ for it is the power of God/ whiche saueth all that beleue thereon/ the Jewes first/ and also the Greke/ for in it the righteousnesse that is of value before God/ is opened/ whiche cometh oute of faith into faith. As it is wyrtten. ¶ The iuste shall lyue by his sayth. For the wrath of God is declared fro heauen vpon all vngodlinesse/ and vnrightheousnesse of men/ whiche withholde the truth of God in vnrightheousnesse: because that it/ whiche maye be knowne of God/ is manifeste with them. ¶ For God hath shewed it vnto them/ that the vnrightheousnesse of God (that is) vnyust curlesynge power and Godhede) myghte be sene/ I whiche they are considered by the woordes from the creation of the worlde: so that they are without excuse/ in as muche as they knewe/ that there is a God/ and haue not payed him as God/ nor thanked hym/ but became wayne in theyr imaginations/ and theyr conyts hertes were blinded. Whan they counted them selfes wyse/ they became foules: and turned the glory of the incorruptible God/ into the syme semblance of the ymage of a corruptible mā / and of bysode / and of foure footed / and creepinge Beastes.

¶ Wherefore God lykwyse gaue them vp vnto theyr heres lustice into vnclennesse / so desyre theyr owne bodies in the selfes / which turned the truth of God vnto a lye / and wyspyped and serued the creature more then the maker / whiche is blessed for euer / Amen.

¶ Therefore God gaue them vp vnto the mefull lustice. ¶ For their women chaunged the naturall vse into the vnnaturall / lykewise the men also lesse the naturall vse of the woman / and brenie in their lustice one on another / and man with man wroughte fylthyngnesse / and receaued in them selfes the rewarde of theyr / rroure / as it was accordyng: ¶ And as they regarded not to knowe Gods / cunen so God gaue them vp into a lwide mynde / so do those thynges whiche were not commonly / byrgne full of all vnrigheteousnesse / whoredome / wyckednesse / couctousnesse / malicyousnesse / full of enuye / murder / stryfe / deceate / euell condyoned / whysperes / backbiters / Despyers of God / Swors of wronge / ynoude / Boasters / byngers vp of euell thynges / vsobedient to theyr Elders / withoute vnderstandinge / conuenant breaking / vnloyng / slubbome / vnmereyfull.

Whiche men though they knowe the ryghteousnesse of God / that they whiche do suche are worthy of deathe / yett nor onely do theyre a same / ¶ But also haue pleasure in those that do them.

The II. Chapter.

¶ Therefore canst thou not excuse thy selfe / O man / whosoever thou be that Iudge / for loke whererein thou iudgest another / thou condemnest thy selfe / in so muche as thou that iudgest / doest euen the same. For we are sure that the iudgemente of God is (accordyng to the truth)ouer them that do such. But thinkest thou this O thou man / that iudgest them whiche do suche thynges / and doest euen the verysame thynges thy selfe / that thou shalt escape the iudgemente of God? Whyspyst thou the rydes of his goodnesse / patience / and longe sufferynge: ¶ Knowest thou not / that the louinge Kindnesse of God leadech the to repentance?

But thou after thyn harde and unpentent heart / bespest vnto thy selfe a treasure of wrath / agaynst the Daye of wrath / and of the openinge of the ryghteous iudgemente of God / whiche shall rewarde euery man accordyng to his Deedes: namely / prayse / and honoure / and vncorruption vnto them that with patience in boyngte good / seke euellthynges lyfe: But vnto them that are contencyous / and not obedient vnto the truth / but obey vnryghteousnesse / shall come indignacion and wrath / trouble and angurye / vpon all the soules of men that do euell of the Jewe syst / and also of the Greke: But vnto all them that do good / (that come) prayse and honoure / and peace vnto the Jewe syst / and also to the Greke.

¶ For there is no respecte of persons before Gods: Whosoever haue synned withoute lawe / shall perishe also withoute lawe: and whosoever haue synned in the lawe / shall be iudged by the lawe. ¶ For before God they are not ryghteous / whiche beare the lawe: but they that do the lawe / shall be iustified. ¶ For if the Gentyles whiche haue not the lawe / do of nature the thynges conteyned in the lawe / then they haunge not the lawe / are a lawe vnto them selfes / in that they stowe that the worde of the lawe is written in theyr heres / whiche theyr conscience beareth witness vnto them / and also theyr thoughtes / whiche excuse or excuse the among them selfes / in the daye: ¶ Whiche God shall iudge the secretes of men by Iesus Christ / according to my Gospell. ¶

But take hede / thou art called a Jewe / and trustest in the lawe / and makest thy boast of God / and knowest thy will: and for so muche as thou art enshroumed of the lawe / thou prouest what is besse to do / and presumest to be a leader of the bynde: a lyghter of them that are in darkenesse / an enshroumer of the vnwyse: a teacher of the simple: whiche haste the ensample of knowlege and of the truth in the lawe.

¶ Nowe teachest thou other / and teachest not thy selfe: ¶ Thou preachest that a man should not scale / and thou scalest. ¶ Thou sayest /

The circumcision verely auayleth/ if thou kepe the lawe/ but if thou breake the lawe/ then is thy circumcision become vncircumcision. Therefore if the vncircumcision kepe the right thinges conteyned in the lawe/ shall not his vncircumcision be counted for circumcision? And so it that of nature is vncircumcison/ and fulfilleth the lawe/ shall wadge the which vnder the letter and circumcision transgresseth the lawe. For he is not a Jewe/ whiche is a Jewe outward: neither is that circumcision/ whiche is done outwardly in the fleshe: But he is a Jewe/ whiche is hyd within. What furtheraunce then haue the Jewes? Or what asuuntageth circumcision? Surely very muche. Howe might God then iudge the world? for if the much of God be thowme my speche more excellencc vnto his prayse/ why should he then be iudged yet as a sinner/ a not rather to do thus: (as we are euill spoken of/ and as some repute/ that we should saie.) Let vs do euell/ that good maye come therof. Whose Damnation is iust.

What saye we then? are we better then

There is none that vnderstandeth/ there is none that seeketh after God. They are all gone out of the waye/ they are altogether become enprofittable: there is none that doeth good/ no/ nor one. ## The IIII. Chapter.

What shall we saye then / that Abraham / our father / as pertaininge to the fleshe / by synde: This we saye: If Abraham were made righteous thow we sayth: then hath he wherein to reioyce / but not before God.

But what sayeth the scripture: Abraham beleeued God / and that was counted vnto him for righteousnesse. Vnto him y<sup>e</sup> goeth aboute with workes as the rewarder not reformed of fauoure / but of duty: When he vnto him that goeth not aboute with workes / but beleeueth on hym that iustificth the vngodly: his faith counted for righteousnesse. Euen as Dauid sayeth also: that blessednesse is onely that nō / vnto whome God counted righteousnesse without addinge to of workes / where he saith:

Blessed are they whose vnrighthousnesse are forgiveness / and whose synnes are couered. Blessed is the man / vnto whome the Lord imputeth no synne.

What this blessednesse goeth it ouer the circumcision / or ouer the vncircumcision: We must needs graunte / that Abrahams sayth was counted vnto hym for righteousnesse. How was it then referred vnto hym: In the circumcision / or in the vncircumcision? Doubtles:

In the circumcision / but in the vncircumcision: As for the taken of circumcision / he reuerend it for a feale of the righteousnesse of sayth / whiche he had seen in the vncircumcision: that he shoulde be a father of all them that beleeue / beinge in the vncircumcision / that it myghte be counted vnto them also for righteousnesse / and that he myghte be a father of circumcision / not onely of them that are of the circumcision / but of them also that walke in the footsteps of the sayth / whiche was in the vncircumcision of our father Abraham.

For the promise / that he shoulde be the heire of the worlde / was not made vnto Abraham as to hye side / thow we the lawe / but thow we the righteousnesse of sayth. For if they which are of the lawe be heires / then is faith vaine / and the promise of none effecte / for so muche as the lawe causeth but wrath. For where the lawe is not / there is also no transgression. Therefore was the promise made thow faith / that it myghte come of fauoure / whereby the promise myghte be made sure vnto all the fedes: not onely vnto hym whiche is of the lawe / but also vnto him that is of the sayth of Abraham / which is the father of vs all. As it is writte: I haue made the a father of many Hebrins before God / thow he hath deluded: whiche and it: a quickeneth the dead / a called it which is not / that it maye be.

For he doubteth not in the promise of God: thow he vnderlefe / but was stronge in faith / and gaue God the prayse / and was iure that / like / what God promyseth / he is able to make it good. And therefore was it referred vnto hym for righteousnesse. But this is not written onely for his sake / that it was counted vnto him / but also for oure sakes: vnto whome it shalbe counted / if we beleeve on hym that raysed vp oure Lord Iesus from the dead. Which was geuen for our synnes / and raysed vp for oure righteousnesse sake.

ryne/ Christ dyed for vs vngodly. Now death there scarce any mā for the righteousnesse sake: Peraduenture for a good man durst one dye.
¶ Therefore death God set forth bys loue to ward vs/in that Christ dyed for vs/whan we were yet synners: Much more then shal we be saued from wrath by hym: synne we are now made righteous thowse his bloude.

B For if we were reconciled vnto God by the death of his sonne / whan we were yet enenow that we are reconciled. Not onely that/but we receiue also in God thowse our Lo-ceaued th: attonement. ¶

Gen. iij. a

Wherefore t as by one man synne entred into the worlde / and death by the meane of synne: euen so wente the death also ouer all men/in so muche as they all haue sinned. For synne was in the worlde vnto the lawe: but where no lawe is/there is not synne regarded.
¶ Neuerthelesse / death ragyned from Adā vnto Noah / euen ouer them also that sinned not with lyke transgression as bys Adā / whiche is the ymage of hym that was to come.

Joan. iij. b

But it is not with the t gyfte as with the synne: for if thowse synne of one many be dead/ yet much more plentifully came t grace and gyfte of God vpon many / by the fauour that belongeth vnto one man Iesu Christ.

Joan. i. b

¶ And the gyfte is not onely ouer one synne/as death came thowse one synne / of one that sinned. For the iudgement came of one synne vnto condemnation / but the gyfte to iustifie from many synnes for if by the synne of one death ragyned by the meane of one: much more shall they which receiue the aboundance of grace and of the gyfte vnto righteousnesse/ragyne in lyfe by t meane of one Iesu Christ.
¶ Likewise then as by the synne of one condepnacion came an all men / euen so also by the righteousnesse of one / came the iustifienge of lyfe vpon all men. For as by the disobedience of one / many became synners / euen so by the obediens of one shall many be made righteous.

Galat. v. e

* Luc. iij. e

¶ But the lawe in the meane synne entred/that synne shoulde increase. ¶ Neuerthelesse/where aboundance of synne was / there was yet more plentifully. of grace / that lyfe as synne had ragyned vnto death/euen so myght grace ragyne also thowse righteousnesse in cruell synnge lyfe / by the meane of Iesus Christ. ¶

The VI. Chapter.

What shall we saye then? Shall we continue in synne / that there maye be abounddauce of grace? God forbid. Howe shall we lyue in synne / that are dead by it? ¶ Answere ye not / that all we which are baptysed into Iesu Christ / are baptysed into his death? Therefore are we buried with hym by baptisme into death / that lyfe as Christ was rayfed vp from the dead by the gloiye of the father / t euen so we also shoulde walke in a newe lyfe. For if we be grafed with hym vnto lyfe death / then shd we be lyke the resurrection also: For so muche as we knowe / that oure olde man is crucified with hym / that t synfull bodye myghte cease/that hereforth we shoulde serue synne no more.
¶ For he that is dead / is made righteous from synne.

¶ But if we be dead with Christ / we beleue that we shall lyue also with hym / and are sure * that Christ rayfed from the dead / shd be no more: death shall haue no more power ouer hym. For as touchynge that he dyed / he dyd concernynge synne onely: but as touchynge that he lyueth / he lyueth vnto God. ¶ Likewise is also / euenne youre selfe as to be euen dead concernynge synne / and to lyue vnto God by rotye Iesus Christ oure Lo. de. ¶ Let not synne ragyne therefore in your mortal bodye/that ye shoulde obey vnto the lustes of it. They ther geue ye ouer youre memberes vnto synne to be weapens of vnrightheousnesse / but geue ouer youre selfe vnto God / as they that dead are become lyuynge / and youre memberes vnto God / to be weapens of righteou-nesse. For synne shall not haue power of you in so muche as ye are not vnder the lawe / but vnder grace.

Howe then? Shall we synne / because we are not vnder the lawe / but vnder grace? God forbid.
¶ Knowe ye not / that loke vnto whom ye geue ouer youre selfe as seruantes to t bey / bys seruantes ye are to whom ye obey / whether it be of synne vnto death / or of obedience vnto righteousnesse? But God be thanked / that though ye haue ben the seruantes of synne sinne / ye are now yet obedient of herte to the example of the Doctine / whereunto ye are committed: For now that ye are made free fro sinne / ye are become the seruantes of righte-ousnesse. R

E For I will speake grossly / because of the weakness of your fleshe. Like as ye haue given ouer your members to the seruice of uncleanesse / from one wickednesse to another: Eue so now also geue ouer your members to the seruice of rightousnesse: that ye may be holy. For wha-ye were the seruantes of sinne / ye were loue fro rightousnesse. What frute had ye at that tyme in those thinges / whereof ye are now asshamed: For the ende of such thinges is death.
 But now that ye be free fro sinne / and are become the seruantes of God / ye haue your frute that ye shoulde be holy: but the ende is eternall glory. For death is the reward of sinne / but the gift of God is everlasting life in Christ Iesu oure Lorde. R

The VII. Chapter.

Where ye not brethren: (For I speake vnto them that knowe the lawe) howe that the lawe hath power vpon a man as long as he liueth: For the woman that is in subiection to the man / is bounde vnto the lawe whyle she liueth: but if the man dye / then is she loosed from the lawe that concerneth the man: If she be now with another man / whyle the man liueth / she shall be called a wedlocke breaker: But if the man be dead / she is free from the lawe / so that she is no wedlocke breaker: if she be with another man.

Euen so my brethren / ye also are dead vnto the lawe by the body of Christ: that ye shoulde be with another (namely with him that is ray-sed vp from the dead): that we shoulde bringe forth frute vnto God. For when we were in the fleshe / the synfull lustes (which were stered vp by the lawe) were myghty in oure members to bringe forth frute vnto death. But now are we loosed from the lawe / and dead vnto it: that heid vs captiue / so that we shoulde serue in a newe conuersation of the spere / and not in the olde conuersation of the letter.

What shall we saye then: For the lawe sinnet God so byde: Neuertheless / I knewe not sinne / but by the lawe. For I had knowen nothinge of luste / if the lawe had not sayde: Thou shalt not lust. But then toke synne occasion at the commaundement / and stered vp in me all manner of lust. For without the lawe / synne was dead. As for me / I lyued some tyme without lawe. Howbeit / when the commaundement came / synne reuoyced / but I was dead. And the very same commaundement that was geuen me vnto lyfe / was founde to be vnto me an occasion of death: For synne toke occasion at the commaundement / and deceaued me / and stered me by the same commaundement. The lawe in vnde is holy / and the commaundement stou-deth holy / iuste and good. So that then which is good become death vnto me: God forbid.

 But synne that it myghte appere howe that it is synne / hath wrought in me death: whowse good: that synne myghte be sure of measure synfull by the commaundement. For we knowe that the lawe is spiritual / but I am carnall / I solde vnder synne: because I knowe not what I do. For I do not that I woulde / but what I hate / that do I. If I do knowe that which I will not / then graunte I that the lawe is good.

So then it is not I that do it / but synne that dwelleth in me: For I knowe that in me / (that is in my fleshe) there dwelleth no good thinge. To will is present with me / but to per-forme that which is good / I fynde not. For the good that I will / do I not: but the euill which I will not / that do I. If I do not / that I will not: the is it not I that do / but synne that dwelleth in me.

Thus fynde I now by the lawe / that when I will do good / euill is present with me. For I desire in the lawe of God after the inward man: but the euill lawe in my members / which stryuethe agaynst the lawe of my mynde / and taketh me prisoner in the lawe of synne / whiche is in my members. O wretched man that I am / who shall deliuer me from this body of this death: I thanke God whowse Christ oure Lorde. So then with the mynde I serue the lawe of God / but with the fleshe I serue the lawe of synne.

The VIII. Chapter.

The Epistle to the Romaynes.

For of the spere (that bringeth life in Christ Iesu) hath made me T free from the lawe of synne and deað. * For what impossible was vnto the lawe: in as muche as it was weake because of the fleshe: That performed God/ and sent bys sonne in the similitude of synfull fleshe/ and by T synne damned synne in the fleshe: that the righteousness required of the lawe/ might be fulfilled in vs/ whiche walke nor after the fleshe/ but after the spere. For they that are fleshy/ are fleshy mynded: but they that are goodly/ are goodly mynded. To be fleshy mynded/ is deað: but to be goodly mynded/ is life and peare. I

For to be fleshy mynded/ is enemye against God/ T synn/ it is not subdued vnto the lawe of God/ for it can not also. As for them that are fleshy/ they can not please God. Horriblye are not fleshy/ but goodly/ if so be that the spere of God dwel in you. But who so hath in the spere of Christ/ the same is not by a creature the self/ if Christ be in you/ then is the body deað because of synne: But the spere is lyfe for righteousness sake.

Wherefor if the spere of him/ that rayset vp Iesue from the deað/ dwell in you/ then shall euen be also that rayset vp Christ from y deað/ quicken your mortall bodies/ because that bys spere dwelleth in you. T Therefore brethren/ we are now veterans/ not to the fleshe/ to lyue after the fleshe/ for if ye lyue after the fleshe/ ye must dye: but if ye mortifie the dedes of the body thowme the spere/ ye shall lyue. For who secur are led by the spere of God/ are Gods chyldren: T for ye haue not recoued the spere of bondage to feare any more/ but ye haue recoued the spere of adopcion/ whereby we are: Abba/ deare father. T The same spere certifieth our spere/ that we are the chyldren of God.

If we be chyldren/ the are we heyres also/ namely the heyres of God/ and heyres annexed with Christ/ if so be y we suffer together / that we may be also glorified together. I T For I suppose/ that the afflictions of this tyme/ are not worthy of the glory/ whiche shal be shewed vpon vs. * For the seruent longinge of the creature/ loketh for the appearing of the chyldren of wynd/ because the creature is subdued vnto vayne agaynst her will/ but for his will that subdued her vpon hope. For the creature also shal be free from the bondage of corruption/ vnto the glorious libertye of the chyldren of God. For we knowe/ that eury creature groweth/ T and knoweth with vs in payne vnto the same tyme.

For they eneye/ but we our selves also/ whiche haue the first frutes of the spere/ growe with our selues for the chyldshyppe/ and loke for the deliuerance of oure body. For we are set in vnde/ bondage/ in hope: T but the hope that is in vs/ is hope for how can a man hope for that which he seeth: But if we hope for that which we se not/ then do we thowme patience abyde for it.

Like wise the spere also helpeth our weaknesse: for we knowe not what we shoulde desire as we oughte: T neuertheless/ the spere selfe maketh intercession myghtly for vs with vnspeakable groninges. T Howbeit/ be I fearde/ the hart/ knoweth what the mynde of the spere is: for he maketh intercession for the saintes/ according to y pleasure of God. I T But sure we are/ that all thinges serue for the best vnto them that loue God: whiche are called of purpose. for those/ whome he knoweth before/ hath he ordeyned also before/ that they shoulde be lyfe fashioned vnto the shape of his sonne/ that he might be the first begotten amonge many brethren. As for those whome he hath ordeyned before/ the hath be called also: a whome he hath called/ them hath he also indowed righteous: and whome he hath made righteous/ the hath be called also.

What shal we saye then vnto these thinges? T If God be on oure syde/ who can be agaynst vs? T Whiche spere nor his owne sonne/ but he hath geuen him for vs all/ how shall he not with him geue vs all thinges also? Who will laye any thinge to the charge of Gods choyse? T It is God that maketh righteous/ who will then condemne? T It is Christ that dyed/ yet rather which is rayset vp agayne: whiche is also the right hande of God/ and maketh intercession for vs.

Who will separate vs from y loue of God? T trouble: or angur/ be: or persecution: or hunger: or nakednesse: or pailere: or frearde: T Yet is written: T For thy sake/ we will fill all the daye longe/ we are counted as shepe appointed to be slayn. T Neuertheless/ in all these thinges

The IX. Chapter.

A Saye the truty in Christ/ a lye not/ wherof my conscience beareth me witness in I holy ghoost/ that I haue great beauntesse/ and continual sorrowe in my herte. For I haue myssed my selfe to be cursyd from Christ/ for my brethren/ that are my frinsmen after the flesch/ which are of Israel: I into whome pertayneth the dyschyllyppe/ and the glorie/ and the conuenciance/ and the lawe/ and the seruice of God/ and the promises: whose are also the fathers/ of whome (after the flesch) cometh Christ/ whiche is God ouer all/ blessed for euer Amen. But I speake not these thinges/ so though the woorde of God were of none effecte: For they are not all Israclites/ whiche are of Israel: neyther are they all chyldren/ because they are the seds of Abraham: but in Isaac shall the seds be called vnto thes/ that is. They which are chyldren after the flesch/ are not the chyldren of God/ but the chyldren of the promes are counted for the seds. For this is a woorde of the promes: where he sayth: I Aboute this tyme wyl I come/ and Sara shall haue a sonne.

B Howbeit it is not so/ with this onely/ but also withan I Rebecca was with chyldre by one/ namely by oure father Isaac/ for euer the chyldren were boune/ and had done neyther good nor bad/ that is purpose of God myght stande according to his election/ nor by the beleeuinge of woikes/ but by the grace of the caller/ it was sedythe vnto her: The greater shal serue the lesse. As it is written: I Jacob haue I loued/ but Esau haue I hated.

What shall we saye then? is God then vnrightheous? God forby. For he sayeth vnto Moses: I shew mercy to whome I shew mercy: a haue compassion on whom I haue compassion. So lych it not the in any mans wil/ or runnynge/ but in the mercy of God. For the scripture sayeth vnto Pharaos: For this cause haue I sterch the vp/ euen to shewe my power on thes/ that my name myght be declared in all lades. Thus hath he mercy on whome he wyl/ and whome he wyl he hardeneth.

Thou wile saye then vnto me/ why blameth he vs yet? For who can resist his will? Wherof thou ma/ who are thou? I dyspursueth God/ and sayth/ b Sayeth the woofe to his woofemaid: Why hast thou made me on this fashion? Hath not the Ter. xviij. a potter power/ out of one claye to make I velle/ one vessel vnto honoure/ and another vnto dishonoure? Therefore whiche God wolde becaus I Tim. i. c. death/ and to make his power knowne/ he brought forth with great patience the vessel of wrath/ whiche are ordeyned to damnation: that he myght declare the rythes of his glorie on the vessel of mercy/ whiche he had prepared vnto glory/ whome he hath called/ I namely vs/ not onely of the Grekes/ but also of the Genetyles. As he sayeth also by Osee: I Osee i. c. I wyl call that my people/ whiche is not my people/ and my beloued/ whiche is not the beloued. And it shall come to passe in the place/ where it was sayde vnto them: Ye are not my people/ there shall they be called the chyldren of the lyuynge God. But Esay cried ouer Israel: I Though the numbre of the chyldren of Israel be as the sande of the seeyn/ shal there but a remnaunte be saued. For there is the woide that synysshed/ a hostentent in righteounesse. Amos. i. b. For a hoore woide shall God make vpd carth. And as Esay sayd before: I Excepte the Lotte of Sabaoth had lefte vs seds: we shoulde haue ben as Sodoma/ and lyfe vnto Gomora.

What shall we saye then? This wyl we saye: The Grekyen whiche folowed not righteounesse/ haue ouertaken righteounesse: but I speake of the righteounesse that cometh of sayth. Agayne/ Israel folowed the lawe of righteounesse/ and atsayned not vnto the lawe of righteounesse: Why for? Euen because they sought it not out of sayth/ but as it were out of a bestrynge of woikes. For they haue sinned at the stomblynge stone. As it is written: I Beholde/ I lay in Spana a stone to stombe at/ and a rocke to be offendyd arand whosof euer beluech on him/ shall not be confounded.

The Epistle to the Romaynes.

Reborn / my hartes desire / and prayer vnto God / for I feare / that they myght be sau'd. For I feare them receiue / that they are t' selous Gods cause / but not with vnderstandinge. For they knowe not the ryghte outnesse / whiche auayth before God / and go about to mayntayne theyr owne ryghteous-nesse: and thus they are not subdued vnto the ryghteousnesse / that is of value before God.
 For: Christ is the ende of the lawe / vnto righte-ousnesse / for euery one that beleueth. As Moses wryteth of the righteousnesse / which commeth of the lawe / that the man which doeth the same / shall liue therein. But the righte-ousnesse / whiche cometh of sayth / speaketh on this wise: Saye not in thine herte: Who will go vp into heauen: that is nothinge do the to fetch Christ downe. Or who will go downe into the deepe: that is nothinge do then to fetch vp Christ from the dead.
 But what sayeth the scripture: The worde is nye the / euen in thy mouth / and in thine herte. Why is the worde of sayth that we preache. For: if thou knowest Iesus with thy mouth: that he is the Lorde: and beleuest in thine herte / that God hath rayed hym vp from the dead: thou shalt be sau'd. It is for if a man belefe from the herte / he shalbe made righteous: and if a man knowlege with the mouth / he shalbe sau'd. For: the scripture sayeth: Whosoever beleueth on hym / shall not be confounded.

There is no difference / neyther of the Jewe nor of the Gentyle. For one is Lorde of all / whiche is rysh vnto all that call vpon hym.
 For whosoever shall call vpon the name of the Lorde / shalbe sau'd. But how shall they call vpon hym / on whome they belefe not?
 How shall they belefe on hym / of whome they haue not herd? How shall they heare without a preacher? But how shall they preache except they be sente? As it is wrytten: For we haue beueryfull are the feet of the that preache peace / that bynng good ryngers: But they are not all obedient vnto the Gospell. For I say sayeth: The Lorde / who beleueth oure prea-chynge. So then sayth cometh by hearinge: but hearinge cometh by the worde of God.

But I saye: Haue they not herde: No

Doubte / that founde wente out into all landes / and their wordes into the endes of the world. It But I saye: Hath not Israel know-ment? Hys / knowe sayeth. I will prouoke them to enuy / by them that are: not my people: and by a foolish nation wil I anger you.
 I say aser him is bolde / and sayth: I am soude of the that sought me not / and haue appeared vnto them / that aged nor aser me. But vnto Israel he sayeth: All the daye longe haue I stretched forth my handes vnto a people that beleueth not / but speaketh agaynst me.

The. XI. Chapter.

Saye the: that hard God thrust out his people? God forbyd / for I also am an Israelite here / of the side of Zababam out of the trybe of Ben Jamin. God hath not thrust out his people / whome he ferue before. Or: wryte not what the scripture sayth of Elias / how he maketh intercession vnto God agaynst Israel / and sayeth: The Lorde / they haue slayne thy Prophetes / and bygged doune thine altars.
 And I am lefte ouer onely / and they seke my lyfe. But what sayeth the auisour of God vnto hym: I haue referu'd vnto me seven thousande men / which haue not bowed theyr knee before Baal. Euen so sayeth it now at this tyme also / with thy remnant after the election of grace. That if it be done of grace / then is it not of deservynge: els were grace no grace. But if it be of deservynge / then is grace nothinge: els were deservynge no deservynge.

What then? Israel hath not obtayned that which he soughte: but the election hath obteyned it. As for the other: they are blinded. As it is wrytten: God hath given them the spere of vnquietnesse / eyes that they shoulde not see and eares that they shoulde not heare / eue vnto this daye. And Sauid sayeth: Let theyr table be made a snare to take them withal / and an occasion to fall / and a rewarde vnto them.
 Let their eyes be blinded that they se not / and eue so we doune their backes.

I saye then: Haue they therefore stombled? that they shoulde cleane fall to nauyght? God forbyd: but thow we ther fall in saluation happened vnto the Gentylen / that he myght prou-uoke them to be selous after them. For if they fall be the ryche of the world / and the myne synge

spynge of them the ryces of the Heythen: howe muche more shoulde it be so/ if their fulnes were there: I praye vnto you Heythen: for in as much as I am the Apostle of the Heythe/ I will playe myne office/ if I might prouide them vnto ylle/ whiche are my selfe and saue some of them. For if the losse of them be the reconcilinge of the world/ what were that els/ then as if they were taken of the dead? If the beginnyng be holy/ then is all y<sup>e</sup> howe holy: and if the rote be holy/ the are the biau-des holy also.

¶ But though some of the biau-des be broken/ and thou/ when thou wast a wyde olyue tree/ art graffed in amonge them/ and made partaker of the rote/ and sappe of the t<sup>e</sup> olyue tree/ boast not thy selfe agaynst the biau-des are broken of/ that I myghte be graffed in. Thou sayest well. They are broken of because of theyr vnbelife/ but thou standest in some belife. ¶ Be not thou, byre myned/ but feare/ synge God hath not spard the natural biau-des: lesse also spare not the.

¶ Holde therfore the kindnesse/ and rigourousnesse of God: on them whiche sell rigourousnesse: but towarde the kindnesse/ if thou continue in the kindnesse. ¶ As shal thou be betwen of: † and they/ if they byde not stel in vnbelife/ shal be graffed in agayne. For God is of power to graffe them in agayne. For if thou be cut out of the natural wyde olyue tree/ and graffed/ (contrary to nature) in the good olyue tree/ howe muche more shall they that are natural/ be graffed in their owne olyue tree agayne?

¶ I wolde not that thy secrete shoulde be hyd from you brethren/ lesse shoulde be wyse in your owne conceales) that partly blindsnesse is happened vnto Israel/ † So longe till the fulnesse of the Heythen be comen. And so all Israel shal be saued. ¶ As it is written: ¶ There shal come one of Syon be that doeth Rehyer/ and shall turne away vngodlinesse from Jacob. And it is my conuenaunt with them/ when I shall call away their finnesse. ¶ As concerninge the Gospell/ I holde them as enemies for your sake: but as them synge the election/ I loue them for the sake thers sake.

¶ For verily the giftes and callinge of God are such/ that it can not repent hym of the. For like wyse as ye also in tyme past haue not beleued/ but now haue obpayned mercy thowrue their vnbelife: Euen so now haue they not beleued on the mercy/ whiche is happened vnto you/ that they also maye obpayne mercy. For God hath closed vp all vnder vnbelife/ that be myghte haue mercy on all.

¶ O the depense of the ryces/ both of the wysdome and knowlege of God: † Howe incomprehensible are bys iudgements/ and bys wayes vnsearchable: † For who hath knowe the mynde of the Lorde? Or who hath ben bys counsaill geur: Or who hath giuen him y<sup>e</sup> ought afore hande/ that he myghte be recompenced agayne: † For of hym/ and thowrue: ¶ Esai. liiij. c. hym/ and in hym are all thinges. ¶ Ro. iij. c. playe for cur/ Amen.

The XII. Chapter. ¶

¶ Beweche you brethren by the meynfullnesse of God/ that ye giue ouer your bodyes for a sacrifice/ that is quicke/ holy/ and accept-table vnto God/ whiche is youre reasonable seruinge of God. And fashion not your selves lyke vnto theys world/ but be chaunged thowrue the reuertyng of youre mynde/ that ye maye proue/ what thinge that good/ that are acceptable/ and perfecte will of God is. For I saye thowrue the grace that is giuen me/ vnto every man amonge you: that no man esteeme of hym selfe more/ then it becometh hym to esteeme: † but that he discretely iudg: of hym selfe/ accordinge as God hath scale vnto every man the measure of sayth. ¶ For like as the churche haue many members in one body/ but all the members haue not one maner of operacion: Euen so we beynge many/ are one body in Christ. ¶ But amonge our selfes euery one is the membe: of another/ and haue by our gyses/ accordinge to the grace that is giuen vnto vs. † If any man haue the gift of Prophecyng/ let it be accordinge to the sayth.

¶ Let them that hath an offyce/ wayte vpon the offyce: let hym that teacheth/ take heed to the doctrine: let hym that exhorteth/ giue attendaunce to the exhortacion. † If any man

Leu. geueth/let hym gene with hygience. † Let hym eate rulerth & be diligent. * If any man shewe mercy/let hym do it with chearfulness/ † Amos v. let loue be without dissimulation. † Hate that which is euil/ cleue vnto that which is good. Be kinde one to another with brotherly loue. † In geuyng to vniuers go one before another. † Be not slothfull in the busynce that ye haue in hande: Be seruent in the spere/scringe the Lo:de. Keioyce in hope/ Be patient in trouble/Continue in prayer. Distribute vnto the necessites of the sanctes. † Be gladd to herbarowe. Bless them that persecute you. Bless/and curse not. Be merry with them that are merry/and wepe with them that wepe.

Therefore/ † If thyn enemye hunger/ feede hym. If he thyrst/ geue hym drynke. For in so doyng thou shalt heape coales of fyre vpon hys heade. Be not overcome with euil/ but overcome thou euill with good. †

The XIII. Chapter. †

1 Cap. vi. a 1 Pet. ii. b Let every soule submitte him selfe to the authorite of the hyer powres. † For there is no power but of God. The powres that be/ are ordeyned of God/ so that whosoever resisth the power/ resisth the ordinance of God. And they that resisth/ shall receaue to them selfes damnation. For rulers are not to be feared for good workes/ but of euil. If thou wylt be without feare of the power/ do well then/ and thou shalt haue payse of the same: for he is the mynister of God for thy wealthe. But if thou do euill/ then fear/ for he beareth not the freede for naught. For he is the mynister of God/ a taker of vengeance/ to punyssh the hym that doeth euill. Wherefore ye must needs obey/ not onely for punyssh-ment/ but also because of conscience. For thyn cause muste ye geue tribute also. For they are gods ministers/ whiche maynteyn the same defence. †

† Geue to euery man therfore his dewtye/ as trybute to whome trybute belongeth: costume to whome costume is due: feare to whome feare delongeth: honoure to whome honoure pertaineth. † There nothinge to any man/ but to loue one another. † So: be that loueth as another/ hath fulfilled the lawe. For where it is sayde: Thou shalt not breake wedlocke: thou shalt not kyll: thou shalt not steale: thou shalt not beare false witness: thou shalt not lust: if there be any other commaundement/ it is comprehended in thys weide: † Thou shalt loue thy neyghbour as thy selfe: † Loue thyselfe by a neyghbour no euill. Therefore to loue the fullylling of the lawe. †

† And for so muche as we knowe this/ namely the tyme/ † that the houre is now for us to ryse from slepe. For now is oure saluacion nether/ than when we belened/ the nyght is past/ but the daye is come. † Let vs therfore cast awaye the workes of darkenesse/ as put on the armour of lighte. Let vs walke honestlye as in the daye/ not in excess of eatinge/ and dronkenesse/ † not in chamburyng/ and wantonnesse/ † not in strife and enuyng: but let vs put ye on the Lo:de Jesus Christ. † And let vs make not provision for the flesh/ to fullyll the lustes of it. †

The XIII. Chapter.

Hym that is weak in faith/ receaue vnto you/ and trouble not the consciences. One beleueth that he maye eat all thinge: but he that is weak eateth herbes. Let not hym that eateth/ despise him that eateth not: and let not hym which eateth not/ iudge hym that eateth/ for God hath receaue hym.

† Who are thou/ that iudgest another mans seruante? He standeth or falleth vnto his Lo:de: Yee/ he maye wel stande/ so: God is able to make him stand. Some man putteth difference betwene a veyse/ but another man counteth all dayes alike. † Let euery man be of his meaninge. For that putteth difference in the daye/ doeth it vnto the Lo:de/ as he that putteth no difference on the daye/ doeth it vnto the Lo:de also. He that eateth/ eateth vnto unto the Lord: for he greeteth God thanke: and he that careth not/ careth not unto the Lord/and greeteth God thanke. For none of vs lieth to him selfe/and none dieth to him selfe. If we lyue/we lyue unto the Lord: If we dye/we dye unto the Lord. Therefore/whether we live or dye/we are the Lords.

B For thereto dyed Christ/and rose agayne/and reuyned/that he might be the Lord both of dead and quyet. But why iudgest thou thy brother? Or thou other/why despyest thou thy brother? We shall all be brought before the iudgemente seat of Christ. For it is written: As truly as I lyue/ sayeth the Lord/ all knes shall come vnto me/and all kynges shall knowlege vnto God.

C Thus shall every one of vs geue accompt tes for him selfe vnto God. Let vs not therefore iudge one another any more. But iudge this rather/ that nona put a stumbling block or an occasiō to fall in his brothers waye.

D I knowe/and am full certified in the Lord Jesus/that there is nothinge commune of it selfe: but vnto him that iudgeth it to be commune to him is it commune. But if thy brother be greued our thy meate/ or thy welthe thou not now in charyte. Destroye not with thy meate him/ for whome Christ dyed.

E Therefore that youe meate be not euell spoken of. For the kyngdome of God is not meate nor drynke/ but ryghteous-nesse and peace/ and ioye in the holy ghoost.
Let that in these thynges serue Christ/please God/ and is commended of men.
Let vs therefore folowe these thynges/ which make for peace/ and thynges wherewith one maye edifye another. Destroye not the worke of God for meates sake. All thynges truly are cleane/ but it is euell for man/whiche careth with hurt of his conscience. It is muche better that thou eate nasthe/ and haue no wyne/ nor any thyng/wherby thy brother stumbleth or fallerh/ or made weake. Haste I thou sayth/ haue it with thy selfe before God. Happy is he that con-demneth not him selfe in these thynges which be allowed. But he that maketh consciēce of it/ yet eateth/ is dampned: because he doeth it not of faith: for whatsoeuer is not of faith/the same is synne.

The XV. Chapter.

What ye are stronge/ Iougher to beare the fraynesse of them which are weake/ and not to stande in oure owne conceite. Let every one of vs edifie him selfe/ so that he please his neighbour vnto his welth and edifyinge.
For Christ pleased not him selfe/ but as it is written: The rebukes of them whiche rebuked the/ are fallen vpon me. Whatsoeuer thynges are written afore tyme/ are written for oure learninge/ that we shoulde have patience and comforte of the scripres/ might haue hope. The God of patience and consolacion/ graunte you to be like mynded one to another accordinge vnto Iesu Christ/ that ye beynge of one mynde/ maye with one mouthe praise God the father of oure Lord Iesu Christ.

Wherfore reioyce ye one another/ as Christ hath reioyce you to the praye of God. But I saye/ that Christ/ Iesus was a mynister of the circumcisiō for the truth of God/ to confirmate the promys made vnto the fathers/ and that the Scriben mighte praise God because of mercy/ as it is written: I feare this cause very I praise the amonge the Gentiles/ and synge vnto thy name. And againe he sayeth: I Reioyce ye Hebrēen with hys people. And againe: * Praise the Lorde

For I durst not speake oughte / excepte Christ had wroughte the same / by me / to make the Heythen obedient / by his owne waie and Rede / shewing the power of tokens and wonders / and shewing the power of the sperte of God / so that from Jerusalem / and rounde about vnto Illyricum / I haue filled all with the Gospell of Christ. So haue I enforced my selfe to preache the Gospell / not where Christes name was knowne / lest / I shoulde builde on another mans foundation / But as it is writen : To whom he was not spoken of / they shall see and they that haue not herde / shall understand. This is also the cause / wherefore I haue bene oft tymes to come vnto you. But now sith I haue no more place in these countreys / hauing yet a desyre many yeares sence to come vnto you / whan I shal take my iourney into Spayne: I will come to you: for I wuste that I shal passe that waye / and se you / and to be brought on my waye thurder wards by you: But so / that I my selfe refresh my selfe a litle with you.

But nowe go I to Jerusalem / to mynister vnto the sayntes: For they of Macedonia and Achaia haue wyslingly prepared a communyt collection together / for the poore sayntes at Ierusalem. They haue done it wyllyngly: and they better are they. For if the Heythen be made partakers of theyr spiritual thinges / theyr duty is to minister vnto them in bodily thinges. Howe whan I haue performed this / and haue broughte them this fruite / saide / I wil take my iourney by you into Spaine. But I am sure whan I come vnto you / that I shal come with the ful blessing of the Gospell of Christ.

The God of peace be with you all / Amen.

you in Iesus Christe/ that in all poyntes ye are manner of knowlege/ euen as the preachinge of Christe is cōfirmed in you. so that ye wante nothinge in any gyfte/ and wayte but for the appearinge of our Lorde Iesus Christe/ whiche shall strengthe you also wnto the ende/ that ye

For the woide of the crosse is foolishnesse to them that perishe / but vnto vs / whiche are saued/ is the power of God. For it is wrytten † I will destroye the wysdome of the wyse/ and will caste awaye the vnderstan-dinge of the prudent.

Where are the wyse? Where are the Sages? Where are the vnderstanders of this woide: Hath not God made the wisdome

B. According to the grace of God / which is geue to me / as a wise buylder haue I layed the foundation / But another buylder shal therō.
For let euery mā take hede / how he buyldeth therō. For other foundation can nomā laye / then that which is layed / the which is Ie-sus Christ. But if any man buyde upon this foundation / gold / siluer / precious stones / timber / haye / stubble / euery mans worke shalbe shewed. For the daye of the Lorde shal berealeue it / which shalbe shewed with fire / and the trye shall trye euery mans worke what it is. If any mans worke that he hath buyl-ded theron abyde / he shall receaue a rewarde.
If any mans worke burne / he shall suffer losse.
But he shalbe saued him selfe / euen though he is weare throue fire.

¶ And knowe ye not that ye are the temple of God / and that the spere of God dwelleth in you? If any mā defile the temple of God / him selfe shall be destroyed. For the temple of God is holy / which ye are. Let no man deceaue him selfe. If any man thinke him selfe wise amonge you / let him become a foule in thys worlde / that he maye be wise. For the wis-dome of this world is foolishnes with God.
For it is written: I he compasseth the wise in their craftines. And againe: The Lord knoweth the thoughtes of the wyse / that they are vaine. Therefore let no man reioyce in me. For all is yours / whether it be Paul / or Apollos / or whether it be Cephas / or the worlde: whether it be life / or death / whether it be presente or for to come. All is yours / but ye are Christes / and Christus Gods. **¶

The IIII. Chapter.

¶ Let euery man this wyse esteeme vs / as euē for the trye ministers of Christus / and rewardes of the same of God. Nowe is there nomore required of the stewardes / then that they be faidnt & faithfull. It is but a small thinge onto me / that I shoulde be iudged of you / or of mans daye / neither iudge I myselfe owne selfe. I knowe nougth by my selfe I yett am I nor therby iustified. It is the Lord de that iudgeth me. Therefore iudge ye no thinge before the tyme / untyll the Lorde come / which shal bringe lighte to lighte that is hid in darkenesse / and open the counsailes of the hartes / and then shall euery one haue praise of God. ¶ These thinges haue I prescribed in myne owne persone / and in Apollos for yours sake / that ye mighte learne by vs / that no man counte higher of him selfe then aboue to written / that one be not puffed vp againste another for any mā cause. For who preferred the? What hast thou that thou hast not re-ceaued? If thou hast receaued it / why makest thou the thy greatnesse / though haddest it not receaued it? Nowe ye are full / now ye are made rich / ye reigne withoute vs / and wolde God ye dyd raygne / that we mighte raygne with you.

¶ We thinke that God hath sette forth vs Apostles for the lowest of all / I euen as those that are appointed to death. For we are a gas-singe steeke to the worlde / and to the angels and vnto men. We are foules for Christes sake / but ye are wise in Christ. We weake / but ye stronge. Ye honorable / but we despised.
Euen unto this daye we hunger and thyrste / and are naked / and are buffeted with synesse / and haue no certayne dwelling place / and laboure and woike with oure owne handes. and we are reuyled / yet we bllesse / we are pers-secuted / and suffere it. We are cull spoken of a we praye: We are become as it were the ves-sy outstreynges of the worlde / yee / of souring of all men unto this tyme.

¶ We are not this to shame you / but as my deare chyliden I reare you. For though ye haue ten thousande instructours in Christ / yet haue ye not many fathers. For I haue I begotten you in Christus Iesu throue the Gospell. Wherefore I reare you / as ye my folowers. For this cause haue I sente vnto you Tymotheus / (which is my deare sonne) / and sayeth full in the Lorde / that he maye put you in remembraunce of my woike which are in Christ / euen as I reade euery were in all congregacions. Some are puffed up as though I wolde come nomore as you.
But I will come to you shortly. If the Lorde will / and will knowe / nor the wodes of them that are puffed up / but the power.
For the kyngdome of God is not in woide / but in power. What will ye? Shall I come vnto you with the rod / or with loue / and the spere of mekenesse.

The I. Epistle to the Corinthians.

The V. Chapter.

And here cometh a commune reprove / that there is whordome, amonge you / and such whordome / as is not once named amonge the Hebrews / that one should haue his father wif. And ye are puffed up / and haue not rather sorrowed / that he which hath done this deed / might be put from amonge you. For I merely as absent in bodye / but present in spirit / haue determined already as though I were presente / concerninge hym that hath done this deed / in the name of our Lord Iesus Christ / when ye are gathered together with my spirit / and with the power of our Lord Iesus Christ / that I beseech him unto Satan for the destruction of the flesh / that the spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord Iesu.

Your reioycing is not good. Knowe ye not that a little leuen leueth the whole lump of dough? Pourge out therefore the olde leu / that ye may be new dough like as ye are sweet bread. For we also haue an Easterdamb / which is Christ / that is offered for us / wherefore let vs kepe Easter / not in the olde leuen / nor in the leuen of malitiousnes / and wickednesse / but in the sweet bread of purenesse / and of the truth.

I wrote vnto you in the Epistle / that ye should haue nothinge to do with whoremongers / and that mente I not all of the whoremongers of this worlde / eyther of the concuousores / or of them that wooshypp ymagines / for then muste ye needs haue gone out of the worlde. But now haue I written vnto you / that ye should haue nothinge to do with them / namely / if there be any man that is called a brother / and is an reboumonger / or concuousores / or a wooshypper of ymagines / or a rayler / or a bronde / or a contencioner / I wish Iudge shall ye not care. For what haue I to do to iudge them that are without? Do ye not iudge them that are within? As for them that are without / God shall iudge them. Put awaye from you him that is euill.

The VI. Chapter.

Now here one of you hauynge busynesse with another / go to lawe before the vnrighuous and not before the iustices. And do ye not knowe that the sayntes shall iudge the worldes? If the world then shall be iudged of you / are ye not good ynough to iudge small matters? Knowe ye not that we shall iudge the aungels? howe much more thinges that pertaine to the temporall life? Therefore if ye haue iudgements of temporall matters / take heed that are besydes in the congregacions / and set them to be iudged. This I saye to youre shame. Is there vnto us anye man amonge you? What / not one as all / that can iudge betwene brother and brother? But one brother Iesus to lawe with another / and that before the iudges?

Nowe therefore is there vnto a faulte amonge you / that ye go to lawe one with another. Why do ye not rather suffice wronge? Why suffice ye not your selves rather to be defrauded? But ye youre selves do wronge and defraude / and that euen the brethren. Knowe ye not that the vnrighuous shall not inherite the kyngdome of God? Be not deceaued. Neither whoremongers / nor wooshyppers / nor weakelinges / nor breakers of wedlocke / nor weakelinges / neither abusers of them selves with malynde / nor theses / neyther the couetous / nor dronkarbes / nor cursed spakere / nor extortioners shall inherite the kyngdome of God. And such haue some of you bene / but ye are washed / ye are sanctified / ye are made righteous by the name of the Lord Iesus / and by the spete of our God.

I maye do all thynges / but I all thynges I am not profytable. I maye do all thynges / but I will be thoughte vnder nomans power. Meates are ordeined for the belly / and the belly for meates. But God shall destroye both it and them. The bodye belongeth not vnto whoredome / but vnto the Lord / and the Lord vnto the bodye. God hath raysed vp the Lord / and shall raise vs up also by his power. Knowe ye not that our bodies are the members of Christ? Shall I now take the members of Christ / and make them the members of an harlot? God forbid. Do ye not knowe / that he which cleueth to an harlot / is one bodye? For they shall be cleueth in one fleshe. But he that cleueth vnto the Lord / is one spete.

Ye whordome. All synnes that a man doeth /

The VII. Chapter. ¶

A concerninge the thinge wherof ye wrote vnto me / I am. were: It is good for a man not to touch a woman. Neuerthelesse / to a boye whoredome / let every man haue his owne wyfe / and let every woman haue her owne housbande. Let the man geue vnto the wyfe few beneuolence: like wyfe also the wyfe vnto the man. The wyfe hath not power ouer her owne Body / but the housbande: and likewise the man hath not power ouer his owne Body / but the wyfe.

¶ Whidiua not your selves owne from another / excepte it be with the consent of both for a tyme: that ye maie geue your selves vnto satyng and praye: and then come together again / as / Charite requyre you for your inco-nueniencie. ¶ But this I saye of sauoure / and not of commaundment: Howbeit / I wold rather that all men were as I am. Ne-uerthelesse / every one hath his proper gyfte of God / one by one / another so. To them ve-rye that are unmarried / and to weddoes / I saye: It is good for them that they abide also as I do: ¶ But if they can not absteyne / let them marry: for it is better to marrie / then to burne. ¶

B But vnto them that are married / commaunde not I / but the Lord: ¶ If the wyfe separate not her selfe from her housbande: but if she separate her selfe / that she remayne unmarried / to be reconciled to her housbande:
and let not the housband put away his wyfe from him.

¶ As for the other / vnto them I saye / I not the Lord: If any brother haue an vnbekleing wyfe / and she is content to dwell with hym / let him not put her away. And if a woman haue an vnbekleing housbande / and he is content to dwell with her / let her not put him away. For the vnbekleing housbande is sanctified by the wyfe / and the vnbekleing wyfe is sanctified by the housbande: or els were youe dydden vnbekleing: nor are they holy. But if the bekleing deperte / let him departe. ¶ A brother or a sister is not hold in such cases / but god hath called vs in pecc-

e. ¶ For what knowest thou O woman / wher-in thou shalt saue the man? O: what know-est thou O man / whether thou shalt saue the woman? But euen as God hath distyn-ded vnto every one / and as the Lord hath called every man / so let him walke and so orden I in all congregacions.

¶ If any man be called beinge circumsised / let him take no Gethen / bypse vpon hym: If any man be called in the Gethen bypse / let hym not be circumsised. Circumcision is nothinge / and vncircumcision is no-thinge / but the keepinge of the commaunde-mentes of God. ¶ Let every one abide in the callinge wherin he is called. ¶ Art thou called a seruante / care not for it. Ne-uerthelesse / if thou mayest be fre / be it: ther-for: he that is called in the Lord beinge a seruante / is a freman of the Lord. If thy wyfe be that is called beinge free / is a seruante of Chaste. ¶ Ye are dearly bought: be not ye seruantes of men. Berthen / let every one wherin he is called / therein abyde with God. ¶

¶ As concernyng virgines / I haue no commaundement of the Lord: Neuerthelesse / I saye my good meaninge / as I haue openyed merce of the Lord: to be sayth-full / I suppose it is good for the presente ne-cessite: for it is good for a man so to be. Art thou bounde vnto a wyfe / see not to be losed. Art thou loosed from a wyfe / see not to a wyfe. But if thou takest a wyfe / thou synnest not: And if a virgine marrye / she synneth not: Neuerthelesse / suche shall haue trouble in the flesh. But I sauaire you.

¶ Howbeit / this I saye bichien: the tyme is shorte. Furthermore / this is the meaninge / that they whiche haue wyfes / be as though they had none: and they that were / be as though they were not: and they that reioyce / be as though they reioyced not / and they that bye / be as though they possessed not / a they that vse this world / be as though they used it not. ¶ For the sayson of thre

E This I saie for youre profyte/ nor that I will tangle you in a snare/ but for that which is honest/ and comly vnto you/ that ye maye continuallye cleue vnto the Lord without hinderaunce. But if any man thinke that it is vncomly for his virgin/ if she passe time married/ and if neede so require / let him do what he list/ he sinneth not / let them be coupled in marriage. Cleue the selfe/ be that purposeth surely in his herte/ hauinge no neede/ but hath power of his owne will / and determineth so in his herte to kepe his virgin / doeth well. Finally/ be that ioynerth his virgin in marriage/ doeth well: but he that ioynerth not his virgin/ doeth well: as long as her house-holde lyeth. But if her house-holde slepe/ she is at libertye to marrye vnto whome she will/ onely that it be none in the Lord. But she is happier if she so abyde after my iudgement. I thinke verely that I also haue the spere of God.

So are we sure now/ concerning the meares offered vnto Idols / that an Idol is no other Gods but one. And though there be that are called goddes/ whether it be in heauen/ or in earth / as there be goddes many / and yet a lorde many. yet haue we but one God/ and he father/ of whome are all thinges/ and we in him/ and one Lorde Iesus Christus / by whome are all thinges/ and we by him.

But euery man hath not knowlege: for some makef their conscience ouer the Idols/ and care it as a thinge offered vnto Idols: and so their conscience byng weak is defyled. Cleue the selfe / meare furthereth not vs vnto God. If we care/ we shall not therefore be the better: If we care not/ we shall not therefore be the lesse. But take heed that this your libertye be not an occasioun of falling vnto the weak. So if any man se the weak (whol he list knowlege) yet at the table in the Idols house/ shall not his conscience whyle it is weak / be occasiouned to care of the Idols offeringes: And so shal we thy knowlege shall the weak growe the perser/ for whome Christus dyed. But when ye see so against the weaken / and wounde their weak conscience / ye fynde againe Christus. Wherefore / if meare offend my brother / I wyl neuer care slay / lest / I offende my brother.

The IX. Chapter.

At I not an Apostle: Am I not free? I haue I not sene Iesus Christus oure Lord: Are not ye my worke in the Lord: If I be not an Apostle vnto others/ yet am I youre Apostle: for the sake of myne Apostles hande layeth ye in the Lord. Myne answereth them that are me/ is this: Haue we not power to eat and drinke: Haue we not power also to keede aboute / a sister to wyfe / as well as other Apostles/ and as the brethren of the Lord/ and Cephas: We haue onely I and Barnabas not power this to do: Who goeth a warfare at any tyme vpon his owne wages: Who planteth a vineyard/ a caref/ nor of the frute thereof: Who seeth a flock/ and caref not of the milke of the flocke?

See I these thinges after the maner of Barmen: Saich not the lame the same also: I for it is written in the lawe of Moses: Thou shalt not molle the mouth of the eye that reacheth out / for eue. Doth god take thought for the eye: Doth he it not altogether for our sake: So: no doubt/ he is written for our sake. So: he that caref / shoulde care vpon hope: and he that caref / shoulde trobe vpon hope: that might be partaker of his hope. If we haue foretold vnto you spiritual thinges/

I saye that the Idol is any thyng: Or that it whiche is offered vnto the Idol is any thyng: Naye. But thus I saye; that loke what h' heyr then offer, that offer they vnto Deuils; and not to God. ¶ For how wolde I not t'ye should be in the fellowship of Deuils. Ye can not drinke of the cuppe of the Lorde; / and of the cuppe of the Deuils. Ye can not be partakere of the Lorde's table / and of the table of Deuils. Or will we prouoke the Lorde: Are we stronger then he? I maye do all thynges; but all thynges are not profitable. I maye do all thynges; but all thynges displease not. * Let not men sitte by o'wne profite; but let every man like another wealsh.

If any of them that beleue not; byd you to a feast; / a if ye be disposed to go; / where'seuer sit before you; that eat; / a yinge no question for conscience sake.

Dsal. xxi. c

But if any man saye vnto you: This is offered vnto Idols; / then eat not of it; for his sake that shewes it; and for burning of conscience. The carthe is the Lorde's; / and all that therein is. ¶ Neuertheless; I speake of i conscience; / not thine; / but of the other. For why shouldst thou be iudged of another man's conscience; / for I take my part with thanksgynges; / why am I euell spoken of; for that thyng whereof I geue thanks?

The XI. Chapter.

I Commende you brethren; that ye remember me in all yources; and kepe the ordinaunce as I receiued the vnto you; but I desire you; that e' h' is is h' heade of every man. ¶ As for the man; he is h' heade of h' woman; but God is Christ's heade. Every man i prayeth; or prophesieth; a hath any thyng on his head; / shame; his head. But every woman i prayeth; or prophesieth with ancouered head; / sh'wone sh'w her heade. For it is euen aske; / as if she were sh'wone. If she woman be not couered; let her heere also be cut of.

Ephe. v. c

¶ But if it be vnedmely for a woman to haue her heere cut of; / so to be sh'wone; / the l' is her couer; / her heade. Neuertheless; the man ought not to couer his heade; / I for so muche as he is the ymage and glorie of God; / but the woman is the glory of the man. ¶ For the man is not of the woman; but the woman of the man. Ne; the man was the man created; for the woman's sake; / but the woman for the man's sake.

Therefore ought the woman to haue a p'ce w'ere vpon her heade; / for the anigle sake. Neuertheless; neither is the man without the woman; / neither is the woman without the man in the Lorde. For as the woman is of the man; euen so connerth the man also by the woman; but all of God. Iudge ye by your selves; whether it be comly; that a woman praye before God bareheaded; ¶ Or both not natur teach you; that it is a shame for a man; if he weare longe heere; for her heere is geuen her to couer her withall. ¶ But if there be any man i'to amonge you that hath luste to stryue; / let hym knowe that we haue no such custome; / neither the congregacions of God. But thus must I warne you of. I comende it not; that ye come together not after a better maner; but after a worse. First; when ye come together in the congregacion; I heare that there are vsfancyons amonge you; / and I partly beleue it. ¶ For there must be sctices amonge you; that man they whiche are perseute amonge you; / myght i'to be knowen.

Now wh' ye come together; / the Lorde's supper can not be kept; every man taketh his owne supper apace. And one is hungry; / another is drunken. Haue ye not house to eate and drinke in; ¶ Or desire ye the congregacion of God; and shame them that haue not. What shall I saye vnto you; ¶ Shall I praise you; in this I praise you not. ¶ That whiche I receiued vnto you; / receaued I of the Lorde. ¶ So; the Lorde Jesus; / whene myght in man the whiche he was betrayed; / rote the bread; and gaue thanks; / and brake it; and sayde; Luke Take ye; and eate ye; / this is my body; / which is broken for you. Thus do in the remembrance of me. After the same maner also be

take the cuppe when supper was done / and sayd: This cuppe is the new Testament in my bloude / this do (as ofise as ye synke /) in the remembrance of me: For as ofise as ye shall care of this bread / and synke of this cuppe / ye shall T shewe the Lorde death / ontyll he come.

Wherefore / whosoever shall eate of this bread / and synke of this cuppe of the Lorde unworthly / shall be guilty of the body / and bloude of the Lorde. But let a man examine him selfe / as fo let hym eate of this bread / and synke of this cuppe. For he that eateth a synkerth vnto. selfe / eateth and synkerth bys owne damnacion / because he maketh no difference of th: Lorde's body. Therefore are there so many weake / and sicke amonge you / and many slepe. For if we iudged oure selfes / we shoulde not be iudged. But when we are iudged / we are chastised of the Lorde / that we shoulde not be dampned with y<sup>e</sup> T woulde.
Wherefore my brethren / when ye come together to eate / tary one for another. But if any man hunger / let hym eate at home / that ye come not together vnto condemnation. As for other synkes / I will set them in order when I come.

The XII. Chapter.

Concerning spirital gyftes (brethren)
I wolde not that ye were ignorant.
Ye know that ye were heyrten / and wente yours wayes vnto Rome / Idols / euen as ye were led. Wherefore I declare vnto you / that nought speakinge showe the spete of God / y<sup>e</sup> synke Iesus. And no man can saye that Ie-sus is the Lorde / but by the holy ghost.

There are diuers gyftes. yet but one spete / and there are diuers offices / yet but one Lorde:
and there are diuers operations / yet is there but one God / which worketh all in all.

The gyftes of the spete are given vnto every man to profyte the congregation. To one is given thorow the spete the vnteruaunce of wysdom to another to giuen the vnteruaunce of knowledge / accordyng to the same spete: to another / sayd in the same spete: to another the gyfte of healyng in the same spete: to another / power to do miracles: to another / prophesye: to another / T iudgement to discerne spete: to another diuers tunges: to another / the interpretation of tunges. These all worketh the same onely spete: wofke and distribureth vnto euery man / accordyng as he will. For

For as the body is one / and hath yet many members: as meurethel selfe / all the members of the body / though they be many / are yet but one body: euen so Christ also. For we are all baptysed in one spete: to be one body / whether we be Iewes: or Gentiles / whether we be bond or fre: and haue all T vntion of one spete. For the body also is not one member / but many.
If the foote saye: I am not the hand / therefore am I not a member of the body: to he therefore not a member of the body. And if the eare saye: I am not the eye / therefore am I not a member of the body: to he therefore not a member of the body. If all the body were an eye: where were then the hearinge? If all were hearinge: where were then the smelling? But now hath God set the members / euen one severally in the body / as he hath pleased hym. Whether they be all the members were one member. where were then y<sup>e</sup> body? But now are the members many / yet is the body but one.

The eye cannot see vnto the hand: I haue no neede of the: as ye see the hand vnto the fete: I haue no neede of you: but rather a greater neede: the members of the body / which seue to be most feble: are most necessary: and upon these members of the body / which we thinke least honeste / put we most honeste one: and one vnto another partes haue most beate: one vnto one: beueth members: none is not. But God hath so measured y<sup>e</sup> body / a gentill most honour vnto the members / which had neede:
that there shoulde be no strife in the body / but that the members shoulde indifferently care one for another. And if one member suffer / all the members suffer with him: and if one member be hurt in dishonour / all the members are glad with him: also. But ye are the body of Christ / and members: euen one of another.

And God hath ordeyned in the congrega-cion / first the: apostles / secondly / prophetes / thirdly / teachers / then deers / miracles: after that the gyfte of healyng / helpes / gouers / nurs / diuers languages. Are they all apostles?
Are they all prophetes? Are they all teachers?
Are they all deers of miracles? Are they all the giftes of healing? Speake they all with tunge: Can they all interpret: But couer ye the best giftes. And yet shew I you a more excellent waye.

The XIII. Chapter. ¶

I Though I speake with the tunge of mē and aungels/ and yet had not loue/ I were turn as soundinge brasse/ or as a ringling Cymbal. ¶ And though I coulde prophesie/and vnderstode all secretes/ and all knowlege/and had all sayth / so that I coulde moue mountaynes out of theyr places/ a yet had not loue/ I were nor thyng. And though I bestowed all my goodes to fede the poore/ and though I gaue my bodye euen that I burne d/ and yet haue not loue/ it profiteth me nothinge.

Phil. 4. b

Loue is patient and courteous/ loue enuery nor/ loue doeth not forwards/ is not puffed vp/valetch not wylfulness/ is not her owne/is not puffed wth anger/ thinketh not euill/reioyseth not ouer iniquite / but reioyseth in truth/ beareth all thynges / beareth all thynges hopeth all thynges/ suffereth all thynges.

B Though Prophecynges sayle/ or tunge cessio/ knowlege pryeth/ yet loue falleth new er a waye. For sure knowlege is vnperfecte/and oure prophecyng is vnperfecte. But whan that which is perfect / cometh / then shall the vnperfecte be done away. Whan I was a chyld/ I spake as a chyld/ I vnderstode as a chyld/ I was imagined as a chyld. But as soone as I was a man/ I put away chyldishnesse. Now we see thow a glasse in a darke speakinge/ but then shall we see face to face. Now I know vn-perfectly / but then shall I knowe eue as I am knowen. Now abideth sayth/ hope/ loue/ these three/ but the greatest of these is loue. ¶

The XIII. Chapter.

I Honour for loue. Couer spiritual giftes/ but specially that ye maye prophesie. For he speaketh with tunge/ speaketh not vnto men/but vnto God/ for nomā beareth him. Howe-but / in the spiche he speaketh mistenes. But he that prophesieeth/ speaketh vnto men to edi-fynges/ and to exhortacion / and to comforte. He that speaketh with tunge/ edifyeth him selfe/but he that prophesieeth / edifyeth the congregacion. I wolde that ye all spake with tunges/ but rather that ye prophesied. For greater is he that prophesieeth/ the he that speaketh with tunge: excepte he also expounde/ that the congregation maye haue edifyng. But now brethren/ if I come vnto you/ and speake with tunge/ what shall I profit you/ excepte I speake vnto you / eynher by reuelacion/ or by knowlege / or by Prophecyng / or by discryme.

Lykenyse it is also in the thynges that geue found/ and yet I see not: whether it be a pye/or an harpe / excepte they geue vnto the founde dys from the bowe shall it be knowne what is pyed: or harped: And if he trompe geue an vntrue sune sounde / who will prepare hym selfe to the battayle? Euen so ye lykenyse/whan ye speake with tunge/ excepte ye speake playne wordes / how shall it be knowne what is spoken: for ye shall not speake in the ayre.
So many kyndes of voyces are in the worldes/and none of them is without significacion.
If I knowe not oure what the voyce mean-eth / I shall be an cleaunt vnto hym that speaketh / and he that speaketh / shall be also aunt vnto me. Euen so ye. If it so muche as ye couer spiritual giftes / see that ye maye haue pleasur to the edifyng of the congregation.
Wherefore let hym that speaketh with tunge/paye/ that he maye interpret also. If I paye with tunge/ my spiche payeth / but my vnderstandinge bringeth nomā frute. How shall it be the? Namely thus: I wil paye with the spiche/ and wil paye with vnderstandinge also/ I will synge Psalmes in the spiche / and wil syng Psalmes with the vnderstandinge also.

But whan thou guesst thankes with the spiche / how shall he that occupieth the reuine of the vnlearned/ saye Amen at thy geuyng of thanke / synging he knoweth not what thou sayest: Thou guesst well thanke/ but the other is not edified. I thanke my God / that I speake with tunge more then ye all. Yet had I leure in the congregation to speake frute wor-des with my vnderstandinge / that I maye edifyme other also / rather then reth thousande wordes with tunge. ¶ Brethren be not dyuiden in vnderstandinge / howbeit / as concerninge matheousnesse be dyuiden / but in vnderstandinge be perfect. In the lawe it is as wynter: ¶ With other tunge / and with other

other hypes will I speake vnto this people / and yet shall they not heare me / sayeth the Lord. ¶ Therefore arcingeas for a token / not to them that belefe / but to them that belefe not / contrary wyse / prophesyng / not to them that belefe / not but to them which belefe.

B If the whole congregation now came together into one place / and spake all with tongues / and there came in they that are vnlearned / or they which belefe not / should they not saye that ye were out of your wittes? But if all prophesied / and there came in one that beleued not / or one vnlearned / he should be rebuffed of them all / and iudged of all / and so should the secreete of his heere be opened / and so should he fall downe vpon his face / worshippinge God / and knowynge / that of a truthe God is in you. How is it then brethren? When ye come together / euery one hath a Psalme / hath doctrine / hath a tunge / hath a reuelation / hath an interpretation. Let all be done to edifyinge. If any man speake with tongues / let hym do it hym selfe / beyng the seconde / or at the moost hym selfe / beyng the thyrde / and one after another / and let one interpret. But if there be not an interpreter / then let hym kepe silence in the congregation / or wher he / let him speake to him selfe / and to God. As for the Prophetes / let two or thre speake / let the other iudge. But if any reuelation be made vnto another that stretteth / then let the first holde his peace.

E Ye maye all prophese one after another / that they all maye learne / and that all maye haue comfort. And the secreete of the Prophetes are subiecte vnto the Prophetes. For God is not a God of diuersion / but of peace / life as in all congregacions of the sainctes. * Let your wyse hope silence in the congregation / for it shall not be permitted vnto the to speake / but to be vnder obedience / as the lawe saith also. But if they will learne any thinge / let the axe theyr hous bandes at home. For it becometh not women to speake in the congregation. ¶ Espionge the worde of God from amonge you: ¶ Is it come vnto you anely? If any man thynke hym selfe to be a prophete / or spiritual / let him knowe what I wyte vnto you / for they are the commaundementes of the Lord. But if any man be ignorant / let hym be ignorant. Whether brethren / couet to Prophesy / and forso: not to speake with tongues. ¶ Let all thynges be done honestlye Colos. ij. a and in order.

The XV. Chapter. **¶

¶ Declare vnto you brethren the Gospel that I ¶ I haue preached vnto you (which ye haue also accepted / and in the whiche ye stande / by the whiche also ye are saved) after what maner I preached it vnto you / if ye haue kept it / excepte ye haue beleued in vayne. For first of all I deliuered vnto you that whiche I also receaued / how that Christ ¶ dyed for our synnes accordinge to the scriptures / * and that he rose agayne the thyrde daye accordinge to the scriptures / * and that he was sene of Cephas / then of the twelue: after that he was sene of more then fyue hundred brethren at once / wherof thre are yet manye alijue / but some are fallen asleepe. Afterward was he sene of James / then of all the Apostles. Last of al was he sene of me also / as of one borne out of due tyme. ¶ For I am the leest of the Apostles / whiche am not worthy to be called an Apostle / because I persecuted the congregation of God. But by the grace of God / I am that I am. And by the grace in me hath not ben vayne / ¶ but I haue laboured more then they all / or than not / ¶ but the grace of God which is with me. Now whether it be I or they / thus haue we preached / and thus haue ye beleued.

¶ But if Christ be preached / that he is risen from the dead / howe saye then some amonge you / that there is no resurrection of the dead? If there be no resurrection of the dead / then is Christ not risen. If Christ be not risen / then is our preachinge in vayne / and your faith is also in vayne: yee / and we are founde false wittnesse of God / because we haue testified agaynst God / that he hath raysed vp Christ / whome he hath not raysed vp / if the dead rise not agayne. For if the dead rise not agayne / then is Christ also not risen agayne. But if Christ be not risen agayne / then is your faith in vayne / and ye are yet in your synnes: they also that are fallen asleepe in Christ are perished. If in this lyfe only we hope in Christ / then are we of all men the most miserable.

But now is Christ risen from the dead / ¶ slepe. For by one man cometh death/and by one man the resurrection of the dead. For as they all dye in Adam / so shall they all be made aliv in Christ / but every one in his order. For The first is Christ / then they that belonge unto Christ / when he cometh.

 Then the ende / when he shall deliuer vp the Kingdome vnto God the father: when he shall put downe all rule / and all superiourite and poswer: ⁊ for he will raigne / till he haue put all his enemies vnder his feete. The last enemye that shalbe destroyed is death / for he hath put all thynges vnder his feete. But whiche saieris/that all thynges are put vnder hym / it is mannest that he is excepted / whiche put all thynges vnder hym. When all thynges shalbe subdued vnto hym / then shall the sonne hym selfe also be subiect vnto hym / whiche put all thynges vnder hym / that God maye be all in all.

Do els vnder do they whiche are baptised ouer the dead / if the dead rise not at all: Why are they then baptised ouer the dead: and why stand we in jeopardy every houre: by oure re-ioycing whiche I haue in Christ Iesu oure Loide / ⁊ dye dayly. That I haue fought with beastes at I Hephesus after the maner of men / whar helpeith it me / if the dead rise not agayne? Let vs cate and synke / for to me: now shall we dye. We not ye deceaued: Iuell speake thynges corrupt good maners. Ye wake ryght vp / and synne not: for some haue not the knowlege of God. This I saye to your shame.

But many myght saye: How shall the dead arise: and with what maner of body shall they come: Thou soules / that which thou sowest is not quickned / except it dye. And what thou sowest thou sowest not ⁊ bodie that shalbe/but a bare coine / mainly of wheat / or of some other. But God geueth it a body as he will / a vnto every one of the seede his owne body.

E All this be is not one maner of flesch / but there is one maner fleshe of men / another of beastes / another of fishes / another of byrdes: And there are heauenly bodies / and there are earthy bodies: but ⁊ heauenly haue one glory / and the earthy another. ⁊ The Sunne hath one clearenesse / the Moone hath another cleare-nesse / and ⁊ starrs another clearenesse / for one starr excelleth another in clearenesse: Euen so the resurrection of the dead. It is some in corruption / and shall rise in incorruption: It is sowne in dishonoure / and shall rise in glory: It is sowne in weakenesse / and shall rise in powwer: It is sowne a natural body / and shall rise a spiritual body.

If there be a natural body / there is a spiritual body also. As it is written: ⁊ The first man Adam was made into a natural life / and the last Adam into a spiritual life. Howbeit the spiritual body is not the first / but the natural / and then the spiritual. For The first man is of the earth / earthy: the seconde man is from heauen / heauenly. As the earthy is such are they also that are earthy: and as the hea-uenly is / such are they also that are heauenly.
 And as we haue borne the ymage of ⁊ earthy / so shall we beare the ymage of the heauenly also. Thus I saye brethren / that fleshe a bloude can not inheret the Kingdome of God: neyther shall corruption inheret incorruption.

Beholde / I saye vnto you a mystery: ⁊ We shall not all slepe / but we shall all ⁊ be chaunged:
 and that sodenly / and in the twinkling of an eye: at the ryme of the laste trompe. For the trompe shall blowe / and the dead shall rise incorruptible / and we shall be chaunged. For this corruptible must put incorruption / and this mortall must put on immortallite. But when these corruptible shall put on incorrup-tion / and this mortall shall put on immortallite: then shall the worde be fulfilled that is written: ⁊ Death is swallowed up in victory. O death / where is thy stinge? Hell / where is thy victory? The stinge of death is synne. The strength of synne is the lawe. But thanks be vnto God / ⁊ which hath geuen vs the victory: ⁊ by whom we oure Loide Iesus Christ. Therefore my dear brethren / be ye steadfast / immouable / and alwaye ryde in the worde of the Loide / for as much as ye know that your labour is not in vayne in the Loide.

I determinede this with my self / & I wolde not come agayne to you in beauinty. For if I make you ioy / who is it that shall make me glad / but the same whiche is made ioy by me? And the same haue I wryten vnto you / lest when I come / I shoulde take beauinty of them / of whome I ought to reioyce: for so muche as I haue this confidence to you all / that my ioy is in the top of you all. for in greate trouble / & angusts of herte wore I vnto you with many teares / not that ye shoulde be ioy / but that ye myghte perceaue the loue / whiche I haue moost specially vnto you.

But if any man haue caused storme / the same hath not made me ioy / but partly / lesse / I shoulde greue you al. It is sufficient / that the same man is fo rebuled of many / so / fro benediction ye oughte the moie to forgyue hym / and to comforte hym / lest / he be swalowed vp in ouermuch beauinty. For I also / if I forgyue ought vnto any man / that forgyue I for your sakes / in froume of Christ / lest / we shoulde be puenient of Charite. For his thoughtes are not enfloumen vnto vs.

But when I came to / Troada to preache the Gospell of Christ / and a doore was opened vnto me in the Lordde / I had no rest in my spete / because I founde not Tytus my brother / but I toke my leue of them / & wente awaye into Macedonia. The III. Chapter

Begin

Begin we then again to praise our selfe: We neede we (as some other) of epistles of commendacion vnto you / as letters of commendacion from you: Ye are our epistle written in our hearts: whiche is vnderstande and red of all men in that yeare knowen: how that ye are the epistle of Christ / ministered by vs / and written / not with ynke / but with the spirit of the liuinge God: Not in tables of stone / but in fleshy tables of the heart. For such trust haue we thorow Christ to Godward: not that we are sufficient of our selfe / to thinke any thinge / as of our selfe: but of our ableness: cometh of God / whiche hath made vs able / to be ministers of the newe testament: not of the letter / but of the spirit. For the letter killeth / but the spirite giueth life.

But if the ministracion that killeth thoro-we the letter / and was figured in stone / was glorious: so that the diuision of Israel might not behold the face of Moses: for the clearnesse of his countenance / which glory neuertheless is done awaye: howe shall not the ministracion of the spirit be much more glorious: For if the office that preacheth dam-nacion be glorious / much more doeth the office that preacheth the righteousnesse excede in glory: For for the other parte that was glorified is nothinge glorified in respect of this exceedinge glory: for if that whiche is done awaye / be glorious / much more shal that which remaineth be glorious.

Euenge then that we haue suche trust / we vse great boldnesse / and do not as Moses / which put a vayle before his face / so that the children of Israel might not see the ende of it / that is done awaye. But they mynde tare blinded: so vnto this daye remaineth the same couerynge vntaken awaye in the olde Testament / when they rede it / which in Christe is put awaye. But euen vnto this daye vntan Moses is red / the vayle hangeth before their hearts: that neuertheless / when they turne to the Lorde / the vayle shal be taken awaye. For the Lorde is a spirit / and where the spirit of the Lorde is / there is liberty. But nowe the glory of the Lorde appeareth in vs all with open face / and we are chaunged into the same image / from one clearnesse to another / euen as of the spere of the Lorde.

The IIII. Chapter.

Before we saye we haue such an office / giuen as mercy is come vpon vs / we saye not: but cast from vs the clothes of dishonestie / and walke not in craftynesse: ney / that corrupte we the word of God / but open the truth / and expose our selfe to euery mans conscience in the sight of God.

Ifoure Gospell he yet had / it is had in them that are lost: amonge to whom the God of this world hath blinded the myndes of them / whiche beleue not / that the light of the Gospell of the glory of Christ / which is the image of God / should be vnto them.
For we preach not our selfe / but Jesus Christe to be the Lorde / and our selfe your seruantes for Jesus sake.

For God that commanded the lighte to shyne out of darkness / hath giuen a cleare shyne in our hearts / that by vs the lighte of the knowlege of the glory of God might come forth in the face of Jesus Christ.

But this treasure haue we in earthen vessels / as a sel / that the power whiche excelleth mighte be of God / and not of vs. We are troubled on euery side / yet are we not without hope.
We are in pouerty / but not vnto vnto somewhat: We are persecuted / but we are not forsaken: we are oppressed / neuerthelesse / we perishe not. We alwayes beare aboute in our body the dynges of the Lorde Jesus / that the life also of the Lorde Jesus might appare in our bodies: For we which lyue / are alwayes deliuered vnto death for Jesus sake / that the life also of Jesus might appere in our mortall fleshe.

Therefore is our death notte mightye in vs / but lyfe in you. For: But we seege that we haue the same spere of faith / accordinge as is written: I beleue / and therefore haue I spe-ken: we also beleue / and therefore we speake / for we knowe that he / whiche raysed vp the Lorde Jesus / shall raise vs vp also by the meanes of Jesus / and shall sit vs with you.
For all thinge do I for your sakes / that the plenteous grace by the thanksgyuinge of many / maye redounde to the praise of God.
Therefore are we not weery / but though sure outwardly: man be corrupte / yet the inwardly is reuered: Saye by Saye. † For oure trouble / whiche is but temporal and light / worketh an exceeding and an eternall reioyght of gloiy: vnto vs / which loke not on the thinges that are sene: / but on them whiche are not sene. For the thinges whiche are sene / are temporal: / but the thinges that are not sene / are eternall. ¶

The V. Chapter.

¶ We know surely / that if our tearthy house of this dwelling were destroyed / we haue a building ordered of God / an house not made with handes / but curialising in heauen. † And in the same / syng we also asceroure manyon / whiche is from heauen: and longe to be clothed therewith / so yet / if that we be founde clothed / and not naked. For as longe as we are in this tabernacle / we synghe and are greeued / for we had rather not be vnclothed / but to be clothed vpon / that mortalyte mighte be swallowed vp of Iesu. But he hath ordeyned vs for this / as God / † whiche hath geuen vs the earnest of the spere. The reioyces are we alwaye of good cheare / and knowe that as longe / as we dwell here in the body / we are not at home with the Lord: for we walke in faith / and se him not. Neuer theles / we are of good comfort / and had leuer to be absent from the body / and to be at home with the Lord.

¶ Wherefore / whether we be at home / or fo home / we endeavour our selues to please him. † For we misse all appare before the iudgement seat of Christ / that euery one maye reioyce in his body / accordyng to that he hath done / whether it be good or bad. † I synghe then that we knowe home that the Lord is to be feared / we becle saye with men / but we are knowne well ynough vnto God: I truste also / that we are knowne in youre conscience. We praye not oure selues agayne vnto you / but geue you an occasion to reioyce of vs / that ye maye haue to reioyce as gainke them / whiche reioyce after the outward apperance / and not after the bert. For if we do to muche / we do it vnto God: if we kepe measure / we do it for youre sake: for the loue of Christ constryngeth vs / in as much as we thus iudge / that if one be dead for all / then are all dead. † And therefore dyed he for all / that they which lyue / should not bene forsoth lyue vnto them selues / but vnto hym / which dyed for them and rose againe. ¶

¶ Therefore henceforth knowe we no man after the fleshe: and though we haue knowne Christe also after the fleshe / yet knowe we him nowe so no more. Therefore if any man be in Christe / he is a newe creature. Olde thinges are paste awaye / † Beholde / all are become newe. Neuer theles / all thynges are of God / whiche hath reconyld vs vnto hym selfe by Iesus Christe / and hath geuen vs the offyce to puaiche the attonement. For † God was in Christe / and reconyld the worlde vnto hym selfe / and counted not they synes vnto them / and among vs hath bect vs in the woide of the attonement. Howe then are we mislaininge in the roume of Christe / euen as though God exhorted vs by vs. We beseeche you nowe therefore in Christes steade / that ye be at one with God: for he hath made hym selfe whiche knewe no synne / to be synne for vs / that we by his meane should be that righte / whiche is reconyld / whiche is God is alowed.

The VI. Chapter.

¶ We as helpe therefore exhort you / by I receaue not the grace of God in vayne. For he saeth: † I haue herde y in the tyme accepted / and in the Baye of saluacion haue I succoured the. Beholde / nowe is the accepted tyme / nowe is the Baye of saluacion. Let vs geue no man occasion of euill / that dure of syne: be not euill spoken of: but in all thinges let vs becaue oure selues as the ministers of God: in muche patience / in troubles / in necessities / in anguishes / in stryppes / in pynnes / in laboures / in laboures / in watchinges / in fastinges / in purchaung / in knowledges / in longe sufferings / in hardnesse / in the holy ghoost / in loue vnfayned / in the woide of the truthe / in the power of God / by the armour of righteousnesse on the right hande / and on the left / by honour a dishonoure / by euell repute and good repute: as because / a yet true: vs vnknowne / and yet knowe: as beinge / a beholde / we haue chaustened / a not filled: as for me / and yet alwaye merry: as poore / a yet make many riches: as hauing nothinge / a yet possynging all thinges. ¶

E Heare not a strange yocke with the vnbelievers. For what selowshyp hath righteousnesse with vnrigheteousnesse? What company hath light with darkeenesse? How agreeth Chaffe with Belyall? O: what parte hath the Belieuer with the infidels? How accordeth the temple of God with images?

The VII. Chapter.

Synge nowe that we haue suche promise/ (Yearely beloued) let vs cleanse oure selves from all fylthinesse of the fleshe and spite/and growe vp to full holynesse in the feare of God. Vnderstande vs righte: We haue buried noman/we haue corrupte noman. We haue defrauded noman. I speake not this to cōdemne you/so: I haue shewed you before/that ye are in oure heere to vs and to Ihu with you. I am very bolde towards you. I make muche boast of you/I am filled with comforte/I am exceddinge ioyous in all oure tribulation. † For when we were come into Macedonia/oure fleshe had no rest/ but we were troubled on euery syde: outwards was syghing/in wards was feare. Vncherelesse/† God that comforteth the ebiece/comforted vs by the comynge of Titus.

Not onely by his comynge/ but also by the consolation tober with vs was comforted of you/when he tolde vs your besyng/ your praying/oure seruent minde for me/so that I now reioyce the more. For where as I made you ioy by the letter/it ripeneth me not/though I did repente. for I felt that the same epistle made you ioy/ (though it were but for a season) But now I reioyce/not that ye were ioy/ but that ye were ioy to repute mince. For ye comforted godly/so that nought ye were hurte by vs. † For godly solowshipp causeth repentance vnto saluacion/not to be repented of: † But woulde ye somwe cause the death. Beholde/where as ye haue had godly solowre/ what diligence hath it wrought in you? Yeet a sufficient answer/ displeasure/ feare/ desyres a seruent minde/punishment. For in all pointes ye haue shewed your selves/ that ye are cleare in the matter.

Wherefore though I wrote vnto you/ yet it is not done for his cause that did hurte/ neither for his cause that was hurte: but that your diligence (which ye haue for vs in the sight of God) might be manifest with you. These are we comforted/because ye are comforted: but exceddinge the more ioyed we/ for the ioye of Titus/ because his feare was refreshed of you al. I am therfore not nowe ashamed/ though I boasted my selfe vnto him of you: but lyke as all is true that I haue spoken vnto you/ when so is oure boallinge vnto Titus sounde true also. And his inward affection is more aboundante towards you/ when he remembereth the obedience of you al/ howe ye receaued him with feare and tremblinge. I reioyce that I may be bolde our you in all thinges.

For to their power (I heare recorde) yet/ and beyond their power they were willing of their owne accord/ and payed vs with great instantce/ that we wolde receaue their benefite/ and selowshippe of the hande/ charging that Tit. is done for the sinceritee: And not as we losed for you/ when he gaue oure selves vs to the Lorde/ and afterwarde vnto vs by the wyll of God/ so that we coude not but be Nowe as ye are ryche in al poyntes in sayth/ & in word/ & in knowlege/ and in al dignities/ and in youre loue toward vs/ euen so se that ye be plentifully also in this beneuolence. This I saye not as commaundynge/ but saynge other are so diligent/ I proue youre loue also/ whether it be perfect or no. For ye knowe the liberalite of our Lord Iesus Christus/ whiche though he be ryche/ yet for youre sake he became poore/ that ye throughe his pouerte mighte be made ryche.

But nowe performe the vede also/ that lyke as there is ready mynde to will/ there maye be a ready mynde also to performe the vede/ of that whiche ye haue. * For if there be a willinge mynde/ it is accepted accordynge to that a man hath/ not accordynge to that he hath not. This is not done to the entent that other shoulde haue cause/ and ye commaunce/ but that it be a lyke. Let youre aboundaunce surcure their lacke/ in this tyme of verth/ & theye aboundaunce also hereafter maye supplie your lacke/ that there maye be equalitie. As it is written: I he that gathered muche/ had not the more/ and he that gathered litle/ wanted not ynge. Thankes be vnto God/ whiche put in the berre of tyms/ the same diligence toward you. H If the handreachinge vnto the sayns Rom. 16. 1. it is no neede for me to wryte vnto you: for I knowe your redines of mind/ & where of I boast my selfe among them of Macedonia/ and saye: Thaha was ready a yere ago. And your strenuous hart prouoked many. Neuertheless/ yet haue we sent the brethren/ lest oure reueryng ouer you shoulde be in vayne in this behalfe that ye myghte be ready/ as I haue reported of you: lest when they of Macedonia came with me/ and fynde you vnprepared/ we (I wil not saye ye) shoulde be ashamed in this presumption of boasting.

Wherefore/ I thought it necessary to exhorte the brethren/ to come beforehande vnto you/ for to prepare this blessing promised afore/ that it might be ready/ so that the blessinge/ and not a defraudinge. * This I saynge/ that he whiche so weth litle/ shall reape litle/ and he that so weth plentifully/ shall likewise reape plentifully every one/ accordynge as he hath purposed in his herte/ nor grudginge/ or of copulsion. * For God loveth a chearfull geuer. sanctes/But also in aboundaunce herein/that for his laudable ministracōe myn mighte geue thanks vnto God/and praise God for youre obedient professinge of the Gospell of Christ/and for youre synnerlesse in distributing vnto them/and to all men/and in their prayer for you/whiche longe after you /for the aboundaunce of grace of God in you. Thankes be vnto God for his vnouispreakable gifte.

The X. Chapter.

A I shall my selfe beside you by the mekenesse and softnesse of Christ/whiche whā I am present amonge you /am of small reputacion/But am bold towarde you beyng absente. I beseech you that I neede not be bold whā I am present/and so vs the boldnesse/wherewith I am supposed to be bold against some / whiche require vs as though we walked after the fleshe: though we walke in the fleshe/ yett we not after a fleshy maner.
For the weapons of our warfare are not fleshy /but myghtie before God to cast downe strong holdes/wherewith we overthrowe imaginations/and every byghte thinge that exalteth it selfe against the knowledge of God/and bringe in captiuitie all vnderstandinge to the obedience of Christ/ and are ready to take vengeance on all that disobediēce / whā your obediēce is fulfilled. Lett ye on thinge after the vnter apperance?

B If any man truste of him selfe that he is Christe/lett him thinke this also by him selfe/that like as he is Christe: euen so are we Christe also. And though I shoulde boast my self somewhat more of oure authoritie/ which the Lorde hath geuen vs to edifie and not to destruye/ it should not be to my shame. This I saye/lesse/ I shoulde seme as though I wē aboute to make you asayed with letters. For the epistles/saye they are force and strong/But his bodily presence is weake/ and his speche rude. Lett him that is suche/thinke on this wyse/that as we are in woode by letters whā we were absent/such are we also in dede whā we are present. For we were not reuēt: o: compare oure selfe vnto some that praise them selfe: that curbellesse/whyle they measure the selfe by them selfe/and holde onely of them selfe/they vnderstande nothinge.

Howbeit/we will not boast our selfe about measure / But onely according to the measure of the rule/ wherewith God hath distributed vnto vs the measure to reade euen vnto you. For we streche not oure selfe so farre / as though we had not reached vnto you. For euen vnto you haue we come with the Gospell of Christ/and boast not oure selfe out of measure in other mens laboure.
Yee/and we hope whā your faith is increased in you/that we will come farther/accordinge to our measure/and picade the Gospell vnto them that dwell beyonde you / and not to reioyce in that which is prepared with another mans measure.

The XI. Chapter.

Lett him that reioyceth/reioyce in the Lord De: for he that prayeth hym selfe is not vsa-ful/ but he whome the Lorde prayeth. For vs woulde God ye coulde suffice me a litle in my folishnesse/ yett do ye forbear me. For I am gelous ouer you with Gods gelousie. For I haue marryed you vnto one man/ to bring a chaste virgine vnto Christe. Eur I feare/lest as the serpent begiled Eue with his tale relise/ euen so your wytes shoulde be corrupted from the synnerlesse that is in Christe.
For if he that cometh vnto you/ picade as nother Iesus/whome we haue not preached/or if ye receaue another spere/ that ye haue not receaued/ or an other Gospell/ that ye haue not accepted/ ye myghte ryghte well haue bene contente. For I suppose that I am no lesse/ the byghte Apostles are. And though I be rude in speache/ yett am I not rude in knowledge. Howbeit/ amonge you / I am knowne to the vntermost. Wherfore I synne therein/ because I submitted my selfe/ that ye mighte be exalted.

For I preached vnto you the Gospell of God freely/ and robbed other congregacions/and soke wages of them to picade vnto you.
And whā I was present with you/ and had needes/ I was greuous to none. For that whiche was lackyng vnto me/ the theban whiche came fro Macedonia/ supplied.
And in all thinge I kepte my selfe so/ that I shoulde not be greuous to you/ and so will I kepe my selfe. As surely as the structure of Christe is in me/ this reioycing shall not be taken anguytes for Christes sake: for when I am weake / then am I stronge: I am become a foote in the hallinge my selfe: ye haue compels me. For I oughte to be commended of you / in so muche as I am in nothinge inferior to the hyghte Apollos. Though I be no thinge yet are the tokens of an Apo:ple woun-dyte amonge you / with all patience / with signes / and with wondrous / and with mighty deeds. For what is it / wherein ye are inferiours to the other congregacions: excepte it be that I haue not bene greuous vnto you.

Forgeue me this wronge. Beholde / I am ready the thirde tyme to come vnto you / and will not be chargeable vnto you. For I see not yowre / but you. For the children ought not to gather treasure for the elders / but the elders for the children. I will very gladly bestowe / and wylbe bestowed for yowre loue: though the more I loue you / the lesse am I haued againe.

But lette be so / that I greued you not:
neuertheless: for so muche as I was crafty / I stole you with guile. Haue I defrauded you by any of them / whom I sente vnto you: I defraide Titus / and with him I sent a brother: byd Titus defraude you: Haue we not walked in one spiete: Went we not in lyfe for restlespede: Againe / shulde ye that we exasoure selfes: We speake in Christe in the sight of God. But all this (dearly beloued) is done for your edyfyng. For I feare / lest / when I come / I shall not fynde you suche as I wold: and lest ye shall fynde me suche as ye wold not / lest there be amonge you / beha-uours / enuies / wrathes / strynges / factionings / whisperinges / swellinges / opoures / lesse / when I come againe / God bunge me loue amonge you / and lest / I be constrained to bewaile many of them that haue synned before / and haue not repented ouer the vn-clennesse / and whoredome / and wantonnesse which they haue committed.

The XIII. Chapter.

When come I the thirde tyme vnto you.
In the mouth of two / or thre witnesses shall every matter be stablished. I haue tolde you before / and tell you before as presente the seconde tyme / and waye it: now beinge absent / vnto them which in tyme passed haue synned / and to all other: and if I come againe / I will not spare / sayinge that ye see experie-ence of hym: / whiche speaketh in me / such Christe / whiche amonge you is not weake / but is myghtye amonge you. And though he was crucified in weake nesse / yet lyueth he in the power of God. And though we are weak in him / yet lyue we with him in the power of God amonge you.

Prooue yowre selfes: whether ye are in the faith: / examen yowre selfes. Knowe ye not / yowre selfes / that Iesus Christ is in you: Excepte ye be cast awaye. But I will ye knowe that we are not cast awaye. I defraide before God that ye do no euill / nor that ye shoulde seme commendable / but that ye shoulde be that which is good / and let ye be cast awaye.
For we maye do nothinge against the truth / but for the truth. We are glad when we are weake / and ye strange: / and because all we wylbe for / namely yowre perfectesse. Therefore wyte I these thinges beinge absent / lest / when I am presente. I shoulde vse shew-nesse / according to the power: / whiche the Lorde hath geuen me to edyfy / and not to destrope.

Finally brethren / reioyce / be perfecte / comfoure yowre selfes / be of one mynde / be peaceable / and the Word of loue / and peace shalbe with you. Salute one another with an holy kisse. Rom. xvi. b All the synners salute you. The grace of oure Lorde Iesu Christ / and the loue of God / and the felowshipp of the holy ghoost be with you al. Amen.

The seconde Epistle to the Corinthians / sent from Philippus in Madonia / by Titus and Lucas.

The Epistle of the Apostle S. Paul to the Galathians.

The first Chapter.

Paul an Apostle (not of men/nor by man) but by Jesus Christ/a by God the father/whiche raised him up from the dead) and all the things which are with me. Vnto the congregacions in Galacia.

ii. Cor. i. a Eph. i. a
i. Pet. i. a

Grace be with you/and peace from God the father/and oure Lord Jesus Christ/whiche gaue him selfe for oure synnes/that he might redeme vs from all iniquity/according to the will of God oure father/ to whome be prayse for euer and euer. Amen.

Act. 20. a

I marvel that ye are so soon turned (sed him thus called you in the grace of Christ) vnto another Gospel/whiche to nothinge els/ but that there be some/whiche I trouble you/ and intende to peruert: the Gospel of Christ.

i. Cor. 10. a

Neuertheless/ though we oure selues/ do an euangel from heauen preache vnto you any other Gospel/then that which we haue preached vnto you/for the same be accused. As we haue sayde afores/ so saye we nowe againe: If any man preach vnto you any other thing then that ye haue receaued/ the same be accused. Preache I men now/ or Gods? Or go I about to please men? If I should yet please men/ I were not the seruant of Christ.

Job. v. b

Jacob. iij. a

7. Eph. i. b

But I certifie you brethren/ that the Gospel which is preached of mee/ is not of me. for I neither receaued it/ nor learned it of man/ but by the reuelacion of Jesus Christe. For ye haue herde of my conuersacion afoze tyme in the Jewisshype/ how that beyonde measure I persecuted the congregacion of God / and spoked it / and persecuted in the Jewisshype about many of my companions in my nation/ and was a much more feruēt in aintener of the tradicions of the fathers. But when it pleased God whiche separated me from my mothers wombe/ I and called me by his grace/ so to declare his sonnes in me/ that I shoulde preache him thorothe the Gospel amonge the Gentens/ immediately I communed not of the matter with / flesh and bloude / neyther came I to Jerusalem: vnto them whiche were Apostles before me: but wente my wayes into Arabia/ and came againe to Damascus. Then after the yere I came to Ierusalem to be Diner/ and abode with him fyfene dayes. As for the other Apostles/ I sawe none of them/ save James the Lords brother.

The things that I wyte vnto you / beholde/ I God knoweth/ I the not. After that I wente I into the coastes of Syria and Cilicia: but of face I was unknowne of the Churche congregacions in Ierusalem/ wherby they had herde onely that: he that persecuted in tyme passed/ preacheth now the faith whiche some time be destroyed/ and they sayed God in me. Amen.

The II Chapter.

Then after fourtene yeres/ I wente againe to Jerusalem with Barnabas: and Titus with me also. But I wente up by reuelacion/ and communed with them of the Gospel/ whiche I preache amonge the Gentens: but specially with them whiche were in reputacion/ lest I should runne/ or had runne in vayne. But Titus whiche was also with me/ was not compelled to be circumcised: though he was a Greeke/ and ther because of certayne incommens/ beyng falsely detent/ whiche came in amonge other / to spee oure libertie/ whiche we haue in Christe Jesus/ that they might bunge do into bondage: to whome we geue no roume/ nor for the space of an houre/ as concerning to be brought into subieccion/ that the truth of the Gospel might continue with you.

As for them that seemed to be greater/ what they were in tyme passed/ it maketh no matter to me. for God looth not on the outward appareance of men. Neuertheless/ I remember which sined great/ taught me nothing: but contrarywise/ when they sawe that the Gospel ouer the vncircumcison was committed vnto Peter: (for he that was my gyfte with Peter to the Apostles by the circumcission there was my gyfte with me also amonge the Heithen) they perceaued & grace that was giuen vnto me.

James and Cephas / and Iohn / which semed to be pillars / and Barnabas the ryght handes / and agreed with vs / that we shoulde preache amonge the Heithen / and they amonge the Jewes / onely that we shoulde remembre the poore / which thinge also I was diligent to do.

But when Peter was come to Antioche / I withstande hym in the face / for he was traitory to be blamed. For afore there came certayne from James / he dyd eate with the Heithen.
But when they were come / he withdrew and separated hym self / fearing them which were of the circumcission. And the other Jewes dissembled with hym likewise / in so muche that Barnabas was broughte into theyr simula-cion also. But when I sawe that they walked not ryghte after the trowth of the Gospell / I saide vnto Peter openly before all: If thou bringest a Jewe / lyuest after the maner of the Gentiles / and not as do the Jewes / why causest thou the Gentiles then to lyue as do the Jewes?

Though we be Jewes by nature / and not synners of the Gentiles / yet in so muche as we knowe / that a man is not made righteous by the dedes of the lawe / but by the fayth on Iesus Christ / we haue beleued also on Iesus Christ / that we myght be made righteous by the fayth of Christ / and not by the dedes of the lawe / because that by the dedes of the lawe no fleshe shalbe iustified.

If we then whiche seke to be made righteous by Christ / shoulde be yet founde synners ourselues / is not Christ then the minister of synne? God forbid. For if I buylde agayne that which I haue destroyed / then make I my self a trespasser. But I knowe the lawe com-mendeth vnto the lawe / that I myght lyue vnto God. I am crucified with Christ / yet do I lyue: inuiscible / now not I / but Christ li-ueth in me. For the lyfe whiche I now liue in the fleshe / I liue in the fayth of the sonne of God / which loued me / and gaue hym self for me / I cast not awaye the grace of God.

For if righteousnesse come by the lawe / then shoulde Christ in vayne.

The III. Chapter.

The foolish Galathians / I who haue bene winded you / that ye shoulde not beleue the trowth: To whom Iesus Christ was bescribed before the eyes / and amonge you crucified. This onely wolde I learne of you: Re-ceaued ye the spere by the dedes of the lawe / or by the preachinge of the sayth? Ye ye no wysse: Ye began in the spere / wolde ye ende now when in fleshe? Haue ye suffred so muche in vayne: it be do in vayne. For that cause you the spere / and death suche greates as amonge you / woth he it thowme the dedes of the lawe / or by the preachinge of the sayth?

¶ Then as Abraham beleued God / and it was counted vnto hym for righteousnesse. Now ye knowe / that they which are of sayth / Jacob & Abraham chyldren.

The scripture saue aforhande / that God iustifieth the Heithen thowse sayth: Therefore shewed it glad tydings afore vnto Abraham / and sayde: In the shall all Heithen be blessed. So then they which be of sayth / are blessed with saythfull Abraham. For as many as go aboute with the woikes of the lawe / are vnder the curse. For it is wrytten: I Cursed be e-uery man that continueth not in all thynges that are wrytten in the booke of the lawe / to do the. That now is iustified by the lawe / in the sight of God it is content: For the iust shall lyue by his sayth. ¶ The lawe is not of Romes sayth / but the man that doeth the same / shal lyue therein. ¶ But Christ hath redeemed vs from the curse of the lawe / when he became a curse for vs / for it is wrytten: Cursed is e-uery man that hāgeth on a tree: that the blessing of Abraham myght come on the Gentiles in Christ Iesu / and that we myght so receaue the promysed spere thowme sayth.

¶ Heithen / I will speake after the maner of men. Though it be but a mans testament / yet noman despiseth it / or addeth any thinge thereto / when it is confirmed. ¶ To Abraham and hys sēde were y promysed made. He sayth not in the sēdes as in many / but in thy sēde / as in one / whiche is Christ. This Testament I saye / whiche afore was confirmed to Christward is not disannulled (that y pro-te / whiche crieth Abba / deare father. Wherefore now / thou arte not a seruaunt / but a sonne.

 If thou be a sonne / then arte thou the heyre of whan ye knewe not God / ye dyd seruite vnto them / whiche by nature are no goodde. But ye now synging ye knowe God / yet / rather are knowne of God / howe is it / I that ye tyme / you backe agayne vnto the weakte and bug-gerly tradicions / wherunto ye desyre agayne a frethe to be in bondage.

Ye obserue dayes a monethes / and tymes / and yeares. I am in feare of you / lest / I haue bestowed laboure on you in vayne. Dichein I beseeche you / be ye as I am. For I am as ye are. Ye haue not hurtme at all. For ye knowe how that in weaknesse after the fleithe. I pre-chased the Gospell vnto you at the first / and my redemption whiche I suffred after the fleithe / ye wryted not / neither shored / nor receaued me as an Angel of God / yet / cut as Chylde in Ihesu. How happy were ye them: For I deare you receiue / that if it had ben possible / ye had plucked out youre owne eyes / and geuen the vnto me. Am I therefore become your enemy because I tell you the truth?

They are gelous ouer you myselfe. Yet / they wolde make you to fall backe / that ye myght be seruente to themwarde. It is good to be

Tell me ye that will be vnder the lawe / haue ye not herde the lawe? I For it is written / that Abraham had two sonnes / the one by a bonde mayden / the other by a fre woman.
 I as for hym that was of the bonde mayden / he was borne after the fleithe: but he whiche was of the fre woman / was borne by promisse.
 These wordes be toke somewhat. For these women are the two testamente. The one from the mount Syna / that gendereth vnto bondage / whiche is Agar. For Agar is called in Arabic the mount Syna / and reacheth vnto Jerusalem / whiche now is / and is in bondage with her chyldren.

But Jerusalem that is aboute / in the fre woman / whiche is the mother of vs all. For it is written: I Receiue thou baren / that becomest a

no children: brake forth / and crye thou that trayphes not / for the Iesolace hath many mo children then the which hath an houshede.
As for vs brethren / we are the children of I saac / according to the promise.

14 But lyke as at that tyme / he that was boine after the fleshe / persecuted hym that was boine after the spete / euen so is it now also. But 15 what sayeth the scripture? Put awaye the bonde mayden / and her sonnes / for the sonne of the bonde mayden shall not be heere with the sonne of the free woman. So now brethren / we are not children of the bonde mayden / but of the free woman. I

Ch. V. Chapter.

1 Graunde fast therefore in the liberty / wher with Christ hath made vs free / and be not 2 wrapped agayne in the yoke of bondage.
3 Beholde / I Paul say vnto you: * If ye be circumcised / Christ profreth you nothinge at all.
4 I testifie agayne vnto every man whiche is circumcised / that he is bounde to kepe the whole lawe. Ye are givv quyte from Christ / as many of you as will be made ryghteous by the lawe / and are fallen from grace. But we waite in the spete of hope / to be made righteous by 14 faith. I For in Christ Iesu / neyther is circumcisione with any thyng / nor vncircum-15 cision: but faith whiche is by loue in my gify in operation. Ye run well: * who was a let vnto you / that ye should not obeye the truth?
16 Such counsayll is not of hym that hath called you. I Hyke lauen fourthy the whole tompe of Rome.

17 I have trust towarde you in the Lord / that ye will be none otherwyse mynded. But 18 be that troubleth you / shall beere bye / I iudge-ment / wharsoeuer he be. Brethren / if I yet preache circumcicion / why do I suffice persecution? then hath the slander of the crosse ceased. Wolde God they were reed out from amonge you / whiche trouble you. But brethren / 19 ye are called vnto libertye / onely let not your 20 libertye be an occasion vnto the fleshe / but be loue ierue one another. For all the lawe is 21 fulfilled in one word / namely in this: * Loue 22 thy nerybour as thy self. But if ye byte / and 23 reuoure one another / take heed / that ye be not 24 consumed one of another. I

25 I saye: Waite in the spete / and so shall ye not fulfill the Iustice of the fleshe. For the iustice of the fleshe is such agaynst the spete / and the spete agaynst the fleshe. These are contrarye one to the other / so that ye can not do bothe: ye wolde: But and if ye be led of the spete / then are ye

Ch. VI. Chapter.

1 If we lyue in the spete / let vs walke also in the spete. Let vs not be vayne glorious / prouokinge one another / and enuyng one another. Brethren / if any man be overtaken of a fault / ye / which are spiritual / enfourme hym with a me. The spete: and consider thine owne selfe / that thou also be not tempted. I Beare 2 ye one anothers burthen / and so shall ye fulfill the lawe of Christ. But if any man thinke hym selfe to be somwhat / when in dede he is nothinge / let him deceaue hym selfe. Let every man proue hys owne worke: / and then shall he beare reuoycinge in his owne selfe / and not in another. I For: euery one shall beare hys owne burthen. No. xiiij. b that shall he reape. He that soweth vpon the fleshe / shall of the fleshe reape destruction. But he that soweth vpon the spete / shall of the spete made hym above all thynges: the head of the

The II. Chapter.

And quickned you also / when ye were dead thow we trespasses and synnes / in the which in tyme pass ye walkted according to the course of this worlde / and after the prince that ruleth in the ayre / namely / after the spere whiche now worketh in the chyldren of unbelife: T Amonge whome we also had our conscienfacion in tyme pass in the lustes of oure fleshe / and the wyll of the fleshe / and of the mynde / and were naturally the chyldren of wrath / even as well as othe.

But God whiche is ryche in mercy thow we his greace lone / whereunto he loued vs euen when we were dead in synnes / hath quick-ned vs with Christ / (for by grace are ye saued) and hath raysed vs up with hym / and set vs hym in heauently thynges thow we Christ Jesu that in tyme to come be myghti shewe the exceedinge ryche of hys grace / in kindnesse to vsward in Christ Jesu. for by grace are ye saued thow we sayth / and that not of your selues. for it is the gyfte of God / not of wor-

For are his workman shyppe / created in Christ ordyned vs before / that we shoulde walke in them.

Wherefore remember / that ye whiche afore tyme were Gentyles after the fleshe / and were called vncircumcision / of them that are called Circumcision after the fleshe / whiche circumcision is made with the hande / that ye at the same tyme were withoute Christ / and reputed alienes from the comune wealth of Israel / and were strangers from the testament of promysse / before had ye no hope / and were withoute God in this worlde. But now ye that be in Christ Jesu / and afore tyme were farre of / are now made nye by the bloude of Christ.

for he is oure peace / whiche of both hath made one / and hath broken doune the wall that was a stoppe betwixte vs / and hath also thow we hys fleshe put away the cause of hatred / (namely the lawe of the commaundemen-tes containyd in the lawe written) / of wayne he myghte create one newe man in him selfe and make peace / and to reconytle both vnto God in one bodye thow we the crosse / and so he stewe the hatred thow we hys owne selfe a came / and T preached peace in the Gospell / Esa. lxv. c me / as I wrote aboue in fewe wordes: Gal. ij. b whereby when ye reade it / ye may perceaue myne vnderstandinge in the mystery of Christ / whiche (mystery) in tyme pass was not open-ned vnto the chyldren of men / as it is now reclared to hys holy Apostles and Prophets by the spere / namely / that the Gentyles shoulde be inheritous also / and of the same bodye / and partakers of his promysse in Christ by T Gos-of the worlde hath ben hyd in God / whiche made all thynges thow we Iesus Christe / to the intent that now vnto the rulers and po-be farre fro you with all maliciousnesse. ¶ But be ye curious one to another / mercyfull / and forgive one another / eue as God hath forgiven you in Christ.

The V. Chapter.

BE ye the followers thereof of God as he bare chyliden / and walke in love / euen as Christ loved vs / and gave hym self for vs in offering / and sacrifice of a sweet sauoure vnto God. As for whoredome / and all uncleinesse / e: couetousnesse / let it not be named amonge you / as it becometh syneres / neither fylthyenesse: foolishly talking / wether restinge (whiche are not comly / but rather geynge of thanks. ¶ For be sure / what no whor: monger / or vncleie person / or couetous person / whiche is a worshipper of ymagies ) hath inheritaunce in the Kingdome of Christ a of God.
¶ Let women be caree you with vayne wor-des: for because of these cometh the wrath of God vpon the chyliden of vnbelsie. Be not ye therefor coparuous with them. For sometyme ye were be carenesse / but now are ye lght in the Lorde.

Walke as the chyliden of lghte. ¶ For the frute of the sperte is all maner of goodnesse / a righteousnesse / and tructh: ¶ And proue what is pleasing vnto the Lorde / and haue no se-lowe: bypse weth / on vntrusfull workes of vane-kenesse / but rather rebuke them. For it is shame euen to name those thynges / whiche are vone of them in secreete. ¶ But all thinges are mani-feste / when they are rebuked of the lghte. For whosoour to manifest / that same is lghte.
¶ Therefore sayeth he: ¶ Make you that stand and stande vp from the dead / and Christ shall geue the the lghte.

¶ Take heed therefore how ye walke circū-spectly / nor as the vnyuersal / as the wyse / and redeme the tyme / for it is a miserable tyme.
Whereof be not ye vnwyse / but vnderstande what the will of the Lorde is: / and be not thankle with vayne / wherein is excess: but be full of the sperte: / and talke amonge your sel-ues of Psalmes a Hymnes / and spiritual song-ges / singing and makinge melody vnto the Lorde in your hartes: / geuynge thanks alwayes for all thinges vnto God the father / in the name of our Lorde Iesus Christ submittinge youre selues one to another in the feare of God.

¶ Let the women submitte the selues vnto the husband / as vnto the Lorde. ¶ For Colos. ij. c the husband is the wyfes head / eue as Christ is also the head of the congregation / and he is the Sauoure of his body. Therefore as the congregation is in subiection to Christ / lyke wyse let the wyfes be in subiection to their husbands in all thynges.

¶ Ye husbands loue your wyfes / euen as Christ loved the congregation / and geue hym self for it / to sanctifie it / and clesed it in the fountayne of water by the worde / to make it vnto hym self a glorious congregation / hauynge no spot / nor wrinkle / nor any such thyng: but that it shoulde be holy and without blame.

So ought men also to loue their wyfes / euen as theyr owne bodies. He that loueth his wyfe / loueth hym selfe. For noman euer yet hated his owne fleche / but noystrife / and cher-sheth it euen as the Lorde doeth also the congregation. For we are members of his body / of his fleche / and of his bones. ¶ For this cause shall a man leaue father and mother / and cleue vnto his wyfe / and they two shalbe one fleche: This is a great secreete: but I speake of Christ and the congregation. ¶ Neuerthelesse / so ye is / that eury one of you loue his wyfe euen as hym selfe: but let the wyfe feare her hous-bande.

The VI. Chapter.

Me chyliden obey youre elders in the Lorde.
¶ For that is righte. Honour thy father and thy mother. ¶ That is the firste commandement / that hath any promysse / that thou mygst prosper / and lyue longe yea in earth. And ye fathers / punish not youre chyliden vnto wrath / but bynynge them vp in the nurture / and in inforcaion of the Lorde.

¶ Ye seruantes / obey youre bodely masters / with feare and trembling / in singles.
¶ For Colos. ij. c with seruaute only in the eye sight / so men / pleasre: but as seruantes of Christ / doynge the wyll of God from the herte with good wyll. Think that ye serue the Lorde / and not a stryfe, but some of good wil. The one parte preacheth Christ of strife, and not purely / supposinge to adde more aduersyte vnto my bdye. The other part of loue, for they know that I lye here for the defence of the Gospel.

C What then? So that Christ be preached all manner of wayes, whether it be done by occasion: or true meaninge. I reioyce therein, and will reioyce. For I knowe that the same shall chaunce to my saluacion / I shewe youre prayer, and ministringe of the spiete of Iesus Christ: as I loke for and hope, that in no thinge I shalbe ashamed: But that with all confidence, as alwaies in tyme paste / euen so nowe. Christ shalbe magnified in my body, whether it be thowse lye or thowse deare. For Christe is to my lyfe and death is to me auantage. But in as muche as to lye in the fleshe is fruitfull to me: for the woike I wrote now what I shall do: / for both these thinges lye harde vpon me. I desire to be laused, and to be with Christe / whiche thinge were much better: for me. But to abide in the fleshe is more needfull for you.

D And this am I sure of that I shall abyde / and continue with you: either the furtheraunce and ioye of youre faith: that ye maye abundantly reioyce in Christ Iesus thowse me: / by my comminge to you againe. Only let your conuersacion be: / as it becometh the Gospel of Christ: that whether I come and se you / or els be absent. I maye yet beare of you: that ye continue in one spiete / and one soule: labouring as we do: to mayntaine the faith of the Gospell: and in nothinge fearinge your aduersaries: whiche is to them a token of perdition: but vnto you a token of saluacion / as that of God. For vnto you it is giuen / not only that ye shoulde beleefe on Christ: but also suffice for his sake: and to haue euen the same figh: whiche ye haue sene in me / and nowe beare of me.

If there be any comforte you any consolation / in Christe: if there be any comforte of loue / if there be any saluacione of the spiete: / if there be any compellion and mercie: fulfill it with my ioye: / that ye shalbe one waye: hauinge one loue: / beinge of one accord: and of one mynde: / that there be nothinge thowse stryfe and vayne gloire: / but that thowse you: / as it is the benefite of mynde: eury man esteeme another better then him selfe: and let eury man loke not for his owne profyte: but for the profyte of other.

I Let the same mynde be in you: that was in Christe Iesu: which beinge in the shape of God: thought it not robbery to be equal with God: / but made him selfe of no reputation: / and toke vpon him the shape of a seruante. / Became lyke another man: and was founde in his apparill as a man: he humbled him selfe: and became obedient vnto the death: euen the death of the crosse.

I Therefore hath God exalted hym: and giuen him a name: whiche is aboue all names: / that in the name of Iesus eury knee shoulde bowe: / both of thinges in heauen: of thinges vpon the earth: and of thinges vnder the earth: and that all thinges shoulde confesse that Iesus Christ is the Lord: vnto the praise of God the father. ¶

Wherefore my dearly beloued / as ye haue alwaies obeyed / not onely in my presence: but also muche more in myne absence: euen so walke oute youre owne saluacion with feare and tremblinge. / For it is Gods will: that ye shoulde worke in you both the will and the dede: / euen of his owne good will. ¶ So all thinges withoute murmuringe and stryfe: purginge / that ye maye be blamelesse and pure: and the children of God: / withoute rebuke in the myddes of the crooked and peruersacion: / amonge whom: se that ye shine as lighes in the world: holpyng the woide of lyfe vnto my: / I reioyce in the sake of Chalce: that I haue not runne in vayne: / neyther laboured in vayne. ¶ Therefore and though I be offered vpon the offeringe and sacrifice of your faith: / I am glad: and reioyce with you all: the ye glad also: and reioyce ye with me.

I Truste in the Lorde Iesus: to sende Timothyus shortly vnto you: / that I also maye be of good comforte: when I knowe what este ye stande in. For I haue nonon that is to lye mynde to me: whiche with so pure affection careth for you. For all other sike they: owne / not that whiche is Iesus Christe. But ye knowe the proofe him: for as a shilde vnto the father so hath he ministered vnto me in his Gospel: I hope to sende as soone as I know how it will go with me: But I trust in the Lorde / that I also my selfe shall come shortly.

Neuertheless / I thought it necessarye to sende vnto you the Brother Epaphroditus / whiche is my companion in labour / and fellowe souler / and your Apostel / and my minister at my needs: for so much as he longed after you al / and was full of heauynesse / because he had herde y<sup>e</sup> he was sicke. And no doubt he was sicke / and that nye vnto death: but God had mercy on him / and not on him only / but on me also: lest / I shoulde haue had some weepen for so we.

I haue sente him therfore the more hailefully / that ye might see him / and reioyce again / and that I also might haue the lesse sorrowe. Receiue him therfore in the Lorde with all gladnesse / and make much of such / for because of the worke of Christe he went so farre / that he came nye vnto death / & regarded not his life: to fulfill the seruce which was lackinge on your parte toward me.

The IIII Chapter.

Welcome my brethren / reioyce in the Lorde: where as I wryte euer one thinge vnto you: I greiue in me / and make for you the sorer. Beware of dogges / beware of euill workers / beware of dissensions: * For we are the circumcision / euen we that serue God in the spirit / and reioyce in Christ Iesu / and haue no confidence in the fleshe: though I haue whereof I myght reioyce in the fleshe. * If any other man thynke that he hath whereof he myght reioyce in the fleshe: muche more I whiche was circumcised on the eyght daye / one of the people of Israel / of the tribe of Ben Iamin / an Hebrue of the Hebrewes: as concerninge the lawe / a Pharisee / concerninge seruantes / I persecuted the congregacion: and as touchinge the righteousnesse whiche is in the lawe / I was without fault.

But the thinges that were vantage vnto me / haue I counted losse for: Christes sake: For I thinke al thinges but losse: for that excellēt knowlege of Christe Iesu my Lorde: for whom I haue counted al thinge losse / and do iudge them but vantage / that I myght wyne Christ / and be founde in him / nor hauinge myne owne righteousnesse whiche cometh of the lawe: but by the faith of Christe / namelye / the righteousnesse which cometh of God in faith to knowe him / and the vertue of his resurrection / and the fellowshipe of his passion: / that I maie be conformable vnto his death: / by any meanes I mighte attaine to the resurrection from the dead. Not that I haue attained vnto it alreadye: / that I am alreadye perfecte / but I followe it: I maie comprehend that wherein I am comprehended of Christe Iesu. Wherein I counte not my selfe yet that I haue gotten it: but one thinge I say: I forget which is behinde / & stretch my self vnto that whiche is before: / & preasse vnto the mark: appointed / to obtaine the reward of the highe callinge of God in Christ Iesu.

Let vs therefore / as many as be perfecte / be thus wise mynded: and if ye otherwise mynded / I praye God open euen this vnto you. Neuertheless / in that wherein we are come let vs proceede by one rule: that we maye be of one accorde.

I brethren / be ye the followers of me / & loke on them whiche walke euen so as ye: / & haue vs for an ensample. For many walke and go / of whom I haue tolde you often / but now I tell you weepinge: euen enemies of the crosse of Christe / whose ende is dampnacion: / whose God is the bellye / and whose glorie is in shewe: / whose shame which earthe mynded. But oure conuersacion is in heauen / & we loke for the saucoure Iesu Christe the Lorde: / to whiche shall change / our vile bodye / that it maye be lyfe / fashioned vnto his glorious bodye / according to the workinge whereby he is able to subdue al thinges vnto him selfe. Amen.

All thinges are created by him / and in him be : before all thinges / and in him all thinges haue their beinge.

T And you (which were in tymes paste straungers and enemyes / because youre myndes were set on euell woises) he hath bene reconcyled in the body of his fleshe thorough death / to make you holie by grace / if ye continue grounded and stablished in the faith / and not moued awaye fro the hope of the Gospell / wherof ye haue herde / which is preached amonge all creature that are vnder heauen / wherof I Paul am made a ministrer.

For from you was the woide of the Lo:rd noysed out/ nor onely in Macedonia and Achaia/ but in all quarters also in youre sayth in God sp:ed abroad: fo that it needth not vs to speake any thinge at all. For they them selves shewe of you/ that maner of carryinge in we had vnto you/ and how ye are turned vnto God fro ymagos/ for to serue the living and true God and to loke for his sonne I from heauen whome he rased vp from the dead / euen Iesus whiche hath deliuered vs from the death to come.

The II. Chapter.

Whye youre selfes (Brethren) knowe of youre inuaince/ vnto you herce that it was not inuaine/ but as we had suffered afo:re/ and were shamefull increased at Philippi: as ye knowe we were bolde in oure God/ to speake vnto you the Gospel of God with muche stryuinge. For oure reboucyon was not to bringe you to erreour/ nor yet to vnicennesse/ neyther was it with gyllt/ but as we are allowed of God/ that the Gospel should be committed vnto us to preache/ euen so we speake/ Inot as though we wolde please men/ but Gods: whiche myght oure herce.

For we haue nor gone aboute with flatteryng woordes: (as ye knowe) nor wanted for oure owne profyete/ (God is recorde) neyther sought we praise of men/ neyther of you/ nor of any other: whan we myghte haue bene chargeable vnto you as the Apostles of Christ/ but we were vnder a myghte you.

Like as a noyse therewith her children/ euen fo had we detrely affection towards you/ and wilde with good wyl haue dealt vnto you/ nor onely the Gospel of God/ but oure lyues also/ because ye were deare vnto vs.

Re membere Brethren oure laboure and transpyle. I for daye and nyght wrought we / (because we wolde not be chargeable vnto any of you) and preached the Gospell of God amonge you. Ye are mynistrs/ and so is Gods/ home holpy and iustly/ and vnblymable we behaued oure selves amonge you that beliefe (as ye knowe). For we that as a father his children/ euen fo reboucyed we and comforted/ and besought tury one of you / that ye wolde walke worthely before I Thess. iij. a God/ whiche hath called you vnto his kyngdome and glorye.

For this cause thanke we God without ceasinge/ because that whan ye receaved of vs the woide of the preachinge of God/ ye receaved it not as the woide of men/ but (euen as it is of a trouth) the woide of God/ whiche worketh in you that beliefe. For

For ye Brethren are become the selowere of I the congregation of God which in Ier. Heb. x. b ye are in Christ Iesus/ wher ye haue suffered euen lyke thinges of youre frynnes/ as they haue suffered of the Iewes. Whiche as they put the Lo:rd Iesus to death/ and they: owne prophetes/ euen so haue they persecuted vs also/ and pleased men/ and are contrarye to all men/ I forbyddinge vs to speake vnto the Brethren that they mighte be saved/ to fulfill their synnec allwayes: for the wrath is come vpon them alreadye vnto the uttermost.

But we Brethren for as muche as we haue bene kepte from you for a reason/ as to receyue the bodily presence/ but not in the heere we haue hapyled the more with greare desire to se you personally. Therefore wolde we haue come vnto you/ (I Paul) two tymes/ but Sarban withstode vs. For we be oure hope/ or ioye/ or crowne of glorye/ as ye knowe/ nor yet it in the sight of oure Lo:rd Iesus Christe at his commynge. Yes/ ye are oure praise and ioye.

The III. Chapter.

And whan we were with you/ we wolde you besoue/ that we shoulde suffre tribulation/ euen as it is come to passe/ and as ye knowe. The III. Chapter.

WE beseech you brethren / praye for vs / that the woordes of God may haue free passage / and be glorified / as it is with you / and that we maye be deliuered from vnreasonable and cruel men. For faith is not curyng mans. But the Lorde is saythfull / which shall stablye the you / and kepe you from euill. We haue confidence in the Lorde to yourwarde / that ye haue the vs / and will do / that whiche we commaunde you. The Lorde shall geue you patience / and the loue of God and patience of our Christ. ¶

But we require you brethren in the name of oure Lorde Iesus Christ / that ye withholdaue your selues from euery brother that walketh inordinately / and not after the instruction whiche he receaued of vs. For ye your selues knowe howe ye ought to folowe vs: for we behaued not oure selues inordinately amonge you / neyther toke we bread of any mans hande / for we wroughte with labour / and trauayle night and daye / lest we shoulde be chargeable to any of you. For that we had no iudicid vantage: but to geue oure selues an example vnto you to folowe vs. And when we were with you / this we warned you off that if there were any which wolde not worke / the same shoulde not care. For we heare saye / that there are some whiche walke amonge you inordinately / and worke not at all / but are busy bodies. ¶ But them that are such / we commaunde and exhorte by our Lorde Iesus Christ / that they worke with quietnes / and care their owne bread. ¶

¶ Wee rehellesse brethren / be not ye weary of goodlye saynges / sende vs wordes of hym by a letter / and haue nothinge to do with hym / that he may be ashamed. # The fyrst epistle of the Apostle S. Paul vnto Timothee.

The first Chapter.

In an Apostle of Iesus Christ / accordinge to the commaundement of God our sauour / a of I. Lorde Iesus Christ / which is oure hope. Vnto Timothee my naturall

sonne in the sayth.
 Grace / mercy / a peace from God our father / and our Lorde Iesus Christ. In Iob departed into Macedonia. I. e. so do that thou commaunde some / that they teache none other doctrine / neither gene heere to scilicet a genealogie of which are endlesse / a heere be debutes more then gobbye / which is by sayth. For the chiefe summe of the commaundement is loue of a pure herte / and of a good conscience / and of fayth vnfayned. From the which some haue crept / a haue turned vnto vaine iangling gre / willinge to be deuorers of the scripture / and vnderstande not what they speake / ney ther wber of the affirmes.

But we knowe that lawe is good / if a man vse it lawfully / vnderstandinge this / that the lawe is not gotten vnto the righteous / but to the vniuersal / and disobedient / to the vni godly / a to synners / to the onboly / a vnelante / to murderers of fathers / and murderers of mothers / to man slayers / to whoredingers / to them that defyle the selfe with mannyng / to inuicesters / to lycers / to persured / and so forth if there be any other thyng that is contrary to the wholesome doctrine / accordinge to the Gospel of the glorye of the blessed God / which Gospel is committed vnto me.

And I thank the Lorde Iesus our Lorde / which hath made me stronge / for he couled me faith full / and put me in office / when before I was a blasphemers / and a persecuter / and a tyrant / I but I obtayned mercy / because I had ignorantly in vndebele. Whereby the grace of our Lorde was more abundant toward fayth and loue which is in Christ Iesus. It

For this is a true sayinge / and by all men nece worthy to be receaved. That Christ Iesus came into the worlde to saue sinners / of whom I am chiefe. Notwithstandinge / for this cause obtayned I mercy / for Iesus Christ myght principally shewe in me all longe pa cience / to the ensample of them which woulde beliefe in him vnto eternal life. So then vnto God singe euerlastinge / immortall / and in visible / and wyse onely / the honoure and prayse for euer and euer / Amen.

This commaundement commit I vnto the my sonne Timothee / accordinge to the prophesie which in tyme past were prophesied of the / that thou in the thoudelst thyng a good thyng / haunge sayth a good conscience / which some haue put awaye from them / as concern inge sayth haue made hypocrisie / of whose nature is Symeon a. Alexander / whose a. Tim. b I haue deliuered vnto Satran / that they may myght be taughte nomore to blaspheme. T. Cor. v. a

The II. Chapter.

Exhorter therefore / that aboute all thynges / a prayer / supplicacions / intercessions / and praynge of thanke be had for all men / for Iere thynges / and for all that are in auctorite / that we maye by the grace and peaceable life in all godlynesse and honestie. For that is good and accepted in the sight of God our sauour cure / which will haue all men saued. For there is one God / that is one mediator betwene God and men / namely the man Christ Iesus.
 Whiche gaue hym selfe a ransom for all me / that as he synners / it should be preached / wher vnto I am ordeyned a preacher / and an apostle. I tell the truth in Christ / and by me a teacher of the Genten in fayth and in the truely. T.

The I. Epistle to the Timothee.

B I will therefore that men pray in al place as/lyfing vp pure hertes without warbe of yowninge. Likewyse also the women/that theye away them selfe in comly apparell with shameflesnes and discrete beaucour/ not in bypded hert/ or gold/ or pearles/ or costely aray/but in such as it becometh women that pro-fesse godlinesse thowme good woorkes. * Let the woman learne in silence with al subiection/ I suffice not a woman to teache/ nor to haue auersayte ouer the man/ for so be in silence. For Adam was first formed/ and then Eue/ And also was not deceaued/ but the woman was deceaued/ and hath brought in the transgression. Yet withstandinge/ thowme hearinge of chydren shalbe saued/ if she continue in faith and in loue/ and in the sanctifying with dis-crecion. I

The III. Chapter.

A This is a true saying/ if a man couet the office of a Byshop / he requireth a good woorkes. But a Byshop must be blamelesse/ I haue bande of one wyfe/ sober/ discrete/ mas-nerly/ hardyous/ apte to teache. Not geuen to muche weyne/ no fighter/ not geue to sylly laced/ but gentle/ abhoiringe sleys/ abhoiringe couerousnes/ and one that ruleth his owne house honestly / hauynge obedient chydren with al honesty. ( But if a man can not rule bye owne house / how shall he care for the congregation of God? ) He maye not be a yonger scooler/ lest he be vsup / and fall into the iudgement of the euil speaker. He must also haue a good repute of them whiche are without/ lest he fall into the rebuke/ and snare of the euil speaker.

B Lyfelyf muste the ministers be honeste/ not double tonged/ not geuen to much weyne/neyther is syllysc liere/ but hauynge the mystere of sayth in pure conscience. And let them scrise be proued / and then let their minister/ if they be blamelesse.

When so must theye scrise be honeste/ not euil speaker/ but sober and saythfull in all thynges. Let the ministers be cury one the house bande of one wyfe/ and such as rule their chydren well / and their owne householdes.
 For theye that minister well / gettethen selfe a good repute / and greate lyferye in the sayth whiche is in Christ Ihu.

These thynges wrote I vnto the / trustinge shortly to come vnto the: but if I tary longe that the thou mayest yet haue knowlege/ how thou oughtest to behaue thy selfe in Gods house/ whiche is the congregation of the lyuynge God / the pylar and grounde of the Ma-iesty: and withoute wyce/ greate is that mystere of godlynesse. God was shewed in the flesche/ was iustified in the spirite: * was seene of angels: was preached vnto the heuyns/ was beleued on in the worlde / was receaued vp in gloire.

The III. Chapter.

Respice speaketh evidently. That in I later tymes some shall * Repare sed the sayth / and shall geue hede vnto pices of er-rour / and veytly the doctrines of the wyche speake false thowme spoyrse / and haue their conscience marked with an whor yron / for bypdyng to marrye / and commaunding to obstarre from the meate / whiche God hath created to be receaued with * geuynge thankes/ of them whiche beleue and knowe I truly.
 For every creature of God is good/ and no-thinge to be refused / that is receaued by thankesgeuynge: for it is sanctified by the woide of God / and prayer. If thou shalt put the then in remembrance of these thynges / thou shalt be a good minister of Christ / whiche hath ben noyshed up in I woordes of faith / of good doctrine/ whiche thou hast folowed betwene.

As for engoslye a olde wyse hee saith/ B call them awaye/ but exercise thy selfe vnto godlynesse. * For bodily exercise profiteth a-lytle/ but godlynesse is profitable vnto all thynges as a thinge whiche hath promysed of the lyfe that is now / and of the lyfe that is to come.
 This is a sure saying / of all parties worthy to be receaued. For therfore we labour a suffer rebuke / because we hope in I luinge God/ whiche is I Sauoure of all men/ but specially of those that beleue. Such thynges commaunde thou/ and such. Let the woman de-syre thy youth / but be aboute vnto the that be kepe an ensample in faith / in conuersacion / in loue / in the spirite / in faith / in purenesse.

When attendaunce to readings / to exhortation / to doctrine enyill I come. Be not negligent in the gyfte that is geuen the thowme prophete / with layenge on of the handes of I
 the

the Elders. These things exercise/and grue thy selfe vnto them / that thyne increase maye be manifeste vnto euery man. Take heed vnto thy selfe / to learninge / continue in these thinges. For if thou so do / thou shalt saue thy selfe / and them that heare the. I

The V. Chapter.

Hebude not an Elder / but exhort him as a father: as the younger man as brethren: the Elder women as mothers / the younger as sisters / with all purenesse. Honour wydowes / whiche are true wydowes. If any wydowe haue childre / or neyces / let them learne first to rule their owne houses godly / and to reuerence their elders. For that is good and acceptable before God. But she that is a ryght wydowe / and desolate / putteth her truste in God / a continueth in prayer / a supplicatione / and praye. But she that sheweth in pleasures / is dead / euen yet aloue. And these thinges commaunde / that they maye be withoute blame.

But if there be any man that piouously not for his owne / and specially for them of his household / if same hath denyed the sayth / and / is withouten an infidell.

Let no wydowe be chosen vnder the score yeare olde / a such one as was the wyfe of one man / a well reported of in good woikes / if she haue brought vp children well / if she haue ben chaste / if she haue fasted / if she haue ministered vnto the which were in aduersitie / if she were continuallye giuen to all maner of good woikes. But if younger wydowes refuse / for what they haue begonne to wexe wanton agaynst Christ / then will they marrye / hauyng their damnacion / because they haue denyed the first sayth. Besydes this they are ydel / and leaue to runne about from house to house. I Not onely are they ydel / but also traynyng / a busybodies / speakinge thinges whiche are not comly.

I will therfore that the younger women marrye / care children / gyde the house / to geue the aduersary no occasion to speake euill. For some are turned backe already after Sathe. If any man or woman that beleueth / haue wydowes / let them make provision for the / and let not his congregation be charged: that they which are ryght wydowes / maye haue ynough.

The elders that rule well / are worthy of double honoure / moost specially they which laboure in the woide / and in teachinge. For the scripture sayeth: I Thou shalt not mollifie the mouth of the wise / that hee teacheth vnto the conyng. And the labourer is worthy of his reward.

Against an Elder because none accusation but vnder two or thre wytnesses. Them that synne / rebuke in the presence of all / that other also maye feare.

I beseech before God and the Lorde Jesus Christ and the cleere Angells / that thou obserue these thinges withoute parciallye iudgement / and do nothinge partiallye. I Reueynde thou soberly on no man / neyther be partafer of other mens synnes: Receyue thy selfe pure. I Drink no lenger water / but vse a lylt wyne for thy stomackes sake / a because thou arte of thyme sycke. Some mens synnes are open / whiche they maye be iudged ofe hande: But some menes synnes / shalbe manifest hereafter. Likewyse also good woikes are manifest ofe hande: and they that are otherwyse can not be hyd.

The VI. Chapter.

There as many trouaunt as are vnder the yeeke / counte they masters worthy of all honour / that the name of God and his doctryne be not euil spoken of. But they which haue beleuynge masters / despyse them notwithstandinge they are brethren / but rather do seruice: so / so much as they are beleuynge / and belouyng / and partafer of the benefyte.

These thinges teach / and exhort. I If any man reache otherwyse / and agreeh not vnto the wholsome woide of oure Lorde Jesus Christ / and to the doctrine of godlynesse / he is pylt vnto / and troueth nothinge / dur waye / he sheweth his byrn aboute questions / and strynging of wordes: wherof spynne euylestrye / a raynynges / euill surmynges / vayne disputacions / of suche men as haue corrupte myndes / and are robbed of the trouth / whiche theynke they haue godlynesse in lurre: fro suche separate thy selfe. Howbeit / it is greate auangage / when so thou holdest hym conyng with that heberth. I For we thoughte nothinge in to the woide / therfore is it a playne case / that we can cary nothinge out. I When we haue food and rayment / let vs therwith be content. I For they that wyll ryde / fall into the temptacion

The seconde Epistle of the Apostle S. Paul vnto Timothe.

The first Chapter.

Paul an Apostle of Iesus Christ by the wil of God to preache the promise of the life / which is in Christ Iesu.

To my deare sonne Timothye and peace from God the father / and frō Christ Iesu our Lord.

I thanke God that whome I serue for my forefathers sake in a pure conscience / that without ceasinge I make mention of the in my prayers and desires / and longe to see the (whom I remember thy care) that I am filled with ioye / which I call to remembrance the vnflayned sayth that is in the / which dwelleth first in thy graunde mother Lois / in thy mother Eunice / and am assured that it dwelleth in the also. Wherfore I warne the / that thou seare up the gyfte of God / which is in the by the puttinge on of my handes. For God hath not geuen us the spere of feare / but of power / of loue / and of ryghte vnderstandinge.

Be not thou ashamed therfore of the testi- mony of our Lord / cristen of me / which am his prisoner / but suffice thou aduerse also to the Gospel / accordinge to the power of God / which hath saved vs / as called vs to an holy callinge / not accordinge to our dedes / but accordinge to his owne purpose / a grace which was geuen vs in Christ Iesu before the tyme of the worlde / but is now declared openly by the apperance of our Sencour Iesu Christ. Which hath taken away the power of death / and hath brought life and immortallite vnto light thorow the Gospel / wherunto I am appointed preacher and an Apostle / and a teacher of the Genten / for which cause I also suffice these thinges / neuertheles / I am not ashamed. For I know whome I haue beleued / and racion and sure / and into many foolyshe and noysome lustes / which diuorne me in destruction and Damnation. For conuocousness is the rote of all euill / whiche whyle some lusted after / they erred from the sayth / and tangled the selues with many snare.

¶ But thou man of God / see such thinges as folowe rightousnesse / godlynesse / sayth / loue / patience / mekenesse / thyghte a good thyghte of sayth / laye haue an eternal life / wherunto thou art called / and hast professed a good profession before many witnesses.

I geue the charge before God / and which quieteth all thynges / and before Iesu Christ / which vnder Pōleus Dilate witnesseth a good witnessinge / that thou kepe the commaundement without spot / vnreproucable / vntill the apperance of oure Lord Iesus Christ / which apperaringe (at his tyme) he shal therofe that is blessed / and myghte onely / the Kinge of all kynges / and Lord of all Lordes / which onely hath immortallite / and dwelleth in a thyghte that no man can atayne / whome no man hath sene / neyther can se. Vnto whome be honoure / and Emprer cristen / Amen.

Charge the which are in thy word / that they be not proude / nor truste in the vncreayne ryghte / but in the livinge God / which geueth vs abundantly all thynges to enioye them. That they be good / that they be ryghte in good works / that they geue and distribute with a good will / gatheringe up treasure for their selues / a good foundation against the tyme to come / that they maye laye hande on eternal life.

¶ Timothee kepe that which is committed vnto the / and auoyde vngodlyly payne words / and oppositions of science / falsely so called / which whyle some professed / they haue erred as concerninge the sayth.

Grace be with the / Amen.

ninge faith and loue in Christ Iesu. This hye charge kepe thou thowst holy ghoost/ whiche dwelleth in vs. This thou knowest / that all they whiche are in Asia/ be turned fro me / of whiche some are Diogenes and Hermogenes.

was not ashamed of my chayne / but when he was at Rome / I he sought me out very dilihim that he maye fynde Mercy with the Lord in that day. And how much he ministered vnto me at Ephesus / thou knowest very well.

The II. Chapter. I

Thou therefore my sonne / be stronge thow rome the grace whiche is in Christ Iesu.
And what thinges thou hast harde of me by many witnesses / I the same commaund thou vnto my. iij. b saythfull men / whiche are apte to teache other.
Thou therefore suffice stillenens / as a good soldyer of Iesu Christ. No man that warsreth / tanglet hym selfe with worldly busynnesses / and that because he wolde please hym / whiche hath chosen hym to be a soldyer. And though a man stryfe for a masterye / yet he is not crowned / except he stryfe lawfully. The housebandman that laboureth / muste fyrste enoye the frutes. Consider what I saye. The Lord shall geue the vnderstandinge in all thynges. I

Remembere that Iesu Christ / beinge I of the deede of Sauid / rose agayne from the dead / accordinge to my Gospel / wherein I suffice as an euil doer euen vnto bondes / but the word of God is not bounde. Therefore suffice I all for the electes sake / that they also myght op-tayne the saluation in Christ Iesu / with eter-nall glorye.

This is a true sayinge / I if we be dead with him / we shall lyue with him also. If we be patients / we shall also regeyne with him. If we denye him / he also shall denye vs. If we belyfe not / yet abyde by the saythfull / he can not denye him selfe. Of these thinges put thou the in remembraunce / as I suffice before the Lord / that they stryue not aboute wordes whiche is to no profyte / but to peruerce the hearers.

Study to shew thy self vnto God a law-med / workeman / that recheb not to be alpa-med / scudbing / wordes of truth iustly. As for vngodly / a vayne talkinge / shewre the / for they helpe much to vngodlines / and their Titum wordes stremeth as veyth a canker. Of whose number is Hymeneos and Philetas / whiche as concerninge the truth haue erred / sayinge that the resurrection is past already / and haue destroyed the faith of manye persons.

But the sure grounde of God standeth fast and hard / this scale. The Lord knoweth them that are his. And let every man that calleth vpon the name of Christ / departe fro un-quite. Notwithstandinge / I in a great mane house are not only vessels of golde and of syluer / but also of woode and of earth / some for honour / and some to dishonour. But if a man poungre him selfe from such felowes / he shal be a vessel sanctified vnto honour / mete for the Lord / and prepared vnto all good woorkes.
I Ife thou suffles of youth / but followe right reason / sayth / loue / praye / with all them that call vpon the Lord with pure herte. I for folybbe questyons and such as teache not / put them from the / for thou knowest that they do but engendie stryfe. The forsaunte of the Lord ought not to stryue / but to be gentile vnto every man / I apte to teache one that can

Exod. vii. b But like as Iames a Zambres with-stode Moses / euen so do these also resist the trouth: men they are of corrupte myndes / and sewde as concerninge the sayth: but they shall hast learned them. And for so muche as thou hast learned holy scripture of a child / the same is able to make y<sup>e</sup> wofe vnto saluacion thowme uen by inspiration of God / is profitable to reache to impious / to amende / and to instructe in righteousnesse / that a man of God maye be perfect / and prepared vnto all good woike.

and shall turne theyr eares from the

The first Chapter.

Thus the seruante of God/and an Apostle of Iesus Christ, to presche the faith of godd electe a the knowledge of the truth / w-ledeh vnto godlines / vpon the hope of eternall lyfe: which God hath not lye / hath promised before the tymes of the world: but at his tyme hath opened his voyce to showe preaching / whiche is committed vnto me according to the commaundement of God our Sauour.

Vnto Titus my naturall sonne after the common faith.

Grace / mercy / and peace from God the father / and from the Lord Iesu Christ oure Sauour.

For this cause left I the in Creta / that thou shouldest performe that which is lacking / shouldest ordeyne Elders in euery cite / as I appointed the. If any be blamelesse / the hous-ebande of one wyfe / hauinge faithfull chyldren / whiche are not slaundered of ryote / neyther are disobedient. For a Bishop must be blamelesse / as the steward of God: not wilful / not angry / not geuen vnto much wyne / nor fyghter / nor greedy of filthy lucre: but honest / one that loueth goodnesse / sober mynded / righteous / holy / temperate / and suche one as cleueth vnto the true woorde of doctrine: that he maye be able to exhort with wholsome learning / and to improue them that saye against it.

For there are many disobedient / and talkers of manye / and deceauers of myndes: namely theye of the circumcision / whose mou-thes must be stopped: which peruerse whole houses / teachinge thinges which they ought not / because of synfull liues. One of them selfe / euen their owne prophete saide: The Epimiri Creteans are alwaye lyars / euill bestes / and deo-some belyues. This tyme I so trauel. Where fore rebuke them sharply: that they maye be founde in the faith / and not to take hede vnto Iewes fables / and commaundements of men / whiche turne them awaye from the truth. Vnto the cleane are all thinges cleane: but to the unclene / and vncleane / there is nothyng cleane / but such theye mynde / and conscience is defiled. They saye that they knowe God / but with the dedes they denye him: for so muche as they are abdominable / and disobedient / and vntrue to all good woordes.

The II. Chapter.

As I speake thou that which be cometh wholsome learning. That the elder me be sober / honest / discrete / soude in the faith / in loue / in patience. And the elder woman lyke wyse that they beue them selfe as it be cometh holynes: that they be no false accusers / not geuen to muche wyne / that they teache honest thinges / that they enforme the yonge woman to be sobermynded / to loue they husbandes / to loue theye children / to be discrete / chaste / houswyffe / good / tobedient vnto theyr owne husbandes / that the woide of God be not euill spoken of. Exhorte the yonge men likewise that they be sober mynded. About all thinge beue they selfe an example of good woordes / with vncorrupte be-hauour / chaste / with the wholsome woode whiche can not be rebuked: that be whiche withstandeth / maie be ashamed / hauinge no-thinge in you that be maie dyspasse.

Exhorte the seruantes to be obedient vnto theyr masters / to please them in all thinge good / not answeringe againe / neither to be pkytters / but to serue all good faithfullnesse / that in all thinges they maye be worshippe vnto the doctrine of God our fauour.
For the grace of God that bringeth sal-uacion vnto all men / hath appered / and reap-eth vs that we shoulde denye vngodlynesse / and worldly luffe: and that we should lyue discrete / righteous / and godly in

The I. Epistle of S. Peter.

ye holy/for I am holy.

And if so be that ye call on the father/ which without respect of persons judgeth/ according to every mans waile/ se that ye passe the tyme of youre pilgrimage in feare/ And knowe that ye were not redeemed with corruptible siluer and golde from your vaine consciences/ (which ye received by the traditions of the fathers) / But with the precious bloude of Christe/ as of an innocent and undefiled lambe/ which was obeyed before the worlde was made/ but is declared in the laste tyme/ for youre sakes/ which sheweth him selfe on God/ which raised hym vp from the dead/ and hath given hym the glorie/ that ye mighte haue faith and hope in God. Euen ye which haue purged youre soules in obeying the truth shewing the spirit/ for to loue brotherly with ouer sayninge/ and feruently one to loue another with a pure herte/ as they that are boine a newe/ not of corruptible seide/ but of incorruptible/ euen by the luyng woide of God/ which endureth for euer. For all flesh is as a grasse/ and all the glory of man is as the floure of grasse. The grasse withereth/ and the floure falleth awaye/ but the woide of Gods endureth for euer. This is the woide that is preached amonge you.

The II. Chapter.

Wherefore lay asyde all malitiousnes and all guyltye ydocrisye/ and enuye/ and all backbitynge/ and a newe boine habite/ desire that reasonable mylde/ which is without corruption/ that ye maye growe therein/ if so be that ye haue trauayled howe freely the Lord is vnto whome ye are come/ for as to the luyng stone/ which is the foundation of mens/ but chosen of God/ and precious. And ye also luyng stones are made a spirittuall house/ and an holy priesthood/ to offre vp / spirittuall sacrifices/ acceptable vnto God by Christe. Wherefore it is comanded in the scripture. Beholde/ I putt in Syon a square corner stone/ cleere and precious/ and he that belongeth on hym/ shall not be confounded. Vnto you therefore which belongeth/ he is precious/ but vnto them that belongeth not is the same stone/ which the builders refused/ made the head stone in the corner/ and a stone to stumble at/ and a rocke to be offended at/ namely in them which stumble at the woide/ and belongeth not that/ whereon they were built.

But ye are that chosen generation/ that byng the priesthede/ that holy nation/ that peculiar people/ that ye shoulde shewe the vertues of hym which hath called you oute of darkenesse into his maruagulous lighte.

Euen you which in tyme past were a people/ but now are the people of God/ which were not vnder mercy/ but nowe haue obtained mercy. For whereby ye shoulde be as straungers and pilgrimes. Abstaine from the fleschly lustes/ which fighte agaynst the soule/ and lede an honeste conuersation as amonge the Gentren/ that they which seeke byte you as euill doers/ maye feare your good works/ and praise God in the daye of visitation.

Submitte youre selves vnto all maner ordinaunce of men/ for the Lords sake/ whether it be vnto the kynge/ as vnto the chiefe heade/ or vnto rulers/ as vnto them that are sent of him/ for the punishment of euill doers/ but for the praise of them that do well. For so is the will of God/ that ye with well doinge shoulde put to silence the ignorance of folyshe men/ as fre and not hauinge the libertye for a cloke of wickednesse/ but euen as the seruantes of God. Honour all men. loue brotherly fellowshipp. feare God. Honour the Kinge.

Ye seruantes/ obeye youre masters with all feare/ not onely if they be good and curteous/ but also though they be forward. For if ye are in grace/ if a man for conscience toward God endure griefe/ as suffer wronge/ for what cause it is/ if whan ye be buffeted for youre faultes/ ye take it patiently/ but if whan ye do well/ ye suffer wronge/ and take it patiently/ that is grace with God. For herunto are ye called. For so much as Christe also suffered for us/ leauieng vs an example/ that ye shoulde folowe his footestepes/ which he did no synne/ neither was there guile founden in his mouth. To which when he was reviled/ reviled not againe/ when he suffered/ he threatned not/ but

Simon Peter / a seruante and Apostle of Iesu Christ.

Vnto them which haue obtained life by the word of our Lord Iesu Christ.

Grace and peace be multiplyed with you throughe the knowledge of God and of Iesus Christ our Lorde.

For so muche as his godly power hath geuen vs all thinges / that pertaine vnto life and godlines. throughe the knowledge of him that hath called vs by his owne glory: and power / wherby he by the excellent and moost greate promyses: as geuen vnto vs / namely / that ye by the same shoulde be partakers of his godly nature / if ye shye the corrupte luste of the world: geue ye all your diligence: therefore beare vnto / and in your faith minister verue: in verue knowledge: in knowledge temperay: in temperay patience: in patience godlines: in godlines: brotherly loue: in brotherly loue: generall loue. For if these thinges be plentifull in you: they will not let you be yble nor infructfull in the knowledge of our Lorde Iesu Christ. But he that lacketh these thinges: he is blind: and gropeth for the waye with the hands: a blind forgotten that he was cleinsed from his olde synnes.

Wherfore (Brethren) geue the mozt diligence: to make youre callinge and election sure: for if ye do suche thinges: shal not fall: and by this meane shal there be plentifully mixede vnto you an entrance in vnto the everlasting Kingdome of our Lorde and Sauour Iesu Christ.

Therefore will I not be negligent to put you alwaies in remembraunce of suche thinges / though I knowe that many falses / and we shall stand in the greuous trespach / Howbeit stande fast: in the grace which was geuen you by puttinge you in our common saluacion: by the which I am sure: that I am able to come vnto you: and make iteuen an eare. Lorde Iesus Christ hath spredde vnto me. Yet will I by my vnghe / that shalby after my departinge geue you: haue wherewith to report these thinges in remembrance.

For we followed not reasonable falses: when we declared vnto you the power and comynge of our Lorde Iesu Christ: / But Job. i. b with oure eyes we sawe his maiesty: when Job. i. b he receaued of God the father honoure: and I praise by a voyce that came vnto hym from the excellent glorye after this manner: This Mat. 28. a is my chere sonne: in whome I haue delite. Mat. 17. a And this voyce herde we thoughe: your Luce 11. b from heauen: when we were with hym in the holy mount.

We haue a sure worde of prophete: / and ye do well that ye take heed therunto: / as vnto a lycht: that shyneth in a darke place: / vntill 4. Cor. 13. b the daye dawne: / and the daye starre aryse in youre hartes. / And this shall ye knowe first: that no prophete in the scripture: is borne of any private interpretation. / For the prophete Dan. 12. b eye was neuer thought by the wyll of man: / Zach. 12. b but the holy men of God spake: / as they were 4. Tim. 1. b moued of the holy ghoost.

The II. Chapter.

But there were falses prophetes also: / Mat. 23. a be falses teachers: amonge you: / whiche 2. Pet. 2. b pauerly shall synge in damnable termes: / 1. Tim. 1. b Denyng the Lorde: that hath bought them: / and shal bringe vpon them selfs: / wylful dampnation: / and many shal followe their dampnable wayes: / by whome the waye of truth shal be cruel spoken of: / and throughe couctousnesse: shal they with sayned wordes: make merchandise of you: / vpon whome the iudgement is: / 1. Cor. 11. b not negligent in targene of olde: / and they dampnation sepech not.

For if God spared not the angels: / Job. 41. b that synned: / but casteth them downe with the cherynes of darkness into hell: / and deliuered them ouer to be kepte vnto iudgement: / 2. Pet. 2. b

The first Chapter.

That which was from the beginninge / which we haue herde / which tōke haue sene with our eyes / which we haue toled upon / and our handes haue handled of the woof the lyfe / and the lyfe hath appeared / and we haue sene / and haue wytnesse / and shewe vnto you the lyfe that is euertlasting: which was with the father / and hath appeared vnto vs. That which we haue sene / and herde / declare we vnto you / that ye also may haue felow-shipp with vs / and that our felowshipp maye be with the father and with his sonne Iesus Christ. And this wyse we vnto you / that youre ioye may be full.

And this is the thynges which we haue herde of hym / and declare vnto you / that God is lycht: and in him is no darckenes at all. If we saye that we haue felowshipp with him / yet walke in darckenes / we lye / and do not the truth. But if we walke in lycht / euen as he is lycht / then haue we felowshyppe together / and the bloude of Iesus Christ: his sonne cleanse vs from all synne.

If we saye that we haue no synne / we de-ceave oure selues / and the truth is not in vs.
 But if we knowe our synnes / he is faith-full and iust to forgiue vs our synnes / and to cleanse vs from all unrighteousnes. If we saye we haue not synned / we make him a liar / and his woide is not in vs.

The II. Chapter. †

Whiche children / these thynges wyte I vnto you / that ye shoulde not synne / and so if any

hym as he is. And every man that hath this hope in hym/pouresth him selfe/euen as he is pure. Whofoucer committeth synne/committeth vnrightheousnes also / a synne is vnrightheousnesse. † And ye know that he appeared to take away oure synnes/and in him is no synne. Whofoucer abydeth in hym / synneth not. Whofoucer synneth/hath not seue hym / neyther knowen hym.

B Babes / let no man deceue you: He that hath ryghteousnes/is ryghteous/euen as he is righteous. He that committeth synne is of the deuell. † For the deuell synneth since the begynninge. For this purpose appeared † sonne of God/to louse † woikes of the deuell. † Whofoucer is borne of God synneth not / for his † sde remayneth in hym / a he can not synne / because he is borne of God / by this are the chyldren of God knowen / and the chyldren of the deuell. Whofoucer doeth not ryghteousnes/is not of God / neyther he that loueth not his brother.

For this is the rydynge whiche ye haue herde from the begynninge / that ye shoulde loue euerother / † and not as Cain whiche was of the wyfedy / and slewe his brother. And wherof slew he hym / euen because his owne woikes were euill / and hys brothers righteous. † † Maruaile not lmy brethren / I thoughte the worlde hate you. We knowe that we are translated from deeth vnto lyfe / because we loue † brethren. He that loueth not his brother/abydeth in deeth. Whofoucer hateth his brother/is a manslayer: and ye knowe that a manslayer † hath not eternall lyfe abydinge in hym.

C Sorely haue we perrecaued † loue / that he gaue his lyfe for vs / and therfore oughte we also to geue oure lyfe for the brethren / * but he that hath this worlde good / and seyth his brother haue nede / and shutech ep his herte from hym / hath dwellecth the loue of God in hym. My chyldren / † let vs not loue with wordes / neyther with tongue / but with the dede and with the truth. †

Sorely knowe we that we are of the deite / and can quiete oure hertes before hym. But if oure herte cōdempe vs / God is greater than oure herte / and knoweth all thynges.

Sorely beloved / if eue hert cōdempe vs not / then haue we a fre boldnesse to God's ward. † And whafoucer we are / we shall receaue it / because we kepe his commaundmentes / a do those thynges / whiche are pleasaunt in his syght.

And this is his commaundment / that we beleue on the name of his soune Iesus Christ / and loue one another / as he gaue commaundmentes. And he that keepeth his commaundmentes / dwellecth in him / and he in him. And hereby knowe we that he abydeth in vs / euen † by the spere whiche he hath geuen vs.

The III. Chapter.

D Early beloved / beleue not ye every spere / † but proue † spere whether they be of God. * For many false prophetes are gone out into the worlde. Hereby shall ye knowe the spere of God. Every spere that confesseth Iesus Christ is come in the fleshe / is of God. And every spere which confesseth not that Iesus Christ is come in the fleshe / is not of God. And this is the spere of Antichrist / of whome ye haue herde / how that he shall come / and euen now already to be in the worlde. Lytle chyldren / ye are of God / and haue ouercome them / for greater is he that is in you / than he that is in the worlde. They are of the worlde / therfore speake they of woikes and the worlde barketh vnto them. We are of God / † a he that knoweth God / he knoweth vnto vs / he that is not of God / he knoweth us not. Hereby knowe we the spere of truth / and the spere of error.

Sorely beloved / let vs loue one another / for he loue commaith of God / a euery one † loueth / is borne of God / and knoweth God. He that loueth not / knoweth not God / for God is loue.

† By this appeared the loue of God to Iohannes / because that God sent his onely Kom. † a begotten sonne in this worlde / that we myght lyue throughte hym. Herein is loue / not that we loued God / but that he loued vs / and Colof. † sent hys sonne to make agrement for oure synnes.

Sorely beloved / if God so loued us / we oughte also to loue one another. * To man Iohann

The 1. Epistle of S. Iohn.

1. Ioh. ii. e hath sene God at any tyme. † If we loue one another / God dwelleth in vs / and his loue is perfect in vs. Screeb knowe that we dwell in hym / and he is in vs / because he hath geue vs of his spiers. And we haue sene and testific / that the father sene the sonne to be the Saucoure of the worldes. † Whosoever now confesseth that Iesus is the sonne of God / in him dwelleth God / and he is in God / and we haue knowne and belueid the loue that God hath to vs.

1. Ioh. vi. f † God is loue / a he that dwelleth in loue / dwelleth in God / and God in him. Here in is the loue perfecte with vs / that we should haue in the day of iudgement / so as he is iust / so are we in this world. Feare is not in loue / but perfecte loue casteth out feare / for feare hath painefullnesse. He that feareth / is not perfecte in loue.

Ephes. iij. c 1. Ioh. 4. a Let vs loue him / for he loued vs first. † If any man saie / I loue God / and yet hateth his brother / here is a lyar. For he that loueth not his brother whom he seith / how can he loue God / whome he seith not. † And this commaundement haue we of him / † that he whiche loueth God / should loue his brother also. †

The V. Chapter.

1. Ioh. v. d † Whosoever belueith that Iesus is Christ / the borne of God. And whosoever loueth him that beget / loueth him also / whiche was begotten of hym. By this we knowe that we loue Gods children / when we loue God / and kepe his commaundementes. † For this is the loue of God / that we kepe his commaundementes / and his commaundementes are not grieuous.

1. Ioh. v. e † For all that is borne of God / ouercometh the world: and this is the victory that ouercometh the world: euen our sayth. Who is it that ouercometh the world: but he whiche belueith that Iesus is the sonne of God.

This is he that cometh with water and bloud: euen Iesus Christ: not with water onely / but with water and bloud. † And it is / sprete that beareth witness: for the sprete is / true. For there are they whiche beare recorde in heauen: the father: the word: and the holy ghoost / a these three are one. † And there are they whiche beare recorde in carthly sprete / water / and bloud: and these three are one.

† If we receaue the witness of men / the witness of God is greater: for this is the witness of God: whiche be testified of his sonne. † He that belueith on the sonne of God / hath not the witness in him self. † He that belueith not God / hath made him a lyar / because he hath not belueid / he recorde that God hath testified of his sonne. And this is the recorde: euen / God hath geuen vs euertlasting life. † And this life is in his sonne. He that hath / sonne of God / hath life: he that hath not the sonne of God / hath not life.

These thinges haue I wrytten vnto you / whiche beles: on the name of the sonne of God / that ye maye knowe / howe that ye haue eternall life / and that ye maye beles: on the name of the sonne of God. † And this is / fre boldnesse whiche we haue towards him / † that if we see any thyng accordinge to his will: he heareth vs. And if we know that he heareth us / whatsoeuer we aske / then are we sure that we haue the petitions / whiche we haue desired of hym.

If any men se his brother synne / a synne not vnto death: let hym aske / and he shall geue hym life: for them that synne not vnto death. There is a synne / vnto death / for the whiche I saye / I nor that a man should praye. All our rightousnesse is synne: and there is synne not vnto death.

† We knowe / that whosoever is borne of God / synneth not: but he that is begotten of God / kepeth him selfe / and that wickednesse toucheth him not. We knowe that we are of God / and the world is vs also: gether on weekednesse. But we knowe that the sonne of God is come / † and hath geuen vs a mynde / to knowe hym whiche is true: and we are in him that is true in his sonne Iesu Christ. This is the true God: and euertlasting life. Dabre kepe youre selfe ke from synne /

Amen.

To the electe lady and her chyldren / whome I loue in the truch: a not I onely / but all they also I haue knowe y<sup>e</sup> truchty for y<sup>e</sup> truchtes sake which dwel lych in vs / and shalbe with vs for ever.

Grace / mercy / and peace be with you from the Lorde Iesus Christ / the sonne of the fa ther in the truch and in loue.

I am greatly reioyced / that I haue founde amonge thy chyldren / them that walke in the truch as we haue receaued a commaundement of y<sup>e</sup> father. And now lady I beseeche the (not as though I wrote "a new commaundement vnto the) but the same which we haue from the beginninge) that we loue one another. And this is the loue / that we walke after his com maundemente.

This is the commaundement (as ye haue herde from the beginnynge) that we shoulde walke therein. For many deceauers are come into the world / which confesse not that Iesus Christ is come in the fleshe: this is a deceauer as an Antichrist. Take hede to your selves / that we lose not that which we haue wrought / but that we maye receaue a full rewarde. Whoso euer transgresseth / a abydeyth not in y<sup>e</sup> doctrine of Christ / hath not God. He y<sup>e</sup> abydeyth in the doctrine of Christ / hath both the father and the sonne.

If any man come vnto you / a bringe not this doctrine / receaue him not into the house / neither salute him: for he that salutech him / is partaker of his euell dedes. I had many thinge to write vnto you: neuertheles / I wolde prosper and fare well / euen as thy soule prospereth. I reioyced greatly / when the brethren came / and resyshed of the truchty that is in the / how thou walkest in the truchty. I haue no greater ioye / then to heare that my chyldren walke in the truchty.

My beloued / thou doest saythfully what I saye / and thou doest not straine geres whiche haue doine trunselfe of the loue before the congregacion: and thou hast done well that thou dydest bunge them forwarde on their iourneys worthely before God. For because of his name sake they wente south / I and toke nothinge of the Geyde. We there

I wrote to the congregacion / but Diotre phos / whiche loueth to haue the preeminence come / I wil declare his dedes / which he doeth / zealously vpon vs with malicious wordes: neither is he sperryth content. Therefore he him self receauech not the brethren / but also he forbyddeth them that wolde: and thus he thrusteth the out of the congregacion.

My beloued / folowe not that which is euell but that which is good. He that doeth well is of God: but he that doeth euell / is not of God. Semetims hath a good reposte of all men: of the truchty: ye and we our selves also beare

I had many thinges to wryte / but I wolde

But God willinge very abundantly to shewe unto the heyen of promyse the stabilitie of his counsaile added an oorth that by two immutable thinges (in) which it is impossible that God should lye) we mighte have a stronge consolacion: euen we which are fled to halde faste the hope that is set before vs / which (hope) we haue as a sure and steadfast anker of oure soule. Whiche (hope) also entered in / into those thinges that are within the vail / whyther the forrunner is for vs entered in / euen Iesus which is made an hye priefte for euer / after the order of Melchisedech.

The VII. Chapter.

And this Melchisedech Kinge of Salem which bringe priefte of the most hye God: whiche Abraham as he turned agayne from the slaughter of the Kinges / and blessed him / vnto whome Abraham also gaue tythes of all the goodes. It is so by interpretation / Kinge of iughteousnesse after that he is Kinge of Salem also (that is to saye / King of peace) withoute father / withoute mother / withoute kynne / and hath neither beginninge of dayes / nor ende of yere: but is likened vnto the sonne of God / and continueth a priefte for euer.

But consider howe greate a man this was / to whome the Patriarke Abraham gaue tythes of the poyles. And verely the child of Leui / when they receaue the priefthode haue a commaundement accordinge to the lawe / to take the tythes of the people / that is to saie of their brethren / though they also came out of the loines of Abraham.

But be whos lined is not counted among them / receaued tythes of Abraham / a blessed him that had the promyse. Now is it so withoute al way saying / that the lisse receaueh blessinge of the better. And here men that receaue tythes. But there be receaued tythes of whome it is witnessed that be liueth. And to saie the truth: euen him self also which receaue tythes / payed tythes in Abraham: for he was yet in the loines of his father Abraham / when Melchisedech met him.

Ro. ii. b
Gal. ii. c

¶ It nowe therefore perfection came by the priefthode of the Leuites / for vnder the same priefthode the people receaue the lawe / what neded it then further more that another priefte should arise after the ordinaunce of Melchisedech / and not after the order of Aaron.

¶ For if the priefthode be translated / then it is necessarye must the lawe be translated also. For he of whome these thinges are spoken / is of another orde / of the which neuer man serued at the altare.

For it is euident / that oure Lord spake of the ende of Iuda / to the which ende Moses spake nothinge concerninge priefthode / as it is yet a more euident thinge / if after the similitude of Melchisedech there arys another priefte / which is not made after the lawe of the carnall commaundement / but after the power of an enlesse lyfe. For he testifieth: Thou art the priefte for euer after the order of Melchisedech. Then the commaundement that went before is disannulled / because of his beneficence and vnspoyntableness: for the lawe made nothinge perfecte / but was an introduction of a better hope / by the which we shewe nye vnto God. And for this cause it is a better hope / that it was not promysed withoute an oorth. Those prieftes were made withoute an oorth: but this priefte with an oorth / by him that saide vnto him: The Lord swears and will not repent: Thou arte a priefte for euer / after the order of Melchisedech. This is Iesus become a fasthisher of so much a better testamencie.

And among the many were made prieftes / because they were not suffered to endure by the reason of death. But this man / because he endureth euer / hath an euerlasting priefthode. Wherefore he is able also euer to saue them that come vnto God by him: as he lyueth euer / to make intercession for vs.

For it became vs to haue such an hye priefte as is holy / innocente / vnder synlesse / separate from synnes / and made hyer then heauen: which nedeth not dailye / to as yonder he prieftes / to offer vp sacrifice / yf he for his owne synnes / and then for the peoples synnes. For that he should be once for al / when he offered vp him self. For the lawe maketh me priefte / which haue infirmitie / but the word of the oorth / that came since the lawe / maketh the sonne priefte / which is perfecte for euermore.

1 Pet. iii. 4 a winge Gods? And for this cause is he the measure of the nature of the new Testament; that those of us which haue chaunced for the redemption of those transgressions, that were vnder the first Testament, they which were called, might recouer the promises of eternal inheritance. For wheresoeuer is a Testament, there muste also be the death of hym that maketh the Testament.

Gal. ii. c. 1. For a Testament taketh authority when men are dead: for it is of no value, as long as he that made it is a lyue. For the which cause that yste Testament also was not ordeined withoute bloude. For when at the commaundmentes according to the law were red of Moses vnto all the people, he toke the bloude of calves and of goates, with purple wolle and yspoke, and sprenkled the booke, and all the people sayinge: This is the bloude of the Testament, which God hath appoynted vnto you. And the Tabernacle and all the vessels of the Gods seruyce sprenkled he with bloude of kytyffe. And almoste all thinges are poured with bloude after the lawe: and without beddinge of bloude is no remission.

It is necessary then, that the similitude of heauenly thinges be purifyed with such: but the heauenly thinges them selues are purifyed with better sacrifices, then are those.

For Chusle is not entred into the holy place, / that is made with handes, which are but similitudes of true thinges, / but into the very heauen, / so: to appeare nowe before the face of God, / so: vnto to offer hym selfe, / t' as: as the hyge yuelle entred into the holy place every yere with strange bloude: / so: then muste he often haue suffered since the worlde beganne. But nowe in the ende of the worlde hath he appeared once, to purgynne to synners by the offeringe vp of hym selfe. And as it is appoynted vnto men, that they shall once, and then cometh the iudgement. / Thus so Chusle was once offered, to take awaye the synnes of many. And vnto them that loke for hym, shall he appeare agayn withoute synne vnto the saluacion.

For the lawe, which hath the shadowe of good thinges to come, / and Col. ii. c. not the thinges in their owne substance, can neuer by the sacrifices, which they offer yere by yere continually, make the commotion to be perfecte: / Els should they haue ceased to haue bene offered, because that the officers once poured, should haue had no more conscience of synnes. / Neuertheless, in those sacrifices there is made that a remembrance of synnes every yere: / For it is impossible that the bloude of oxen and of goates should take awaye synnes. / Wherefore muste he be comyd into the world, he sayeth: / Saer, free a offeringe thou wouldest not haue, / but a body hast thou addeyned me. / Burnto offeringe a synne offeringe hast thou not allowed. / He sayde: / I: / I come: / In the beginninge of the booke it is wyrtten of me, that I should do thy will O God. / Aboute when he had sayde: / Saer, free and offeringe, and burnto sacrifices, and synnoferinges, thou wouldest not haue, / neyther haue allowed, / which yet are offered after the lawe. / Then sayde he: / Lo, / I come, to do thy will O God: / there taketh he awaye the synne, / to stablye the latter. / In the whiche will we are sanctified by the offeringe vp of the body of Iesus Chusle once for all.

And every yuelle is ready daylye ministering, and ofsynnes offereth one manner of offeringe, which can neuer take awaye synnes. / But this man, when he had offered for synne one sacrifice, which is of value for euer, / sette him downe on the ryght hande of God, / and from hence forth taryeth, / till his face be made his footstole. / So with one offeringe hath he made perfecte for euer, them that are sanctified. / And the holy ghoost also beareth vs remorde of this, / when he sayde before: / This is the Testament, that I will make vnto them after these dayes, / sayeth the Lo: / de. / I will geue my lawes in their hertes, / and in theyr mynde, / will I wryte them, / and theyr synnes, and iniquities, / will I remembre no more. / And where remission of these thinges is, there is no more offeringe for synne.

Seynge nowe brethren, / that we haue, and enioy a fre sure entrance into that holy place, / Rom. vi. 6 by Ies. x. b

Before him/abode the crosse/and despised the same/and is set downe on the ryght hande of the throne of God. ¶ Consider hym therefore that endured such speakinge againste hym of synners/lest ye be weary and fainte in your myndes/for ye haue not yet resyled vnto bloud/syringing againste synne/and haue forgotten the consolacion / whiche speaketh vnto you as vnto chylidren: ¶ My sonne/ Despyse not the chasteninge of the Lord/neyther sayste vban thou art rebuled of hym: ¶ For whonke the Lord do loyneth/him be chasteneth/ye: and he scourgeth euery sone that be receaueth.

E Followe after peace with all men and honestie / withoute the which no man shall see the Lords end / and lofe well / than noman be desituous of the grace of God / lest / there springe up any bityer rote / and cause dishuicenesse / and thereby many be defiled: that there be no whoerom / for / or on euilcace persone / as Iesus / in whiche for one meate sale sold his birthrighte: for ye knowe / howe that afterwarde vban be tolde haue inherited the blessinge / he was pur by: ¶ For he founde no place of repenraunce / though he desyred / the blessing / whiche receaue: for ye are not come to the mount that

And so terrible was theye grewhiche appeared / that Moses saide: ¶ I feare and quake. But ye are come to the mount Syon / and to the cite of the lyming: God / to the celesthal Ierusalem / and to the multitude of myghty thousande aungels / and vnto the congregacion of the synchonic whiche are written in heauen / and to God the iudge of all / and to the spires of iustice and perfectioun / and to Iesus the mediator of the new Testamēt / and to the spynnyng of blood / that speaketh better then the blood of I Abel.

E That ye despyse not him that speaketh vnto you: for if they escaped not whiche refused hym that spake on earth / much more shall we not escape / if we turne awaye from hym that speaketh from heauen: whose voyce hothe the carth at that tyme. But nowe promyseth he / and saith: ¶ yet once more wyll I shake / not the earth onely / but also heauen. No doubte / but same that be seith yet once more / signifyeth the removinge awaye of those thinges whiche are shakene: as of thinges whiche are made: that the thinges whiche are not shakene / maye remaine. ¶ Wherefore / seeinge we receaue the vnmoveable kyngdome / we haue grace / whereby we maye serue God / and please hym with reuerence / and godlye feare. ¶ For oure God is a consuminge fyre.

All the nature of dealles; and of byrdes and

The first Chapter.

Whea the seruall of Iesu Christ / the brother of James. To them whiche are called / and sanctified in God the father / and persued in Iesu Christ. Mercy vnto you / a peace

Beloued /

Beloued/whi I gaue al diligence to wyte vnto you of the comyn saluacion / it was needful for me to wyte vnto you, to exhorte you / that ye shoulde continually labour in the faith which was once graued vnto the saintes. For there are certayne craftely crept in / of whiche it was wintt aforesayd vnto such iudgement. They are vngodly, and turne the grace of oure God vnto wantonnesse, a? Denye God / onely Lord, and oure Lord Iesus Christ.

My mynde is therefore to put you in remembrance / for so much as ye once knowe this / how that I Lord (after that he had beloued) the people out of Egypte destroyed them whiche afterwarde beloued not. The aungels also which kepte not their first estate: but left their owne habitation / to be bawd reserued in euertlastinge chaynes vnder darkenesse vnto the iudgement of the great Iudgement as T. Sodom and Gomorrah / and the cyties aboute the which in lyke maner desyde them selfes with fornicacion / and folowed straunge flesch) are set forth for an ensample, and suffer the vengeance of eternall fyre. Likewise these became desyre the flesch / despyse rulers / and spake euil of the that are in auctorite.

¶ Yet Michael the archaungel whi he stoue agaynst the deuill / and disputed aboute the body of Moses / durste not gaue raylinge sentence / but sayde the Lord rebuke the. ¶ But these speake euil of those thinges which they knowe not: and what thinges they knowe naturally / as bestes which are without reason / in those thinges they corrupte them selfes. Who be vnto the / so they haue folowed the way of Cain / and are vicerly geuen to the erreure of Balaam for lucre sake / and peryshe in the reason. ¶

¶ These are spotte / whiche of your kindnesse keall together / without feare / seding the selfe. ¶ Cloudes they are without water / carryed aboute of wyndes / and trees without frute at galystringe tyme / twyse dead / and plucked vp by the roocke. They are the ragyng waues of the see / forsynge out their owne shame. They are wandringe starres / to whom is referred the myll of Iherusalem for euil.

¶ Enoch the seventh from Adam prophesied before of such saynges. Beholde the Lord shall come with thousande of saintes / to geue iudgement agaynst all men / to rebuke at that are vngodly amonge the / of all theye vngodly dedes / which they haue vngodly committed / and of all theye cruel speakinges / whiche vngodly synners haue spoken agaynst hym.

¶ These are murderers / complainers / walsfinge after their owne lustes / whose mouthes spake proude thinges. They haue men in great reuerence because of sauantage. But ye beloued / remember the wordes whiche were spake befores of the Apostles of oure Lord Iesus Christ / howe that they haue tolde you / that i. Tit. iij. a there shoulde be beggers in the laste tyme. i. Tim. iij. a whiche shoulde walke after theyr owne vngodly lustes. These are makers of sictes / beastly / hauinge no price.

But ye dearely beloued / ediffse your selfes in your moost holy saynges / prayng in the holy ghost / a kepe your selfes in the loue of Gods / tokyng for the mercy of our Lord Iesus Christ / vnto eternall life. And haue compassion on some / separatinge them / and exhortinge with feare / pullinge them out of the fyre / and bate the fythe by the use of the shee.

Vnto hym that is able to kepe you / that ye fall not / and to present you faultlesse before the presence of his gloiye with ioy / to God oure sauour / whiche onely is wryte be glorie / maiesty / dominion / and power / now and for euer / Amen.

death. And all the congregacions shall knowe / that I am he which searcheth the kyenes and I receiue herrees: and I will geue vnto euery one of you / what he accordeth vnto youe woikes.

Vnto you I saye / and vnto other of them of Thyra / as many as haue not this learning / and whiche haue not knowne the depense of Sathan / (as they saye) / I will put vpon you none other burthen / but that whiche ye haue already. Hold fast till I come / and who soeuer ouercometh / and keepeth my woikes / vnto the ende / I to him will I geue power ouer nacis / that he shall rule the with a rodde of yron / and as the vessel of a potter / shall be breake the to shewes. The VIII. Chapter.

And wha he had opened the seuenth scale / I wher was silence in heauen aboute the space of halfe an houre. And I sawe foure aungels standinge before God / and to them were geuen seuen trompettes. And another aungel came and stode before the altare / havinge a golden censur: and muche of odoures was geuen vnto hym / that he shoulde offer of the prayers of all saintes vpon the golden altare / whiche was before the seate. And the smoke of odoures which came of the prayers of all saintes / ascended vp before God / out of the aungels hande. And the aungel toke the censur / and fylled it with fyre of the altare / and cast it into the earth / and voyces were made / and thondynges and lychmynges / and earthquake.

And the seuen aungels whiche had seuen trompettes / prepared them selues to blowe. The fyrste aungel blew / and there was made hayle and fyre / whiche were mingled with bloude / and they were cast into the earth / and the thyrde parte of the trees was brennt / and all grene grasse was brennt. And the second aungel blew: and as it were a greate moune / sayne burninge with fyre was cast into the see / and the thyrde parte of the seaures whiche had lyfe dyed / and the thyrde parte of shypes were destroyed.

And the thyrde aungel blew / and there fel a great flarre from heauen / burninge as it were a starre / and it fell into the thyrde parte of the ryuers / and vnto fountaynes of waters / and the name of the flarre is called worme.

And the fourth aungel blew: a the third part of the Sunne was smitten/ a the thirde parte of the Moone/ a the thirde parte of the starres/ so that the thirde parte of them was darkened. And the daye was smitten/ that the thirde parte of it should not shine/ and likewise the night. And I behelde/ a herde of aungell sicenge (howe) the myddes of heauen/ and saying with a loud voice: Wo/ wo/ wo/ to the inhabitors of the earth/ because of the voices to come of the trompe of the thre aungels/ which were yet to blowe.

The X. Chapter.

AND the fyfte aungel blew/ and I sawe a starre fallen from heauen vnto the earth. And to hym was given the keye of the bottomlesse pyt. And he opened the bottomlesse pyt/ and there arose a smoke of the pyt/ as it were the smoke of a greates furnace. And the Sunne and the ayre were darkened by the reason of the smoke of the pyt. And there came out of the smoke locustes vnto the earth: and vnto them was given power as the scorpions of the earth haue power. And it was saide vnto them/ that they shoulde not hurte the grasse of the earth/ neither any grene thinge/ neither any tree/ but onely those men which haue not the scale in theyr foreheads/ and to them was commoued that they shoulde not kill them/ but that they shoulde be dead fyve monethes/ and theyr payne was as the payne that commeth of a scorpion/ whan he hath stonge a man. And in those dayes shall men sette death/ and shall not fynde it/ as shall vsure to vsure/ and death shall flye from them.

B And the similitude of the locustes was lyke vnto bees prepared vnto battayll/ and on theyr heades were as it were crownes/ lyke vnto golde/ and their faces were as it had bene the faces of men. And they had breere as the breere of women. And theyr teeth were as the teeth of Lyons. And they had habbryngons/ as it were habbryngons of yon. And the sounde of theyr wynges was as the sounde of charrettes/ whan many hoises runne to gether to battayll. And they had wayles lyke vnto scorpions/ a there were singes in theyr sailes. And their power was to hurte men fyve monethes. And they had a king ouer theyr which is the aungel of the bottomlesse pyt/ whose name is in Hebrewische/ to Abadon: & in Greke tung Apollyon. One was in pass/ a behold/ two woos come yet after this.

And the fyfte aungel blew/ and I had a voyce from the foure coners of the golden altire whiche is before God/ sayinge to the fyfte aungel/ whiche had the trompe/ cause the foure aungels/ whiche are bounde in the greates pyer Luphiates. And the foure aungels were loosed/ which were prepared for an houre/ for a daye/ for a moneth/ and for a yere/ for to slaye the thirde parte of men. And the numbis of hostmen of warre/ were twenty tymes ten thousande. And I herde the numbis of them. And thus I sawe the hostes in a vision/ and them that sat on them/ hauninge fyve habbryngons of a yalowe and bysmilony colour/ and the heades of the hoise were as the heades of Lyons. And out of theyr mouthes wente fowr fyre/ and smoke/ and bysmilony. And of these thre was the thirde parte of men killede: that is to saye of the fyre/ smoke/ and bysmilony/ whiche piceded oute of the mouthes of them: for theyr power was in theyr mouthes/ and in theyr tayles/ for theyr tayles were lyke vnto scorpions/ and had heades/ and with them theyr vnto hurte. And the remnaunt of the men/ which were not killede by these plagues/ repented not of the dedes of theyr handes/ that they shoulde not wourshyppre vnto/ and ymagos of gold/ and syluer/ and of stiffe/ a stone/ and of wood/ whiche neither can se/ neither heare/ neither go. And so they repented not of theyr murdres/ a of theyr wretchednesse/ neither of theyr wretchednesse/ neither of theyr wickednesse.

¶ And after thre dayes and an halfe / the spere of lyfe frō God entred into them. And they stode vp vpon their feet: and great fear came vnto them whiche sawe them. And they herde a great voyce from heauen / saying vnto them: Come vp hether / and they ascended vp into heauen in a cloude / a their enemyes saw them. And the same hour was there a great earthquake / a the tenth parte of the cite fel / and in the earthquake were slayn names of men frō lxx. And the temple of God was opened in heaue: and there was seene in his temple the like of his Testaments: and there stood lightnings: and voices: and thundring: and a cartwheel: and a great hyle.

¶ And there appeared a great token in heauen: A woman clothed with the Sunne: and the Moone vnder her feet: and vpon her heade a crowne of twelve starres. And she was with childe: a cryed traungling in birth: and pained ready to be deliuered. And there appeared another token in heauen: a sheold: a great reed: Dragon: hauinge seuen heades: a. borne: a. seuen croune vpon his heades: a. by a tayle: there the thirde part of the starres: and cast them to the earth.

¶ And the Dragon stode before the woman: which was ready to be deliuered: so: to deuour her child: as soone as it were borne. And she brought forth a man child: which shoulde rule all nations with a rod of yron. And her woman was taken vp vnto God: and so his state: ¶ And the woman fled into wyldernes: where she had a place prepared of God: that they shoulde see her there a thousande / two hundred: and .ij. waies.

¶ And there was a great battail in heauen: Michael and his aungels fought with the Dragon: and the Dragon fought with his aungels: and creasied not: neither was their place founde any more in heauen. ¶ And the great Dragon the olde serpent, called the Beuill and Serpante: was cast out: which deceued all the world. And he was cast into the earth: and his aungels were cast out with him also.

¶ And I herd a loude voice: which sayde in heauen: Now is saluacion: a strengith: and the kynghom become our Godes: a the power his: Christlike: for he is cast downe: which accused him before God daye and nyght. And they ouercame him by the blood of the lambe: and by the word of hisse testimony: a they loved not they: lyues vnto the death. Therefore reioyce ye beaurns: a ye that dwell in them. ¶ Wo to the inhabitants of the earth: a of the see: for the Beuill is come downe vnto you: which hath great wrath: because he knoweth that he hath but a short tyme.

¶ And when the Dragon sawe: that he was cast vnto the earth: he persecuted the woman: which brought forth the man child. And so the women were giuen two winges of a great Eagle: that she might flye vnto wyldernes: vnto her place: where she was myssested for a tyme: two tymes: and halfe a tyme: from the presence of the serpent. And the Dragon cast out of his mouth water after the woman: as it had bene a ryuer: that he might cause her to be caught of the floude. And the earth helpe the woman: the earth opened her mouth: and swallowed vp the ryuer: which the Dragon cast out of his mouth. And the Dragon was wroth with the woman: and wrote a made warre with the remanent of her seed: which kepe the commaundementes of God: and haue the testimony of Iesus Christ: and stode on the sea sande.

The XIII. Chapter.

¶ And I sawe a Beast: like vnto the see: I hauinge seuen heades: and ten hornes: I vpon his heades ten crounes: and vpon his heades the names of blasphemie. ¶ And the Beast: which I sawe was lyke a lisse of the mountains: and his feete were as the feete of a Beere: and his mouth as the mouth of a lion. And the Dragon gaue him his power and his frai: and great authoryete: and I sawe one of his heades: as it were wounded to death: and his deadly wound was heald: and all the world wondered at the Beast: and they worshipped the Beast: which gaue power vnto the Beast: and they worshipped the Beast: saying: Who is lyke vnto the Beast: who is able to make warre with hym.

¶ And there was giuen vnto him a mouth: to speake great thynges and blasphemies: and power was giuen vnto hym: to do wondrous thynges. And he opened his mouth vnto blasphemie agaynst God: to blasphemie his name: and his tabernacle: and them that dwell in heauen. ¶ And it was giuen vnto hym to make warre with the sayntes: and to ouercame them. And power was giuen him: ouer all kynnes: and natiens: ¶ and all that dwell vpon the earth worshipped hym: whose names are not written in the booke of lyfe of the lambe: which was killyd fro the begynnyng of the world.

And I herde another beast comming up out of the earth/and he had two hoines lyke a lombe/and he spake as wyd the wygyl. And he wyd all that the fyfthe beast coulde do in his presence/and he caused the earth/and them whiche dwell therein/ to worshippe the fyfthe beast/ whose deadly wounde was healed. And he wyd greates wonders/so that he made fyre come downe from heauen in the sight of men. And because them that dwell on the earth/ by the meanes of those signes/ whiche he had power to do in the sight of the beast/ sayinge to them that dwell on the earth/ that they shoulde make an ymage unto the beast/ whiche had the wound of a swerd and dwel lyue.

And he had power to geue a sperte unto the ymage of the beast/ and that the ymage of the beast shoulde speake/and shoulde cause that as many as wolde not worshippe the ymage of the beast/ shoulde be kylled. And he made all both small and great/ ryche and poore/ fre and bonde/ to receaue a marke in theyr right handes/ or in theyr foreheades. And that no man mighte bye or sel/ sawe he that had the marke on the name of the beast/ cyther the nombre of his name. Here is wysdome. Let him that hath wyse/ count the nombre of the beast. And they songe as it were a newe songe/ before the seate/ and before the foure beasts/ and the elders/ and no man coulde learne that songe/ but the hundred and thre thousande/ whiche were redeemed from the earth. These are they that are not defyled with women/ for they are virgines. These folowe the lombe/ whiche spere ouer the goerd. These were redeemed from men/ sayinge the fyfthe frutes unto God/ and

And there folowed another aungell sayinge. * He is fallen/ the * is fallen/ is fallen/ euen Babylon that greates cite/ for here lyeth she made all nacions drynke of the wyne of forwoyrdame.

The X. V. Chapter.

And the thirde angel shed out his vial vpon the ryuers and fountaines of waters/ and they turned to bloude. And I herde an angel saye: Lord which art and wast/ thou art righteous and holy/ because thou hast geuen such iudgements: for they shed the bloud of saintes/a prophetes/a therfor haste thou geue the bloud to drinke: for they are worthy. And I herde another angel out of the altar saye: Euen so Lord God almighty/ true and righteous are thy iudgements.

And the men ragged in the heat/ and spake curst of the name of God/ which had power ouer those plagues/ and they repented not to geue hym glory. And the fyfte angel poured oute his vial vpon the seat of the Beast/ a his kingdom was darked/a they gnawd their tongues for sorrowe/ and blasphemed the God of heauen for sorrowe/ and payne of their sores/ and repented not of their dedes.

¶ And the syxe angel poured oute his vial vpon the great ruer Euphrates/ and the water dried vp/ that the waye of the Kinge of the East shoulde be prepared. And I sawe three vnelcane spores lyke frogges/ come out of the mouth of the Beast/ and out of the mouth of the false prophete. For they are the spores of Beules workinge miracles/ to go out vnto the Kinge of the earth/ and of the whole world/ to gather them to the battell of the great day of God almighty. The X V I I Chapter.

And there came one of the seuen aungels/ whiche had the seuen vialles/ and talked with me/ sayinge vnto me: Come I will shewe thee the iudgement of the great whore/ that stierth vpon many waters/with whom the kynges of the earth haue committed whoredomes/and the inhabitants of the earth are bounden with the wyne of her fornication. And he caried me away into the wyldernesse in the sperte. And I sawe a woman sitty vpon a rose coloured Beast/ full of names of blasphemie/ whiche had seuen heades/ and ten hornes. And the woman was arrayed in purple and rose coloure/ a vested th gold/precious stones/and pearles/and had a cuppe of golde in her hande/full of abhominacions/and filthinesse of her whoredome. And in her foreheade was a name written/ a mystery: great Babylon the mother of whoredome/and abhominacions of the earthe.

And I sawe the wyfe dyonke with the bloude of sainctes/and with the bloude of witnesses of Iesu. And when I sawe her/ I wounded with greete maruaile.

And the aungell sayde vnto me: wherefor maruailest thou? I will shewe thee the mystery of the woman/ a of the Beast that beareth her/whiche hath seuen heades/ a ten hornes. The Beast that thou seest was/is not/ a shall ascende out of the bottomlesse pye/ a shall go into perdition/and they that dwell on the earth shall wonder/ (whose names are not written in the booke of life from the beginninge of the worlde) when they beholde the Beast that was/is not. And here is a mynde that hath wisdome.

The seuen heades are seuen mountaynes/ or on the whiche the woman stierth: they are also seuen kynges/ whose arc fallen/ and one is/ a the other is not come. When he cometh/ he must continue a space. And the Beast that was/is not/ is euen the egge/and is of the seuen/and shall go into destruction. And the ten hornes which thou sawest/ are ten kynges which haue not yet receaued the kyngdome/ but shall receaue power as kynges at one houre with the Beast. These haue one mynde/ a shall geue their power and strenght vnto the Beast. These shall fyght with the lambe/ and the lambe shall ouercome them. For he is Lord of all lordes/ a kyng of all kynges/ and they that are on his syde/ are called/ and chosen/ a faithful.

And he sayde vnto me: The waters which thou sawest/ where the whore stierth/ are people/ a folke/ a nations/ and kynges. And the ten hornes whiche thou sawest vpon the Beast/ are they which shall hate the whore/ and shall make her desolate/ and naked/ and shall eate her flesh/ a burne her with fyre. For God hath put in their hartes/ to fulfill his wyll/ a to do with one consente/ for to geue her kyngdome vnto the Beast/ vntill the wordes of God be fulfilled. And the woman which thou sawest/ is that great citie which reigneth ouer the kynges of the earth.

 is this; and whiche greate citie. And they cast dust on their heades; and cryed weeping; and waylunge; and saide: Alas/ alas/ the greate citie; wherein were made ych all that had shyppes in the see; by the reason of her wares; for at one houre is she made desolate.

Reioyce ouer her; thou heauen; and ye holy Apostles; and prophets; for God hath geuen your iudgement on her. And a myghty aun-gell tose up a great stone; like a myllstone; and cast it vnto the see; sayinge: with iudic violence shall that greate citie Babylon be caste; and shall be founde nomore. And the voyce of harpers; and musicians; and of ppyres; and rompettes; shall be heard nomore in the; and no craftie man; (of whatsoeuer craftie be) shall be founde any more in the; and the sounde of a myl shall be heard nomore in the; and the voyce of the thydragme; and of the thydr; shall be heard nomore in the; for thy marchaun-tes were pnyces of the earth. And whiche inchantment were becaused all nactiounes/and in her was founde the floude of the prophetes; and of the saintes; and of all they were slaine vpon the earth.

The XLX. Chapter.

And after that; I herd the voyce of much people in heauen; sayinge: Alleluia. Sal-uation; and glory; and honoure; a power be ascribed to the Lorde oure God; for true and righteous are his iudgements; because he hath iudged the greate whore; (whiche hath corrupted the earth with fornication;) and hath awenged the bloude of his seruantes of her hande. And agayne they sayde: Alleluia: † And synke reste up for euermore. † And the ynn; elders; and the iij. bestles; sit vnto; and wooshypped God; that sat on the frate; sayinge: Amen/ Alleluia. And a voyce came out of the frate; sayinge: Praise oure Lorde God; all ye that are his ser-uantes; and ye that feare him; both small and greate.

And I herd the voyce of muche people; much as the voyce of many waters; and as the voyce of stronge bondingens; sayinge: Alleluia; for God omnipotent; reigneth; let vs be glad; and receyue; and geue honoure to him for y marriage of the lambe; is come; and his wyfe made her selfe ready. And to her was graunted; that she should be araid with pure and goodly sylke. (As for the sylke; is the righteous)

The Revelation of S. Iohn.

Luce. xiii. b righteousnesse of sainctes. And he saide vnto me: Blessed are they which are called vnto to the Lambes supper. And he saide vnto me these are the true sayings of God. And I sat at his feet to wryttes him. And he said vnto me: Se thou do it not. For I am thy fellowe (seruant/ and one of thy brethren/ and of them that haue the testimonye of Iesus-Christ: by Whom God. For the testimonye of Iesus is the spere of prophete. And I sawe heauen open/ and beholde/ whyt hoise/ and he that sat vpon him/ was called faithfull and true/ a in rygheousnesse. Byd the iudge/ a make Bar-rail. His eyes were as a flame of fyre/ and on his head were many crownes/ and he had a name wyrtten/ that no man knowe but him selfe. I And he was clothed in a vesture dypt in blood/ and his name is called the woode of God. And the warriours which were in heauen/ shewed him vpon whyt hoise/ dorb'd with whete and pure sylke/ I and oute of his mouth went a sharpe swerde/ that with it he shoulde smyte the heathen: I And he shall rule them with a rodde of yron/ and he rode the wynter of the fearcensse/ and the wrath of almyghty God. And hee on his vesture/and on his thygh a name wyrtten: I Byng of all kynge/ and Lord of al lordes.
2 Apo. xxi. c And I sawe an angel stande in t Sunne/and he cryed with a loude voyce/ sayinge to al the folkes that sye by the myddes vnder the heauen: Come and gather youre selues together vnto the supper of the greete God/ that the maye eat the flesch of fynges/ and of high captaynes/ and the flesch of myghty men/ and the flesch of hoises/ and of them that sye on them/ a the flesch of all freemen/ and bondmen/both of final and greete. And I sawe the best a the fynges of the earth/ and their warriours gathered together/ to make battail aganste him that sat vpon the hoise/ and aganste his folowers.
 And the bestle was taken/ and with him that fals prophet that wrought myracles. Before him/ with the whiche he deceaued them that receaued the bestles marke/ and them that receaued his image. I These both were cast quete into a poude of fyre/ burninge with the same fyre/ and theyr names were slayne in the booke of the liuynge. And he that sat vpon the hoise/ whiche swerde procedeth oute of his mouth/ and all the folkes were filled with their fleshe.

The XX. Chapter.

1 And I sawe an angel come downe fro heauen/ hauinge the keye of the bottomlesse pyt/ and a greete chayn in his hande.
 I And he roke the dragon that olde serpente which is the deuell and Sarbanas/ and he bounde him a thousand yeres: and call him in the bottomlesse pyt/ and he bounde him/ a fet a feale on him/ that he shoulde deceaue the people no more/ tyl the thousand yeres were fulfilled. And after that must he be loosed for a lytel season.

2 And I sawe scates/ a they sat vpon them a the iudgement was geuen vnto them: and I sawe foules of them that were sebeded for the wrytse of Iesu/ and for the woode of God: which had not wrytshipped the bestle/neither his image/ neither had taken his marke vpon them for heade/ or on their han-des/ and they lyued and raigned with Christe a thousand yeres: but the other of the dead men lyued not againe/ vntill the thousande yeres were fulfilled. This is that first resur-reccion. Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the firste resurreccion. On sude hath the seconde death no power/ but they shalbe the pccles of God of Christ/ and shall raigne with him a thousande yeres.

And when the thousande yeres are cymred/ Sarban shalbe loosed out of his pynon/and shal go out to deceaue the people/ whiche are in the fourt quarters of the earth/ I Gog and Magog/ to gather them together to battle/ whose nombre is as the sande of the see: a they wente vpon the plaine of the carthe/ a compassed the kyntes of the sarnetes about/and the beloued cene/ a fyre came downe from God out of heauen/ a deuoured them: I a the deuell that deceaued them/ was cast into a lake of fyre a byrstone/ where the bestle and the fals prophet were/ and shalbe tormentid here a night for euermore.

3 And I sawe a greete whete feere/ a hym that sat on it/ from whose feete flete away both the carth a heauen/ a their place was nomme found. I And I sawe the dead/ both greete a small/ stand before God. And the booke were

And death and hel were cast into the lake of fyre. This is the seconde death. And whosoeuer was not founde wyrtten in the boke of life/was cast into the lake of fyre.

The XXXI. Chapter.

I And I saw a new heauen a new earth. For the first heauen/ & the first earth were vanisbed away / and there was nomore seyn. And I Iohn saw that holy cyne newe Jerusalem come downe from God out of heauen/ prepared as a bride garnisbed for her house band. And I herde a greate voyce frō h̄ciatē sayinge: h̄bolde the tabernacle of God it is in me/ and he will dwell with the. And thei shall be his people / and God hym selfe shall be with them/and shall be their God. T And God shall wype awaye all teares from their eyes. And there shall be nomore death / neyther sorrowe/neyther shall there be any more paine/ for the olde thinges are gone: And he that sat vpon h̄ciatē sayde: T Beholde / I make all thinges newe. T And he sayde vnto me: wyte/for these wordes are faithfulfull and true.

And he sayde vnto me: io Bone. T I am

Alpha and Omega/ the beginninge and the ende. I will geve to hym that is a thirst of the well of the water of life freely. He that over cometh/shall inherit all thinges. T I will be to God/a he shall be my sonne. But the fearefull and unbelcuinge / and the abhominable/ and murderers/and whomongers/and fornicers/and idolaters/and all lyars/ shall haue thery part in the lake of fyre that burneth with fyre and brimstone/which is the seconde death.

And there came vnto me one of the seuen angles / which had the seuen vialles full of the foulest plagues: and talked with me sayinge: Come/ I will shew the h̄ciatē/ h̄ciatē wyse. And he caried me awaye in h̄ciatē to a great and an hie mountayn / and he shewed me the great cyne / holy Jerusalem/ descēdinge out of heauen from God/hauinge the brightnesse of God. And persyminge was lyft vnto a stone most precious/and as a Iaspur/ clear as cristall/and had great and hie walls/ and had fforty gates/ and at the gates twelfe angles/and names written: whiche are the twelfe tribes of Israel: on the East part the gates/ and on the North syde the gates / and towarde h̄ciatē the gates/ and on the West syde the gates: & the wall of the cyne had twelfe foundationes/ and in them the names of the lames twelfe Apostles.

T And he that talked with me/ had a golden reede to measure the cyne/ withal/ and the gates thereof/ and the wall thereof. T And h̄ciatē was buyldt foure square / & the length was as large as the bredth of it / and he measured the cyne with the reede twelfe thousand furlonges: and the length and the bredth / and the height of it were equal. And he measured the wall thereof an cubit/ cubits/ after h̄ciatē measure of a man/ which the angel had. And the buylding of the wall of it was of Iaspur. And the cyne was of pure gold / lyft vnto cleare glasse / and the foundationes of the walles and of the cyne were garnysbed withall manner of precious stones. The first foundation was a Iaspur/ the seconde a Sapphyre/ the thyrde a Calcedony/ the fourth a Smaragde/ the fyfth a Sardonyx/ the syxte a Sardos/ the seventh a Chrysolite/ the eyght a Berall/ h̄ciatē a Topas/ the tenth a Chrysolopasol/ the eleuenth a Iacint/ the twelue an Amethyst.

And the twelfe gates were twelfe pearles/ and every gate was of one pearle/ and h̄ciatē the well of the cyne was pure gold / as a thosome/ h̄ciatē yunge glasse. And I sawe no temple therein. For the Lord God almyghty and the lambe to the temple of it / and the cyne had no mebe of the Sunne/ neyther of the Moone to lighten it. For the brightnesse of God doth lyghte it: and the lambe is the light of it. And the people which are saved/ shall walke in h̄ciatē lighte of it: and the fingers of the carth shall buyge theyr glory vnto it. T And the gates of it shall not be shut by daye. For there shall no nighte come. T And there shall enter into it none vnclene thinge / neyther whosoeuer woyleth abhominacion/ io maketh lyas: but they which are wyrtten in the lames boke of life.
